Patron: Her Majesty the Queen.

SEVENTY-SECOND Anniversary Festival,
1870.

THE earliest opportunity is taken thus publicly to inform those Brethren who have already most kindly proffered their services as Stewards, and the Craft generally, that with the sanction of the President,

RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF ZETLAND,
K.T., M.W.G.M.,

and with the approval of

RIGHT HON. EARL DE GREY & RIPON,
R.W.D.G.M. & M.W.G.M.-nominate,

the date of the ensuing Festival is for the present left open, in the hope that arrangements will be completed for holding it under

Most distinguished Presidency.

FULL PARTICULARS WILL BE DULY ANNOUNCED.

The names of Brethren willing to do honour to the occasion by acting as Stewards are earnestly solicited, and it is confidently expected that the extensive and zealous co-operation, which under the above favourable circumstances ought to be relied upon, will result in freeing from debt an Institution still so heavily burdened.

FREDERICK BINCKES,
Secretary.

* Those marked thus will also receive Proxies.

Masonic Institution for Boys.

MRS. HARRIET WHITE,

Widow of the late Bro. William White, of the Royal Union Lodge, Cheltenham.

BEGS to return her most sincere thanks to all those kind friends who supported her Son, WILLIAM HERBERT WHITE, at the recent Election in October, thereby raising the number of Votes recorded in his favour from 282 to 738. She most earnestly and respectfully solicits a continuance of their support NEXT APRIL, when she hopes her Son may be elected.

The case is well-known to Bro. the Rev. C. J. MARTYN, V.P., Grand Chaplain, Long Melford Rectory, Suffolk, by whom proxies will be gratefully received.

A LADY, having just relinquished an engagement in the family of a Clergyman, would be glad to meet with PUPILS requiring instruction in English, French, and Music, having had many years' experience in the tuition of the same; would not object to that of Lady-Housekeeper and Governess, or Daily Governess in the vicinity of Clapham or Brixton.—Address, R. J., 26, Osborne-terrace, Clapham-road.

AGENTS WANTED.

CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

OPIATES, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

MASONIC HISTORIANS.—No. 1.

Bro. FINDEL.

BY WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

ALTHOUGH many thousands of volumes have been published on Freemasonry—several of which have been termed Histories of the Craft—it is a fact that to write really impartial and universal work on the Order has not been practicable until the last few years, when the Rev. Dr. George Oliver, Dr. E. Rebold, and J. G. Findel, with commendable zeal and patience collected the scattered records, documents, and traditions of the Order and presented them to the Masonic public in a most readable and interesting form. The brotherhood are much indebted to Bro. J. Fletcher Brennan (Editor of the well-known Magazine, "The American Freemason"), and Bro. D. Murray Lyon, (the historian of "Mother Lodge, Kilwinning," &c.), for faithful translations of the two best-named works into most excellent English.

It has, however, been reserved for Bro. Findel, of Leipzig, to approach the nearest perfection as a Masonic historian, and to congratulate the Craft most thoroughly on the completion of so exhaustive and laborious an undertaking as the second German, English, and French editions of the History of Freemasonry, by that learned Mason.

Of course we do not consider Bro. Findel's History to be perfect in every respect, for with all the improvements of the second edition, under Bro. Lyons' most efficient supervision, several departments are still defective, while other divisions of the subject have not the prominence given them that their importance requires. These drawbacks are but the necessary consequence of attending the examination of so extensive an inquiry, and the wonder is not that there are some errors, but that few objections can possibly be brought against either the view or the accuracy of the historian. We feel persuaded that no version in Masonic literature, could be so interesting and accurate as the work of the perusal of Bro. Findel's large and interesting volume without confirming our verdict, and acknowledging the work to be the best, the fullest, and most accurate History of Freemasonry extant. The plan of the work is on a gigantic scale, as the author attempts nothing less than to chronicle the progress and vicissitudes of Freemasonry throughout the universe, from the earliest times to the present day. Hence to review it as its merits and general excellence deserve, would be like re-writing it. We cannot, though, refrain from glancing at a few, out of the many divisions of the subject so skilfully treated by our friend Bro. Findel, and seek to induce our readers to become as familiar with his History as we are, by procuring copies for themselves. The preface by Bro. Lyon first attracts our attention, and pleases us amazingly. Within four pages this accomplished author states the grounds upon which Bro. Findel is entitled to the first rank as a Masonic Historian, and as the writer of the preface also revised the work, and moreover is familiar with Masonic bibliography, he is well entitled to give an opinion. After alluding to the apocryphal character of many of the so-called Histories of the Craft, published during the last century, ("which are so thoroughly saturated with superstition as to render them valueless for the purposes to which historical records are usually applied,") and stating that the digestion of the facts so patiently accumulated by diligent searchers after truth "by a mind not less distinguished for its enthusiasm for Freemasonry, than for its love of truth, its keenness of perception, and its judicial impartiality, has in this instance led to the production of a volume in every respect worthy of recognition as the History of Freemasonry par excellence." Bro. Lyon observes that in saying this much it is far from his intention to "depreciate the labours of those brethren who have successfully traced the history of particular sections of the Craft universal. We admire their works, and honour them for their labours, and while endorsing this sentiment, the author will be the first to acknowledge the value of their contributions as auxiliaries to the development of the grand design, the completion of which it is our privilege thus imperfectly to herald."

Through an unconquerable disposition to eliminate from Freemasonry all that does not pertain to the three Craft degrees, Bro. Findel has been at considerable pains to trace the source whence have sprung what are known as the "high degrees," but which in reality are entirely different Orders, whose chief claim for identification with Freemasonry lies in their having made lodge membership a sine qua non to reception in the Chapter, Conclave or Consistory, but we must leave the capital preface in order to take a hasty view of the work itself, and premise that the author thoroughly accepts, what is now being generally admitted, viz.:—the operative origin of the Society. So that "originating from the Fraternity of operative Masons, the Craft has borrowed its emblems and symbols from the building corporations, to impart to its members moral truths, and the rules of the Royal Art. Speculative Masonry embraces all things fit to build up man in wisdom, strength and beauty."

The New Vade Mecum (invented and manufactured by Charles H. Vincent, optician, of 23, Windsor-street, Liverpool) consists of a telescope well adapted for tourists, &c., to which is added an excellent microscope of great power and first-class definition, quite equal to others sold at ten times the price. Wonderful as it may seem, the price of this ingenious combination is only 3s. 6d., and Mr. Vincent sends it (carriage free) anywhere, with printed directions, upon receipt of post-office order or stamps to the amount of 3s. 10d.—[Advt.]

FREEMASONRY AND PAPACY.

"The Church is even greater than Heaven itself."—Pope Pius IX.

Rivarol said of the great Mirabeau, that he was capable of doing "anything for money, even a good action." The Papacy is incapable of doing a good action even for money. It, for it is only an indefinite it, sets truth at defiance, ignores its own written history, and is the best novelist the world has produced. Its natural proclivities are to the bad; its best results, failures. In extermination, where it has the power, it is unequalled; it turns the fairest spots of earth, into wildernesses; its favourite plants are thistles; its best food, tares; its noblest utterances, curses. It hates whatever is noble and good; it assimilates readiest with the base and evil. It dethrones truth, and raises up the idol of falsehood. It has now, in a manner, renounced God, and become Jehovah unto itself; it is greater than Heaven itself!!

Freemasonry is the pioneer of truth in dark places; the light of civilization in barbaric lands. Her watchword is charity, and her hope is in God. She vaunteth not herself, but humbly attempts to remove our earthly vices by precept and example. She sheds a halo of glory around her children, and she points out to them the true paths of science and virtue. She is of the Light—therefore is she hated of the Papacy.

In the old heathen days, the Romans had three supreme deities—Jove who ruled the skies, Neptune the seas, and Pluto the infernal regions. There was, moreover, a host of other gods and goddesses, who found a local habitation in the Pantheon. The Papacy stepped in, kicked out the old gods, and in their stead raised the Calendar of Saints, who, in their lives do not appear to have been more reputable beings than Hercules and Company. Venus gave place to the Virgin Mary. The Pontifex Maximus, the Pope of Ancient Rome, never thought to dethrone Jove. Our amiable and wise Papa Pio Nono, however, has resolved to put an end to Jehovah. He resolves that he shall be acknowledged to be greater than God himself. The great trinity of deities is now to be the Pope, the Devil, and God. Verily this is a wondrous age.

The Papacy we may look upon, according to human reason, as being in its last stage of dotage, "Sans everything." Sense has left it. It is but a wreck of the past, a ruined mind in a ruined body; a church sitting uneasily upon the points of bayonets, amid the wreck of the former mistress of the world; a worn-out lion, impotent to strike, but yet mummbling forth curses from between its toothless jaws. The will is still strong to destroy, but the eye is dim and the claws are broken. Heavily it draws its breath, and the end is not far off. With its expiring breath it denounces Freemasonry, curses its devotees who attend Masonic balls; even on one occasion refused Masonic Charity!!

Freemasonry is daily growing in strength and stature; her children are found in every land, and in every land find a welcome and a home. Founded on truth, the waves of error but beat upon rocks to fall back broken on the sea of sin. The great and noble are leaving Rome, and the great and noble are joining Freemasonry.

Papacy is the stagnant pool from which arise poisonous exhalation, deadly to life, and producing a desert out of a garden of roses.

Freemasonry is the broad flowing river upon whose banks rise the goodly towns, and whose waters bear rich argosies to other nations.

The one worships the Creature, and the other the Creator.

A little bird whispers from Rome that if the dogma of the Papal infallibility is carried, Pius has a fresh thunderbolt forged for our unfortunate Masonic heads. The light is to be quenched on our altars, and the water to dry up in our cisterns. The sooner we melt our jewels into monstrosities, and convert our scarves into stoles the better. Yet there may be some Papistic careless individual among us who echoes the sentiment of this writer, "Diabolus curat?" Very much so. A. O. H.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the "Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond., says: "I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood." March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says: "I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles."—For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy. In bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in boxes, 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecaries' Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—[Advt.]

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

THE POWERS OF A GRAND MASTER.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The letter of "J.B.," of date 11th December, calls attention to facts of great importance as to the conduct of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. They do not, however, in the least degree affect the views expressed in my article, to which he refers, and which appeared in the columns of THE FREEMASON, as to the powers of a Grand Master. However much a Grand Master may have exceeded his powers, and however much a Grand Lodge may have submitted to him, the question as to his legitimate powers remains the same, and Freemasons are only the more imperatively called to consider it, that they may vindicate their rights, and put an end to an assumption of despotic authority inconsistent with them. In my article on the Powers of a Grand Master, I showed the extent and limits of his powers, in accordance with the Landmarks and Laws of the Order; and no facts, such as those stated or referred to by your correspondent "J.B.," can change my opinion on this subject.

I believe it to be true, however, as your correspondent states, that at the last quarterly communication of the Grand Lodge of Scotland in November, the Grand Master refused to allow a question to be brought in by a member, although the proposal to introduce it was supported by the signatures of upwards of three hundred brethren. I am sorry to add, that when the brother who attempted to introduce this question began to speak, another brother, who had brought a dog with him into the Grand Lodge, teased the dog so as to cause it to bark, that the speaker might be annoyed and interrupted by the noise. This most unbrotherly and un-Masonic conduct was not checked by the Grand Master, who certainly would not have exceeded his prerogative in checking it, and even, if necessary, in causing both the dog and its master to be turned out of the lodge.

I believe it is also true, as "J.B." states, that a protest from a lodge was rejected by the Grand Master, who would not permit it to be read, and would not even hear it, although the protest was that of a lodge perfectly unanimous, and consisting of about 800 members, and the Master of the lodge, supported by his two Wardens, appeared to present it. When he attempted to do so, he was at once put to silence by the Grand Master, who exclaimed "Sit down, sir," and declared that he would not permit a protest either to be read or received.

The object was one of importance. It related to the appointment of a dignified office-bearer, against whom a complaint had been made in due form, some time previously, on account of alleged grave transgressions not only of Masonic law, but of the laws of the land, and of the moral law. The office-bearer of Grand Lodge was, in fact, accused of crimes well-known to nearly the whole of the Masonic Fraternity throughout Scotland and England. It is not wonderful that members of the Grand Lodge should object to the continuance in office of a brother charged with grave offences, nor that lodges subordinate to Grand Lodge, and brethren throughout Scotland should express their disapprobation of it. It is wonderful, on the contrary, that he should be shielded and protected by the Grand Lodge and the Grand Master, that he should be re-elected to his office, as he has recently been, and that all attempts to bring the subject fairly under the consideration of the Grand Lodge should be frustrated by the exercise of an absolute and despotic authority on the part of the Grand Master. I take it for granted that the Grand Master could not have acted as he has done, in suppressing the expression of the opinions and feelings of the brethren, who feel the existence of such charges against a high office-bearer to be a reproach to the Order, unless he were supported by a majority of those present in the Grand Lodge at the time. This is not a pleasant consideration, however, in reference to the present condition of the Masonic body in Scotland. That the Freemasons of Scotland, generally, abhor such crimes as have been laid to the charge of the brother in question, cannot for a moment be doubted. But there is something far wrong when their expression of their feelings on this subject is prevented in the Grand Lodge, and when, as if in contempt of it, the brother accused is re-elected to his office, and maintained in all its honours. The fault, however, is not in the Masonic body generally, but in the Grand Lodge itself, which does not fairly represent the brotherhood, notwithstanding the power that it has over it, and in its own meetings is governed by a mere clique, the proceedings of which may be pre-concerted, as has, indeed, been the case.

Nothing can be more contrary to the principles of Freemasonry than this countenance given by the Grand Lodge of Scotland to violations of the moral law and of the law of the land, such as have been already mentioned. I say, the countenance given to them, because, even if the accused brother be perfectly innocent, the accusation has been made and no investigation has taken place, but every attempt to procure an investigation has been resisted. This may be the only method by which it is possible to screen a guilty man; but it is not thus that an innocent man would wish his case to be treated, and it is not thus that Freemasons can wish such a case to be treated, deeply concerning, as it does, the honour of their Order. We are bound as Freemasons to the strictest observance of the moral law and of the law of the land; it behoves us to see to it that the voice of the whole brotherhood be ever heard in support of both. What then is to be said, or what is to be thought of the Grand Lodge of Scotland by its actions signifies or seems to signify approval of conduct by which both are grossly violated? And this must be admitted to be the case, when a brother accused of such violation of both divine and moral law, is screened from the very investigation of the charges brought against him; and whilst they are still uninvestigated, is re-appointed to an important and dignified office, as one in whom the Grand Lodge has the most perfect confidence, whom it delights to honour, and whose name, as enrolled in its list of office-bearers, it thinks honourable to itself. I have read in the Sermon on the Mount (Matthew, v., 19) these words—"Whoever, therefore, shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven." Here, the teaching men to break a commandment is represented as even worse than the breaking of it. A man may, under the pressure of temptation, break a commandment, but to teach men so is a more deliberate thing, and for which even the excuse of temptation cannot be pleaded.

But to take another view of the subject, which also is suggested by the letter of your correspondent "J.B.," the assertion of a despotic authority by the Grand Master is utterly contrary to the landmarks and to the very first principles of Freemasonry. We meet in a lodge or Grand Lodge as brethren, bound, indeed, to pay high respect to those whom we have elected to high office, and especially to the Master, or the Most Worshipful Grand Master, whom we are bound to obey in all things proper to their office, and to support in their exercise of authority so long as they keep within the limits of the authority conferred upon them by the laws of the Order. Liberty and order, brotherly equality and reverence for constituted authority are beautifully enjoined in the Masonic system. But if a Master or a Grand Master exceeds his powers, forgets what is due to his brethren and acts in contravention of the laws, and even of the ancient landmarks, it is no longer the duty of brethren to obey, but it is their duty to use all suitable means for putting a stop to such usurpation and unmasonic despotism. In a lodge an appeal ought to be made to the Grand Lodge; in the Grand Lodge itself a protest ought to be made, and if, in an unwarrantable exercise of arbitrary power a Most Worshipful Grand Master should refuse to receive or permit such protest, and should be for the moment countenanced in this by subservient brethren constituting the majority of the meeting, yet I believe his success can be only temporary, and that the discussion of the subject amongst Freemasons throughout all parts of the country will soon bring him to a better sense of his responsibilities and duties, of the extent and limit of the authority which he really possesses, and of the purposes for which it is to be exercised. He will certainly be brought to know that he is not in a position like that of the Emperor of Russia, or of the General of the Order of Jesuits, but rather like that of a Constitutional Sovereign, or the President of a Republic. It is a question of time merely, but it certainly cannot be a long time till the principles of Freemasonry are vindicated, and the rights of the brethren established.

"J.B." asks—"If the Grand Lodge wilfully neglect the laws they have made, not only for the guidance of the Craft but they also are bound to obey, all having solemnly declared to support the same—if they break their O.B., then what becomes of that part of the declaration where the candidate is bound to abide by the laws of the Grand Lodge, so long as she retains the ancient landmarks of the Order?" It is a very serious question, but one which I have no hesitation in answering. The obligation of obedience ceases, for there are mutual obligations, and the disregard of obligation on the one side necessarily annuls it on the other. Lodges subordinate to the Grand Lodge and individual members of the Grand Lodge are entitled to renounce their allegiance to the Grand Lodge. This is not, however, to be hastily done, and not until all proper means of redress have been used, and used in vain. No lodge and no brother could be warranted in renouncing allegiance to the Grand Lodge because of a single act of unmasonic despotism or violation of a landmark, however great for the time being the wrong done. It is only if such conduct is persevered in on the part of the Grand Lodge, as if redress perseveringly sought by proper means, sought in vain, so that further effort to procure seems hopeless, that this extreme step may be properly be taken. Circumstances may be imagined in which it ought to be taken as the only means left of vindicating Masonic principles, rights and privileges, the only means of maintaining the honour of the Order, and of exhibiting its principles to the outer world in their purity and excellence. Such circumstances, however, I would fain think, are not likely to arise; and they are perhaps less likely to arise in the present than in a former age, the means of communication being abundant throughout the country, and, indeed, through the whole world, and general opinion more easily expressed than heretofore, being more likely to produce a speedy and salutary effect even upon those who hold the highest positions.

Of this I think the members of the Grand Lodge of Scotland and the Most Worshipful Grand Master may rest assured, that honourable men do not enter the Brotherhood to be slaves, they will not submit to be snubbed and put to silence, when they attempt to exercise their unquestionable Masonic privilege in introducing questions or making protests. Let it be but understood that such are the rules of which a Lodge or Grand Lodge is conducted, as the very men whom we would wish to see join the Brotherhood will refuse to do so. The only candidates for admission would be the meanest lackeys and footmen, or those who are worthy to associate with them. Such is not, however, the character of Freemasons in general; they are free men, peaceable, obedient to the laws, and zealous to maintain them; loving order, but also loving liberty, and resolute to maintain their rights, while they seek not to exceed them in anything, and are ready to pay due respect to all constituted authority whether within their own body or in the nation to which they belong.

I remain, dear Sir and Brother,
Yours fraternally,
CIPES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I wish you most fraternally a happy new year, and while congratulating you on your past success, I also welcome the announcement that THE FREEMASON for 1870 is to be greatly improved, both in paper and printing. At the same time I sincerely trust, that the improvement will extend to the "tone and type" of certain correspondents; most especially do I hope this will be the case with "Leo." At present he evidently considers his name as entitling him to roar down every one. I look upon his writings as decidedly unmasonic, and for these reasons, he is far too personal, expresses himself not only in an unfriendly but at times even an abusive manner; he interferes with business that does not concern him, vide his letter headed "Gross Intolerance"; and above all, in his misguided zeal he is working incalculable mischief by endeavouring to throw doubt and discredit on our ancient landmarks.

His letters hitherto have destroyed, as far as I am concerned, nearly all the pleasure and interest should otherwise have derived from the journal of our Craft, and I do pray that with a new year, he may become both more polite and more discreet.

Having thus expressed my feelings on the subject I shall not again trouble you on the same matter, if "Leo," as is possible, takes offence and grows, I will draw no answer from

Yours fraternally,
ECHD.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—Two weeks ago wrote you a letter, urging that if a portrait of M.W.G.M. be painted for the Grand Lodge of England, the selection of the artist should not be a "hole-and-corner" affair, but be entrusted to a competent committee, so that an artist of well known fame, might be chosen to delineate for posterity, a likeness of our G.M. worthy of the Craft of the man, the place, and of art itself. Are these conditions at present fulfilled? By not acting on my former letter much valuable time has been lost. But still there remains the opportunity for THE FREEMASON using whatever influence it has in its worthy cause.

Yours fraternally,
P. 18.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

MR. EDITOR,—Is not uniformity in the ritual of the Royal Arch equally as desirable as in Craft Masonry, and should not both when speaking of matters of history render them correct?

The writer attends a Chapter of Instruction, which believes to be the longest established of any now meeting in London, and where two of the most esteemed and popular Royal Arch Preceptors, of great ability and kindness, deviate from each other in the ritual, which has caused most of the oldest and most accomplished members to discontinue their attendance, and I feel sure it must be a matter of regret to every well-disposed Mason, and furnish good argument for "Uniformity in the Ritual."

And as the entire ritual of Masonry is founded on biblical history, I humbly submit the task is by no means difficult, if we only bring unprejudiced minds, and "a little logic" to our aid, and refer to the bible for ourselves. For instance, if we are told, as first, or Holy Lodge was holden A.L. 2515, two years after the Exodus of the children of Israel from their Egyptian bondage, and we find (Exodus, chap. 12, ver. 3, that they left Egypt on the 15th day of the 1st month, A.L. 2513), and (Exodus, chap. 10, ver. 17, the Tabernacle was consecrated in the 1st day in the 1st month, A.L. 2514), then it must be fourteen days less than twelve months, and at two years after the Exodus, and Bishop Patrick's commentary holds this view, and he is held to be correct by other commentators.

Again, one Preceptor says, the ribbon worn by the companions is composed of the principal colours with which the vails of the Temple and Tabernacle were interwoven, and another says "they were composed of two of the principal colours, and we find (Exodus chap. 6, ver. 35—"And he made a vail of blue and purple and scarlet") (2 Chron., chap. 3, ver. 14, he made the vail of blue and purple and crimson) so it appears correct to say they were composed of two of the principal colours, and we invest the three principals in blue, purple, and carlet, and the jewel of office worn by principals and officers and also by past principals is suspended to a crimson collar. It would not be much trouble to read the last verse 2 book Chron. to enable us to render the proclamation of Cyrus, King of Persia, correct.

Again, one party will not speak of Hiram at all times as Hiram Abif, because the name does not appear in the Bible. This is an instance in the writer's opinion where to be half right is to be altogether wrong, for we read (2 Chron., chap. 1, verse 16)—"The pots also and the shovels and the fleshhooks, and all the instruments did Hiram his father make to King Solomon for the House of the Lord of bright brass." Now as Solomon was the son of David, how could Hiram be his father? Hiram is called father by the King of Tyre (2 Chron., chap. 2, verse 13), but according to the common acceptance of the word, Hiram was neither father of the one nor of the other.

Here, then, we require a biblical dictionary, and referring to Calmit's, we find the word "Hiram" signifies high intelligence, and referring to the word "Father" we find AB is the Hebrew root of the word, and that the termination of the word alters its meaning from natural father to father or leader, or chief of a people, a place, a profession, a society, &c. "Hiram was called father by the King of Tyre and even by King Solomon, because he was the principal of his workmen, and the chief director of their undertakings." But if we say Hiram the widow's son, we deprive the words of their symbolic meaning, and of all logical connection with our system of morality veiled in allegory, illustrated by symbols." But the expressions, Hiram Abif, and Hiram his father, have the same symbolic meaning as this instance.

But worse than all, we are told, "Jehovah" is the "incomprehensible" name of God, it signifies "I am that I am," &c., but I ask how we know it is the name of God, or what it "signifies" if it is incomprehensible? The very language we use in connection with the word is taken from our most eminent divines and commentators, to show it is the most "comprehensible" name of God (see Calmit's Dictionary), "Patrick's Commentary" & D'Ooly and Mant's Bible with practical notes. I could adduce many other instances that require correcting, but I prefer to ask our acknowledged leaders, to "meet and agree" of their own accord, and not continue to lay themselves or their workings open to reasonable objection.

S. G. F.

Franklin was an observing and sensible man, and his conclusions were seldom incorrect. He said, "A newspaper and a Bible in every house, a good school in every district, all studied and appreciated as they merit, are the principal support of virtue, morality, and civil liberty."

RED CROSS OF ROME AND CON-STANTINE.INAUGURATION OF SAINT ANDREW'S CONCLAVE, No. 15.

The interesting ceremony of adding another branch to the ancient tree of chivalry, as represented by the Red Cross Order, took place on Thursday, the 23rd ult., when the St. Andrew's Conclave, was formally inaugurated at the Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, under peculiarly favorable auspices. It may be mentioned that some time ago, about a dozen brethren in Edinburgh, were received into the Order by an English Inspector General, but owing to unfortunate differences amongst themselves to which it is unnecessary to allude at greater length, the projected formation of the St. Andrew's Conclave in the Scottish metropolis, was suspended by the Illustrious Chief of the Order, Lord Kenlis, who finally determined to issue the charter to several distinguished brethren in London, who were desirous of establishing a new conclave, under the leadership of Bro. Raynham W. Stewart who is ever foremost in every good work.

After two preliminary meetings, the inauguration was fixed for the 23rd ult., when the following Knights assembled to do honour to the occasion: V.E. Sir Knt. Raynham W. Stewart, 18°, G. A. Herald, M.P.S. Des.; R. Kenyon, V.E. Des.; F. Binckes, 30°, Captain Clifford Henry, 18°, W. H. Hubbard, G. Treas.; W. Jones, Sig. Rosenthal, 33°, and J. C. Dawson, founders; Col. F. Burdett, 32°, G.S. Gen., Ins. Gen. Middlesex; R. Wentworth Little, 18°, G.R. Ins. Gen., Surrey; J. G. Marsh, G.A. Ins. Gen., Essex; H. Parker, G.O.; G. Kenning, P. Sov., Premier Conclave; S. G. Foxall, P. Sov. (6); D. R. Still, V.E. (2); Ill. Sir Knt. John Hervey, G.H. Chancellor; and several other eminent members of the Order were unable to attend owing to prior engagements.

The conclave was opened by Sir Knt. Little, and the minutes of the preliminary meetings having been confirmed, Sir Knts. Stewart and Kenyon were inducted into their respective chairs as M.P.S., and V.E. Ballots were then taken for seven candidates named on the agenda paper, when the following six being in attendance, were most efficiently installed by the M.P.S., who upon this the first occasion of his presidency, showed clearly that he had studied the ritual, and was determined to render it with due solemnity.

Bro. Frederick Adolphus Philbrick, Q.C., of the Old Dundee Lodge, No. 18.

Bro. Simeon C. Hadley, W.M., Constitutional Lodge, No. 55.

Bro. Donald Dewar, 18°, of the Lodge of Antiquity, No. 20.

Bro. William Roebuck of the East Surrey Lodge of Concord, No. 463.

Bro. George Lambert 30°, P.G.W., Herts, P.M., Percy Lodge, No. 198.

Bro. Jas. Percy Leith 18°, P.G.C. Bombay, P.S.W. Lodge of Antiquity, No. 1, and Treas. St. George's Lodge, No. 549, Bombay.

Upon the conclusion of the ceremony of installation the Knights filed out of the chamber, and re-entered in procession, preceded by Sir Knt. Binckes, as G. Marshal, for

THE INAUGURATION.

Sir Knt. LITTLE then took the chair, and was admirably assisted during the impressive ceremonial which followed, by Sir Knt. Marsh, as Prelate, and Sir Knt. Parker, as Organist. This important rite of dedication was concluded with the mystic libation as an emphatic pledge of adherence to those principles which are the strength and glory of the Order.

The following officers for the ensuing year were then appointed by the M.P.S., E. Sir Knt. Kenyon, V.E., named in the charter: F. Binckes, S.G.; W. Jones, J.G.; S. Rosenthal, H.P.; R. Kenyon, Treas.; W. H. Hubbard, Recorder; Capt. C. Henry, Prefect; J. C. Dawson, Herald; J. Gilbert, Sentinel. The conclave was closed, and the chevaliers adjourned to the banquet hall, where a sumptuous dinner was provided. Among other toasts that of "The newly-installed companions-in-arms" elicited great applause, and splendid speeches from Sir Knts. Philbrick and Leith, the last named gentleman who is a nephew of the esteemed Grand Treasurer of Grand Lodge, Bro. S. Tomkins, especially announcing his determination to form a conclave in Bombay.

Col. BURDETT responded for the visitors, and the health of the M.P.S. was enthusiastically drunk, upon the proposition of Sir Knt. Binckes, who expatiated in warm terms upon the many kindly qualities of Sir Knt. Stewart.

After a most pleasant evening, enlivened by the musical and vocal abilities of Sir Knts. Parker, Marsh, &c., the Knights separated.

OPENING of a NEW MARK MASTERS LODGE AT STOWMARKET.

On Wednesday the 15th inst., the opening and consecration of a new Lodge, No. 105, The "Freeman," took place at the Town Hall, Stowmarket. There was a large assembly of brethren from Ipswich, Norwich and other places. The lodge was opened at three o'clock by Bro. F. Binckes, Grand Secretary, G.L.M.M., assisted by Bro. Rev. R. N. Sanderson, P.M., 70, Grand Chaplain, G.L.M.M., as S.W., and Bro. Rev. J. J. Farnham, P.M. 90, as J.W., after advancing Bro. Spencer Freeman, (after whom the lodge is named) the consecration was commenced: Bro. A. J. Barber, 70, Provincial Grand Organist, Suffolk, presiding at the harmonium and leading the music. Bro. F. Binckes then beautifully conducted the ceremonies. Bro. Sanderson delivered a special oration for the occasion and also the consecration prayer. The three P.M.'s carrying the consecrating vessels were Bros. Binckes, Farnham and Townsend, and the censer with incense, in the after part of the ceremony, by Bro. Sanderson. The consecration having been completed the installation of Worshipful Master took place, when Bro. Fredk. Long, was duly installed into the chair as first Master of the lodge. He appointed his officers amongst whom were Bros. Geo. S. Golding, S.W.; F. Betts, J.W.; E. Warner, M.O.; C. H. Woods, S.O.; Spencer Freeman, Treasurer.

After several brethren had been proposed as candidates for advancement and joining members the lodge was closed in due form and the brethren adjourned to the Fox Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet had been prepared.

After the cloth was removed the Chairman gave the following toasts, which were duly honoured:—

"The Queen and Mark Masonry." "Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and Royal Family." "The M.W. the Grand Master and R.W. the D.G.M. of Mark Masons of England." "The Grand Chaplain of England, M.M.," responded to by the V.W. Bro. R. N. Sanderson in a very eloquent speech. "The Grand Secretary of England, M.M.," was most ably and at some length responded to by Bro. F. Binckes. "The Past and Present Grand Officers of M.M. England" was responded to by Bro. C. T. Townsend, P.G.S.D. England. Bro. Sanderson then gave "Success to the Freeman Lodge," to which Bro. Fredk. Long, the W.M., responded. "The W.M.'s and P.M.'s of other Lodges" was responded to by Bro. Farnham of the Sirius Lodge. Bro. Binckes then, in a flattering speech, proposed the health of Bro. Spencer Freeman, and alluded to the great services both him and his deceased brother had rendered to masonry. Bro. Freeman replied. The health of "the Visitors" was then given by the W.M., and responded to by Bro. Simpson, S.W., Walpole Lodge, Norwich, and Bro. Westgate, S.W., Albert Victor Lodge, Ipswich. Bro. Binckes responded to the "Masonic Charities," and a subscription was made at the table, conferring two votes on the W.M. of the Freeman Lodge, and handed over to Bro. Binckes. Bro. Farnham proposed "Success to the Albert Victor and Walpole Lodges," alluding very happily to the great aid both these lodges had rendered their Stowmarket brethren in forming the new lodge; Bros. Sanderson and G. C. Stevens responded, and, after the "Lodge Officers" had been proposed by Bro. Sanderson and responded very ably to by Bros. Golding and Betts, the Tyler's toast was given, and the happy party broke up.

In addition to those whose names appear above, there were a large number of brethren present, amongst them being Bros. A. M. F. Morgan, Hy. Mason, J. Dunsford, J. Marshall, from Norwich; Cuckow Oliver, J. A. Pettitt, Cresswell, Pettitt, jun., &c., from Ipswich.

It may be mentioned that the entire furniture of the lodge has been presented by various brethren who are anxious to further the interests of Mark Masonry in East Anglia.

The beautiful oration, delivered by Bro. Sanderson, he has consented to publish, at the request of Bro. Binckes, and the unanimous desire of all the Mark Masters who had the pleasure of hearing it.

ALTERATIONS IN STREET NOMENCLATURE.

The Metropolitan Board of Works has directed the following alterations to be made in metropolitan street names:—Balmmain-street and Fryton-street, Hornsey-rose, to be re-named Orleans-road and Cromartie-road respectively; Blackstock-lane, Finsbury-park, Islington, to be re-named Blackstock-road; Gipsy-lane, Islington, to be re-named Mountgrove-road. The line of thoroughfare extending from New Blackfriars-road to the Mansion-house to be called Queen Victoria-street.

Important Notice.

The "Freemasons' Magazine" having ceased to exchange with the "Bauhutte," I now receive THE FREEMASON only, from which I translate all important news for my paper, and make use of historical facts and discoveries contained in its pages.

My personal Masonic friends in England and Scotland and all Masonic authors will oblige me, and at the same time do a service to the Craft, if they publish all their articles in THE FREEMASON exclusively, which is now THE medium for me to become acquainted masonically with all that is going on in Great Britain and Ireland.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

THE NEW YEAR.

THE year which has just closed has not been an uneventful one in the annals of Freemasonry, and the lesson which it teaches is full of inspiration for the future. Notwithstanding the wrathful denunciations of a Power whose satellites are spread over the four quarters of the globe, and whose armouries are ever forging weapons to subdue the brave and free in thought, Freemasonry has advanced, is advancing, and cannot be repelled. Those spiritual thunders which once made Europe tremble now fail even to arrest the march of our great Fraternity of peace and love. Nay, the very monstrous nature of the accusations laid to our charge by the Papal authorities is itself sufficient to induce reasonable men to investigate the cause of such a malignant perversion of truth, and the result of such enquiry, is to strengthen our position by rendering pointless the keenest shafts of the enemy. We are speaking now of true Freemasonry—of that old and venerable system of morality whose precepts breathe the very essence of all that is divine in human nature—the sum of everything that can dignify and gladden human existence.

We are speaking now of that ancient fabric whose foundations were laid by just, wise, and virtuous men, in the profound depths of reason and religion—not of the ephemeral structure reared in these degenerate days by the sons of anarchy and atheism.

We look back with pride to the history of the English Craft. Unstained by rebellion, untainted by infidelity, our forefathers fought the battle of life simply, yet nobly, and have bequeathed to us memories that shall never die—names that shall never be forgotten. To use a simile which will bear repetition, English Freemasonry resembles the far spreading banian-tree, whose branches cover the soil in every direction and refresh the earth with their cool and pleasing shade. And we have ample cause for rejoicing when we contemplate the good that our Institution has achieved, when we reflect upon the many manifestations of good will to which it has given birth, and when we remember that it is dowered with the daily blessings of the widow and the orphan, over whose sorrow it spreads the hallowed sunshine of beneficence and charity. Wherever the English language is spoken, there we find Freemasons adhering most strictly to the ancient landmarks—neither meddling with politics nor dogmas of faith in their lodges, but on the contrary refraining from even the slightest attempt to identify the Order with their own private opinions. Such is also the case, we are informed, in the greater part of Germany, Holland, Switzerland, and the North of Europe, but unhappily, in other countries a different spirit prevails, against which we have protested, and still feel it to be our duty to protest.

However, we speak more in sorrow than in anger, of those erring brethren, whose mistaken notions of duty we are fully acquainted with, and whose motives, we are anxious to concede, are usually generous and humane.

But to return to pleasanter themes. We view in the past year, a splendid herald of the future; never have the great charities of the Order in England, been more liberally supported than in eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, and never have the glorious principles of the Craft been more powerfully exemplified.

"Progress" is the word that will best characterise our career during the last twelve months—we have inaugurated our New Hall—we have received amongst us as a "Brother," not as a "Patron," the future monarch of the realm—we have added to our already voluminous roll of members some six or seven thousand brethren who, we hope, will prove good men and true, and we have chartered about fifty new lodges throughout our vast jurisdiction.

Death—inexorable death—has not laid low many of our mighty ones; the chiefs under whose banners we commenced the year still lead us at its close, but for some among us, doubtless, the dead months have brought their weight of grief, some hearths are now desolate that lately beamed with joy, and some worthy pillars of our temple are now levelled in the dust of death.

This, however, is the inevitable course of nature, and with so much to cheer our minds we must not be saddened by the vicissitudes from which no earthly institution is free, but rather let us press onward in the hope that when we, in our turn, shall depart from this mortal sphere of labour we may be found to have done our duty by promoting the happiness of our fellow-men. This is the great aim of Freemasonry, and it is one which should be kept constantly in view; it is not by the subversion of dynasties, or the ruin of organised society, that such an object is to be attained, but by the patient, far-seeing discharge of our several duties in every relation of life. It will be the privilege of THE FREEMASON to enunciate these sentiments in 1870 as it has hitherto done in 1869, certain as we are, not only of the approval of our own conscience, but of the support of the vast majority of the Craft. We shall continue to advocate those principles which we were taught to revere at our initiation, and which we have since sworn to enforce and obey.

No paltry considerations of self-interest shall induce us to betray our trust; no foolish fears shall cause us to deviate from the path of truth. We entertain a very lofty idea of the influence which should appertain to the Masonic Press, provided it be conducted in a spirit of kindness and brotherly love. No doubt there are times when chastisement must fall upon those who deserve it, but upon the whole we deprecate the use of invective as not only unkind but unnecessary. For the unexampled favour with which THE FREEMASON has been received we must again express our thanks, bespeaking from our friends a renewal of their confidence during the new-born year, and promising them in return that our exertions shall be redoubled to maintain this journal upon the high pinnacle of success to which their partiality has raised it during the past year. In this, the first number of our third volume, we give an earnest of our desire to make THE FREEMASON a first-class paper both in a typographical and Masonic sense, and we feel convinced that the result will be, to paraphrase the words of the poet, that "those will read who never read before, while those who always read will read the more." Readers and Masonic brethren generally, we heartily wish you all A Happy New Year.

"AT HOME AND ABROAD."

WE have received the following letter from a gentleman, whose name we suppress, respecting the statements made in our article named as above. We may refer W. H. H. to our leader in the present issue as to the real doctrines of Freemasonry, which he will also find given at length in the Ancient Charges prefixed to the Book of Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of England. We advise W. H. H. to read the works of our great Masonic writers, and he will then clearly see that the Order is founded upon the purest principles of piety and virtue, and desires only to promote the happiness of the human race. We gladly greet W. H. H. as one of the many intelligent readers, who are not Freemasons, that we are proud to number as our supporters:—

DEAR SIR,—You will, I trust, forgive the liberty I take in addressing this letter to you; for your remarks in the article "At Home and Abroad" have opened my eyes to a fact I was not aware of before, namely, that there does seem to be a difference between Continental and English Freemasons. Will you allow me to tell you that having been brought up in Germany (my father is a native of the Grand Duchy of Baden), I was always made to believe that "Masons are banded together in an unholy alliance against all laws human and divine." The same remarks hold good with regard to what I heard in France, where I spent several years. In 1866 I came over to England as a private tutor in a clergyman's family, and at present I am studying theology with a view of going in about a year's time, most likely to Africa. If you would kindly help me to acquire right views concerning your great Order you will very greatly oblige me, for this I have endeavoured to do ever since my arrival in England, but I have not yet succeeded.

Assuring you of my best wishes and sincerest intentions, and begging you once more to treat with indulgence this step I have taken in troubling you with these lines,

Believe me, very sincerely yours,
W. H. H.

"LANDMARKS" BEFORE 1717.

There are now so many records of meetings as Masons in Lodges, and at which "Landmarks" were evidently acknowledged and respected, long before the above date, that it seems difficult to know how the fact can be made any clearer than it is.

On the basis of the old landmarks, Freemasonry was revived A.D. 1717, as a purely speculative order, although such period was not the commencement of speculative Freemasonry, as many gentlemen were admitted in the former century.

W. J. HUGHAN.

BRO. E. GOTTHEIL AND THE LAWS OF THE LAND (p. 273).

I am pleased to learn that Bro. "E. Gottheil" is of the same opinion as myself, so far as that is known to me in matters of Freemasonry, and trust we shall continue to fight under the same banner for the upholding of the Landmarks of our ancient Order in their integrity. CIPES.

SCOTTISH TEMPLARS (p. 273).

On line thirteen, the word "few" is a typographical error, it should read Jew. CIPES.

ROUGH AND PERFECT ASHLARS.

The words "We have too many 'rough ashlar,' too many warped and worm-eaten planks, in the building; there are individuals in the Masonic Order now who ought never to have been admitted," are words of truth; but it is not the fault of the whole Fraternity if a complaint is brought against a brother, and that complaint not enquired into, and judgment delivered thereon, whether guilty or not guilty, but simply dismissed. CIPES.

BROS. "CIPES," "LEO," AND THE SCOTTISH TEMPLARS, (p. 273.)

Bro. "Cipes" is entirely mistaken in supposing that an individual "who is not a Freemason at all" has either the same opportunities, or is likely to be able to make the same use of the sources of information which exist, as one who is a Freemason. The latter from what he knows may fairly infer a good deal more than what he has actually seen; however, it is easier to speak upon this point than to write about it, i.e., in regard to the rituals of the so-called Scottish Knights Templar; but as regards the age of this Masonic degree and pretended Order of Scottish Chivalry, that is a question of evidence, and if Bro. "Cipes," instead of shirking the point and raising a little smoke to cover his retreat, can prove it to be so old as, and older than, the second quarter of last century I shall be glad to admit it whenever he gives the proof. Further, the use of the word "revival" in connection with the last century institution of Knight Templary, I look upon as an attempt at imposition. LEO.

BROS. "CIPES," "LEO," AND THE MAIMED, ETC., (p. 273.)

In an exceptional case where a gentleman has lost his limbs and retains his tongue, and his eyes, he can "uphold the recognised modes of recognition" in a manner which any sensible Freemason, who himself knew the recognised modes, could easily take up and appreciate; in fact, I can quite easily fancy a maimed brother so situated being so well posted up that he would be allowed to pass into the lodge, while others, their arms and legs included, would be kept out. The only difficulty being where a brother minus his limbs, comes into contact with a foreign brother when the one may be unable to understand what the other says. LEO.

THE "LANDMARKS" OF SPECULATIVE FREEMASONRY.

In reference to the above, I find Bro. "Cipes" throws up the sponge himself, and applies a little "admirable and honourable soft solder" to Bro. Hughan, in order to get him to fight his battles. Not bad that! It is to be hoped he is also ready to settle all damages. LEO.

IRELAND.

Of the early history of Masonry in Ireland so little is known that it would be folly to attempt in this late day to discover the footprints of its existence upon that ancient soil. Bro. Michael Furnell, than whom no living Masonic writer is better acquainted with the history of Masonry in Ireland, says—"I furnish a brief abstract of the historic constitution of the Masonic Order in Ireland, and though possessing irrefutable records and data showing the existence of the several self-designated 'Grand Lodges' in past centuries, and though the Lodge No. 1 on the present legitimate registry claims an uninterrupted descent from an independent lodge which existed from time immemorial, and retains many quaint old documents in her archives, and is by many styled the 'First Lodge of Ireland;' yet I leave the task of research into the hazy mist of the past ages to some more erudite antiquary, taking for granted that those gone-by powers were but by assumption or prescription. The constitution of the present Metropolitan Grand Lodge dates from the year 1729, when the entire fraternity united in electing the Right Hon. Lord Kingston Grand Master of Ireland." Since that time many gentle of noble birth have occupied the chair and directed the affairs of Masonry with substantial effect. The Ancient York Rite is tenaciously adhered to by this Grand Lodge. In 1809 a charter for the establishment of a Supreme Council of the 33rd degree Ancient and Accepted Rite was granted by the Supreme Council at Charleston, South Carolina, and created his Grace the Duke of Leinster Grand Commander ad vitam. In 1820 a Council of the Rite of Misraim was instituted with the Duke of Leinster as the supreme head. This organisation had a very brief existence in this country. The present Grand Master of the Grand Lodge is the Duke of Leinster, who has held the office since 1813. Within the body of the Grand Lodge is a Grand Conclave of Knights Templar, a Supreme Grand Council of Rites, and a Grand Royal Arch Chapter.—Macoy's Encyclopedia.

TEMPLARS.

It was the Duke of Leeds, among others, I think, who was made a Scots Templar, without being a Mason. The comic history prefixed to the statutes, was an excellent piece of fooling on the part of the late Professor Aytoun, then Grand Prior. The custom of receiving Non-Masons was found, however, injudicious, and was discontinued. There is not one single document or historical reference (of dates between 1232 and 1700), which indicates the existence of a Templar; always excepting the members of the Middle Temple, London. The direct successor of the martyred William de la More is the new Master, Dr. Vaughan. If I remember right, Scotland was under the jurisdiction of England's Grand Prior or Master, as well as Ireland. What end after all does it serve, even if it is proved that the present Masonic Templars are descendants of the ancient, except that the Scots Templars would again be the Sovereign's body guard, instead of the archers, as in the days of David I.? In all matters of historical dispute, the dependance of fact upon legend, instead of document, is tantamount to the assertions of fable. Moreover, Goethe well expressed the custom of a certain class of disputants who fancy they answer their opponents, by ignoring their statements, and simply reiterating their own. Answer, do not reiterate.

ROBERT BURNS A ROYAL ARCH MASON.

Robert Burns, after being appointed Poet Laureate of the Canongate Kilwinning, proceeded with his friend and brother, William Ainslie, on a tour, during which they came across the worthy fraternity of Eyemouth in Berwickshire. The minute book is still extant wherein it records his exaltation to the R.A. free of charge on account of his remarkable poetical qualities, Ainslie paying the usual fee.

The Freemason's Calendar for 1870. Bro. G. KENNING, 2, 3, & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

From this valuable publication, which is published for the benefit of the Charity Fund of the Order, we cull the following "mems."

The No. of the last Lodge on the roll, "the Bayons," at Market Rasen, is 1286, if from this we subtract 70 lodges erased, the Nos. of which are vacant, and add the "Grand Stewards," not numbered, we find the total number under the English Constitution to be 1217.

The first No. vacant on the list is 118, "St. Andrew's," this was a Lodge held at Halifax, Nova Scotia, now held under the independent Grand Lodge of that District; all the Nova Scotia Lodges are out except the "Royal Standard," No. 398, at Halifax, which, true to its name, preferred remaining under the "Standard" of Albion.

The other lodges now extinct, or working under independent jurisdictions, are:—

- 122, "Derbyshire," Longnor.
- 138, "All Saints," Wooler.
- 161, "St. John's," Halifax, N.S.
- 396, "Virgin," Halifax, N.S.
- 399, "Unity," Lunenburg, N.S.
- 400, "Albion," St. John, N.B.
- 420, "True Brothers," Dinapore.
- 427, "Wear," Chester-le-Street.
- 436, "St. John's," St. John, N.B.
- 479, "Royal Sussex," Halifax, N.S.
- 480, "Sussex," Dorchester, N.B.
- 514, "Royal Victoria," St. Vincent's.
- 518, "St. Mark's," St. Andrew's, N.B.
- 522, "Solomon's," Fredericton, N.B.
- 524, "Carleton Union," St. John, N.B.
- 527, "Midian," Kingston, N.B.
- 535, "Union," Portland, N.B.
- 553, "Woodstock," Woodstock, N.B.
- 562, "Zetland," Liverpool, N.S.
- 565, "New Caledonian," Pictou, N.S.
- 568, "Hammond," Guernsey.
- 575, "Forest," Mansfield.
- 596, "Hiram," Yarmouth, N.S.
- 612, "Acadia," Pugwash, N.S.
- 616, "Fidelity," Crewe.
- 623, "Jullunder," Jullunder, E.I.
- 627, "South Suffolk," Sudbury.
- 628, "Keith," Hillsburgh, N.S.
- 629, "St. George," St. George, N.B.
- 635, "Corinthian," Hampton, N.B.
- 642, "Fidelity," Darjeeling, E.I.
- 644, "Keith," Moncton, N.B.
- 664, "Alley," Upper Mills, N.B.
- 668, "Howard," Hillsboro, N.B.
- 675, "Ramsay," Rawul Pindee.
- 676, "Light of the North," Ferozepore.
- 682, "Mariners," Granville, N.S.

- 1082, "Hyde Clarke," Alexandria.
- 1084, "New Brunswick," St. John, N.B.
- 1162, "Fortescue," Chipping Campden.
- 1190, "Cobequid," Truro, N.S.
- 1245, "Rothsay," Bridgetown, N.S.

These changes having occurred since July, 1863, when the lodges were renumbered, and being attributable chiefly to the transfer of lodges to other jurisdictions, clearly evince that the English Craft is in a very sound and stable condition, as the loss from all causes averages little more than 10 lodges per annum, while the number of new lodges added during the same period

(as corrected up to the present date) is 325, being 50 annually, or a net increase of 40 lodges every year! These are telling statistics for those who would fain see Freemasonry on the road to ruin.

The number of Royal Arch Chapters amounts to 380; these like the lodges are found in every quarter of the world.

It is also noteworthy that the lists of lodges and chapters abroad are now arranged alphabetically as well as geographically, an innovation which is a decided improvement, as it greatly facilitates reference.

The oldest Provincial Grand Master on the record, excluding the Earl of Zetland, is Bro. Thos. Henry Hall, P.G.M. for Cambridgeshire, which appointment he has held since the 11th Nov., 1843.

The youngest is Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M. for Hants and the Isle of Wight, appointed 1st June, 1869.

The oldest District Grand Master is Bro. H. R. Lewis, D.G.M. for Sumatra, who dates from the 10th Dec., 1821, and who enjoys the rare felicity of having "no work to do," as his district, we believe, no longer exists, and it is positive that no District Grand Lodge has been held there "within the memory of the oldest inhabitant." The gallant Major C. Mc W. Mercer, of the Punjab, is the youngest D.G.M., his appointment having taken place on the 15th Nov. 1868.

On the whole, we consider the Masonic Calendar for 1870 extremely creditable to its compilers, and as the object of the sale is to swell the total of the Benevolent Fund, it will doubtless meet with so much favour from the Craft as to necessitate the issue of a second edition, revised and corrected up to 31st December, 1869.

DISTRICT GRAND CHAPTER OF ROYAL ARCH MASONS IN BENGAL.

A convocation of the District Grand Chapter was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Calcutta, on Thursday, the 4th November, 1869, when the following Companions were present: M.E. Comp. H. D. Sandeman, Grand Superintendent; M.E. Comp. J. H. Linton, Past District Grand J., as District Grand H.; M.E. Comp. F. Powell, District Grand J.; M.E. Comp. Locke, D.G. Scribe E.; Comp. Dr. Waller, D.G. Scribe N.; M.E. Comp. Farr, D.G. Prin. Soj.; M.E. Comp. Mackintosh, D.G. Assist. Soj.; M.E. Comp. Taylor, D.G. Standard Bearer; Comp. Conway, D.G. Dir. of Ceremonies. Visitors: Comps. Harvey, Dr. Hall, Capt. Macnamara, W. Jones, Martin.

REPRESENTATIVES OF CHAPTERS:

Chapter Hope, No. 100.—Comps. Murray, Allender, and Goodricke.
Chapter Holy Zion, No. 392.—Comp. Amos.
Chapter Punjab, No. 782.—M.E. Comp. Dr. G. H. Daly.

The District Grand Chapter was opened in due form, and the minutes of the convocation held on Thursday, the 19th December, 1868, were confirmed.

The Grand Superintendent announced to the convocation that the number of chapters at present in working order were five: namely, the two in Calcutta, and those at Lahore, Rangoon, and Simla. The Umballa Chapter (attached to Lodge "Charity") was not working at present, but the W.M. of the lodge had written that it was expected it would be re-opened during the present cold weather. The chapters at Meerut, Lucknow, and Peshawur had fallen into abeyance, and their charters would accordingly be re-called, unless a resuscitation should take place within the time prescribed by the laws.

The report of the Finance Committee, was read and adopted.

The Grand Superintendent appointed the following officers for the ensuing year:—

W. J. Judge	... District Second Grand Principal.
W. B. Farr	... District Third Grand Principal.
H. H. Locke	... District Grand Scribe E.
Capt. Murray	... District Grand Scribe N.
J. Mackintosh	... District Grand Prin. Sojourner.
J. L. Taylor	... District G. 1st Asst. Sojourner.
J. Conway	... District G. 2nd Asst. Sojourner.
J. Pitt Kennedy	... District Grand Registrar.
G. M. Goodricke	... District Grand Sword Bearer.
W. G. Amos	... District Grand Standard Bearer.
T. McKelvey	... District Grand Director of Cer.
D. J. Daniel	... District Grand Janitor.
M.E. Comp. J. H. Linton	remains District Grand Treasurer, ex-officio.

There being no other business before the District Grand Chapter, it was closed in due form.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF BOMBAY.

A half-yearly Communication was holden at the Freemasons' Hall, Byculla, on Wednesday, the 3rd November, 1869, when the following brethren were present:—Wor. Bros. the Honourable Justice Gibbs, Deputy District Grand Master in charge, as District Grand Master; Dr. Diver, P.D.G.W. as Deputy District Grand Master; C. A. Gumpert, as D.S.G.W.; C. E. Mitchell, as D.J.G.W.; Bro. W. H. Hussey, D.G. Sec.; Wor. Bro. A. Hay, D.S.G.D.; A. Swift, as D.J.G.D.; Bros. G. W. R. Malins, D.G. Sword-bearer; J. Thomas, D.G. Org.; Wor. Bro. C. Beard, D.G. Purst.; Bros. T. Crawford, J. J. Tandy, Pestonjee Bazonjee, D.G. Stewards.

REPRESENTATIVES OF LODGES.

St. George, No. 549.—Wor. Bro. A. Hay, W.M. Concord No. 757.—Bros. H. Bailey, as W.M., and G. Macdonald, as S.W.

Truth, No. 944.—Wor. Bro. C. E. Mitchell, as W.M. Bros. W. H. Hussey, S.W., and T. Crawford, as J.W.

Star of India, No. 1062.—Wor. Bro. A. Swift, as W.M.

Emulation, No. 1100.—Bros. T. Counsel, as W.M., and T. W. Drewett, as S.W.

Eastern Star, No. 1189.—Bros. Noshervanjee Coyajee, as W.M., Dinshaw Dorabjee, as S.W., and Jamsetjee Noshervanjee, as J.W.

Friendship and Harmony, No. 1270.—Wor. Bro. C. Hyne, W.M., and Bro. R. Rayner, as S.W.

The District G.L. was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last Communication were read and confirmed. The reports of the District Grand Lodge General Purposes Committee, and of the Fund of Benevolence Committee were also read and adopted.

Several letters were then read.

The District Grand Secretary reported that the following dispensations were granted since the last Communication:—To Lodge "Industry," to confer the three degrees on Bro. Hartley without payment, for the purpose of becoming a serving brother; and the 2nd degree on Bro. Fernandes in a week from the date of initiation. Lodge "Concord," to raise Bros. Melville and Ransford, and pass Bro. Shorter within the prescribed time. Lodge "Unity, Peace, and Concord," (attached to the 1st Royal Regt.), to pass and raise Bro. De Tatham at an interval of one week between each degree. Lodge "Orion in the West," to raise Bro. Reid a week after the date of passing.

The District Grand Secretary stated that Rs. 1,153 had been subscribed in this district towards the "Zetland Testimonial," and the amount remitted to the Grand Secretary.

A new lodge named "Friendship and Harmony," No. 1270, has been opened at Egutpoora with Bro. C. Hyne, C.E., for its first Master. The lodge was duly consecrated by Wor. Bro. A. King, and the Wor. Master regularly installed by Wor. Bro. H. H. Avron, on the 28th August last. Wor. Bro. King by dispensation represented the Deputy District Grand Master on that occasion.

The District Grand Secretary thought it might be interesting to the members of Grand Lodge to know that during the year 1868 there were 131 initiations into Masonry in this district, and that on the 1st January, 1869, there were 449 subscribing members of lodges working under Bombay.

Several subjects of local interest were discussed, after which the District Grand Secretary brought to the notice of the Grand Lodge a Masonic newspaper called THE FREEMASON, edited by a brother of eminence and merit in England, and he desired to know if the District Grand Lodge would become a subscriber to it. Wor. Bro. Swift proposed, and Wor. Bro. Hay seconded that the District Grand Lodge take in two copies a week; the proposition was carried.

There being no further business, the District Grand Lodge was duly closed.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—A grateful father is desirous of sending by mail, free of charge to all who wish it, a copy of the prescription by which his daughter was restored to perfect health from confirmed Consumption, after having been given up by her physicians and despaired of by her father, a well-known physician, who has now discontinued practice. Sent to any person free.—Address O. P. Brown, Secretary, 2, King-street, Covent-garden, London.—[Advt.]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Vigorous Health.—With winter some sore trials to the soundest constitutions, while the naturally delicate and feeble find it too frequently a prolonged struggle against or under suffering. All diseases affecting the nervous system arise from impurities in the blood, irregularities of organic action, or vitiated secretions. Holloway's Pills are invaluable for removing all poisonous elements from the body, and are famed for curing indigestion, flatulency, and costiveness, as well as palpitation, pain in the side, and other morbid feelings. The neuralgic pains attendant on the nervous class of diseases soon yield to these purifying Pills, the sensations of anxiety daily diminish under their use, sound sleep supersedes nights of watching, and calm repose displaces hideous dreams.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

A special General Court of the Governors and subscribers of this institution was held on Thursday evening at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. JOHN UDALL, V.P., in the chair, to consider a motion of Bro. John Symonds, V.P., "That the right to a perpetual presentation of a properly-qualified girl for admission to this institution may be purchased on payment of one thousand guineas, no vote being exercised in virtue of such payment, and after the death of the contributor of such sum of 1000 guineas, his or her right of presentation shall be vested in his or her executors, administrators, appointees, or assigns, for ever." The brethren present were H. Browse, W. Farnfield, John Symonds, John Hervey, James Terry, E. H. Patten, Major Creaton, and H. Massey.

Bro. SYMONDS said the object of his motion was to bring the laws of this Institution in conformity with those of the Boys'. All the other laws corresponded, but as the Boys' School had recently adopted this rule, it was necessary for the sake of uniformity that the Governors of the Girls' School should come to the same decision.

Bro. H. BROWSE seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

The rule will not include gifts by corporate bodies. It is intended for individuals only.

Bro. HERVEY proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, which Bro. SYMONDS seconded, and which was carried nem. con.

The General Committee of this Institution met for the last time in 1869, on Thursday evening, in the Board-room, Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Major Creaton, V.P., took the chair, and was supported by Bros. John Udall, John Symonds, H. Browse, James Terry, E. H. Patten, H. Massey, J. H. Hemsworth, S. Noble, Thomas W. White, W. J. Adams, Edward Cox, and W. Farnfield.

There were eight cases of candidates to be placed on the list for election in April next, but two only were found to be eligible. The other six were deferred. Cheques were signed for payment of the institution's accounts, and the Committee adjourned.

There will be eleven vacancies at the next election.

ANNIVERSARY of St. JOHN'S LODGE, GLASGOW.

The 812th anniversary of the Glasgow St. John's Lodge of Freemasons (No. 3 bis) was held in Carrick's Royal Hotel on the 27th ultimo. The following office-bearers were duly installed by Bro. Donald Campbell, of Edinburgh:—John Baird, R.W.M.; Thomas Ramsay, P.M.; Robert Neilson, D.M.; James McMillan, S.M.; William Kyle, junr., S.W.; Thomas Fletcher, J.W.; R. D. Samuels, Treasurer; Rev. T. B. W. Niven, Chaplain; J. Anderson, Secretary; James Adam, Architect; John Dick, S.D.; James Kyle, J.D.; D. S. Henderson, Jeweller; D. Walker, Director of Music; J. Sharpe, Assistant Director of Music; James Keith, S.S.; Dr. H. C. Moffat, R. Grange, and J. McOwitt, J.S.; T. Ewing, I.G.; J. Pollock, O.G.; Bros. Park, Dawson, and Grange, Auditors; Wm. Waggett, representative Steward; D. Bryce, junr., Edinburgh, Proxy-master.

Immediately after the installation ceremony the brethren, to the number of about one hundred, dined together in Mr. Carrick's spacious and handsome dining hall. The chair was occupied by Bro. John Baird, the Right Worshipful Master, and the croupier's chair by Bro. Kyle, junr., the Senior Warden. Amongst the company were—Bro. Walter Montgomery Neilson, Provincial Grand Master of Glasgow; Bro. Donald Campbell, 3 bis; Bro. McTaggart, 27; Bro. Scott, R.W.M., 27; Bro. Stewart, R.W.M., 73; Bro. Hackett, R.W.M., 102; Bro. Granger, R.W.M., 117; Bro. McIntyre, R.W.M., 333; Bro. D. Murray Lyon, G.S., Proxy Master of Scarborough, Island of Tobago, 488; Bros. Joseph Houghton and John Young, New York; Bros. Thos. Ramsay, Jas. Watson, David Manwell, Robt. Neilson, James McMillan, M'Aulay, Robb, and John Whyte, 3 bis, &c., &c. After an excellent dinner had been partaken of, the lodge was opened and the brethren having been called from labour to refreshment, the usual introductory toasts were given from the chair. Bro. Captain Lees replied for the Army, and Bro. Neilson, P.G.M., for the Volunteers. Bro. Murray Lyon, replied for the Grand Lodges of England, Ireland and Scotland; and in the course of his remarks said the Grand Lodge of Scotland meetings ought occasionally to be held in Glasgow, and in some town in the North. Such a proposal was made by the Lodge Mother Kilwinning, at the time the Grand Lodge was erected in 1736, but as it came from what was then considered a provincial lodge, hailing from an insignificant town in Ayrshire, it had little effect on the promoters of the Grand Lodge Institution. But the time had now come, he thought, for repeating it, and if the Masons of Glasgow and the West of Scotland went unitedly and properly about the matter, he had no doubt their immense influence would have some weight.

The R.W.M., in giving "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow," said the untimely death of Captain Spiers had occasioned great grief to all the brethren in the province. They had now, however, secured the services of a Provincial Master who had the will and the energy to advance their best interests. (Applause.) The province had been increasing greatly in numbers of late, and, under the care of Bro. Montgomery, he hoped to see it increase still more, until it should be necessary to halve it. If the exertions of the Provincial Lodge were heartily seconded this result might easily be accomplished, for there was no reason why every male adult in the community should not belong to the order.

Bro. Neilson, P.G.M., thanked the company for the manner in which the toast had been received. He assured them that the Provincial Lodge was composed of brethren who did their duty to the utmost of their ability, and he trusted that in their efforts for the good of the order they would be supported by the other lodges in the West. A worthy brother had spoken of masonic influence in the West, and it was a fact that the brethren in the East were very jealous of that influence, and that this jealousy sometimes showed itself in such a manner as to give the Provincial Lodge some trouble and trial of patience. The brethren of Grand Lodge, however, had always conducted themselves as Masons and gentlemen should, and he trusted that the jealousy he had alluded to would ultimately tend to the soldering of the two districts more closely together. He was quite sure that the proposed occasional holding of Grand Lodge meetings would not be conceded, and even if it were it would hardly be a benefit, as the Provincial lodges, which were just portions of Grand Lodge, were quite capable of discharging even the most important duties. The worthy Chairman had spoken of the increasing number of brethren in Glasgow, and of the efforts which should be made to add to their roll of membership. He did not mean to hurt the feelings of any brother present when he said that in gathering people into their Craft they ought not to go out into the streets and hail every one they met. His opinion was, that not every man was fit to be a Mason—hear, hear—that, indeed, there were many men whom they ought not to admit to their body. Let them support the influence of the Craft by keeping up its dignity. (Applause.) Bro. Neilson proceeded to urge the Masonic body in Glasgow to at once set about the erection of a hall which should bear their name, and be worthy of their position. It was not respectful, he thought, to ask the Provincial Grand Lodge to meet in a back room, got at by a dirty close and four or five pair of stairs. He hoped they would all put their shoulders to the wheel, and that before long they would see the undertaking commenced. To see a beginning made would be one of his chief anxieties during his occupation of the chair to which the kindness of the brethren had called him.

Bro. ROBERT NEILSON proposed "The Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of Glasgow," and the CROUPIER "The Incorporation of Masons," to which ex-Deacon Shannon replied. The R.W.M. proposed the health of Bro. David Manwell, which was cordially pledged.

Bro. NEILSON, P.G.M., proposed "The Lodge of Glasgow St. John," remarking that it had long been regarded as an honour to the Craft. He was pleased to see present so many of its old members, but even more pleased to see that of late it had received a good deal of new and fresh blood, and that it promised to be as flourishing in the future as in the past. (Applause.)

Bro. BAIRD, R.W.M., replied. He stated that forty members had been added during the past year, besides six affiliations, and that generally the lodge was in a prosperous condition. Referring to the remarks of Bro. Neilson, he said that the Lodge St. John had set about the construction of a hall for themselves, but if it were shown them that a scheme for a large general hall would be successful they would give it there hearty support.

The remaining toasts were, "Absent Brethren and Masonry over the World," "The Past Office-bearers and Bro. Ramsay," "Our Right Worshipful Master," "The Visiting Brethren," "The Ladies," and "Happy to meet, sorry to part, &c." The proceedings were enlivened by some excellent vocal and instrumental music and the brethren separated at a seasonable hour, all pleased with their entertainment.

ADVICE TO TRAVELLERS ON THE CONTINENT.

(From London Society.)

For economical reasons, the present writer mostly travels long distances on the continent third class, unless accompanied by ladies. Your travelling companions are no doubt a "mixture," which implies that you often meet amongst them well-informed, well-behaved, and agreeable people, particularly persons, both men and women, engaged in commercial pursuits. Rudeness is very rare; but is immediately put down by public protest. Tipsy men are less rare, but they are held in check by the same restraint. On the other hand you get a capital insight into popular manners and ideas (supposing you understand the language) which you might have a difficulty of acquiring elsewhere. The great nuisance of French third-class railway carriages is the abominable pipes and the still more abominable lucifer matches. For this there is no remedy; it must be borne. It is useless to attempt to stop it by appealing to authority. Smoking in third-class carriages, though contrary to regulation, is an admitted, tolerated, established fact. You might as well beg your fellow-traveller not to breathe as not to smoke. "If you can't bear smoke, why don't you go second or first class?" is the remark, spoken or unspoken, your request would give rise to. It is in the North of France, however, that the smoking mania attains its fullest development. The further you go South the less you are annoyed by the filthy fumes of foul tobacco. It is understood that nothing short of necessity will induce you to pass a night, or even great part of one, in a third-class carriage; but night travelling in any class does not enter our system. There are, however, what are called "direct" trains, intermediate in speed between the express and omnibus trains, but going more nearly at the rate of the former than the latter, which do take second and third class passengers, but under conditions so confined and troublesome as to render them of little use to the general traveller. To avail yourself of them, otherwise than by first-class, you must take your ticket from Paris for enormous distances. At most stations along the road you cannot get into them except at the higher rates of payment. Moreover, during the present summer "direct" trains are fewer than they were last year. So that, in fact, it comes, as just stated, to the choice between an omnibus (all three classes) and an express (first class only) train. If you follow our advice, you will avoid cheap excursion trains, and confine yourselves to the ordinary trains of the time tables. True, the saving is sometimes enormous; but so also are the discomfort and the fatigue. For instance, this season, excursion trains for the Exhibition have run from Marseilles to Paris, for thirty francs there and back. But fancy going all the way from Marseilles to Paris (five hundred and forty English miles) by the slowest of trains, without stopping, day and night, closely packed in an oven on wheels, compelled to sleep in a sitting posture, with hard boards for your easy chair and no pillow but your neighbour's shoulder! A pretty pleasure train to take your place in! And then, after this, the sight-seeing in Paris; and then the return home in exactly the same style, not on the day or at the hour you would choose, but when the knell sounds for the train to carry you off, precisely as a demon carries off a purchased victim when his time is up! It is enough to kill, not a horse, but a creature gifted with the strength of fifty horses. We also advise you to resist the temptation of circular tickets, available for a month or so, issued at professedly reduced prices, with a given itinerary at any point of which you may stop. The offer is plausible, and the scheme far preferable to the preceding; but we have calculated the difference between several of these pretended cheap tours and the price of ordinary trains, and the reduction made is very trifling compared with the loss of freedom it involves. With your route so laid out for you and your time so limited, it is very like travelling in a strait-jacket accompanied by a keeper. One of the great enjoyments of travel is the feeling of liberty it gives; not to mention the unexpected excursions and branchings-off made on the spur of the moment. But with one of these book tickets stuck in your side pocket, you are constantly reminded that you are not your own master; you are given in charge to the care of the railway officers. Post equitem still sedet atra cura, and your doctor has told you to leave all care on the other side of the water. Better far is it to economise in some other way, and to know, on going to bed at night, that to-morrow morning "the world is all before you where to choose."

ANCIENT AND MODERN MYSTERIES.

BY BRO. ROBERT WENTWORTH LITTLE,
President of the London Literary Union, Editor of

In pursuing the subject of "Ancient and Modern Mysteries," and in the investigation of the many curious rites practised by various nations, I have been indebted to different sources for valuable information; for instance, in the quotation from a contemporary writer just given, and again in the following interesting extract respecting Chinese customs, for which I beg to thank my friend, Bro. W. J. Hughan, Provincial Grand Secretary, Cornwall, whose labours in the cause of Masonic literature are so widely known, and so justly appreciated. It may be added that the extract refers to ceremonies practised at the present day by Chinese settlers in San Francisco, Sacramento, and other Californian cities.

"Like the ancient Egyptians in the time of the Pharaohs, whose cities were resplendent with the burnished gold and brass temples dedicated to their gods Osiris and Isis, the Chinese are divided into two classes; the ignorant mass of people devoutly worshipping images and animals as beings of power; and the nobility and aristocracy, who, too enlightened to place implicit belief in the almost daily festivities and sacrifices, yet fearful of losing their power, direct the minds of the mass from state affairs with gay processions, grand illuminations, and sacrifices to their many gods—laughing in their sleeves at the devout adoration which the humbler classes pay to the departed spirits and supposed powerful divinities. The nation prides itself—with great reason, though we may strike off a few thousand years from its chronology—upon being the oldest empire in the world. Their customs and ceremonies, transmitted without variation from generation to generation, presented to us now the same as a thousand years ago, have become more and more endeared and revered as the centuries have rolled around, till they seem to the blind idolators sacred things to be guarded from sacrilegious gaze. It is unnecessary to state that the lowest Chinaman looks pityingly upon the white that he was born outside the Flowery Kingdom, esteeming this not only as the greatest honour which can be bestowed on mortal man, but most times considering it a necessary proceeding in order to inhabit the future Heaven. Therefore they are not over truthful in describing or explaining their habits and manners, but on the contrary strain a point to mislead and misinform foreigners; regarding their desire for knowledge as an idle, not to say profane, curiosity. Hence arise mistaken notions concerning the late ceremonies in Sacramento.

"The constant round of public processions and sacrifices, the peculiar custom of offering food, clothes, and mock-money to departed spirits, the idol-temples and pagodas of Fauchau—which, in the more important points and services, are the same as those of every canton in the Chinese Empire—have been satisfactorily described in 'Social Life of the Chinese,' by Justus Doolittle, for twelve years a missionary to Fauchau. Passing by the many sacrifices and processions which in California are done away with from lack of temples, priests, and permission of authorities, we come to the Autumnal sacrifices. The prevailing idea among the uninitiated is that during the few days of each Fall occupied by the Chinese in firing of crackers, worshipping bamboo images and offering them silver and golden-capped food, chanting their unearthly strains and playing their crude instruments, the worthy Celestials are waging a war against the 'devils.' This could not be so, as this superstitious people are so afraid of the influence of those powerful personages, even in this life, that, in order to propitiate them, certain portions of the prepared food are set before the demons, candles placed on each side to light them to the feast, and incense burned in their honour; the annual worship of the great sage Confucius, his disciples Mencius, and the learned commentator of the Chinese classics, Chufutze; the 'Universal Rescue,' and the thank-offering for another harvest garnered in the mellow Autumn. In China each of these festivals would have had its allotted days, but, for the sake of economy and want of room, the crude buildings erected in our city for the "spirits" house, had the honour of holding all these at once. In the centre of the main room, where the priests conducted their principal ceremonies, stood Nguk Huong Siong Ta, the 'Pearly Emperor, Supreme Ruler,' generally supposed to be the highest divinity worshipped by the Chinese, producer and governor of all things seen or unseen, terrestrial or celestial. On one side we saw the image of Confucius, 'Teacher of ten thousand ages,' with Mencius and Chufutze on either side, various kneeling images clustered around as their disciples. Before them were meats, vegetables and fruits, the best—perhaps Americans will say the worst—kind of incense, and huge red candles, around which the usual figures were circling. Upon the other side of the 'Pearly Emperor' stood three images, the largest one representing the god who rules over the whole province of departed spirits, the others, rulers over their Hades. The many niches and spaces were occupied by the various gods and goddesses of water, fire, war, courage, literature, children, gamblers, thieves, sailors, music, wrestling, wealth, artisans, mechanics, swine, drought, rain, surgery, medicine, the four seasons—Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter, &c. The walls were hung with crude pictures of their deified animals; the monkey, the fox, the tiger—represented with a piece of money in his fore claws, as the deity of gamblers, and bearing a figure of a woman 'mother' on its back, as a deity worshipped by mothers who have sick children—the dog, the black monkey and the white rabbit, the dragon—giver of rain—and a white cock.

"The lantern of white paper suspended from the centre of the outer building, attracted considerable attention from Americans, on account of the moving images attached to the paper. These images, kept in motion by an ingenious machinery inside the lantern, represented the rewards of departed spirits: the good ones living in wealth and plenty surrounded by their slaves, the bad ones compelled to labour and pain. One was being burned around a hot metallic tube; another whipped with bamboo, another pounded in a mortar, others again, undergoing an examination before the rulers. These representations as weird and strange as the images, needed their names beneath for the benefit of those not versed in the Chinese religion. In the centre of this outer amphitheatre was a huge god—image rather—in a sitting posture; on his left an image of the tall white devil, on his right an image of the short black devil as assistants. This central divinity is supposed to have dominion over the present and future worlds. The essential and immaterial elements only of the food are partaken of by the spirits of all these images and devils, who are summoned to the feast by an image of a god on horseback burned at the commencement of the ceremonies. The burned god is supposed, in some way, to act as messenger to all spirit land. The many gaily decorated lanterns suspended around the building, were to light the spirits on their way, so that they could not possibly mistake the place. This is called the feast of the 'Universal Rescue.' In view of the incantations, exhortations and rich feast spread before them, the gods of hell are less strict and rigorous with the spirits under their control, and remit many punishments which might properly befall the devotee after death.

"But the principal festival is after the harvest has been garnered, called the Autumnal Festival, lasting about five days. According to the Chinese reckoning it falls about the middle of Autumn, during full moon, whence it is often called 'rewarding' or 'congratulating' the moon, on account of that planet's good offices with the harvest.

A TALE OF COLOGNE.

(Reprinted from the Dublin University Magazine.)

IV.—MORTAL AND IMMORTAL.

Passionately wringing his hands, or pressing them upon his hot brow, knelt the student alone in his chamber. Now and then he muttered wild words, and then his lamenting tones sunk into a low moaning. He had yearned after the tree of knowledge; he had penetrated within its shadow, and it had darkened his soul, yet he had not tasted of its delicious fruit, for which he so longed.

"It is vain—it is vain," cried Basil; "I strive, but I cannot attain. I have cast all human bliss to the winds; I have poisoned my youth—I have torn myself from thee, Isilda, joy of my life! and all in vain. No immortal gifts are mine—I would fain pierce into Nature's depths, but she hides her face from me. O, my master! thou didst tell me of the world of spirits which would surely be revealed unto me. I look into the air, but no sylphs breath soft zephyrs upon my hot cheek; I wander by the streams, but no sweet eyes, looking out from the depths of the fountains, meet my own; I am poor, but the gnomes of the earth answer not my bidding with treasures of silver and gold. And thou, O Fire, glorious element! art thou, indeed, peopled with these wonderful beings; or are they deaf to my voice, and invisible to my eyes alone, of all my brethren?"

And lo! as the student spoke, a bright pyramid of flame darted upwards, and a voice, like that of the Fire when it answers the soft breathing of the winds, replied—

"I hear thee—what wouldst thou with me?"

A paleness came over the young man's cheek, and he drew back involuntarily.

"Dost thou then fear me, O mortal?" said the voice again, sadly. "Look on me, and judge."

Suddenly the pyramidal flame was divided asunder, and there appeared in its centre a form, less than that of humanity, but perfect in feminine loveliness. Wavy wreaths of golden flame fell around her, like a woman's beautiful hair, and about her semi-transparent form twined a white and amber vesture, resembling in hue and airy substance the Fire from which she sprung. Her hands were folded submissively on her breast, and her large eyes were fixed earnestly on the young student's face as she again repeated.

"Dost thou fear me now?"

"How should I fear thee, beautiful vision!" cried Basil in wonderful delight; "and what am I, that thou shouldst deign to visit me thus?"

"Thinkest thou that this is the first time I have visited thee?" said the Form. "I have been with thee, unseen, from thy childhood. When in thy boyish days, thou wouldst sit gazing on the beautiful element which I rule, and from which I proceed, it was I who made it assume in thy fancy, strange and lovely shapes. It was my voice thou hearest in the musical breathing of the flames, until thou didst love the beautiful Fire; and it became to thee the source of inspiration; thy soul grew brighter beneath its influence. All this was my doing."

"And now at last I behold thee, glorious creature!" exclaimed the student in rapture. "How shall I thank thee for thus watching over me invisibly, and at last revealing thyself to me!"

"We do but the will of our Creator and thine," answered the Salamandrine. "I and my kindred are His offspring, even as man; but our being differs from thine; superior and yet how inferior! We tend thee, we influence thee, we guide thee—in this doing alike His command who made us, and our own pleasure; for our natures are purer and better than thine."

"I feel it," said Basil. "I cannot look upon thy all-perfect loveliness without knowing that such a form must be the visible reflection of a soul equally pure and beautiful."

"Alas! no," sighed the Fire-spirit; "this blessing is not ours. True, we see generation after generation of men perish from the face of the earth; we watch them from their cradles unto their graves, and still we are unchanged, our beauty unwithered, our power the same. Yet we know there must come a time when the element from which we draw our being must vanish away, and then we perish with them, for we have no immortal souls—for us there is no after-life!"

As the Salamandrine ceased, the vapours of the Fire encircled her as with a mist, and a wailing came from the red caverns of flame, as of spirits in grief, the burden of which was ever—

"Alas for us!—we have no after-life."

"Is it even so?" said the student. "Then are ye unhappy in the midst of your divine existence?"

The mist which veiled the Salamandrine floated aside, and she stood once more revealed in her super-human beauty.

"Not unhappy," she answered, with a radiant and celestial smile—"not unhappy, since we are the servants of our beneficent Creator; we perform His will, and in that consists our happiness. We suffer no pain, no care; doing no sin, we have no sorrow; our life is a life of love to each other and to man whose ministers we are. Are we not then happy?"

"It may be so," said Basil thoughtfully. "Ye are the creatures of Him who never made ought but good;" and he bowed his head in deep meditation, while there arose from the mystic fire an ethereal chorus; melodiously it pealed upon the opened ears of the enraptured student.

The spirits sang of praise; of the universal voice which nature lifts up of joy, of thankfulness, to the Origin of all good; of the perfect harmony of all His works, from the mighty planets that roll through illimitable space, down to the fresh green moss that springs up at the foot of the wayfaring child; of the world of spirits—those ethereal essences which people the earth and float in the air, like motes in the sunbeams, invisible but influencing man's actions; how the good spirits strive with the fallen ones for the dominion over him, and how the struggle must continue until evil is permitted to be overcome of good, and the earth becomes all holy, worthy to be the habitation of glorified beings.

And then they sang of man; of his divine origin and nature; of the sin which defiled that fair mirror of his being, which once reflected the image of God himself; of that sin effaced, atoned for, that man might now aspire to perfect purity and holiness, and again revive and receive into his soul that divine likeness.

"Happy art thou, O man," they sang. "Even in thy infirmity, what is like unto thee? An earthly life is thine, of which thou may'st remove half the sorrow by patience and love; an earthly death is thine, which is the footstool of immortality. It is ours to guide thee to that gate of heaven which we ourselves may never enter."

And all the spirits sang in a strain that died away as the fire sung down and smouldered in stillness and gloom—"Blessed art thou, O man!—strong in thy weakness, happy in thy sufferings, thrice blessed art thou!"

The student was roused from his trance by a light footstep. A hand was laid on his shoulder, and a soft woman's voice whispered—

"Art thou, then, here all alone, and in darkness, my Basil?"

"All was light with me—the darkness came with thee," answered the student, harshly, like one roused from delicious slumbers by an unwelcome hand; and yet the hand was none other than Isilda's.

"Once thou used to call me thy light of life, Basil," murmured the girl. "I would not come to anger thee."

There was not light to discern faces; but as Isilda turned to depart, Basil thought she was weeping, and his heart was melted. What would he not have given, at that moment, for the days of old—the feelings of old, when he would have drawn her to his bosom, and soothed her there with assurances of never-ending love. But now he dared not; the link between him and earth was broken. He thought of the immortal gift just acquired, and he would not renounce its ecstatic joys—no, not even for Isilda. He took her hand kindly, but coldly, saying—

"Forgive me, Isilda; I have been studying—dreaming; I did not mean to say thou wert unwelcome."

"Bless thee for that, my Basil, my beloved!" cried the girl, weeping, as she pressed his hand passionately to her heart and her lips. "Thou couldst not be unkind to me—to thy betrothed wife."

Basil turned away; he could not tell her that the tie was only a name; and Isilda went on—

"Thou hast not looked the same of late; thou art too anxious; or thou hast some hidden sorrow upon thee. Tell it to me, my Basil," she continued caressingly. "Who should share and lighten it but I, who love thee so!"

"Dost thou indeed love me so well, Isilda?"

"Thou art my all—my life—my soul! It were death itself to part from thee," cried the girl, in a burst of impassioned feeling, as she knelt beside the bending form of her lover, and stove to wind her arms around his neck. She had hardly dared to do so now to him who had once wooed that fondness with so many prayers.

"Woe is me, alas!" muttered the student. "Must thou also be sacrificed, O Isilda!"

She did not hear his words, but she felt him unclasp her arms from his neck; and Isilda sank insensible at Basil's feet.

The die was cast. Slowly the student laid her down—her the once beloved—on the cold floor. He called "Margareta," and before his sister entered, went out into the open air.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.—COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square, Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French, Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumption of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

2, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge, but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservience to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TO THE CRAFT.—A SOLICITOR (M.M.), of great experience and ability, would feel obliged by the introduction of business, which he will be happy to transact (for Brethren) at about two-thirds of the usual charges.—Address, Lex, Post-office, Viggo-street, Regent-street, W.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE
THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH
2 LOWER SEYMOUR ST. W.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners: PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists.

The Hydro-Carbon Light,
(KIDD'S PATENT.)

THE NEW PATENT LIGHT, combining GAS and OIL, gives one of the most brilliant lights ever introduced to the public, and effects a saving of 60 per cent. in the ordinary consumption of Gas. The apparatus for this light has been so perfected that it can be readily attached to the Gas Fittings already in use, without extra expense.

The New St. Pancras Station of the Midland Railway is lighted entirely by this process, and the opinions of the press are loud in its favor for brilliancy and cheapness.

The light can be seen, and all further information obtained at the

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French, Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumption of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

Bro. GEORGE KENNING,

2, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge, but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservience to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The author of the "History of Freemasonry" (Bro. Findel) devotes much space to the "Introduction," and favours his readers with a really excellent sketch of Freemasonry as a valuable social and moral Institution, which has faithfully fulfilled its mission by inclining "its members to love and charity, to moral courage and fortitude, to truth and the conscientious discharge of known duties; and has comforted the afflicted, brought back the erring to the path of virtue, dried the tears of widows and orphans, and become the parent of many an institution for benevolent purposes." Up to the commencement of the present century few but Germans wrote intelligently on the origin of the Fraternity, and among the foremost to whose researches we are much indebted, Lessing, Herder, Fichte, Krause, Seydel, and Fessler are enumerated.

Bro. Findel quotes the following eloquent panegyric on Freemasons with approval, but we fear lodges generally fall short of so grand and lofty an ideal, for how many of us can truly say that "To present a life passed according to the dictates of reason and godliness is regarded by each member as a study, an art, and therefore engages each one to strive to perfect himself in some particular. A noble emulation prevails in the Fraternity, and the desire to offer something which may in some degree be worthy of such an assembly, incites each one faithfully and assiduously to appropriate to himself whatever seems to be marked out for him in his particular sphere. The more ready the members are to communicate their thoughts to each other, the more perfect will be their fellowship. No one member has his knowledge from himself alone, he is at the same time a participator in the knowledge of others." (Scherielmacher.)

Could but this conception be realised in part, Freemasonry would be more entitled than ever to our regard, for it would then be palpable that our aim is to diffuse truth, beauty and goodness around us, and to further the welfare of mankind in obedience to God's laws, and with no selfish ends in view.

To promote the highest aims of the Craft Bro. Findel's work stands by the side of the great Masonic works of the Rev. Dr. George Oliver, and breathes throughout a devotion and enthusiasm for the grand principles of the Fraternity, and at the same time contains such a mass of interesting information, and is so accurate and trustworthy respecting the Ancient and Modern History of Freemasonry, that we place it on the highest step towards Masonic historical perfection yet attained by any Mason.

Bro. Findel well observes that genuine Masonry has to deal with man as man, and by making its followers good men, it necessarily trains them to be good members of the religious communities to which they belong.

The hostile attitude assumed by the Roman Catholic and other churches towards Freemasonry (wherever it has not been abandoned) is not, nor ever will be, a proof of the mischievous tendency of this institution, but only of unfounded misrepresentations and inventions, and above all, ignorance of its real nature and influence. Freemasonry is neutral ground for all political opinions and religious creeds, and within its Fraternity all political and religious controversies, which so greatly embitter life and set mankind at variance, are happily avoided.

We think the absurd statement or fancy that the Craft is an enemy to "pure and undefiled religion," receives its best answer by pointing to the many distinguished ornaments of christianity who are to be found active in our ranks, and its nonsectarian character is certainly beyond a doubt notwithstanding the preponderance of the Christian element. Masonry has never, and can never be, prostituted to the purposes of a mere party, the promotion of political aims, or opposition to religion.

Whenever brethren seek to lower the principles of the Craft, by using their membership in the society for their own aggrandizement, for party politics, religious differences, or social strifes, they cease to be Masons. "The history of Freemasonry—long veiled in mystery, interwoven with legends, purposely distorted by misrepresentations—has, through the profound and conscientious researches of some few solitary and unprejudiced brethren, acquired of late years a sure foundation upon scientific principles."

It will thus be seen that Bro. Findel is not in sympathy with those who seek to veto the study of Masonic history, or with those who would like their feeble cries to drown the results of free enquiries into the origin of the society, concerning which, even to this very day, the most confused, ridiculous and discordant opinions prevail, utterly opposed to facts of history.

After noticing some of the strange views of the generality of our historians, and especially those propounded by the Chevalier Ramsay and Dr. James Anderson, Bro. Findel refers with a justifiable pride to writers like Krause and Fessler, who have done so much to place Freemasonry on a sound historical basis, and from whose labours, with other well-known authors and enlightened brethren, the persuasion that the Craft originated in the Building Fraternities of the middle ages has gained ground and become doubly confirmed and strengthened. We cannot agree with Bro. Findel in his remark that "Since Preston wrote, nothing has been done in England towards the investigation of the history of Freemasonry," for apart from much of a fragmentary nature, which has been collected during this century, and which has proved a valuable aid to Masonic historians, surely the labours of the Rev. Dr. George Oliver have resulted in placing him above either Preston or Hutchinson of the last century, and entitled him to be ranked as the Prince of English Masonic authors.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The General Committee of the Boys' School met on Saturday last, at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Benj. MALLAM took the chair.

After the reading and confirmation of former minutes, the names of three of the candidates which appear on the list for election in April next were withdrawn, the number still seeking admission to the school being fifty-nine.

Bro. RAYNHAM W. STEWART gave notice that at the next Quarterly General Court, on the 17th inst., of the Institution, he should bring forward the following motion:—

"That no child shall be eligible in future unless the father shall be or have been a life governor, or have been a subscribing member to the institution to the extent of five guineas."

The committee then adjourned. There were present Bros. J. Udall, Raynham W. Stewart, Benj. Head, Major J. Creaton, S. B. Wilson, W. Young, John Symonds, Jesse Turner, W. H. Warr, J. G. Chancellor, J. W. Dosell, H. Browse, F. Adlard, Geo. Cox, J. R. Sheen, S. Rosenthal, Fredk. J. Cronin, L. Ruf, R. Spencer, F. B. Lemaitre, H. Empson, and F. Binckes (Secretary).

STRIKE FOR THE JUST AND TRUE.

BY BRO. F. B. MICHELL.

Strike for the just and true,
Though with the weak and few,
Not with the sabre, the sword, or the dart,
Helmet, shield, coat of mail;
All are but weak and frail.

Truth like a light'ning flash pierces the heart.

What though the cannon roar,
Drenching the field with gore;
Love is the power will govern the world:
Strike with thy sympathy,
Thought that is pure and free Laughs at the thunders that despots have hurl'd.

Falsehood shall fade and die,
Falsehood shall shrivel'd lie, Scorched by the radiance that darts from the truth;
Truth shall mount up on high,
Eagle-like pierce the sky,
Ever renewing her beauty and youth.

Cold is expediency,
Virtue is heavenly,
She drinks the nectar that seraphims quaff,
What though the world may rail,
Let not thy courage fail
Earth's frowns and favours are light as its chaff.

Fickle as Fancy's child,
By every toy beguil'd.
Heaven gives justice, and mercy, and love;
But earth's "Hosanna cry,"
Changes to "Crucify,"
"Well done ye righteous," comes down from above.

God is the Holy one,
Strive that His will be done,
Vain are the malice and craft of the foe;
Onward the truth must run;
On like the radiant sun.
Vainly the storm-clouds are muster'd below.

Up o'er the mountain path;
Up spite of scoff and wrath.
Virtue must labour, though Vice sit supine;
Up where the orb of day,
Darts its refulgent ray.
Vice is seductive, but Truth is Divine.

See! at the pearly gate
Angels of glory wait!
Beck'ning the spirits that strive for the true;
Mark where the golden crown
Flashes resplendence down!
Heaven is open, and waiting for you!

ANCIENT AND MODERN MYSTERIES.

BY BRO. ROBERT WENTWORTH LITTLE,

"It is a common saying that there is a 'white rabbit in the moon pounding out rice,' the idea suggested by the white and black spots on the moon's surface, which they imagine resembles that little animal engaged in the occupation of shelling rice. The Chinese suppose that the silvery planet is inhabited by many beautiful women, living amongst rare trees and flowers. They also have a pretty little tradition of the soul of one of the three originators of theatrical performances straying away to the moon and visiting the Lunar Palace, where the beautiful dramatic representations so impressed him that he remembered them upon his return to earth, and instituted them for the amusement of the earthly Celestials.

"Thankful to the moon for its goodness and smiles during harvesting season; thankful to the gods for their blessings, thankful for the safe arrival of another Autumn, the Autumnal Festival in China is a season of great merry-making and rejoicing; and the sacrifices and ceremonies in its honour could no sooner be dispensed with by this idolatrous people than their quiet home worship of ancestral tablets, or deep reverence for Confucius. Many peculiar customs are practised in connection with this festival—mothers worshipping the goddess "mother," and the goddess "seven-starmother"—who dwells among the seven-stars of the Dipper in the constellation of the Great Bear—with unusual ceremony. These mothers are supposed to give long life and health to children. Merchants during this period present their bills to customers. It is thought very dishonourable for a debtor not to pay at least a portion, or to promise the payment of his debt at some specified time.

"At the end of the five days' rejoicing and sacrificing, the devil who was stationed outside the entrance to the 'spirit's house,' was burned that news might again be carried to the gods of the extraordinary honours paid them on earth."

The following account of the sacrifices of the Chinese is condensed from "All Religions and Ceremonies":—

"The first sacrifices of this people were instituted in honour of the Supreme God, and were offered on the tan, or heap of stones, in the open fields, or upon some mountain. Around the tan was raised a double fence, composed of turf and branches of trees; and between the fences were erected two smaller altars, upon which, after the greater sacrifice, they offered others in honour of superior spirits of every rank, and of their virtuous ancestors, among whom was Confucius. To the sovereign alone it was permitted to sacrifice on the tan; to the Supreme Deity they offer their prayers, but from their ancestors and superior spirits they only seek for protection and mediation.

"In the early ages of the empire a single mountain were set apart for sacrifices; afterwards there were four consecrated to those purposes, to which the prince went successively every year. To the first he repaired at the vernal equinox, to intreat heaven to watch over the seed committed to the earth. At the summer solstice he went to the second, to ask for warmth and heat necessary to bring forward to crops. He sacrificed on the third at the autumnal equinox, in the hope of averting blights, excessive moisture, winds, and injuries from the air, which might destroy the rising hopes of the labourer. And on the fourth mountain he sacrificed at the winter solstice, in gratitude for all the mercies of the past year, and to solicit a continuance of them through that which was about to commence.

"This institution, which subjected the emperor to regular journeys, was attended with many inconveniences. Sometimes important deliberations required his attendance in the city when he was performing sacrifices at a distance from

it. At other times old age, severe weather, and bad roads, were great obstacles to the business. Means were therefore devised to obviate these difficulties, by erecting a temple in the city, where these sacrifices might be offered up.

"The principal Chinese temple contained within its circumference five separate halls, appropriated for different purposes. They had neither paintings nor ornaments of any kind; one of them was the place of sacrifice; the other four contained all those things which were necessary for the ceremony. The edifice had four gates covered with fine moss, representing the branches of which the double fence about the tan was made. This fine moss covered also the ridge of the roof, and the whole building was encompassed by a canal, which was filled with water at the time sacrifices were offered.

"Their temples are built all after one form; but, as in other countries, very different in beauty and magnitude. Their josses, or demi-gods, are some of human shape, some of monstrous figures; but, in the province of Fokien, they are more devoted to the worship of goddesses than gods. Quanheim has the most votaries. She is placed in state, sitting on a cushion with rich robes, and her little son standing before her, with a charged trident in his right hand, ready to throw at the offenders of the laws of humanity and nature, and also at those who make no free-will offerings to his mother. The Chinese who have seen the Roman Catholic churches and worship, say that she is the Chinese Virgin Mary.

"There is another goddess, called Matson, who swam from a far country, through many seas, and came in one night to China, and took up her residence there. She sits on a platform, with a cushion laid on it, and her head is covered with blue wool instead of hair. She is the protectress of navigation; for which reason none go a voyage, but they first make a sacrifice of boiled hogs' heads, and bread baked in the steam of boiling water. It is set before the image when reeking hot, and kept before her till it is cold. On their return from a voyage, they compliment her with a play, either acted on board of the ship, or before one of her temples.

"They have another goddess, in the form of a virgin, called Quonin, who has many votaries, but is mostly worshipped in the province of Pekin and Manking, but being a virgin, she has many lovers all over China.

"They have one temple, called The Temple of Apes, in which are numerous ill-shaped images of that animal.

"The god Fo, has a human shape, except his head, which has the figure of an eagle. Passa is set cross-legged on a cushion, bespangled with flowers and stars, and she has eight or nine arms and hands on each side, and two before, that she holds in a praying posture. In every one of her hands (except the two that are dedicated to prayer) she bears something emblematical, as an axe, a sword, a flower, &c.

"Pekin contains two principal temples, in the construction of which the Chinese have displayed all the elegance of their architecture. These are dedicated to the deity under different titles; in the one he is adored as the Eternal Spirit; in the other, as the Spirit that created and preserves the world. The ceremonies with which modern sacrifices are accompanied are greatly multiplied, and nothing can exceed the splendour and magnificence with which the emperor is surrounded when he performs this solemn part of his duty, which he does in the name of all his people. Some time before the day fixed for this important business, the monarch, and all persons qualified to assist, prepare themselves by retirement, fasting, and continence. During this period the emperor gives no audience; the tribunals are all shut; marriages, funerals, and festival of all kinds are then prohibited. On the day appointed for sacrifice, the emperor appears with all the pomp and magnificence of power, to which everything in the temple corresponds. All the vessels are of gold, and never used in any other place. Notwithstanding this grandeur the monarch appears to the last degree humble and dejected. He rolls in the dust, and applies to himself terms of the most abject submission, thereby exhibiting, in the most striking manner, the infinite distance that there is between the Supreme Being and man.

"Another religious ceremony performed by the emperor, is that of ploughing the earth with his own hands. By some writers this act has been thought merely political, for the sake of encouraging agriculture. But in one of the canonical books it is asserted, that he tills the earth to the Deity, that he may have it in his power to present a part of the grain to him in sacrifice. The empress and princesses manage silk worms, in order to make vestments for sacrificing in. Therefore, if the emperor and princes till the ground, or the empress breeds silk worms, it is to show that respect and veneration which they entertain for the spirit who rules the universe."

ANNUAL PROVINCIAL FESTIVAL AT GLASGOW.

The ninth annual festival of all the lodges in the Province of Glasgow was recently held, under the patronage of the Grand Lodge of Scotland and auspices of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, in the City Hall, which was well filled.

Bro. Walter Montgomery Neilson, P.G.M., presided, and amongst those on the platform were: Bros. F. A. Barron, D.P.G.M.; J. Wallace, Acting S.P.G.M.; A. M'Taggart, Acting P.G.S.W.; Fraser, Acting P.G.J.W.; J. M. Rowan, P.G.S.; B. Conner, P.G.S.; W. Smith, P.G. Sec.; R. Robb, P.G. Marshal; W. Alexander, P.G. Jeweller; D. Kinghorn, P.M. (437); Robt. Craig, P.G.B.B.; James Leith, P.G. Director of Ceremonies; James Gillies, P.G.S.B.; James Balfour, P.G.J.G.; James Pollock, P.G.T.; D. M'Geachy, Acting P.G.S.D.; T. Granger, Acting P.G.J.W.; M'Murdo, P.G. Sec. Middle Ward; James Thomson, P.G.B.T.; J. D. Porteous, R.W.M. (360); J. Singleton, R.W.M. (178); G. Thallon, R.W.M. (362); John Miller, R.W.M. (413); W. R. Thomson, P.M. (354); M. Wilson, R.W.M. (441); W. Phillip (275); George Smith, R.W.M. (219); J. Buchanan, R.W.M. (408); A. M'Intyre, R.W.M. (333). While the company was assembling Mr. Lambeth presided at the organ.

After tea, the CHAIRMAN said: It is now my duty to address to you a few words, and it must be a few words, as our time is limited, and we have a large programme before us. I take this the earliest opportunity of acknowledging the honour the brethren have conferred upon me in my election to this exalted position. That I should have been chosen unanimously Grand Master of Glasgow without my having sought for the dignity—I might say against my own desire—is indeed an honour that I have some reason to be proud of (applause). But I must candidly tell my brethren that I do regret that some one more worthy than myself, and more able to fulfill the duties of the office, had not been elected to my place—a more worthy successor to our late lamented P.G.M., Captain Speirs—lamented as a brother, lamented as a nobleman, lamented as a statesman, and lamented as a husband. Throwing myself upon your indulgence, and trusting to your aid and support, I have accepted the honour, and will to the best of my abilities discharge my duties (applause). We have to regret to-night the absence of our venerable Grand Master, the Earl of Dalhousie, who is obliged to go to a warmer climate during our severe winter months. We also regret that our Grand Hereditary Master, the Earl of Roslin, is at this moment in London presiding over another assembly, and could not of course be with us. I must now take this opportunity of addressing a few words to the brethren on a subject of much interest to the Freemasons of Glasgow. Some time ago the Craft in Glasgow resolved on the erection of a suitable hall in which the various lodges in the province might meet, and at a meeting presided over by my predecessor in office (the late Captain Speirs) it was resolved that a suitable hall should be erected in Glasgow, and with a view to accomplish this object a company was formed, and a secretary and law agent appointed. A considerable number of shares were taken up by noblemen and gentlemen taking an interest in the prosperity of the Craft in Glasgow, and among others, the Grand Master, the Earl of Dalhousie, who is honorary president of the company and a shareholder. This is an object which ought to require no recommendation to be taken up by the Masons of Glasgow. At the present time the various lodges meet in small and inconvenient halls throughout the city, and there is not that compactness nor unanimity of arrangements among the respective office-bearers which is a distinctive feature of the Craft large English cities. In this respect we are low the standard to which most of the small English towns have attained, and when we take into consideration the very influential position which Glasgow occupies among the cities in Great Britain, it surely says little for the Craft in Glasgow that a proper hall or lodge has not long since been erected by us. I have reason to know that although this matter has lain in abeyance in consequence of the lamented death of Captain Peirs, it is now to be taken up with vigour; and you will permit me to express the hope that you will become shareholders of the company, as well as making it one of your greatest endeavours to influence as many members of the Craft as possible to become shareholders. This is a matter that requires an effort to be put forth ere it can be accomplished, but surely if we unanimously resolve to take the burden on our shoulders it shall be done, and when it is accomplished I have no hesitation in thinking that it will cement the friendship among us, consolidate the Craft, and make Glasgow occupy that position in Masonry which it does in wealth and importance among the great cities of the empire. (Applause.)

In the name of the Freemasons of Glasgow I now beg to thank the strangers for their presence to grace our annual festival, more particularly the ladies, whose bright eyes and happy smiles added such brilliancy and delight to our assembly. Obligated as we Masons are to hold our ordinary meetings in solemn Conclave within guarded walls, where no bright eyes may penetrate, it is a great relief to us to be able to meet here, and have those we love best and dearest around us. (Applause.) No man or woman can be happy alone—our real pleasures, our joys, our happiness, can only exist in the fellowship of our brethren of mankind. We are entirely dependent upon one another, not only for gaining the means of our existence, but for making the lifetime of that existence bearable. How little do we think of this when pushing our way through the world; and how seldom do we realise how much our own happiness depends upon the happiness of others—all is well illustrated by our meeting here together this evening. (Applause.) It is very remarkable to observe how mankind associate together, forming bonds of union. Studying the pages which record the history of the world, we find the inhabitants of this earth of ours united together, as it were, in different great families—each family speaking the same language, following the same customs and laws, and living in peace together. But when one of these communities of mankind comes in contact with another, their difference of language, diversity of customs and laws—like two opposite electric currents—repel each other with violence, and war is the result. The weak succumb to the strong, but they unite with other weak unions, and the strong is overcome in turn; they again join others, and thus the strife is prolonged. Communities for common defence form common laws, learn to speak the same tongue, accept a common leader, and become a nation. Such has been the history of all the nations in the world. But let us follow a little further the history of these peoples or nations. They again are absorbed into kingdoms and empires. Where are now the different peoples united under the rule of the Czar of Russia, the Emperors of France and Prussia and Austria? In our own land the English, Scotch, and Irish nations are one. To the many, ancient tongues are but little known; and the time seems to be approaching when nearly all the civilised world will speak one universal language. Even now we might say there are but four or five useful languages. We find also that the different peoples all over the world are gradually assimilating their customs, habits, and laws. That great power, drawn from its hiding-place by an immortal Watt, has made such highways in every ocean that nations run to and fro upon it, embracing each other in the peaceful arms of commerce; and the iron horse snorts in every land impatient in the work of carrying knowledge and goodwill to all men, whilst the Spirit of Light, watching these great efforts, calms the ruffling tempers of men by flashing harmony and concord from pole to pole. Brethren, in this wonderful age in which we live the great walls which divided nation from nation seem to be crumbling down, and the peoples appear to be uniting to acknowledge the rights of civil and religious liberty, and speak the common language of brotherly love. Brethren, we may not be called upon, as the brethren of our most ancient order were in ages past, to rear stately monuments and build great temples; but let us go on in the noble work we aim at—in building up the moral and intellectual powers of ourselves and our fellow-men, and so leave nobler and greater living monuments behind us, rearing that temple where justice, charity, and love are supported upon the stately pillars of truth, making every stone praise to the great I Am. (Applause.)

The musical part of the programme was sustained by Miss Bessie Aitken, Miss Lily Boyd, Mr. Hamilton Corbett, Mr. Robert Fraser, and Mr. J. W. Crawford. Mr. E. Berger was pianist.

A full dress assembly took place after the concert.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Royal Jubilee Lodge, No. 72.—The installation meeting of the Royal Jubilee Lodge, No. 72, was held on Monday evening, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, and was numerously attended. Bro. George Oxford, the excellent W.M., occupied the chair of K.S. with his usual excellent ability, and was supported by Bros. E. Dodson, as S.W.; H. Wright, as J.W.; Johnson, S.D.; Poole, J.D.; H. J. Webb, Treasurer; Joshua Nunn, P.M. and Secretary; the following Past Masters, Bros. Webb, R. Claub, Brandon, Lawson, and the following list of influential Masonic visitors:—John Thomas, United Pilgrim's Lodge, 507 (A Prince in Masonry); James Griffin, S.W. of the Doric Lodge, 933; Mandelst, United Strength; A. L. Row, 879; W. W. Smith, 890; Nash, of the Pythagorean, 79; Bonny, 79; Allatt, Southern Star Lodge, 1158; Thomas H. Pulsford, P.M. and Secretary, 1158; Vivian, 228 (W.M.); Child, Southern Star; Taylor, Vitruvian, 87; Henry Garrod, 709; Bisleys Robards, 228; C. L. Marshall, 22 (Neptune); Schroder, 193; W. Jones, 554; Clemow, Seitchell, and Charles E. Thompson, J.W., Southern Star Lodge. The minutes of the former lodge meeting having been read were duly seconded. Bro. Legge was passed to the second degree, and Messrs. Curry and Monday, M.D., were initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry. Bro. Dodson J.W., was then most ably installed into the chair of K.S., with which ceremony he was much impressed. After which the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet and dessert, superintended by Bro. Smith. The newly-installed W.M. proposed the health of "Her Majesty the Queen," which he said was a toast always received with pleasure and love. The toast was well received, the solo parts of the National Anthem being sung by Bro. Oxford, I.P.M. and Bro. Dodson.—The W.M. said the next toast was always received with pleasure amongst Masons, so it had been for 26 years past. It was the health of the "Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, M.W.G.M.," who had tendered his resignation from that high office, he hoped the G.A.O.T.U. would spare him to be of assistance to his successor, the Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon. (Hear, hear).—The W.M. said the toast of "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, P.G.M.," was the next on the list. He hoped he would be able to devote time to the interests of the Craft. They would be pleased to be upstanding.—The W.M. then proposed the health of the "Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, M.W.G.M.-elect."—Bro. Oxford, I.P.M., said he had much pleasure in bringing to the notice of brethren the "original jubilee punch bowl," which was thereupon ordered to be filled with the best punch, and handed round to the brethren; much kindly feeling was manifested.—The W.M. proposed the "Initiates," which he said was always received with gratification by the members, and also with equal gratification by the W.M. He was quite sure they would add additional lustre to the Royal Jubilee Lodge. He hoped they would take great interest in the Craft, and strive to arrive at the position he then held.—The Entered Apprentice's song by Bro. Oxford, caused much amusement, especially to the newly initiated brethren.—A Brother returned thanks, and said it had long been his desire to become a Mason, and he trusted he should deserve the title of a Mason in every sense of the word. Great honour had been done him in making him a Mason, which he would say in future they would never regret, but would see how highly he appreciated it. It was a most noble Order, and he was proud to have been introduced into it through the medium of the Jubilee Lodge.—The W.M. proposed the "Visitors, coupled with the name of Bro. Thomas," a real veteran in Masonry.—Bro. Thomas, in felicitous terms responded, and alluded to the time when Bro. Nunn went through his first installation, and assured the brethren that nothing could give him greater pleasure than to see so many happy faces, and he sincerely hoped the Jubilee Lodge would continue to work with that love and harmony which should always characterise Freemasons. (Hear, hear).—Another visitor from Canada having said a few words, the W.M. said his next duty was a very pleasurable one indeed, and he had the greatest possible confidence it would be received by the brethren with enthusiasm. It was the health of the "I.P.M., Bro. Oxford," and in proposing that, he begged on behalf of the members of the lodge, his acceptance of a handsome P.M.'s Jewel. (Cheers). The members, however, were not content with that, and he had a further equally pleasurable duty in introducing a handsome silver tea and coffee service, subscribed by the members, to his notice, and begging on their behalf his acceptance of the same, and an assurance of their high esteem of his merits. He (Bro. Dodson), felt particularly proud in having the honour of telling Bro. Oxford how much the brethren appreciate him. After some other congratulating and appropriate remarks, he read the following:—

"Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, City, Jan. 3rd, 1870.
"To Bro. George Oxford, P.M., Royal Jubilee Lodge, 72.
"Dear Sir and Brother,—Allow me on behalf of the Royal Jubilee Lodge, No. 72, to present you with the accompanying service of plate (raised by subscription amongst the members), as a mark of esteem in commemoration of your passing the chair for the second time. Hoping that you may live long to enjoy it. With the very best wishes for your welfare. I remain yours faithfully and fraternally.
E. DODSON."

It is almost needless to say great enthusiasm followed, and the toast was received with all the honours. An unusually good fire being given. Bro. Oxford responded in able terms, and the remainder of the evening was passed in fraternal conviviality.

Mount Lebanon Lodge, No. 73.—On Tuesday, December 21st, this lodge held its last meeting for the year at the Bridge House Hotel, and Bro. D. Rose, W.M., initiated two gentlemen into the Order. Bro. F. H. Ebsworth, S.W., was elected W.M.; Bro. E. Harris, P.M., Treas.; Bro. W. Aldhouse, T.; and Bro. W. V. Laing, Asst. T. A six-guinea P.M. jewel was voted to Bro. Rose, and after the lodge business was concluded the brethren adjourned to banquet. In addition to the brethren mentioned above, there were also present—Bros. M. A. Loewenstark, J.W.; J. Donkin, P.M., Secretary; G. Free, S.D.; R. Stevens, D.C.; A. L. Dussek, W.S.; F. Walters, P.M.; E. N. Levi, P.M., and a long list of brethren not in office.

St. John's Lodge, No. 90.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at Radley's Hotel, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, on Monday evening, the 3rd instant. The W.M. Bro. J. P. Griffin, was supported on this occasion by the following officers and brethren:—Bros. S. C. Hadley, S.W., W.M.-elect; Taylor, P.M., Acting J.W.; Gutierrez, S.D.; Eglesse, P.M. and Treasurer; Griffin, P.M. and Secretary; McDougall and Adam, P.M.'s; Bros. Strachan, Pidcock, Hunter, Ruston, Farrar, Hickman, and Rumbold. Bro. S. C. Hadley was installed in the chair of King Solomon, as Ruler of the lodge for year ensuing, the ceremony being most ably performed by Bro. Eglesse, P.M. and Treasurer of the lodge. The W.M. having appointed and invested his officers for the year ensuing, the lodge was closed in due form. The brethren adjourned from labour to refreshment in the banqueting room, where Bro. Hart had prepared a banquet in his usual elegant style. The visitors present on the occasion, were Bros. Patten, P.G.S.B. and Sec. of the Girls' School; Fawcett, P. Prov. Grand Organist; Cordwell, W.M. Fidelity, No. 3; Willey P.M. Albion, No. 9; Harcourt, P.M. Neptune, No. 22; Rosenthal, P.M. No. 92; Muggeridge, P.M. No. 192; Dosell, P.M. No. 55; Hardy, P.M. No. 752; Leath, St. John's, No. 167; Chapple, Royal York, No. 7; A. McDougall, No. 3; Webber, No. 907. After the Banquet the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, including that of our Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, P.G.M., and the brethren broke up at an early hour after passing a most enjoyable evening.

Lodge of Temperance, No. 169.—This lodge met on the 16th December, at the White Swan, High-street, Deptford, Bro. J. D. Woodland, W.M., in the chair. One brother was passed to the F.C. degree, and Bro. J. T. Moss, a P.S.W., was elected by a majority to fill the office of Master. Bro. J. Barrett, P.M., was elected Treasurer, and Bro. J. L. Winn, T. A five-guinea jewel was voted to Bro. Woodland on his becoming one of the P.M.'s, and after the lodge was closed the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet. Bros. A. Pulley, S.W.; Marshall, J.W.; G. Brown, P.M., Treas.; J. T. Tibbal, P.M., Sec.; J. Rosentock, S.D.; Tippet, J.D.; T. Littlecott, I.G.; G. Bolton, P.M.; N. Wingfield, P.M.; Nowlan, P.M.; J. Searl, P.M.; F. Walters, W.M. (871); G. J. Loe (73), and C. G. Dille, S.W. (1155) were present during the evening.

Royal Oak Lodge, No. 871.—This lodge assembled on Wednesday week at the Royal Oak, Deptford. Bro. F. Walters, W.M., passed Bros. Dawe, Simmons, Harman, and Pakes, but having to attend the Board of Benevolence to support the case of a widow, he deputed Bro. Andrews, P.M., to pass Bro. Lea and initiate Mr. C. Letton. £5 was voted to the Male Annuity, making £25 given to the same charity in three successive meetings; the lodge was then closed, and the banquet followed. Bros. Barrett, Collington, P.M., Treas.; Hawkes, Andrews, Killner, Whiffen, Ellis, Dalziel, Reed, Truelove, Turner, King, E. Harris (73), Roper (147), Patte (147), H. Muggeridge (192), Barnes (700), and Terry (1278), &c., were present.

Lodge of Temperance in the East, No. 898.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Assembly Rooms, Poplar, on Wednesday, the 29th ult. At six o'clock the W.M., Bro. Cannon, sounded his gavel, and Bros. Marfleet, S.W.; Drummond, J.W., pro tem.; Williams, S.D.; Stewart, J.D.; Shayer, I.G.; Deveson, P.M., Treas., and many other members, opened the lodge in the first degree, when the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Ballot then took place for Mr. William Allan, the eminent barge-builder of Lower Shadwell, which proving unanimous, a little disappointment was evinced when it was announced that pressing business would prevent his attendance that evening. Mr. Henry Rogers, whose ballot had also been successful, was introduced and admitted to the privileges of Ancient Freemasonry; the whole ceremony was very neatly done. An itinerant brother, from a lodge in Edinburgh, under the Scottish dispensation, whose certificate appeared to be well thumbed, and had a peculiar and inexplicable ink-erasure at the back margin, was relieved with ten shillings from the lodge funds. Captain Owen, of the clipper Flying Cloud, and Mr. Isaac, Lighterman, of Limehouse, were proposed for initiation on the last Wednesday in this month. The business of the evening being concluded, the lodge was closed, and the brethren retired to the banqueting-room, where a sumptuous Christmas dinner awaited them. Amongst the visitors we noticed Bros. West (British Oak), Osborne (P.M., Neptune 22), Wiggins (217), Abbot (P.M., 217), Shaw (P.S.W. and P.P.S.W., 496), Batten (174), and a West Indian brother, perfectly black, named Williams, who hails from Lodge No. 217. The customary loyal, and Masonic, and routine toasts were proposed and responded to, with the usual east-end heartiness. "The White Squall" (Duncan), "The Musketeer" (Batten), "The Charming Young Widow" and the laughable recitation of "The Frenchman and his Family" (Osborne), contributed to the amusement of a snug jovial party of about forty. In the course of the evening it was elicited that the black visiting brother (Williams), shipped for a voyage immediately after his initiation and payment of his private and Grand Lodge dues; upon his return to England, during the summer recess of his lodge, being desirous to receive his second and third degrees in this country, the W.M. of the Lodge Temperance in the East (898) most kindly acceded to the applicant's request, and he became a Master Mason. But the strange part of the business is, that his mother lodge repudiates and disowns him, while the Grand Lodge books show three months' quarterage and initiation fees registered for him, and when the good-hearted, quiet fellow tendered his back dues, they were rejected. If the colour of his skin be the present objection, surely he is not a whit blacker now than when he paid his yellow sovereigns to be initiated.

Southern Star Lodge, No. 1158.—An emergency meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Monday evening, January 3, at the Montpellier Tavern, Walworth. Bro. R. E. Clarke, W.M., presided. Bros. Bayfield, S.W.; C. E. Thompson, J.W.; supported by the rest of the officers, amongst whom were Bros. H. Thompson, P.M., and Treas.; T. H. Pulsford, P.M., and Sec., &c. The lodge having been opened in due form and with solemn prayer, Bros. Rippen, Allan, and Leppard were questioned and entrusted, and afterwards passed to the second degree. The lodge was resumed to the first degree, when it was announced that Messrs. Joseph Clayton, Govan Macdonald, and George Parr were candidates for admission into the noble order. They were severally introduced and very impressively initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. At the conclusion of this ceremony it was made known that Bro. C. Radford had arrived, and was desirous of taking his second degree, upon which the W.M. at once volunteered to vacate the chair to allow Bro. Thompson, P.M., to perform that ceremony for his friend Radford, he having by similar courtesy allowed him to initiate him into Freemasonry. The ceremony was very carefully performed. Some propositions for the next meeting having been made, the lodge was closed in due form. Afterwards the brethren adjourned for slight refreshment, and the W.M. in very appropriate terms proposed the health of their newly-initiated brethren, which was cordially drunk. The newly-initiated severally returned thanks. Bro. H. Thompson, P.M., said although this was not a regular meeting, he thought the brethren would be guilty of a great neglect of duty, if they separated without drinking the health of the W.M., whose kindness and courtesy were so well known to them that he should not occupy their time in dilating upon them. Suffice it to say he was esteemed by them, and he called upon them to drink his health in a bumper, a request that was readily and enthusiastically responded to. Bro. Clarke, W.M., expressed his gratification at the envied mark of favour he had received at their hands, but Bro. Thompson had spoken of him far beyond his deserts, although he would do all in his power to promote the prosperity of the lodge. The meeting was rendered especially agreeable by some excellent songs during the evening.

PROVINCIAL.

CHATHAM.—Royal Kent Lodge of Antiquity, No. 20.—This lodge met on Monday, 29th ult., when, after the usual preliminary business, Bro. O. J. Carter, P.G.S., was duly installed as W.M. by Bro. Keddell, P.P.G.J.W. The following are the officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Fowle, S.W.; Coles, J.W.; Skiller, Treasurer; Downing, Hon. Sec.; F. Edwards, S.D.; J. Edwards, J.D.; and Geo. Watson, I.G. About fifty brethren, including numerous P.P.G. officers, sat down to the subsequent banquet, which was enlivened by the band of the Royal Marines.

WARRINGTON.—Lodge of Lights, No. 148.—The regular and annual meeting of this lodge took place on St. John's Day, December 27th, at the Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M. the lodge was opened by Bro. H. B. White, P.M., P.Z., Prov. G.D., who was supported by Bros. W. Mossop, S.W.; W. Richardson, J.W.; John Bowes, P.M., &c.; W. Smith, W.M.-elect; Jos. Maxfield, P.M.; Jas. Hepherd, P.M.; Robt. Stevenson, P.M.; Jas. Jackson, Jos. Cassidy, Thos. Morris, W. H. Robinson, T. M. Pattison, Org., A. F. Huttman, B. P. Coxon, C.E., Thomas Jones, Rev. J. Nixon Porter, John Harding, W. Fletcher-Wood, John Pierpoint, W. Woods, George Bailey, J. Hannah, and James Johnson, Tyler. Visitors: Bros. Rev. F. Terry, Prov. G. Chaplain, Cheshire; Rev. J. W. Newall Tanner, P. Prov. G. Chaplain, Cheshire; Thos. Croxton, P.M., Prov. G. S. Deacon, East Lancashire; E. C. Cooper, W.M. No. 484; J. Greaves, P.M. No. 277; Jas. Parr, P.M. No. 1213; E. Aukland, W. Crompton, and James Parry, No. 1250. The lodge was opened with prayer, when the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Bowes was then called upon to take the chair of K.S. as Installing Master, when he opened the lodge in the 2nd degree. Bro. Robert Stevenson, P.M., assisted by Bro. Jos. Maxfield, P.M., presented Bro. William Smith, the W.M.-elect, for the benefit of installation. The Installing Master then recited some of the qualifications necessary in every candidate for the Master's Chair, after which Bro. H. B. White, P.M., &c., as Secretary, read the summary of the ancient charges and regulations, to all of which the W.M.-elect gave his assent; the ceremony was then proceeded with and in due time a Board of Installed Masters was opened, and Bro. Smith regularly installed in the chair of K.S. The W.M. was saluted and proclaimed in each degree, after which he appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. B. F. Coxon, S.W.; Jas. Jackson, J.W.; Rev. W. Whitelegge, Chaplain; H. B. White, Treas.; John Bowes, Sec.; Rev. J. Nixon Porter, S.D.; Percival Pearce, J.D.; John Harding, I.G.; Jas. Johnson, Tyler. The charges to the W.M., Wardens, and brethren were delivered, by special request, in a correct and most impressive manner by Bro. Thomas Croxton, P.M., Prov. G.S.D., E.L. Heartly good wishes were expressed by the visitors and duly recorded, by the Secretary, and the lodge was closed with the usual solemnities. The brethren then adjourned to the Lion Hotel for the banquet. The chair was filled by the W.M., Bro. W. Smith, while the Wardens occupied their constant places. Some additions were made to the numbers, and the catering of the Stewards, Bros. Coxon and Pennington, proved most satisfactory. Grace before and after meat was said, in the absence of the Chaplain, by Bro. the Rev. J. Nixon Porter. The cloth having been withdrawn, the W.M. proposed the first toast, "The Queen and the rest of the Royal Family," in a few well-chosen remarks; this was followed by "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.P.G.M.," and received with enthusiasm. The W.M. in proposing the next toast "The Army, Navy, Militia, and Volunteers," referred to the many brave deeds which marked the history of the Army and Navy, and doubted not that if necessity arose the Militia and Volunteers would prove equal to the occasion.—Bro. Captain Cartwright responded, and in a spirited speech made some very appropriate remarks.—Bro. J. Greaves, P.M., supplemented the remarks of the previous speaker.—The W.M. proposed "Our Masonic Rulers, Supreme and Subordinate."—Bro. H. B. White, P.M., &c., proposed "The Prov. G. Masters of Cheshire, East Lancashire, and Cumberland and Westmorland," and in doing so paid well-merited compliments to those three distinguished brethren. Bro. the Rev. F. Terry in responding for the first-named, made some excellent remarks, and referred at great length to the subject of education, the present position of the Boys' School, and the duties of the Craft in relation thereto.—Bro. Croxton, P.M., in responding for the R.W. Prov. G.M. of East Lancashire, showed what had been effected in that province on behalf of the Boys' School, and referred to the warm interest taken in the subject of education by the Prov. G. Lodge. He also referred to his long friendship with the Installing Master of the day, Bro. Bowes, and the interest he felt in the Lodge of Lights, No. 148.—Bro. Bowes, P.M., Past Prov. G. Reg. Cumberland and Westmorland, thanked Bro. White for coupling his name with a toast of much importance. He assured them that the Prov. G. Master, Lord Kenlis, his deputy, Colonel Whitwell, M.P., and the other officers of that Northern Province, merited their warmest commendations. Having held active office for three years in the province he had had opportunities of witnessing the interest, he was bound to say rather the enthusiasm, which one and all brought to bear on all connected with the well-being of the Craft. On behalf of the Province of Cumberland and Westmorland he begged to thank them. The speaker then drew attention to the fact that they celebrated their festival on St. John's Day, and gave the reasons why the brethren of the "mystic tie" paid so much honour to that Saint. The speaker continued, that day he had the pleasure, with their assistance, of installing their W.M. He could not express, in words, the gratification he had experienced, because he well knew their venerable W.M. would shed light and lustre to all around him. He now begged to propose the next toast on the list, and he must request the Wardens to see all were full charged in the West and South. He knew the toast would be drunk with the greatest enthusiasm and needed no words of his to commend it, "Bro. William Smith, W.M., No. 148," and may T.G.A.O.T.U. long spare him to admonish them to practice out of the lodge the duties they were taught in it? (The toast was drunk most heartily and with full honours.)—The W.M. most feelingly replied, and in the course of a long and interesting speech showed that while all could not expect to render the ritual as they had seen and heard it rendered that day, yet all might in their daily life practice those great and glorious principles upon which their noble art was founded. He next proposed, "The Past Masters and Officers of No. 148," and said that the reputation the lodge now had was owing to the skill and ability with which his predecessors had managed its concerns.—Bro. Maxfield, P.M., responded, and said the lodge was a model lodge, and their thanks were especially due to Bros. White and Bowes, for the years of hard and continuous labour they had bestowed upon it. In his day they went on in a quiet sort of a way and did their work as well as they knew how, but now the Lodge of Lights was notorious for good working.—Bro. Robert Stevenson, P.M., proposed "The W.M., Wardens, and Members of the Gilbert Greenall Lodge, No. 1250," which was responded to by Bro. W. Woods, J.W.—The W.M. said there was an absent brother whom they must not forget. Bro. Finney, now I.P.M., had been a faithful Master, and an interesting event deprived them of his company—he was to be married in London the next morning. He begged to propose his health, which was received very warmly, and duly honoured.—Bro. Hepherd, P.M., said there were two brethren in the lodge to whom they delighted to accord special thanks, he referred to Bros. White and Bowes. They had, as Bro. Maxfield had rightly observed, raised the lodge to a position far above what it ever attained before. He proposed their good healths. (Drank with enthusiasm and with musical honours.)—Bro. White expressed his thanks, and said that for a long time he had left matters in the hands of Bro. Bowes, and as they knew with advantage. His own professional engagements prevented him from giving so much of his time as he had done in years gone by; but he was delighted to find that Bro. Bowes still found it convenient to be present at every lodge meeting, and ready to help in any or all the ceremonies.—Bro. Bowes also responded, and referred to the many happy hours he had spent in the lodge room, and expressed his willingness to lend "a helping hand" at all times, whether in No. 148 or No. 1250. Bro. the Rev. Nixon Porter, proposed "The Visitors," which was responded to by Bros. Parr, P.M.; P. Robinson, P.M., and Cooper, W.M., 484. The other toasts proposed were, "The Musical Brothers," "The Charities," and "The Tyler's Toast." We must not omit to state that the proceedings of the evening were greatly enlivened by songs and glees, well rendered by Bros. Woods, Pearce, Bancroft and Goodreid, conducted by Bro. T. M. Patterson, Organist.

BUDLEIGH.—Lodge of Harmony, No. 372.—The annual meeting of this lodge in celebration of St. John's day, took place on Monday the 3rd inst., at the Rolle's Arms Hotel, Salterton. The lodge was close tyled at high twelve, when the usual preliminaries having been gone through, the ceremony of installation was proceeded with, and very ably and impressively rendered by Bro. B. T. Hodge, M.D., P.M. (164), P.P.G.J.D., and W.M. (164). This being concluded the W.M., Bro. H. J. Stickland, from the chair of K.S., assisted by the Ins. M., appointed his officers as follows:—H. Scott, chemist, S.W.; Capt. W. E. Stone, R.N., J.W.; H. Scott, Treas., J. Kelly, Sec.; Hayman, S.D.; Knott, J.D.; Gale, I.G.; Pratt, Tyler; with an efficient staff of Stewards. The lodge was then duly closed, and the brethren present, numbering about thirty, adjourned from labour to refreshment, and at the festive board fully demonstrated to the worthy host (Bro. John Harwood), convincing proofs of their appreciation of his bountiful spread of viands and wines, retiring at an early hour enjoying the best fraternal feeling.

LINCOLN.—Witham Lodge, No. 374.—On the Festival of St. John, the members of the above lodge met to elect officers for the ensuing year. Bro. R. C. Carline was installed W.M., and he afterwards appointed his officers, as follows:—Bros. W. E. Watkins, S.W.; R. J. Ward, J.W.; C. Scorer, S.D.; E. J. Cullen, J.D.; F. R. Larken, M.C.; J. G. Bayles, I.G.; G. Bacon, Sec.; W. Mason, Org.; W. Huddleston, Treas.; H. Cotton, Lodge Steward, and C. Mann, Tyler. At the conclusion of the business, the brethren adjourned to the Monson Arms Hotel, where their annual banquet was provided.

BERWICK-ON-TWEED.—Lodge St. David, No. 393.—A large number of the members of this lodge assembled within their lodge-room, Church-street, Berwick-on-Tweed, on the evening of Tuesday, 28th December, for the purpose of Installation of the office-bearers, who had been elected some time previous. The lodge being opened in due form, the installation ceremony was conducted by one of the Past Masters who addressed the Master-elect, Bro. J. S. Macgregor, and the other office-bearers in a becoming manner. Immediately on the conclusion of the ceremonial the lodge was closed, and the brethren retired to a suitable Hall where dinner awaited them, and spent the remainder of the evening in harmony.

HAYLE, CORNWALL.—Cornubian Lodge, No. 450.—The annual festival of this lodge was held on Monday, the 27th ult. The lodge was opened at twelve o'clock a.m., by Bro. John Coombe, P.M. and Sec., in the unavoidable absence of Bro. Frank Harvey, W.M. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and after the routine business had been transacted, the lodge was opened in the second degree, when Bro. Huthnance, W.M.-elect being in attendance was presented by Bro. Burall, P.M., after giving his assent to all the qualifications for W.M., he was regularly installed in the chair, strictly in accordance with the ancient custom. Bro. Huthnance having been proclaimed and saluted in the three degrees, then appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. F. Harvey, I.P.M.; F. H. Pool, S.W.; N. J. Easterbrook, J.W.; Frank Harvey, P.M., Treas.; John Coombe, P.M., Sec.; W. Hollow, S.D.; S. Woodman, J.D.; W. Rowe, Org.; T. Frost, I.G.; W. Bailey and M. L. Nicholls, Stewards. The finances of the lodge being in a flourishing condition, Bro. Mudge, P.M., moved the following resolution which was adopted, viz., "Resolved that the sum of £10 shall be given as a donation to the Cornwall Annuity Fund, £10 to the Boys' School, and £5 to the Girls' School. Notice was given that Tregenna Lodge, No. 1250, St. Ives, would be opened next month, and twelve of the brethren from that district sent in their resignation, intimating that they intended joining the new lodge. After the regular course of business, the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous banquet, served in most excellent style according to the custom of Bro. Cratch. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and the Tyler's toast brought the meeting to a close. There was some very excellent singing during the evening, accompanied by Bro. Rowe (Org.), on the pianoforte.

STOWMARKET.—Phenix Lodge, No. 516.—Last lodge night there was a full muster of this flourishing lodge. The first business after the lodge had been opened was to ballot for and initiate Mr. F. C. Long. The ceremony was done by Bro. Fred. Long, P.M., after this the W.M., Bro. J. W. Sheridan, was installed by Bro. F. B. Marriott, in his usual excellent manner. The installation having been completed, the W.M. appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. Francis Betts, S.W.; George Steel Golding, J.W.; E. Warner, S.D.; J. Davis, J.D.; C. H. Woods, D.C.; and Dr. Pearson, I.G. The Treasurer, Bro. Spencer Freeman, was unanimously re-elected, as was also Bro. John Robinson, Tyler. After transacting the usual business, lodge was closed and the brethren adjourned from labour to refreshment, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Amongst the visitors was Bro. Sutton, P.M. of the Medina Lodge, Isle of Wight.

STOKESLEY.—Cleveland Lodge, No. 543.—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the lodge-room at the Golden Lion Hotel, on Monday night, Bro. Stephen Hunter, P.M., W.M.; Bro. Henry Fawcett, B.A., S.W.; George Markham Tweddell, F.S.A. Scot., as J.W. (in the absence of his son, now studying scene painting under Mr. Beverley at Drury Lane); J. H. Handyside, P.M., Sec., &c. The lodge was opened in the first degree, when the minutes of the preceding meeting were read and confirmed, after which Bro. George Markham Tweddell and Henry Fawcett having both declared that their engagements were such as to prevent them from occupying the seat of K.S., Bro. Hunter was re-elected W.M. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, when Bro. Deaken passed a satisfactory examination as F.C., and retired until the lodge was opened in the third degree, when he was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The lodge was then closed down and the meeting declared duly adjourned until the Monday nearest the full moon in January, emergencies excepted.

IPSWICH.—Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 959, held their monthly meeting at the Masonic Hall, Ipswich, on the 3rd instant. Between twenty and thirty brethren, including two visitors, were present. After the confirmation of the minutes of the previous lodge, two gentlemen were ballotted for and accepted, one of whom was regularly initiated into the mysteries of the Craft. The office of Treasurer having become vacant, the brethren were summoned to elect a successor to the retiring Brother, when their choice fell upon Bro. G. S. Golding. The Secretary read a letter from H.R. Highness the Prince of Wales, M.W.P.G.M., expressing "the satisfaction it will give him to be enrolled as an Honorary Member of the Lodge, Prince of Wales, No. 959, of Free and Accepted Masons in the Province of Suffolk." Whereupon the W.M., the Rev. R. N. Sanderson, P. Prov. G. Chaplain, Suffolk, proposed, and P.M. Townsend, P. Prov. S.G.W., Suffolk, seconded, "That His Royal Highness Albert Edward Prince of Wales, Past Grand Master of England, be elected an Honorary Member of this Lodge," which proposition was carried unanimously and by acclamation. There being no other business before the lodge, it was closed in ancient and solemn form.

SCOTLAND.

HAMILTON.—Kilwinning Lodge, No. 7.—The annual meeting of this excellent lodge was held in the Masonic Lodge Hall in Bro. Arkle's Hotel, Hamilton, on Monday the 27th ult., (St. John's Day), for the election of office-bearers for the ensuing year, and their installation. The Right Worshipful Master having opened the lodge in the first degree, the quarterly accounts were read and approved of, when the following brethren were elected:—Bros. J. C. Forrest, R.W.M.; D. G. Dunn, S.W.; J. Allan, J.W.; Rev. A. C. M'Phail, Chaplain; Wm. Moffat, Architect; R. Archibald, Secretary; James Mackie, Treasurer; J. Brodie, P.M.; Thomas Minto, B.B.; S. S. Robertson, D.M.; William Munro, S.M.; A. Naismith, P.D.; Wm. Bowie, P. Keith, J. W. Thomas, and Wm. Sumerville, P.M.'s; J. F. M'Kenzie, Auditor; Thomas Welling and B. Mitchell, Tyler. The lodge having been called from labour to refreshment, the brethren adjourned, and afterwards repaired to the banquet table, over which Bro. J. C. Forrest presided, supported by the Rev. Bro. M'Phail and Bro. R. Archibald, Bro. D. G. Dunn acting as Croupier. Bros. A. King, C. Spalding, and D. Macnaughton were present as a deputation from the Provincial Grand Lodge, and amongst those present we observed a large number of brethren belonging to Lodge No. 233. With toast, song, and sentiment a very harmonious evening was spent, during which a handsome harmonium was presented to the lodge in name of the subscribers by Bro. Sumerville.

STIRLING.—Antient Stirling, No. 30.—A meeting of this lodge was held on Monday evening, the 27th ult., when the following office-bearers, previously elected, were installed into office, viz.:—R.W.M., William M'Leary; D.M., Archibald Merrilees; S.M., John Stevenson; S.W., E. M'Ally; J.W., Daniel Luke; Treas., William M'Gregor; Sec., G. N. Paterson; S.D., George Storry; J.D., James Lennie; Chaplain, H. Wood; J.G., H. F. Karrigan; Tyler, J. Costello.

COLTNESS.—St. Mary's Lodge, No. 31.—The members of this lodge held their annual festival on Monday the 27th ult., in Bro. Pender's hall. The following were the office-bearers elected:—Bros. Forrest, R.W.M.; Nicol, D.M.; Scott, S.M.; Wright, S.W.; Davidson, J.W.; M'Pherson, Treasurer; Muir, Secretary; Rev. James Dunn, Chaplain; Beattie, B.B.; Binnie, S.D.; Kerr, J.D.; Wood, S.S.; Ballantyne, J.S.; More, S.B.; Pender, L.G.; and Young, Tyler. After business, the lodge went to refreshment, when the usual Masonic toasts were duly given from the chair, and the evening spent in a very happy manner.

STIRLING.—Royal Arch, No. 76.—A meeting of this lodge was held in the Guild Hall, on the evening of the 27th ult., when the following office-bearers, previously elected, were installed into office, viz.:—R.W.M., Thomas Turnbull; P.M., G. Morrison; D.M., William Stretton; S.M., J. Anderson; S.W., John Vance; J.W., Lambert Hoping; Chaplain, Robert Forbes; Treas., Hugh M'Kay; Sec., James Brown; Clerk, John Davis; S.D., J. L. M'Gill; J.D., Hugh Crawford; Steward, R. M'Lachlan; Tyler, Thomas Robertson.

PAISLEY.—St. Mirren's Lodge, No. 129.—On Monday the 27th ult., the members of this lodge celebrated the Festival of St. John. The brethren met about half-past six o'clock in the evening, in their Hall in Moss-street, and after having masonically clothed themselves they marched, headed by the instrumental band of the Paisley Volunteer Corps, accompanied by flag and torch bearers, through the streets of the northern part of the town and thence to the new town, where the procession halted at the residence of Bro. Ex-Bailie Hamilton, in Thread-street. The Ex-Bailie is the oldest Mason in the town, and, as may be supposed, he was right heartily greeted. Leaving there, the procession recrossed the river to Causey-side-street, and refreshed themselves at the residence of their R.W.M. Bro. A. Wallace. The R.W.M. then joined in the procession, which proceeded to the west end, and returned by way of High-street to the Globe Hotel. Here the lodge was opened for a time, and several deputations from sister lodges were received in true Masonic style. Thereafter a large number of the members of the lodge and their friends sat down to dinner, and were presided over by the R.W.M. Bro. Wallace, the Senior and Junior Wardens, Bros. W. Foulds and G. F. Paton. The chairman was supported by Bros. A. M'Leod, P.M.; Hamilton, P.M.; J.

Wallace, D.M.; Gilmour, Hill, H. S. Edmonds, Secretary; W. L. Mair, Advocate, and others. After dinner, which was excellently served up and well purveyed, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were drunk with full honours, and then a deputation from the Renfrew County Kilwinning Lodge, No. 370, were received with great enthusiasm. A number of toasts followed. During the evening Bro. Gilmour presented to Bro. A. M'Leod, in the name of the lodge, a massive gilt timepiece, as a token of their respect for him, and in consideration of the faithful manner in which he had discharged his duties during the period he filled the office of R.W.M. Bro. Gilmour made a very appropriate address, and remarked that he was sure none deserved the esteem of the Craft more so than their worthy Bro. P. M. M'Leod. A handsome silver cake basket was also presented to Mrs. M'Leod. Bro. M'Leod returned his thanks for the tribute of recognition so kindly offered to him, and said that although his duties had been somewhat onerous from the fact that during his period of office he had had to assist in the opening of the Fountain Gardens and the laying the foundation-stone of the New Museum, still they were not to think that he was now going into the shade, for he was determined to devote his best services for the welfare of the lodge. (Applause). He also thanked them on behalf of Mrs. M'Leod. Several other toasts were afterwards drunk, and song and sentiment prevailed throughout a very convivial evening. The members of the Renfrew County Kilwinning lodge, 370, dined in the George Hotel.

Oban Commercial Lodge.—On Monday night, the 27th ult., the brethren of the Oban Lodge Commercial, held their 78th anniversary in their lodge, Bro. John Hunter, R.W.M., in the chair, the duties of which he discharged throughout in a most satisfactory manner. Besides the Right Worshipful Master, the Rev. R. L. MacGeorge and the Rev. P. M'Kercher, M.A., of Kilmore, Chaplains, and Bros. Gavin and Hardie, delivered most excellent and sensible addresses to an attentive and appreciative audience. The concert part of the proceedings included Gaelic and English songs, and was much relished. An assembly followed the soiree and concert. The hall was decorated with evergreens. A procession of the brethren of the lodge took place during the day.

MELROSE.—Lodge St. John.—This ancient lodge met on St. John's Day, 27th December, 1869, according to the custom of many years and even of centuries. It is one of the most ancient lodges in Scotland, dating its origin from A.D. 1136, the time of the building of Melrose Abbey; and is totally independent, having no connection with the Grand Lodge of Scotland. At the time of the formation of the Grand Lodge, in the early part of last century, the Melrose Lodge, although requested to join in it, refused to do so, and although offers of terms have since been made on the part of the Grand Lodge, they have always been rejected. The present position of the Melrose Lodge is that such its members have cause to congratulate themselves on the independence which they have continued to maintain, and may even be envied by the brethren of other lodges, who find the arbitrary despotism of the Grand Lodge rather hard to bear. There are at present on the roll of the Melrose Lodge, more than four hundred members, many of whom are men of high standing in that part of the country. The funds of the lodge are also in a very flourishing condition, and it has at its disposal in property and money more than one thousand pounds. This lodge has always been liberal in relieving the necessities of any poor brother, from whatever jurisdiction he may hail. It is enough that he is a brother and in want. The stranger is relieved as readily as if he were one of themselves. Members of other lodges, of whatever country, or jurisdiction, are also received in the kindest possible manner, and admitted to all Masonic privileges along with the brethren assembled in the lodge. For a long time it has been the custom of this lodge to celebrate the festival of St. John the Evangelist, and on that day the annual election and installation of office-bearers take place. There is also in the evening, a torch light procession through the town and through the still splendid and beautiful ruins of the ancient abbey, coeval with the lodge itself, the Freemasons who built the abbey having been also the original founders of the lodge. This torchlight procession is an impressive sight, and may be regarded as an interesting link between the present and the distant past. The poet tells us that to "view fair Melrose aught" we must "visit it by the pale moonlight," and go alone to the grey ruins that are still so magnificent, so exquisitely beautiful, and so fraught with associations of other ages. But all the circumstances in which they are visited on the evening of the Festival of St. John are so different from what he describes, while the whole scene is one powerfully to affect the mind and never to be forgotten. The meeting of the lodge of St. John's Day, 27th December, 1869, took place as usual, and may be termed its 733rd anniversary, in their own Hall, High-street, Melrose. The lodge having been opened, the annual state of the funds was made up and laid before the brethren, after which they elected the following office-bearers for the year 1870:—Bros. Andrew Hart, R.W.M.; John Matheson, P.M.; William Myles, D.M.; Thomas Bunyan, S.W.; Robert Renton, J.W.; John Renwick, S.D.; Andrew Scott, J.D.; William Johnson, John Redpath, Standard Bearers; John Scott, William Romanes, R. White, C. Brunton, T. Boston, John Cochrane, John Mahone, Andrew Murdison, Stewards; James Fairbairn, Secretary; William Scott, Treasurer; Peter Jardine, Bible Bearer; Robert Tackett, Tyler. Immediately after the election and installation of these office-bearers eighty-six of the brethren sat down to a sumptuous dinner. Dinner being over many other brethren gathered at the door of the hall and were joined by those present at the dinner, and everyone being provided with a lighted torch, the remarkable annual procession already noticed took place; the light flashing on the houses as the procession passed through the streets, and on the partially dilapidated walls, the beautiful ornaments and tracings, the ivy, and the gravestones of the abbey. Thus has the ancient Lodge Melrose St. John kept the Festival of St. John the Evangelist for hundreds of years, and perhaps it may be said that every year the occasion becomes more interesting than before. The banners of the lodge waved in the air as they have done in many years gone past, as the procession moved along through the streets of Melrose and the devices upon them were clearly visible, even in the darkness of a moonless night, by the light of the numerous torches. The custom of the lodge is that the brethren march three times round the abbey, halting each time at the grave where the heart of King Robert the Bruce is buried, whilst the band plays the national air of "Scots wha hae." Patriotic ardour could hardly but be excited in such circumstances, the glorious remembrances of the past mingling with the facts of the present and animating hope for the future. After the procession the brethren returned to the lodge and spent the evening in harmony. During the evening Bro. Graham, S.W., presented a jewel of solid silver, indicating the five points of fellowship, to the R.W. Masters in all time coming. The lodge was then called from refreshment to labour, and closed in due form. This ancient Melrose Lodge deserves to be better known than it has hitherto been amongst Freemasons in general. Its whole history is interesting, its condition is extremely flourishing, and whilst maintaining a perfect independence, it has always done so in a manner honourable to the Masonic Order, and highly tending to the advancement of its interests.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

SCARBOROUGH.—Geoffrey-de-Bouillon Encampment.—This Encampment met at the Old Globe Inn, Globe-street, on Thursday, the 30th ult. The following Sir Knights were present: Sir Knts. W. F. Rooke, E.C.; J. W. Woodall, P.E.C.; Walter Reynolds, P.E.C.; W. H. Garnett, 1st Capt.; J. O. Surtees, 2nd Capt.; H. C. Martin, Registrar and Treas.; J. F. Spurr, Captain of Lines; J. Kendall, Expert; Verity, Equerry, and J. A. Chapman. The Encampment was opened at 7.30 p.m. The minutes were read and confirmed. Sir Knts. Armitage and Kendall were ballotted for, and unanimously elected joining members. Sir Knt. Walter Reynolds, P.E.C., (of the Hull Encampment), now took the chair as Installing Master, and installed Sir Knt. Surtees, as E.C. for the ensuing year, after which he appointed the following Knights as Officers:—E. H. Newton, 1st Capt.; J. Kendall, 2nd Capt.; H. C. Martin, Registrar; S. H. Armitage, Expert; Rev. H. Blane, Prelate; J. A. Chapman, Captain of Lines; J. Verity, Equerry. Sir Knt. Surtees returned thanks in a hearty manner for the honour done him, in electing him the E.C. Sir Knts. Woodall and Rooke, P.E.C.'s, proposed a vote of thanks to be recorded on the minutes to Sir Knt. Reynolds, the Installing Master, for having attended from Hull, a distance of nearly sixty miles, in very inclement weather, to perform the duties of Installing Master, which was carried unanimously. Sir Knt. Reynolds returned thanks in his usual kind-hearted fraternal language, assuring the Sir Knights he should always be most happy to render them such assistance in this, and the other degrees, as might at any time be required. The Encampment was now closed, and the E.C. retired, under the Arch of Steel, and the Sir Knights retired to their annual banquet, which was served up in Sir Knt. Chapman's usual very superior and satisfactory style. Ample justice having been done to the plentiful supply of good things, the cloth was removed, and the usual toasts were given and responded to. The Sir Knights separated at a seasonable hour, much pleased with the evening's business and enjoyments.

"Not being a Freemason, to my great regret, I may be guilty of some indiscretion, but I can give that holy and secret body some news. France, as well as Norway and Sweden, has declined to accept the King of Prussia as a member of any lodge or lodges. It is on account of a feeling against the Jewish race which is strong in the breasts of that very refined, clever, quick-sighted, intelligent people of Prussia. Heaven and earth! could Prussia possibly get somehow a little Oriental life into her? Professor Oppert, of "arrowhead" celebrity, has been making brilliant speeches on this subject at many meetings of Freemasons in the North of Europe."—Paris Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

THE BLOOD IN OLD AGE.—As age advances the blood becomes thin and cloudy—or, in a full habit, thick and cloudy. The failing of the powers of life requires extra nutrition and support, and the blood yielding the excess required is soon overcharged with carbon, which gives to it the cloudy appearance. Being then impure, day by day the vitiated matter increases, and the body suffers from a thousand ailments. "The Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, supplies the extra nutrition to the blood and restores to it its florid hue, and then the progress of decay is arrested and the ailments disappear—man lives out his days, and the sunset of life is unattended with suffering. Testimonials with each bottle from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore, General Wm. Gilbert, of the Indian Army; and Rev. Francis Monck, of "The Gospel Evangelist." Ordered also for Apothecaries' Hall, London. Sold by all druggists, in bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Pills and Ointment, each in boxes 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.—Caution: Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—[Advt.]

Important Notice.

The "Freemasons' Magazine" having ceased to exchange with the "Bauhutte," I now receive THE FREEMASON only, from which I translate all important news for my paper, and make use of historical facts and discoveries contained in its pages.

My personal Masonic friends in England and Scotland and all Masonic authors will oblige me, and at the same time do a service to the Craft, if they publish all their articles in THE FREEMASON exclusively, which is now THE medium for me to become acquainted masonically with all that is going on in Great Britain and Ireland.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

MASONIC RITES.

THE advantages of establishing a uniform system of work in the degrees of Freemasonry are so obvious, that few brethren, however conservative would feel inclined to oppose the adoption of any well-digested scheme to obtain so desirable a result. But the difficulties that beset the path of reform when calmly considered, we confess appear to be almost insuperable.

Most men are wedded to the language to which they have been accustomed, and can see beauties of style and elegancies of expression, which others regard as evidences of bad taste. There is one notable sentence in an address that is given during the installation ceremony in English lodges, in which Freemasonry is paid the doubtful compliment of being compared to a bleak mountain, "baring its bosom to the midnight storm." There are also gross anachronisms, and historical inaccuracies, which must be set right, but the chief stumbling-block, as we have already intimated, will be the reluctance of teachers to abandon their firmly-rooted ideas as to how the work should be done, and yet without mutual concessions a reformed ritual will be an impossibility. It may be well also to consider that even if English Masons succeed in setting their own house in order, so far as the mother country is concerned, it will be a work of time before the numerous foreign and colonial lodges under English jurisdiction acquire a thorough knowledge of the uniform system, and we much question the practicability of its being communicated to them at all, especially when it is understood that oral instruction is the only orthodox medium. There is another aspect to the question which should also be remembered. Freemasonry differs in its ritual, and even in its precepts, in almost every nation; no two "Masonic Constitutions" are absolutely alike, not even those of Great Britain and Ireland. A brief review of the various Masonic rites, practised throughout the globe may therefore prove not uninteresting at the present juncture. Let us begin with England: here we recognise the three degrees of Ancient Craft Masonry, namely, the Entered Apprentice, the Fellow Craft, and the Master Mason, together with what is termed, curiously enough, the "Order of the Holy Royal Arch," and yet although it is to all intents and purposes a separate degree, with different clothing, and rather heavy fees for admission, we are taught to believe it is not a degree, but simply the complement of Master Masonry. Again, we have the "Installed Master's" ceremonial, and a very beautiful rite it is, with peculiar secrets and vows, and yet it is not considered a "degree" in the ordinary signification of the word.

All Orders of Chivalry, such as the Rose Croix, Kadosh, Red Cross, or Templars, are permitted to meet in England under the ægis of the Masonic Order, their rights so far being secured by the Act of Union between the two Grand Lodges in 1813. In Scotland a different system prevails; there the Grand Lodge acknowledges the three degrees, and also the "Mark" degree, while it ignores the Royal Arch and the "Hautes Grades." In Ireland, all the symbolic and chivalric degrees work under the auspices of the same authorities, and great harmony is the result; the only defect being that it is extremely difficult for a brother to obtain admission to the higher grades unless he holds a good position, both in the social and Masonic worlds. We are bound to add, however, that this peculiarity is by many brethren considered a most admirable feature of the system.

In the United States of America they work the York Rite which is nothing more than an amplification of the degrees recognised in England. To the first three they add the "Mark Master," "Past Master," "Most Excellent Master," and Royal Arch," besides which in many States the Royal Arch is supplemented with degrees called "Royal and Select Master," and in other parts of America a degree designated "Super-Excellent Master" is likewise added. This degree, we believe, or something very much resembling it, is also practised in Ireland. American Masons are fond of the Knightly Orders, and in fact there are more Templars in the Great Republic than in all the earth beside. The "Ancient and Accepted Rite" may almost call the States its home, as that splendid but incongruous system of degrees has become an acknowledged Rite in Freemasonry mainly through the exertions of those brethren who formed the first Supreme Grand Council 33° at Charleston, in 1801, without any other warrant than their own sagacious perception of its imperative necessity to ensure the perpetuation of the degrees.

Turning to France, we find that our lively neighbours have been, so far as Freemasonry is concerned, "everything by turns, but nothing long." First they worked only the symbolic grades, then they invented the "Ineffable Degrees," or Rite of Perfection—the basis of the Ancient and Accepted Rite; afterwards, they struck out new paths, such as the Rite of Elected Cohens, the Rite of St. Martin, the Philosophic Rite, the "Adoniramites," the Rite of Adoption, or Androgynous Masonry, with many others too numerous to mention.

In 1786 the Grand Orient, seeing the folly of these novelties solemnly abolished them all, except the following four, which they added to the Craft degrees, namely, "Elect," "Scotch Master," "Knight of the East," and "Rose Croix." After adhering to this programme for many years, the Grand Orient now acknowledges not only the 33 degrees, but the Rite of Misraim, the Rite of Memphis, and all the other impositions that have been shamelessly palmed upon the Fraternity within the memories of living men.

Germany has also been a great field for Masonic charlatans, and ritual-mongers, Fessler, Schroeder, Zinnendorff, Hunde, Bahrdt, and Rosa are a few of the most prominent names, and in this country the infidel order of the "Illuminati" was first instituted.

At present, although great diversities in practice still exist, Freemasonry in Germany is well conducted, and has obtained a high place in the estimation of the people. To Holland the same remarks apply, but in Belgium the Order is in fierce conflict with the pretensions of the priests, and to such an extent is this feeling carried that many Freemasons are sworn not to accept the ministration of religion even on their death-beds.

Spain and Italy have but recently awoke from the ignoble trance of slavery and superstition; and although Freemasonry is gaining ground in both countries, it is so imbued with political principles, and so thoroughly identified with purely national aspirations, that we cannot class it with the Freemasonry which is familiar to English or American brethren. In the Northern States of Europe, the Masonic Institution flourishes under the protection of the State. In Sweden, the King is Grand Master, and the degrees worked are twelve in number, constituting what is denominated the Swedish Rite, of which the three highest are termed "Brethren of the Red Cross," and are said to be identical in tradition and ceremonial with the three grades of the "Red Cross of Constantine" now worked in England. It will be remembered that the Prince of Wales was received into Freemasonry in Sweden, where he attained the seventh degree, which is known by the name of "True Templar," "Templar Master of the Key," or the "Favourite Brother of Solomon." His Royal Highness also received the Cross of the Order of Charles XIII., which is conferred only on brethren of high rank.

The ceremony of initiation in Sweden is very impressive, and in no other country is the Masonic Order held in such high repute. We have thus indicated a few of the many Masonic Rites now existing throughout the globe, and our readers will perceive how tremendous would be the labour, how herculean the task to reconcile their manifold dissimilarities. However, we have one great consolation left,—that in every system the three degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, form at once its basis and its bulwark—upon the common platform of Craft Masonry, brethren from the North, East, South, and West, can meet and greet each other as members of one universal family—and while we retain this basis, it matters little whether A comes before B, or D before F; while we recognise the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man, it is a secondary consideration whether we place our wardens in the West or the South; from that ancient and illustrious source we all spring; from that mighty centre we all radiate; and it is by deeds, not words alone, that we can perform the true work of Freemasonry, and aid the progress of the whole human race.

We have received the following letter from Bro. T. W. Boord, and can only say that the "Item" referred to was furnished by a regular contributor, who copied it from the Echo newspaper. We regret, however, that the Masonic titles, which Bro. Boord disclaims, should have been appended to his name:—

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—I have to request you to insert in your next number, a statement that you copied the advertisement which appears in your impression of to-day under the head "Births," from the Times of the 30th ult., without my sanction or knowledge; the Masonic additions being your own.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

An Order known as the "Knights of Pythias" appears to be spreading fast in the United States. The presiding Officer is called "Worthy Chancellor," and he is assisted by a Vice-Chancellor, Scribes, Bankers, Trustees, Guides, and Stewards. There is also a Venerable Patriarch, who seems to be a superior Officer. There are now 500 lodges of this Order, with an estimated membership of 70,000; their receipts for 1869 are said to be half-a-million dollars. Dr. Abram G. Levy is the Grand Chancellor of New York, and is having what our cousins of that city call a "high old time" of it going about "instituting" new lodges. The Supreme Chancellor is a gentleman named Sam Read.

VIATOR.

BRO. J. BALLANTYNE AND BRO. CHAMBER'S CYCLOPEDIA.

Bro. Ballantyne in quoting an extract from Bro. Chamber's Cyclopedia, seems not to be aware of his belonging to our ancient and honourable Order. Bro. Chambers, the publisher of the Cyclopedia, has been a member of the Craft for many years, and is at present a member of the Grand Lodge of Scotland; and in a recent matter of Masonic interest showed great prudence of thought. He is respected and held in great esteem by the Scottish Craft. No doubt Bro. Ballantyne will be delighted, as well as others of the Craft in England, to hear of this.

CIPES.

ST. JOHN'S DAY.

The article appearing in THE FREEMASON of December 25th I endorse so far. Would the Craft throughout the world, who call themselves Christians, inform me what they would think of a brother calling himself a Christian who would stand up in a Grand Lodge and declare that we had nothing to do with the principles of St. John the Baptist, and his teachings to us were not worth a fig?

CIPES.

THE PROVINCE OF MIDDLESEX.

As an old Mason I am delighted to hear that Colonel Burdett has been appointed P.G.M. for Middlesex. No more popular appointment could have been made, as the gallant brother is a thorough Mason, and will show it in his administration of the affairs of the Metropolitan Province. His appointment affords another proof that the Grand Master values the opinion of the Middlesex brethren, as they recommended Colonel Burdett to Lord Zetland without a dissentient voice.

Ego.

WILLIAM PRESTON.

The Masonic certificate of this celebrated man can now be seen framed and glazed in the Grand Secretary's office, Great Queen-street. It was found amongst the effects of the late Bro. Thiselton by Bro. E. Harris, who, greatly to his credit, lost no time in sending it to head quarters.

ANTIQUARIUS.

THE MASTER OF A LODGE.

The remarks of "Cipes," (p. 277), are, generally speaking, both good and useful, so also are those at p. 283. A good Master is a good thing for a lodge, an incompetent Master is a disgrace to all concerned.

LEO.

AN "ECHO" (p. 2).

"Echo" has certainly had his "growl," but getting startled at the sound of his own voice takes to his heels, as he informs us, never to come back again; such being the case, we can only wish him good speed.

LEO.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

Where the style A.L., or Anno Lucis, is adopted I am afraid that the figures "2515" give a highly erroneous idea of the period which really elapsed from the creation of Adam to the Exodus; 4,000 would be nearer it. For anything that happened between the time of Abraham and the time of Christ it is much better to say it happened so much "B.C." By doing so such debateable eras as those of the deluge, the creation of man, &c., are steered clear of.

LEO.

"LANDMARKS" BEFORE 1717 (p. 7).

Seeing speculative Freemasonry did not exist before 1717, but was then manufactured by Messrs. Desaguliers, Anderson, and Payne, who were none of them operative Masons, so far as I am aware, I should like to know how anyone can assert that before 1717 the old operative Masons practised speculative Freemasonry? Although gentlemen were admitted into the old operative Masonic societies, &c., before 1717, they did not thereby receive our doctrines, degrees, ceremonies, or secrets, for these were not in existence until after 1716. It must also be remembered that other trades as well as the Masons had their apprentices, fellows, masters, &c., &c., also that other tradesmen wore aprons as well as the Masons, and got them washed too; the Plumbers have a custom of wearing their aprons when working with the wrong side of the cloth out, but when walking they tuck it up round their waist and show the blue and white stripes. Mahomedanism originated about the beginning of the 7th century, yet if we adopt the Masonic style of reasoning we might prove it to be centuries older by showing that it contained ideas belonging to Judaism; however, it simply copied so much of these ideas as suited its purpose, so acted Speculative Freemasonry with Operative Masonry.

The British Museum has just received two remarkable stone statues from Easter Island in the Pacific, which exhibit on the backs a marking like that of the crescent and triangle, so common on the sculptured stones of Scotland.

A fragment of about 800 lines of an early "History of the Holy Graal," in alliterative verse, has been found in the noble Vernon MS. in the Bodleian, by the well-known editor of Early English texts, the Rev. Walter W. Skeat.

The New Vade Mecum (invented and manufactured by Charles H. Vincent, optician, of 23, Windsor-street, Liverpool) consists of a telescope well adapted for tourists, &c., to which is added an excellent microscope of great power and first-class definition, quite equal to others sold at ten times the price. Wonderful as it may seem, the price of this ingenious combination is only 3s. 6d., and Mr. Vincent sends it (carriage free) anywhere, with printed directions, upon receipt of post-office order or stamps to the amount of 3s. 10d.—[Advt.]

AN "812th ANNIVERSARY."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—I perceive a report in page 9 of your columns of the so-called "812th Anniversary" of the Lodge of Glasgow, St. John, No. 3 bis, but the idea of said Lodge having any real claim to so great antiquity is simply absurd; in fact, the idea is really what Bro. Captain Speirs, M.P., the late Prov. G.M. of the Glasgow Province, and late J.G. Warden of England, called it, viz.:—"an imposition." And "an imposition" which has been so well shown up that there is not the shadow of an excuse left for the office-bearers persevering in attempting to impose upon the public, and disgrace not only themselves and their lodge, but also the whole Craft at large. This "812th Anniversary" is based upon a pretended "original charter," said to have been granted to the St. John's Lodge, and the Glasgow Incorporation of Masons, by Malcolm III., King of Scots, which "charter" was "discovered" in 1806. However as the subject was handled by Bro. W. P. Buchan, in the Glasgow Daily Mail newspaper, of date 27th January, 1869, it will suffice to quote the following from his remarks there given, viz.:—

"Having discovered that there was no real ground in the document itself for making so absurd a statement as that it was granted by Malcolm the Third, I wrote to Professor Cosmo Innes, describing the document, to see if it were genuine at all, and if it might not be from Malcolm the Fourth. He wrote me back (1st March, 1868):—'There is no such charter as you describe by Malcolm the Fourth to the Incorporation of Masons and Lodge, but I shall be very anxious to see the writ which you can imagine to be that charter.' Upon seeing it, Professor Innes said:—'It is not a charter, but a document written within the last 150 years, or, give me plenty of time, and I shall say so at the utmost. It is made up of pieces taken out of different charters and stuck together; further, the individuals mentioned in it were not all alive at the same time.' I also asked Professor Innes how he knew before he saw it that it was not a real charter? when he very kindly wrote me—'It is too early for a charter of privileges or property to operative Masons or any other trade. Our first corporate charters were to burghs, and not till long after came those to the guilds and corporations within and under burghs; but there are no charters to burghs till William the Lion; so you see it did not require much sagacity to stamp the charter of Malcolm—full of the phraseology and the minute distinctions of a much later day—as a forgery.' As I have already stated, Mr. Hill and Professor Arnott coincided with the opinion of Professor Innes.

"This Malcolm document was brought forward a little before laying the foundation stone of Nelson's Monument in Glasgow Green (1st August, 1806), as the following from the minute books of St. Mungo Lodge shows:—Extract from letter from James Young, R.W.M., St. Mungo, No. 28, to Wm. Guthrie, Grand Secretary, dated Glasgow, 26th July, 1806. 'I have further to request your positive orders how I am to regulate myself in my official capacity as Master of St. Mungo Lodge here, being the senior lodge, the Glasgow St. John Operative Lodge claiming precedence of ours in the intended procession through their resting their claim on a pretended charter granted them by —, King of Scotland, anno 1051, but upon examining the book entitled History of Freemasonry, printed by Alex. Laurie, & Co., 1804, and addressed to the Earl of Dalhousie, G.M., I find that all lodges not holding of the Grand Lodge are excluded from holding any intercourse with constituted lodges at any procession or meeting whatever.' See pages 171 and 172, of Laurie's (1859) History of Freemasonry for account of ceremony at which 'The P.G.M., assisted by the brethren of Lodge Glasgow St. John, then laid the foundation-stone with the accustomed solemnities, &c.' The local influence St. John's possessed, therefore enabled it to be present, although it was not then connected with the Grand Lodge. The words 'St. Mungo Lodge, here being the senior lodge' merely means that it was then 'the senior lodge,' holding of the Grand Lodge.

At the laying of the foundation-stone of Burns's Monument at Ayr, in 1820, 'The Glasgow Freemen Operative St. John's Lodge,' were prevented from appearing, as they intended, in the procession, the P.G.M. refusing to recognise them, as they were not then on the Grand Lodge roll. They, in their letter to the P.G.M. stated they were the 'most ancient lodge in Scotland, they being erected by royal charter from Malcolm the Third of Scotland, in 1051.'

"As showing how difficult it is to put down an error once set up, it is only a few years since one of our P.M.'s altered the flag by turning 1051 into 1057, which was the first year of Malcolm the Third's reign.

"Dr. Anderson, writing about this 'pretended charter,' in his 'Memoirs of the House of Hamilton,' says, 'apart from other considerations, the writing is not above 200 or 300 years old.' He also says, 'it is easy to give the parchment the appearance of age.'

"Our 'pretended charter' is in Latin. It is 14½ inches deep by 12 inches broad, and contains 19½ lines of writing, reaching down about three-fourths of its depth, and appears as if intended for a seal, which is gone. The idea has struck me that the writer may have written out the English first, which he afterwards turned into Latin with the help of charters mentioned in M'Ure's History of Glasgow and elsewhere. If not, why did he not copy off the Latin from our 'pretended charter,' and print it? which would have been of more importance than the 'translation,' which could have been made at any time, and we could have seen if said translation were correct.

"Bro. D. Murray Lyon, Esq., one of our most accurate and painstaking Scottish Masonic scholars, characterises this pretended charter as 'the Malcolm Canmore swindle.'

"Our late P.G.M., Bro. Captain Speirs, M.P., also characterised it as 'an imposition.' He considered that he also had been imposed upon (although not necessarily intentionally), and thereby been caused to make statements which he would otherwise not have made. The following honourable extract is from a letter of his on the subject:—'I am very glad indeed that you have investigated the matter, and although we should have liked if our charter had been a genuine one, still, as it is an imposition, it is a good thing that it should be showed up, and I shall hope that the St. John's Lodge will get on better without it.'

"Need I say more about this 'forgery,' 'impudent forgery,' 'pretended charter,' 'Malcolm Canmore swindle,' 'imposition,' &c.? I trust not. I should have been most glad if our Malcolm writ had been genuine—we all wish so; but seeing it is not, what is the use in 'crying over spilt milk?' We only waste our time, when we might be better employed in building up our history on real historic data; but before we begin to build we must have a foundation; and past experience and the proof now brought forward must surely show us that nothing can be made of our Malcolm writ. It is a bad stone, and must be, sooner or later, heaved over; and I consider the sooner the better, knowing the wisdom contained in the remark of our departed brother and P.G.M., 'the St. John's Lodge will get on better without it.'—I am, &c., W. P. B."

After the above it would be superfluous to say more, only I might add that in 1850, when St. John's joined the Grand Lodge, the authenticity of this pretended charter was then unacknowledged, and the position of No. 3 bis given upon other grounds. I might also observe that even Glasgow itself did not receive its charter of erection as a burgh until 1175, far less did the Glasgow incorporation of Masons—which did not exist until long after—receive any royal charter from any Malcolm King of Scots.

As Bro. Buchan's name does not appear among the list of Masonic notables, we suppose he was not present at this "812th Anniversary."

I am, yours fraternally,
LEO.

A RE-ECHO.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Whilst joining with "Echo" in his congratulations, I also heartily join him in his remarks as regards your correspondent "Leo," who has mistaken his cognomen—it should have been Leadon. Poor fellow, ever since he was refused the dignity of the chair in his mother lodge, he (too bad) seems to have taken a spite at everything Masonic. Who wishes "proof" for everything—except one, and on that rock he has split.

I hope "Leo" will take unto himself the sage advice of "Echo."

Yours fraternally,
RE-ECHO.

A fine new mosque has been added to Constantinople. Being near the Konak of the Grand Vizier, it has been named Aali Pasha Jamissi; a great compliment to the learned and devout minister.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—[Advt.]

OPENING of a NEW MARK MASTERS LODGE AT SLEAFORD.

The St. Botolph Lodge of Mark Masters, No. 108, was consecrated by Bro. Binckes, G. Sec., at Sleaford, Lincolnshire, on Dec. the 27th.

This lodge was originated by Bro. E. Beverley Bogg, M.D., 30°, W.M. and I.P.M. of the St. Botolph Craft Lodge, and seems likely to assume an important position, being the only Mark Lodge in the province, and in the centre of a flourishing district.

Bro. Bogg is the first W.M. of the new lodge.

Bro. the Rev. Wm. Lynes, was balloted for as a joining member, and five members of the St. Botolph Craft Lodge were afterwards advanced to the degree of Mark Masters. Bro. Bogg then appointed Bros. Bellamy, S.W.; Jacobson, J.W.; T. J. Tomlinson, M.O.; the Rev. W. Lynes, S.O.; R. Sharpe, J.O.; and Bro. Chapman was elected Tyler.

The brethren then adjourned to Bro. Sharpe's, where an excellent banquet was awaiting them; after which they were delighted by Bro. Binckes' kindly genial eloquence, for which, and for all his fraternal kindness, they felt deeply indebted to him.

THE JEWELS OF THE LODGE.

On each side of the Blazing Star are disposed the Compass, Square, Level, and Plumb, which are called the moveable Jewels because they distinguish the Officers of the Lodge, and are transferable to their successors.

The mind of man would be his Compass; his conduct would be squared by strict rectitude and justice toward his fellow-creatures; his demeanour would be marked by the level of courtesy and kindness; while uprightness of heart and integrity of actions, symbolized by the plumb, which be his distinguishing characteristics; and thus guided by the Moveable Jewels of Masonry, he might descend the vale of life with joy in the hope of being accepted by the Most High, as a successful candidate for admission into the Grand Lodge above.

The Moveable Jewels used in the construction of the Temple consisting of gold and silver vessels, and other sacred utensils, amounted to £6,904,822,500; and the value of the stones, timber, ivory, brass, iron, and other materials, which were classed under the head of fixtures or Immoveable Jewels, at £150,000,000.

The Worshipful Master's Tracing Board is near the Blazing Star, while the corresponding Immoveable Jewels are considerably higher up towards the East, the one called the Brute Stone, the other the pointed Cubical Stone.

The Immoveable Jewels were formerly called the Trestle Board, the Rough Ashlars, and the Broached Turnel. The Tracing Board is for the W.M. to draw his designs on; the Rough Ashlar for the E.A.P. to mark an indent on; and the Perfect Ashlar for the experienced F.C. to try and adjust his Jewels on. They are termed Immoveable Jewels because they are distributed in places assigned to them in the lodge for the Brethren to moralize upon.—Oliver's Landmarks.

A MASONIC PRAYER.

The following form of prayer was used August 31, 1843, before the Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire, prefacing a Sermon on Freemasonry, by Rev. J. Osmond Dakeyne:—

"Let us pray for all sorts and conditions of men. And herein for our Sovereign Lady, the Queen, that she may be endued plentifully with heavenly gifts, and long reign over a loyal, united, and happy people; for Adelaide, the Queen Dowager, the liberal and pious patroness of those excellent schools which have been established for the orphan children of our poorer brethren; for Prince Albert, Albert Prince of Wales, and all the Royal Family. Let us pray especially for the Ancient Order, as members of which, we have this day assembled; particularly for the Most Worshipful, the Right Honourable the Earl of Zetland, Provincial Grand Master; for the Officers of the Grand Lodge of England, especially of that Provincial one to which we belong; for those who bear rule amongst us; for the Right Worshipful and Right Honourable, the Provincial Grand Master and his Deputy. Let us further implore the Most High to bless all private lodges, particularly those gathered together to worship in this His Holy Temple. May God present us in all our doings with his most gracious favour, and further us with his continual help, that in all our works, begun, continued, and ended, in His most Holy Name, we may promote the happiness of our fellow-creatures, and ever set forth His honor and glory—through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

"Our Father which art in Heaven," &c.

Our Exchanges.

Our files are certainly becoming formidable, as journals reach us now from all parts of the globe, some exclusively Masonic and others with Masonic departments.

For some time past the Chaine d'Union of Paris has come to hand regularly; it is an exceedingly well conducted paper, and contains much valuable information. In the number published on the 15th Dec., Bro. Dr. Montreul, a resident in London, contributes a well-written article on Masonic journals in England, in which he gives a fair summary of the contents of THE FREEMASON for three successive weeks. Bro. Montreul enumerates the "orders" or "rites" of Masonry practised in England as follows:—1. Symbolic Masonry, i.e., the Grand Lodge, and Grand Chapter. 2. Mark Masonry,—this puzzles the worthy doctor, who says it must have been a body of this description which recently refused admission to a brother from Havre. He avows his entire ignorance of the degree, but hopes to obtain some enlightenment as to its objects. 3. The Ancient and Accepted Rite. 4. Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, which he erroneously calls, Chapitres de Rose Croix particuliers, Rose Croix anglais. 5. Templars and Knights of Malta. 6. But here we must leave our esteemed brother. Independent Grand Lodge of Philadelphes!!! which he justly observes, is not reported by the English Masonic Press. We should think not, as we owe fealty and allegiance to our National Grand Lodge, and to that only. In the number for January 1st, Dr. Montreul writes a capital article on the Friendly Societies which abound in Great Britain, such as the Odd Fellows, the Foresters, &c., and he highly commends their practical benevolence; we confess however to being rather sceptical as to the doctor's figures, when he computes their number in the United Kingdom and the Channel Islands at 2,500,000. We like the Chaine d'Union, notwithstanding its absurd championship of the Rite of Memphis, and shall be glad to cull from its pages in future. Bro. Hubert is the Editor-in-Chief, and its locale is Rue de la Vieille-Estrapade, No. 9, Paris.

Masonic Tidings; Warsaw, New York; edited by Bro. J. Rawson. "Tidings my Lord, Tidings." Another welcome addition to our file; this paper is published monthly, and is full of useful information as to the sayings and doings of the Craft in the States. The worthy editor, we may remark, quotes with approval, our article headed, "A Glance Around." We wish the "Tidings" every success.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the only universal medicine of the present day, no combination of drugs can excel it in cooling, purifying, regulating, and operative qualities. The sun never sets upon the scene of its beneficial influence, no part of the globe fails to record its voluntary testimony to this medicine's merits. In lands both civilized and savage, it is the medicine of the million for the internal complaints of the human frame. This famous medicine gives tone and vigour to a debilitated constitution, and immediately restores to health those who suffer from sick headache, loss of appetite, impurity of the blood, or, in fact, any of the internal diseases that are not utterly beyond the reach of human aid.—[Adv't.]

PRESCOT.

On the 30th ult., the Prescott Lodge of Freemasons, No. 86, gave a Ball in aid of the funds of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, in the New Court Hall, under the following distinguished patronage:—Sir Thomas George Fermor-Hesketh, Bart., M.P., R.W. Prov. Grand Master, West Lancashire, &c., &c.; Lord Skelmersdale, R.W. Pro. D.G.M., West Lancashire; the Right Hon. the Marquis of Hartington, R.W.P.G.M., Derbyshire; Le Gendre N. Starkie, Esq., P.G.W. West Lancashire; Lord de Tabley, R.W. Prov. Grand Master, Cheshire; the Right Hon. Viscount Combermere, R.W.P. Prov. D.G.M., Cheshire; Stephen Blair, Esq., Prov. Grand Master, East Lancashire; A. H. Royds, Esq., V.E., Prov. Grand Commander of K.T.; W. H. Wright, Esq., D. Prov. Grand Commander of K.T.; T. Wylie, Esq., Prov. G.R., West Lancashire; H. S. Alpass, Esq., 30° Prov. G. Sec., West Lancashire; J. Hamer, Esq., Prov. Grand Treasurer, West Lancashire; H. Bulley, Esq., Prov. S.W., Cheshire. The Committee appointed for making arrangements in connection with the ball was composed of the W.M. of the Lodge, Bro. T. Prescott; Bros. J. W. J. Fowler, J. T. Hall, J. T. Birchall, S. Morris, J. Fowle, A. Field, R. Young, W. Holme, &c., &c.

About nine o'clock the company began to arrive, but it was not until half-past nine that the dancing commenced. The Hall presented a splendid appearance as the gentlemen and their fair partners arranged themselves for the opening quadrille. The decorations of the Hall itself had been arranged with most admirable good taste, festoons of flowers and evergreens, gay silken banners, the arms, badges, and devices of Knight Templar, Companions, Masons, and Fellow Craftsmen, mysterious and awe-inspiring to the observer. Splendid mirrors reflected the graceful forms of many "ladies faire," whose smiling countenances and flashing eyes told how eagerly they had looked forward to the pleasures of the dance. The handsome costume of the Knights Templar, the flowing mantle, on which was worked the red cross, and the brilliant decorations of the Royal Arch and other high degrees conspired to render the scene one which was more likely to excite the admiration and lead to the bewilderment of the on-looker than to endow him with the ability to pourtray on paper a scene so exciting and entrancing. That the brilliancy of the assembly was heightened in a very great degree by the brethren of the Craft appearing in full Masonic costume was unquestionable, jewellsparkling with rich gems of various hues, silken sashes of many colours and adornings, and the well-known Masonic apron itself, appearing in as many shades of colour as a stand of 24 varieties of roses at a flower show, must be allowed their due weight in the general effect produced. In front of the hall a large circle of gas jets had been fixed, which illuminated in a most brilliant manner the approaches to the building. That the Craft on the occasion produced a most favourable impression upon the ladies was very evident, and as one result, we should not be surprised to hear of Lodge 86 having a considerable accession of members, enlisted by the ladies, who will now, no doubt, forgive there being any secret connection with an institution which afforded them some hours of intense and unbroken amusement. A considerable number of officers of the Volunteers were present in their uniforms, and, of course, they too added to the general effect. In the matter of numbers, also, the Ball was a decided success; many had come a considerable distance to the Ball. The dancing terminated about four o'clock in the morning, and the whole of the company were highly gratified with the entertainment, voting it to have been a most brilliant reunion.

The preliminary arrangements were carried out by a committee of which Bros. J. W. J.

Fowler, J. T. Hall, and Capt. Birchall were prominent members. The lodge is under great obligations for their indefatigable exertions prior to the Ball, to ensure its complete success. Those who have never performed similar duties, can have but little idea of the amount of labour required to be gone through.

Present:—Bros. T. Prescott, W.M. (86); Capt. Birchall, S.W. (86). Sir Knts. Comps. J. T. Hall, 1st Capt.; J. W. J. Fowler, 2nd Capt.; S. Morris, Expert; Bros. Edwin Slee, 30°, J. Williams, W. Holme, C. Caldwell, J. T. Knight, J. L. Slack, J. S. Robertson, J. Whittaker, N. B. Vidiano, C. Webster, H. Scott, J. Beasley, Capt. Naylor (897), T. Hardy (897), T. Wright (1182), T. Fairhurst (178), Capt. Wilcock, Lieut. Rigby, Capt. Ackerley, Lieut. White, W. L. Evans, J.P., Ensign A. Holme, Ensign Welsby, Dr. Hall, Dr. Glaister, &c.

Owing to the difficulty of getting a correct list of the Masonic brethren, &c., present, they are only mentioned as such in a few instances of which there could be no doubt.

THE MANCHESTER FREEMASONS' CLUB.

After the Club Dinner on Monday, 3rd January, a few of the members met under the presidency of Bro. Charles Heywood, W.M. 645, P.G. Reg., E.L., to consider what could be done in aid of the Masonic Charities. There were present—Bros. Heywood in the chair, Blackburn (645), May (1009), Stephenson, P.M., (204, 999), J. Lowndes (163), Pratt (1009), Benjamin Smith (152), J. L. Hine, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., E.L.; C. Fitzgerald Matier (1219), Grand Steward G.L. Scotland; Spurge (163); Petty, P.M., (204, 1009); Alderson, P.M., (1009), and many others.

It was proposed by Bro. May that the brethren present should subscribe a few shillings each for the Boys' Schools. This was accordingly done, and two guineas were handed to the Treasurer to be employed at the next election.

Bro. C. F. Matier, then proposed that the brethren present should form themselves into a committee for the purpose of collecting a sufficient sum from members of the club to make the Chairman for the time being a Vice-President in perpetuity of the Boys' School, and that Bro. Heywood should be elected Treasurer.

This proposition was seconded by Bro. J. Lowndes, and carried unanimously by the brethren present, who immediately subscribed such a sum as to guarantee the speedy fulfilment of his laudable and benevolent design. Bro. J. Lowndes (163), Treas., was appointed Hon. Sec. The club meet at the Freemasons' Hall in Cooper-street, and have their own apartments for the use of members and brethren properly introduced. We can only say, as a club they are highly prosperous, and we sincerely trust this is only the first step in aid of those magnificent charities, which as Freemasons we all prize so highly.

A LOST NATION.—A writer in the Natal Mercury, says, in speaking of the ruins of Simbae:—"A day's march from Andowa, between two hills at the end of a vast and fertile valley, are the ruins of Axum. To this day incredible flights of stone steps conduct the traveller up to the summits of the hills, in one of which are deep grottoes and vast halls cut out of the rock and ornamented with columns. There, according to the traditions of the country, is the tomb of the Queen of Sheba. The adjoining valley, shaded by majestic trees, is filled by the remains of the city, consisting of huge blocks of stone. Very little of the debris reveal their former purpose. There may, however, be distinguished two groups of fourteen or fifteen obelisks, thrown down. Seven of them are covered with ornaments, and are not less than thirty-six feet in length. These masterpieces of ancient architecture reveal to us the fact of an ancient civilization in the heart of Africa."

THE Gotha Almanach for 1870 has just appeared. In the list of reigning princes we find that the Pope, who is 77, is the oldest sovereign; next comes Duke Leopold of Anhalt, 75, who has occupied the throne for 51 years; and the third is King William of Prussia, 72. The youngest monarch is Henri XXII. of Reuss, 23. In the course of the year 1869 twelve persons belonging to the reigning families have died, including the young Duke de Brabant, son of the King of the Belgians. This publication has attained its 107th year.

CHARLES DICKENS, Esq., the president, will take the chair at the annual dinner in behalf of the funds of the Newsvendors' Benevolent and Provident Institution, at Freemasons' Tavern, on the 5th of April.

The Rosicrucian.

A TALE OF COLOGNE.

(Reprinted from the Dublin University Magazine.)

V.—THE TWO HEARTS UNVEILED.

Basil Wolgemuth had now gained the summit of his wishes. He had panted for the river of knowledge—had found it, and allayed his burning thirst in its waters, which were to him a Lethe, bringing oblivion of all else. He walked as one in a dream, or like the false prophet of old, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open. He was gentle, kind to his sister, and to the patient, sorrowful Isilda; but he shrank from their society, as he did from that of every living soul. He would disappear for days together, wandering in the woods and mountains, far from his home; there the student was alone, with his newly-acquired sense—there he penetrated into the marvels of the invisible world. He saw the Sylphs of the air floating over him, and fanning his slumbers with their ambrosial wings. The beautiful Undines spread their cool, wavy arms around him, and through the riven earth he beheld the Gnomes and Bobolds at work in their treasure-caves. Borne by the Salamandrines, he viewed the caves of the volcanoes; their lurid recesses were exposed to his gaze, and he saw the central fires smouldering beneath the surface of the globe—the cradles of the earthquake.

Then, when the student returned, he would shut himself up in his chamber, and invoke the being who had first appeared to him—the beautiful Salamandrine. He imbibed from her lips wondrous love of hidden things, and wisdom beyond that of man; he sunned himself in the light of her glorious beauty, and became insensible to all earthly things.

"O, my master," Basil would often murmur, "thou wert right. What count I now the cup of mortal pleasure while that of heaven is at my lips? I could torture—almost destroy—this poor frail body, for the sake of the soul."

And while the student revelled in these ecstasies, his slight form grew more shadowy, his dreamy eyes became of a more fathomless depth, and his whole appearance was that of a spirit which had for a season assumed this mortal coil. No thought of Isilda, no yearning for her forsaken love crossed his memory; the lesser feeling was all absorbed in the greater, for the one reigning passion of Basil Wolgemuth's soul was, a thirst after knowledge.

And Isilda—the devoted one—how fared it with her? She knew that no other maiden had stolen her lover's heart, and yet it was changed towards her. She saw it to be so. Some overpowering passion had extinguished that of love, and her life's hope was gone. She did not pine nor weep; she felt no anger towards Basil, for in her eyes he could do no wrong. Isilda had worshipped him from her girlhood, with a love mixed with idolatry, for it long seemed like "the desire of the moth for the star." None other had ever won a thought from the maiden, though many had wooed her; but having once loved him, none else could have filled her heart for ever. Even Basil, when he came to measure her love by his own, dreamed not of its intensity. So absorbing was this one passionate love, that even the sad change in him who was its object, could not weaken it. She desired no more but to be near the idol of her soul; to see him; to hover round him as silently as his shadow—only to have the blessed privilege of loving him, and the memory, sweet, though mournful, that he had once loved her.

VI.—LOVE UNTO DEATH.

Basil Wolgemuth lay asleep on his couch. He had outwatched midnight, and was very weary. The follower of Rosencreutz, the wise philosopher, the man of surpassing genius, had not passed the limits of mortality; his earth verdure clung around him still—weariness had overtaken him in the midst of his vigils—he had thrown himself down on the hard pallet, and fallen asleep, as sound as if the rude couch of the Rosicrucian were the monarch's bed of down. The morning stars looked in at his casement, and the dim light of a single lamp fell on the countenance of the student. He lay calm as a little child, with folded hands, as if his mother had lulled him to sleep with songs. Oh! if that mother could have beheld him now, how would she have wept over the child of so many prayers!

I have said before that there was little beauty in Basil's face, at least that mere beauty of form, which is so dazzling—and it is good that it should be so, for a lovely face seems fresh from the impress of God's hand; we naturally love it, cling to it, and worship it as such. But Basil's sole charm had been the genius so plainly visible in his face, and a sunny, youthful, happy look, which made it pleasant to behold. Now, all this was gone, but while he slept, a little of his olden self returned, a smile wandered over his lips, and his sunny hair fell from his brow, as in the days when Isilda's fingers used to part those bright locks, and her soft lips loved to rest on that white and beautiful forehead. Suddenly a red glare lighted up the still shadows of the chamber—it flashed on the eyes of the sleeper.

"Art thou here, O beautiful spirit," murmured Basil, half roused, and dazzled by the brilliant light, which seemed a realization of his dream.

But it was no celestial presence that shone into the student's room. He awoke fully, rose up, and looked out into the night. The city lay hushed beneath the star-light, like a palace of the dead, it seemed as though no mortal turmoil would ever more ruffle its serene repose. But far in the darkness, in a direction where Basil's eyes had, in former times, been turned so fondly waiting for the one solitary lamp, which was to him like a star—lurid flames and white smoke burst forth, and contended with the gloom around. There was in the city the fearful presence of fire, and the burning house was Isilda's.

With a sudden impulse, Basil stayed not to unfasten bolt or bar, but leaped at once through the low window, and fled, rather than ran, to the scene. This time mortal love had the pre-eminence; he forgot all but Isilda—Isilda perishing in the flames.

Wildly raged the fierce element, as if kindled by a hundred demons, who fanned it with their fiery breath, and leaped, and howled, and shouted, as it spread on with mad swiftness. Now it writhed in serpent coils—now it darted upwards in forked tongues, and now made itself a veil of dusky vapours, and beneath that shade went on in its devastating way. Its glare put out the dim stars overhead, and hung on the skirts of the clouds that were driven past, until the sky itself seemed in flames. House after house caught the blaze, and cries of despairing agony, mingled with shrieks of frantic terror, rose up through the horrible stillness of night. The beautiful element which Basil had so loved, the cheering, inspiring Fire, was turned into a fearful scourge.

The student reached the spot, and looked wildly up to the window he had so often watched. A passing gust blew the flames aside, and he distinguished there a white figure—it was Isilda; her hands were crossed on her bosom, and her head was bowed meekly, as if she knew there was no hope, and was content to die.

Basil saw, and in a moment he had rushed into the burning dwelling. He gained the room, and with a wild cry of joy, Isilda sprang into his arms. Without a word he bore her, insensible as she was, through the smoke and flame to a spot where the fire had not reached. Further he could not go, for his strength failed him. He laid his burden down and leaned against the wall.

"I might not live for thee, Isilda," cried the student, "but I can die with thee. Yet is there no help—no hope? Where are the spirits that were once subject unto me? And thou, my guardian—spirit of Fire!—is this thy work? Where art thou?"

"I am here," answered a voice; and the Salamandrine appeared. The flames drew nearer; and Basil saw myriads of aerial shapes flitting among them in mazy wreaths. They came nigh—they hovered over his mortal love—their robes of seeming flame swept her form.

"Touch her not," shrieked the student, as he bent over Isilda, his human fear overpowering him.

"The good and pure like her, are ever safe," replied the Salamandrine. "We harm her not." And she breathed over the maiden, who awoke.

"O, my Basil," murmured the girl, "is death then past? Thou didst come to save me—thou lovest me—thou art mine again!" and she stretched out to him her loving arms; but Basil turned away.

"Hush!" he said, "dost thou not see them—the spirits?"

Isilda looked round fearfully. "I see nothing—only thee."

The student's eyes flashed with wild excitement. "See!" he cried, "they fill the air, they gather round us, they come between thee and me. Now, now their forms grow fainter—they are vanishing—it is thou, oh woman! who art driving them from my sight for ever. Stay, glorious beings, stay! I give up all—even her."

"They shall not part me from thee," shrieked the girl, as she clung to Basil, and wound her arms round him. "No power in heaven or earth shall tear us asunder—thou art mine—I will live for thee—I will die for thee—my Basil."

"Thou shalt have thy desire," the student madly cried, as he struggled in her frantic clasp.

There was the gleam of steel—one faint bubbling sigh—the arms relaxed their hold, and Basil was alone—with the dead.

The fire stayed in its dire path, and a wailing sound rose up as the spirits fled away. Heaven and earth had forsaken the murderer.

He knelt besides his victim; he wept, he laughed, he screamed; for madness was in his brain.

"I may kiss thee now, Isilda," he shouted, "thou art all mine own; death has made thee my wife, and he clasped the cold still form to his breast, kissing the lips and cheeks with passionate vehemence.

"I will make thee a pyre—a noble funeral pyre," he continued; "the fire shall purify this mortal clay, and thou shalt become a spirit, Isilda—a beautiful immortal spirit."

He bore the dead to where the fire raged fiercest; he laid his beloved on a couch; composed the frigid limbs, folded the hands, and kissing the cold lips once more, retired to a distance, while the flames played round the still beautiful form which was once Isilda. Lovingly they enwreathed and enshrouded it, until at last they concealed it from the student's gaze. He turned and fled. The Fire had in its mysterious bosom the ashes of that noble and devoted heart. Isilda had found the death she once thought so blest,—death by the hand of the beloved.

The Fifteen Guinea Walnut Wood Drawing-Room Suite, COVERED IN SILK REP, FIRST QUALITY, AT THE LONDON FURNISHING COMPANY, A. JENKINS & Co., 167, FLEET STREET, E.C.

St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell.

RESTORED 1504.

S. WICKENS, PROPRIETOR.

THIS interesting relic of antiquity, which has so long survived the destroying hand of time, was formerly the Grand Preceptory of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, &c. Within these walls the Gentleman's Magazine was published. Here, also, Dr. Samuel Johnson wrote, and Garrick made his debut as a Comedian in London.

Bro. S. WICKENS begs to call the attention of LODGES, CHAPTERS, and especially K.T. ENCAMPMENTS, and R. + CHAPTERS, to the convenient and appropriate rooms of the above building for such Meetings.

He will be happy at any time to show Visitors over this interesting specimen of

The Work of ye Masons of ye olden time.

S. W. also calls attention to his large stock of Fine Old Ports, other Wines, Spirits & Liqueurs Of premier quality.

A good Coffee Room and private Luncheon Bar on the West side.

A CO-OPERATIVE DISCOUNT OF TWENTY PER CENT. TO BROTHERS.

FOR GOUT—Use OIL of HORSE CHEST-NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT—Drink WILDDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/14 per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY, 2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 30, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE
THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH
2, LOWER SEYMOUR STREET, W.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 14d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists.

Prepared and Guaranteed by

Mr. PRICE, Analytical Chemist,

and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour-street, and 30, Duke-street, Portman-square, London, W.; or through the following agents:—

MASONIC LODGE FURNITURE.—A Gentleman wishes to dispose of an excellent suite, very cheap.—Apply by letter: W., 176, Bishopsgate-street.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French, Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumption of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

2, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge, but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservience to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BURNHAM, Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED.

CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

OPiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthmas, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

A CO-OPERATIVE DISCOUNT OF TWENTY PER CENT. TO BROTHERS.

FOR GOUT—Use OIL of HORSE CHEST-NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT—Drink WILDDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/14 per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

NOTABLE ROSICRUCIAN WORKS.

BY WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN, IX^o.

I am again indebted to my friend Capt. F. G. Irwin, of Bristol, for the perusal of another work, interesting to Rosicrucians, as it is by Thomas Vaughan, alias "Eugenius Philalethes." The title is "Lumen de Lumine, or a new Magical Light discovered and communicated to the World," London: 1651, (pp. 101, 32 mo.) Time will not allow me to quote all I should like from the scarce little book, but the following, entitled "A Letter from the Brothers of R.C., concerning the Invisible Magicall Mountaine, and the Treasure therein contained," ought at least to be reproduced in THE FREEMASON. Strange titles, and still stranger customs, seem to have been in favour with the early Rosicrucians, especially as they served to veil the character of their teaching from the world, and thus the initiated only participated in their esoteric mysteries and discoveries. The letter is written both in Latin and English, and no doubt Captain Irwin would spare the volume to the Editor of this paper, in order that its contents may become known. Thomas Vaughan says of the Letter of the Brothers R.C., that "They have described unto us the Mount of God, the mysticall philosophicall Horeb; which is nothing else but the highest and purest part of the earth. For the superior secret portion of this element is Holy Ground, and Aristotle tells his Peripatetics Locus quo Excelsior eo Durnoir. It is the seed-plot of the eternall nature, the immediat vessell and receipient of Heaven, where all minerals and vegetables have their Roots, and by which the animal monarchie is maintained. The Philosophicall Black Saturn mortifies and coagulates the invisible Mercury of the stars, and on the contrary the Mercury kills and dissolves the Saturn, and out of the corruption of both the central and circumferential suns generat a new body. Hence the Philosophers describing their stone, tells us it is Lapis niger vilis, and scætes, dicitur origo mundi et oritur sicut Germinantia. As for the epistle of the Fraternitie, I shall, for satisfaction of the ordinary reader, put it into English. I know some doctors will think it no advantage, but then they confess their ignorance. I can assure them, the subject is nowhere so clearly discovered, and for the first abstruse preparation there is no private author hath mentioned it, but here we have it entirely, and withall most faithfully, described. I confesse, indeed, that instruction wears a mask; it speaks in tropes, but very plaine and perviewous."

Another work by the same writer, is called "The Second Wash, or The Moore Scour'd once more," London: 1651, (pp. 188, 32 mo.) The whole that we know of, are as follows:—

"Anima Magica Abscondita," A.D. 1650.
 "The Fame and Confession," A.D. 1650.
 "Magica Adama, or the Ancient Magic from Adam."
 "Aula Lucis, or The House of Light," A.D. 1651-2.
 "Discourse of the Waters of the East," A.D. 1655.
 "Lumen de Lumine," A.D. 1651.
 "The Second Wash," A.D. 1651.

Thomas Vaughan, who wrote under the assumed name of Eugenius Philalethes, was a noted alchymist, and was quite an enthusiastic supporter of the Rosicrucian Society in the middle of the seventeenth century. We are unable to say who he was. Any positive information as to his history will be much esteemed by the writer, should any of his readers be aware of such.

John Heydon, an attorney of London, devoted much of his spare time to the study of alchymical and Rosicrucian philosophy, so also did Robert Fludd, M.D., Jacob Böhmen, Peter Mormuss, and Branda Borri.

As we intend ere long to compile a list of Rosicrucian works published during the seventeenth century, as also works bordering on that subject, we shall feel greatly obliged if brethren would send us the titles of works in their possession, or which they have perused, as also any notes taken of their character. To suppose that the early Rosicrucians were the absurd impostors their enemies declare, would require more credulity than we would credit their most determined opponents of the present day with, and therefore it would be superfluous to endeavour to answer many of the puerile objections made by their contemporary writers. Dr. Mackay, in "Popular Delusions," states that no lover of poetry can wish that such a sect of philosophers had never existed, although he is very far from being a favourable reviewer of their history, and the works now extant pro and con, sufficiently exhibit the tendency of Rosicrucianism to clear their members from the false imputations of witchcraft, irreligion and immorality.

LINES

Written on hearing of the intended retirement of the Most Worshipful, the Grand Master of Freemasons, the EARL OF ZETLAND, K.T.

BY BRO. A. C. SWAIN.

Thou art leaving the office thou long hast adorn'd,
 And thy loss to the Craft will be generally mourn'd;
 Tho' the life we so value is spared to us yet,
 Thy retirement will cause universal regret.

For every true-hearted Freemason hath known,
 That during the years thou hast sat on the throne,
 Our Order hath flourished, and Heaven hath blest
 Thine efforts to succour the poor and distressed.

The Charities, Brother, we point to with pride,
 Whose fame, fast increasing, extends far and wide;
 Our Homes for the Aged, our Boys and Girls' School,
 Have prosper'd beneath thy beneficent rule.

'Tis true thy successor is greatly esteemed,
 That the light of benevolence also hath beamed
 In the efforts with which he has aided thine own,
 In the spirit of kindness his actions have shown.

Yet still we look back with a sigh to the past,
 As we pray that thy life will for many years last;
 And when thou art summon'd to mansions above,
 May we meet thee again in God's haven of love.

The New Vade Mecum (invented and manufactured by Charles H. Vincent, optician, of 23, Windsor-street, Liverpool) consists of a telescope well adapted for tourists, &c., to which is added an excellent microscope of great power and first-class definition, quite equal to others sold at ten times the price. Wonderful as it may seem, the price of this ingenious combination is only 3s. 6d., and Mr. Vincent sends it (carriage free) anywhere, with printed directions, upon receipt of post-office order or stamps to the amount of 3s. 10d.—[Advt.]

THE BADGE OF FREEMASONRY AND THE GOLDEN FLEECE.

BY BRO. CHALMERS I. PATON, P.M. No. 392, ETC., ETC.

The badge of Freemasonry is the Lamb's Skin, or white leather apron. The apron is worn by operatives to preserve their garments from stain. We use it for a nobler purpose. By the whiteness of its colour, and the innocence of the animal from which it is obtained (for the lamb in all ages has been deemed the emblem of innocence), we are admonished to preserve that blameless purity of life and conduct which will alone enable us hereafter to present ourselves to the Master of the Universe unstained with sin, and unsullied with vice. The lamb's skin is presented to every newly-made brother as the badge of our Order, and is the emblem of innocence and the bond of brotherhood. It is more ancient than the Golden Fleece, or any other order that can be conferred on earth. Emperors, kings, popes, and potentates have not thought it beneath their dignity to put aside the crown and tiara, doff the trappings of state, and lay down the sceptre and the sword, and, putting on this simple badge, join in the celebration of our mysteries. Members of the Craft are never to put on that badge if at variance with any brother who may be in the lodge. You must first attempt to reconcile your differences, but if you find that impossible, you must retire, that the assembly of the brethren be not disturbed by your unseemly strife. Freemasons are ever expected to wear the badge worthily, for it would be a disgrace ever to cast a stain upon its purity.

"It is more ancient than the Golden Fleece," is a word familiar at the investiture to all intrants. Many have enquired as to what is the history or legend of the Golden Fleece; having, after a long time, gathered it together, I now proceed to explain.

The Golden Fleece occupies a prominent place in foreign tradition, concerning the legendary and mythical pre-historic period of Greece, and was a favourite subject of the Grecian poets and dramatists. It was, according to the most ordinary form of the legend, the fleece of the ram Chrysonallus, the recovery of which was the object of the Argonautic expedition. The legend seems, or professes, to relate, to a period about a generation before the Trojan war. Homer refers to it, and it is related by Hesiod and many other of the most ancient Greek authors. It is not wonderful that their accounts differ widely and irreconcilably from each other. According to the ordinary form of the legend in which it is related by Apollodorus, Jason was commanded by his uncle Pelias, King or Chief of Toleus, in Thessaly, to fetch from Colchis the Golden Fleece, which was suspended on an oak and guarded by a sleepless dragon. He therefore caused Argus, the son of Phixus, to build a ship of fifty oars, and gathered together the choicest heroes of Greece to partake in this adventure. Their first landing-place was Sennois, where they stayed two years, because the women, in consequence of the wrath of Venus, had slain all the men excepting Thoas. Their subsequent voyagings and adventures are related by Apollodorus in the same minute and particular manner, but so contradictory are the accounts of different authors that it has been pronounced impossible to say whether the expedition sailed north, south, east or west. Of course, it is vain to conjecture as to any reality covered by such a myth, although it probably derives its origin from some really adventurous enterprises. Hercules and Polyphemus are represented by Apollodorus as taking part in the expedition, but they wandered too far inland when it touched at the shores of Mysia, in pursuit of the lost Hylas, and were left behind. The adventures of the Argonauts with those winged monsters, the harpies, are very particularly narrated; and how, by the advice of the blind seer, Phineus, whom they delivered from the harpies, they were enabled to steer through the Symphlegades and to escape their wondrous dangers. Phineus advised the Argonauts to let loose a dove when they approached the rocks, and to judge by its fortune what they might themselves expect. It escaped with the loss of its tail, and the Argonauts daring to attempt the passage, escaped in like manner with the loss only of some ornaments of the stern of their vessel. After visiting several other countries they arrived at the mouth of the river Phasis in Colchis. Here the king, Ætis, promised to give up the Golden Fleece to Jason, on condition of his yoking to a plough the two fire-breathing bulls with brazen hoofs, and sowing the dragons' teeth left by Cadmus in Thessia. Jason fulfilled these conditions by help of the sorceress Nedeia, the daughter of Æetes, who had fallen passionately in love with him. He was assisted by her in other still more wonderful exploits. He obtained from her, under promise of marriage, a charm against fire and steel, and was thus enabled to destroy all the warriors who sprang up where the dragons' teeth were sown. Æetes, meanwhile, thought to burn the ship Argo, and put the crew to death; but Jason, warned by Nedeia, anticipated this design, and hastening into the grove, stupified the dragon sentinel by a charm which Nedeia had prepared, seized the Golden Fleece, and embarked by night in his ship with his mistress and her brother Absyrtus. Æetes pursued the Argo, but Nedeia cut her brother Absyrtus in pieces and flung them overboard, Jason stayed to pick them up, and thus the Argo escaped. This horrible part of the story is not told by all the narrators. The Argo reached the mouth of the river Eridanus, but was driven on the Absyrtian islands by a storm caused by Jupiter, who was angry on account of the murder of Absyrtus. The mast of the Argo, which had been cut in the sacred grove of Dodona, now delivered an oracle that Jupiter would not be appeased unless the Argonauts sailed towards Ansonia and were purified through the agency of Circe. This they did; then they passed by the Sirens, from whose dangerous charms they were preserved by Orpheus singing to them. Yet one of their number, Butes, swam off to the sea-maidens and perished. They passed through Scylla and Charybdis by the help of Thetis, and at length landed on the island of Corcyra, where Antonius ruled. On leaving Corcyra they encountered a storm at night, but were saved by Apollo, who, in flashes of lightning, revealed to them the haven of Anaple, where they raised an altar to him. At Cuete, their landing was opposed by the giant Talus, who was slain by Nedeia. The Argonauts subsequently touched at Ægina and Tolans in safety. Jason dedicated the ship Argo to Neptune at the Isthmus of Corinth.

A celebrated order of knighthood of Austria and Spain is the Order of the Golden Fleece. It was founded by Philip III., Duke of Burgundy and the Netherlands, at Bruges, on the 10th January, 1428, on the occasion of his marriage with Isabella, daughter of John the I., King of Portugal. The reasons which induced him to choose the name he did for the order, and to cause insignia to be devised for it in correspondence with the name, are not certainly known, but it may be supposed that he was mindful of the classical studies of his youth, and that he meant the Golden Fleece, viewed in connection with the ancient legend concerning it, to be a symbol of enterprise and courage. The notion to be presently noticed bears out this opinion. Yet it has been suggested that he probably also bethought himself of the importance of the woollen manufacture as the great industry of the Low Countries, and chose a name and device having some imaginable reference to it. The order was instituted for the protection of the church. Duke Philip made himself first Grand Master of the Order, appointing that office also to be held by his successors, Dukes of Burgundy. The number of knights was at first limited to twenty-four, but was afterwards increased. The Burgundian territories having been inherited through the heiress of the last Duke by her son, the Emperor Charles V., he held the office of Grand Master of this order. On his death this dignity, remained in possession of the Spanish branch of the family; but at the close of the Spanish war of succession, the Emperor, Charles VI., laid claim to it, in virtue of his possession of the Low Countries, and taking with him the archives of the order, celebrated a new inauguration of it with great magnificence at Vienna, in 1713. Philip V. of Spain contested the claim of the German Emperor, and the dispute about this much-prized dignity was long continued and often renewed, till at last it was amicably settled by the recognition of the order in both countries, and on this footing it still remains, the Emperor of Austria being Grand Master in his own dominions, and the King of Spain, when there is a King of Spain, Grand Master of the order in that kingdom. In Austria, the Emperor may now create any number of Knights of the Golden Fleece from the old nobility, but in the case of a Protestant the Pope's consent is required. In Spain, the honour is restricted to princes, grandees, and "personages of peculiar merit." "The insignia of the order are a Golden Fleece hanging from a gold and blue enamelled flintstone, emitting flames, and borne it its turn by a ray of fire;" on the enamelled obverse is inscribed Pretium laborum non vile, signifying "No mean reward of labours." The decoration was originally suspended from a chain of alternate fire-stones and rays, for which Charles V. allowed a red ribbon to be substituted, and the chain is now worn only by the Grand Master. The Spanish decoration differs slightly from the Austrian; the costume consists of a long robe of deep red velvet, lined with white taffetas, and a long mantle of purple velvet, lined with white satin and richly trimmed with embroidery, containing firestones and steels emitting flames and sparks; on the hem, which is of white satin, is embroidered in gold Je l'ay empris, signifying "I have assayed it." There is also a cap of purple velvet, embroidered in gold, and the shoes and stockings are red.

LEAVES FROM MY LIBRARY.

BY MARMADUKE MAKEPEACE.

There remains yet another geometrical emblem to be explained, which is the diagram of the 47th Proposition of the First Book of Euclid, by the assistance of which we prove that the square of the hypotenuse of a right-angled triangle—that is, the side opposite the right angle—is equal to the sum of the squares of the sides which contain the right angle. For this discovery we are likewise indebted to the great Master of the Pythagorean school, who is said to have offered a hecatomb, or sacrifice, of a hundred oxen, to express his joy and gratitude to heaven on account of this discovery. And, indeed, well might he estimate its value so highly, when we reflect that upon this principle depends the solution of the great principles in the mathematical, mechanical, and philosophical knowledge, and that it is the true key to the doctrine of the proportions and powers of all quantities—arithmetical, geometrical, and algebraical. By it, we may prove any multiple of a given square, as we have only to construct an isosceles right-angled triangle, of which one of the sides including the right angle shall be equal to the side of such square. And in the same manner it may be applied to form squares and other figures of duplicate ratios to others which are given. Accordingly, he was accustomed to distinguish this proposition by the appellation EUREKA, which signifies "I have found it!" thereby denoting the superior importance of this over all other discoveries. As, therefore, the letter G denotes to us the science of symbolic geometry, and the Pythagorean Tetractys the mysterious powers of numbers, so is this symbol the representation of all mechanical and physical science.

But whilst each of these symbols reciprocally serves to illustrate the rest, there is one sense in which they yield to the decided pre-eminence of the great central emblem whose sacred initial character, surrounded by a blaze of eternal glory, recalls our minds from the work to the Architect—from the science to its mystery.

This brings us to the moral advantages to be derived from Geometry.

Geometry is the first and noblest of sciences, and the basis on which the superstructure of Freemasonry is erected. The contemplation of this science, in a moral and comprehensive view, fills the mind with rapture. To the true Geometrician the regions of matter with which he is surrounded afford ample scope for his admiration, while they open a sublime field for his enquiry and disquisition. Every blade of grass which covers the field, every flower which blows, and every insect which wings its way in the bounds of expanded space, proves the existence of a first cause, and yields pleasure to the intelligent mind. The symmetry, beauty, and order displayed in the various parts of animate and inanimate creation are pleasing and delightful themes, and naturally lead to the Source whence the whole is derived. When we bring within the focus of the eye the variegated carpet of the terrestrial creation, and survey the progress of the vegetative system, our admiration is justly excited. Every plant which grows, every flower that displays its beauties or breathes its sweets, affords instruction and delight. When we extend our view to the animal creation and contemplate the varied clothing of every species, we are equally struck with astonishment; and when we trace the lines of geometry, drawn by the Divine pencil, in the beautiful plumage of the feathered tribe, how exalted is our conception of the heavenly work! The admirable structure of plants and animals, and the infinite number of fibres and vessels which run through the whole, with the apt disposition of one part to another, are perpetual subjects of study to the true geometrician, who, while he adverts to all the changes which all undergo in their progress to maturity, is lost in rapture and veneration of the Great Cause which produced the whole and governs the system. When he descends into the bowels of the earth and explores the kingdom of ores, minerals and fossils, he finds the same instances of Divine wisdom and goodness displayed in their formation and structure—every gem and pebble proclaims the handiwork of an Almighty Creator. When he surveys the watery element and directs his attention to the wonders of the deep, with all the inhabitants of the mighty ocean, he perceives emblems of the same supreme intelligence. The scales of the largest whale, as well as the pencilled shell of the most diminutive fish, equally yield a theme for his contemplation on which he fondly dwells, while the symmetry of their formation, and the delicacy of tints, evince to his discerning eye the wisdom of the Divine Artist. When he exalts his view to the more noble and elevated parts of nature and surveys the celestial orbs, how much greater is his astonishment! If, on the principles of geometry and true philosophy, he contemplates the sun, the moon, the stars—the whole conclave of heaven—his pride is humbled, and he is lost in awful admiration. The immense magnitude of those bodies, the regularity and rapidity of their motions and the vast extent of space through which they move are equally inconceivable, and, so far as they exceed human comprehension, baffle his most daring ambition till, lost in the immensity of the theme, he sinks into his primitive insignificance.

By Geometry, then, we curiously trace Nature through her various windings to her most concealed recesses. By it we discover the power, the wisdom, and the goodness of the Grand Artificer of the Universe, and view with delight the proportions which connect this vast machine. By it we calculate how the planets move in their different orbits, and demonstrate their various revolutions. By it we account for the return of the seasons, and the variety of scenes which each season displays to the discerning eye. Numberless worlds are around us, all framed by the same Divine Artist, which roll through the vast expanse and are all conducted by the same unerring law.

A survey of nature and the observation of her beautiful proportions, first determined man to imitate the divine plan and study symmetry and order. This gave rise to societies, and birth to every useful art. The architect began to design, and the plans which he laid down, improved by experience and time, produced works which have been the admiration of every age.

To Him, the great Geometrician of the Universe, the Father of Light and Life, the Fountain of Eternal Wisdom, let us humbly dedicate our labours, imploring Him to bless and prosper the work of our hands to His own glory and the good of mankind and the salvation of our immortal souls.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks: "By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—[Adv.]

EPILEPSY OR FITS.—A sure cure for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on Foreign and native Herbal Preparations, published by Prof. O. PHELPS BROWN. The prescription was discovered by him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known, as it has cured everybody who has used it for Fits, never having failed in a single case. The ingredients may be obtained from any chemist.—Persons desiring a copy may address Prof. O. PHELPS BROWN, No. 2, King-street, Covent Garden, London, enclosing stamp; six copies, three stamps.—[Adv.]

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Grand Steward's Lodge.—This lodge met on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, under the presidency of Bro. Henry Norman, W.M., when Bro. Joseph Stohwasser, P.M. of No. 8, the British Lodge, and Past President of the Board of Grand Stewards, was unanimously elected as a joining member. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and the W.M. proceeded with the ceremony of installing his successor. The lodge was afterwards opened in the third degree, after which a board of Installed Masters was duly constituted, an l Bro. Edward J. Page, the W.M.-elect, was duly installed in ancient form, into the chair of K.S., whereupon he invested the late W.M., Bro. Norman, as his immediate P.M. After the usual ceremonies, and on the lodge being reduced to the first degree, the W.M. appointed his officers, viz: Bros. R. M. Smith, S.W.; Jabez Tepper, J.W.; Wm. Watson, Sec.; Frederick Binckes, S.D.; J. T. Swanston, J.D.; and Charles H. Waters, I.G. Bro. Richard Spencer (having been at the previous lodge unanimously re-elected,) was invested as Treas.; and Bro. Hoare as Tyler. Bro. Norman was congratulated by the lodge for the ability and talent manifested by him in performing the ceremony of installing his successor. There were no resignations on the commencement of the new year, and the lodge now consists of thirty-one members. The lodge being duly closed the brethren present (with five visitors), in all twenty-three, adjourned to the tavern, and partook of the bread of plenty and the cup of cheerfulness, and spent a happy evening with much good feeling and harmony.

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185.—This influential lodge held its usual meeting on the 17th inst., at Radley's, when the W.M., in his efficient style, conferred the honor of M.M. on Bro. B. Barnett; after which the S.W. was unanimously elected Master for the ensuing year, Bro. Peartree, Treasurer; and Bro. Vesper, P.M. 180, Tyler. There was also an election for members of the committee of the excellent charity fund of the lodge, after which the brethren adjourned to as good a banquet as the most fastidious could require, supplied, and well attended to, by Bro. Hart, his very courteous nephew (also a brother) and their assistants.

Israel Lodge, No. 205.—This numerous and influential lodge met on Tuesday, the 25th inst., at Radley's, when Bro. Chamberlain, the W.M., in his masterly style initiated Messrs. Morse, Buckland, Fowler, and Bryan; Bro. Stanton Jones, P.M., then in most superior style installed Bro. Michael J. Emanuel, who appointed as his officers, Bros. H. M. Harris, S.W.; Turner, J.W.; A. N. Cohen, P.M., Sec.; Sacqui, P.M., Organist; Van Durbosch, S.D.; Hogard, J.D.; and N. Emanuel, I.G.; after which the newly installed Master ably initiated his brother-in-law, Mr. Sidney Jacobs. The brethren then adjourned to one of Bro. J. Hart's splendid banquets, ably served by his nephew and numerous assistants. The number of brethren present amounted to 78, and amongst the numerous visitors we particularly noticed Bros. J. Holbrook, W.M. (185); B. W. Aaron, W.M. (188); Poltizes, W.M. (1017); S. L. Miers (154), E. P. Albert, P.M. and Sec. (188); Chubb (577), M. Jacobs (194), and Vowles (742). A most agreeable evening concluded by an earnest appeal from the indefatigable Sec., the W. Bro. A. M. Cohen, P.M., to the members on behalf of the charity fund of the lodge, which was liberally responded to by numerous new subscribers. We must add that the musical arrangements were excellent, as in fact was everything else, lodge working, banquet, wines, and songs.

Nelson Lodge, No. 700.—This excellent working lodge held its regular monthly meeting at the Masonic Hall, William-street Woolwich, on Wednesday, 19th inst., under the very able direction of its W. Master, Bro. E. Bowles, supported by the whole of his officers. The lodge being opened in the first degree, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. The ballot was taken for Mr. J. M. Hodder, of St. Paul's Churchyard, and Serjt. W. A. Weston, R.A., for initiation, which proved unanimous in each of their favor, and being in attendance, were duly received into Freemasonry. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Ward being a candidate for the third degree, received further instruction and retired. The lodge was opened in the third degree, and Bro. Ward was admitted, and duly raised to the sublime degree of a M. Mason. The lodge was closed down in each degree, when Colour-Serjeant J. Wilmot, and Serjeant J. Gladwin, of H.M. 94th Regiment, were proposed as candidates for initiation at the next meeting of the lodge. All Masonic business being ended, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to Bro. Morton's the Red Lion Tavern, where they spent a very happy evening and parted in perfect harmony.

Panmure Lodge, No. 715.—This lodge met on Saturday evening, 15th inst., at the Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, City. Present: Bros. T. H. Weedon, W.M.; W. Kibble, S.W.; J. H. Townend, J.W.; W. Bennett, S.D.; W. J. Crossfield, J.D.; H. Birdseye, I.G.; Henry Muggeridge, P.M.; S. G. Myers, P.M., and Treas.; R. Clarke, P.M.; J. Paddle, P.M.; C. R. Vines, P.M.; C. H. Fielder, P.M.; T. B. Yeoman, C. Wychie, J. Jonas, W. Birdseye, W. E. Stower, J. Gale, C. F. Smith, J. L. Jones, &c. The lodge was opened in due form and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. A ballot was taken for Mr. George Wyatt, which was unanimous in his favour, and he being in attendance was duly initiated into ancient Freemasonry. The lodge was then opened in the second and third degrees, and the ceremony of installing Bro. William Kibble, W.M. for the ensuing year, was performed by Bro. Henry Muggeridge in his most impressive manner. The lodge was then closed to the first degree, when the W.M. appointed the following brethren officers of the lodge, viz:—Bros. J. H. Townend, S.W.; W. Bennett, J.W.; S. G. Myers, Treasurer; Henry Muggeridge, Secretary; W. J. Crossfield, S.D.; Henry Birdseye, J.D.; J. Jonas, I.G.; Smith, Tyler. The W.M. said he commenced his year of office by having two very pleasing duties to perform; the first was to present to Bro. J. H. Weedon, the I.P.M., a Past Master's jewel as a mark of the kind feeling the brethren entertained towards him for the manner in which he conducted the lodge during his year of office.—Bro. Weedon thanked the brethren very much for their kindness, and hoped he might have health and strength to come amongst them for many years.—The W.M. again rose, and said the second duty he had to perform was, if possible, more pleasing than the first, that was to present to their esteemed Bro. S. G. Myers, P.M. and Treasurer, a silver tea-pot, in recognition of his services as Treasurer of the lodge for many years.—Bro. Myers said he could assure the W.M. and brethren, he was very much pleased with the handsome present they had made him; he took a very great interest in the Panmure Lodge, and anything he could do to promote the prosperity of the lodge and the comfort of the brethren he would always be happy to do. He thanked the brethren for their kind and valuable expression of approval of his efforts.—There being no further business the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet served in Bro. Spencer's usual style of excellence. Amongst the visitors we noticed the following brethren, Bros. Joshua Nunn, G.S.B.; G. A. Taylor, P.M., 22; S. Muggeridge (192), Steib (Gihon 49), Dyer (186), Laxton (504), Allen (196), Webber (J.W. 1232), Crouch (12), Rock, Fisher, Wakley, Saward, &c.

New Concord Lodge, No. 813.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton, on Friday, Jan. 21st, at 5 o'clock. Bro. J. J. Wilson, P.M., 813, W.M. 1237, and P.G.D. Middlesex, acting for Bro. J. Hart, W.M., who was prevented from attending by family affliction. Bros. Bartlett, S.W.; Atkins, J.W.; Main, P.M., and Hon. Sec.; Salisbury, S.D.; McDavitt, J.D.; Absell, I.G.; and Lloyd, T. The following brethren were also present A. Hill, Gabb, Hofbauer, Webster, Townsend, Fauquey, Phillips, Bristlin, Chant, Crabb, Cheshier, Whaley, Denny, and Revill. Visitors, Bro. Rogers, 1003, Cusworth, 94, Bromley, 220. The lodge was opened in due form and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Mr. Gallant for initiation, and Bro. Benningfield for joining, and both were unanimously elected. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bros. Gabb and Hofbauer being candidates for the third degree, answered the usual questions, and retired. The lodge was opened in the third degree, and they were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The lodge was resumed to the first degree, and Bro. Phillips answered and retired, and the lodge being resumed to the second, was passed to the degree of F.C. The lodge was again resumed to the first degree, and Mr. Gallant was regularly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. All Masonic business being ended, the lodge was closed in due form after which the brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet, prepared by Bro. Gabb, Bro. J. J. Wilson, P.M., presiding. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been duly honoured, the W.M. proposed the health of the initiate, Bro. Gallant, who in a very neat speech thanked the brethren for admitting him into the Order. On behalf of the visitors, Bros. Bromley and Cusworth expressed their great satisfaction at the treat they had received by the very admirable manner in which the whole of the three degrees had been worked, and Bro. Cusworth also expressed his desire to become a joining member, if the brethren would receive him. Bro. Main proposed Bro. Wilson's health, who thanked his officers for their assistance, and expressed his regret at the circumstances that precluded the W.M. from attending. Bros. Bartlett, Atkins, and Main replied and a very happy and comfortable evening, enlivened by songs, &c., was passed. Bro. McDavitt, O., assisted materially by his skilful performances on the piano.

Copper Lodge, No. 1076.—The regular monthly meeting of this very numerous and efficient lodge was held at the Marine Hotel, Victoria Docks, on Thursday, 13th inst. Bro. H. G. Sisley, W.M., supported by Bros. Yaskell, S.W.; Pincombe, J.W.; G. Park, Treas.; J. Henderson, P.M., and Sec.; Ashdown, S.D.; Brown, J.D.; Brayshaw, I.G.; with P.M. West, as I.P.M. The lodge was opened in due form and with solemn prayer, and the minutes of the last lodge meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Messrs. Jones, Harnes, and Stokes, candidates for initiation, which proved unanimous in each of their favor, and Messrs. Jones and Harnes being in attendance, were with Mr. Harrison, ballotted for at the last lodge meeting, duly received into the first degree of Freemasonry. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Crabtree being a candidate for the third degree, received further instruction and retired. The lodge was opened in the third degree, and Bro. Crabtree was admitted, and duly raised to the sublime degree of a M. Mason. The lodge was closed down to the first degree, when the ballot was also taken for Bro. Adamson, of the Scientific Lodge, 840, as a joining member, which proved in his favour. The case of a distressed brother was then brought before the lodge, and three guineas was voted for his present wants. All Masonic business being ended, the lodge was closed, and the brethren partook of refreshment and parted in harmony.

PROVINCIAL.

CHATHAM.—Lodge of Benevolence, No. 184.—On Wednesday, the 12th instant, the annual meeting of the brethren took place at the lodge-room, in Middle-street, Brompton, when there was a large gathering from the various parts of Kent, to do honour to the installation of the W.M., Bro. J. Redman. The lodge-room has been fitted up and embellished in excellent style, showing a great display of taste. The walls are decorated with panelling, on which stand out in bold relief a number of Grecian figures, with emblems of the seasons, &c. The floor cloth is of a Mosaic pavement pattern, with tessellated border, whilst the gas fittings and furniture of the Lodge, are of a rich appearance, reflecting the greatest credit on Bro. W. Turtle, and the brethren generally. The lodge having been opened, a board of Installed Masters was formed, and the ceremony was most efficiently conducted by Bro. Turtle. The following constituted the Board of Installed Masters, sixteen in number:—Bros. Mackney, W.M., 299, P.G.S.; Warne, P.M., 20, P.P.G.A.S.; Wyld, 1050, W.M., P.G.S.D.; Ashdown, P.M., 1050, P.P.G.P.; Nash, P.M., 278, Gibraltar, and W.M., 1174; Webb, W.M., 503; Darley, P.M., 158, Sheerness; S. Trowse, P.M.; Seabrooke, Burfield, P.M., 20; H. Kappey, P.M., 20, P.G.S.D.; Richardson P.M., 184; Allen, P.M., 914, Jamaica; Bates, P.M., 914. After the Installation, the Master Masons, F. Crafts, and Apprentices were admitted, and the usual honours given. Bro. W. M. Redman then invested the officers of the Lodge as follows:—Bros. Cole, S.W.; Murphy, J.W.; Higgins, S.D.; Thorn, J.D.; Thornton, I.G.; Drago, T. Bro. Turtle delivered the address to the admiration of all. The brethren about 60 in number, then retired to a banquet provided by Bro. Wraith, at the Golden Lion, after which followed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts.—Bro. Redman, W.M., in the course of his address on the toast to the Prince of Wales, congratulated the Craft generally on the accession of His Royal Highness, expressing the hope that it would not only add to the prestige of Masonry, but advance the interests of our excellent charities, and looked forward to the future of Masonry as one of great promise. (The toast was met with Kentish fire). The most honourable mention was also made of the Earl of Zetland, and Earl de Grey and Ripon, as his expected successor. Coming nearer home, he, in reference to Lord Homesdale, the P.G.M., spoke of his lordship's urbanity, and deep interest in the prosperity of Masonry in the county, ever ready to promote its welfare and maintain its high character. (His lordship's health was drunk with enthusiasm).—Bro. Dobson, D.P.G.M., and the P.G. Officers followed, coupled with the name of Bro. Mackney, P.G. Steward. In proposing the health, particularly of Bro. Dobson, with pride and confidence, he knew it would elicit the most enthusiastic reception; reminding them that Bro. Dobson, the second Masonic head of the Province, had evinced the utmost zeal for the welfare of the Craft in the province. Courtesy and kindness has distinguished him, and it may be said by all coming into contact with him that he possesses a generous sentiment, admired by the humblest brother. The charities are the special objects of his interest, showing that Masonry is not based merely on mystery, but upon those great and immortal principles of love and active benevolence, whose bright and glorious stream will flow on through time and eternity. The vast amount of time he devotes to Masonic purposes, and his promptings to others to give practical proof of Masonic sympathy, must confer a blessing on the present generation and on our children's children, by ameliorating the woes, and elevating the social and moral condition of the orphan and the helpless one. (Loud cheers).—Bro. Mackney, in a short address, appealed for subscriptions to the charities.—The Past Masters being proposed, was particularly responded to by Bro. Strowse, the oldest brother present, and for whom great respect is entertained.—Bro. Turtle proposed the "W.M." in an effective speech, in which he extolled him for his love of Masonry.—Bro. Redman responded in a suitable speech.—To the health of the visitors, Bro. Darley's name was coupled, with those of Bro. Nash, Bro. Warne, and others.—Bro. Darley, P.M., of 158, Sheerness, expressed his delight at meeting the brethren, and to see that, to their honour, they had carried out that which he had advocated for years. He prophesied increased success to the lodge in consequence, which he had seen result from similar arrangements elsewhere, and whilst he felt an interest in this lodge, he felt a general interest in the prosperity of the Craft, and believed that by the course pursued generally of Masons' lodges being removed from hotels, it would raise their prestige, and the better enable them to assist the funds of their excellent charities. He held Freemasonry as part of his religion, and a great part; and that which would improve its moral standing would most enhance its success, and he hoped the day would come when a Mason's Lodge, would be looked upon as sacred as any other sanctuary where God was worshipped. He had been in communication with the Secretary of the Grand Orient of France, and was glad to see that whilst the Pope was anathematising Freemasons, they, under the auspices of the Emperor, were determined to stick to their colours; 232 lodges had already sent their opinions to the Grand Orient on the Ecumenical Council, and which would be collected in one volume. No doubt, true to their obligation, the brethren will prove to the world their love of Freemasonry and their capability of defending their own rights. He expected shortly again to hear from the other side of the Channel, and perhaps at some future day he would have an opportunity of laying before them some account of the progress of Masonry in France.—Bros. Warne and Nash, also responded in appropriate speeches. At this stage several brethren had to leave by train, and the greater part left. The host, Bro. Wraith, provided excellently, and the brethren spent a very pleasant evening enlivened by music and singing.

TRIGNMOUTH.—Benevolent Lodge, No. 303.—The annual meeting was held at the Masonic Hall on Monday, January 3rd. The lodge was opened by Bro. H. M. Bartlett, W.M., assisted by Bros. Capt. Walrond, I.P.M. and P.P.J.G.W.; Dr. Hopkins, acting as S.W. till the arrival of Bro. Burden; Hallett, J.W.; Coles, S.D.; Taylor, J.D.; Tomes, I.G. Amongst those present during the meeting were Bros. Ward, P.M.; Bentley, Saunders, Burton, and others; and as visitors, Bros. Way, W.M., 39; H. Bartlett, 716, P.P.G.A.D.C.; J. Heath, P.M., 710; Westley, 768, Hong-Kong; Johns, 131, P.P.G. Reg. for Cornwall. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Messrs. J. S. Short and H. Terry were then introduced, properly prepared, and separately initiated into the Order by the W.M. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Hopkins took the chair. The retiring W.M. presented Bro. Burden as the W.M.-elect, and after the preliminary proceedings, Bro. Burden was constitutionally placed in the chair of K.S. He appointed and invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year:—H. M. Bartlett, I.P.M.; Hallett, S.W.; Coles, J.W.; Taylor, S.D.; Bentley, J.D.; Tomes, Sec.; Whidburn, Treas.; Morris, I.G.; Burton and Cotton, Stewards; Hagerty, Tyler. The brethren adjourned to the Queen's Hotel to partake of the banquet, under the presidency of the Installing Master, owing to the indisposition of the W.M.

HEBDEN BRIDGE, WEST YORKSHIRE.—Prince Frederick Lodge, No. 307.—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the White Horse Hotel, on Monday, the 17th inst. The W.M., Bro. F. Whitaker, opened the lodge at 6 p.m., after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and some communications considered. The W.M. then requested Bro. W. Cooke, P.M. 428, (who had attended for the purpose of installing the W.M.-elect,) to take the chair. Bro. Austin Roberts, S.W., having answered the usual questions, and the brethren below the chair withdrawn, a Board of Installed Masters was opened, and Bro. Roberts duly placed in the chair of K.S. The brethren then returned, and the new W.M. subsequently invested the following officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. G. Sutcliffe, S.W.; R. Worsick, J.W.; S. Crabtree, P.M., Treas.; F. Whitaker, P.M., Sec.; T. Whitaker, S.D.; R. Whitaker, J.D.; D. Heap, P.M., I.G.; and J. Dewhurst, Tyler. The usual salutation having been accorded to the W.M., the lodge was closed in peace and harmony, and the brethren adjourned to the dining-room, where most excellent provision had been made by the worthy host, Bro. W. Jackson, a very old P.M. of the lodge. The usual formal toast having been given, the health of the new W.M. was proposed by Bro. F. Whitaker, the I.P.M., who stated that, by his rising, he had no doubt the brethren anticipated the toast he was about to propose. It was the health of their esteemed W.M., who now occupied the chair in which he (Bro. Whitaker) had had the honour of presiding over them for the past twelve months. He could only say that the brethren of the lodge had every confidence that Bro. Roberts would conduct the business brought before him during the ensuing year with satisfaction to them all; and when, at the close of his term of office, he vacated the chair to his successor, none of them would have cause to regret the selection they had recently made. Bro. Whitaker concluded by calling upon them to drink the toast in a bumper.—Bro. Roberts, after cordially thanking the brethren for selecting him to occupy the chair of K.S., expressed his desire to have a fortnightly instruction meeting, that the officers and younger members might have opportunities given them of becoming efficient in the various ceremonies of the mystic art.—Bro. Sutcliffe, S.W., (who has recently returned from a tour in Palestine), in responding to the toast of "The Wardens and Officers of the Lodge," expressed the pleasure he had derived in meeting with "Brother Masons" in his travels, and even in cases where he could not converse with them in their own language he had received great kindness, assistance and instruction at their hands. He also stated his intention of supporting the W.M. in the fortnightly instruction meeting. Several other toasts followed, "The Visitors" being responded to by Bros. Bates, P.M.; Cooke, P.M.; Normanton, P.M., P.J.G.D.; Milligan, and Hayes, all of No. 448, the only visitors present. The "National Anthem" brought an exceedingly pleasant evening to a close.

NEATH, GLAMORGANSHIRE.—Cambrian Lodge, No. 364.—The regular meeting of this lodge took place on Tuesday, the 18th inst., when an unusually large number of members and visitors were present to pay their respects to the newly-elected Master, Bro. Clement Sankey Gardner. Besides the visitors, there were the following members of the Cambrian Lodge: Bros. Rowland Thomas, P.M., P. Prov. S.G.W.; P. H. Rowland, P.M., P. Prov. G. Sec.; W. M. Reis, P.M., P.G. Treasurer; W. Whittington, P.M., P. Prov. G. Sec.; Howel Cuthbertson, P.M., Prov. G.J.D.; Dr. Thomas, Prov. G. Steward; E. Pole, J.W.; Henry Green, I.G., &c. The installation ceremony was very ably performed by Bro. Howel Cuthbertson, P.M., Prov. J.G.D., and met with the highest appreciation from the brethren present. The W.M. then proceeded to invest his officers as follows:—Bros. P. H. Rowland, I.P.M.; E. Pole, S.W.; Dr. Thomas, J.W.; W. M. Reis, P.M., P.G.R. Treas.; Henry Green, Sec.; J. B. Davies, S.D.; J. G. Davis, J.D.; H. Williams, J.G.; Chubb, Steward; John Smith, Tyler. The banquet was provided at the Castle Hotel, by Bro. Hancock, whose name alone is a guarantee for its excellence. The room was tastefully decorated with evergreens and banners representing the various lodges and chapters of the province; there were also a number of shields bearing the quarterings of Grand Lodge, and other Masonic devices. After the toast of "The Queen and the Craft" had been duly honoured, Bro. James Hewson sang "The Masonic National Anthem." Then followed, "The health of Bro. th: Prince of Wales and the Royal Family," "M. W. G. M., the Earl of Zetland," "Deputy G. Master, the Earl de Grey and Ripon," and "The Prov. Grand Master." "The health of the Deputy Prov. G.M., Bro. E. J. Morris," whose absence was much regretted, was then given. "The Prov. Grand Officers," was responded to by Bro. D. Williams, with his usual heartiness. "The Masters of the neighbouring lodges" was responded to by Bros. Nettell, Daniel, and Ware; the latter related an incident mentioned to him by an eminent London brother, of his having met in Neath a number of the members of the Cambrian Lodge, whose kindness and courtesy to him, and brotherly bearing to each other, made such an impression on his mind, that he sought the privileges of the Craft immediately on his return home, and is now one of those who sit in high places.—The health of "The Installing Master, Bro. Cuthbertson," followed.—The toast of the evening was proposed by Bro. Cuthbertson amidst loud and prolonged enthusiasm.—Bro. C. S. Gardner, W.M., responded with much feeling; he pointed out the advantages arising out of the friendly intercourse of neighbouring lodges, which it is his intention to carry out as far as possible during his year of office. He looked forward to a prosperous year, with the helpers he had on all sides, and aided by efficient and zealous officers. While admitting that his expectations might possibly appear too sanguine, Bro. Gardner contended that it was far better to be so, than to be too indifferent. He concluded by urging the Masters of the neighbouring lodges to join with him in cementing good feeling and fraternal intercourse as far as possible in the province, for if they could not see anything worthy of imitation in the working at Neath, they might detect blunders (which is sometimes equally as profitable) and endeavour to guard against them. The toasts of "The Past Masters of the Lodges," "The Officers," and others having been duly honoured, the brethren separated at an early hour.

LEICESTER.—John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523.—At the last regular monthly meeting of this lodge, held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Thursday, the 20th inst., there was a good attendance of members and of visitors from the sister lodges. The W.M., Bro. Toller, presided, and the newly-appointed P.G.M., Bro. W. Kelly, who is the senior P.M. of the lodge, was also present. The minutes of the last regular meeting, and of a lodge of emergency, having been read and confirmed, the Rev. William Targett Fry, M.A., was called upon to respond to the usual questions, after which he was passed to the second degree. Bro. J. F. Smith was then examined in that degree, and a Master Mason's Lodge having been opened, he was raised to that sublime degree. The ceremony was very impressively performed by the W.M., and the solemnity of the proceedings was greatly enhanced by the Masonic chants, conducted by their original arranger, Bro. Charles Johnson, P.M., Organist. The lodge having been lowered to the first degree, and a candidate for Masonry having been proposed, and some other business transacted, the lodge was closed in harmony, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment and spent an hour or two very pleasantly.

STOKESLEY.—Cleveland Lodge, No. 543.—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Monday evening last week, at the Golden Lion Hotel. Bro. Stephen Hunter, W.M.; George Markham Twiddle, F.K.S.N.A., Copenhagen, as S.W.; George Tweddell, jun., J.W.; and J. H. Handyside, Sec. The lodge being opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the preceding lodge confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to appoint his officers, investing them with their respective jewels (save the two Wardens, who were absent), viz: Bros. Henry Fawcett, B.A. (re-appointed), S.W.; George Hodgson, J.W.; J. H. Handyside, Sec.; A. A. Boyle, M.C.P., S.D.; Richardson, J.D.; Rev. Spencer Cabitt, I.G. The lodge elected Bro. Watson, Treas.; and re-elected Bro. William Harrison, Tyler. The Thursday nearest the full moon in February was fixed for the annual banquet, and there being no more business, the W.M. gave the explanation of the first tracing board in a very creditable manner. The lodge was then closed, and the meeting declared adjourned to the Monday nearest the full moon in the following month.

CIRENCESTER.—Cotteswold Lodge, No. 592.—The annual festival of this lodge was held on the 18th inst. Bro. R. Elliott was installed the W.M. for the ensuing year. The installation was performed by Bro. G. F. Newmarch, D.P.G.M. The following brethren were appointed and invested as officers: Bros. James Trinder, S.W.; W. H. James, J.W.; Wrightson, Sec.; S. T. Tanner, S.D.; W. A. Bailey, J.D.; J. C. Hill, I.G.

NEWPORT.—Isea Lodge, No. 683.—The installation of Bro. Robert James Chambers, as W.M. of this lodge, took place at the Masonic Hall, Newport, Bro. J. Middleton, P.S.W. and P.M., 683 and 1098 (Mon.), and P.G. Sec., Lincolnshire, being the Installing Master. The lodge was opened by Bro. Thomas Williams, P.M., acting as W.M., in the absence of Bro. W. J. Bussell, who has removed from Newport to Waterford. There was a full attendance of the brethren, including a goodly number of the members of P.G.L., who may be said to have assembled in force to do honour to the occasion. The entire ceremony of installation was most ably performed, after which the following appointments were made by the W.M.:—Bros. T. Williams, I.P.M.; Wm. Parfitt, S.W.; J. B. Skeates, J.W.; Rev. S. Fox, Chaplain; Henry Mullock, Treasurer; Jno. Middleton, Secretary; James Cheese, S.D.; Lewis Rogers, J.D.; Henry J. Groves, Organist; T. J. Jones, I.G.; W. McFee, Tyler; William Watkins, Steward.

CHACEWATER.—Boscawen Lodge, No. 699.—The installation festival of this lodge was celebrated on the 11th inst. There was a good attendance of members as well as several visitors, including Bros. W. H. Jenkins, P.P.G.S.W.; T. Solomon, P.P.G.S.W.; and Bell, P.M., of the Phoenix; Mackenzie, of the Fortitude; J. Tregay, P.M., P.G.S.; J. George, Sec.; and R. Heath, J.D., of the Druids; Courtney, of St. Andrew's, Tywardreath; J. Hensley, Amity Lodge, California; &c. The installation of the W.M.-elect, Bro. S. Mitchell, was conducted very efficiently by Bro. J. Niness, P.M., P.P.G. Reg., who was ably assisted by Bros. W. P. Hugoe, P.M.; J. Hall, P.M., P.G.S.; J. Paull, P.M., P.P.G.S. Wks.; W. Bray, P.M.; and S. G. Moyle, P.M. The W.M. selected the following as his officers:—Bros. T. Tonkin, S.W.; J. Climax, J.W.; the Rev. G. L. Church, Chaplain; J. Niness, Treasurer; J. Paull, Secretary; P. Oates, Assistant-Secretary; C. Rapson, S.D.; J. A. Moyle, I.D.; J. Chegwiddar, D.C.; O. Matthews, Organist; J. Holman, I.G.; N. Paull and W. Joll, Stewards; W. Lean, Tyler.

SOUTHEND.—The Priory Lodge, No. 1000.—The annual meeting of this young but flourishing lodge, for the installation of Bro. Benjamin Notley, the W.M.-elect and the appointment of officers for the ensuing year, took place on Tuesday, the 18th inst., at the Middleton Hotel, Southend. The ceremony of installation was rendered in a solemn and imposing manner by Worshipful Bro. Wm. Pissey, P.M., No. 160, and P.J.G.W. of Essex. The W.M. appointed his officers as follows: Bros. Chas. Eltham, S.W.; John Wardell, J.W.; Rev. J. C. Herbert, Chaplain; F. Wood, P.M. 1000, and P.P.S.G.W. (re-elected), Treasurer; W. S. Cox, I.P.M. 1000, and Prov. G.S.B., Secretary; J. R. Hemman, S.D.; A. Lucking, J.D.; E. E. Phillips, D.C.; H. Barton, O.; G. J. Glasscock, I.G.; E. Parsons (re-elected), Tyler. The lodge being closed, about thirty of the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet provided by Mrs. Cantor of the Middleton Hotel. The following Past Masters and visitors were present: W. B. Wood, P.M., P.P.G. S.W.; Harris, P.P.A.G.D.C.; Rowley, P.M., Prov. S.G.D.; W. S. Cox, I.P.M., Prov. G.S.B.; the Rev. J. C. Herbert, P.P.G. Chaplain, Worcestershire; J. Brazier, P.M. (160); F. Wiseman, P.M. (160); John Allen, W.M. (160), P.P.G.S.B.; William Pissey, P.M. (160), Prov. J.G.W.; Burgess, P.M. (160), P.P.G.J.D. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and some excellent songs were given during the evening, by Bros. Barton, Phillips, Abbott, F. Wiseman, Brazier, Rowley, &c. Bro. H. Barton, professor of music, presided at the pianoforte, accompanying the vocalists. The Tyler's toast brought a very pleasant and agreeable evening to a close.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—Howe and Charmwood Lodge, No. 1007.—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held at the Bull's Head Hotel, on Tuesday, the 18th inst., which was attended by the newly-appointed P.G. Master, Bro. Kelly, who presided during the first year of the lodge's existence, as the locum tenens of its W.M., the late universally-beloved and revered P.G.M., the Earl Howe. The lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. John Wilson, in the first and second degrees, when the chair was taken by the W.M., Bro. Kelly, and Bros. W. Greives, Palmer, jun., and A. G. Chamberlain having passed the necessary examination, he proceeded to confer upon them the sublime degree of Master Mason. The lodge was closed down to the first degree, and the R.W.P.G.M. (nominate) having received the thanks of the W.M. and brethren for his kindness in attending on the occasion, the brethren adjourned to refreshment; among those present were, Bros. W. G. Palmer, sen., P.M.; Deane, as S.W.; Capp, J.W.; Goodes, Sec.; Burrows, S.D.; Pratt, J.D.; Dougherty, I.G.; and others.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Hartington Lodge, No. 1021.—On Monday, 10th January, the members of this lodge assembled for the purpose of installing Bro. Henry Cook, P.M., and P.P.G.S. of W. The ceremony was most admirably and impressively performed by Bro. G. W. Kenworthy, P.M. 119, and P.G.J. Deacon of Cumberland and Westmorland, assisted by Bros. Gibson, P.M. 119, and P.P.G.S.W.; and Spittal, P.M. 872, & P.P.G.S. of W. Suitable addresses were given to the following officers, who were invested:—Bros. Cox, as S.W.; Johnson, J.W.; Jos. Fisher, Treasurer; Bagot, Secretary; Thos. Kendall, S.D.; Thompson, J.D.; Thos. Ormady, I.G.; Lewis, Organist; Gradwell, Steward; Haslam, D.C.; and Gabbott, Tyler. The banquet which followed was of the most recherche description, reflecting great credit on the host, Bro. Brownrigg. The newly-installed Master presided, and was supported by Bros. Kenworthy, Gibson, Spittal (installing officers), Barber (P.M. 995), Case (W.M. 995), and Cornfield (W.M. 1225). The following toasts were given in succession and received due honours:—"The Queen," "The Prince and Princess of Wales," "The M.W. the Grand Master," "The R.W. the D.G.M. and Officers of the Grand Lodge," "The R.W.P.G.M. Sir T. G. F. Hesketh, Bart., M.P.," "The D. Prov. G.M. Lord Skelmersdale and rest of the Prov. Grand Officers of West Lancashire." In proposing the health of the newly-installed Master, Bro. Gibson passed a high eulogium on that brother's zeal for the welfare and spread of Masonry, and congratulated the lodge upon having so talented a brother to occupy the chair.—Bro. Cook expressed his gratitude to the brethren for having chosen him to preside over them, and his wish to make the working of the lodge a model for imitation. He also gave some excellent advice to the brethren, and spoke of the advantage and beauty of Masonry.—The health of the installing-officer was proposed by the W.M., who rendered a warm tribute of approbation to that brother for his services, and was sure the knowledge displayed, the careful and correct practice which they had witnessed would call a hearty vote of thanks from all present (given with Masonic honours).—Bro. Kenworthy in reply said he could not express his gratitude for the kind manner the W.M. had alluded to their past friendship, and to the brethren for the heartiness they had received his name; the pleasure he had derived from the installation that day was enhanced by his having never known a more deserving officer or one more zealous and expert.—Other toasts followed, including, "The newly-installed Officers," responded to by Bros. Cox, S. Wand, and Bagot, Sec.;

"Past Masters and Wardens of Hartington Lodge;" "Masters and Wardens of neighbouring lodges," responded to by Bros. Barber, P.M. 995, and Cornfield, W.M. 1225. Of course, "The Ladies" were not forgotten, as

"No mortal can more
The Ladies adore
Than a Free and Accepted Mason."

The last toast, "Speedy relief to all poor and distressed Masons," was given by the W.M.; Harmony, "the chief strength and support of all societies," was kept up in speech and song till high twelve, when the brethren separated, each and every one delighted with the proceedings of the day.

TREDEGAR.—St. George's Lodge, No. 1098.—The installation of Bro. J. Lewis, S.W., as W.M. took place in the Masonic Lodge, Tredegar, on the 13th inst. The impressive ceremony was ably performed by Bro. John Middleton, P.G.S.W. of Monmouthshire, P.G. Sec. Lincolnshire, P.M. 683 and 1098; and the following officers were appointed and invested with their insignia of office:—Bros. B. S. Fisher as I.P.M., J. Phillips as S.W., W. Davies as J.W., D. Hughes as Treasurer, E. Horlick as Secretary, J. J. Morgan as S.D., W. Campbell as J.D., E. Swidenbank as I.G., H. Fowler, Superintendent of Works; G. A. Brown as M.C., E. Griffiths, Organist; C. Peaty and J. Green, Stewards; J. Dunlevy, Tyler. The banquet was held at the Castle Hotel. Among the guests were the under-mentioned:—Bros. Lewis W.M.; Middleton, the Installing Master, P.G.S.W., &c., &c.; S. G. Homfray, P.G.J.W. Mon., P.M. 1098; B. S. Fisher, P.G.J.D., I.P.M.; Robert Bond, P.P.G.A.D.C., P.M. 683 and 1098; G. Fothergill, 471, P.G. St.; Fred. Ware, W.M. Bute Lodge; W. Davies, J.W.; E. Swidenbank, I.G.; E. Horlick, Sec.; D. Hughes, Treasurer; J. Morgan, J.D.; H. Fowler, Superintendent of Works; C. Peaty, Steward; J. Brock, E. Thomas, W. Dobbs, R. Spencer, T. Spencer, W. Green, R. Jackson, R. Jones, E. Phillips, J. Griffiths, and J. Dunlevy, Tyler.

NEWTON ABBOTT.—Devon Lodge, No. 1138.—The members of this lodge assembled on Tuesday last week, at their Masonic Hall, for the purpose of witnessing the installation of Bro. William Samble into the office of W.M. for the ensuing year. The lodge being opened and formal business disposed of, Bro. Samble, the W.M.-elect, was duly installed in the chair as W.M. of the lodge for the ensuing twelve months, in a very efficient and impressive manner, by Bro. F. D. Bowes, P.M., P.P.G.S.B., assisted by Bros. Yates, P.M., P.P.G.S., and P.P.J.W.; H. G. Beachey, W.M., for past year, and Bro. Hopkins. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. H. G. Beachey, I.P.M.; J. Haydon, S.W.; G. Stockman, J.W.; the Rev. S. S. Johns, Chaplain; H. G. Beachey, Treasurer; Bickford Prowse, Secretary; John Chudleigh, S.D.; E. Samble, J.D.; A. Christie, I.G.; Weeks, Tyler.

CONGRESBURY, SOMERSET.—Lodge of Agriculture, No. 1199.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 10th inst. Bro. A. W. Stiff, W.M., was supported by Bros. J. Hurd, S.W.; W. Partridge, J.W.; W. Hunt, Prov. G. Chaplain; P.M. J. R. Bramble; W. Long, Treasurer; L. H. Ricketts, Sec., and many other members of the lodge and visiting brethren. Mr. F. W. Irwin was successfully ballotted for and initiated. Bro. W. Partridge was ballotted for and duly elected W.M. for the ensuing year; Bro. W. Long, as Treasurer; and Bro. C. Banwell as Tyler. Bro. Partridge will be installed W.M. on February 14th. This little lodge has very promising prospects; several new members have recently joined, and several more are waiting to be proposed.

SCARBOROUGH.—Denison Lodge, No. 1248.—This select and flourishing lodge held its regular meeting in the Lodge Room, Grand Hotel, on Thursday, the 13th inst., when the following officers and brethren were present:—Bros. J. O. Surtees, P.G.R., W.M.; S. H. Armitage, S.W.; W. F. Rooke, J.P., P.J.P.G.W., as J.W.; J. E. Green, S.D.; H. W. Garnett, J.D.; J. Dormer, Sec.; J. Sloman, P.P.G.O., Org.; H. C. Martin, P.M., I.G.; J. Verity, Tyler; J. M. Crosby, G. Taylor, G. H. Walsham, J. Fisher, P.M.; W. H. Smyth, P.M., D.P.G.M. (Lincoln), C. B. Brearey, V. Stewart, J. Knight, J. Kitchen, F. Foster, J. S. Cook, and R. H. Peacock, W.M.-elect, 200. The lodge was opened at 7.30 p.m. The minutes were read and confirmed. Bro. F. Foster was passed to the second degree. The election of the W.M. and Treasurer then took place, when Bro. S. H. Armitage, (M.D.), the S.W., was elected W.M., and we feel certain from his Masonic attainments and great zeal for Masonry, that he will be the right man in the right place. Bro. Kitchen was elected Treasurer, and Bros. C. B. Brearey and A. Fricour (the esteemed manager of this celebrated hotel), were appointed Stewards for the annual banquet, which will take place at the installation, on the second Thursday in February. Bro. J. O. Surtees, the W.M., returned thanks to his officers for their regular attendance and general efficiency during the past year, and to the brethren for the kind support and many favours received from them during his year of office. Bro. W. F. Rooke, P.M., &c., proposed in very high terms a vote of thanks to the W.M., which was seconded in similar language by the S.W. and W.M.-elect. On being put to the vote, it was carried unanimously with every demonstration of applause, and we hope in our next report to be able to show that some substantial mark of esteem has been presented to this efficient and very zealous Mason, on his retiring from the high office of W.M. The lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren spent a very agreeable and fraternal hour at the refreshment board.

LIVERPOOL.—Neptune Lodge, No. 1264.—A regular lodge meeting was held at the Masonic Temple, on Jan. 7th. The lodge was opened by the W.M. Bro. Joseph Healing, and the minutes of the last regular lodge were read and confirmed. Bro. E. Johnson, of Lodge No. 249, was duly passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. The lodge was then closed down to the first degree, when the W.M. rose and said: Brethren, I have now a most pleasing duty to perform, and for the information of the visiting brethren, I may say that the brethren of this lodge have subscribed a sum of money for the purchase of a Past Master's Jewel, to be presented to our I.P.M., Bro. Hugh Williams, for whom myself and brethren entertain the most profound respect; and I am sure that he has and deserves the respect of all who know him, and the more we know of him the more we know to respect. I have been acquainted with Bro. Williams for many years, and during that time he has most worthily advanced in my estimation. The W.M. then took the jewel in his hand, and read the following inscription: "To Bro. Hugh Williams, P.M., this jewel is respectfully presented by the brethren of the Neptune Lodge, 1264, of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, in testimony of their warm regard towards him as a man and a Mason. Liverpool, January 7th, 1870." The W.M. then placed it on the breast of Bro. Williams, and said: Bro. Williams, may you live long in health and strength, and with pleasure wear it, for it is a token of our kind feeling towards you as an honourable brother of the Craft, and especially of this lodge. The brethren feel highly gratified by your acceptance of this humble tribute to your moral and social worth, and for the most kindly feeling you always entertain towards them. Although your profession does not admit of your being with us at all our meetings, you are kindly alluded to in the toast to our seafaring brethren. May you long wear this jewel near your heart, and may you enjoy all the blessings that this world can afford, and happiness in the world to come.—Bro. Williams, in returning thanks, said: W. Master, Officers and Brethren, I cannot express in adequate terms my sincere thanks for your kindness on the present occasion, when I see the outpouring of respect and brotherly love towards me, and especially this evening in the handsome jewel you have now presented to me. It produces emotions in me that prevent my doing full justice to the expression of my feelings. I feel proud in knowing I have your respect and brotherly love in the bond of friendship, in unity, peace, and concord, and may the day be far off when a Freemason should feel otherwise. Brethren, it is, as it should be amongst us, our brotherly love is mutual, and I can say that during the time I have known you, I have not heard an unkind word nor seen an unkind action among you; how good and joyful a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity. Even when I am far away on the deep waters, and my lodge-night comes, my mind is with you. I join with you in our common supplication to the G.A.O.T.U. I fancy I can see your well-known faces, some newly-initiated brother being taught the principles of brotherly love, relief, and truth; I can see you rejoice with him, I hear your closing benediction, and then your loyal toasts and joyous songs; yea, and nearly feel your parting grip. Such feelings as these draw us nearer and nearer together in brotherly love; we feel each other's joys, we share each other's sorrow, we sympathise with and assist each other in the day of affliction, and in the hour of trial we fail not. When that parting hour arrives to me, I hope I may be in the bosom of my family, surrounded by my brethren, and though my lips may cease to move, I shall leave this love offering as an heirloom to my children. It was presented to me in a spirit of love, and in handing it to them at that parting moment will be indicative of the amount of love that I bear for my family, and then may the scene of this evening float across my fading vision, and placing my trust in God I may depart in peace. Brethren, you will forgive me; my feelings have led me on into this strain of thought, and now I must forbear. I must again thank you all for this valuable present. I shall wear it near my heart, that repository of love for my brethren. When I am on shore I make it an especial duty to be with you on our lodge nights, and when I am at sea I am with you in spirit and join with you in the cup, and pledge myself to you and my seafaring brethren, some of whom are then with you and many are not, but are, like me, ploughing the deep sea, wending their way in the dark hour of the night, while the wind whistles aloft, no sound of voice save the plaintive cry of some wild-sea bird, yet we go on our way rejoicing, for we are on a mission of love. Though the storm may break over us, we have confidence; we place our trust in our great Creator, for it is He who gives, and it is He who taketh away. May peace and happiness reign amongst you, and secure to this lodge the welfare and success that it deserves. If you follow the sound advice of your W.M., Bro. Healing, whose working in the lodge is only equalled by his zeal for its prosperity, you cannot go far astray, and I am sure that by the attention, knowledge, and persevering efforts of his officers you have gained a position rarely gained by so young a lodge, but which you so well deserve. In conclusion, brethren, accept my most heartfelt and sincere thanks, and may God be with you.—The W.M., Bro. Healing, then rose and said: Brethren, I have now another pleasing duty to perform. It has been my desire since this lodge was formed, and in consequence of the great honour you have conferred on me in electing me as your first W.M., to make some suitable acknowledgment of your kindness in reposing that great trust in me. It is but six months since this lodge was consecrated, and I may say that we have progressed wonderfully. We now number about forty members; true we have not initiated very many, but I am glad to say that those we have initiated are of good moral and social standing. I hope we shall retain that standard of excellence, and not initiate any but what are of good character. Reverting to the subject most pressing on my mind, I beg of you to accept from me this present, consisting of a volume of the Sacred Laws, which every true Mason holds in veneration and respect. It is the unerring standard of truth and justice, piety and virtue, and may it always remain so in our Order. It is one of our three lights, the square and compass accompanying it, are the other two, which every Mason is taught how to apply to their morals, and may the G.A.O.T.U. help us to appreciate in their fullness the inestimable truths taught therein, and may our children, and children's children for ages yet to come, yea until the great millennium itself, take this inspired volume as their beacon guide through life, and love it as we do, and win their way to those immortal mansions where the blessed are at rest, where the Great Supreme reigns for ever, and from whom all goodness emanates. Brethren, be pleased to accept these three great Masonic lights as the humble offering of your W. Master.—Bro. Pemberton, S.W., then rose and said: W. Master, in the name of myself and the brethren of this lodge, I have great pleasure in saying that we gratefully and joyfully accept your most valuable and handsome present, and may the great truths contained in that best of all books find a true and sacred repository in our hearts, fit us as true brethren in this world, and prepare us for the world to come.—Bro. Richardson, J.W., having spoken in similar terms, proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Healing, not only for his present kindness, but for the general interest he takes in the welfare of the lodge. The motion having been seconded by Bro. A. Davis, J.D., was most unanimously carried.—Bro. Williams, I.P.M., then read the following inscription (a most splendid specimen of ornamental calligraphy by a youth, the son of Bro. A. Davies, J.D., of this lodge; a vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to the youth for his ingenuity and labour) in the Bible: "Presented, on the seventh day of January, A.L. 5870, A.D. 1870, by the W.M., Bro. Joseph Healing, P.M., 249, to the Neptune Lodge, No. 1264, of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, consecrated on the eleventh day of June, A.L. 5859, A.D. 1869." The brethren were then called from labour to refreshment, and a splendid repast was heartily partaken of and seemed to give entire satisfaction. The cloth having been removed, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts and songs were given. Among the visitors were Bro. Meacock, P.M., 477; Bro. Hill, W.M., 1276; Bro. Fozzard, P.M., 1035; Bro. Astors, I.G., 1276; and many brethren of foreign lodges. The speeches were good and brilliant, and added very much to the enjoyment of the brethren assembled. The brethren were then called from refreshment to labour, when two candidates, and one joining brother were proposed. Nothing more appearing for the good of Masonry, the lodge was closed in due and solemn form, and the brethren separated in peace and harmony.

SITTINGBOURNE.—Lodge of St. Michael, No. 1273.—On Tuesday evening, the 11th inst., a gathering of brethren of the youthful lodge of St. Michael took place, for the purpose of raising three brethren to the third degree. It was matter of regret that there were but few of the lodge present on the occasion, and had it not been for the attendance of several of Adam's Lodge (Sheerness), the ceremony could not have been proceeded with. It is to be hoped that the St. Michael's will on all future occasions assemble in stronger numbers, so that it may not be said that a want of interest in the grand principles enunciated by the Craft has already taken possession of them. The ceremony under notice was impressively performed by Bro. Dr. J. S. Keddel, P.P.G.S.W.; the other brethren of Adam's Lodge, present, being Bro. Isaac Townsend, P.P.G.R.; Bro. J. G. Green, P.P.J.D.; Bros. Bagshaw, Fabian, and J. T. Nixon. A banquet, provided in Bro. Owen's usually excellent style, followed.

ROYAL ARCH.

PROVINCE OF HAMPSHIRE AND THE ISLE OF WIGHT.

A very influential meeting of Royal Arch Masons of this province was held at Portsmouth, on Monday, the 24th inst. The Prov. G. Supt. (M.E. Comp. W. W. Bach, M.P.) presided, and delivered a most admirable address to the assembled companions on the many excellencies of the Order, and their duties as R.A. Masons. The minutes of the last Grand Chapter having been read and confirmed, the M.E.C. Frost was re-elected Treasurer unanimously, and the Prov. G. Sup. proceeded to invest the following officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—M.E. Comps. Deacon (394), H.; Colonel Mehan (857), I.; W. Hickman (130), S.E.; W. A. Wolfe, (342), S.N.; W. Furber (130), P.S.; W. Edmonds and G. Phillips (394), A.S.; M. E. Frost, Treasurer; P. Keane (394), R.; J. E. Le Feuvre (130), Sword Bearer; Craven, Standard Bearer; Lemon (130), D.C.; Biggs (394) and Dawkins (130), Janitors. A vote of condolence with the family of the late P.G. Supt. was proposed and carried unanimously, expressing the deep sympathy of the companions assembled on the loss of the late P.G. Supt. Admiral Sir J. Curtis, Bart., and their estimation of his services to Masonry for so many years. After the transaction of the other business of the province, the companions retired to a very sumptuous banquet at the Masonic Hall, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly proposed and most heartily responded to.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

LIVERPOOL.—Jacques de Molay Encampment.—A convocation of the order was holden at the Masonic Temple, Liverpool, on the 21st inst. The Jacques de Molay Encampment was opened in due form and with solemn prayer by Sir Knight Thomas Berry, Eminent Commander, Provincial 1st Grand Captain, and Grand 3rd Standard Bearer. There was a numerous attendance of Knights, and after the elections of Sir Knight Young-husband as E.C., and Sir Knight Alpass as Treasurer, for the ensuing year, the encampment was closed and the Knights adjourned to a banquet at the Adelphi Hotel, where they partook of the bread of plenty and the cup of cheerfulness.

A NEW MASONIC PROVINCE.

THE successful inauguration of a new Masonic Province in England, and especially one which comprises the lodges of the metropolitan county, is an event which cannot be viewed with indifference by the Craft at large, while we are satisfied that its formation is regarded with peculiar interest and gratification by the brethren more immediately concerned. The history of Freemasonry in Middlesex—apart from the London district—does not, we are well aware, extend back to the dark ages, and the new province cannot boast of a long roll of worthies connected with the Craft. However, this is to be accounted for by the fact that a century ago there were few hamlets in Middlesex capable of supporting a lodge, or of sufficient importance to tempt city men to encounter the dangers of the road when footpads infested every lane, and highwaymen held high revel on every heath. A journey to Hounslow in those days was usually prefaced by the not enlivening process of making one's will, as encounters with the bold "minions of the moon" were not always bloodless, the chivalry of Claud Duval's successors being somewhat of a questionable character, and dancing minuets by moonlight with fair maidens having somehow gone out of fashion. Fancy an announcement in the Morning Chronicle of the period reading thus, "On Monday last, Mr. Wellbeloved, Master of a Freemasons' Lodge at High Valley, when riding home in company with Mr. Dolittle from the lodge, was attacked on Lonely Heath by three masked highwaymen, whose watchword evidently was not Masonic, as they hailed the two travellers in the usual jargon of those bold villains, 'Your money or your life,' at the same time presenting their pistols at the heads of Mr. Wellbeloved and Mr. Dolittle. We regret to add that the thieves succeeded in carrying off a handsome silver punch-bowl, just presented to Mr. Wellbeloved by his friends, and also despoiled the unfortunate gentlemen of their outer garments, even to their shoe-buckles, and up to the present time the miscreants have evaded capture." This is a sample of the records which abounded in the "good old times, when George III. was King," and the rarity of lodges in rural Middlesex is thus explained. However, in 1785, the celebrated Bro. Thomas Duncerley, of Hampton Court Palace, broke the Masonic ice in Middlesex by establishing the Lodge of Harmony, now No. 255, at Hampton Court, where it continued until removed to Richmond in 1828. This lodge has ever held the highest character in the Craft, and apart from the mere social standing of its members, it can point to such names on its roll as the Rev. S. Hemming, D.D., renowned in connection with the Masonic Union of 1813; the talented Henry O'Brien, author of the "Round Towers of Ireland;" and the brave General, Sir Joseph Thackwell, of Indian warlike fame. Most appropriately, the first Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex has been selected from the members of this lodge, in the person of Col. Francis Burdett. The next assemblage of "brethren met to expatiate on the mysteries of the Craft," was held at Uxbridge in 1796; this lodge had previously existed in London for many years, and was called "St. James." The lodge flourished for a brief period, yet during that time many of the leading gentry in the neighbourhood became members, and from its proximity to Hounslow—then a greater military station than it is now—many men of the sword likewise joined the Order, and doubtless afterwards assisted in disseminating its principles in other spheres of action. There was one remarkable feature about this Uxbridge lodge which deserves to be borne in remembrance—the brethren actually held a lodge of instruction regularly at the Green Dragon, then a noted hostelry on the outskirts of the town, and which still exists, though shorn to some extent of its pristine lustre, like the ancient Crown Tavern in the same town, where the famous abortive treaty between Charles I. and his victorious Parliament was negotiated. Lodges of Instruction in 1780 or 1790! what a suggestive subject for contemplation. Did the Preceptor smoke a long clay pipe, and evolve from spiral wreaths of mist his ideas of Masonic precepts, and his interpretations of Masonic duty? Did he indulge in potations long and deep, interspersing the edifying performance with profound allusions to the wisdom of King Solomon, or the might of King Hiram? or did he eschew all these things, and go in for Freemasonry pure and "undiluted"? Haply, these queries cannot now be resolved; the impenetrable silence of the grave covers the past, but we are inclined to believe that some of the objectionable practices of the present day in English Lodges of Instruction are derived from that not very remote era when roysterers ruled the roast in every grade of society, and when even prelates were more renowned for the exquisite flavour of their port and claret, than for the soundness or orthodoxy of their divinity. This, however, is not a characteristic of the nineteenth century, and we may congratulate ourselves upon the fact, although, as above intimated, there is still room for improvement in the conduct of our Masonic seminaries. From the Green Dragon at Uxbridge, where "St. James" was held in veneration, to the King's Arms Inn at the same place, we must now journey in pursuit of Middlesex Masonry. "St. James" retired in favour of the "Royal Union," so named in honour of the late princely dukes of Kent and Sussex, under whose auspices the two Grand Lodges of England were happily united. The "Royal Union, No. 382" is now the oldest lodge in the Metropolitan province, and with the exception of the "Salisbury" Lodge, No. 434, first formed at Waltham Cross, and soon afterwards removed to Enfield, "382" enjoyed the distinction of being the only lodge in Middlesex for a dozen years. Nine years ago, when the brethren first agitated the question of the establishment of a Grand Lodge for the province, there were but three lodges, and the Grand Master very naturally doubted the propriety of granting their request. Since then, six new lodges have been added, and under peculiarly auspicious auguries the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex was inaugurated on Saturday last by a Mason no less distinguished than Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of England, who, upon this occasion, as upon many previous ones, evinced his thorough mastery of every point which can render Masonic ceremonies effective and sublime. The assemblage was in every respect worthy of the event; about one hundred brethren, including several eminent as leaders of the Craft, participated in the august solemnities, and tendered their homage and congratulations to Colonel Burdett, as the first Provincial Grand Master for Middlesex. Of that popular and respected brother's qualifications for his new office it would be fulsome to speak; the reputation he has acquired as a good Mason amongst our brethren in Ireland is a sufficient guarantee for his efficiency as a provincial ruler of the Craft, and we are satisfied that under his guidance the Province of Middlesex will develop itself into a most important stronghold of Freemasonry. We are certain that the Charities will be more thoroughly aided, because the brethren will realise their position in relation to other provinces, and emulate the glorious example which has been set in this and other respects by Lancashire and Yorkshire.

We, therefore, heartily welcome the "New Province of Middlesex" into the great family of English Masonic Provinces. We desire to record our appreciation of an event which tends to consolidate and cement the Craft; and from the success which has attended the inaugural ceremonial at Teddington, we anticipate, without reserve, a brilliant and happy future for the newly-constituted Provincial Grand Lodge.

Multum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

BRO. "RUSTICUS" AND "ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST."

I am pleased to find in the person of Bro. Rusticus, one of the Freemasons who recollects his "O.B." and the example of our Patron Saint. It is true, a brother in the Grand Lodge of Scotland said that "the teachings of St. John the Baptist were not worth a fig," and he was not interfered with by any then present. The brother who brought forward a complaint against an office-bearer of the Grand Lodge of Scotland for a crime similar to that for which St. John was decapitated, although Grand Lodge passed a motion against him, was afterwards entertained at a banquet by the Freemasons representing upwards of thirty lodges throughout Scotland, and in open lodge. This brother still continues to visit lodges in all parts of Scotland and Grand Lodge are aware of it, and many of its members are so ashamed of their conduct, that the Grand Lodge are contented to take no notice.

CIPES.

BRO. "RUSTICUS" AND "MASONIC PROCEDURE IN TRIALS OR COMPLAINTS."

No Freemason can be expelled, suspended, excluded, reprimanded, or censured, without a complaint being served upon him, stating clearly and distinctly the nature of offence, and being tried in the way and manner provided for by all Grand Lodges throughout the world who recognise justice as one of the cardinal virtues of Freemasonry. I shall send to THE FREEMASON a form of the procedure which ought to be observed at all Masonic trials, and if inserted, Bro. Rusticus will thereby have an answer to his letter.

CIPES.

I should be glad if Bro. Roberts, P.P.G.P., E.L., would give to the brethren more explanation of the ceremonies at the Lodge of Harmony, 198, at Rochdale, as reported in your last issue.

INAUGURATION of the PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE of MIDDLESEX, AND CONSECRATION OF THE BURDETT LODGE No. 1293.

A most important meeting in connection with Freemasonry was held at the Clarence Hotel, Teddington, on Saturday, the 22nd instant, for the double purpose of consecrating a new Lodge and subsequently inaugurating the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex. The peculiar circumstances under which the Burdett Lodge has been formed, having for its first W.M. the highly-respected brother whose name it bears, that brother himself the Representative of the Grand Lodge of Ireland, and recently appointed to the important position of Provincial Grand Master for the county in which the lodge is to be held, invested the proceedings of the day with an unusual amount of interest. The high appreciation of the new appointment, and of the importance of the Burdett Lodge, was made manifest by the large attendance of brethren on this occasion. Our space will not admit of a full return of all present, and our readers will, therefore, be pleased to accept the following list as a tolerably near approach to the perfect muster-roll of brethren. Of the founders of the Burdett Lodge were present: Bros. Colonel Francis Burdett, the W.M.-designate; George Kenning, S.W.-designate; Robert Kenyon, J.W.-designate; R. W. Little, P.M.; W. H. Hubbard, P.M.; Major H. W. Palmer; H. G. Buss, P.M.; F. Walters, P.M.; F. Binckes, P.M., &c., &c. The members of other lodges of the Province and visitors to both the Burdett Lodge and the Provincial Grand Lodge, comprised, amongst many others, the V.W. Bro. John Hervey, P.G.S.D., Grand Secretary; Thos. Fenn, P. Asst. G.D.C.; Bros. James Brett, A.G.P.; F. Davison, P.P.G.R. Hereford; E. Benham, P.P.S.W. Wilts; F. Adlard, P.P.A.D.C. Essex; Rev. D. Shaboe, P. G. Chaplain, Suffolk; W. Roebuck, P.G.S.B. Surrey; H. E. C. Finch, P.G. Registrar Herts; Raynham W. Stewart, P.P.S.G.D. Essex; W. Coombes, P.M. and Secretary, 382; C. E. Woodward, Treasurer, 382; H. C. Finch, P.M. and Secretary, 708; J. J. Wilson, P.M. and W.M., 1237; T. Morris, P.M., 865; James Stevens, P.M. and S.W., 1216; James Glaisher, F.R.S., P.M., 33; A. B. Day, P.M., 865; E. Clark, P.M., 1194; J. G. Marsh, P.M., 28, 1194; J. Hester, P.M., 788; J. D. McDougall, P.M., 788; A. Avery, P.M., 1194; W. M. Bywater, P.M., 19; R. D. Odell, P.M., 3; Rev. F. Champion de Crespigny; W. Smeed, P.M., 946; A. A. Richards, P.M., 865; G. T. Noyce, W.M. 975; W. Luce, P.M., 142; J. H. H. Douglas, P.M., 79; Smith, W.M., 890; W. Battye, P.M., W.M., 181; W. Platt, P.M. 23; W. Ough, G.P., P.M. 1273; C. B. Payne, P.M., 27; T. Wescombe, P.M., 905; J. H. Doughney, P.M., 79; W. M. Cameron, P.M., 201; R. Boncey, P.M. 79; C. Murton, P.M. 7; C. Tye, 1237; H. Allman, J.W. 1194; G. King, S.W. 1238; H. Parker, 435; R. J. Elsam, 201; Magnus Ohren, 33; J. Butten, 73; Angelo Lewis; W. Coward, 905; Theodore Distin, 175; W. Walters; Edwards, 144; A. Frickenhaus, 862; H. W. Williams, 193; J. H. Edwards, 8; Joseph Taylor, 18; W. B. Heath, P.S.G.W. Herts, 504; &c., &c.

A Lodge was formed at half-past one precisely, the V.W. Brother John Hervey presiding, which having been opened in the three degrees, the presiding officer addressed the brethren on the nature of the meeting, and expressed his sincere hope that the lodge about to be consecrated might, in every respect, prove worthy of the Craft, and be of great advantage to Freemasonry in the Province to which it would be attached. The petition and warrant having been read, the founders of the new lodge were placed before the presiding officer, and the Burdett Lodge, No. 1293, was constituted according to ancient form. Bro. James Brett, A.G.P., acting as J.W., then delivered an oration on the nature and principles of the institution; and the anthem "Behold, how good and joyful a thing it is to dwell together in unity!" having been sung, the presiding officer, assisted by the Wardens, pro tem., and the Rev. F. C. de Crespigny, as chaplain, solemnly consecrated the lodge, the whole of the beautiful and impressive ceremony being carried out in most effective detail, after which the lodge was dedicated with the usual accompaniments of prayer and praise. A more perfect and finished consecration ceremony few brethren can have witnessed, and the expressions of satisfaction evinced by all present bore testimony to the skill and ability of the Grand Secretary.

The lodge having been resumed to the second degree, Bro. R. Wentworth Little presented the worthy and honourable Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett, Representative of the Grand Lodge of Ireland, and Provincial Grand Master (nominate) of Middlesex, to receive, at the hands of the Grand Secretary, the benefit of installation as W.M. of the Burdett Lodge, No. 1293. This ceremony was also most admirably performed, and the newly-installed Master received from the brethren the most cordial congratulations and hearty good wishes for the welfare and prosperity of the lodge. The W.M. then proceeded to install his officers in the following order, viz.:—Bros. George Kenning, S.W.; Robert Kenyon, J.W.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Treas.; Wm. Henry Hubbard, P.M., Secretary; Major H. W. Palmer, S.D.; D. R. Still, J.D.; H. G. Buss, P.M., Director of Ceremonies; M. Edwards, Inner Guard; and John Gilbert, Tyler. After the dispatch of some necessary business relating to the conduct of the new lodge, numerous propositions of joining members and initiates were made by the W.M., S.W., and Treasurer respectively, and the lodge having been resumed to the first degree, the W.M. resigned his chair to the Grand Secretary and retired.

Having requested Grand Officers to act as Wardens,

The V.W. Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, then declared the brethren present as constituting a Provincial Grand Lodge. Bro. R. Wentworth Little in due form announced that the R.W. Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett was in attendance for the purpose of being duly installed as a Provincial Grand Master, and was requested to procure and read the charter or warrant for the Grand Lodge of Middlesex, and also the patent authorising Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett to govern the same, which being done, the Grand Secretary deputed the Acting Wardens and Stewards to attend on the R.W.P.G.M., and conduct him to the Provincial Grand Lodge. The entry of Colonel Burdett was the signal for repeated bursts of acclamation, and the distinguished brother was profoundly touched by the warmth and sincerity of his reception. Having taken the obligation of Provincial Grand Master, the Grand Secretary invested Colonel Burdett with the insignia of his exalted office, and conducted him to the throne, from whence the R.W.P.G.M. addressed the brethren in terms of grateful appreciation of their cordial welcome. Having returned thanks to the Grand Secretary, and obtained an unanimous vote of the members of the Burdett Lodge to the election of Bro. Hervey as an honorary member of that lodge, the R.W.P.G.M. proceeded to invest his Grand Officers in the following order, viz.:—

Frederic Davison, (P.M. 10), 708, Senior Grand Warden.

John M. Stedwell, P.M., 788 and 946, Junior Grand Warden.

Rev. Frederick Champion de Crespigny, 708, Grand Chaplain.

Henry Gustavus Buss, (P.M. 27), 1293, Grand Treasurer.

George Cordwell, P.M., 788, Grand Registrar.

Robert Wentworth Little, (P.M. 975), 1194 and 1293, Grand Secretary.

Albert B. Day, M.D., P.M., 865, Senior Grand Deacon.

John Josiah Wilson, W.M., 1237, Junior Grand Deacon.

Edward Clark, P.M., 1194, Grand Supt. of Works.

John Trickett, C.E., W.M., 1194, Grand Director of Ceremonies.

James Green, W.M., 788, Asst. Grand Director of Ceremonies.

William Coombes, P.M., 382, Grand Sword Bearer.

Thomas R. McIlwham, W.M., 946, Grand Organist.

William Smeed, P.M., 946, Grand Pursuivant.

John George Marsh, P.M. 28, 1194, Assistant Grand Pursuivant.

John Gilbert, Grand Tyler.

Antonio John Codner, 382,
Arthur A. Richards, P.G.S., 865, Thomas Cubitt, 1194,
Alfred Avery, 1194,
Joseph Taylor, 1238,
George Kenning, S.W., 1293,

Grand Stewards.

The proposed bye-laws of the Provincial Grand Lodge were then read and approved, and the business of Inauguration having been completed the Grand Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren dispersed for a short interval preparatory to the which was well attended, as seventy brethren sat down to table. The musical arrangements, both during lodge ceremonials and at the banquet, were under the direction of Bro. Henry Parker, assisted by Bros. Theodore Distin and Coward, and gave great satisfaction.

The cloth having been cleared and grace sung, The R.W.P.G.M. proposed "The Queen and the Craft," which was drunk with all Masonic honours, the National Anthem being sung in solos and chorus.

The R.W.P.G.M. next proposed "The health of the M.W.G.M., the Earl of Zetland," remarking upon the length of years during which our chief had served Freemasonry, and which had duly earned for him that honourable and dignified retirement he now sought.

The R.W.P.G.M. proposed "The health of Bro. H.R.H., the Prince of Wales, Past Grand Master," and after a few brief remarks, expressive of the pleasure felt by himself and the Craft generally in the association of H.R.H.'s name with the Order, added "The health of the R.W.D.G.M., the Earl de Grey and Ripon, and the rest of the Grand Officers."

Bro. THOS. FENN, P.A.G.D.C., on behalf of the officers of Grand Lodge, and venturing to include also amongst them the Royal Brother first named, assured the R.W.P.G.M. and the brethren, of the satisfaction which it had given Grand Lodge to grant the patent for the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex, and to himself and the brethren who had accompanied him for the purpose of assisting in the propitious business of the day. He sincerely hoped, and ventured to predict, that the new Provincial Grand Lodge would be one of the brightest ornaments in the Craft.

The V.W. Bro. JOHN HERVEY, Grand Secretary, proposed "The health of the R.W.P.G.M. of Middlesex, Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett," referring to the labours of the day as something unique in Freemasonry. He knew of no brother who could parallel the experience of the occasion which had called them together. A new lodge had been consecrated bearing the name of its founder, who became at once its first Master and the head of the province in which the lodge is situated. It was a proud day for the worthy brother who had now become the Provincial Grand Master for Middlesex; and a proud day for him who had been so pleasantly engaged in the performance of the necessary ceremonies. He felt sure that the distinguished brother whose health he now proposed was in every way well calculated to preserve the dignity of the Craft, and to carry out the important work attached to his exalted office. He was glad that the M.W.G.M. had constituted Middlesex into a province, as the several lodges in that county were now acknowledged, and placed under the control of a brother so well-known and respected, and of whom he might sincerely say, that he has been and is a good man and Mason. (Hear, hear.) Whatever position Colonel Burdett might have been placed in, he would have reflected credit upon the Order, but probably in none could he so especially render the Craft service as in that of Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex. He was eminently the right man in the right place, and no better reason could be given or advanced for his calling upon the brethren to respond heartily to the toast he now proposed.

The response was given with great enthusiasm and long-continued acclamation.

Song, by Bro. Distin, "A Soldier to-night is our Guest."

The R.W. PROVINCIAL GRAND MASTER, whose rising was greeted with renewed cheers, expressed the difficulty he felt in finding sufficiently adequate terms wherewith to return thanks for the kind manner in which he had been spoken of by the Grand Secretary, and the enthusiastic welcome accorded to him by the brethren. He had served Masonry for many years, but could scarcely have hoped to receive such an acknowledgment as that which placed him in the position he now enjoyed. He had received much support from the brethren generally, and he now hoped that such support might not only be continued, but as far as the business of the province was concerned, might even be increased. Unless so supported, and he had no apprehension to the contrary, all his endeavours on behalf of the province would be as nothing, but he felt sure that the standard raised to-day would be rallied around by all interested in maintaining its proud position. He knew the responsibility he had undertaken, but with the assistance of his chosen officers, he felt sure that his exertions would be crowned by success. From this moment Middlesex would appear not only as a province in Freemasonry, but also as a bright star in the horizon of the noble Order. It was a proud day for him, as the Provincial Grand Master, to see so many tried and true friends around him. The province was an important one, and everything should be done to maintain its importance. He should especially look to the fostering of the Charities of the Order, and should ask for support at the forthcoming festivals of the several institutions. In conclusion, he most heartily thanked the Grand Secretary, his Provincial Grand Officers, and the brethren for their attention to his remarks and the cordial reception of his name.

The R.W.P.G.M. then called upon Bro. Stevens for a song of his (Bro. Stevens') composition, "What better theme than Masonry?" which gave much satisfaction, the brethren joining in the chorus with good effect.

The R.W.P.G.M. next proposed "The health of the V.W. Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary," thanking him for the services he had that day rendered both to the Provincial Grand Lodge and to the Burdett Lodge, services which he was sure the brethren would not easily forget, and which he must be permitted to add were most efficiently rendered. (Drank with high honours.)

Song, Bro. Coward, "Sweet Mary of the Vale."

The V.W. Bro. JOHN HERVEY, Grand Secretary, replied, thanking the brethren for the honour conferred, and considering that what services he had endeavoured to render had been amply repaid by his election to the position of an honorary member of the Burdett Lodge, and the cordial acknowledgment which the brethren had otherwise made. What he had performed was a labour of love, as well as one of duty, and he should retire from amongst them at the conclusion of the day's proceedings with the pleasurable consciousness of having spent much time with both enjoyment to himself and profit to Freemasonry.

The R.W.P.G.M. proposed the health of the Provincial Grand Wardens, to which Bro. DAVISON, S.G.W., replied in appropriate terms.

The R.W.P.G.M. proposed the "Health of the Chaplains, Bros. the Rev. F. C. de Crespigny and the Rev. D. Shaboe," and each of these brethren returned thanks.

Piano solo, by Bro. Parker.

The R.W.P.G.M. then proposed "The health of Bro. R. W. Little, P.G. Sec.," who had so mainly contributed to the success of the business of the day, and upon whom he passed a high eulogium in respect of his Masonic ability and social qualities. The toast was drunk with acclamation, and Bro. LITTLE, in very felicitous language, responded to the compliment.

The R.W.P.G.M. proposed "The Visitors," and referring again to the charities, many ardent supporters of which he recognised amongst them, mentioned the name of Bro. Binckes, the Secretary of the Boys' School.

Bro. BINCKES in reply stated that really he was a member of the Burdett Lodge, but probably might be considered a visitor to the Provincial Grand Lodge; he would therefore accept the position in which the R.W.P.G.M. had placed him, and thanked the brethren for the heartiness with which the toast had been drunk. He would take the opportunity to "improve the occasion," by venturing a modest appeal on behalf of the Boys' School, and had the confidence to ask the support of the R.W.P.G.M. at the ensuing festival, as well as that of the newly-appointed officers.

(It is almost needless to add, that Bro. Binckes, as usual, "improved the occasion" to good effect, as within a short time after he had sat down he rose again to announce that the R.W. Provincial Grand Master, the Provincial Grand Secretary, and several other brethren would take no small share in securing the success of the festival to be presided over by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, in March next.)

"The Stewards," "Officers of the Lodge, 1293," and the Tyler's toast were amongst the remaining toasts of the evening, after which and partaking of coffee in the ante-room, the brethren sought the train for London and separated highly pleased with the whole of the proceedings connected with the Inauguration of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—A grateful father is desirous of sending by mail, free of charge to all who wish it, a copy of the prescription by which his daughter was restored to perfect health from confirmed Consumption, after having been given up by her physicians and despaired of by her father, a well-known physician, who has now discontinued practice. MASONIC BALL AT NEWBURY,

The Ball held at the Mansion House, on Friday, passed off with the greatest amount of eclat. Although the first of its kind held in Newbury, the ball presented all the appearance of an old-established meeting, being attended by numerous residents of the town and neighbourhood, as well as many who came from distant parts of the county. Both in point of numbers, the completeness of arrangement, and the unmixed enjoyment of the company, the ball of Friday night cannot be regarded less than a great success, and presenting a model for future Masonic gatherings of a like nature.

The accomplishment of results so indispensable to enjoyment at such a gathering was mainly due to the untiring zeal with which the committee had previously worked, aided by their energetic secretary, Mr. G. Cosburn. The whole length of the Mansion House was appropriated for the purposes of the dance; and the room was brilliantly lighted and decorated with a taste and appreciation of the requirements of a Masonic gathering which was highly creditable to Mr. G. Boyer, whose identification with the Craft no doubt enabled him the better to carry out his task. Many who were present confessed that they had never seen the "old room" look better, and we admit, for uniqueness and effect, never having seen the ornamentation equalled. Festoons of evergreens and flowers looped with blue, silver, and white rosettes and streamers, were carried all round the room below the cornice, pendant from which hung Masonic blue bannerets lined with silver, and bearing emblems and mottoes of the Craft. On the blinds of each window were medallions, in blue, purple, vermillion, gold, &c., with emblems of the several degrees of advanced Freemasonry, surrounded by wreaths of evergreens, and immediately in front of these were elegant candelabra, each holding eight wax lights, which thoroughly illuminated the emblems. Between the windows were consol glasses in elegant frames, and in every available space on the walls mirrors were fixed, which reflected the brilliancy of the decorations and the graceful forms and varied costume of those who engaged in the Terpsichorean revel, as they swayed to the dulcet sounds of the music of the band, whose scarlet uniforms and stalwart forms, as they occupied a raised dais wreathed with flowers at the upper end of the room, in no small degree enhanced the charming effect. At the sides of the room were raised platforms covered with green baize and supporting seats with crimson cushions. The landing at the top of the stairs was converted into a refreshment saloon, and the Council Chamber laid for supper. The police-station when renovated, formed an agreeable reception room for gentlemen; and altogether the arrangements were as convenient as could well be.

The company began to arrive soon after nine, and dancing commenced at half-past. By the time the whole of the visitors had arrived there were over 120 present, and as the ladies and gentlemen were fairly proportioned the pleasure of the evening was greatly enhanced. The band of the 1st Life Guards, under the direction of Bro. Edwards, performed a choice selection of dance music in capital style, while the dancers footed it merrily to the inspiring strains.

About twelve a brief intermission occurred for supper, after which the impulse was—

and in unwearied pleasure the intervening hours sped on with fugitive swiftness, till six o'clock brought with it the end of the programme; and even then gallant Masons, and fair dancers too, with ardent Terpsichorean instincts, apparently believing in the idea that it was impossible to have too much of a good thing, proposed that the programme should be gone through again, but this was deferred, in the toast which was drunk before separating, "To our next merry meeting." Previous to the programme, however, being completed, Bro. Cave ascended the platform devoted to the band, and, in the name of the company, expressed their thanks to the W.M. for his attendance, and for the very efficient and satisfactory way in which the ball had been conducted. Bro. Bland replied, and a vote of thanks was subsequently presented to the M.C.'s, for whom Bro. Bance returned thanks. The several speakers were loudly cheered; and when allusion was made to a recurrence of a Masonic ball in the course of two or three years, an enthusiastic visitor exclaimed, "Let us have another next week!" There was undoubtedly a feeling amongst the numerous party that the Masonic body should give another ball next year.

The following were noticed among the company present on Friday evening:—The Mayor of Newbury (Bro. R. A. Ryott), Miss F. Ryott, Bro. Bland, W.M., 574, P.P.G.J.W., and Miss Bland; Bro. W. H. Cave, P.M., W.M.-elect, P.G. Reg.; and Mrs. Cave, Bros. Silas Palmer, M.D., Bro. H. Bursey, Bro. F. G. Hall, P.M. (Treasurer); and Mrs. Hall, Bro. G. Boyer, P.M., P.G.S.; Mrs. and Miss

M. Boyer, Bro. W. W. King, P.M., S.W., P.P.G.S.D.; Miss E. and Miss A. King, Bros. Barron Fielder, and Durrant (Maidenhead), Mrs. and Miss Durrant, Mr. Frank Durrant, Mrs. A. Roake, Miss Wise, Miss Mason, and Mr. Hobbs; Bro. J. Bance, Miss Brooks, and Miss E. J. Brooks, Bro. M. Wheeler, (Wantage), and Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Gillies, Bro. A. Burns, J.W.; Miss Seward, Bro. C. Wheeler, J.D.; Miss Batchelder, Bro. R. Ravenor and Miss Ravenor, Bro. Newton, Miss Harding, Bro. J. K. May, Bro. Johnston and party, Bro. G. J. Cosburn, (Secretary), Miss Insell, Bro. B. Salisbury, Mr. Alderman Wilson, Mr. W., Mr. B., and Miss Wilson, Mr. Wilson (Hunt's Green), Mr. W. Hickman, Miss Hickman, Miss Adey, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bance, Mr. J. Beck, Mrs. Judd, Mr. Bond, Miss Ham (Reading), Mr. Biddis, jun., Misses Biddis, Mr. R. C. Ryott, Miss Unwin, Mr. Scard, Mr. Webster, Mr. Gambrell, Mr. A. Berry, Mr. J. Parker, Miss Parker, Mr. H. Creed, Mr. Caldicot, Miss Dubberley (Reading), Miss Machin, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Isaac, Mr. Roby, Mr. H. S. Hanington, Mr. A. Boyer, Miss Gilbert, Mr. W. Balding, Miss Cooper, Miss S. Balding, Mr. Thomson, M.A., W.T., and Misses Thomson, Misses Stacey, Miss Batthews, Mr. Poulton, Mr. Bartholomew, Mr. J. Parker, Mr. Hunt, Mr. Wintle, Miss Fidler, Mr. C. Jackson, Mr. E. Austen, Miss and Miss E. Austen, Mr. F. E. Frampton, Mr. J. White, Miss and Miss E. Leonard, Mr. R. Smith, Mr. Myers, Mr. H. Lucas, Mr. Rickards, Misses Long, Mr. G. Davy, Mr. Norrinton, &c.

The M.C.'s, whose efficiency was a theme of "agreeable comment" were Bros. B. Fielder and J. Bance.—Newbury Weekly News, Jan. 20.

Original Correspondence.

The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I would be glad to hear your opinion on the following query:—

Is it legal for an Honorary Member of a lodge under the Scotch Constitution to be elected to the chair of Right Worshipful Master, and be installed therein? Also, to vote on all questions concerning the lodge, he still continuing his Honorary membership? as many of the brethren think he should be a subscribing member to the lodge. I believe, by the Constitution of Grand Lodge of Scotland it is illegal; but it appears that a by-law of the lodge in question allows it. But doubts are entertained that such a by-law was ever approved by the Grand Lodge of Scotland.

Your opinion would be a great service to Masonry in general, and one of your journals giving it would be thankfully received by the lodges holden in Mauritius under the other Constitutions.

Your fraternally,

MASTER MASON.

Port Louis, Maritius, Dec. 17th, 1869.

[Reply next week.—ED. F.]

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—In answer to "Rusticus," I beg to inform him that no brother can be suspended or expelled, without having been served with a summons showing forth the charges made against him, so that he may be prepared to refute them. Vide, Trans., &c., of Grand Lodge of Scotland, chap. xi., sec. 7, 8, and 9, cap. xv., sec. 11.; Constitutions Grand Lodge of England, pages 20 sec. 8, 25, sec. 17 and 68, sec. 21; Simons' Masonic Jurisprudence, cap. vii.; Penal Code, sec. 2.

But some of the Grand Lodges arrogate to themselves the power of breaking their laws at pleasure. The laws of the Grand Lodge of Scotland says (cap. xi., sec. 13), "When a motion shall have been regularly made and seconded, it shall not be competent for the Grand Master, or other Brother officiating in the chair, to refuse to put the same to the vote; and if any doubt shall arise as to the interpretation of a law, the power of deciding the same shall be vested, not in the chair, but in the meeting."

Now, I have before me at present, a motion tabled at the August meeting, 1869, duly proposed and seconded in conformity with Grand L. Laws; said motion was also received by the Grand Master and read by him; no objections made. The meeting of November arrives, no such motion is placed on the circular, neither is there notice sent to the brother who proposed it, that it was incompetent or withdrawn; but on inquiry at head quarters the following communication was received, "that a declaration or resolution came to by Grand Lodge in August, was not, and could not be tabled at the meeting in May, seeing that the necessity for passing it had not then arisen. It was not a new law or alteration of an old one, requiring three month's notice, but simply a declaration that the matter in question had been decided or adjudicated by Grand Lodge, and was at an end." This was received in answer to a letter, not inquiring if the above declaration had been tabled in May.

There is no law in Grand Lodge empowering them to quash any motion after its being tabled and received by Grand Lodge. The proposer of the motion would not be allowed to ask the question at Grand Lodge, of what had become of his motion, and I believe, for the first time the large majority learned that a declaration or resolution could be put to the vote and passed on the same night.

Let any brother read the law before-quoted, and then the resolution or declaration, and explain the anomaly. It seems to me no one can say of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, that their laws are like the Medes and Persians; the sooner a revision takes place the better.

As stated in No. 44 of THE FREEMASON, page 17, we have occasion to envy the Lodge St. John, Melrose, who are free from the arbitrary despotism of the Grand Lodge, where misrule predominates. Either in Lodges or Governments, it is the sacred right of members or peoples to raise their voice against it.

Yours truly and fraternally,

MONTRA.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR,—I observed in a short report in the Globe, of the laying the foundation stone at Rotherham, that the M.W., the Earl de Grey and Ripon, stated he was glad H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, was going to take the chair at the next festival of the Boys' School, and he hoped ALL the brethren would come up and support His Royal Highness on that occasion; and as I have since heard it is not settled where the festival will be holden, may I suggest to the Governors of the Institution that the Agricultural Hall at Islington be engaged, as that is the largest building in London, the hall at the Tavern being far too small to dine one-fiftieth part of the Masons in England at the present time; or may not the reporter have mistaken his lordship, who, perhaps, meant to say he hoped ALL the brethren would be present by their sympathy and their offerings, and that the stewards who represent them will be proud and thankful to say, that they—in the name of the Freemasons of England—have brought up enough to clear the institution from all liabilities, that the school may be put in the same position as the sister charities, which is the hearty wish of

A SUBSCRIBER.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Would you or any of your numerous correspondents inform me under what charter the Board of Installed Past Masters works the degree? It is only conferred, as I understand, on the Master-elect. I have searched the Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of England, and can find no mention of the degree, the number required for a Board or Lodge, or any regulations for conducting the same.

Yours fraternally,

MONTRA.

MASONIC TOBACCO-BOX.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am rather interested in the letter of Bro. Horace Swete, and, if possible, I should like to know something more of the history of his old tobacco-box before believing that the emblems he describes were depicted upon it in "1670." At present, from his description, I should infer that whatever the age of the box may be, the age of the engraving is nearer 1770 than "1670." However, if Bro. Swete will give his full address in your next issue, I shall communicate with him privately, and if we can bring out anything definite, well and good, only I trust that having mentioned the subject, he will meet me frankly and openly.

I am, yours fraternally,

LEO.

THE ROYAL ARCH DEGREE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I shall esteem it a favour if brethren in possession of records of Royal Arch meetings, before A.D. 1760, or of works before that date, would inform me of their character. Also if they know where any are to be seen, or have perused such and would kindly intimate to me their nature. I should also feel much indebted, as such assistance will be of much aid to me in writing the early history of Royal Arch Masonry.

THE FORMS FOR GRAND LODGE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR,—I would suggest that more space be allowed in the country return of contributing members, to fill in properly what is required. We are requested to put the name and number of previous lodge for a joining member, and there is scarcely room for the number only. Altogether the form is cramped, and as extra expense need not be incurred by extending the sheet, it would be an advantage to all parties.

A PAST SECRETARY (1199).

OCCULT SCIENCE.

By FRATER WILLIAM CARPENTER, VI°.

Author of "Scientia Biblica," "Calendarium Palestinæ," Editor of "Calmet's Dictionary of the Bible," &c., &c.

The works of Eliphas Levi on Magique—"Dogme et Rituel de la Haute Magie," "Histoire de la Magie," and "Clef des Grands Mystères,"—are, I believe, very little known, even among the members of our mystic and secret orders, notwithstanding that they contain a vast amount of curious learning, more or less connected with the arcana which the members of such orders are under an obligation to study, realize, and adapt. As far as I am in a condition to speak of these works, I should say that they comprise the result of a most laborious course of study, including the works of ancient and modern writers on the recondite sciences, and throw considerable light on the mysteries and rituals of both Oriental and Occidental religions and philosophies. They form a complete course on the science of the ancient magi, each work being complete in itself; but for the perfect understanding of any one of them, the careful study of the other two is indispensable.

The ternary division of the work is taken from the science itself; as Levi's discovery of the great mysteries of the science rests entirely on the signification that the ancient hierophants attached to numbers. With them, three was the generative number, and in the teaching of every doctrine they considered—first its theory, next its results, and then its adaptation to all possible uses. Thus are dogmas formed, whether philosophical or religious. Thus the dogmatic synthesis of Christianity, the heir of the magi, presents to our faith three persons in one God, and three mysteries in universal religion. In this, Levi follows the plan of the Cabala; that is, of the pure tradition of occultism. The "Dogme et Rituel" are each divided into twenty-two chapters, marked by the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet. At the head of each chapter is placed the letter which relates to it, with the Latin words which, according to the best authors, indicate its hieroglyphic signification. Thus at the head of the first chapter, is

Le recipiendaire, Disciplina, Ensoph, Keter.

In Cabalistic theology this signifies that the letter Aleph, whose equivalent in Latin and in French (as also in English) is A, and its numeral value 1, denotes the aspirant—man called to initiation, the cunning man (the juggler). It denotes also, the dogmatic syllipsis (disciplina), being in its general and first conception (Ensoph); and the idea of divinity is expressed by Keter (the crown). The chapter is the development of the title, and the title contains hieroglyphically all the chapter. The entire book is composed according to this combination.

The "Historic de la Magie," which, according to the theory given in the "Dogme" and the "Rituel," relates and explains the realizations of this science, through all time, is constructed according to the septenary number—the number, that is, of the creative week and the Divine realization.

The "Clef des Grands Mystères" is built on the number four, which is that of the enigmatical form of the sphinx, and of elementary manifestations. It is also the number of the square and of strength, and in this book the author undertakes to establish truth on immoveable basis—to perfectly explain the enigma of the sphinx, and to give the key to those things that have been hidden from the beginning of time, and which the learned Postil dared to give in one of his most abstruse works only in a most enigmatical manner, and without any satisfactory explanation. The "Historie de la Magie" explains what is affirmed in the "Dogme" and the "Rituel," and the "Clef des Grand Mystères" completes and explains the history of magic; so that the attentive reader will lack nothing necessary to the revelation of the secrets of the Cabala of the Hebrews, and the high magic, whether of Zoroaster or of Hermes.

It may be well to note, that the term magic is not, in these or other works on the occult sciences, used in the limited sense in which it is now usually employed; that is, to denote the art of sorcery, enchantment, &c., but in a more comprehensive sense, including the apprehension and appropriation of all the recondite truths or mysteries of being. There is a false magic and a true magic; a low magic and a high magic. The former uses knowledge and power for diabolical purposes; the latter, for wise and holy purposes. "Magic," says Levi, "unites in one science all that philosophy can have of the certain, and that religion can have of the infallible and the eternal. It perfectly and incontestably reconciles those two terms, which at first sight appear so opposed—faith and reason, science and belief, authority and liberty. It gives to the human mind an instrument of philosophic and religious certitude as exact as mathematics, and demonstrates the infallibility of mathematics itself. The Cabalistic doctrine, which is the dogma of high magic, is contained in the Sepheah Jezirah, the Sohar, and the Talmud."

"Magic," he elsewhere says, "was the science of Abraham and of Orpheus, of Confucius and of Zoroaster. They were the dogmas of magic that were graven on the tables of stone, by Enoch and by Trismegistus. Moses purified them, and brought them to light; but he veiled them anew when he made them the exclusive heritage of the people of Israel, and the inviolable secret of her priests. The mysteries of Eleusis and of Thebes preserved amidst the nations some of the early perverted symbols, the mysterious key of which was lost among the instruments of an ever-increasing superstition. Jerusalem, the murderer of her prophets, and so many times prostituted to the false gods of the Syrians and Babylonians, in her turn lost the holy word, when a Saviour, announced to the magi by the sacred star of initiation, came, and rent the worn-out veil of the old temple, to give to the church a new set of legends and symbols, which hide from the profane, and preserve to the elect the same truths."

Such is a feeble outline of these learned and comprehensive volumes; and as there is in them much of deep interest to Rosicrucians, I hope to draw attention to them by occasional translations.

THE subscription list of the National Education League has received another addition of £1000 by Mr. J. H. Nettlefold, of Birmingham. There are now seventeen subscribers of £1000 each, and twelve of £500 each.

THE TEETH.—At a late sitting of the Société Médicale au Panthéon, Dr. Quantin read a paper on dental hygienics among the Arabs. Their teeth are always remarkably white, a circumstance which the author attributes to the almost exclusive use of couscoussou as an article of food, and of coffee without sugar as a beverage, besides water. But this is not all; the Arabs rinse their mouths several times at the beginning of each of their four daily ablutions, and thereby any small alimentary particle that may have stuck between the teeth is carried away. They also chew, about once a week, a bit of bark, called soaal, and which seems to be akin to the walnut-tree; the bark must not however be chewed till it is reduced to the consistency of a pulp, but, when softened by the saliva, it is taken out, the teeth are rubbed with it, and then wiped with the burnous which is white.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Gratifying Results.—No phase of external ailments can present itself which is irremediable by the early and diligent use of the above-named remedies. The merest blotch upon the skin, and the deepest ulcerations of the flesh, yield with the same certainty to the detergent and healing properties of this celebrated ointment. Bad legs, burns, eruptions of the skin, and scrofulous sores can be cured with facility by the use of this Ointment, aided by Holloway's purifying Pills. Under this treatment the foulest ulcer becomes clean, and in a few days florid granulations appear, which gradually grow and fill up the cavity with firm and healthy flesh. No drawback or relapse need be feared.—[Adv.]

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL.

The anniversary festival of this most excellent institution was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, London, on Wednesday, the 26th inst., under the presidency of the R.W. Bro. Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., the Prov. Grand Master for Berks and Bucks, and was one of the most successful meetings, both in regard to numbers present and the amount of subscriptions to the charity, which has yet been held.

Amongst those who assisted on this occasion, we noticed the V.W. Bros. Samuel Tomkins, G. Treas.; John Hervey, G. Sec.; the Rev. C. J. Martyn, G. Chaplain; B. Head, P.G.D.; J. R. White, P.G.D.; G. W. K. Potter, P.G.D.; T. Fenn, P.A.G.D.C.; W. A. J. Powell, P.G.D., and D.P.G.M. Bristol; Rev. W. Bramwell Smith, P.P.G. Chaplain, Warwickshire; Dr. Selfe, P.P.G.D. Surrey; E. T. Inskip, P.G.D. Somerset; W. Bigg, P.P.G.W. Berks and Bucks; R. W. Stewart, P.P.G.D. Essex; F. Binckes, P.G. Steward (Secretary Boys' School); Wm. Farnfield, P. Asst. G. Sec. (Secretary to the institution); W. Smith, C.E., P.G. Steward; R. Spencer, P.G. Steward; S. May, W.M. 23, &c.; Rev. Sir John Hayes, P.P.G. Chap.; J. J. Cornwall, G. Steward, W.M. 14; R. R. Nelson, P.G. Sec., and P.D.G.M. West York; E. Trendall, P.P. G.D. Berks and Bucks; J. Taylor, P.G. Steward Middlesex; T. Cubitt, P.G. Steward Middlesex; R. Wentworth Little, P.G. Sec. Middlesex; H. G. Buss, P.G. Treasurer Middlesex; James Stevens, P.M., and S.W. 1216; A. J. Pendlebury, P.M. 1056; W. Dodd, S.W. 1194; C. F. Morgan, 101; J. Barnes, P.M., 933; G. Bolton, P.M., 169; J. W. Barrett, P.M., 169; B. P. Todd, P.M., Treas. 27; G. W. Dix, 920, F. McCulloch, 27, J. Coutts, P.M., 27; T. Harrison, 27; C. Greenwood, P.G. Sec. Surrey; J. C. Meymott, Tattersall, P.M. 13; Mills, P.M., 163; J. Burton, P.M., 9; H. Carey, P.M., 780; Rev. J. H. Inkes, P.P.G.C. Herefordshire; Joseph Meredith (of Canada), W. Watson, P.M.; Wilhelm Ganz, P.M., 435; J. A. Farnfield, P.M., 256; J. T. Moss, P.M., 169; H. J. Lewis, P.M., 907; James Terry, P.M., 228, P.G.S.B., Herts; E. J. Page, P.M., 23; E. P. Albert, P.M., 188; S. Rosenthal, P.M.; A. J. Codner, P.M., 45, P.G.S. Middlesex; Geo. Perrin, Friend, P.M., 9; &c., the number present being about two hundred and fifty.

The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. Wilhelm Ganz, and a choice programme of music was efficiently performed by the following talented artistes, viz.: Mdlle. Enequist, Madame Deck-Servani, Madame Harriette Lee, Miss Alice Fairman, and Bros. George Perren, Deck, Caravoglia, and Romano.

The cloth having been cleared, grace was sung by the choir, and

The R.W. the CHAIRMAN proposed "The Queen and the Craft" (which toast was drunk with the usual Masonic honours). The R.W. the Chairman next proposed "The Most Worshipful the Grand Master, the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, President of the Institution;" and remarked that it could not be otherwise than to the regret of the Craft generally that probably this would be the last occasion the brethren might have at similar festival meetings of drinking that toast in acknowledgement of his rule over Freemasonry. The brethren were about to lose a good friend and excellent chief, and their only consolation rested in the fact that his proposed successor would certainly prove as efficient a substitute as he had hitherto been his deputy. (This toast was received with great enthusiasm.)

Song: "The Nightingale's Trill" (W. Ganz), Madlle. Enequist,

The R.W. the CHAIRMAN proposed "The Most Worshipful Past Grand Master His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Right Worshipful the Deputy Grand Master, and Present and Past Grand Officers," observing that the connection of his Royal Highness with Masonry would ever be a gratification to the Craft generally, and that, as it was really the intention of the present Grand Master to retire, the acceptance of that office by the Deputy Grand Master, who had so well discharged all his official duties hitherto, would also be of advantage to the Craft, and satisfy the brethren that the Order would not lose its present position under the direction of so able a brother. He would, on this occasion, couple with the toast the name of the V.W. Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Grand Chaplain.

The V.W. Bro. MARTYN, in a brief but effective speech returned thanks.

Song, "Tom Bowling," Bro. Perren.

The R.W. the CHAIRMAN, proposed "Success to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons, and Widows of Freemasons," and entered into a history of its progress and present position, regretting that he could not speak so cheerfully as he could wish in regard to the support afforded to it, as compared with that given to other institutions. Yet he had abundant hopes that a better state of things was about to commence; for the good it had been the means of doing was, he believed, becoming more generally known, and it only required the brethren to be assured of its beneficial working to ensure their attention to it, and the liberal support which would surely follow. Having stated the receipts and expenditure of the institution for a series of years past, and mentioned that at the last festival the sum of £2,260 was the total of the collection, the chairman commended the charity to the best consideration of all present, and hoped their reception of the toast would be both hearty and sincere.

The brethren responded with fevour, and the subscription list having been gathered, the chairman announced the result to be a collection of £3,266, with six returns yet to be made. The announcement was received with cheers.

The V.W. Bro. TOMKINS, Grand Treasurer, proposed the health of "The Chairman," who, he said, had many claims on the gratitude of Masons, and had added one more by the great aid he had given to this Festival, and by his generous interest in the Institution. His earnest appeal to the brethren had been well and cordially received, and the result was of a most gratifying character to those who had the management of the charity. (The toast was drunk with acclamation.)

The R.W. the CHAIRMAN briefly replied. Song, "Since Yesterday," (W. Ganz), Miss Alice Fairman.

The toasts of "The other Masonic Charities," replied to by Bro. Binckes, (Secretary of the Boys' School), in a very telling speech; "The Ladies," replied to by Bro. Joseph Smith, and "The Stewards," for whom Bro. Fenn replied, brought the business part of the Festival to a close.

The brethren, with the numerous ladies present, then adjourned to the large hall, where the whole of the remainder of a full programme of music was ably performed to the delight of the entire company.

There can be no doubt of the success which has attended this Festival, and much credit is due to the worthy Secretary of the Institution, Bro. W. Farnfield, for the management of the proceedings throughout. The institution is equally deserving of the general support of the Craft, as either of the other charities, and it is to be hoped that this is but the commencement of a series of successful festivals which may result in placing the institution on a fit and proper footing of equality with both Boys' and Girls' Schools.

ROSICRUCIAN SOCIETY OF ENGLAND.

The quarterly meeting of this Fraternity was held at Haxell's Hotel, West Strand, in consequence of the rooms at Freemasons' Tavern having through some error been let for the evening. The P.M.G., Fra. R. Wentworth Little, S.M., presided in the unavoidable absence of the M.G. Fra. W. J. Hughan, of Truro, whose apology for non-attendance was received with great regret by the Fraters present.

The M.C. was duly formed by the P.O., assisted by Fras. W. H. Hubbard, D.M.G.; J. Brett, Primus, Dr. W. R. Woodman, S.G.; W. F. N. Quilty, W. Hambly, G. Kenning, W. A. Tharp, W. Bird, W. Carpenter, J. R. Foulger, T. Cubitt, W. Ferguson, G. Butler, J. Coutts, D. R. Still, and others of whose names we possess no memorandum. After the confirmation of the minutes, Bro. Morton Edwards and Bro. George Ranson, C.E., were admitted to the grade of Z.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—Fras. Hubbard, M.G.; Brett, D.M.G.; Buss, T.G.; Dr. Woodman, S.G.; Thompson, Rawley, Dr. Harrison, Quilty, Levander, Hambly and Weaver, Ancients; when Fras. Hubbard and Brett were inducted into their respective chairs by the S.M. with appropriate addresses, and amid the acclamations of the assembled Fraters.

The M.G. then appointed his officers:—W. Carpenter, Precentor; Rev. W. B. Church, C. of N.; E. Stanton Jones, Organist; Angelo Lewis, M.A., T.B.; W. Bird, H.; W. Ferguson, G. of T.; G. Kenning, M.; D. R. Still, Asst. Sec.; J. Gilbert, Acolyte.

It was resolved that the annual banquet be held at the April meeting in future, and a committee consisting of six Fraters was appointed to carry out the details. The Right Worthy Fra. Col. Burdett, was elected chairman for the banquet by the unanimous vote of the M.C.

The dignity of Honorary Membership was then conferred upon Bros. John Hervey, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of England, and Capt. Francis G. Irwin, Prov. J.G. Warden for Somersetshire. The closing solemnities of the Order were then duly observed, and the Fraters separated at an early hour.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE
THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH
2 LOWER SEYMOUR ST. W.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists.

Prepared and Guaranteed by
Mr. PRICE, Analytical Chemist,
and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour-street, and 30, Duke-street, Portman-square, London, W.; or through the following agents:—

RUPTURES.—By Royal Letters Patent.
WHITE'S Moc-Main LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the

SAVE YOUR GAS.

*Important to Proprietors of Hotels, Music Halls,
Public Buildings, &c., &c.*

The Hydro-Carbon Light,
(KIDD'S PATENT.)

THE NEW PATENT LIGHT, combining GAS and OIL, gives one of the most brilliant lights ever introduced to the public, and effects a saving of 60 per cent. in the ordinary consumption of Gas. The apparatus for this light has been so perfected that it can be readily attached to the Gas Fittings already in use, without extra expense.

The New St. Pancras Station of the Midland Railway is lighted entirely by this process, and the opinions of the press are loud in its favor for brilliancy and cheapness.

The light can be seen, and all further information obtained at the

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON
Is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French, Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contra-distinction to the assumption of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees."
Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—
a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREE-
MASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge, but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservience to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

MASONIC HISTORIANS.—No. I.

Bro. FINDEL

By WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

We promised in our last communication to refer to a few errors that have crept into Brother Findel's "History of Freemasonry." Certainly not so pleasant a task as recounting its many excellencies. We know, however, that the author will pay more heed to our hurried corrections than to our commendations, as the former will be of more real value to him.

Bro. Findel, in reviewing the records of the "Ancients" from 1756 to 1762, says "They had no Grand Master of noble birth" but at length in 1772 the Duke of Athol became their Grand Master" (p. 174). The following list of Grand Masters of the seceding Grand Lodge will exhibit the fact that noblemen were connected with that body long before 1772:—

Robert Turner	A.D. 1753.
Edward Vaughan	A.D. 1755.
Earl of Blessington	A.D. 1757.
Earl of Kelly	A.D. 1761.
The Hon. T. Matthew	A.D. 1767.
The 3rd Duke of Athol	A.D. 1772.*
The 4th Duke of Athol	A.D. 1775.
Earl of Antrim	A.D. 1782.
The 4th Duke of Athol	A.D. 1791.
H.R.H. Duke of Kent	A.D. 1813.

No doubt our brother has been misled by Brother Preston in his "Illustrations of Masonry," who declares that the "Ancients after the secession, continued to hold their meetings without acknowledging a superior till 1772." It seems strange that this mistake has been continued in the valuable work edited by Bro. the Rev. Dr. George Oliver, yet so it is. In another part of the "History" some of the above-named Grand Masters are enumerated, so after all the mistake is virtually corrected.

At page 168, the author seems in doubt respecting the constitution granted to the Lodge of Antiquity by the "Grand Lodge of all England held at York." It was granted; and by virtue of such, the Lodge of Antiquity was constituted the "Grand Lodge of England South of the Trent," and actually issued warrants to lodges to work under its authority. The celebrated "manifesto" of the Lodge of Antiquity, of which we have a copy, was issued in 1778, and a most interesting production it is. It mainly consists of a recognition of the priority or superiority of the claims of the Grand Lodge of All England at York, and an epitome of the supposed injustice done to the lodge by the "nominal Grand Lodge in London, constituted a Grand Lodge pro tempore 1717." Authorities are quoted extensively in confirmation of the ancient privileges of this time-immemorial lodge.

We observe that Bro. Findel falls into the same error that we did respecting the records of St. Mary's Chapel Lodge, Edinburgh, and the year A.D. 1600. At page 113 of the History it is stated that "Thomas Boswell, Esquire, of Auchinleck, was chosen as Warden of the lodge in 1600." We presume this record is given on the authority of Brother Laurie, the Grand Secretary of Scotland, which we also quoted in the Freemason's Magazine some little time ago, and about which Brother David Murray Lyon wrote to the following effect, in the same paper, on Sept. 11, 1869: "We shall not further anticipate the 'History of the Lodge of Edinburgh' (Mary's Chapel) now in course of preparation,† than to say that the minutes of this famous lodge do not afford ground for the assertion to which we have taken exception. Boswell's name appears only in one sederunt of the lodge's meetings; and the minutes of that particular meeting show that he was not the Warden of the Lodge. In the course of his remarks anent the minutes of the old Houghfoot Lodge, to which the respected Prov. G. Sec. of Peebleshire has very properly directed attention, our friend Bro. Hughan quotes the version of Boswell's connexion with the Lodge of Edinburgh, as given by Laurie; but it is no fault of his that the statement is incorrect. Like Bro. Findel, and others, he has in this instance been misled by a mis-quotation." We have been careful to give this authoritative correction in order to remind our readers that the earliest instance of a non-professional architect or builder holding office in a Scotch Masonic Lodge, according to Bro. Lyon, is that of John, Earl of Cassillus, Deacon of the Mother Lodge Kilwinning, A.D. 1672. In England we have no record preserved of officers' appointments of anything like so early a date as the one just given.

As Bro. Findel is now preparing a third German edition of his valuable history, no doubt the misquotation will be put straight.

Bro. Findel says that it was not until 1865 that the "Sloane MS., No. 3329, was discovered, and that by the author in the British Museum," page 48. In the Masonic Press (page 183, A.D. 1866,) the well-known Mason, Bro. Matthew Cooke observes that this MS. was alluded to in the Encyclopædia Metropolitana twenty-four years ago, and that he had transcribed it several times. That being the case, Bro. Findel is not entitled to the claim of having discovered this MS., as it was evidently familiar to one of the best authorities on English Masonic MSS. many years anterior to the publication of the work now under consideration.

We do not know of any authority for the statements that "Five lodges would not accede to or sign" the Constitution of A.D. 1723. The assertion is quite new to us, and certainly somewhat startling, so early to occur after the revival of Freemasonry.

We must take exception to some of the writer's remarks concerning Masonic Knights Templar and Royal Arch Masonry, e.g., "the Order of Knights Templars, revived as playthings for great children about 1780," (page 170.) In the Royal Arch degree, "the unprejudiced observer cannot discover the true principles of Freemasonry, either in their primitive purity or comprehensive fulness," (page 183.)

† The history of this old lodge is now being written by our excellent Brother Lyon.

Although we do not intend to enter on the discussion of these matters now, we are quite prepared to give weighty reasons for our objections to Bro. Findel's views as enumerated above, as also to his support of the German lodges founded in the United States in opposition to the American Grand Lodges. We are strongly in favour of exclusive Grand Lodge Jurisdiction, and entirely disagree with Bro. Findel and the "German Masonic Union," in promoting the reverse.

We are sorry to find several important works issued this century unacknowledged, and many of less consequence referred to. Of course this arises from the extensive character of the work, and not from any want of will on the part of the author to chronicle the progress of Masonic literature. The Masonic Bibliography of England and the United States require to be written with as much accuracy as the German department. Few English Masonic historians are noticed, and rarely do we notice a familiar American author in its pages. Certainly the large Masonic library, published by the "Masonic Publishing Company," New York, containing works like the "Masonic Cyclopædia," by Bro. Robert Macay; the "History of Royal Arch Masonry," by Bro. J. L. Gould; and the "Early History of Freemasonry," by Bro. G. W. Steinbrenner, well deserve notice and commendation. There is also Bro. Brennan's excellent translation of Bro. Rebold's History of the Order, a work which deserves the support of the Craft universal. We forbear quoting more names, sufficient that we think this department the weakest, and therefore most susceptible of improvement in the next edition.

The great want of the work is a copious index. The present is an improvement on the first, but is still very far from being what we would like to see offered as an index to the capital "History of Freemasonry" by our friend, Bro. Findel.

Obituary.

Bro. WILLIAM WHITE, 31°

A short but severe illness has deprived the Craft at large, and the Province of West Yorkshire in particular, of Bro. William White, the well-known publisher of Borough and County Directories and Gazetteers, who died at his residence, Collegiate-crescent, Sheffield, on Saturday the 22nd ult.

Up to the time of his death, Bro. White took an active part in the affairs of the Craft in Sheffield, being Secretary and Treasurer of two lodges, one encampment, and the Rose Croix Chapter, and was looked upon by the brethren as being one of the most energetic and zealous Masons in the province. None took a livelier or greater interest in the prosperity of its various charities—he being a Life-Governor of the whole. He was P.M. of the Britannia Lodge, No. 139; P.Z. of the Chapter of Paradise, No. 139; and P.P.G.D.C. of West Yorkshire. He was the founder of the Mark Lodge, No. 53, of the Talbot Rose Croix Chapter, and the De Furnival Encampment of Knights Templar, and a G.I.I. Commander of the 31st degree. He was also a member of the British Archaeological Association, and of the Royal Archaeological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland, and a leading member of the Sheffield Architectural and Archaeological Society.

He was interred on Wednesday, the 26th ult., in the quiet and secluded church-yard at Fulwood, when upwards of 40 brethren (including the W.M.'s of 139, 296, and 1239, and many P.M.'s and P.Z.'s), paid the last sad tribute of respect to departed merit, by following the remains of their much lamented brother to their last earthly resting-place. Bro. White leaves a wife and four young children to lament their sad bereavement.

* 1771?

MASONIC TRIALS.

BY A PAST MASTER, S.C.

It is the Magna Charta of Masonic liberty "that no Freemason can be punished or deprived of any of the privileges of Freemasonry, except upon violating a law, bye-law, ancient charge, or landmark; and that after a solemn trial." Trial is essential to conviction in all lands, and in connection with all bodies who profess to be ruled and guided by principles of justice. It is required by the rules and constitution of all Grand Lodges throughout the world, and is supported by the highest Masonic authorities. "It is the duty of a judge," says a great Roman orator, "in every cause to seek for truth." This is the great, the only object of a Masonic trial; and hence, in such a trial, no advantage is ever permitted to be taken of those legal and verbal technicalities the use of which, in profane courts, so often enables the guilty to escape. This great principle of Masonic law must never be forgotten in the management of a trial. Every part of the investigation is to be directed with a single view—to the ascertainment of the truth. Masonic trials are therefore to be conducted in the simplest and least technical method that will preserve at once the rights of the Order and of the accused, and enable the lodge to obtain a thorough knowledge of all the facts in the case.

The rules by which such trials are governed are few and easily understood:—

1. The preliminary step in every trial is the accusation. This, in Masonic language, is called the "Charge." The charge should always be made in writing, signed by the accuser, delivered to the Secretary, and read by that office-bearer at the next regular communication of the lodge. The accused should then be furnished with an attested copy of the charge, and be at the same time informed of the time and place appointed by the lodge for the trial.

In reference to these preliminary steps, it is necessary to make several remarks. The charge should set forth the offence with clearness and certainty, and hence it must distinctly specify the nature of the offence; and if confined to a single act, the time and place of its commission should be named. A general charge, for instance, of unmasonic conduct, should also specify the particular nature of the conduct which is said to be unmasonic; for no one could be expected to answer to so general an accusation, nor to be prepared with evidence to rebut that of which he is ignorant. No man, in a legal investigation, should be taken by surprise; but there is no more certain mode of doing so than to call upon him to answer to an indefinite charge, the particulars of which are only to be made known at the moment of trial. The charge should be delivered to the Secretary, and by him read to the lodge, because it thus becomes the property of the lodge, and is not subjected, as it would be if retained in the possession of the accuser, to alterations or amendments, which would alter its character either in word or spirit. A charge having been once made, should retain its original form, and cannot be amended, except with the consent of the lodge and the knowledge of the accused. For a similar reason, the charge should always be made in writing. An oral charge must never be received. It must be read at a regular communication, because it is to be presumed that at such communications all the members, and among them the accused, will be present; whereas the lodge might be taken by surprise if a charge were preferred at a special communication, which is often thinly attended, and at which no new business of importance is expected to be transacted. Any Master Mason may be the accuser of another, but a profane cannot be permitted to prefer charges against a Mason. Yet, if circumstances are known to a profane upon which charges ought to be founded, a Master Mason may avail himself of that information, and out of it frame an accusation, to be presented to the lodge. And such accusation will be received and investigated, although remotely derived from one who is not a member of the Order. It is not necessary that the accuser should be a member of the same lodge. It is sufficient that he be an affiliated Mason; but it is generally held that an unaffiliated Mason is no more competent to prefer charges than a profane.

2. If the accused is living beyond the geographical jurisdiction of the lodge, the charges should be communicated to him by means of a letter through the post-office, and a reasonable time should be allowed for his answer before the lodge proceeds to trial. But if his residence be unknown, or if it be impossible to hold communication with him, the lodge may then proceed to trial—care being had that no undue advantage is taken of his absence, and that the investigation is as full and impartial as the nature of the circumstances will permit.

3. The trial must commence at a regular communication, for reasons which have already been stated; but having commenced, it may be continued at special communications, called for that purpose; for, if it were allowed only to be continued at regular meetings which take place, the long duration of time occupied would materially tend to defeat the ends of justice. And here no one can complain of surprise; for the inception of the trial having taken place at a regular communication, all the subsequent special communications would be considered only as continuations of the same meeting.

4. The lodge must be opened in the highest degree to which the accuser has attained, and the examinations of all witnesses must take place in the presence of the accused and the accuser, if they desire it. It is competent for the accused to employ counsel for the better protection of his interests, provided such counsel is a Master Mason. But if the counsel be a member of the lodge, he forfeits, by his professional advocacy of the accused, the right to vote at the final decision of the question.

5. The final decision of the charge, and the rendering of the verdict, whatever be the rank of the accused, must always be made in a lodge opened on the third degree; and at the time of such decision, both the accuser and the accused, as well as his counsel, if he have any, should withdraw from the lodge.

6. It is a general and an excellent rule, that no visitors shall be permitted to be present during the trial.

7. The testimony of Master Masons is usually taken on their honour, as such. That of others should be by affidavit, or in such other manner as both the accuser and accused may agree upon.

8. The testimony of profanes, or of those who are of a lower degree than the accused, is to be taken by a committee and reported to the lodge, or, if convenient, by the whole lodge, when closed and sitting as a committee. But both the accused and the accuser have a right to be present on such occasions. There can be no doubt that profanes are competent witnesses in Masonic trials. If their testimony were rejected, the ends of justice would, in many instances, be defeated; for it frequently happens that the most important evidence of a fact is only to be obtained from such persons. The great object of the trial is to investigate the truth and to administer justice, and no method should be rejected by which those objects can be attained. Again: there may be cases in which the accused is able to prove his innocence only by the testimony of profanes; and surely no one would be willing to deprive him of that means of defence. But if the evidence of profanes for the accused is to be admitted on account of its importance and necessity, by a parity of reasoning, it should be admitted when and in behalf of the accuser. The testimony which is good in one case must be good in the other.

9. When the trial is concluded, the accuser and the accused must retire, and the Master will then put the question of guilty, or not guilty, to the lodge. Masonic authorities differ as to the mode in which the vote is to be taken—some being in favor of a show of hands, whilst others require it to be by ballot, and that of the Grand Lodge of Scotland requires that each brother, as his name is called, shall rise and give his answer "in a distinct and audible manner." I confess I am inclined to be in favor of the vote by ballot, as the independence of opinion is thus better secured; for many a man who conscientiously believes in the guilt of the accused, may be too timid to express that opinion openly. Not less, I think, than two-thirds of the votes should be required to declare the accused guilty. A bare majority is hardly sufficient to divest a brother of his good character, and render him subject to what may perhaps be an ignominious punishment. But on this point authorities differ.

10. If the verdict is guilty, the Master must then put the question, as to the nature and extent of the punishment to be inflicted, beginning with reprimand and proceeding, if necessary, to expulsion—or to indefinite suspension, definite suspension, public or private reprimand. To inflict expulsion or suspension, a vote of two-thirds of those present is required, but for a mere reprimand, a majority will be sufficient. The votes on the nature of the punishment should be viva voce, or rather, according to Masonic usage, by show of hands.

Trials in a Grand Lodge are to be conducted on the same general principle; but here, in consequence of the largeness of the body, and the inconvenience which would result from holding the examinations in open lodge, and in the presence of all the members, it is more usual to appoint a committee, before whom the case is tried, and upon whose full report of the testimony the Grand Lodge bases its action. The forms of trial in such committees must conform, in all respects, to the general usage already detailed.

In further elucidation of this subject, I now give the form of process as laid down by the Grand Lodge of Scotland's laws:—

1. In the event of disputes arising between subordinate lodges or members of the Craft, the party or parties aggrieved may lay the same before the Grand Lodge by a written petition and memorial signed by him or them, stating distinctly the matters complained of.

2. Such petition and memorial, together with a certificate by the complainer that a copy thereof has been served on the party complained against, shall be lodged with the Grand Clerk, and fees paid therewith; and the Grand Clerk shall thereupon summon a meeting of the Grand Committee, who shall have power either to proceed de plano with the consideration of the case, or to report the same, for instructions, to the next Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge.

3. The contending parties shall attend at said meeting of the Grand Committee (of which notice shall be sent them,) either personally or by mandatories—such mandatories being themselves members of the Grand Lodge,—when the party complained against may be heard upon a preliminary defence, and the other party allowed to reply. The Grand Committee shall then either decide upon the case, refuse the petition in limine, or order answers within fourteen days, or such other period as may be thought fit, under certification; and after answers, or in case answers should seem to be unnecessary, they may appoint a Sub-Committee of their number to take a proof, and report the same to an adjourned meeting.

4. The Grand Secretary shall thereafter summon the Grand Committee together, and the petition shall then be taken into consideration, with or without answers and proof, and the Grand Committee shall proceed to give judgment; or in case of difficulty, report the case, with the whole proceedings therein, to next Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge.

5. It shall be in the power of any party or parties who may feel themselves aggrieved by the decisions of the Grand Committee, to appeal the same to the Grand Lodge; but in such case the party appealing must previously lodge with the Grand Secretary a sum equal to the amount of the reasonable expenses already incurred by the other party; which sum the Grand Secretary is hereby empowered to fix at the sight of the Grand Committee, and the same shall be forfeited and be paid to the other party in case the Grand Lodge shall affirm the decision of the Grand Committee.

6. In cases of appeal it shall be competent for the Grand Lodge to call for further productions, pleadings, or evidence, and to hear parties and their mandatories, or to remit the cause to the Grand Committee, with instructions; but in no case shall an appeal be competent, except upon the merits of the cause, or until after the deliberate decision of the Grand Committee thereupon.

7. The Grand Clerk shall mark on the back of each paper the date when the same was lodged, and shall immediately make a copy thereof for, and at the expense of, the opposite party, except in the case of a petition wherewith certificate of service has been produced.

8. With each petition or answer, appeal or other pleadings, there shall be paid a fee of five shillings. There shall also be paid a fee of one shilling at each borrowing or returning of the process or productions.

9. Over and above the foresaid fees there shall be paid, for all extracts of the proceedings, at the rate of two shillings and sixpence for the first sheet, and one shilling and sixpence for each other, by the party requiring the same; the like fees being exigible for copies of papers requiring to be made under section 7 hereof.

10. The judgment of the Grand Committee (when not appealed from) and of the Grand Lodge shall be held to be final, and not reviewable by any tribunal whatever; and any party challenging, or refusing to submit to or implement the same, shall be liable to expulsion from the Grand Lodge, deprivation of his Masonic privileges, or such other punishment or censure as the Grand Lodge may see proper to inflict.

UNIFORMITY OF WORKING AND RITUAL.

The preliminary meeting of brethren interested in the success of Bro. Stevens' motion on this subject, and which became a resolution of Grand Lodge at the last Quarterly Communication, was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday evening last, and was attended by about forty brethren. Bro. Raynham Stewart occupied the chair, and after introducing the object for which the meeting was convened, he called upon Bro. Stevens to read the correspondence received from numerous metropolitan and provincial brethren. Amongst these were offers of zealous assistance from well-known members of the Craft in the country, and from several of the recognised Preceptors in Masonry. After a spirited discussion it was determined that the committee to be recommended to Grand Lodge, should be selected in reference chiefly to probability of frequent attendance at forthcoming meetings, and for inquiry preliminary to recommendations; that Preceptors should be considered as a most important body for reference by the committee; and that the majority of the provincial brethren who had proffered assistance should be held in reserve for the purpose of forming sub-committees, should that course be determined upon.

The discussion was characterised by a most unanimous desire to meet all differences of opinion, and the decision above-mentioned was made without a dissentient.

The meeting then proceeded to make the necessary selection, and in the result a list of thirty-three brethren was agreed to as that which Grand Lodge should be asked to endorse.

Votes of thanks were passed to Bro. Raynham Stewart for his services as chairman, and to Bro. Stevens for the efforts he had made in so far promoting the success of the movement, and the brethren separated.

THE Grand Lodge of Freemasons at Bayreuth, in Franconia, have spoken in defence of Freemasonry against the Pope's attacks. Freemasonry, even on the continent, but to a still greater extent in England, has ceased to have any political functions, and the manifesto of the brethren at Bayreuth, has no significance. In spite of Papal prohibitions there are thousands of devout Roman Catholics among the Freemasons, and with them the harmless fulminations of their quondam brother Pius are passed by with a shrug of the shoulders. The example of the Grand Lodge of Bayreuth is not likely to be extensively followed, and certainly the brethren of the three kingdoms will not care to be called from refreshment to the labour of framing justifications of the existence of their body.—Echo.

MASONIC FUNERAL.—Last week the remains of the late Bro. John Thomson of the "Masonic Arms," who was for eighteen years a member of the Masonic body, were interred in Annan Cemetery, with the obsequies peculiar to the Craft. The members of the Annan lodges, to the number of thirty-three, and a deputation from the Quhytewollen, Lockerbie, attended the funeral in procession, bearing their insignia. The coffin was borne shoulder high by four of the brethren from the deceased's house in Church-street to the Bridge, where it was deposited in the hearse and conveyed to the Cemetery, from the gates of which the bearers again carried the body to its last resting place. Prayer was offered up at the side of the grave by the Rev. Mr. Young. Bro. Thomson had several times been elected Master of the St. Andrew's Lodge, and at the time of his death he filled the office of Secretary. He was highly respected among the Craft for his knowledge and intelligence, and his death is much lamented by all the brethren.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Tuscan Lodge, No. 14.—This lodge met at the Freemasons' Hall, on Tuesday, January 25, when Bro. Frank Richardson initiated two candidates into the Order, and afterwards very ably installed his successor, Bro. Fred. J. Cornwell, into the chair of King Solomon, who (having previously invested his I.P.M.) appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. William Bristow, S.W.; George Hillyer, J.W.; Samuel Field, P.M., Sec.; McAdam, S.D.; W. Fred. Nettleship, J.D.; and Grady I.G. Bro. Samuel Glover, P.M., was re-elected as Treasurer. Sergeant O'Brien was unanimously elected as a joining brother. The usual jewel was voted by acclamation to Bro. Richardson, for the talent, liberality, and courtesy displayed by him whilst in the chair. The brethren, with sixteen visitors, afterwards adjourned to the tavern and partook of the usual turtle installation banquet, where they were honoured (as is customary, at the W.M.'s expense) with a choral performance by Bro. Ransford's party, and the evening swiftly passed away in brotherly love and harmony.

Neptune Lodge, No. 22.—The lodge met at Radley's Hotel, on Thursday, 27th ult., at half-past two. The minutes of the last regular lodge, 25th November, and of the emergency, 30th December, were read and confirmed. Bros. Cooper, Brown, and Restell, were passed to the degree of F.C. Bro. Partridge, P.M., then, as Installing Master, assisted by Bro. Ashwell, P.M., as Director of Ceremonies, proceeded to install Bro. White in the seat of K.S. The following appointments were made: Bros. Waterall, S.W.; Lawrence, J.W.; Wilcox, P.M.; Treas.: E. Hughes, H.S.; H. S. Crawford, S.D.; Russell, J.D.; Gray, I.G.; Eames, D.C.; Neats, Steward; Radford, T. The new W.M. then initiated Mr. Carl Berger into the mysteries and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry. The annual report of the Audit Committee was then read, and on the motion of Bro. Pratt, P.M., seconded by Bro. Harcourt, P.M., was adopted, and the Secretary received instruction to enter it on the minutes. Bro. Pratt, P.M., gave notice of motion for discussion at the February meeting, "That the usual subscriptions be given to the Masonic Charities, and placed on the respective lists of the Stewards, from this lodge, viz.:—£5 5s. to Boys' School, £5 5s. to Girls' School, and £5 to Annuity Fund." Bro. Harcourt, P.M., gave notice of motion "That £10 be given to the Annuity Fund, instead of £5 as heretofore." Bro. Wilcox, gave notice of motion, "That a Jewel, value Six Guineas, be presented to Bro. Edward Hughes, Hon. Sec., for his services to the lodge." Bro. Goodwin, P.M., proposed "That a jewel of customary character be presented to Bro. Salter, I.P.M., as a mark of acknowledgment for his services during the past year." Nothing further being offered, the lodge was closed in due form and with solemn prayer. At the subsequent banquet the chair was taken by Bro. Salter, I.P.M., the W.M., Bro. White, having been obliged to retire from serious illness immediately after closing the lodge. The visitors were Bros. Gluckstein, P.M., 51; Job Austin, P.M., 890; Dodson, W.M., 72; Wingham, 25; T. Wingham, 25; Macrae, 27; White, 45; Wright, 72; Thompson, 177; Reynolds, 179; Cohen, 180; Speed, 14; Oxford, 72; Thornhill, 72; Mondelet, 228; Aston, 384; Thomas, 507; Adamson, 834; and Child, 1158.

Old King's Arms Lodge, No. 28.—At a meeting of this old lodge, held at Freemasons' Hall, on Monday, the 24th ultimo, Bro. E. Farmer, W.M., in the chair, the lodge was opened in due form and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Amongst the members present were:—Bros. Charles Tighe, S.W.; J. Horwood, J.W.; William Paas, P.M., Treasurer; William Jaques, P.M., P.G.S., Sec.; J. G. Marsh, P.M., A.C.P. Middlesex; George Gurney, P.M.; J. Wheeler, P.M.; G. H. Wright, P.M.; S. H. Miller, J.D. The lodge being opened in the second degree by the W.M., Bro. J. Wheeler, P.M., occupied the chair for the purpose of installing Bro. Tighe (his relative and partner in business) Master-elect, in the chair of King Solomon. The new Master having been duly presented by the retiring W.M., was installed according to ancient custom W.M. of this lodge for the ensuing year. The ceremony, as well as the addresses to the Master, Wardens, and Brethren, being performed in a very creditable manner. The new W.M. having invested his I.P.M., Bro. Farmer, then proceeded to appoint his officers, as follows:—Bros. J. Horwood, S.W.; Charles Baylis, J.W.; S. H. Miller, S.D.; and the brethren selected to fill the remaining offices being absent, their investiture of office was postponed till the next meeting. The business of the lodge having been disposed of, the lodge was closed with solemn prayer and adjourned. The brethren then retired to a sumptuous banquet, served a la Russe, at which Bro. Charles Tighe, the new W.M., for the first time presided. The first toast proposed, in appropriate terms, was "The Queen and the Craft," which was followed by the National Anthem. The W.M. then gave "The M.W. the Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland," after which "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," both toasts being received with hearty enthusiasm. The health of the Deputy G.M. next followed and the Grand Officers, Past and Present. Bro. Patten, P.G.S.B., and Bro. Dr. Risdon, G.S., being present, the latter returned thanks in appropriate terms. The Master's health having been given by the I.P.M., and most heartily responded to, the W.M. gave the health of the visitors, numbering nineteen on this particular occasion, coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Binckes, P.G.S., and Secretary of the Boys' School, who returned thanks in an excellent speech. The guests who honoured the lodge with their company were: Bros. C. H. Patten, P.G.S.B.; Dr. R. Risdon, (W.M. 46), G.S.; Frederick Binckes, P.G.S.; W. A. Coel (1), A. M. Silver (14), W. E. Connell (20), H. J. Purkle (176), J. C. Davis (P.M. 198), A. Francisco (485), A. H. Williams (534), F. Walters (W.M. 871), George E. Webber (967), J. Corke (917), L. Sterne (206, New York), S. Norton (1063). The musical brethren who visited the lodge (and who, between the toasts, favoured the occasion with excellent solos and glees, much to the pleasure and enjoyment of the company) were: Bros. W. Dawson (186), Chaplin Henry (20), F. Elmore (12), and P. G. Van Norden, Pianist. The health of the Past Masters, Officers, and, finally, the Tyler's toast brought a delightful installation meeting to a close.

United Mariners' Lodge, No. 30.—This flourishing lodge held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 19th ult., at the George Hotel, Aldermanbury. Bro. Joseph Driscoll, W.M., in the chair, assisted by his Wardens, Bros. Harling and Shackill. The lodge being opened in due form, the minutes of the former meeting were read and confirmed, also the report of the Audit Committee. Bros. Leflam and Smith, having passed their examination, the lodge was opened in due form in the second degree, when Bros. Leflam and Smith were introduced and passed to the degree of F.C. Bro. Fagg, having proved himself efficient in the former degree, was regularly introduced and raised to the sublime degree of M.M. Master Masons having withdrawn, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, consisting of Bros. R. E. Barnes, P.M., 15; Robert Taylor, P.M., 30; William McDonald, P.M., 30; Jesse Turner, P.M., 30; H. T. Lowe, P.M., 30; Joseph Driscoll, W.M., 30; A. B. Vivian, P.M., 228, who according to ancient usage, installed Bro. Joseph Harling to the chair of the above lodge, and the duty of the Board of Installed Masters was declared to be concluded, and the lodge resumed in the third degree. The W.M. then appointed and invested the following brethren to the offices annexed to their names, viz.:—Bros. Robert Shackell, as S.W.; G. J. C. Smith, as J.W.; W. P. Osborne, as S.D.; William Ansell, as J.D.; Henry Bethell, as I.G.; R. J. Derby, as D.C.; E. J. Brown, as Steward; Jesse Turner, P.M., as Treasurer; R. E. Barnes, P.M., as Hon. Secretary; James Grant, Tyler. The lodge being resumed in the first degree, ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. Deeley, Inglis and Tyrrell, and declared unanimous in their favour. Being in attendance they were introduced and initiated into the order, which ceremony was performed by the newly-installed Master, Bro. Harling, in a very masterly and efficient manner. Agreeably to resolution passed at the last meeting, the W.M., Bro. Harling, then presented to Bro. Joseph Driscoll, P.M., a handsome Past Master's Jewel, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented by the United Mariners' Lodge, No. 30, to Bro. Joseph Driscoll, P.M., to mark their appreciation of the very able and efficient manner in which he discharged the duties of W.M. during his year of office. January 19th, 1870." It was received and acknowledged with truly Masonic feeling. Resolved unanimously—"That the best thanks of the lodge be given to Bro. Joseph Driscoll, P.M., for his kindness in acting as Installing Master, on the occasion, and the masterly manner in which he performed the ceremony." All business being concluded, the lodge was closed in ancient form, and the brethren, about 40 in number, adjourned to the banquet. The usual loyal toasts being given and responded to, Bro. Driscoll, P.M., proposed the health of Bro. Joseph Harling, W.M.—Bro. Harling, in reply, assured the brethren of the great source of gratification he received in the eulogies passed on him; in his endeavour to discharge the duties devolved on him, as their newly-appointed Master; his utmost energies had been called forth during the past year in order to render himself as proficient as possible in the respective ceremonies, and he would use his utmost endeavours to promote the prosperity of the United Mariners' Lodge.—The W.M. then proposed the health of "Bro. Joseph Driscoll, P.M." and adverted to the very able manner in which he had presided over the lodge for the past year; his admirable working of the ceremonies, more especially the ceremony of installation, and he trusted as a P.M., he would continue to give that support so necessary for the well-being of the lodge.—Bro. Driscoll, P.M., assured the brethren that he was greatly indebted to the Lodge for the great mark of respect conferred on him that evening, in the presentation of a jewel, as an evidence of the esteem entertained towards him by his brethren; he should ever wear and consider it as such, and as one of the pillars of the lodge, he would be now ready to render any assistance in his power for the welfare of No. 30. The health of "The Past Masters," viz.:—Bros. R. E. Barnes, Taylor, Turner, Macdonald and Grove, were next given and responded to.—The health of "The Initiates," Bros. Deeley, Inglis and Tyrrell, was next given and severally responded to, expressive of their admiration of the tenets and principles of the order.—"The Officers of the Lodge," was next given, and responded to with true Masonic feeling.—The Tyler, having given the usual toast, the brethren retired, having enjoyed the evening in the true spirit of Masonry.

Lodge of Faith, No. 141.—This lodge met at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, E.C., on Tuesday, the 25th ultimo, Bro. James Hill, W.M., in the chair, assisted by Bros. Speed, S.W.; C. C. Taylor, J.W.; Hyde, I.P.M., several other P.M.'s, and a full attendance of brethren. Amongst the visitors were: Bros. Jagger, P.M.; T. White, W.M. (22); and Dr. Mondeley, of Canada. There were several raisings, passing, and initiations, the ritual in each being ably rendered by the W.M. After the banquet, the toasts were ably responded to, that of "The Visitors" by Bro. Dr. Mondeley, "The Initiates" by Bros. Cole and Johnson, and "The P.M.'s" by Bro. Hyde. At intervals some excellent songs were given by Bros. S. Davies and Perkins. After the Tyler's toast, the brethren separated.

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185.—In consequence of a pressure of business cut out for the next regular monthly meeting (including Installation of the Master-elect), a lodge of emergency was held in the lodge-room, at Radley's (Bro. J. Hart's), on Monday, when the much-respected Master, the W. Bro. John Holbrook, in his usual efficient style, initiated into our mysteries Franz Oppert, Esq., M.D., Joseph Schnitzler, Esq., Ph. Doc., and Messrs. Samuel Metzger, Moritz, Makower, and Felix Graedel, all of whom expressed their high gratification not only on being admitted, but also as to the manner of their admission as members of our ancient and honourable fraternity. The business for which the meeting was called being concluded, the lodge was closed in form and with solemn prayer, and adjourned.

Whittington Lodge, No. 862.—A regular meeting of this lodge was held on the 17th ult., at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street. Bro. James Weaver, the W.M., presided, and with his usual ability initiated Mr. W. Oswalt, passed Bro. F. Moll, and raised Bro. L. Adutt. There was a large attendance of brethren, including Bros. S. S. Davis, S.W.; J. G. Thompson, P.M.; Treasurer; James Brett, P.M.; A.G.P.; R. W. Little, P.M.; Sec.; W. F. N. Quilty, P.M.; W. Hurlstone, P.M.; D. J. Davis, P.M.; W. F. Smith, P.M.; and several visitors, Bros. W. H. Hubbard, P.M. 173; F. Walters, W.M. 871, P.M. 73; &c. After the lodge business a good banquet was served, and, as usual in this lodge, the evening was spent in fraternal conviviality and good feeling.

Rose of Denmark Lodge, No. 975.—This lodge met at the White Hart Tavern, Barnes, on Friday, the 21st ult. Bro. G. T. Noyce, W.M., opened the lodge, assisted by Bros. H. Potter, as S.W.; S. H. Stevens, as J.W., and many other brethren. Bro. Little, P.M. and Sec., raised Bro. A. Claridge to the third degree, after which the W.M. in excellent style initiated Mr. Hayes, and passed Bro. Harris. It was announced that Bro. Little, the Sec., had undertaken the duties of Steward at the forthcoming festival of the Boys' School in March, and a hope was expressed that the lodge would extend its support. The W.M. proposed and Bro. Oliver, P.M., seconded, that as a slight recognition of Bro. Little's gratuitous and onerous services as Secretary for some years past, the lodge do contribute the sum of ten guineas to constitute him a life governor on his serving the Stewardship. It was remarked that Bro. Little declined the proposal of his friends to offer him a personal gift, because he held that the Masonic Charities had a prior claim upon every brother. The proposition was carried without a dissentient. The lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was liberally supplied and served in good style by Bro. Willcox, the worthy host, and after every brother had thoroughly enjoyed himself under the gavel of the kindly W.M., Bro. Noyce, cabs were ordered to the door, and the London-bound brethren departed to catch their trains in the vicinity of the bleak but picturesque common of Barnes.

PROVINCIAL.

SCARBOROUGH.—Old Globe Lodge, No. 200.—The annual meeting of this old and flourishing lodge, for the purpose of installing the W. Master-elect and investing his officers, took place on Wednesday evening, the 19th ultimo. The occasion was marked by a numerous attendance of the brethren, upwards of fifty being present, and a more harmonious or agreeable gathering it certainly has never been our good fortune to attend. The lodge was opened in due form at five o'clock, when the minutes were read and the election of Bro. Richard Hopper Peacock was duly confirmed. The lodge having been opened in the second degree, the W.M.-elect was presented to Bro. Woodall, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., for the benefit of installation. Having given his unqualified assent to the "Ancient Charges and Regulations," the lodge was raised to the third degree, and the Board of Installed P.M.'s having been opened, Bro. R. H. Peacock was placed in the chair of K.S. Bro. William Peacock was invested as I.P.M., the brethren were readmitted, and the usual salutations having taken place the W.M. invested the following brethren as officers:—Fletcher, S.W.; Whalshaw, J.W.; Woodall, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., Treasurer; Martin, P.M., P.P.G.D.C., Secretary; Grover, S.D.; McKinley, J.D.; Milner, I.G.; Ash, Tyler. The ceremony was then completed, and the addresses were most ably rendered by the Installing Master. Nothing further being proposed for the good of Masonry, hearty good wishes were tendered by the several visitors, and the lodge was closed in harmony and with solemn prayer.—The brethren reassembled at seven o'clock to partake of one of those banquets in the providing of which the worthy host, Bro. Chapman, has so distinguished himself. The W.M. then proceeded to give the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, coupling with that of the Provincial Grand Officers the name of Bro. J. O. Surtees, W.M. 1248, Prov. G. Reg., who responded in the most able manner. Then followed the toast of the evening, "The newly-installed Master," proposed by Bro. Rooke, P.M. 200, P.P.G.J.W., in an eloquent manner. In the course of his remarks Bro. Rooke said: Brethren, in rising to propose this toast I do so with peculiar satisfaction, as the brother to whom it refers is my own Masonic pupil and intimate friend, and one whom I had the greatest pleasure in initiating in this lodge. We, the younger members of this lodge, have frequently been told by our seniors that we should never be able to work the lodge; that it would decay, sicken, and be struck off the parent stem, and "Like the baseless fabric of a vision, Leave not a wreck behind."

Has this been the case? Does not this present assembly—the largest annual Masonic gathering ever met together within the walls of this venerable lodge—disprove such an assertion? Does not our increased and increasing yearly list of members also contradict such a statement? It is within the last ten years that our lodge has so wonderfully prospered, and that we have been enabled to contribute so materially to the funds of the Boys' School, and to have our W.M. elected a perpetual Vice-President of the Institution. I say, not a little of our prosperity is due to the continued zeal and active exertions of our newly-installed Master, Brother Richard Peacock. (Loud applause.) It is he, and such as he—the hard-working, zealous Masons of England—who have succeeded in placing Freemasonry in the proud position it now occupies, second to none in the whole world, and this notwithstanding the anathemas hurled at its existence by a foreign potentate. It is, as most of you know, a fact that our W.M. can with safety be consulted on every matter relative to the Craft, and has thus justly earned for himself the title of "standing counsel" to the lodge, for if he has not (which is very seldom) the knowledge at his finger's end, he invariably carries in his pocket that unerring guide, the Book of Constitutions, and in so unanimously choosing such a brother to rule over them, the brethren have done wisely and well. Finally, Brethren, in proposing the health of our W.M. I do so in the fervent hope that he may be spared for many happy years to assist in ruling and governing this lodge, and when T.G.A.O.T.U. sees fit to call him to the Grand Lodge above, may he form part of that spiritual edifice not formed with hands but eternal in the heavens. (Loud applause.)—The W.M., who on rising was most warmly greeted, said he felt utterly unable to reply in adequate terms, or sufficiently to thank Bro. Rooke and the brethren for the way in which he had proposed and they had received the toast, but more than all to thank them for the great honour they had done him in placing in his hands the gavel of one of the oldest lodges in the province. He was afraid he had not deserved so high an eulogy as Bro. Rooke had passed upon him, but this he must say, that the interests of the Craft, and the Old Globe in particular, were most dear to his heart, and he would do his best to keep up that high standard to which the lodge had attained. He felt the responsibility to be a great one, but he knew that in every matter he should have the advice and assistance of the Past Masters, and, he hoped, the cordial support of the brethren. He could only say that speech-making was not a matter in which he felt at home, but instead of words he would try to substitute untiring action, and he hoped that at the end of his year of office he might be able to resign the gavel to the brother succeeding him as unsullied as he had received it from his predecessor. (On resuming his seat Bro. Peacock was again most heartily applauded.)—Again rising, the W.M. said he had a pleasing duty to perform, which was to propose the health of the I.P.M., Bro. William Peacock, and the P.M.'s of the Old Globe Lodge. The health of the P.M.'s was a toast which was always gladly received, and now that so worthy a brother had passed into their ranks, he was sure they had received a great acquisition. Although of the same name, they were not, as the brethren were aware, in the remotest degree related to each other; but he felt proud to hail their I.P.M. as a brother in the highest sense of the word. During his term of office Bro. Peacock had been most assiduous in his duties, and had performed them with promptness and unvarying punctuality. He felt that to follow in the footsteps of such a Master would be very difficult, for he was not only a true Mason when on the sacred floor, but he carried out the principles of Masonry in his every-day life. All who knew him knew with what zeal he worked when anything was to be done, not only in connection with this lodge, but in carrying out any scheme by which the funds of our noble charities could be in any way augmented. His practical working in the lodge was such as to be an example to all who aspire to the high dignity of Master; and he (the W.M.) looked forward with the greatest confidence to his advice and assistance during his own year of office (great applause).—Bro. William Peacock said he felt some diffidence in returning thanks on behalf of the Past Masters; he supposed his name had been coupled with the toast simply because he was the junior. However, he could only say how heartily he thanked the brethren on his own behalf for their kind and hearty reception of the toast. What he had done, he had done not grudgingly, but with all his heart, and he wished to take the opportunity of saying that he hoped and believed that during his year in the chair he had given offence to none; if he had, he there and then asked their forgiveness and assured them it had been unintentional. Although a Past Master he by no means considered he had a right to retire upon his honours and say he had finished, but he hoped still to be of service to his mother lodge, and begged to assure the W.M. that at any and at all times, and in any capacity, his services were at his disposal when required, either in the lodge or any work that might be connected with it. He could only again thank the brethren for their uniform kindness to him during his Mastership, nor could he sit down without first expressing his sense of the very able and efficient manner in which he had been supported by his officers, and as several of them had that evening obtained their well-earned promotion, he could assure the W.M. that with such a staff he need have no fear for the future working and well-being of the lodge. On behalf of the other Past Masters, he should say nothing, as he thought it only fair they should do as he had done, that was to return thanks on their own account.—Bros. Past Masters Rooke and Williamson having each expressed their thanks, Bro. Williamson said the W.M. had entrusted him to propose a toast, and he was sure it was one in which all would most cordially join. The toast he had to propose was "To the health and prosperity of our sister Lodge the Denison, No. 1248," coupling with it the name of the worthy brother who had the honour of presiding over it, Bro. Surtees. He (Bro. Williamson) was, with the exception of one or two, the oldest member of the Old Globe then present, and he was perfectly sure that never during his membership had he seen so numerous an assembly. For this they were, in a great measure, indebted to the kind manner in which the brethren of the Denison, with the W.M. at their head, had responded to the invitation sent to them. It plainly showed the good feeling existing between the two lodges, and he sincerely hoped that such good feeling would long continue, and would only further say that he trusted they would progress and prosper as the Old Globe had done, and he thought they would then have the greatest reason to be satisfied with their success (applause).—Bro. Surtees, in responding to the toast so kindly proposed and so warmly received, said he always felt a peculiar pleasure in attending the meetings of the Old Globe, and more particularly the present one; he thanked the brethren on behalf of himself and the members of his lodge for the kindly welcome and the unbounded hospitality they had received at their hands; he was sure the greatest good feeling existed between the two lodges, as he had always found the Old Globe ready to assist them in every possible way, and he sincerely hoped that as their own installation meeting was rapidly approaching, the brethren of the Old Globe would return the visit when the most cordial welcome would await them.—Bro. Rooke, in proposing the next toast, "The health of the Visiting Brethren," said: I am glad to see so many visitors amongst us, and in the name of the lodge I hold out to them the right hand of fellowship. Speaking individually, I am always glad to welcome visitors to our lodge when work is going on, as it is only by visiting lodges in various localities that we are enabled to arrive at anything like an uniformity of working, and I am glad to learn that a central committee of Past Masters is now in course of formation in London who are endeavouring to form such a ritual and modus operandi as will enable us to have a uniform system wherever our Grand Lodge holds sway, always bearing in mind that our ancient landmarks are the beacons of safety by which they are to direct their course and from which we as pure, free, and accepted Masons cannot swerve one iota from the primitive well-worn and well-known track; indeed, I would most earnestly impress upon the minds of my younger brethren the necessity of always guarding themselves against the insidious attacks of the Cowans who, under the guise of friendship are endeavouring to pierce us in our most vital parts by pretended improved methods and principles and so sap the ancient foundations which have stood the shock of ages, and witnessed the downfall of mighty empires, and yet like the mythical Wandering Jew, renew each centenary life with increased vigour and renewed vitality (cheers). In a society like ours, numbering, I believe, upwards of 40,000 members in England and Wales, and which doubtless will be materially increased since his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has become a brother among us, it behoves us to be exceedingly careful whom we admit to the high privileges of our order; too much caution therefore cannot be used in the selection of candidates, and hence it is the more important that our rules and regulations and the established landmarks should be strictly adhered to, and that the brethren of one province should make themselves conversant with the Masonic teachings and ritual of neighbouring ones, and this can only be done, as I said before, by frequent Masonic visits of courtesy and instruction, thus may we hope to go on year by year illustrating the three grand and sublime principles of our order: Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth (loud applause).—This toast was responded to in the most feeling and appropriate terms by Bro. Stores, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., and Bro. Smyth, D.P.G.M. for Lincolnshire.—Want of space compels us to omit many of the toasts and speeches which followed, among which we may mention "The Mayor and Corporation of Scarborough," responded to by the Worshipful the Mayor, Bro. Robert Forster; "The Past and Present Officers," responded to by Bro. Fletcher, S.W., 200, &c., &c. The host and hostess having been heartily proposed and suitably acknowledged by Bro. Chapman, the Tyler's toast was given, followed by the National Anthem, and the brethren separated having spent one of the most enjoyable evenings it is possible to conceive.

ROYAL ARCH.

Domestic Chapter, No. 177.—A meeting of this old and prosperous chapter was held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Thursday, the 27th ult., under the presidency of E. Comp. R. Wentworth Little, P.Z., and Z., assisted by Comps. J. Coutts, H.; W. J. Gilbert, J.; H. G. Buss, P.Z., E.; G. Wilson, N.; T. Cubitt, P.S.; J. R. Foulger, 1st Asst.; and the usual array of Past Principals, Comps. J. Smith, P.G., D.C., Treas.; W. Carpenter, J. Brett, C. B. Payne, C. A. Cottebrune, and E. Sisson. The M.E.Z. exalted Bros. Jas. Weaver, W.M. (862); and J. Gregory Webb (179), to the supreme degree of R.A. Masons, after which the elections for the ensuing year were proceeded with resulting unanimously as follows: Comps. J. Coutts, Z.; Gilbert, H.; Wilson, J.; Buss, E.; Cubitt, N.; Smith, Treas.; Foulger, P.S. The auditors were then chosen, after which the M.E.Z. with a few complimentary remarks appointed Comp. Weaver (of the Royal Orchestral office,) Organist to the chapter. A P.Z.'s jewel having been voted by acclamation to the retiring M.E.Z., the chapter was closed and the companions then partook of a substantial banquet. Comps. Wingfield, J. (169); Tanner, J.-elect (975); and Ash, S.N. (169), honoured the chapter with their presence as visitors, and severally responded to the compliment paid them in drinking their healths. An extremely pleasant evening was spent by all, and the members look forward to a happy reunion in March, when the installations will take place.

The New Vade Mecum (invented and manufactured by Charles H. Vincent, optician, of 23, Windsor-street, Liverpool) consists of a telescope well adapted for tourists, &c., to which is added an excellent microscope of great power and first-class definition, quite equal to others sold at ten times the price. Wonderful as it may seem, the price of this ingenious combination is only 3s. 6d., and Mr. Vincent sends it (carriage free) anywhere, with printed directions, upon receipt of post-office order or stamps to the amount of 3s. 10d.—[Adv.]

GRAND CHAPTER OF ENGLAND.

The quarterly convocation of the Supreme Grand Chapter was held in the Zetland Room, Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 2nd inst., M.E. Comp. the Rev. J. Huyshe, J., presided as Z., supported by Comp. S. Rawson as H., and Comp. F. Pattison as J., and among other comps. present, we noticed: Comps. J. Hervey, E.; J. M. Clabon, N.; S. L. E. Barnes, P.Z.; S. E. Hogg, P.Z. 206; W. Ough, P.Z. 749; H. E. Frances, P.Z. 463; A. Anderson, J. 463; W. Bartlett, Z. 168; Pierce Egan, Z. 11; G. S. States, P.Z. 145; R. W. Stewart, P.Z. 12; R. Spencer, P.Z. 3; G. J. Sharpe, H. 145; F. G. Baker, P.Z. 753; H. G. Buss, P.Z. 177.

The Grand Chapter was opened in due form and with solemn prayer. The minutes of the November convocation were read by the Grand Scribe E. and confirmed. The following report of the Committee was taken as read:—

To the Supreme Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of England.

The Committee of General Purposes beg to report that they have examined the accounts from the 20th October, 1869, to the 17th January, 1870, both inclusive, which they find to be as follows:—

To Balance 19th October . . .	£374 14 8
„ Subsequent Receipts . . .	192 10 10
	£567 5 6
By Disbursements during the Quarter	£143 12 0
„ Balance	423 13 6
	£567 5 6

which balance is in the hands of Messrs. Willis, Percival and Co., bankers of the Grand Treasurer.

The committee have also to report a fine of £5 5s., inflicted upon the Chapter of Concord, No. 394, Southampton, in July last (for having exalted a candidate on the 11th March, 1869, who had only been raised on the 12th November previously), has not been paid, nor has the chapter, which has been written to upon the subject by the Grand Scribe E. three times, acknowledged the receipt of his letters. Under these circumstances the committee have deemed it right to report the case to the Grand Chapter, and to summon the Chapter, No. 394, to attend their next meeting, to show cause why it should not be recommended to Grand Chapter that the chapter be erased.

A correspondence with the recently formed Grand Chapter of Nova Scotia, and a circular upon the same subject from the Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland, have been laid before the Committee, which they have carefully perused, and now submit to the consideration of the Supreme Grand Chapter. They suggest, however, that the Grand Lodge of England, having recognised the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, the Supreme Grand Chapter of England has scarcely anything to do in the matter. The Supreme Grand Chapters of England and Scotland are in very different positions, the former only issuing charters to be attached to lodges under the English constitution, and being in close alliance with the Grand Lodge, such charters would naturally cease upon the severance of the lodges from Nova Scotia from that constitution; the latter not being united or in any way connected with the lodges under the constitution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, issues its charters totally irrespective of that body, and consequently the Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland is quite at liberty to pursue a totally independent course.

The committee have likewise to report that they have received petitions.

From Companions William Pickup Pickup, as Z., Joseph Ingram, as H., Henry Macaulay, as J., and nine others, for a chapter to be attached to the Bank Terrace Lodge, No. 462, Accrington, to be called "The Bank Terrace Chapter," and to meet at the Hargreaves Arms Hotel, Accrington, Lancashire.

From Companions John Henry Hamer Doughtney as Z., Richard Boney, as H., William West Smith, as J., and nine others, for a chapter to be attached to the Pythagorean Lodge, No. 79, Greenwich, to be called "The Pythagorean Chapter," and to meet at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, Kent.

The foregoing petitions being in all respects regular, the committee recommend that the prayers thereof be respectively granted.

A petition has also been received from Companions George King, jun., as Z., George King, sen., as H., Edward Atkins Baber, as J., and eight others, for a chapter to be attached to the Hervey Lodge, No. 1260, to be called "The Hervey Chapter," and to meet at the George Hotel, Waltham Green, Middlesex.

This petition has been carefully considered, but, although in all respects regular in form, the committee are of opinion that it is not desirable that a chapter should be attached to a lodge which has been consecrated for a less period than three years, and they submit their opinion for the consideration of Grand Chapter.

The following notice of motion has been received for the next Quarterly Convocation:—

From Companion John Savage, Past Sword Bearer.
"That the business of the Quarterly Convocations do commence at 'eight' o'clock p.m., and that the word 'eleven' be struck out of the second line of clause 9, at page 8 of the Royal Arch regulations, and the word 'ten' be inserted in lieu thereof."

(Signed) W. PULTENEY SCOTT, President.

Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C.,
19th January, 1870.

The first portions of the report relating to the Chapter of Concord, No. 394, and to the recognition of the Grand Chapter of Nova Scotia were received and adopted. Upon motion duly made and seconded, a charter was granted for the Bank Terrace Chapter, No. 462, Accrington.

Comp. SCOTT proposed, and Comp. BAKER seconded, that a charter be granted for the "Pythagorean" Chapter, No. 79, Greenwich.—Comps. Noble and Collington opposed the motion, which was supported by Comps. Raynham Stewart, Stevens, Smith, Nunn and Halsey. The M.E.Z. spoke in favour of the motion, and then put the question, when there appeared in favour of the charter being issued 41; against it, 24. The charter was accordingly issued, and we consider it a very righteous decision, as the opposition was based upon personal motives which should never find place in Freemasonry. Comp. Radcliffe then proposed, and Comp. Stevens seconded, that a charter be granted to the petitioners for the Hervey Chapter. After some discussion, in which Comps. Smith, Bennoch, Scott and Nunn took part, the charter was granted. Comp. Savage being absent, his notice of motion necessarily lapsed.

The Grand Chapter was closed in due form, and adjourned.

A "PYTHAGOREAN" (suggestive name to Freemasons), writes to the Pall Mall Gazette, lamenting the tribulation he has had to undergo in carrying out his vegetarian theories. He relates his experiences at a restaurant not far from Regent-circus, in a somewhat amusing fashion, and sums up by dolefully describing his treatment as the case of "one who dares to choose his own diet in a free country."

EPILEPSY OR FITS.—A sure cure for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on Foreign and native Herbal Preparations, published by Prof. O. PHELPS BROWN. The prescription was discovered by him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known, as it has cured everybody who has used it for Fits, never having failed in a single case. The ingredients may be obtained from any chemist.—Persons desiring a copy may address Prof. O. PHELPS BROWN, No. 2, King-street, Covent Garden, London, enclosing stamp; six copies, three stamps.—[Adv.]

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Biliousness, Dyspepsia.—There is no organ in the human body so liable to derangement as the liver. Food, fatigue, climate, and anxiety, all disorder its action and render its secretion—the bile—more or less depraved, superabundant, or scanty. The first symptoms should receive attention. A pain in the side or the top of the shoulder, a harsh cough and difficulty of breathing, are all signs of liver disease, which are removed without delay by friction with Holloway's inestimable Ointment. The Pills should also be taken early. For all diseases of this vital organ the action of these conjoined remedies is a specific, by checking the over-supply of bile, regulating its secretion, and giving nervous tone.—ADV.]

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Answers to Correspondents.

R.A., Annan.—We have, unfortunately, mislaid your letter, but not before we had noted its contents. The Royal Caledonian Chapter was formed, as you state, in 1796, and continued its payments to the Grand Chapter of England till 1817. Can you explain under what charter it worked afterwards? The case, we should say, is unique, and a full account would be very interesting.

A. C. WATCHMAN.—An index has been issued for both Vol. 1. and Vol. 2. We will send you one of the latter if you have not received it. Your suggestion as to reviews shall be attended to in future.

W.M.—The lodge 642, at Darjeeling, East Indies, has been extinct for some years, the number given by our correspondent was erroneously printed as 642; 826 is also extinct.

MONTRA.—The ceremony observed at the installation of an English W.M. is not, strictly speaking, a "degree," as we explained in a recent article on "Masonic Rites," and no special charter is required for working it, provision being made in the warrant of every lodge for the due installation of successors to the first Master. No brother, however, can be installed unless three "Installed Masters" are present to form a "Board;" but we are unable to give the "regulations for conducting the same," inasmuch as they comprise part of the secrets belonging to the chair.

MASTER MASON.—The ancient laws of the Craft did not contemplate the creation of "honorary membership" in Masonic lodges; and Masonic jurists at the present time are by no means at one in their opinions as to the real status of honorary members. In England all the officers of a lodge must be "subscribing members," except the Secretary, whose services are reckoned an equivalent for his subscription. And by the laws of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, it is enacted that when an annual subscription is required in any lodge, the members of such lodge shall be bound to pay it, and if in arrear three years or more shall not be eligible to hold office. As, we believe, nearly all Scottish lodges now exact an annual contribution, however small in some instances, it follows that an honorary member cannot be an office-bearer in such lodges.

FREEMASONRY in CANADA.

OUR brethren in Canada are in difficulty and danger. It is our duty to unite with them in forming a column of mutual defence and support. A cloud, once little "bigger than a man's hand," has burst within their borders, and Freemasonry is deluged with the storm-drops of dissension and strife.

How is this? our English readers may ask. But a few years have elapsed since the Craft in Canada achieved their independence of foreign control, and their new career commenced under the most favourable auspices. Since then we have heard of nothing but the success of the Canadian Grand Lodge—we have witnessed with pleasure the great increase in its numerical strength, and we fondly hoped that it was long destined to maintain the same ratio of progress and to become one of the most powerful Masonic bodies in the world. Unfortunately, these hopes have not been realised; the horizon of Canadian Freemasonry is now strangely overcast, and its foundations are shaken to their very centre.

Let us briefly explain. Until the 1st of July, 1867, the whole of Canada—Upper and Lower—formed one Province, over which the Grand Lodge of Canada held sway, and District Grand Lodges under England or Scotland existed in the maritime provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. From the date mentioned, however, all British North America was welded into one confederation, designated the "Dominion of Canada;" and separate provinces—"Ontario," "Quebec," "Nova Scotia," and "New Brunswick"—were created, each possessing a separate legislature over which the "Dominion Parliament" was to exercise supreme jurisdiction. From various causes, to which it is unnecessary to refer at length, the brethren in the maritime provinces resolved to erect independent Grand Lodges of their own, but, as in duty bound, they first sought the sanction of their mother Grand Lodges. Owing to some miscarriage or inadvertence, the appeal of the New Brunswick lodges to this end never reached the authorities of the Grand Lodge of England; but the petition of the Nova Scotian brethren having been duly received, was calmly and dispassionately considered, and in one of the most numerously-attended Quarterly Communications ever held in Great Queen-street, London, the Grand Lodge of England acceded to the request of its daughter lodges; recognised them as a governing body in Freemasonry, and held out to them the right hand of fraternity and good-will. The Grand Lodge of Scotland, true to its traditions, followed suit, and the District

Grand Master, under both England and Scotland, became the first Grand Master of Nova Scotia.

The brethren in the newly-constituted Province of Quebec have also recently determined to avail themselves of their altered political status, and to set up for themselves; but they do not, so far as we can judge, appear to have adopted the wise and judicious example of their confreres in the maritime provinces. Upon the question whether a second Masonic Jurisdiction was required in a territory which, in spite of arbitrary boundaries, will ever be designated "Canada" we do not profess to give an opinion, but we conceive that the rules of propriety and the principles of Freemasonry have been alike violated in this hasty formation of a "Grand Lodge of Quebec." It was the bounden duty of the promoters of this division to lay their statements in Masonic form before the Grand Lodge of Canada—it was their duty to leave no stone unturned to obtain the sanction of the Supreme Body whose warrants they held—prior to raising the flag of independence, and defying the public opinion of the Order throughout the world. It is a sad state of things to contemplate—authority defied—fraternity disregarded—the sacred obligations of the Craft profaned or forgotten—when all the teachings of Freemasonry inculcate forbearance, truth, and brotherly love! Now, we cannot be supposed to sympathise with any movement which tends to weaken a friendly Masonic Power, but at the same time we earnestly call upon our Canadian brethren to reconcile their differences, for while blaming our Quebec brethren for remissness in their mode of procedure, we are on the other hand unable to conceal the obvious fact that wholesale suspensions or expulsions of brethren for errors of judgment will not be tolerated in this enlightened age.

If the Grand Lodge of Canada cannot win back to its Masonic fold by kindness the twenty-one recalcitrant lodges in the province of Quebec, it will never accomplish that object by harsh measures. "Secession" and "rebellion" are convertible terms, and the magic of success produces strange changes of opinion. We have before us now, the "Proceedings of the Grand Lodge of Canada," held on the 1st December, 1869, at Montreal, on the one side, and the "Proceedings of the Convention," held in the same city, on the 20th and 21st October last, by the leaders of the "Grand Lodge of Quebec" on the other side. We have also received a "Manifesto" of the latter body, through the courtesy of its Grand Master, Bro. J. H. Graham, and the conclusion to which we deliberately arrive, is that there must be a separation between the two provinces of Ontario and Quebec. The feelings which have been evoked on both sides are too powerful to be subdued, and we cannot advocate the adoption by the Grand Lodge of Canada of coercive measures, which would not only fail to reach their objects, but would excite the sympathies of every Freemason on behalf of the oppressed. There is one question, however, to which we desire to direct the early attention of Bro. Graham and his friends: the privileges under which certain English lodges now work in his newly-constituted province must be maintained unimpaired.

If any lodge in the dominion now working under the Grand Lodge of England wishes to surrender its ancient warrant for one of modern date, it is at liberty to do so, but so long as any lodge prefers remaining true to its allegiance—so long as seven members of that lodge retain their charter, the Freemasons of England will uphold them with all the moral forces at the disposal of the Grand Lodge of England. The compact made between the Grand Lodges of Canada and England must not be disturbed; every lodge must be one of free men and Masons—free to choose their rulers, and equally free to loosen the bonds which unite them to England, should they desire it. And here we desire to add that from the Grand Lodge of Canada, English Masons have received every courtesy. There is no bone of contention between us—on the contrary, we rejoice together in our mutual prosperity, and we sympathise with each other in the hour of distress.

There are many Canadian names enshrined in the thoughts and the hearts of English Masons: "McLeod Moore," "Douglas Harington," and "W. M. Wilson," are amongst the most prominent, and we are grieved to think that discord has invaded their pleasant plains, and that dissession reigns within their temples. As the organ of the widespread English Craft, let us however implore them to use their great and merited influence at this important crisis in the history of Canadian Masonry.

The study of the past will show to those intelligent minds that what is done cannot be recalled. We believe that the Grand Lodge of Quebec is an accomplished fact, and bearing this in view, we ask the brethren of "both provinces" to cease their unmeaning fulminations of expulsion, and to accept the inevitable result. They can still unite together, paradoxical as it may sound, by agreeing to remain apart; and at any rate the interests of the Order can never be served unless each party determines to practise the simple but true maxim, "Forgive and Forget."

CRAFT EMBLEMS.

It seems to me that many Freemasons of to-day fancy that the old Operative masons were the only Craftsmen who depicted their tools upon their flags, banniers, or elsewhere, but that is a mistake; all trades used the implements of their craft as the badges of their various trades, as is repeatedly recorded in the 15th and 16th century Burgh records of Aberdeen; and in the Cathedral of Amiens, where certain stained glass windows were presented by certain trades, the implements or badges of these trades are depicted upon the different windows. Again, many, no doubt, suppose the compasses and square are the especial badge of the Masons, but not so, for the wrights, who use both practically, and the former probably much more than the masons, claim the compasses and square as part of their trade-badge or "coat-of-arms."

LEO.

"MASTER MASON" AND "CONSTITUTION."

Master Mason of Port Louis does not distinctly say whether his lodge is English, Irish, or Scottish constitution, had he done so an answer could have been given to him at once; however, if his lodge be any other constitution to that of Scottish which he speaks as that of their now Right Worshipful Master belonging to, the proper and legal way is, that the party ought first to have affiliated, when he then becomes amenable to all the laws governing every other member of the lodge and also to all the privileges. CIPES.

"MONTRA" AND "THE DOINGS OF GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND."

Montra's remarks are quite true, but it seems that the Grand Lodge of Scotland (or rather those in power) can do anything they like, even in violation of their own laws. I will just mention a recent case: a motion was tabled, in due conformity to the laws, for discussion at next Grand Lodge Meeting, and after having been read for the approval or disapproval of the meeting, and had no objections offered by any member present, had also the approval of the M.W. Grand Master, but this very motion by an arrangement of committee who had nothing to do with it, was never printed in the billet of business summoning the Grand Lodge, nor has it ever come before the Grand Lodge as it ought to have done. CIPES.

GRATUITOUS INITIATIONS.

The laws of the Grand Lodge of Scotland clearly and distinctly prohibit "gratuitous initiations." They say:—"The Grand Lodge interdicts and prohibits any gratuitous initiations into the Craft, for Grand Lodge or other purposes, of members of Regimental Bands, or others." Nothing is more plain. Some time ago a brother defended an action brought against him by the Master of the Lodge for recovery of the fees, "that as he was nearly connected with the press no fees were exigible from him." It seems that he must have forgotten a most essential duty of Freemasons, and more especially that part of his "O.B." that makes him bound to the Grand Lodge laws, for they say in the section regulating fees:—"Neither shall payment of these sums, or any part thereof, be, on any pretence whatever, remitted or deferred." CIPES.

"ANTIQUARIUS" AND W. J. HUGHAN.

I am much obliged to "Antiquarius" for so promptly answering my request, and inserting a copy of the certificate granted by the Lodge of Antiquity, No. 1. It is highly probable that this certificate was granted by the "time immemorial" Lodge Antiquity, then No. 1, but now No. 2. There were two lodges about the date of this certificate claiming similar rights and privileges, viz., the old lodge itself, with which Bro. William Preston was connected, and the other, supported by a few of the members of the original lodge who had taken the side of the Grand Lodge in the unfortunate misunderstanding that arose between that body and the "Antiquity" brethren about 1778. Of course there may be two members of the same name, but it is now likely, and so in all probability the certificate in question belonged to the well-known author of the "Illustrations of Masonry." The "Manifesto" of the Lodge of Antiquity was dated 16 December, 1778, but the commencement of the struggle was at the Festival of St. John the Evangelist, A.D. 1777. W. J. HUGHAN.

IT is proposed to erect a Masonic Hall in Glasgow, at a cost of about £15,000.

A GREAT association of Freethinkers has been formed in Spain. The society has its own organ, published at Madrid, and called La Libertad del Pensamiento.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—A grateful father is desirous of sending by mail, free of charge to all who wish it, a copy of the prescription by which his daughter was restored to perfect health from confirmed Consumption, after having been given up by her physicians and despaired of by her father, a well-known physician, who has now discontinued practice. Sent to any person free.—Address O. P. Brown, Secretary, 2, King-street, Covent-garden, London.—[Advt.]

UNIFORMITY OF RITUAL.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—Being a subscriber to your paper from the first, I have taken great interest in the various subjects treated of in your columns, and amongst others that of the "Uniformity of Ritual," and as a committee of Past Masters who are to consider the subject is about to be formed, I hope they will not be selected entirely from among London brethren, as there are many excellent working Masons in the Provinces—notably those of Lancashire and Yorkshire—who ought to have a voice on the committee, but how are they to be paid for loss of time and expenses of travelling, and hotel charges while in London? Many of them are business men, and most of them are not overburdened with "worldly possessions." It will be most unjust if they are not consulted; in fact, the committee to be of any good should be an Ecumenical Council.

Perhaps Bro. Stevens and his supporters will elucidate the subject in your pages.

I am, Sir,

A PROVINCIAL BROTHER.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Now that there is a probability that the question of "uniformity of working" in all Lodges under English Jurisdiction, will have a chance of being seriously enquired into, it may perhaps be a propos to suggest another question, which I trust will be deemed no less worthy of earnest attention.

Those who are in the habit of visiting lodges and chapters, have of course observed how scanty are the number of officers who have even a moderate knowledge of the duties they have undertaken to perform. Really good working officers are, "like angels' visits, few and far between."

Brethren aspire and succeed in being promoted to the exalted position of W.M. in the lodge, Companions are elevated to the highest position in the Chapter, and in but too many instances neither the W.M. nor the M.E.Z. are possessed even of sufficient knowledge to go through the ritual with anything like decency. Indeed, the chair is frequently vacated by those whose duty it is to be "well-skilled in the noble science," to make room for a P.M. or P.Z. to officiate for them. I do not wish to insinuate that brethren in those positions are not worthy, and in other respects able and intelligent men; had they chosen to apply themselves to the task they undoubtedly would very readily have acquired all knowledge necessary to render their situation less equivocal. But why should they take any trouble in the matter? The solemn promise and declaration that "they are able and willing to undertake the management of the work of the lodge," is given after the election—the election itself of the Senior Officer to the W. Master's chair is such a matter of course, defective working is so complacently countenanced in almost every lodge, that apathy, and in some instances wilful neglect, become the real cause of the shameful inefficiency of those who ought to set a better example to the brethren they are supposed to instruct. To counteract this evil, some lodges have adopted the plan of subjecting every candidate for the office of W.M. to an examination of his proficiency in the working of the ritual, and if every lodge and chapter were to pursue the same course, a great and highly important reform might thus be speedily accomplished. The question, however, is, will the plan be generally acted upon? I fear not. The prevalent impression among the brethren is that the officers must advance in rotation. In many cases, too, the W.M. is elected, as a matter of courtesy or feeling, "he is such a jolly good fellow," or the reason assigned is "O he has passed through all the minor offices, we cannot do other than elect him," at the same time, "we are fully aware of his incompetency." Similar reasons are advanced for electing persons to an office for which they are in no way qualified.

I think it will be admitted that this is an evil of some magnitude, to obviate which, I would suggest the establishment of a Board of Examiners, of course under the auspices of the Grand Lodge, consisting of well-known and experienced Past Masters, and any brother aspiring to the Mastership of a Lodge, to render him eligible, should, besides the condition of "having served the office of Warden in a regularly constituted Lodge for a period of twelve months," also be bound to produce a certificate of efficiency, from the Board of Examiners.

To render this scheme practicable, to each Provincial Grand Lodge a similar board might be attached. We may then hope to secure, if not "uniformity," the importance of which I do not underrate, but that which in my humble opinion is of greater value—thorough efficiency in the working of the lodges.

Yours fraternally,
E. GOTTHEIL.

HIRAM ABIF.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—I have perused with much interest a letter in your paper from the pen of S.G.F., on the subject of Royal Arch Masonry; and most heartily do I concur in the principle contended for by your correspondent—that there should be uniformity and agreement with regard to our ritual, founded as this is on Biblical History. I have always felt that the more closely we adhere to the simple and beautiful statements recorded in the sacred volume, the less difficulty we shall find in preserving the ancient landmarks. With regard to the objection sometimes made to our employing the name "Hiram Abif," because the name "does not occur in the Bible," I may state that, having been long in the habit of reading the Bible in German and in Swedish, on account of the great vigour which these translations possess (especially the former) as compared with our English version, I have observed that some Hebrew names, which our translators have endeavoured to render into equivalent English terms, are in the German and Swedish versions adopted in many instances as proper names, and represented as such without even an alteration of spelling. Of these diversities of translation, not the least remarkable and interesting is that presented in the case of the name in question; our version rendering it in one place "Hiram his father," and in others "Hiram my father," while the German version, which was the work of a great man and a profound scholar, namely Martin Luther, reads Hiram Abif; the same reading is also found in the Swedish version.

FESTIVAL OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—It was my good fortune to be present at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, a report of which was given in your last week's issue, and I cannot help writing you, to let the fraternity who were not there to participate in the pleasures of the evening know through your widely circulated and valuable paper—which en passant I may mention I look for every week, and peruse with great delight—that I think it was the best conducted, and most orderly one in my humble opinion that has taken place for some time, and that both the Stewards and the Manager of the Tavern may be congratulated on their successful labours. The only thing that would have improved the enjoyment of the evening, would have been the exclusion of some of the foreign music, and the substitution of good old English ballads instead, as all Englishmen have not the taste for songs they do not understand, however exquisite the melody may be, that they have for those that touch the heart, as well as delight the ear. I could not help noting the difference produced on the audience, by "Tom Bowling," and by "Largo al factotum."

Hoping you will insert these few remarks, I am,
AN ENGLISHMAN.

MARK MASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—Every constitutional Mason will thank you for the admirable tone and temper of your article on the conduct of the R.A. Chapter of Scotland towards the Mark Grand Lodge. I trust that before long true Masonic feeling may be established between the Mark Masons of England and Scotland. The G.M.'s request that the R.A. Chapter will appoint some eminent brother to confer with them and arrange differences, does not look as if the Mark Grand Lodge would place any hindrances in the way.

There are one or two points in connection with the Mark Grand Lodge which are well worth our consideration. It is assumed as "anomalous," that the Mark Degree should be under a jurisdiction of their own. But surely the "nomos" has been already laid down in the case of the R.A., which though only half a degree, being one degree together with the Master's, yet has its own jurisdiction.

It is assumed that the Mark ought to come between the second and third degrees. There is no proof whatever that it ever had anything to do with the second degree. It is certain that the inventors of the third degree were of the Mark, but from its being left out of the scheme in 1717, as well as in 1813, there is every reason to believe that it was always a degree per se, and I suspect both distinctly operative and of very considerable antiquity. I believe it myself to have been the link between "Craft" Masonry and the higher degrees, in the Antient Order of York, and that in it were learnt those peculiar modes, by which the initiated might communicate with one another, unknown to the rest of the world. In the present state of Craft Masonry, when many of the old landmarks have been removed or obscured, I cannot but think it a gain that by our distinct organization we are able to maintain some of them; notably, a frequent change in our Grand Mastership. Every one (except perhaps the Scotch R.A.) knows that according to the old landmarks, and the example set in 1717, it was perfectly competent for the English Mark Masons in 1856, to form themselves into a Grand Lodge or union of Mark Masters. How a Royal Arch Chapter, dating from 1818, can claim jurisdiction over the Mark Degree, which by their own admission was worked in "operative lodges from time immemorial," it is difficult to understand. Certain I am, however, that the representatives of this very old degree in England will never allow themselves to be over-ridden by so modern a body as the Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland.

Yours fraternally,
AN OLD MARK.

WAS HENRY PRICE EVER APPOINTED PROV. G.M. OF AMERICA?

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—About a month ago, Dr. Winslow Lewis, a most esteemed and respected citizen of Boston, and P.G.M. of Massachusetts, placed in my possession a number of old Masonic documents which he recently purchased from a Mason's widow. Some of those documents were shown to me by the late owner about twenty years ago, this I distinctly remember, but at that time I merely looked upon them as curiosities and paid no further attention to it. On examining those old papers, among other matter, I found several letters of correspondence between Henry Price and two Grand Secretaries of England, which I shall give in chronological order. First, London, Nov. 29th 1768, signed Tho. French, G.S. Next, Boston, June 3rd 1769, reply to the above of Nov. 29th. Next, London, Sept. 6th 1769, acknowledging the receipt of June 3rd, signed Jas. Heseltine, G.S., with reply to Heseltine from Price, dated January, 29th 1770. There are also letters from Heseltine, February 15th 1770, and a memorandum reply, dated Boston, May 16th, 1770. These letters at once reveal the cause why Henry Price's name appears for the first time as "G.M. of America" in the "Masonic Almanac" of 1770, which you may remember was a puzzle to the Right Worshipful Bro. Hervey, G.S. of England, to C. W. Moore, of Boston, and in fact to all of us, when I paid a visit to your office last spring.

The discovery of these papers made me naturally feel anxious to get at the beginning. The letter from French of Nov. 29th, refers to a letter from Price of January 27th, the question then was, where could that letter be found? I was also desirous of ascertaining as to the handwriting of the memorandum copies, and other papers in the collection. So I called on Bro. Gardner, our G.M., showed him some of the documents, and obtained permission to examine the original record of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. I say "original," because I had hitherto seen only a transcript copy. The old book was not kept in the Masonic Temple, but at an officer's house, it was therefore specially sent for, for my examination. For a full account of the result of my investigation, I must refer you to Bro. Brennan's American Freemason of some future date, at present it will suffice to state, that I found in the record the sought-for letter, and here is a copy thereof:—

"Boston, New England, Jan. 27th, 1768.

"Rt. Worshipful Brothers,—I had the honor to be appointed Provincial Grand Master of New England, by the Rt. Honourable and Worshipful Lord Anthony Brown, Viscount Montacute, in the year 1733, and in the year 1735 said commission to me was extended over all North America by the Rt. Honourable and Rt. Worshipful John Lindsay, Earl of Crauford, then Grand Master of Masons, but upon inquiry, I find that said deputation never registered, though I myself paid three guineas therefor to Thomas Batson, Esq., then Deputy Grand Master, who with the Grand Wardens then in being, signed my said deputation. This deputation was the first that the Grand Lodge ever issued to any part of America. [G.M. Norfolk granted a Provincialship to Daniel Cox, for New Jersey, America, in 1730 or 1731, 'Anderson's Cons. 1736,'] and stands so on all the lodges on the Continent. Other deputations have since been issued to different provinces, but they cannot, according to rule, take rank of mine. So would submit it to your wisdom and justice, whether said deputations should not be registered in their proper place, without any further consideration therefor, and the Grand Lodge here have rank according to date, as it has (by virtue of said deputation) been the foundation of Masonry in America, and I the founder.

"Wherefore Rt. Worshipful Brethren, I beg that my enquiry may be made into the premises, and that things may be set right, is the earnest request of your much honoured and affectionate brother, and very humble servant,

HENRY PRICE.

"P.S.—Rt. Worshipful, I herewith send you an attested copy of my said deputation as registered in Grand Lodge book of this place, under the hand of our Grand Secretary, whose signature you may depend upon as genuine.

H. P."

In reply to the above, Bro. French said:—

"I know not how your name should have been omitted in the list of Provincials, but Bro. Robert Tomlinson, Esq., is the first appearing in our books for any part of America, during the Grand Mastership of the Earl of Loudon, in 1736. These mistakes might have been long since rectified, if you had kept up according to your charter a regular annual correspondence with the Grand Lodge. However, as it appears by the loose papers in my possession, that you had resigned in favour of John Rowe, his Grace (Duke of Beaufort), desires you will forward a letter to me, relating to this point per first opportunity, that the Provincialship may be properly settled."

With the above letter came a deputation for John Rowe, which began thus:—"Know ye, that we of the great trust and confidence reposed in our Right Worshipful and well beloved Bro. Henry Price, Esq., of North America, constituted Provincial Grand Master for North America by Viscount Montague, Grand Master, April 13th, 1733."

It is evident that the authorities in England did not then care to scrutinise Henry Price's pretensions; they took his word, and the attested copy of his deputation from the Massachusetts record for granted, subject to further explanation. Price in his reply, however, did not pretend that he had ever written a single line to an officer of the G.L. of England, but merely promised to be in England in the fall of the year, when he would explain "face to face," &c., and the same promise he repeated in his reply to Heseltine; Jan. 29th, 1770. Price did not go to England, the war of independence broke out, and the above correspondence was no doubt the last that the Provincial G.L. ever had with the parent G.L. Price, however, did not thereafter visit England, and the promised explanation "face to face" was never given. The war of independence put a stop to the Provincial G.L.; it ceased to meet from 1774 until 1791, when it assumed the title of "the G.L. of the Holy St. John," and by that title it called itself from Nov. 15th, 1791, until 5th of March following, when it merged into another Provincial G.L. of Scotch origin under its present title. Price, however, gained his point, by humouring the Duke of Beaufort with flattering approvals of a darling scheme of the said Duke (to get the Order chartered by Parliament.) Price was acknowledged by the Duke in the deputation of Rowe, Price was also put into the "Freemasons' Almanac" in 1770 as G.M. of America, and so the almanac continued year after year to inform its patrons until 1804, when his name disappears.

The discovery of the above-named documents, together with the examination of the Massachusetts records aroused my suspicion that Henry Price was a pretender, that he never received a commission either from Lord Montague, Montacute, or the Earl of Crauford. I should not perhaps have felt disposed to rake up old impositions, if the character of an active and highly popular D.G.M. of England had not been impugned at a time, probably when all parties concerned who might have disproved Henry Price's pretensions were dead. John Lindsay, Earl of Crauford died, I believe in 1749, Viscount Montague in 1767, and the D.G.M. and Wardens who are alleged to have signed Price's commission must also have departed in 1768, for otherwise inquiries would have been made of them concerning Price's claims. Then, and not till then, Price for the first time discovers the omission of his name as Past Prov. G.M. in the English Register, and for the first time addresses a letter to the English authorities, informing them of appointments which naturally surprised them.

We must bear in mind that in both Anderson's and Entick's editions of the Constitution published respectively in 1738 and 1736, mention is made of Tomlinson's appointment in 1756, but nothing is said about Henry Price; but that is not all, for I actually learn from one of my old documents, that Price had written a letter "to the Rev. Bro. Entick, minister at Stepney" in 1754, (two years before the publication of Entick's Constitution), and sent him three guineas to pay for a commission for Jeremy Gridley, begging Entick at the same time "to forward the affair," or in other words to get Gridley's appointment for Prov. G.M. confirmed, and that Captain John Phillips had brought back a receipt for the three guineas but not a line from Entick, therefore Price in 1755, begs some one in London to look after the three guineas, and "to forward the affair." Now in the first place, can it be possible that neither Anderson's nor Entick's Constitution had reached Boston until 1768, when we know that both Tomlinson, and his successor Oxnard, had visited England during their respective Grand Masterships, and that in 1749 a D.G.M. of Massachusetts had also paid a visit to England? And, secondly, what necessity was there for Henry Price in 1754-5 to go a roundabout way, "beating the bush," applying to this and that man "to forward the affair," and why did he not send three guineas

Our Exchanges.

The following have been received regularly of late :—

The Neilgherry Excelsior, published at Ootacamund, Madras. This journal frequently contains interesting extracts on Masonic subjects, and is evidently edited with care and ability.

Maconniek Weekblad.—A valuable organ of the Craft, published weekly at Amsterdam. The number for the 10th January contains a continuation of Bro. Loysen Dillie's "History of the Grand National Mother Lodge of Berlin," one of the three Masonic powers in Prussia. From the same source, we learn that the Grand Orient of Lusitania is making progress, there being now 15 lodges under its banner, viz., six at Lisbon, six at Oporto, two in Spain (Cadiz and Seville), and one at Fayal. Five of these, namely the lodges "Cosmopolite," "Tolerance," "Triumphe Moral," "Unido Fraternal," and "Esperanza," number between 100 and 150 members each. The French grades of "Scotch Master," "Knight of the East," and "Rose Croix" are worked in addition to the symbolical degrees. In No. 3, 17th January, there is a long circular address issued by the Lodge of the Sun, at Bayreuth, on the Roman Council and Freemasonry, and several protests from French lodges on the same subject, which is one that possesses little interest for British Masons, who can afford to smile at the arrogant pretensions of the Ultramontanists. A list of the officers of the lodge "Carl of Sweden," of which the King of Sweden and Norway is Master, is also given. This lodge is held at Zutphen, and is one of the highest standing in the state. Bro. Franken, the Almoner, is a well-known Mason, and the Chapel Master or Org., Bro. C. F. P. Soeteus, is a musician of some celebrity.

Freimaurer-Zeitung, edited by Bro. Moritz Lille, at Leipsic, contains in the issue for January 8th, among the memorable Masonic events of the year 1869 in connection with the Grand Lodge of England, an account of the Inauguration of Freemasons' Hall in April last, and quotes copiously from the Rev. R. J. Simpson's excellent oration on that occasion. This paper also gives reports of lodge meetings, and interesting statistics of the membership of various German lodges. Thus we learn that the "Harpocrates" Lodge, at Magdeburg, reckons 123 members, besides 10 honorary members; "Pysche," at Oppeln, 153; a lodge at Lubeck, 176; and one at Hanover, 253. It is evident that our German fratres do not believe in small lodges. In many numbers of the Freimaurer-Zeitung, capital addresses delivered to the lodges by talented brethren are reproduced with advantage, doubtless, to the German Craft at large.

Masonic Tidings, Warsaw, New York; edited by Bro. J. W. Simons and John Ransom.—This is a welcome visitor to our sanctum, and we can cordially reciprocate the following kindly comments upon our own labours :—

LONDON FREEMASON.—We are in receipt of this invaluable Masonic paper. It gives news from all parts of the world, and circulates in all the dependencies of the British crown. We hope to receive it regularly hereafter. It is printed by Bro. George Kenning, under the sanction of the Grand Lodge of the United Kingdom. Its terms three shillings three pence per quarter, postage included.

The paper has been recently enlarged, and is now a marvel of cheapness. We hope to be an occasional contributor to "Masonic Tidings."

The Elevator, San Francisco, California.—this journal is devoted to the interests of the emancipated negro race in the States, and we gather from it that coloured Masonic Lodges are rapidly increasing.

We have also received the following Masonic Magazines or Journals, but from want of space must defer fuller notices of their interesting contents :—

The Keystone, Philadelphia; the Masonic Advocate, Indianapolis, Indiana; the American Freemason, Cincinnati; the Chaine D'Union, Paris; the Monde Maconnique, Paris; Die Bauhutte, Leipsic, edited by the celebrated Masonic Historian, Bro. J. G. Findel; the Alge- meen Handelsblad, Amsterdam; the Landmark, New York; Le Rappel Maconnique, Brussels; the Masonic Monthly, Boston, Mass (for October, 1869); the Craftsman, Hamilton, Ont.; the Masonic Record, Bombay; the Voice of Masonry, Chicago; and though last, not least, the first number of the Gavel, Toronto, which we hope often to grasp in our fraternal hands.

It will be perceived that the above list of exchanges is rather a formidable one, but it will assuredly enable us to keep our readers thoroughly en rapport in future, with the sayings and doings of the brethren of every nation and clime.

THE CANADIAN DIFFICULTY.

The following circular in reference to the Canadian difficulty has been forwarded to us for publication :—

Grand Lodge of Quebec, of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons.

Office of the Grand Master, Richmond, P. of Q.
November 20th, 1869.

We, the undersigned, having been duly authorized and deputed therefor, beg respectfully to announce to you the constitutional formation of the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Quebec, on the 20th day of October, A.D. 1869; and we respectfully pray, that you, as a sister Grand Lodge, will extend fraternal recognition to, and establish fraternal correspondence and communication with, the Grand Lodge of Quebec aforesaid; and, if in accordance with the custom of your Grand Body, we further request that you will be pleased to honour the Craft in this province by appointing a representative of your Grand Lodge, near the Grand Lodge of Quebec.

And for the information of your Grand Lodge, we beg leave to transmit herewith, a printed report of the proceedings of the convention, by which the Grand Lodge of Quebec was formed, including the list of the lodges constitutionally represented thereat, together with the names and former rank of the Grand Officers duly elected, appointed and installed in accordance with the customs, landmarks, and constitutions of our most ancient and honourable fraternity.

Also, for the further information of your Grand Lodge, we beg to submit the following, as among the many reasons which induced the lodges, being a full majority of the private lodges within the province of Quebec, under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodges of England, Scotland, and Canada, in convention assembled, to form an independent and supreme Grand Lodge in and for the Province of Quebec :—

1st. That for a number of years previous to the formation of what is still called the Grand Lodge of "Canada," and until July 1st, 1867, the territory over which that Grand Lodge claimed to exercise jurisdiction, formed and constituted but one province called "The Province of Canada," and having but one Legislature or Parliament; but by the proclamation of the "British North American Act," on July 1st, 1867, the "Province of Canada" as then existing, was, to use the word of that Act, "severed" into two separate and distinct provinces, called the "Province of Quebec," and "The Province of Ontario." These Provinces of Quebec and Ontario, thus formed, were also by the proclamation of the aforesaid "British North American Act," joined (together with the provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick,) into one federal union which was declared "to form and be" "The Dominion of Canada;" so that since the 1st July, 1867, the two provinces of Ontario and Quebec, have been and are, as distinct and separate as the provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, or as are any two States of the American Union, while the legislature of each province is similar to the legislature of each State of the same, and the Dominion Parliament is somewhat analogous to the Federal Congress of the United States of America.

2nd. That the Grand Lodge of "Canada" (whose name had thus become a "misnomer," for two years, has merely been exercising what may be called an ad interim authority (always conjoint and divided as far as what is now the province of Quebec is concerned), over two separate and distinct provinces, contrary to the well established principle, "that Masonic and political boundaries are, and ever ought to be, coterminous." And not only was the continued existence in the province of Quebec, of private lodges under the jurisdiction of the three Grand Lodges, viz.: England, Scotland, and Canada, and the consequent joint occupation, directly and indirectly, of the same province by these three separate Grand Lodges, deemed and held to be contrary to the laws, usages and customs of our ancient and honourable fraternity respecting the establishment and jurisdiction of Grand Lodges, but much painful experience had shown and con-and write direct to the Duke of Beaufort, or the Grand Secretary, boldly stating, that "I, Henry Price, having held deputations from Viscount Montague and the Earl of Crauford, as Provincial Grand Master of America, do hereby and herewith recommend the appointment of Jeremy Gridley, Esq., as my successor." Surely, what higher and better recommendation could Gridley have needed, than that of English gentleman who was known to Viscount Montague, or was at least acquainted with Thomas Batson, Esq., and who was deemed worthy by John Lindsay, Earl of Crauford, to receive the appointment of Prov. G.M. over all North America? Nor is there any room for a supposition that Gridley's appointment was opposed by any representations or misrepresentations of some of the Massachusetts brotherhood, so as to require the aid of understrappers "to forward the affair," for Gridley received eleven out of thirteen votes of the Boston G.L. recommending his appointment; and moreover, Gridley was undoubtedly the most talented Grand Master previous to the war of independence. Gridley was eminent at the bar, held the office of Attorney General for the colony under the British Crown, and was a member of the Legislative Assembly. The conduct of Price in 1754-5 is therefore unaccountable. Again, Henry Price appealed to the "deputation" or commission copied from the record of his G. Lodge; not to the original documents, signed and sealed by Thomas Batson or the Earl of Crauford, but to that recorded in his book. It is therefore evident that in 1768 Price was not in possession of either of his original deputations, for otherwise he would have appealed to them. Now, a Grand Lodge record might be brought in as evidence, providing we are certain that the said record was received by an authorised secretary there and then, when each transaction was dated. But I scarcely had possession of the Massachusetts record a quarter of an hour, when I discovered, and have since then demonstrated to the satisfaction of the G.M., the G.T., and G.S., that the record of 1733 was not written until 1751. The said record is not only not an original record, but it cannot even be claimed that it is an honest transcript of a true original. The whole of it from 1733 to 1751 is evidently a compilation from memory, and some loose memoranda written by Chas. Pelham, who was not initiated until September 1744, and to the copy of his deputation in that record, Price appealed as evidence of his appointments.

There is still another discrepancy which must not be overlooked. Price, in his letter above given, claims to have received his two commissions respectively in the years 1733 and 1735, but in the Massachusetts record of 1734, it is said that Price received the second deputation at the above date, and Bro. C. W. Moore, in his life of Price, says, Price received the commission from Lord Crauford, early in 1734.

The question now is this. Was Price an impostor? or did Thomas Batson, Esq., Deputy G.M., under the Grand Mastership of three successive English noblemen, really pocket three guineas, received by him from honest Henry Price, Esq.? Or could Messrs. Batson, Rooke, and Smythe, the D.G.M., and the Grand Wardens, who had signed the deputations of Price, April 13th 1733, have forgotten to have had the said deputation registered in a year in which no other Prov. Grand Mastership was created?

Now, in order to have this riddle explained, I would beg of you the favour to ascertain from the account book of your G.L. of the above date, if the three guineas of Henry Price, appear among the pounds, shillings and pence. Also whether according to the then regulations of the G.L. of England, did Henry Price have to pay a second three guineas for his second commission? and if so, can any account be found thereof either in 1734, 1735 or immediately after? If the three guineas should be found recorded, then all parties in the case will deserve an honourable discharge, but if on the other hand, the said three guineas are not found in the accounts, and no mention is made in G.L. record of 1734-1735, or immediately after, of Henry Price, Esq., then, I think, the unanimous verdict will be here, as well as in England, that Henry Price, Esq., was as Artimuz Ward would have called him "an awful smart critter."

Fraternally yours,

JACOB NORTON.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 12th 1870.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks: "By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—[Advt.]

vinced the majority of the brethren in the province of Quebec, that such a state of Masonic affairs was wholly incompatible with the peace and welfare of our beloved fraternity.

3rd. That although the condition of Masonic affairs in British North America has been carefully and anxiously considered for a long period, yet no solution of the admitted difficulties has been suggested or proposed, which has been at all satisfactory to the majority of the brethren in the province of Quebec and elsewhere throughout the country, except the formation of an independent Grand Lodge in each of the four provinces constituting the Dominion of Canada. For two years prior to the political changes which took place in 1867, Grand Master Simpson, of the Grand Lodge of "Canada," both at public and private Masonic gatherings in the cities of Toronto and Montreal, and also in his address to Grand Lodge in July, 1866, directed the attention of the Craft to the important political changes then anticipated, and their consequent effect upon the name, status, rights and jurisdiction of the "Grand Lodge of Canada," at the same time favouring the notion of endeavouring to extend the jurisdiction of the "Grand Lodge of Canada" over the whole of British North America!! His learned and able successor, who was also the first Grand Master of the "Grand Lodge of Canada," M.W. Bro. W.M. Wilson, in his address to Grand Lodge in July 1867, a few weeks after the Queen's proclamation inaugurating the Dominion of Canada, directed especial attention to the then anomalous state of Masonic affairs, caused by the recent political changes that had taken place, and appointed a committee of seven to consider and report thereon to Grand Lodge on the following day. Four members of this special committee from the province of Ontario, (viz.: M.W. Bros. Wilson, Harrington, and Simpson, and R.W. Bro. Moffatt,) reported in favour of maintaining the status in quo of Grand Lodge while waiting further developments, and the three members of the committee from the province of Quebec, (viz.: M.W. Bro. A. Bernard, R.W. Bro. A. A. Stevenson, and R.W. Bro. J. H. Graham,) reported in favor of the formation of an independent Grand Lodge in each of the four Provinces constituting the Dominion of Canada. That since that time every effort has been made by the Grand Lodge of Canada to unite the different lodges in the Dominion, under their government but without success. The action of the lodges in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, as is shown in the next section, has been decidedly against any such union, while the efforts of the Grand Lodge of Canada to invite the lodges working in the Province of Quebec, under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodges of England and Scotland, have been equally unsuccessful. And although the present Grand Master of what is yet called the "Grand Lodge of Canada," stated in his address to Grand Lodge in July last, that he had been given to understand that a proposition to adhere to the "Grand Lodge of Canada," would be favourably considered by those lodges in the Province of Quebec under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodges of England and Scotland, yet when the three lodges (two R. E. and one R. S.) in the city of Quebec, were requested to meet the Committee appointed by the "Grand Lodge of Canada" to consider the subject of amalgamation, not one member of either of these old and influential lodges accepted such invitation; but on the contrary, two of the three, by their duly appointed delegates, co-operated in the formation of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, and have since solemnly ratified the action of their representatives, and formally declared their allegiance to the new Grand Lodge; and the amalgamation movement was not more successful in the city of Montreal, than it had been in the city of Quebec.

4th. During the year 1866, a Grand Lodge had been formed in and for the Province of Nova Scotia, and its Grand Master installed by P. Grand Master Wilson, "Grand Lodge of Canada," and the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, so formed is now acknowledged by the Grand Lodge of Canada, as well as by the other Grand Lodges throughout the world. In the autumn of 1867 the lodges of the Provinces of New Brunswick formed themselves into a Grand Lodge, in and for the Province of New Brunswick, and that Grand Lodge is now acknowledged by the "Grand Lodge of Canada," as well as by the other Grand Lodges.—By these acts the project of a Dominion Grand Lodge received a final quietus and there remained no other alternatives than, 1st., to attempt to consolidate all the lodges in the two Provinces formed out of the old "Province of Canada," into one Grand Lodge, to be called the Grand Lodge of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec (and which is by the action we now report rendered impossible), or 2ndly, in accordance with constitutional usage, to form a Grand Lodge in and for the Province of Quebec, and what was still called the "Grand Lodge of Canada," to declare itself, to form and be the Grand Lodge in and for the Province of Ontario, which latter course was recommended by R.W. Bro. Dr. Mackay, of South Carolina, one of the ablest American writers on Masonic jurisprudence, whom Grand Master Wilson consulted in 1867, and whose letter was afterwards published for the information of the Craft.

5th. Among the many other important incidental reasons which induced the Freemasons in the Province of Quebec to follow the example of all other parts of the Masonic world, by the formation of a Grand Lodge in the said Province, there may be mentioned the vast length of territory included in the two Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, extending through some twelve degrees of longitude, from the State of Maine on the east, to the State of Michigan or Central Ohio on the west;—the meetings of Grand Lodge itinerating over such vast distances, and causing an enormous and impoverishing expense to many of the lodges, especially those less wealthy in the country parts, in sending delegates thereto;—the impracticability very often, of carrying up appeals and the like before Grand Lodge except at a ruinous expenditure to many brethren of time and money, and hence cases oft postponed, or going by default;—the impracticability on account of the necessarily inherent dual conflicting Provincial interests and preferences, of securing permanently located offices for Grand Lodge and owned by it;—the utter impracticability of erecting any edifice for the use of G.L. in any locality which would be satisfactory to both Provinces;—the like impossibility of erecting a Masonic Asylum for which a large sum of money was raised and appropriated, and notwithstanding the "Asylum Trust," have annually for a long time, urged the importance of further action by G.L., have indicated localities, proposed plans, suggested "ways and means," yet for the above-mentioned and other obvious reasons it has hitherto been found impossible to take action thereon; and the same has been true and under the double-majority regime, would continue to be true, in regard to a proposed Masonic Orphan School, Masonic Farm, and all other such like schemes of practical Masonic benevolence; any one of which seeming expedient and desirable, can, without doubt, be successfully carried out in each Province by their respective Grand Lodges.

6th. And had the brethren of the Province of Quebec been willing for any longer period, to continue in the same unsatisfactory position as for the past two years especially, there would always have existed the painful suspense arising from the ever-impending and ever-threatening probability that whenever they should see fit, a constitutional and customary number of lodges would assemble and assert their inherent and traditional rights by constituting themselves into a Supreme Grand Lodge for the said Province of Quebec.

7th. After the entire failure of the utopian Dominion scheme, and the consolidation and amalgamation scheme, the majority of the brethren and lodges in the Province of Quebec, having the highest good of the Craft at heart, and believing that a sufficient length of time had been given to the consideration of the subject, after the most anxious and careful deliberation, decided that they were fully justified in acting upon the only simple and constitutional solution of our long-standing and complicated difficulties by the formation of one independent and Supreme Grand Lodge in and for the Province of Quebec; and therefore, with a unanimity seldom paralleled in the formation of Grand Lodges, the Grand Lodge of Quebec has been formed in order that the Craft in the Province of Quebec in common with their brethren elsewhere throughout the Masonic world may secure and enjoy all those inestimable blessings and privileges which necessarily flow from that unity in Grand Lodge allegiance and jurisdiction which ought always to exist within the same territorial and political boundaries.

Wherefore, a constitutional and customary number of lodges in the Province of Quebec, regularly assembled and duly constituted in convention, deemed and held that they had an undoubted legal and constitutional right to form a Supreme Grand Lodge in and for the Province of Quebec, not only in conformity to the afore-mentioned usage and established custom, but also in accordance with the well-recognized principle of Masonic jurisprudence, that more than one Grand Lodge cannot exist in perpetuum either by themselves or by representative organizations, or otherwise exercise authority and jurisdiction, suo jure, within the same geographical and political boundaries, whether kingdom, state, or other legislatively distinct territory or province.

For the reasons already stated, and for many other locally important reasons, twenty-one of the thirty-seven lodges, of all jurisdictions, now working in this Province, as set forth in the accompanying printed proceedings, in peace, love, and harmony, and in accordance with the example of the formation of the Grand Lodge of England and other Grand Lodges throughout the world, and following the example of the lodges in their sister Provinces

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, whose Grand Lodges are now acknowledged throughout the world, and also in conformity to the well-established customs and general usages of our Fraternity, proceeded to form and did form on the 20th day of October, 1869, the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of the Province of Quebec; and we beg respectfully to repeat our petition that you, as a Grand Lodge, will extend to the same, fraternal recognition, and establish therewith fraternal correspondence and communication.

(Signed.)

BEST MATERIALS AND WORKMANSHIP.

CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

OPiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE
THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH
2 LOWER SEYMOUR ST. W.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists.

Prepared and Guaranteed by

Mr. PRICE, Analytical Chemist,

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the

SAVE YOUR GAS.

*Important to Proprietors of Hotels, Music Halls,
Public Buildings, &c., &c.*

The Hydro-Carbon Light, (KIDD'S PATENT.)

THE NEW PATENT LIGHT, combining GAS and OIL, gives one of the most brilliant lights ever introduced to the public, and effects a saving of 60 per cent. in the ordinary consumption of Gas. The apparatus for this light has been so perfected that it can be readily attached to the Gas Fittings already in use, without extra expense.

The New St. Pancras Station of the Midland Railway is lighted entirely by this process, and the opinions of the press are loud in its favor for brilliancy and cheapness.

The light can be seen, and all further information obtained at the

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages
of entirely original matter, and translations from the French, Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contra-distinction to the assumption of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees."
Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—
a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons,
need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREE-
MASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

Bro. GEORGE KENNING,

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and
end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge, but speaking the words of truth, manhood,
and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subserviency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

THE BRETT TESTIMONIAL DINNER.

Every one has heard of the maxim Palnam qui meruit ferat, and every Freemason will concur in the opinion that to few brethren will the saying more justly apply than to Bro. James Brett, in whose honour one hundred and thirty prominent members of the Craft, assembled together at the Cannon-street Hotel, on Monday last. Some months ago the Masonic friends of this estimable brother felt that the time had arrived to recognise the able services which he has rendered to his brother Masons, as a preceptor in the various ceremonies of the Order. A committee was therefore formed, of which Bro. W. R. Woodman, M.D., P.M. 66, and Z. 33, was Chairman; and Bro. H. G. Buss, P.M. 27, P.Z. 177, Treasurer; Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.M. and P.Z. 975, and R. Tanner, P.M., 177, being the Hon. Secretaries, and at a subsequent period, Bro. D. R. Still, J.D., 1293, was added to the secretarial staff.

The result of their exertions will be found recorded below, and it is therefore unnecessary to dwell upon it here, but a few remarks as to the singularly distinguished Masonic career of Bro. Brett, will doubtless be acceptable to our readers. Bro. James Brett, was initiated in the Domestic Lodge, No. 177, on the 11th September, 1854, and attained the position of W.M. in 1858. He was exalted in the Domestic Chapter on the 25th March in the latter year, and was installed as M.E.Z. in March, 1863. Since that period more especially he has been a star in the Order, we may instance his exertions as the founder and first Z. of the Rose of Denmark Chapter, No. 975, as a founder of the Victoria Chapter, No. 1056, and, more recently, the Prudent Brethren Chapter, No. 145. But it is his peculiar position as a teacher and exemplar of Freemasonry that Bro. Brett's services have been most valuable and important. We may almost say—and few have had better opportunities of judging—that he has inaugurated a new era in Royal Arch Masonry, as its ritual and principles are now well understood and acknowledged mainly through Comp. Brett's untiring exertions. By establishing the Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction for the Craft degrees—a seminary which enjoys a reputation second only to that of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement. Bro. Brett has shown his zeal for the Order in general, but in the formation and successful development of the Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction he has evinced more than zeal; he has brought rare ability and wondrous aptitude to the task of really making Royal Arch Masons, who were hitherto only nominal members of the Order of the H.R.A. Last year a just tribute of respect was paid to his merits when the Grand Master appointed Bro. Brett an Officer of Grand Lodge, and doubtless this year he will be promoted to the position of Grand Pursuivant. It was in honour of this kind and good Mason that the brethren met together on Monday, and a more felicitous gathering it was never our good fortune to attend. The chair was occupied by Bro. W. Carpenter, P.M. and P.Z. 177, who was supported on his right by the guest of the evening, Bro. Brett, and on his left by Bro. R. Wentworth Little, Prov. G. Sec., Middlesex; R. Tanner, P.M. 177; G. Kenning, S.W. 192 and 1293; D. R. Still, Hon. Sec.; A. A. Pendlebury, 1056; &c., &c.

After grace had been said, the chairman proposed, in succession, "The Queen and the Craft," "The Earl of Zetland, Most Worshipful Grand Master of Masons," "The Prince of Wales, Past Grand Master of Masons, and the rest of the Royal Family," and "The Earl de Grey and Ripon, Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers," all of which were most cordially responded to by the brethren.

The Honorary Secretary, Bro. ROBERT WENTWORTH LITTLE, then read several communications received from absent brethren, assigning the cause of their absence, and expressing their hearty approval of the object of the gathering.

The CHAIRMAN then again rose, and said: As ingenuousness is one of the Masonic virtues, I shall not conceal from you the fact, that although I feel what may, I hope, be deemed a pardonable degree of pride and gratification in having been named to preside on this occasion, I am not guilty of any affectation in saying that I would gladly have forgone this feeling to have escaped from a position which I feel myself totally unable to occupy as it should be occupied. (No, no). I am here, however, and leaving those who have placed me here to bear the responsibility of so doing, I must do the best I can, trusting to your forbearance and indulgence, and your acceptance of the will for the deed. (Hear, hear). It has been said by our great poet, that some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them. I know in which of these three categories I would choose to be found, supposing that I could get a place in either. But if it is not permitted to one to achieve greatness, the gratification next to that which must result from such an achievement, is the gratification of being permitted to take part in doing honour to one who has. (Hear, hear). It is this secondary gratification that is mine this evening. We have met together to do honour to one who has achieved greatness, not in the field, not in the senate, not in the regions of abstract, mental, or physical science; but in his achievements have been unattended by the dangers of the field, unaccompanied by the applause of the senate, and unconnected with the profound investigations and experiments of the philosopher—if they will not ensure a place for his name on that scroll of fame which is exhibited in the face of all men, and in all times—they have been effected in a circle so wide that its members are spread over the four quarters of the globe, and which has its records and journals so widely circulated and read, that one need not hesitate to say, there is hardly a spot in the civilised world where the name of James Brett is not known, respected, and admired. (Applause). I have placed our Bro. Brett amongst men who have achieved greatness, and I am sure that none here will object to that, whatever the outside world, which knows not Masonry, might do. (Hear, hear). What is greatness? Is it confined to the exclusive circles of arms, of statecraft, of the fine arts, or of science, or of literature? No. Are none great but those who walk in the sunshine of royal or of popular favour, or whose names are written, or are to be written on the page of history? Oh, yes, greatness is pre-eminence in anything (Hear, hear). There are great rogues—(laughter)—and great fools, and great bores—I hope I may not be found one to-night—(Laughter, and "No, no," as there is great honesty, great wisdom, and great intelligence, I place our Bro. Brett amongst the great men who are also the good and the useful; amongst those who have achieved an estimable greatness; and you will not object to that—(cheers) for on what account is it that we honour him? Not for his genial temper, his social amiability, nor his good looks—(laughter)—although these are all good qualities, and are duly appreciated by us. Nor do we honour him for his acquirements in Masonry, great as they are. We know that a man may have all knowledge, but that without charity he is nothing. By charity, I do not mean almsgiving, though that may be included. I mean that quality which is kind, gentle, easy to be entreated; not puffed up or rendered arrogant by the possession of knowledge, but while assiduous in acquiring it, equally assiduous in imparting it to others—(cheers)—that is true charity. The man who acquires anything, however largely, and keeps it himself, is not a great man, but a selfish and so far a contemptible one. We do not admire and honour the miser brooding over his gold. (Cheers.) Well, then, I say it is not for his acquirements, his large knowledge of Masonry, that

I call him great; but for his readiness to communicate all he has acquired to others. It is as one who has acquired knowledge largely, and who freely communicates it to others, striving to make them as learned as himself, that we honour him as one who has achieved greatness. (Cheers.) Does not a man's labour in this field of usefulness entitle him to be esteemed great? What is Freemasonry? A system of morality. What are its distinguishing characteristics? "Brotherly love, relief, and truth." And is not the teacher and promulgator of such principles and practices, teaching and inculcating them indefatigably and without fee or reward, to be honoured as a great man? And such a man is Bro. Brett. (Cheers.) Most of you—probably all of you—know him, and you can, many of you, better estimate the extent and value of his labours than I can. For my own part, I look upon what I may call the high vocation of Bro. Brett—that is, of an unfeared preceptor in Masonry—as one of the most honourable vocations to which a man can devote the time he may find after discharging his ordinary duties; duties which he owes to himself, to his family, and to society at large. (Cheers.) To be of any utility, Masonry must be studied, and its principles be understood and cherished, and acted upon. (Hear, hear). The Mason who is satisfied with passing through the several degrees, which he may do without any mental labour, or is satisfied with acquiring as much knowledge as will carry him through the respective offices of his lodge, doing nothing for others but in a course of routine, is no Mason, in the proper sense of the word. (Hear, hear). He is a mere lumberer of the ground. He fails to fulfil the requirements of his obligations, unless, indeed, he has good cause to show for his abstinence. He must do good and communicate—he must achieve something for others as well as for himself, or he is no true Mason. In the school of Pythagoras, it was a point of discipline, that if, among the akoustikoi, or practitioners, there were any who grew weary of studying to be useful, and returned to an idle life, they were to regard them as dead, and upon their departing they were to perform their obsequies, and raise them tombs, with inscriptions to warn others of the like mortality, and quicken them to lift their souls above that wretched state. I fear we should have many such monuments in Masonry if each of us had what we really merit. (Hear). But it is not for me to deliver a homily on the duties and obligations of Masonry, though I may be permitted to suggest to my younger brethren, that Masonry opens to them a career of usefulness—one in which, if they make a good start and persevere to the end, they may not only do great good to others, but reap similar honours to those we have this evening met to confer, if they do not always take the same form. (Cheers.) Brethren, if we look abroad into the world, especially into some parts of the world—and not far from our own homes—there are moments in which we feel wearied similarly to the amiable Cowper, when he wrote that touching passage—

Oh for a lodge in some vast wilderness,
Some boundless contiguity of shade,
Where rumour of oppression and deceit
Might never reach me more!

Nevertheless, that is not the part of a wise man, whose feelings are held under the control of his judgment. A life of seclusion and inaction is not for us. We are sent into this world to work—if not to earn our bread by the sweat of our brow, at least to eat our bread in the sweat of our brow. Our destiny is to work, not for ourselves only, but for others. And what a world would this become if we helped and served each other as we should do; if "brotherly love, relief and truth," universally prevailed! The desert and the waste would be glad, and the wilderness rejoice and flourish, like the rose it would bloom abundantly; and exult with joy and rejoicing. (Hear, hear). Let us do each his part towards effecting so glorious a transformation, by following those who, like our Brother Brett, not only exemplify in their conduct the true principles of Masonry, but labour heartily and effectively to impress this duty on the minds of others, by leading them into the arcana of the Craft, and developing and instructing their symbolic significance. (Cheers.)

"Lives of great men all remind us
We may make our lives sublime,
And departing, leave behind us,
Footprints in the sands of time.

"Footprints which perhaps another,
Sailing o'er life's troubled main,
Some far off and shipwrecked brother,
Seeing, shall take heart again.

"Art is long, and time is fleeting,
And our hearts though strong and brave,
Still, like muffled drums, are beating
Funeral marches to the grave.

"Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labour, and to wait."

Brethren, I now finish talking, and it is quite time I should do so. When I commenced, I suggested that I might be found a great bore, and then, with a sort of perverse ingenuity I set myself to work to prove myself one. (Laughter, and cries of "No, no.") Well, I have done, I now proceed to what is really the business of the evening. I hold in my hand, a very elegant gold purse, which, as you have heard, has been graciously and kindly contributed by Bro. Kenning, in addition to his subscription. (Cheers.) In it is the sum of one hundred guineas, contributed by a number of our brethren, to be presented to Bro. Brett, as a tangible expression of the admiration and esteem in which he is held by them. (Then, turning to Bro. Brett, he said,) Bro. Brett, I have indescribable pleasure in handing to you this expression of the esteem and honour in which you are held by your Masonic brethren, and although it takes the somewhat vulgar form of money, I cannot but think that the committee has exercised a wise discretion in preferring that to any articles which would, perhaps, have been of no real utility, and only have served, by being occasionally looked at, to recall the pleasurable emotions of which I doubt not you are now the subject. (Cheers.) It may be, and I am glad to be able to think that it is of no great value to you for the purpose of immediate expenditure, but it will serve to add to what I have no doubt you, as a prudent man, a good husband, and a kind father, are endeavouring to accumulate, so that when the Great Architect of the Universe shall mercifully make known to you the solemn fact of the termination of your earthly career, you may have the gratification of knowing that those loved ones you leave behind you will be ensured against all want and anxiety. (Great cheering.) Bro. Little will now present our brother with the very handsomely written and emblazoned testimonial, which is to be added to the purse I have presented to him. (Renewed cheers.)

Bro. LITTLE: Brethren, after the very eloquent speech you have heard from our Chairman, I am sure that no poor words of mine are needed to express the esteem, the respect, and the affection which I personally entertain for our Bro. Brett, and which I am sure are equally entertained for him by every brother around this board. I shall not, therefore, brethren, detain you for any length of time by endeavouring to enlist your sympathies on his behalf, because I know that in the breast of each of us this feeling already exists; and I shall consequently merely call your attention to this testimonial, which is presented with our unanimous approval:—

"This Testimonial, together with a purse of 100 guineas, was presented to the Worshipful Brother James Brett, Assistant Grand Pursuivant, and Past Master 177, Past 2, 177 and 975, by his Masonic friends, as a slight recognition of the eminent services he has rendered to Freemasonry as a Preceptor in the Craft and Royal Arch Degrees, and likewise as a token of regard for those personal qualities which will ever endear his name to the hearts of his brother Masons.

Signed on behalf of the committee and the subscribers, the 7th day of February, 1870,

W. R. WOODMAN,

H. G. BUSS, P.M. 27, P.G. Treas., Middlesex.

R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, P.M. 975, P.G. Sec., Middlesex.

R. TANNER, P.M. 177.

D. R. STILL, J.D. 1293."

This is the testimonial, brethren, which in your name and on behalf of this meeting I present to our Bro. Brett, wishing him the enjoyment of long life and health that he may pursue the honourable course in which he has so much distinguished himself, particularly among his brethren in Masonry. (Great applause.)

Bro. JAMES BRETT: Bro. Carpenter and brethren, in rising to return you my most sincere and heartfelt thanks for the very splendid and substantial testimonial that you have presented to me, for the gratifying fact of standing here and seeing myself as I do, surrounded by such a large number of my sincerest friends, many of whom have come many miles to-night to honor me, for the very pleasing and kind manner in which our Bro. Carpenter has spoken of me, and for the soul-stirring and hearty way you have been pleased to respond, accept my warmest thanks. Although it places me in a position which is a mixture of embarrassment and pleasure, I feel, brethren, that if ever there was a time that I was called upon—I will not say to make a speech—but to find language to express my thoughts and my feelings, that time is now. I also feel, brethren, and I regret to say it, that if ever there was a time that I felt myself more wandering in thought—after all that I have heard from our Bro. Carpenter, and the kind reception I have had from you this is the time. I feel that under the most favourable circumstances, I am not the man to express my thoughts as I would wish; and then, again, I feel that not anything I have done is deserving at your hands so much consideration. ("Yes.") Therefore, any remarks, any observations of mine can convey to you only a slight idea of what my feelings are on this occasion. But, brethren, as I also feel that your presence to-night at this table, and this splendid testimonial, are the spontaneous desire you have to honour one whom you have long known, and, I am vain enough to hope, respected—(hear)—removes much of that embarrassment, and substitutes for it pleasure and gratification. (Hear, hear.) Brethren, I can never forget the night I was initiated into Freemasonry; and if there is no other reason for me to be joyful over that occasion, the one I now mention to you—that on that evening I had the honour of making the acquaintance and the friendship of my Bro. Carpenter—that in itself is to me sufficient. I can never forget the emotions he raised in my breast, when I sat and listened to him in his position as Past Master, returning thanks. I felt that none but the good, the just, and the honourable could express such sentiments, and speak as he spoke. I need hardly tell you, after the many years I have had the honour of his acquaintance, after the many opportunities I have had of proving it to myself, that the opinion I then formed was the correct one. Brethren, I would like to say much with respect to those brethren who have worked so earnestly and so zealously on this testimonial committee on my behalf, but, I fear that where there are so many who have done so much, I should tread on such tender ground, that in fact I approach with trembling. But, if I may not speak of them, I can never forget the very deep debt of gratitude I owe; and however much I desire to discharge that debt, I can never think of it but with pleasure and satisfaction. You will pardon me, therefore, for taking the liberty of making a few observations with respect to the form in which you have been pleased to present this testimonial. No doubt there are many, and especially the ladies, who would think that the presentation of plate would be a very handsome testimonial. I think, and I feel certain that Mrs. Brett will think with me, that to expend such a sum on such a purpose for one in my position, would be not the most proper expenditure of the sum subscribed. And, brethren, I may here inform you that my wife, who is already a shareholder in a building society, is desirous of purchasing a house as a residence, and probably it will be no secret to many of you when I say that of many hours and many evenings of my life she has been deprived, and that too when I have been enjoying your society. Therefore, brethren, with your permission, it will be my greatest pleasure to present to her this splendid purse, that she may place the amount to her building fund, so that when I am gone she will have something to call her own. (Applause.) Brethren, when I look upon that splendid vellum, I need hardly tell you, that it will presently occupy the most prominent position in the best room of my house; but my earnest hope is, that my eldest boy when I am gone will value it, and prize it, as I do—(hear, hear.)—as he ought; and if he does, his feelings must be the feelings only of pleasure; and his thoughts must be that his father was respected by his brethren in Masonry. (Cheers.) Brethren, there is only one alloy to my pleasure, and that is, I do not feel that I have the ability to thank you in the manner I would wish. Had I for one half hour the abilities of my Bro. Carpenter that I might so express myself, I assure you, that half hour would be the happiest of my life. But, brethren, as that is not to be, I may be pardoned for reminding you, that some of my happiest hours have been spent in your society. It is my sincere wish, and it shall be my most earnest endeavour, to continue to enjoy your good opinion and your friendship. Brethren, believe me, that the ample reward for anything that I have done is to receive from you, as I have to-night, such a substantial proof of your appreciation of my efforts; and in again thanking you, I beg to assure you that my past endeavours shall be but an earnest of the future. (Cheers.)

[The remainder of the speeches, and the list of brethren present will be given in our next.]

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—A grateful father is desirous of sending by mail, free of charge to all who wish it, a copy of the prescription by which his daughter was restored to perfect health from confirmed Consumption, after having been given up by her physicians and despaired of by her father, a well-known physician, who has now discontinued practice. Sent to any person free.—Address O. P. Brown, Secretary, 2, King-street, Covent-garden, London.—[Adv't.]

EPILEPSY OR FITS.—A sure cure for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on Foreign and native Herbal Preparations, published by Prof. O. PHELPS BROWN. The prescription was discovered by him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known, as it has cured everybody who has used it for Fits, never having failed in a single case. The ingredients may be obtained from any chemist.—Persons desiring a copy may address Prof. O. PHELPS BROWN, No. 2, King-street, Covent Garden, London, enclosing stamp; six copies, three stamps.—[Adv't.]

ANCIENT AND MODERN MYSTERIES.

BY BRO. ROBERT WENTWORTH LITTLE,
Provincial Grand Secretary, Middlesex; President of the London Literary Union; Editor of "The Rosicrucian," &c.

I cannot resist the temptation of concluding what may be termed the Masonic portion of my subject, with the No. 2 of Dr. Mackey's remarks in the Philadelphia Keystone, upon "The Roman Colleges of Architects and the Freemasons." I do so with less hesitation, because in the first place it is probable that few of your readers would otherwise have the opportunity of perusing them, and secondly and chiefly because they express clearly and distinctly certain ideas respecting the origin of the Masonic Institution which are still shared by many brethren. After this extract, I shall avail myself of the labours of Charles Knight, who in his "Secret Societies of the Middle Ages," has exhausted the histories of three noted associations, namely "The Assassins, the Templars, and the Fetim Gerichte, or Secret Tribunals of Westphalia."

I have also materials at hand for a succinct account of the Rosicrucians and Carbonari, which may prove interesting, especially as both are alleged by the enemies of Freemasonry, to be offshoots from the Masonic stem. Of this your readers can judge by the proofs submitted.

"In accordance with the plan indicated in the previous number of this sketch, I now proceed to inquire into the progress of the Roman Colleges of Artificers, in the latter days of the Empire, and to trace them as they were merged into other Associations, out of which was, in all probability, derived the form, if not the substance of the present Masonic Lodges. We shall then be prepared to investigate with understanding the theory of Krause, and to determine whether the lodges are indebted to the Colleges for their form alone, or for both form and substance.

"We have already seen that in the time of Numa, the Roman Colleges amounted to only nine. In the subsequent years of the Republic the number was gradually augmented, so that almost every trade or profession had its peculiar College. With the advance of the Empire, their numbers were still further increased and their privileges greatly extended, so that they became an important element in the body politic. Leaving untouched the other Colleges, I shall confine myself to the Collegia Artificum, "the Colleges of Architects," as the only one whose condition and history are relevant to the subject under consideration.

"The Romans were early distinguished for a spirit of colonization. Their victorious arms had scarcely subdued a people, before a portion of the army was deputed to form a colony. Here the barbarism and ignorance of the native population was replaced by the civilization and the refinement of their Roman conquerors.

"The Colleges of Architects occupied in the construction of secular and religious edifices, spread from the great city to municipalities and the provinces. Whenever a new city, a temple or a palace was to be built, the members of these corporations were convoked by the Emperor from the most distant points, that with a community of labour they might engage in the construction. Labourers might be employed, like the "bearer of burdens" of the Jewish Temple, in the humbler and coarser tasks, but the conduct and the direction of the works was entrusted only to the "accepted members"—the cooptati—of the Colleges.

"The colonizations of the Roman Empire, were conducted through the legionary soldiers of the army. Now to each legion, there was attached a college or corporation of artificers which were organized with the legion at Rome, and passed with it through all its campaigns, encamped with it where it encamped, marched with it where it marched, and when it colonized remained in the colony to plant the seeds of Roman civilization, and to teach the principles of Roman art. The members of the College erected fortifications for the legion in times of war, and in times of peace or when the legion became stationary, constructed temples and dwelling houses.

"When England was subdued by the Roman arms, the legions which went there to secure and to extend the conquest, carried with them, of course, their Colleges of Architects. One of these legions, for instance, under Julius Cæsar, advancing into the northern limits of the country, established a colony, which under the name of Eboracum, gave birth to the city of York, afterwards so celebrated in the history of Masonry. Existing inscriptions and architectural remains attest how much was done in the island of Britain by these associations of builders.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Old Dundee Lodge, No. 18.—The installation meeting of this old lodge (which was founded in 1722), was held at the London Tavern, Bishopgate-street, on Tuesday, the 1st inst., when after raising Bro. R. S. Barker, the Installing Master, Bro. H. Browne, P.G.D., in a capital style installed the new Master into the chair of K.S. After the labours of the lodge-room, the brethren sat down to a well-served banquet, which was graced with the presence of several visitors, including Bros. J. L. Evans, President of the Board of General Purposes; G. R. Crickmay, P. Prov. G.W. Dorset; A. Holman, P.G. Steward; W. Smith, P. Prov. G.D. Dorset; R. Wentworth Little, Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex; and among other brethren present were, Bros. G. Cox, P.M., P.G.D.; Dr. Marks, P.M.; G. Burt, P.M., P. Prov. G.W. Dorset; Joseph Taylor, P.M., Prov. G. Steward Middlesex; J. Freeman, P.M.; H. Ward, P.M.; W. Nye, P.M., and Sec.; J. Pike, P.M., &c.; F. A. Philbrick, Q.C., J.W., &c. An extremely pleasant evening was spent, enlivened by some exquisite singing by Bro. J. Taylor (Martial's epigram, "Come, Chloe," to wit), and other brethren present. Bro. Evans responded for the Grand Officers, and Bro. Browne, P.G.D., for the Past Masters, and at ten o'clock, coffee being ordered, the brethren separated well satisfied with the installation meeting of the Old Dundee.

Temple Lodge, No. 101.—This numerous and influential lodge met on Tuesday, last week at the Ship and Turtle Tav., when the esteemed and respected Master, the W. Bro. Joseph Tanner, in his usual effective manner, conferred the honour of M.M. on Bros. Levett and Thomas, after which the lodge was resumed in the second degree, and leaving the chair he presented Bro. F. J. Cox to the W. Bro. James Bond, P.M., and Treasurer, to receive at his hands the benefit of installation. A board of sixteen installed Masters was then formed, and Bro. Cox was in the most masterly style, inducted into the chair of K.S., by the Installing Master; the board having adjourned, the W.M. appointed and invested his officers, viz.: Bros. Grimsby, S.W.; Youll, J.W.; Bond, P.M., Treasurer; Tanner, P.M., Secretary; Reynolds, S.D.; Prince, J.D.; Farthing, jun., I.G. The lodge was then closed and the brethren adjourned to the banquet room, where they partook of one of Bro. George Painter's superb banquets, admirably served by Bro. Charles Painter, his brother, and assistants, the wines at this noted establishment of course need no encomium; everything went as "merry as a marriage bell," with the exception of the room being rather crowded, in consequence of sixty-eight Masons, good and true, being present, including eighteen visitors, amongst whom we particularly noticed, Bros. Joseph Smith, P.G. Purs.; Wescombe, P.M. (905); Playford, P.M. (30); several Provincial Grand Officers, and many others too numerous for our limited space. After the banquet a very elegant P.M.'s jewel of solid gold, with a suitable inscription, was presented in a very neat and appropriate speech, by the W.M. on behalf of the lodge, to the W. Bro. Joseph Tanner, P.M., in token of the unanimous approbation of the brethren for the great efficiency and liberality displayed by him during his year of office.

Lion and Lamb Lodge, No. 192.—This lodge met at the Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Thursday, the 3rd inst., Bro. E. Roberts, W.M., in the chair, supported by his officers, as follows, Bros. G. Kenning, S.W.; J. G. Marsh, P.M. and Sec., as J.W.; W. Goodyer, P.M., Treas.; F. Trott, S.D.; George Abbott, J.D.; A. J. Dickenson, I.G.; Geo. Newman, Steward. The lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed, the lodge was then opened in the second and third degrees, and Bros. H. Griffin and T. Fisher, being present, were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The lodge having been resumed in the second degree, Bros. S. Lucas and A. F. Isleton, were passed to the degree of F.C.; the lodge was then resumed in the first degree, and Mr. Hopkins being present, (after having been approved by ballot,) was regularly initiated into Ancient Freemasonry, the ceremonies being worked by the W.M., in a very efficient manner. Other business of the lodge having been disposed of, the lodge was closed in due form and adjourned. Amongst the members present were Bros. Chas. Hosgood, P.M.; C. Arkell, E. Taylor, R. E. Bright, T. Cobu, R. G. Dixon, Geo. Parker, J. Hyde, S. Haynes, S. Fitzjohn, W. Younger, J. McKiernan, R. J. Siau, J. Glinnan, J. R. France, J. Elliott, J. Kent, C. D. Page, E. Raffie, C. Cann, B. Massland, W. R. Baker, H. Davis, and J. Harvey. The brethren retired to an excellent banquet, served in the Pillar-room, which was presided over by Bro. E. Roberts, the respected W.M., in an able manner. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to with much effect, Bro. W. Jaques, P.G. Steward, returning thanks for the D.G. Master and the Grand Officers. The evening was as usual happily spent, and much enlivened by some excellent songs from Bros. Hervey P.M., Skinner, and other brethren. The Tyler's toast brought the evening to a close at an early hour. The visitors who honoured the lodge with their company on this occasion, were Bros. Jaques, P.M., 28, P.G.S.; Chas. Grillon, 26; John Skinner, 40; T. W. Turner, 205; R. H. Whiteman, P.M., 256; H. J. Ingram, 860, and D. R. Still, 1293.

Lodge of Stability, No. 217.—This lodge met at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Tuesday, 1st inst., at 4 p.m., Bro. E. Hughes, W.M., in the chair. After confirmation of minutes of regular lodge and emergency, Messrs. Chippingdale and Hall were duly initiated into the Ancient Mysteries, and Bro. James S.W., was installed in the chair as W.M., by his predecessor, Bros. Samuels, G.S.L., and Wright, P.G.D., Herts, complimented the Installing Master on the manner in which the ceremonies had been performed. Bro. Muggeridge, P.G.S.B., Preceptor of Stability Lodge of Instruction, announced to the brethren that the anniversary festival of the lodge of instruction will be held at Radley's Hotel, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars, on Friday, 29th April, at 5.30 p.m., when the lecture of the first degree will be worked in sections. Bro. Taylor, P.M. and H.S., informed the brethren that his list at the recent festival had been successful beyond his first anticipations, the lodge and its members having supported him to the extent of £44 odd. Bro. Sillifant stated that he had sent in his name to act as Steward to represent the Girls' School, and he trusted the brethren of the lodge would support him by contributing to his list in the same liberal manner as they had to that of Bro. P.M. Taylor. The officers appointed and invested were Bros. Truscott, S.W.; Hart, J.W.; Brodey, P.M., Treas.; G. A. Taylor, P.M., Hon. Sec.; Bland, (pro tem. for Drummond, absent), S.D.; Belcher, J.D.; and Warsap, I.G. The visitors were Bros. Wright, P.G.D., Herts; Ashwell, P.M., Neptune, 22; Cunningham, 22; Hart, Mount Moriah, 34; West, Nelson, 700; Hawker, P.M., Royal Oak, 871; Walters, W.M., 871; Cannon, W.M., Temperance in the East, 898.

Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780.—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held on Friday, the 21st ult., at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew. The lodge was opened in due form, the W.M., Bro. Littlewood, having taken the chair, a ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. William Henry Pennington, and it being unanimously in his favour he was duly initiated into the Order. Two brethren were raised to the third degree, and one brother was passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. This being the first time the W.M. had occupied the chair since installation, every ceremony was admirably and impressively worked. The brethren then sat down to a very excellent banquet, provided in Bro. Banks' well-known style. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, also that of the visitors, who were Bros. Whiting and Edmunds, of Vitruvian, No. 87. The brethren then separated, a very agreeable afternoon was passed; the brethren returned to town early, as many members of this lodge are of the musical and theatrical profession.

British Oak Lodge, No. 831.—This lodge met on Monday, 30th ult., at their usual place of meeting Mile-end. Present: Bros. W. Kelly, W.M.; C. W. Ovitts, S.W., W.M.-elect; Barnett, J.W.; Spoerer, S.D.; Williams, J.D.; Hackwell, I.G.; Hekell, Sec.; Suffield, Treas., and many other brethren. The minutes being read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Messrs. Theophilus Hallett, Thomas Rose, and Richardson, which proved in their favour, and they were duly initiated. The lodge was opened in the second degree, the ceremony of installation was proceeded with, and Bro. C. W. Ovitts, S.W., and W.M.-elect, was duly installed. Bro. Hamilton, P.M., was the Installing Master, and the ceremony was performed in a most excellent manner. The W.M. then appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. James Barnett, S.W.; H. Spoerer, J.W.; Tho. Suffield, P.M., Treas.; C. Hekell, P.M., Sec.; C. Williams, S.D.; Hackwell, J.D.; Hemming, I.G., Hoare, Tyler. Several gentlemen were proposed for initiation. The brethren to the number of nearly 50 then retired to a banquet, which gave the hostess, Mrs. Hemmingway, great credit.

Royal Oak Lodge, No. 871.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on the 26th ult., at the Royal Oak Tavern, High-street, Deptford, Bro. F. Walters, W.M., in the chair. The lodge being opened and the minutes confirmed, a ballot was taken for the admission of Messrs. G. Harvey and R. Harris, into the Order, Bros. Simmons, Rattle, Dawe, and Parkes, were passed, to the third degree, Bro. Letton, to the degree of a Fellow Craft, all the ceremonies being perfectly rendered. This being the night for the election of W.M., Bro. J. Truelove, P.J.W., was elected; H. A. Collington, P.M., re-elected Treasurer; J. L. Winn, P.M., Tyler, (he was not present from ill health, and died on the 27th ulto. After many months intense suffering from consumption, and the lodge was then closed. The visitors were Bros. T. Arnold, P.M. (141); W. Roebuck, W.M. (463), P.G.B.; D. A. Davis, P.M. (781); N. C. Holm (781), J. Absell (813), and several others.

Upton Lodge, No. 1227.—An emergency meeting of this new but rapidly increasing lodge was held on Wednesday, the 19th ult., at the Spotted Dog, Upton, Essex, the W.M., Bro. Benj. Picking, in the chair. The lodge being opened, a ballot was taken for Bro. R. Carruthers, of the Lodge of Prosperity, No. 65, as a joining member, which was unanimously in his favour. Ballots were then and approved for Messrs. W. H. Allen, Alfred Holtham, and Joseph Robert Ross (wine merchant), who were duly initiated into the Order. Bros. Banes and Clarkson being candidates for the second degree, having answered the necessary questions retired, and on their re-admission were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Vause. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and complimentary toasts and speeches followed. The visitors were, Bros. Cook, 65, and Pott 65. After passing a very agreeable and harmonious evening the brethren returned to town early.

PROVINCIAL.

WARRINGTON.—Lodge of Lights, No. 148.—The regular monthly meeting of the above lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, on Monday evening last. The W.M. Bro. William Smith, was supported by Bros. B. P. Coxon, S.W.; Jas. Jackson, J.W.; John Bowes, P.M., &c.; H. B. White, P.M., &c.; Rev. J. N. Porter, S.D.; P. Pearse, J.D.; John Harding, I.G.; W. D. Finney, I.P.M.; Rev. H. P. Stedman, Dr. Pennington, Dr. Cooper, W. H. Robinson, T. M. Pattison, Org.;

R. Johnson, W. S. Hawkins, W. Richardson, John Wilson, C. Woods, W. Woods, T. Morris, W. H. Spring, Capt. Reynolds, John Pierpoint, Geo. Blackhurst, A. F. Huttman, Jas. Hannah, Jas. Johnson, Tyler. Visitors, Bros. H. Reid, 86; E. Roberts, P. J. Edleston, W. Crompton, A. Aukland, 1250. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. W. Haddock Robinson being a candidate for promotion, was examined and entrusted. The lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, Bro. Robinson readmitted and passed by Bro. John Bowes, P.M., &c. The lodge was closed in the 2nd degree, when the W.M. requested the Secretary to state the special business, which was to consider the desirability of upholding a Masonic Ball. After full discussion, it was unanimously resolved to hold a ball on Thursday, February 24th. Three gentlemen were proposed "as fit and proper persons," and two as joining members. There being no further business, the lodge was closed.

LEICESTER.—St John's Lodge, No. 279.—A regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 2nd inst. The first business was to confirm the minutes of the last regular meeting and of a lodge of emergency, including a vote of £10 towards the repairs and enlargement of the organ in the hall. The meeting was numerously attended, nearly fifty brethren being present, including the newly-appointed P.G.M., Bro. Kelly, and the W.M., Bro. Stanley. A dispensation was read for the initiation of seven candidates, after which a ballot was taken for Captain Philip Peter Perrin Goodchild, Mr. Robert Overton, jun., Julius St. Thomas Clarke, M.P., Mr. Richard Blankley, Mr. Geo. Santer, and Mr. Thomas Horton Kirby, all of whom were duly elected, and were severally initiated into our mysteries, together with Mr. Frank Billingsley Williams, elected at the last regular lodge. After the lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to refreshment. Among the brethren present as visitors was Bro. E. H. Mackney, of No. 89, who delighted the brethren by his brilliant performance on the violin. In responding to the toast of the newly-initiated candidates, Capt. Goodchild expressed how gratified and impressed he was with what he had witnessed of the beauties of the Order, and his determination to become a zealous Mason.

READING.—Lodge of Union, No. 414.—The annual installation of the W.M. of this lodge, took place on Tuesday last week, at the Lodge in the Grey Friars-road. The proceedings were of more than usual interest, and additional clat was given to the occasion by the presence of R.W.P.G.M., Bro. Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P. The Hon. Baronet has, as our readers are aware, only been recently appointed P.G.M. for Berks and Bucks, but he has shown so much zeal and energy in the discharge of his duties that the Province seems likely to become a much more important one, in a Masonic point of view, than it has been. In addition to the R.W.P.G.M., the following were amongst the brethren present:—The Rev. Sir J. W. Hayes, Bart., P.G.C. and D. Prov. G.M.; W. T. Mercer, P. Prov. G.M. for China; the Rev. Arthur Roberts, P.M., 414; Jason Saunders, W.M., "Alfred" 340; the Rev. A. P. Purey-Cust, P.M.; E. A. Bulley, P.M.; W. Biggs, P.M.; Sir John Conroy, Bart., 357; the Rev. R. J. Simpson, G.C.; W. W. Moxhay, P.M.; W. Weedon, P.M.; J. Old, P.M.; G. Botly, P.M.; C. Smith, P.M.; A. Sellar, P.M.; A. Beale, P.M.; R. C. Hurley, W.M.; J. Dew, P.M., 694. The number of Past Masters present was unusually large, there being about twenty in the lodge. Previous to the installation of the W.M., a Brother was raised. The ceremony was admirably performed by the W.M. of the Lodge of Union, Bro. J. T. Blowers, who has made a very efficient and popular W.M. during the past year. The installation of the W.M.-elect, Bro. J. W. Hounslow, was then gone through in very impressive style by Bro. Moxhay. The following officers were then invested with the customary insignia—Bro. R. Bradley, S.W.; Bro. J. A. Strachan, J.W.; Bro. the Rev. A. P. Purey-Cust, Chaplain; Bro. Botly, Treasurer; Bro. Leaver, Secretary; Bro. A. F. M. Druce, S.D.; Bro. Weightman, J.D.; Bro. Joseph Morris, D.C.; Bro. Strickland, Organist and Steward; Bro. Kinnerley, I.G.; and Bro. Hemmings, Tyler. The ceremonies in the lodge were rendered additionally pleasing and effective by some very excellent vocal and instrumental music, under the conductorship of Bro. Strickland. At the conclusion of the business in the lodge, the brethren adjourned to the George Hotel, where a banquet was well served by Bro. Pontin. The chair was taken by Bro. J. W. Hounslow, W.M. In the course of the evening several speeches were delivered, but they had, for the most part, reference to the Ritual of Masonry, and it would therefore be improper to give any report of them. It may, however, be said that the speakers paid high tribute to the manner in which the ceremonies had been performed by the Installing Master (Bro. Moxhay) and Bro. Blowers. Amongst those who spoke in the course of the evening, were the W.M., Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., the Rev. Sir John Hayes, the Rev. A. P. Purey-Cust, the Mayor of Reading (Bro. Spokes), the Rev. R. J. Simpson (Rector of St. Clement Dances), &c., &c. The banquet was one of the most successful ever given in Reading, and the proceedings throughout the day were of a most agreeable character.

LEICESTER.—John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523.—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Friday evening, the 4th inst., under the presidency of Bro. Toller, W.M., about forty brethren being present, including Bros. Kelly, P.G.M.; Rev. J. Spittal, Duff, and Goodyer, P.M.'s; Rev. Dr. Haycroft, Rev. John Halford, and others. A ballot was taken for Sir Henry St. John Halford, Bart., of Wistow, and Albert Pell, Esq., M.P. for the Southern Division of the County, who were severally initiated by the W.M. in a very efficient manner, after which he delivered the lecture on the tracing-board, and the charges. A candidate having been proposed, the lodge was closed, and the brethren separated.

NEWBURY.—Lodge of Hope, No. 574.—The first regular lodge after the installation of Bro. W. H. Cave, P.M., P.G.R., as W.M. for the year ensuing, was held on the evening of Friday, the 4th inst., in the Council Chamber, when there was a good attendance of officers and brethren. Bro. the Rev. H. Barton was raised to the sublime degree of a M.M. A vote of thanks was presented to the W.M., for having generously purchased a handsome carpet for use in the lodge. Bro. A. Burns was appointed Steward of the lodge, and Bro. J. Bance, J.D., consented to represent the lodge as Steward, at the Girls' School festival, in May next. The brethren resolved to purchase the lithographic views of the Boys' and Girls' Schools, published by Messrs. Lewis and Mason, Worship-street, in aid of the funds of those charities. It was also decided that THE FREEMASON newspaper should be taken regularly at the cost of the lodge. Four gentlemen of the neighbourhood were proposed as members, and one or two brethren were likewise proposed as joining members. The lodge was then closed in due form.

SEACOMBE, CHESHIRE.—Combermere Lodge, No. 609.—The annual meeting of this lodge took place at the Seacombe Hotel, on Thursday, January 13th, for the installation of Bro. Thos. R. Shaw, the W.M.-elect, and the appointment of officers for the ensuing year. The ceremony of installation was performed in a most efficient manner by Bro. W. Wade, P.M., P.P.C.P., Cheshire. The W.M. appointed his officers, as follows:—Bros. Joseph Tillitoe, P.G.S., S.W.; Walter Theobald, J.W. and Treasurer; J. Hadden, S.D.; W. Smith, J.D.; W. T. Barry, and J. Collom, Stewards; H. Fitherington, I.G.; J. W. Howell, Secretary and Organist; Roberts, Tyler. After which the brethren retired for refreshment, and most excellent provision had been made for them by the worthy host, Bro. Stokes. The usual formal toasts having been given, the health of the W.M. was proposed by I.P.M. Bro. H. Davis, in a neat and appropriate speech, which was ably responded to by the W.M., the evening was enlivened by some excellent songs by the musical brethren. The lodge-room was then closed in due form and harmony, and the brethren separated. Visiting brethren: Bros. H. Bulley, P.G.J.W., Cheshire; J. Platt, P.P.G.J.W., Cheshire; J. Lea, P.M., 605; &c., &c.

WESTMORLAND.—Underley Lodge, No. 1074.—The installation of the W.M. for the ensuing year, took place at Kirkby Lonsdale, on Friday the 28th ult. The election having fallen on Bro. Wm. Dodd, P.G.S., and S.W., he was duly presented by Bro. Busher, P.G.S.B., P.P.G.S.W., &c., &c., who prefaced the presentation with a few appropriate remarks on Bro. Dodd's Masonic career. Bro. Davis, W.M., gave up the chair to Bro. Capt. Mott, P.P.G.S.D., of W.L., who officiated as installing officer with his usual skill. Bro. Dodd invested his officers as follows, viz:—Bros. Davis, I.P.M.; Wm. James, S.W.; Rev. H. Hare, P.P.G.C., J.W.; R. Morphet, Sec.; Thos. Wearing, S.D.; Eastham, J.D.; J. Atkinson, I.G.; Thos. Anderson, Tyler. Bro. Wm. Smith, being a candidate for the second degree, the newly-installed W.M. very efficiently passed him thereto. The consideration of the reduction of the lodge fees and subscriptions in accordance with a notice to that effect on the circular, was then proceeded with, and on the motion of the W.M., supported by Bro. Busher, they were reduced accordingly to the sums previously agreed on. The proposal of a candidate concluded the business, and the lodge was closed with solemn prayer. The brethren afterwards assembled at the Royal Hotel at a banquet, to celebrate the festival of St. John, under the presidency of the W.M., when a thoroughly fraternal evening was spent.

DOVER.—Corinthian Lodge, No. 1208.—On Monday, January 17th, at the regular meeting of this lodge at the Royal Hotel, Dover (Bro. Adamson's,) Bro. George Neall was unanimously elected W.M., by a very large meeting of the brethren, after the business of the lodge was over, the brethren adjourned for refreshment, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and a very pleasant evening was spent. The installation is fixed for Monday, Feb. 28th, the business of the regular lodge night, Feb. 21st, being thought too much for one day.

DOUGLAS, ISLE OF MAN.—Tynwald Lodge, No. 1242.—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, St. James' Hall, on Wednesday evening last week, when there were present Bros. John Joshua Harwood, W.M.; Elwood Tibbitts, I.P.M.; James Adams, B.A., S.W.; George Robinson, J.W.; W. H. Farrar, Secretary; Rev. H. A. Burrows, Chaplain; R. Jackson, S.D.; T. Cowley, J.D.; R. Whiteside, I.G., &c., &c., and several visitors. The brethren having assembled and the lodge being opened in the first degree, the Secretary read the minutes of the last regular lodge and a lodge of emergency, both of which were unanimously confirmed. The W.M. then initiated two candidates, the ceremony being performed in a very impressive manner; the lecture on the tracing-board was given by the I.P.M., and the charge by the Chaplain. The W.M. then informed the brethren he had a very pleasing duty to perform, which was to present a handsome gold Past Master's Jewel to Bro. Elwood Tibbitts, as "a token of esteem and of Masonic proficiency;" he, the W.M., felt confident that the whole of the brethren united with him in wishing Bro. Tibbitts long life to wear it. Bro. Tibbitts having thanked the brethren for their very handsome present, the lodge was closed down in ancient form and adjourned.

SCOTLAND.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF GALLOWAY.

A meeting was held in the lodge-room, Kirkcudbright, on Wednesday, the 26th ult., for the purpose of installing Bro. G. R. Harriott, of Killimore Lodge, Wigtownshire, as Deputy Provincial Grand Master for Galloway. We may mention that this ceremony would have taken place at the meeting in February last, but in consequence of a family bereavement Captain Harriott was unable to attend. —Bro. Cranstoun, as S.W. of the P.G.L., occupied the chair, and opened it in the first degree. Bro. D. M'Lellan, Sec. P.G.L., read the minutes of last meeting, at which the other commissioned office-bearers were duly installed by Bro. Lauderdale Maitland, of Eccles. —Bro. Cranstoun read the authority from the Earl of Stair to appoint Capt. Harriott as Deputy Master, who was then introduced by the Deacons to the members of the lodges, and took the oath de fidele. —The D.P.G.M. having taken the chair, stated there were several propositions to lay before the brethren, which were all unanimously agreed to—2s. 6d. per annum to be paid by members of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and 5s. from each lodge in the province. The time for meeting quarterly was agreed to be two weeks before the meetings of the Grand Lodge, and the place of meeting to be in the lodge-room, Kirkcudbright. Minor questions were remitted to a committee, to be composed of the P.G.L. office-bearers and Masters and Wardens of sister lodges in the province. The seditum was then taken:—Pros. G. R. Harriott, D.P.G.M. for Wigtownshire and Stewartry of Kirkcudbright; J. Cranstoun, P.S.G.W.; James Slater, P.G.J.W.; D. M'Lellan, P.G.S.; J. Bruce, P.G. Treas.; A. M'Kinly Millman, P.G.S.D.; W. Bell, P.G.J.D.; James Clark, P.G.I.G.; J. Livingston, T.; Martin, Rae, Armstrong, Hannay, &c. Bro. Maxwell, Treas. St. John's Lodge, Castle Douglas, No. 189, was present. After the business was finished the party adjourned to dinner in the Royal Hotel. Captain Harriott occupied the chair, and Bro. Cranstoun, Rector of the Academy, officiated as Croupier. After a first-class dinner, the chairman gave "The Holy Lodge of St. John," followed by the health of "The Queen," "The Prince Steward of Scotland," "Masonry all over the World," "The Three Grand Lodges of Scotland, England, and Ireland, coupled with the health of the Earl of Dalhousie, a most enthusiastic Mason." The health of the "Earl of Stair" was next proposed, and drank with all honours. —Bro. Cranstoun next proposed the health of the "Chairman," and in doing so referred to the great interest he (the chairman) had always taken in Masonry in Galloway, where he had assisted in resuscitating a number of lodges. He wished him long life and prosperity. (The toast was drunk with Galloway honours.)—Captain Harriott returned thanks in suitable terms. The following toasts were then given, "Lieut.-Col. Laurie," "Success to St. Cuthbert's Lodge, No. 41, and St. John's, Castle Douglas, No. 189," "Bro. Blackley, Junior Warden of the P.G.L.," "Bro. D. M'Lellan, Sec. P.G.L.," "Bro. Bruce, Treas. P.G.L.," and "Bro. James Clark, as R.W.M. of St. Cuthbert's Lodge." Several songs were sang during the evening, which was spent very pleasantly.

GLASGOW.—St. Mungo Lodge, No. 27.—The 148th anniversary festival of the members of this lodge was lately held in the Tontine Hotel. The proceedings opened with an Assembly, dancing being commenced at seven o'clock, and continued with spirit for about three hours. Soon after ten o'clock supper was served in a small hall adjoining. Bro. John Scott, R.W.M. of the lodge, presided, supported by Bros. M'Taggart, Sinclair, Lochhead, Morrison, Cowan, &c. The duties of Croupier, were discharged by Bro. W. B. Paterson, who was supported by Bros. Sloan, Hamilton, Ewing, Litster, Ramsay, Dalrymple, &c. After supper, the toasts of "The Queen and the Craft," "Bro. the Prince of Wales, and other members of the Royal Family," "The three Grand Lodges," and "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow" were given by the chairman and duly honoured. —In acknowledging the last-named toast, Bro. M'Taggart remarked that the Provincial Grand Lodge of this important province, was at present able to vie in wealth, power, and willingness to do good with the Grand Lodge of Scotland itself. In token of the latter attribute, he mentioned the fact that it had last year given away in casual charity £120, a sum greater than that disbursed in the same way by the Grand Lodge of Scotland, which had a sunk fund of £6000. The speaker then referred to the proposal originating with the late Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Spiers, and now taken up by his successor, Bro. Montgomery Neilson, for erecting a Masonic Hall in Glasgow, worthy alike of the craft and of the city. What the Masons had to do, was, in his (the speaker's) opinion, to build a palace that would look well in this age, and be a credit to Glasgow in all time to come. The project was in right hands, and he believed that before two years had passed over their heads they would see such a hall. —"Past Office-bearers of the Lodge, St. Mungo," was then given in a humorous address by the Croupier, coupled with the name of Bro. M'Taggart, whom he characterised as a faithful and worthy member of the lodge, who had never left a duty undone during the three years of his office as Master.—Bro. M'Taggart briefly replied, acknowledging, in the course of his remarks, the value of the co-operation he had received during his term of office from such worthy and esteemed office-bearers as Bro. Sinclair, Treasurer, and Bro. Pringle, their late Secretary.—"The Visiting Brethren," given by Bro. Sinclair, and responded to by Bro. Dalrymple, and "The Ladies," proposed by Bro. Cowan, and replied to, on behalf of his fair clients, by the Croupier, exhausted a programme, which, under the circumstances, was commendably brief. The Chairman then pronounced "Happy to meet," &c., and after a vote of thanks for the efficient discharge of his duties on this occasion had been awarded, on the motion of the Croupier, declared the proceedings so far to be concluded. An adjournment was then made to the ball-room, where dancing was resumed, and kept up with spirit for about a couple of hours longer.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Garthland St. Winnoch, No. 205.

—The brethren of the Lodge Garthland St. Winnoch, No. 205, met on Friday evening last week, in the hall of the Eagle Inn, (Bro. Robertson's), Lochwinnoch, to celebrate their annual festival. The above lodge received its charter of erection from the Grand Lodge of Scotland upwards of seventy years ago (the date being 6th August, 1799), and is now in good health and working order, although previous to about four years ago no meetings for election of office-bearers or initiation of candidates had been held for a good many years. The lodge is now revived by the exertions of some of the old members, assisted by brethren of other lodges residing in the village; and their labours have been well rewarded by the admission of a good many entrants, who, we are sure, will be a credit and honour to the Craft. The following lodges were represented by deputations, along with the brethren accompanying them:—Bros. Wallace, R.W.M. St. Mirren's 129, Paisley; O. M'Gregor, R.W.M. 156, St. Barchan's, Kilbarchan; W. Craig, R.W.M. 157, St. John's, Beith; W. Guy, R.W.M. 242, Houston St. Johnston, Johnstone; John Orr, R.W.M. 399, Royal Blues, Kilbirnie; C. M'Donald, 175, St. John's, Greenock. In the absence of Bro. W. C. Patrick, R.W.M., of Woodside, whose health did not permit him to be present, the duties of the chair were ably discharged by Bro. R. Wylie, D.M., supported by Bro. Ledgerwood, S.M., on the right, and on the left by Bro. Gemmell, S.W. After the loyal and patriotic toasts were disposed of, the various lodges represented were given from the chair, according to seniority on Grand Lodge Roll, and replied to by their respective W. Masters. The Beith instrumental band, most of whom are brethren, was in attendance, and paraded the village during the evening, to the delight of the inhabitants. The following brethren contributed much during the evening to the harmony of the meeting by song and sentiment: Bros. Robertson, Guy, Henderson, Wallace, members of the band, and others. The lodge having been closed in due and ancient form, the brethren departed to their respective homes highly satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

FOREIGN.

FALMOUTH, JAMAICA.—Athole Union Lodge, No. 367.—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday, the 6th ult., when Bro. John Colston Lewis was installed as R.W.M.; Bros. Michael Angelo Nunes, D.M.; Robert S. McLachlan, S.M.; John Pasmore, S.W.; Daniel C. D'Souza, J.W.; Edmund N. Hart, Treasurer; John A. D'Souza, Secretary; Robert Delissa, S.D.; A. R. White, J.D.; A. T. Kidd, I.G.; W. Rochford, Tyler. The working of the lodge was admirably carried out, and elicited the high encomiums of several visiting brethren, some of whom travelled nearly 80 miles (including the return journey) to be present on this auspicious occasion. After the duties in lodge had been satisfactorily fulfilled the brethren, to the number of 53, sat down to a sumptuous banquet, and the utmost good feeling and conviviality prevailed throughout the evening. When the cloth had been cleared, the R.W.M. proposed Her Majesty's health coupled with success to the Royal Craft, a toast which was greeted with enthusiasm. A similar reception was accorded to the toast of our Masonic rulers, the three Grand Masters of Scotland, England, and Ireland, the Earls of Dalhousie and Zetland, and the Duke of Leinster. Various speeches of a pleasing and complimentary nature were made, and the brethren separated about low twelve, highly gratified with the entire proceedings of the day.

MADRAS.—Lodge of Faith, Hope, and Charity, No. 1285, Ootacamund, Madras.—At a meeting of this lodge held recently, Worshipful Brother Pearl, Senior Warden, was elected Master for the ensuing year, vice Worshipful Brother Minchin who retired. Worshipful Brother Dawes was re-elected Treasurer. It was arranged that there should be a Masonic procession on the morning of St. John's-day, the 27th December, from the lodge to St. Stephen's church, where a sermon will be preached by the Rev. J. C. Griffiths, a brother Mason. We trust there will be a large attendance as well to witness this novel sight at Ootacamund, as to hear the principles of Freemasonry expounded.—Nilgherry Excelsior.

ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

British Chapter, No. 8.—This chapter met at Freemasons' Hall, on Friday, the 4th, under the presidency of Comps. Jabez Tepper, Z.; John Thomas Griffith, M.D., H.; and John Braddick Monckton, J., when the chapter after being opened in ancient and solemn form, installed the three Principals-elect, viz:—Comps. D. Griffith, as Z.; Monckton, as H.; and Frank Richardson, as J. Then Bro. Humphreys, of the Caveac Lodge, No. 176, was exalted in ancient form. Comp. Joseph Stohwasser, P.Z., was again invested as Treasurer; and Comp. Edward Baxter, P.Z., as Director of Ceremonies; Comps. Stanley Robinson, as Scribe E.; J. B. Ciabatta, as Scribe N.; A. A. Richards, as P.S., who re-appointed Comps. S. H. Head, and Morris Evans, as his Assistants. Comp. Monckton, H., gave notice of three candidates for exaltation at the next chapter. The M.E.Z. ably worked the pedestal, and gave the Patriarchal Benediction. The companions afterwards, with eight visitors adjourned to the tavern, and partook of the usual sumptuous banquet and dessert, and the late M.E.Z. was presented with the usual complimentary jewel in recognition of his services.

Joppa Chapter, No. 188.—This excellent working Chapter held its quarterly convocation at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, on Monday, the 31st ult. There was an unusually large attendance of members, and visitors. The customary observance of opening the Chapter and reading minutes were disposed of; the ballot was taken for the following six candidates, which proved unanimous in the affirmative for their admission, viz, Bros. M. J.

Emmanuel, W.M. of the Lodge of Israel, 205; Joel Emanuel and Natoon, of the same lodge. Bros. Pymm, Creamer and Wilkins being in attendance, were exalted in a very impressive manner by Comp. Littaur, M.E.Z., ably assisted by Comp. E. P. Albert, P.Z. as H., and Comp. the Rev. M. B. Levy, J. Comp. J. Abrahams was then installed into the chair of H.; this ceremony was likewise performed by the M.E.Z., whose thorough knowledge of all the Masonic ceremonies are proverbial. It was exceedingly gratifying to see the respective officers discharge their duties in so proficient a manner; the Chapter, or rather its members, had been at labour nearly three hours, and it was natural to expect that some refreshment was necessary, and indeed this was manifest by the ample justice done to the good things provided by that celebrated house, the Albion, under the superintendence of Comp. Silver. Grace by the Rev. M. B. Levy, was impressively recited. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and eloquently responded to, particularly those of the M.E.Z., the newly-exalted Comps., and visitors, the latter by Comp. Hyde Pullen, P.Z., and Past Deputy P. Grand Master for the Isle of Wight. It was exceedingly gratifying to see several of the P.Z.'s ready to render any service necessary. Amongst those were Comps. S. M. Lazarus, the father and first Z. of the Chapter, who has been regular in attendance since its formation, now about twenty-five years; there were also Comps. A. M. Cohen, S.N.; Abrahams, E. P. Albert, and Eskell, all P.Z.'s. Visitors, H. Pullen, L. Alexander, Jacobs (2), and several others. All appeared to be highly gratified, the utmost harmony and fraternal feeling was the character of the meeting, which is fully in accordance with the words of the Royal Psalmist, "Behold how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

PROVINCIAL.

SCARBOROUGH.—Old Globe Chapter, No. 200.—This chapter held its regular meeting at the Masonic Hall, Old Globe Inn, Globe-street, on Wednesday, the 2nd February, when the following officers and companions were present:—Comps. W. F. Rooke, Z.; W. T. Farthing, H.; H. A. Williamson, J.; J. A. Chapman, Treasurer; R. H. Peacock, E.; H. C. Martin, N.; S. H. Armitage, P.S.; J. Verity, Janitor; W. Peacock, J.D.C.; Jackson, and D. Fletcher. The chapter was opened at 8 p.m. The minutes were read and confirmed; Bro. J. C. Brown, was ballotted for and elected a candidate for exaltation. Comp. Rooke, Z., returned thanks to the companions of the chapter for their kindness and courtesy towards him during his year of office. This being the night for the annual election of officers, the following were unanimously elected:—Comps. W. T. Farthing, Z.; H. A. Williamson, H.; W. Peacock, J.; H. W. Garnett, E.; H. C. Martin, N.; J. A. Chapman, Treasurer; J. E. Green, P.S. Each of the newly-elected officers returned thanks for the kindness thus expressed in electing him to office. After which the chapter was closed in due form, and the companions retired to refreshment, where a short time was spent in the usual enjoyable manner so well known to Masons.

NEWPORT.—Silurian Chapter, No. 471.—The usual monthly convocation of the members of this chapter, took place on Friday week, at the Masonic Hall, Duke-street, Newport, Monmouthshire, and there was a very large attendance. Comp. Bartholomew Thomas, M.E.Z., was in the chair, supported by Comps. Rellier, as H.; and Oliver, as J.; there were also several Past Principals on the dais. The ballot took place for Bros. Jno. Lewis, and James Phillips, of Tredegar Iron Works, and both were unanimously admitted. Bro. Lewis being in attendance, was duly exalted to the sublime degree of a R.A. Mason, the ceremony being most correctly rendered by the M.E.Z. Bro. Lewis is the W.M. of the St. George's Lodge, 1098. Bro. Phillips was unable to be present through a death in his family, and therefore he will be exalted at the next meeting. This being the proper time for electing Principals and officers for the ensuing year, a letter was read from Comp. Laybourne, declining to be put in nomination for the office of First Principal, on account of ill-health and the pressing emergency of his private business avocations. The following companions were therefore nominated and elected, viz.: Companions Hellyer, Z.; Oliver, H.; Fox, J.; Pickford, Treas.; Thos. Williams, E.; R. J. Chambers, N.; G. Fothergill, P.S.; Tapsen, Org.; McFee, Janitor. The Principals will be installed, and the other officers inducted at the next meeting. Five candidates for exaltation were then proposed, and also one companion as a subscribing member, and the companions agreed to dine together at 6 p.m., on the 25th February, at the Westgate Hotel. Free tickets will be issued to all R.A. Masons belonging to 471, but members of blue lodges can also attend at the banquet by paying for the usual dinner ticket. As this chapter now numbers nearly eighty members, we anticipate a large gathering next week, and we believe we are justified in adding, in no other chapter can the ceremonies be better worked than at Newport. The arrangements in connexion with the approaching Masonic Ball in Newport, on the 17th of February, are now nearly completed. The committee are working diligently and admirably: 150 tickets have already been disposed of, and as the assembly room at the King's Head Hotel, will not hold more than 250 comfortably, we strongly recommend all our Masonic brethren who intend to be present to send in an early application for tickets. Several M.P.'s have notified their intention to honour the company with a visit, and most of the families of distinction in the county will be represented there.

LIVERPOOL.—Temple Chapter, No. 1094.—The regular meeting of this chapter was held at the Masonic Temple, 22 Hope-street, on Tuesday evening, the 25th ult., at 5 p.m. The chapter having been opened by the three Principals, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, Bro. Bolton, of Lodge 1094, was then ballotted for, and was declared duly elected. M.E.Z. Comp. R. H. D. Johnson, having ordered all below the rank of Z., except the Z.-elect, to retire, proceeded to install Comps. J. Kellet Smith as Z., Hamer, as H.; Robinson, J. The rest of the companions were then admitted and Bros. Bolton and Gilbert being in attendance, they were exalted to the rank of a H.R.A. Mason, by the newly-installed Z., the lectures being given by H.J., and the P.Z. Some other business having been disposed of the chapter was closed in solemn form. The companions afterwards sat down to a sumptuous repast provided by Comp. Ball, the house steward, and at dessert the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to in appropriate terms, high eulogiums being passed upon the good working and other qualities of the three Principals, and the immediate P.Z. The following were among the visitors present: Comp. W. Laidlaw, P.Z. (216); Thomas Ashmore, Z. (823); J. McKune, Z. (216); Robt. Wylie, P.G.D.C.; W. Craue, P.Z. (249); J. M. Johnson, H. (292); Chas. Hill (241); J. T. Lea (477); W. Jones, J. (249).

SCOTLAND.

GLASGOW.—Cathedral Royal Arch Chapter, No. 67.—This chapter, which after being dormant a number of years has been resuscitated, held their first regular meeting on Tuesday, 25th ult. The chapter was opened by the M.E.P.Z., Wm. Taylor, assisted by Comps. Matthew Wilson, 2nd Principal, and Archibald McFarlane, 3rd Principal, and other companions. There were four new members added, viz., A. Winning, D. Butler, J. Patterson, and H. Tulloch. The Mark degree was given by the M.E.P.Z., the chair by M.E.P.Z. Foster (87), and the exaltation by M.E.P.Z. Campbell (69). The whole degrees were wrought in a very superior manner, and the companions seemed well pleased.

MARK MASONRY.

SCARBOROUGH.—Star in the East Lodge, No. 95, E.C.—This flourishing and select lodge held its regular meeting, in the Masonic Hall, Old Globe Inn, Globe-street, on Wednesday, the 26th ult., when the following officers and members were present:—Bros. H. A. Williamson, W.M.; J. W. Woodall, P.M.; G.M.O.; W. Peacock, S.W.; D. Fletches, J.W.; J. A. Chapman, Treas.; H. C. Martin, Sec.; J. Fisher, M.O.; W. Pattison, S.O.; J. W. Taylor, (M.D.) J.O.; J. Hardgrave, S.D.; J. Inskip, J.D.; A. Allen, I.G.; J. Verity, Tyler; J. Knight, W. Milner, R. Land, and J. Kendall. The lodge was opened 7.30 p.m., the minutes were read and confirmed. Bro. Capt. the Honourable Percy C. Stanhope, who was previously elected, being present, was prepared, admitted, and advanced to the degree of Mark Master, the whole of this interesting ceremony being most impressively and correctly performed; in fact this lodge has always held a high position in Mark Masonry for its correct ritual and good working, and it is very pleasing to find the present staff exerting themselves so well and worthily to keep up its previous standard. The charge was very impressively delivered by Bro. J. W. Woodall, P.M. and G.M.O., and was listened to with marked attention. Nothing further being offered for the good of Mark Masonry in general or this lodge in particular, it was closed in due form with S.P. at G.P.M., and the brethren spent a very pleasant hour at the refreshment board.

STOWMARKET.—Freeman Lodge, No. 105.—The first regular meeting of this lodge (an account of its consecration was given in our columns a few weeks since,) took place on the 4th inst. There were present Bro. Frederick Long, W.M.; Bros. G. S. Golding, S.W.; Francis Betts, J.W.; Edward Warner, M.O.; C. H. Woods, S.O.; Spencer Freeman, Treasurer; Rev. R. N. Sanderson, P.M. 70, Grand Chap. G.L.M.M.; W. T. Westgate, S.W. 70; G. Spalding, 70. The lodge having been opened in due form by the W.M., Bros. J. W. Sheridan, W.M.; Sutton, P.M.; Sidgwick, P.M.; and Robinson, Tyler, all of the Phoenix Lodge (craft), 516 were ballotted for, and approved. Bro. Sheridan, Sutton, and Robinson, were introduced and advanced by the Grand Chaplain to the degree of Mark Master Masons. Bro. Rev. C. J. Martyn, Grand Chaplain of England, was ballotted for as a joining member, and Bro. Davies, of the Phoenix Lodge, 516, was proposed as a candidate for advancement at the next meeting. The W.M. then closed the lodge and the brethren retired to refreshment, when a pleasant hour or two was spent in peace and harmony.

The New Vade Mecum (invented and manufactured by Charles H. Vincent, optician, of 23, Windsor-street, Liverpool) consists of a telescope well adapted for tourists, &c., to which is added an excellent microscope of great power and first-class definition, quite equal to others sold at ten times the price. Wonderful as it may seem, the price of this ingenious combination is only 3s. 6d., and Mr. Vincent sends it (carriage free) anywhere, with printed directions, upon receipt of post-office order or stamps to the amount of 3s. 10d.—[Advt.]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The greatest wonder of modern times.—They correct biliousness, prevent flatulency, cleanse the liver, purify the system, renovate the debilitated, strengthen the stomach, increase the appetite, invigorate the nerves, and reinstate the weak. The demand for these Pills throughout the globe astonishes everybody, convincing them that there is no medicine equal to Holloway's Pills for removing the complaints which are incidental to the human race. They are indeed a blessing to the afflicted, and a boon to those who suffer from any disorder, internal or external. The purification of the blood, and the consequent removal of all noxious matter from the secretions, and their gentle actions upon the bowels are the source of the curative powers of Holloway's Pills.

CONSECRATION of the FINSBURY PARK LODGE, No. 1288.

The M.W. Grand Master was pleased, upon the petition of Bros. E. Welch, A. Welch, K. Hardey, R. Hollyman, H. A. Stacey, C. L. Goodman, J. Meekham, W. W. Kell, to grant a warrant for the purposes of Freemasonry, also naming it the Finsbury Park Lodge, to be held at the Finsbury Park Hotel, Holloway. On Monday last, Bro. W. Watson, P.M., of 25 (who had previously received the permission of the W.M. Grand Master), assisted by Bro. Matthew Cooke, P.M. and Secretary of the Globe Lodge, proceeded to consecrate the lodge, in the presence of the following brethren:—E. Welch, A. Welch, C. L. Goodman, Key Hardey, H. A. Stacey, H. Welch, R. Hollyman, T. W. Quin, W. Naylor, J. Pigot, J. McKeirnan, J. Woodman, R. M. Smith, W. Smeed, E. W. Limbert, J. Enarret, J. Frost, G. Bastone, and others.

The ceremony of consecration was performed by Bro. W. Watson, in a solemn and impressive manner, which was very much increased by some excellent music and an able oration, both rendered by Bro. Matthew Cook. After which Bro. Watson installed Bro. E. Welch into the chair of K.S. This portion of the Masonic business was given by the worthy brother in his accustomed perfect manner. The W.M. invested Bro. A. Welch, as S.W., Bro. C. L. Goodman, as J.W., &c.

After receiving the names of several local gentlemen to be initiated, and numerous propositions for joining members, the brethren sat down to banquet, which Bro. Joseph Pigot, the host, served up in a most praiseworthy manner, and reflected great credit upon his Cook, whoever he or she may have been. The wines were exceedingly good, as also were the speeches, particularly those by the W.M., Bro. Welch, who allowed his humorous vein to have full play, which appeared to delight all present. It was one of those enjoyable evenings that all who were so fortunate as to be present will not easily forget. The visitors' health was responded to by Bros. Watson, M. Cooke, and W. Smeed. The W.M.'s health was felicitously proposed by Bro. Key Hardey, and in returning thanks, the W.M. observed that although he was a little advanced in years, yet he was young in Freemasonry, but he would do his utmost to support Freemasonry, and particularly the Finsbury Park Lodge. Bros. A. Welch, C. L. Goodman, and H. A. Stacey, expressed their thanks for themselves and the other officers, and after some pleasing singing given by Bros. M. Cooke, C. L. Goodman, W. Smeed, and H. A. Stacey, the brethren separated highly gratified with the evening's entertainment.

Before closing we wish to add our meed of praise to Bro. Pigot, and Sister Pigot, for the excellent arrangements they made for the comfort of the members and visitors.

"WE'RE A' JOHN THAMSON'S BAIRNS."

A Song composed on the moment by Bro. JOHN SMITH MACGREGOR, Worshipful Master, Lodge "St. David," Berwick-on-Tweed, No. 393—on the occasion of proposing the health of Bro. Captain Thomson, a Past Master, on the evening of 28th December, 1869.

(TUNE.—The Days we went a Gipsying.)

Aince mair around the festive board
St. David's Lodge has met
In honour of that patriarch
Whom Freemasons ne'er forget;
That brither's age in love should live
The merest tyro learns,
So bear in mind, as time steals on,
We're a' John Thamson's bairns.
Remember that the purpose is
To make us good and true,
Remember, also, time's too short
For a' we hae to do;
Let's have a heavy credit,
In that book where a' concerns
Are noted doon against us,
Ev'n a' John Thamson's bairns.
Let dogs delight to bark and bite,
For 'tis their nature to,
And bears, and tigers growl and fight,
For their's is so to do;
But brither Masons ne'er were made
To tear out ilk ane's hairs;
Let's live in love, and ne'er forget
We're a' John Thamson's bairns.
There's ane sits at the board to-night,
The first him Masons ca',
And mony Masons has he made
Amang baith great and sma';
The auldest brither in the lodge,
Respect from a' he earns;
A bumper to John Thamson,
For we're a' John Thamson's bairns.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks: "By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—[Advt.]

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

M. DECHEVAUX-DUMESNIL, Paris.—Thanks for your letter. We will insert a report next week.

Several communications of great interest stand over till next week, in consequence of the length of the Brett Testimonial report.

BRO. ANDERSON (the Wizard of the North), lately at one of his entertainments at Dundee, addressed the Masonic brethren present, under whose patronage the entertainment was given, on the importance of establishing educational Masonic Institutions, like those in England. Upon this subject the Professor spoke as follows:—Before I came to Dundee I attended a meeting of Freemasons in Edinburgh, with much pleasure. I never spent a happier evening. I had to deliver a speech, and I need only say that the summun bonum of it simply was that Masonry in Scotland ought to be represented as it is in England. (Applause). I am a member of the English body; and neither my family nor myself ever spent a more glorious day than when I invited the children of the Boys' and Girls' Schools in London to come to St. James's Hall to witness my entertainment. And they did come, and they were delighted. Clean and well educated—and who were they? They were the sons and daughters of decayed Masons, brought up in one of the most magnificent institutions in the world. (Loud applause). If the Scotch members are worth anything, let them also follow the example of their English brethren, and found a similar institution, whereby their sons and daughters may be educated and taken care of. When in Edinburgh, I put down my name for a subscription with this view, and I have no doubt, if unanimity exists among the members, in a year or two Scotland will also boast of such an institution. (Applause).

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

THE growth of a truly catholic spirit amongst the Freemasons of England is one of the most noteworthy signs of the times. Since the union of the two Grand Lodges in 1813, the hostility of some, and the indifference of others in the "body of Masonry" to the Christian developments of the Order, have caused great pain as well as astonishment to thorough students of the Masonic system, and it is therefore not surprising to find that many brethren considered that an actual antagonism existed between the Grand Lodge of England and the supporters of the Higher Grades.

We—although not as old as Methuselah—can ourselves remember the time when to avow oneself a "Rose Croix" or a "Templar" in a lodge of English Freemasons was equivalent to a declaration that one had bowed the knee at the shrine of Moloch, and passed through the fire of some strange idolatry. The ignorance which once prevailed as to the real origin of the Craft, the multiplication of lying legends which beset one's path in every direction, the unmeaning cry of sectarianism which resounded whenever any allusion to the ancient character of Freemasonry was made—all these circumstances tended to circumscribe our real area of usefulness, even at the very moment when "universality" and "cosmopolitanism" were stereotyped phrases in the Fraternity. Now let it be perfectly understood that we are ready, willing, and moreover proud, to receive with the hand of fellowship every true Freemason throughout the globe; we care not for his colour or his clime, for his opinions, religious or political, but we claim for our own convictions the respect which we are prepared to extend to those of others. Does this strike at the root of "Universality"? Does this shake a leaf from the noble tree under whose branches we enjoy the truest rights of humanity? We trow not; and we rejoice to see the day, when our long cherished ideas receive authoritative expression and sanction from the leaders of Freemasonry in England. No reader of English Masonic history can have failed to notice that every writer, from Anderson to Oliver, endeavours to connect "Speculative Freemasonry" with the operative associations of the past, and the few who have fully digested all that is really valuable in our records, have arrived at the inevitable conclusion, that if modern Freemasons are the descendants of those mediæval men of genius—if, like the beacon fires of old, Freemasonry has been handed on, from sire to son, an unbroken girdle of light and glory—it follows that we have accepted a Christian inheritance, we have renewed a Christian vow, and unless we fulfil the mission which they have bequeathed to us, in the spirit of that lex non scripta, we may be said to have forfeited our rank in the bright hierarchy of Masonry, and are unworthy of the name, "true and perfect Masons."

We do not intend to argue in favour of the antiquity of any particular degree, but we can assert without fear of contradiction—and in so doing we appeal for corroboration to Bro. William James Hughan, than whom a more competent Masonic arbiter does not exist in Europe—that Christianity is the pivot upon which ancient Operative Masonry turns, and this is easily explained by the fact that the greatest patrons of architectural art in the middle ages were priests of the Christian Church.

In those days, as in the present, Freemasons had their secrets, they possessed a peculiar organisation by which they were enabled in many different countries to rear those magnificent structures which bear the impress of one grand and comprehensive design. Their documents breathe the religious spirit of the times; hence the favour of Rome, which saw no danger in a society of men devoted to the Church and the Crown. But with the dawn of more liberal opinions, we find the Freemasons in the van-guard of liberty, we find them discarding the privileges they possessed, and hastening to place the incalculable might of their strongly-knit fraternity in the scale of the oppressed. Sacerdotalism encountered a power superior to its own, and succumbed; mankind is the wiser and happier for the change.

The portals of Freemasonry were then flung wide open to all who chose to enter, provided always that they were men who believed in an over-ruling Providence, and respected the sanctity of the obligation which bound them for ever to the Craft.

The initiative in this extended view of the Masonic Institution was taken in England; thenceforth Jews and Mahomedans, Hindoos and Parsees, were eligible to the benefits of Freemasonry, and as a natural result, the Order is now spread over the four quarters of the globe. We rejoice in this—all are welcome, if good men and true—but we must not utterly ignore the past; we must not cast to the winds those simple formulas, those familiar traditions which our forefathers loved and cherished.

We admit a Mahomedan to our mysteries, he is sworn on the Koran; a Parsee, and he swears by fire, but strange to say in our admiration of universality the only creed to which we deny the right to choose the form most binding on its professor's conscience is the Christian! A Jew may claim to be obligated on the Old Testament, but a believer in Christianity must be silent about the New. From this singular darkness of vision we have just emerged, thanks to the unwearied exertions of a well-known and justly esteemed brother, and let us hope that English Freemasons have for ever irradiated this worse than Egyptian obscurity. Let every religious opinion be equally respected, let every honest phase of religious belief be equally represented in Freemasonry.

That is all we want, and that is what the Craft in England will have before some of us are grey. It is well-known that special Orders connected with the Masonic Institution, and representing these truths, are already powerful organisations in England, and their claims are entitled to respect.

For many years these Orders enjoyed the active support of the Masonic authorities, and for many subsequent years as we have intimated, they languished under the ban of those who ought to have been their protectors and guides. Happily, a ray of sunshine now appears to penetrate the gloom of this undeserved neglect, and the dawn of brighter days is before those good and faithful brethren. It is only necessary to state that the Grand Conclave of Knights Templar will again be permitted to use "Freemasons' Hall" for their half-yearly meetings, to enable our readers to realise the full force of our remarks, and the permission accorded to this distinguished branch of chivalric Masonry cannot of course be withheld from other degrees, such as the Rose Croix or Red Cross, which are placed in a similar position. This wise and prudent determination on the part of the rulers of the Craft comes with special grace at a time when, as we are privately informed, preparations are being made for the reception of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as a Knight Templar, and when his admission to other grades of the Order may be daily expected. The High Grades, in which we comprise the "Templar," the "Red Cross of Constantine," and the "Ancient and Accepted Rite," seek for no recognition which shall deprive them of one iota of their ancient rights, nor do they desire any compromise which would in the slightest degree abridge the catholicity of Craft Masonry. But the time is now rapidly approaching—and it is one which the vast majority of English brethren will hail with satisfaction—when all the rites or Orders of Freemasonry which are outgrowths of the Craft will be sheltered under the wing of one "Grand Council of Rites," when the moneys which are now scattered over four or five different organisations will be gathered into one treasury, to be made available for the relief or the solace of our fellow-creatures, particularly our brethren in Freemasonry in each and every degree. In this spirit, and with this anticipation, we heartily congratulate our brother Knights Templar on their reappearance in our Masonic Temple, confident as we are that the doctrines which they inculcate, and the precepts they teach, will never be found in antagonism to the primary principles of the Craft.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

There is a lodge held in London called the "Lodge of Nine Muses." Can any of your readers give the origin of this name, or state if the lodge is composed of men celebrated for literary abilities, either in poetry or prose?

A PROVINCIAL BROTHER.

[The "Lodge of Nine Muses" is a very select one at the present day, and numbers very few members. Bro. J. M. Clabon, P.G.D., one of the best speakers in Grand Lodge, is a P.M. of the "Nine Muses." When formed the lodge was chiefly composed of literary men, and a lodge of the same name in Paris was confined to litterateurs, including the philosophic Benjamin Franklin.—Ed. F.]

Can the Kadosh degree be legally worked in an English K.T. Encampment?

SIGMA.

[We believe not, nor can we imagine that under existing circumstances any regular Encampment would attempt to confer it. The Rose Croix and Kadosh were formerly worked under the K.T. warrant, but since the formation of the Supreme Grand Council 33°, in 1845, the degrees are given under its jurisdiction. This is as it should be.—Ed. F.]

Can you explain the reason why there are two differing systems of working in London, under the very eyes of the authorities, viz.:—those known as "Emulation" and "Stability?"

A. D. O.

[The reason is simply this, that at the time of the union in 1813, Bro. the Rev. Dr. Hemming was commissioned by the Duke of Sussex to prepare a uniform ritual for the three degrees, but as he became incapacitated for the task before its completion, Bro. Williams, P.G.M., for Dorset, was called upon to undertake the work, when to the surprise of many, who had heard Hemming's ritual during its progress under the doctor's manipulation, the ritual Bro. Williams produced varied from it in several particulars. In order to please the friends of both preceptors, the Grand Master allowed the promulgation of both rituals! Hence originated the rival schools, afterwards called by the names of their preceptors, the "Broadfoot" or "Thompson," and the "Gilkes" working, now known as the "Emulation" and "Stability."—Ed. F.]

CHARLES EDWARD STUART.

Was the unfortunate Prince Charles, the "Young Pretender," a Freemason?—QUERIST.

[It is a favourite theory of the supporters of High Grand Masonry, that the Prince founded a Chapter of the Rose Croix at Arras, but no real proof of the assertion has yet been established. Charles Edward Stuart, was undoubtedly a Knight Templar, but at the time of his reception, 1745, there was evidently no connection between the Scottish Templars and the Freemasons. We believe in the transmission of the Order of the Temple from ancient times through the descendants of the Scottish Knights; and the fact of the "Young Pretender's" admission into the Order so far back as one hundred and twenty-five years ago, speaks volumes for the authenticity of the present Chapter General of the Temple in Scotland.—Ed. F.]

COLOURED MASONS.

I am glad to see by the article "Our Exchanges" last week, that lodges composed of men of colour are spreading in America. It is humiliating to think of the use which the white brethren in America could make of Freemasonry as a civilizing agent for the negroes, if they only studied a little more in reality the great principles of liberty before man, and equality before God.

MARK MASONRY (p. 68).

Your correspondent "An Old Mark," seems to me to make several mistakes in his remarks. It is not "certain that the inventors of the third degree were of the Mark," for the Mark ceremony was not invented till long after 1717; it was not, therefore, before them, "always a degree per se." The old operative Masons, apprentices, fellows, and masters used marks, but we have no evidence whatever of their knowing or practising aught of our Mark ceremony or ritual, but otherwise. As to the Mark being the link (before 1717) "between Craft Masonry and the higher degrees," that, I consider, is purely imaginary. Lastly, I am prepared to believe that the Royal Arch degree is quite as old as, if not even older than, the Mark degree.

LEO.

THE MARK DEGREE.

How old is this degree? After your late article, which I read with much interest, I am anxious to take it, if only to support the English body against the absurd pretensions of Messrs. Mackersey and Co.

R.A.M.

[It is difficult to state with certainty when the Mark Degree originated, but it is clear that it was one of the first additions to the Ancient York Rite. In 1780, it was given as the second of a series called "Ark, Mark, Link, and Wreath," the latter two being sometimes called the "Link and Chain." Of these the first-named expanded into the "Royal Ark Mariner," a degree still worked in Scotland in connection with Royal Arch Masonry, but scarcely known in this country except to a few Masonic students, amongst whom we may mention Bro. Hughan, P.G. Sec., Cornwall, and Bro. Little, P.G. Sec., Middlesex. A "Royal Ark" Lodge, was formerly called a "Vessel," and the chief Vessel was "anchored" at the Surrey Tavern, in the Strand. The presiding officer was termed the Grand Commander Noah, and his lieutenants represented Shem and Japheth. We have seen a warrant for this degree, which was signed by "Robert Gill," in 1796. Bro. Gill was a zealous and enthusiastic Mason, and for many years served as Grand-Vice-Chancellor of the Knights Templar. The ritual of the Ark Mariner's degree is very pleasing and simple, and might, perhaps, with advantage be taken up and preserved as a relic of the past by the authorities of the Mark Grand Lodge of England. The ceremony now worked in English Mark Lodges, is not, in our opinion, an improvement upon the old ritual which is still used in Irish Lodges; the language is too verbose and elaborate, and as a rule the degree is seldom worked in its entirety. It may well be considered a link in the chain of Universal Masonry, and we therefore trust the Grand Chapter of Scotland will see the impolicy of refusing recognition to the rapidly-growing body of English Mark Masters.—Ed. F.]

COLOURED MASONIC LODGES IN SAN FRANCISCO.

There are three coloured Masonic Lodges in this city, viz.:—

Hannibal Lodge, No. 1, organized 1852. Meet every Wednesday evening. Officers: Bros. G. A. Deval, W.M.; Charles H. Fisher, S.W.; Wm. Davis, J.W.; Rev. A. B. Smith, Treasurer; Jas. R. Starkie, Secretary; A. Harrison, Tyler.

Victoria Lodge, No. 3, organized 1853. Meet every Monday evening. Officers: Bros. David W. Ruggles, W.M.; James Johnson, S.W.; Francis Green, J.W.; A. Loney, Treasurer; A. J. Ward, Secretary; A. Harrison, Tyler. These lodges meet on the N.E. corner of Broadway and Mason-streets, and are working under the National Grand Lodge of America.

Olive Branch, No. 5, organized 1855. Officers: Bros. Edward Quinn, W.M.; James H. Bell, S.W.; James E. Francis, J.W.; Henry Tolbot, Treasurer; Nelson Cook, Secretary; Israel C. Wilson, Tyler. Meet every Thursday evening in King Hiram's Hall, 541, Broadway. Working under charter from United Grand Lodge of New York. Bro. W. A. Smith, D.D.G.M.—The Elevator.

There is in Lewes Castle a small organ which once belonged to Queen Elizabeth, but which is now the property of the South Saxon Lodge of Freemasons in that town. It was for many years preserved in a recess in the old castle, being presented to the lodge by the Duke of Sussex. It has now been repaired by Mr. Starnes, organist to the lodge.—Musical Standard.

PEMBROKE LODGE, No. 1299, will be consecrated on Thursday 24th inst., at West Derby, by Bro. Thomas Wylie, W.P.G.R., P.P.G. Sec., &c., West Lancashire. Bro. William, P.M. 249 and 1094, will be the first Worshipful Master.

THE BADGE OF FREEMASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was pleased with Bro. Paton's historical account on page 49, of the Golden Fleece, and should be glad to learn from our learned Masons the original of the white apron trimmed with blue ribbons. The only reason I ever have read about it, and I should like to ascertain the truth of it, is that it originates from the Jews'

מלח

"garment," worn by them in the synagogue at prayer—white trimmed with blue. I will not trouble your readers with the whole of the Rabbinical writings about this "garment," but to enable me to bring before them this subject, how it originated from the Jews, I must first give the scriptural account why the Israelites were commanded to wear a garment trimmed with blue.

I must remind your readers that the Jews were forbidden by the Mosaic law to wear garments of a mingled nature (as linen and wool), and no doubt that in those hot climates their dress consisted of pure white linen. The priests had to wear white linen dresses. Now, if we look to the book of Numbers, xv. 38, 39, we find, "Speak unto the children of Israel, and bid them that they make them fringes on the borders of their garments throughout their generation, and that they put upon the fringe of the border riband of blue; and it shall be unto you for a fringe that ye may look upon it, and remember all the commandments of the Lord and do them."

We see from the above why this ribbon of blue had to be put on their garments: it was to remind them of God and his commandments. In a passage in the Talmud one Rabbi gives a reason why the colour blue was commanded, which I think is a good reason, and may be true. I will trouble your readers with the quotation:—

אלא חוט של תכלת מאי דתניא? דבי מאיר אומר מה נשתנה תכלת מכל מיני צבעונין? מפני שתכלת דומה לים, וים דומה לרקיע, ורקיע דומה לכסא הכבוד שנאמר ויראות אלהי ישראל ותחת דגליו נמצעה לכנת הספיר יכעצם השמים למטה.

'But how is the thread of blue inferred? Because Rabbi Myer hath said, the reason why blue should be distinguished from all other colours, because blue is the colour of the sea, the sea is the colour of the sky, and the sky is the colour of the throne of glory, for it is said (Ex. xxiv): 'And they saw the Lord God of Israel, and there was under his feet, as it were, a paved work of sapphire stone, and as it were the body of heaven in His clearness.'

Here, the probable reason that the colour blue was intended to direct the attention of the true Israelites to the heavens, and to the Creator of the same. Here, probably, also is the very same reason why aprons, white, trimmed with blue, are worn by Masons: to remind every true M.M. of his duty to the G.A.O.T.U., and to his brother Masons.

If M.M. aprons originated from the command given by God to the Israelites, they are really more ancient than the Golden Fleece, more honourable than the Star and Garter, and no Mason ought ever to disgrace that badge, as it was the case with the Israelites when our Lord said to them,

(See Matt. xxiii. 5-7)

Yours fraternally,

MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was very pleased with your article in THE FREEMASON on January 15, "A Plea for the Aged." I believe it has already done good by the Festival account. I feel confident if half the energy was displayed in giving information and soliciting subscriptions as is used in aid of the Boys' and Girls' Institutions a very different state of things would be brought about; but such is not the case, and the consequence is that nobody seems to know anything about "the old men and women," as they are termed, while the boys and girls are brought up as gentlemen and ladies. Not that I object to the latter, but let those who have helped on the cause, both with body and purse, be the first to have the benefit when they are in a position to require it. I think there is no need to hoard up so much money for the future. I am informed the whole of the donations are funded, and the subscriptions alone spent for the benefit of the Institutions, if this is the case I think it wrong. I have great faith in the principles of Masonry, and I believe our successors will be quite ready to take their share of the responsibilities of the future. Let us look after the comforts of the present brethren and widows of brethren, and if we can put by a surplus after doing that, by all means do it, but not punish those that we know in order to benefit after generations. I sincerely hope, now you have taken the case in hand, your powerful advocacy will bring about a new era. I should have attended the Festival but was prevented by illness. I must now state, in conclusion, that I prove my sincerity by my acts: I subscribed to the Boys' School five guineas this year, I am also a Life Governor of the Aged Benevolent Institution, and intend to subscribe a guinea a year in future. Trusting your strenuous efforts in the cause of our noble Institutions will meet with a noble reward, I subscribe myself,

Yours faithfully and fraternally

STRICT JUSTICE.

HURAM ABIF.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—The object of your correspondent, H.M., who writes of Hiram Abif in THE FREEMASON of February 5th, is greatly to be respected, as is also the spirit in which he writes, but I fear that his attempt to justify the use of the name Hiram Abif, by reference to the German and Swedish versions of the Bible is of little value in face of the Hebrew text. I do not clearly comprehend what H.M. means where he says "our translators have endeavoured to render Hebrew names into equivalent English terms, rendering in one place 'Huram, his father,' 'Huram, my father,' whereas the German and Swedish versions have, in many instances, adopted them as proper names." It would have been well if H.M. had specified the passages in which this has been done in the English version. I know of no such passages, nor of any such rendering. Our translators do not, so far as I know, render the name of Huram or Hiram (it being written with the yod in Kings, and with the vau in Chronicles) either "Hiram, my father," or "Huram, his father," but simply Hiram and Huram, as a proper name. As it is in the Hebrew, the phrases Hiram abi and Huram abin, which occur in 2 Chronicles ii. 13 (in Heb. 12) and iv. 16, add nothing to the name of Hiram or Huram; it is simply "Huram, his father," in Chronicles, and "Hiram, my father," in Kings. Hiram, King of Tyre, says to Solomon: "And now I have sent a cunning man, endowed with understanding of Huram, my fathers, the son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father a man of Tyre," &c. This cunning or skillful man's name was also Huram or Hiram, and so he is designated in the only four or five passages in the Hebrew and English Bibles.

But if H.M. could find Hiram Abif in the Hebrew Bible, I fear that he would fail in finding anything to show that he was a Master Mason, which H.M. must be as desirous to do as to find him called by that name. The building of the temple seems to have been completed, so far as the structure itself was concerned, without the aid of this cunning or skillful man—the widow's son, who was not, as appears, a mason, but an artist. Solomon asked the King of Tyre to send him "a man skillful to work in gold, and in silver and in brass, in iron, and in purple, in blue, and in fine linen, and in crimson; also to grave any manner of graving, and to find out every device which shall be put to him with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom David, my father, did provide" (2 Chron. ii. 8). He was the artificer, and devised, or rather directed and superintended, the decorations of the temple and its beautiful and symbolic furniture; and his work is specifically enumerated in 2 Chron. iv. 11-16, and 1 Kings vii. 40-45.

Am I then denying that Hiram was a Mason and a Master Mason? I am certainly denying that we have any scriptural authority for deeming him to have been such, and I believe that all we have about him in the Bible points in another direction. But am I therefore, weakening the foundation, or removing one of the landmarks of Masonry? I think not. I take the legend of Hiram Abif to be one of those beautiful legends and allegorical stories on which much of the sublime teaching of our Order is based, and I no more believe it to be literally true, than I believe that Solomon, King of Israel, Hiram, King of Tyre, and Hiram Abif, held the second Grand Lodge of Freemasons in the bosom of the holy Mount Moriah.

What, then, is this legend of Hiram Abif, and what its symbolical meaning? That must be reserved for another communication, if you do me the favour to publish this.

BRO. JACOB NORTON and the "PROV. GRAND MASTER of AMERICA."

By Bro. WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN,

P.M. 131, and Prov. Grand Secretary for Cornwall, &c.

I have carefully read the long and interesting letter by Bro. Jacob Norton, respecting the appointment of Henry Price, as Prov. Grand Master of New England, A.D. 1733, and of North America, 1735. The enquiry this indefatigable Mason has entered upon is involved in much difficulty and uncertainty, and one requiring much patient investigation and research. In Bro. Norton we have these capabilities, and we may anticipate that success will likely crown his efforts. The limits of the enquiry are already narrowing under his diligent investigation, and we hope that the light he now seeks from the records of the Grand Lodge of England will be forthcoming, or at least something definite and final will soon result from this examination.

One thing is certain: Bro. Henry Price was wrong in stating in his letter (dated 27th Jan., 1768,) to Bro. Samuel Spencer, Grand Secretary, that the first deputation "ever issued to any part of America," was A.D. 1733, and that to himself; for in the Constitutions of A.D. 1738, 1756, 1769, &c., the appointment of Mr. Daniel Cox, for New Jersey, in America, is recorded under the Grand Mastership of the Duke of Norfolk, in 1729. The Grand Sec. died soon after May 1768. On the 28th October of the same year Thomas French was invested with the collar of that important office, and replied to Henry Price the month after, reminding him of the appointment of Robert Tomlinson, as Prov. Grand Master for New England, America, and that therefore his proper time to have made a complaint was immediately after such appointment became known. It seems to us that a mistake might have possibly occurred, and the name of Bro. Price, not have been properly registered A.D. 1733, but we cannot see how William Reid, Grand Secretary A.D. 1733, and John Revis, Grand Secretary A.D. 1735, could both fall into the same error, for Bro. Prince says his commission was extended to all North America A.D. 1735, and yet neither the original appointment nor the extension of authority are registered in the records, or noticed in any edition of the Constitutions from A.D. 1738 to 1769, although a slight reference is made in the Constitutions A.D. 1784 (but not authoritative), after which date the list of deputations was discontinued.

In the latter edition the name of Henry Price simply occurs under the heading of Provincial Grand Masters, and is never in any other way acknowledged.

In the Constitutions of A.D. 1738, we find that Randolph Tooke was appointed Prov. G.M. for South America (1735); Roger Lacy was deputed to constitute a lodge at Savannah, of Georgia, 1735, and in addition to Bro. Tomlinson for New England under the Earl of Loudon, John Hammerton was made Prov. M., for South Carolina in the same year (1736). James Watson was Prov. G.M. of the Island of Monserrat, in America, A.D. 1737, and Capt. William Douglas, for Islands in the same country, where no P.G.M. was appointed. Captain Richard Riggs, became P.G.M. of New York, under the same Grand Master, the Earl of Darnley, A.D. 1738.

By reference to the Constitutions of A.D. 1756, we see that Thomas Oxnard received a deputation to be Prov. G.M. for North America A.D. 1742, and under the Grand Mastership of Lord Byron, between 1747 and 1751, the following appointments were also made, viz., William Allen, for Pennsylvania, and Francis Golet for New York. Under the rule of Lord Carysfort, G.M.; George Harrison became Prov. G.M. of New York 1752-3, and when the Marquis of Carnarvon was G.M., Peter Leigh was Prov. G.M. for South Carolina. Who then would believe that Henry Price was commissioned as P.G.M. of all North America, A.D. 1735, and subsequently, when so many appointments were made and registered during the same time? To us it appears simply ridiculous, and that Henry Price could have had no just claim to any such office at all.

In writing to Bro. the Rev. John Entick, A.D. 1754, when recommending Bro. Gridley, Bro. Price had an excellent opportunity to make good his claim as the Prov. G. Master of North America from 1735, and have the same admitted in the Constitutions of A.D. 1756 and 1769, but in neither does any such an acknowledgment appear, so we are compelled to believe Bro. Price was unable to do so.

The fact also of Bro. Jacob Norton discovering that the entry in the records of Massachusetts was not made until 1751, and "then not an honest transcript of a true original" must cause the balance of evidence to be unfavourable to the claims of Henry Price.

We shall be glad to hear the final decision, when Bro. Norton has evidence sufficient to warrant it.

PEACE.

BY BRO. CHALMERS I. PATON,

A P.M. of Lodge Caledonian, No. 392, etc., etc.

"On earth peace, goodwill towards men," was part of the song of angels who appeared to the shepherds of Bethlehem, praising God. Freemasons of all nations and creeds, acknowledge a belief in God. And these words, just quoted, inscribed in large characters, are to be seen in many of our ancient buildings erected by the Freemasons, and also on some of our modern buildings—the London Exchange for example—in which men of almost all nations and creeds intermingle to exchange with each other the produce of their respective countries, and where it may be said that the word of God is perfectly fulfilled, "I will gather them all together." But if we have its fulfillment, in some measure, in the commerce of the world, we have the parallel of this also in Freemasonry, in which a universal brotherhood is recognised in all who meet in the same lodge. The importance of peace is one of the early doctrines taught to every Craftsman, for it is only by peaceful labours with his brethren, who are joined with him in the work of Freemasonry, that he can achieve any success. Freemasonry demands peace as one of the most essential conditions of its prosperity; and every Freemason is bound not only to be peaceful as a member of his lodge and as a citizen of the world, but is taught to promote peace according to his ability amongst all around him. The brotherly kindness which Freemasons are required to exhibit, eminently tends to produce peace amongst men, not only within, but beyond the bounds of the Masonic body. Masonic brethren are the first and immediate objects of it, but it extends on every side, radiating like light, with no determined limit, but the power of making itself felt; and the benefits of it are enjoyed by all with whom in any way the Mason comes in contact. Peace is painted in the form of a matron adorned with olives, laurels, and roses. The peculiar emblem which represents peace, is the caduceus—a white staff, borne by ambassadors in ancient times, when they went to treat of peace. The dove with the olive branch in its bill is also a familiar symbol of peace, and is generally worn by the Stewards of a lodge, and sometimes adopted as the jewel of the Deacons in lodges.

It is often given as a reason for not admitting ladies into a Masonic lodge while the lodge is at work, that if they were there one brother might get jealous of another, and there would be no peace in the lodge. It is however, certainly a law of Freemasonry derived from the ancient landmarks, that no woman can be admitted into the Order, and it is needless to enquire into the reason on which this law is founded, as the landmarks are unchangeable. But the ancient rule of Freemasonry, providing for peace as one of its requirements, and necessary elements, is unquestionable and cannot be changed, for, indeed, it is one of the landmarks.

"Peace on earth." There is more of it, happily for mankind, than there once was. The influence of Freemasonry has been felt in every part of the world, and has greatly, although not thoroughly, prevailed.

Hundreds of years ago, Britain was everywhere distracted by wars; civil wars often raging both in England and Scotland; the wars of the Roses, in particular, distracting, weakening, and desolating England for a long term of years; whilst, also, at least in Scotland, baron often waged war against his neighbour baron, and feuds distracted particular districts in which the nation as a whole had no interest but to suppress them, yet which the central government had not power to suppress; and, at a much more recent date, the conflicts of clans were incessant in the northern part of the country. How different is the scene in the present day, when we find the children's children of these very clans intermingle with each other in the same lodges in the northern districts, and many of them wearing the tartan of their clans as a colour by which their lodge is known. And as these clans, which formerly waged war one against another, have now become welded together so as to form an integral part of one great nation, let us hope that other nations may soon be gathered together, that peace may prevail over all the earth, and that there will be an end of wars and rumours of wars among the nations of the earth. Self-interest sometimes prevails to secure peace on the earth, but better far it is that it should be secured by the out-going of the heart.

Let every Freemason seek to maintain peace in that best way, by showing brotherly kindness and tenderness in his whole intercourse with his brother Masons, with whom he has promised to work in peace.

LEAVES FROM MY LIBRARY.

BY MARMADUKE MAKEPEACE.

The next extract I shall give is one of a different character to the last. It portrays a state of society now, happily, forgotten in the freedom and civilization of modern times, but it is none the less instructive to review the manners and customs of the past, and to compare our own lot with the barbarism which prevailed of old. Had it not been for the potent influence exercised by secret societies, mankind would not now be enjoying many of the privileges of free thought and free action, and it is therefore interesting to note the earlier phases of those little associations that paved the way for modern freedom. I am glad to observe that a writer in the THE FREEMASON is unravelling this subject, but as my extract refers chiefly to a political organization which existed for some time in Provence, and the particulars of which I have gathered from an obscure work called "Ipsoboé," I trust I shall not be deemed trespassing on debateable ground, or pushing my plough over other men's fields. I yet hope to hear of a grander response to the appeal for "suitable extracts" from such men as Bros. HUGHAN, HOCKLEY, HEMSWORTH, IRWIN and BUCHAN, who are blessed with more extensive libraries than M. M.

In the twelfth century the Queen Zenaira, daughter of Raymond Beren, Count of Toulouse, governed Provence, and held her court at Aix. She was celebrated for her charms, and still more so for her virtue and benevolence; but, alas! her kingdom, given up to all the horror of civil discord, presented a most deplorable picture of anarchy and disorder.

In these unfortunate days the art of reigning was not looked upon as a problem, the solution of which was to form the glory of orators and the reputation of factions; men had not yet imagined those luminous modes of government which have since been developed, reviewed, corrected, commented, and which have been handed down to our times with texts, variations, and patents of perfection. Those marvellous discoveries had not yet been made, which in our days render happiness and repose imperturbable: still they believed they were enlightened, and perhaps they were so; for at least they had no need of any other luminaries. When God said, "Let there be light," there was light; and yet He had not created the moon nor the sun, and the stars were still to be made.

The sovereigns of the twelfth century, always tottering upon their thrones, were engaged in a continued contest with foreign princes, with the clergy, the nobles, and the people. Within their own domains, and according to their several opportunities, each party enjoyed a triumph by turns: the laws made to-day were not in operation to-morrow. Persons who were caressed in the morning, were perhaps banished at night; a place was a burthen, an ordinance a pastime, an elevation a trial; and the grand chariot of potentates, either stuck fast or broken down, changed horses every hour, and only advanced to be overturned (a). The reins of the car of monarchy were spiders' webs, the roads were bad ones, and the horses were jades.

But let us take the history of the fair province a little higher up. This kingdom, one of the first of the Roman conquests in Gaul, passed to the Ostrogoths. The change was not for the better, but we have seen worse since (b).

The new possessors had neither strength nor talent to preserve their prize, and they yielded it to the Frank kings. Shortly afterwards a legion of subaltern tyrants, calling themselves the heirs of Clovis, came to distribute justice in Provence, and Themis fled weeping to Heaven. Then came the Lombards, who drove out the Franks; the Saxons came and drove out the Lombards; the Italians came and drove out the Saxons; and then the plague came and drove out every body. New masters brought new miseries; and although so many absolute powers had succeeded each other so rapidly, it was discovered that the plague had been the most humane and reasonable (c). After a long course of disasters the plague and the conquerors were both expelled. In a decisive battle, fought with the latter two Provençal warriors performed prodigies of valour. Armed to the very teeth, they seemed to be the kings of slaughter, and were named the two devils. After the battle, and when the victory had been gained, they were obliged to raise their visors; and, to the surprise of every one, it turned out that the two devils were two holy bishops (d).

The Saracens, the children of Allah, in their turn pillaged Provence; with different manners came a different sort of plunder. A saviour appeared at length; Charlemagne drew his sword, and the French empire was founded.

But a dark night succeeded to this bright day; little despots came in the place of the great king; confusion followed order. The successors of Charlemagne dismembered the great empire, and the kingdom of Provence became a fief of the monarch of Germany.

The famous Bozon revolted; he stirred up the whole of Provence, and declared the nation free. Then turning this national liberty to his own profit, the independent chieftain procured himself to be crowned. Everything yielded to his warlike genius. The Emperor of Germany recognised Bozon as king, and gave him his sister for a wife. All the neighbouring monarchs bowed before the hero; and the Pope, having a great respect for his sword, confirmed, absolved, blessed, and anointed him.

This great man descended to the tomb: his successors reigned for some time with glory; but that race degenerated, and, on a sudden, the dynasty changed—Raymond Berenger, Count of Barcelona, became King of Provence.

Raymond Berenger, however, was not altogether an usurper; he had married a princess of the royal family of Provence; and no male heir of the Bozons appearing to claim the purple, he caused himself to be recognised as the legitimate sovereign; first through his right by marriage, which was subject to discussion; and, secondly, by the right of conquest, which was indisputable.

(c) It was brought from Spain to Marseilles in 589. The whole city was depopulated, and became a vast cemetery. (Greg. Turon. l. ix. c. 22.) It ravaged Provence four times in the same century.

(d) They were called Salomius and Sagittarius; one of them was Bishop of Embrun, and the other of Gap. See "La Chronique de St. Denis," l. iii. c. 5.

THE BLOOD IN OLD AGE.—As age advances the blood becomes thin and cloudy—or, in a full habit, thick and cloudy. The failing of the powers of life requires extra nutrition and support, and the blood yielding the excess required is soon overcharged with carbon, which gives to it the cloudy appearance. Being then impure, day by day the vitiated matter increases, and the body suffers from a thousand ailments. "The Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, supplies the extra nutrition to the blood and restores to it its florid hue, and then the progress of decay is arrested and the ailment disappears—man lives out his days, and the sunset of life is unattended with suffering. Testimonials with each bottle from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore, General Wm. Gilbert, of the Indian Army; and Rev. Francis Monck, of "The Gospel Evangelist." Ordered also for Apothecaries' Hall, London. Sold by all druggists, in bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Pills and Ointment, each in boxes 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.—Caution: Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—[Advt.]

CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

OPIATES, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthmas, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA,

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC COCOA, OR CHOCOLATE POWDER.

Guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity of flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocos and Chocolates (BEING ALL COCOA). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two or more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it requires no cooking, but is MADE INSTANTANEOUSLY by POURING BOILING WATER or MILK on the Powder. SPECIALLY PREPARED FOR EXPORT, in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d., and 20s.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE.
THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hæmorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 14d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 1s., by all chemists.

Prepared and Guaranteed by
Mr. PRICE, Analytical Chemist,
and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour-street, and 30, Duke-street, Portman-square, London, W.; or through the following agents:—

DO YOU KEEP YOUR OWN HORSES?
 No; we find we can do better by sending to POWELL, where we can get every description of Cart or Van at five minutes' notice. He will contract to take goods of every description to or from any of the Docks or Wharves, at per ton, or any job you offer him. Address POWELL, Carman and Contractor, 1, Carthusian-street, Aldersgate-street, City, E.C.

Picture Frame Makers, &c.
H. MORRELL, direct Importer of the best Foreign Frame and Room Mouldings, can now offer to his numerous customers every requisite required in the trade at a great reduction. H. M. has opened another establishment, 68, Gray's-inn-road, opposite the entrance to Gray's-inn-square, where all orders will receive the same attention as usual. Country customers would do well by writing either to 18, Great St. Andrew-street, Bloomsbury; 63, King-street, Long-acre; or 68, Gray's-inn-road, Holborn, thus saving traveller's commission. For trade list send stamped directed envelope. Veneered Maple, Walnut, Rosewood, at the lowest prices.

GLENFIELD STARCH
 is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry.
 THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundry, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

Now Publishing, in 12 numbers, at Two-pence each, supplied to Subscribers only.

THE HISTORY OF THE STOCKTON AND DARLINGTON RAILWAY, and its various Branches, from its Commencement to the Present Time; by GEORGE MARKHAM TWEDDELL, F.S.A. Scot. and Newc.; Fellow of the Royal Society of Northern Antiquaries, Copenhagen; author of "Shakespeare, his Times and Contemporaries," "The Bards and Authors of Cleveland and South Durham," "The Visitor's Handbook to Redcar, Coatham, and Saltburn-by-the-Sea," &c., &c.

The work is illustrated by a clear and correct Map of the District; a splendid Portrait of the late Edward Pease, Esq., "the Father of Railways," engraved on steel by Miller, of Edinburgh; and by several neat woodcuts, engraved especially for this History, by the celebrated W. J. Linton and others. The edition is limited to 1000 copies. The numbers will be left at the residences of Subscribers as soon after publication as convenient, and the Publishers particularly request that each number may be paid for on delivery. Where copies are forwarded by post, the book-postage will have to be charged to the Subscribers.

"Mr. George Markham Tweddell, of Stokesley, a Cleveland author of some note, and the writer of several useful and meritorious publications, announces for speedy publication a History of the Stockton and Darlington Railway Company. Mr. Tweddell is a veteran man of letters, and the history of the first English railway—the result of the enterprise of a few Quakers, and of the engineering skill of a then unrecognized genius—will have more than common interest in this age of railway locomotion. Mr. Tweddell has access to many important documents and other private sources of information, and his History will be enlivened by descriptive sketches of the most noteworthy scenes which diversify the route."—Whitby Times. All persons wishing to procure copies of the book are requested to forward their names and addresses immediately to Messrs. TWEDDELL & SONS, Cleveland Printing and Publishing Offices, Stokesley and Middlesbrough.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies. The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.

COLLARD MOUTRIE, PATENT PIANOFORTE MANUFACTURER,

HAS successfully shown that practically the musical public can have the French low pitch, as well as the English Philharmonic high pitch both available in one instrument. The facility with which this is effected enables the performer to adopt either at his or her option in an instant. This invention, which is secured by Royal Letters Patent, can be applied to any Pianoforte. On view between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, SOUTHAMPTON ROW, RUSSELL SQUARE, LONDON, and at the principal Musical Instrument Dealers in the country.

Reviews.

The Lost House of Israel has been an interesting search in all ages, and it is singular to observe that when people have been found that have been thought to correspond with them, the belief was mainly urged because Freemasonry was found existing with such people. Thus the half-civilised tribes of the North American Indians were said to be lost Israel as much from the fact that Freemasonry formed them into brotherhoods as from anything else, and the same may be said of the Nestorians.

The book before us gives considerations of Israel that appear to have been overlooked, and with much scriptural evidence insists that Israel, when lost, was to become the chief of the nations, the most powerful in army and navy. That its mission was to "possess the gates of his enemies," to become an island nation with large colonies—becoming "a nation and a company of nations." That it was given to Israel only to have possessions, that should form a kind of cord, or measuring line, that should encompass all the other nations of the earth. That they were to have the multitudinous seed, to be in a position able to abolish the slave trade, undoing "heavy burdens," letting the "oppressed go free," and breaking "every yoke." That they were to be foremost in Christian and missionary spheres, to "blossom and bud and fill the face of the world with fruit." The author gives seventeen identifications, that are most striking, and although Freemasonry is not included amongst them it certainly would make an eighteenth, and if the identity could be received as established it would at once account for the deep-seated root that Freemasonry has in this country, and should fortify us with additional authority to extend the ramifications of our brotherhood throughout our land and colonies. We therefore recommend the brethren to give the work a perusal.

"I HAVE used Perry Davis's Vegetable Pain-Killer in my family for bronchitis and bowel complaints, and often given it to my workmen, and always with the most complete success. I consider it the very best family medicine in use.—JOHN WINSTANLEY, Cart Proprietor, Liverpool, Jan. 2, 1869.—Perry Davis & Son.

KNIGHT TEMPLAR JOTTINGS.

In resuming our sketches of the Masonic Knights Templar, we only do so for a short while; as this one and the next will conclude our "Jottings" on the above subject. Various circumstances have conspired to prevent our writing the "parts" regularly, but we intend this and the next to follow consecutively, and then hope to proceed with other departments of Masonic work which we have in hand.

We do not believe in a connection between the Masonic Order and the Ancient Templars at all. The origin of the degree seems to be thus: Several Masons anxious to Christianise Freemasonry (and thus alter its universal and unsectarian character), started the Masonic Knights Templar about the middle of the last century—just as with the Knights of the "Red Cross" and other well-known chivalric degrees—and thought they would secure their success by thus linking the Masonic element with the original orders so-called. Bro. Lawrie, in his "History of Freemasonry" and the "Grand Lodge of Scotland," says, "That to prove that the Order of Knights Templars was a branch of Freemasonry would be a useless labour, as the fact has been invariably acknowledged by Freemasons themselves." We know the Knights Templar not only possessed the mysteries but performed the ceremonies, and inculcated the duties of Freemasons. We, too, believe that to attempt to prove the Knights Templar a branch of the Masonic Order would be an useless labour, but not for the same reason as Bro. Lawrie. We consider such proof cannot be given, as no such connection between the two bodies ever existed. Not the shadow of any evidence has been forthcoming to establish such a claim, and it is only placing a powerful and influential society on a false foundation to assert it to be a branch of Ancient Freemasonry. The only pretension the Order has to be considered as allied to Masonry consists in the fact that its members are now chosen from the latter society. The excellent historian of the "Knights Templars and the Hospitallers of St. John" (Bro. Richard Woof, F.S.A.) is careful not to claim such a distinction for these orders, and it would be well for those who are anxious to know facts to read his excellent little work, before being committed to Bro. Lawrie's opinion. Some go so far as to state "The different Orders of Masonry are without doubt only counterfeits of the Order of the Temple, which have arisen in the different countries where the first Knights had retired." This notion is a most absurd one, as it can be easily proven that the Operative Masonic body from which we are descended existed long before Knight Templary. Bro. Woof remarks that such a claim is "too comprehensive as referring to Craft Masonry simply, there being reasonable proof of its existence before the retirement of any of the Knights became necessary.

The "Grand Chapter" of Scotland is believed by many to hold a superior position (in fact unique) with respect to the Order of the Temple. In the statutes of A.D. 1856, which we have before us, we find that "there is but one chapter General and one Grand Master for the whole world; and from the Order having been suppressed in 1309 in all countries except Scotland, it shall always be held in that Language." A more presumptuous statement or unfounded claim was never made by any body, and savours so much of credulity and sheer disregard of facts that we really wonder it was ever allowed to appear in any work or document authorised and issued by the "Chapter General." H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, then Grand Master of the English branch, granted a warrant to the Scotch Templars, by virtue of which the charter dated 19th June, 1811, constituted them "Knights of the Holy Temple," &c., and Alex. Deuchar was appointed Grand Master ad vitam. After which followed Admiral Sir David Milne, G.C.B., and others. Hence to pretend to a superiority under such circumstances would be like unto any Craft lodge established A.D. 1811 setting itself up as a superior body to the Grand Lodge which warranted it.

We believe that the "Early Grand Encampment" of Ireland had a Craft origin—viz., from "Mother Lodge Kilwinning," Ayrshire, Scotland; not, however, to propagate Knight Templary, but the three Craft degrees, in a lodge called the High Knight Templars. Some curious correspondence with reference to this subject, in which Bro. Lyon, of Ayr, was able to prove clearly that "Mother Lodge Kilwinning" knew nothing of the Knights Templar degree, never did, and is never likely to, and that the warrant was granted for purely Masonic purposes. The Grand Encampment of Ireland, however, assumes no such prominent and anomalous position as the body in Scotland. Bro. Woof well observes of himself that he was influenced by the statements made by the Scotch authorities, "but failing to procure information which he could offer as from an official source, he could present only the result of his own inquiries, and he is bound to say that in this result he finds no stronger claim than is possessed by those institutions of the Order from time immemorial existing in England." We go further, and say that the perusal of Bro. Woof's "sketch" will show the writer does not believe that the claims of Scotland re Knight Templary are so good as England. We think not, either. For some curious accounts of Knight Templary in the North of Scotland we respectfully refer our readers to the history of the lodges at Banff we wrote in THE FREEMASON when it was first started. Generally speaking, the Royal Arch was required as a pre-requisite for Knight Templary (the only exception we know of being when non-Masons were introduced under the Scottish rule for a short time), and as Royal Arch Masonry has not been shown to have had an existence prior to A.D. 1740, we think it pretty clearly established that Knight Templary under the wing of Freemasonry had its origin somewhat later in the same century. We are told that the Knights Templar and the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine are mentioned in the "Rite of Observance" by Baron Von Hurd A.D. 1745. We should like this point cleared up. Much has been said about the connection of Knight Templary with the Grand Lodge of all England held at York. Bro. Yarker is an authority on this point, and in his admirable "Notes" proof is given that makes this connection (to say the least) appear very probable. However, nothing older than 1779 has been discovered with respect to the Grand Body and Knight Templary, and so far, the United States appear to possess the oldest document in reference to the degree—viz., 1769, particulars of which are given by me in THE FREEMASON for December 17th, 1869 (No. 41, vol. 2). The extract in question is to be found in Moore's Masonic Magazine, December, 1865. We do not state it to be thoroughly trustworthy, but merely mention the fact of this reference to Knight Templary so early as 1769 in connection with Royal Arch Masonry in the United States, to secure confirmation or otherwise. We are just looking at the "Laws and Regulations" of the "Cross of Christ Encampment," London (when Bro. Dr. R. T. Crucefix was the E. Commander, A.D. 1837), prior to finishing these hurried notes, and are reminded of the claim made by some brethren that Bro. Dr. Henry Beaumont Leeson was a York Mason, and by virtue of such authority he had power over the ancient Order of Harodim, and was especially qualified to be the Grand Commander of the thirty-third degree, &c., and also absorb the Rose Croix and N.P.U. given by Knight Templar Encampments. We think this able brother was well qualified to be the chief of any such Order, as he has few equals in Masonic knowledge or research, but we would not rest his claims on the foregoing bases, as we believe the learned doctor was initiated under the Grand Lodge of England, took the Royal Arch degree under similar authority, was made a Knight Templar in the above Encampment, and, what is more, received the degrees of Rose Croix and "N.P.U." in the same Encampment on the 5th May, 1837. Some time since 1837 the Knights Templar appear to have waived their right to give these two degrees (excepting such as the Baldwin Bristol), but it is rather curious to note that the former chief of the Order that now claims authority throughout England to control these degrees, actually obtained them in a Knights Templar Encampment. We hope these and other facts will hasten the establishment of a "Council of Rites" to work and control all the degrees above the Royal Arch (including the "Mark"), and thus place the whole on a legitimate, independent, and fair basis, as ably advocated in an excellent leading article in THE FREEMASON for May 14th.

The SYMBOLISM & SIGNIFICANCE OF NUMBERS.

By BRO. WILLIAM CARPENTER, P.M., P.Z.

There has been entertained, from very remote times, a belief that the six days of creation multiplied by a thousand, the days being interpreted as prophetic days, that is a day for a year, fixes the commencement of the sabbatism of rest promised to the people of God. This was a common opinion among the Jews. Rabbi Eliezer says, "The blessed Lord created seven worlds, but one of them is all Sabbath and rest in life eternal." And so, too, Bereschita Rabba, "If we expound the seventh day of the seven thousand years, which is the world to come, the exposition is, 'He blessed it,' because that in the seventh thousand all souls shall be bound up in the bundle of life. So our Rabbins of blessed memory have said in their commentaries on 'God blessed the seventh day,' the Holy Ghost blessed the world to come, which beginneth in the seventh thousand of years." Plato held the like opinion, and amongst the early fathers holding the opinion may be mentioned Barnabas, Irenæus, Cyprian, Lactantius, and Ambrose. The same opinion is now entertained by the most learned and sober-minded students of prophecy, and although most of them abstain from dogmatizing about the year when the 6,000 will be completed, and the sabbatic thousand, or millenium, commence, they all look for it within the present century, or early in the next. It is a noticeable fact, that Captain Baker, by a process of rotation, peculiarly his own, and which has certainly brought out many dates exactly corresponding with history, and Mr. W. C. Thurman, an American expositor of the "Sealed Book of Daniel," who has tested the Hebrew chronology by strict astronomical verities, concur in placing the end of the 6,000 years in October, 1875. I mention the fact, as a very curious one, without venturing any judgment upon it.

But, now, some one may ask, where is the utility of all this speculation on numbers? And some may deem it trifling. That I believe has been the case with many things ultimately found to be of great value; and if it shall be found, as I think it will be, that numbers are used with great significance and emphasis in the sacred writings, who shall say, that as a means of exegesis, a knowledge of their symbolic value may not be of great importance? But apart from this, the ancient mysteries cannot be read and understood without such knowledge. Many things otherwise insignificant, or even puerile, will be found expressive of some hidden truth when read by the light which the symbolic use of numbers supplies; and beyond that, and to bring the matter home to ourselves, it may be added, that a perfect knowledge of Freemasonry cannot be acquired without some study of the subject.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—"In speaking of the 'Blood Purifier,' old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond. says: 'I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood.' March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says: 'I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles.'—For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy. In bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in boxes, 1s. 2½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecaries' Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.

Obituary.

EARL HOWE,

P.D.G.M., and P. Prov. G.M. Leicestershire and Rutland.

The town and county of Leicester have sustained a poignant and irreparable loss. A nobleman who, for more than half a century, attracted to himself an amount of respect and veneration which it falls to the lot of but few among us to attain, has been removed from our midst. We allude to the removal by death of Earl Howe. The sad event, although long anticipated and for some time seen to be inevitable, has nevertheless fallen upon the population of our borough and county with all the force of a sudden and unexpected calamity. On the evening of Thursday, the 12th inst., Richard William Penn Curzon-Howe, G.C.H., P.C., first Earl, expired at his lordship's town residence, 8, South Audley-street, full of years and honours, esteemed by all classes, lamented by all parties, and leaving behind him a memory which will continue to be respected, as long as any merit is attached by men to a faithful discharge of the duties of the public, or of the kindly amenities of private life. The immediate cause of death was, be believe, his old enemy, the gout, but for several years his lordship's health has been seriously deranged, and this, coupled with his advancing years, had prepared the public mind and that of his friends and relatives for his decease. His lordship was son of the Hon. Penn Asheton Curzon (eldest son of the first Viscount Curzon) and the Baroness Howe.

He was born at Gopsall, December 11th, 1796, and succeeded his grandfather as Viscount Curzon in 1820, and his mother as Baron Howe in 1835. In 1825 he married Lady Harriet Georgina Brudenell, second daughter of the sixth Earl of Cardigan (who died in 1836), by whom he had seven sons and three daughters. His lordship married secondly (in 1845) Anne Gore, second daughter of the late Vice-Admiral Sir George Gore, K.C.B., Maid of Honour to Queen Adelaide (the late Queen Dowager), by whom he has two sons and one daughter. The family creations are the Baron Howe, of Langar, 1788, Baron Curzon, of Penn, 1794, Viscount Curzon, 1802, and Earl Howe, 1821. His lordship was the patron of thirteen livings—the vicarage of Acton and incumbency of Charsfield, Suffolk; the incumbency of Curzon Chapel, London; the vicarage of Penn, the incumbency of Penn-street and Tyler's-green, and the vicarage of Little Missenden, Buckinghamshire; the rectory of Gotham, and the vicarage of Radcliffe-on-Soar, Nottinghamshire; the rectory of Congerstone, the vicarage of Shackerston, the incumbency of Twycross, Leicestershire; and the incumbency of Nether Whitacre, Warwickshire. His lordship's predecessor was his grandfather, Assheton, Curzon, Esq., first Viscount Howe, who was born February 22nd, 1733, and was raised to the barony 1794, and afterwards advanced to the viscountcy 1802, and who married, first, 1756, Esther, daughter of William Hanner, Esq., (died 1764), and by her had issue one son and two daughters; secondly, in 1766, Lady Dorothy Grosvenor, sister of the first Earl Grosvenor, and by her had issue two sons and two daughters; and thirdly, Anna Margaretta, daughter of Thomas Meredith, Esq., and died 1820, without issue from the last marriage. Her ladyship, as above stated, died in 1835. His lordship was Lord Chamberlain in the household of her Majesty Queen Adelaide, from her accession to the throne in 1830 till her death, and was one of her Majesty's most faithful and confidential servants. At the memorable commemoration at Oxford in 1835, when William IV. and his illustrious consort attended, Lord Howe was honoured with the degree of D.C.L. In his capacity of Lord Chamberlain to Queen Adelaide, he accompanied her Majesty to Malta, and subsequently to Madeira and Germany. Having filled for some years a prominent position in the Court of the Queen Dowager, he took no part in the political matters of the day. He was a Trustee of Rugby School, a Governor of the Charterhouse (we believe the oldest governor of that institution), and since 1860 had been Lieut-Colonel Commandant of Prince Albert's Own Leicestershire Yeomanry Cavalry. The deceased nobleman is succeeded by his eldest son, Viscount Curzon, who was born 1821, was educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford, where he took the degree of B.A. in 1841, is Colonel Commandant of Prince Albert's Own Leicestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, a magistrate for Leicestershire, M.P. for South Leicestershire in the Conservative interest, since 1857 (when he was elected without opposition), and who married in 1846 Harriet Mary, daughter of the late Charles Stuart, Esq., of Critcher House, formerly M.P. for Dorsetshire.

In his political sentiments he was Conservative, and although not an active politician, his support and interest were always given to that party. He never aimed at playing a conspicuous part in politics; he was through a long life a remarkable feature in our social existence as a nation. His position, indeed, constitutes a more curious illustration of English society, and of the combination of circumstances that tend to give a man influence under it, from the fact that he was not a man of leading intellect and oratorical acquirements. Amongst the population of South Leicestershire he was held in the highest consideration by all classes, and enjoyed a social influence little inferior in its indirect effects to the sway which his feudal ancestors enjoyed. Not only was he esteemed as a landlord, not only as a man distinguished for his high honour, for his hearty English hospitality, for the graceful courtesy of his bearing, but also for his genial and generous sympathy with the pleasures, occupations, and feelings of his neighbours. In fine, in all the relations of life he was distinguished by a scrupulously considerate attention to the feelings of others—a quality equally exhibited in matters of the gravest consequence and of the most trivial import. He was charitable in the highest degree; he supported all useful institutions in a munificent manner, and was ever ready to assist the needy to an extent which never, perhaps, can be fully known. He was a sincere friend to the Church of England, and his purse was continually open to all objects which had for their aim the relieving of distress and the promotion of religion. He was by no means intolerant towards Dissenters, and manifested an active interest in everything which tended to the welfare of his native county. In the demise of this deservedly respected nobleman—one whose example all, rich or poor, will do well to imitate—Leicestershire will miss a much valued friend. He had a kind word for every one, alike for the artisan as for the peer, and he has gone to his grave having earned the laurels, with which a good and holy life is always accompanied, namely the respect and esteem of all who knew him. His memory will long be cherished in this district.

Amongst Freemasons his lordship's decease has caused a gap which will not be easily filled. As the Provincial Grand Master of Leicestershire, he fulfilled all the duties of his office with a kindness and courtesy which made him beloved by the "Craft." They ever welcomed his genial presence amongst them, and the fact that he was to preside at any of their meetings was participated in by all the brethren with the greatest satisfaction. A few facts respecting his Masonic career may not be uninteresting to our readers. He was initiated in the Tyrian Lodge, Derby, September 25th, 1815; passed and raised in St. John's Lodge, Leicester, in September and October, 1821, of which lodge until the day of his death he was the oldest member. He was W.M. in 1822-3, and as such laid with Masonic honours the foundation-stone of St. George's Church, Leicester, on the 23rd August, 1823. He was exalted in the Chapter of Fortitude attached to that lodge, October 22nd, 1822; was second Principal 1823-1826, and succeeded Sir F. G. Fowke, Bart., as M.E.Z., 1831-1833. He was one of the founders of the John o'Gaunt Lodge, in 1846, and the Chapter of St. Augustine, at first attached thereto, but since to the Ferrers and Ivanhoe Lodge, at Ashby-de-la-Zouch. He was appointed P.G.M. of Warwickshire in 1844, and retired on account of ill-health in 1852. He was appointed D.G.M.

of England in 1844, which high office he also resigned from the same cause two years later. After the decease of Sir F. G. Fowke, Bart., Lord Howe, on the 18th June, 1856, was appointed Provincial Grand Master of this, his native county, to which in September of last year was annexed the County of Rutland, but after a most prosperous and beneficent rule, on the 8th of December last failing health and advanced years induced him to resign office, to the universal regret of the brethren. On the 15th February, 1859 (on which day he had laid the foundation-stone of the Freemasons' Hall, in the metropolis of the county, and towards which he was a liberal contributor), Lord Howe was advanced as a Mark Master in the Howe Lodge of Mark Masters, and accepted the post of Senior Grand Warden in the Provincial Grand Lodge, under his Deputy in the Craft, Bro. Kelly. The name of the Howe Lodge was adopted as a mark of fraternal respect and esteem for a noble brother, who through a long career of usefulness, has been alike distinguished for his zeal for Masonry, and by the practice in his daily life of the virtues which it inculcates. And now that he has been taken from our midst, his virtues will, we feel sure, be commemorated by the Howe Lodge of Mark Masters through many generations.

His mortal remains were consigned to their last resting-place on Thursday, the 19th inst., at Twycross, near Gopsall, with that strict abhorrence of everything like ostentation which ever distinguished this much-loved nobleman throughout his days. His life had been one of peace, and like a peaceful but dearly beloved neighbour he has gone to rest. The bells of the various churches in Leicester were tolled from two to three o'clock, during the funeral, and subsequently mourning peals were rang.—Leicester Journal.

THE M.W. Grand Master has been pleased to approve of the nomination of W. Bro. Brackstone Baker, P.G.D., as representative of the respective G. Lodges of Tennessee, Missouri, Alabama, and Oregon, at the Grand Lodge of England, and the Grand Lodge of Canada has also given him the rank of Past G.S. Warden of that G. Lodge.

We learn that on the 11th January the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia extended fraternal recognition to the Grand Lodge of Quebec as a sister Grand Lodge; also that at its fiftieth annual communication held in the City of Portland, on the 3rd and 4th May, the M.W. the Grand Lodge of the State of Maine, unanimously recognised the Grand Lodge of the Province of Quebec.

ON the 17th inst., at the Trafalgar, Greenwich, a few members of the Enoch Lodge, No. 11, one of the oldest in London, Bro. E. J. Lewis, W.M., in the chair, met to entertain at dinner Bro. Peter Matthews, P.M., upon the occasion of the presenting him with a testimonial, accompanied by an address, emblazoned on vellum, as a token of their respect and esteem, and in acknowledgment of the very zealous, faithful, and efficient manner in which he has discharged the duties of secretary to the lodge during the past 35 years. The party spent an agreeable evening, and Bro. Peter Matthews responded to the remarks addressed to him by the W.M. with feelings of gratitude and appropriate fraternal sentiments.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks: "By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London.—[Adv.]

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.—Painless Cures.—Sores, wounds, ulcerations, and other diseases affecting the skin are amenable by this cooling and healing unguent. It has called forth the loudest praises from persons who had suffered for years from bad legs, abscesses, and chronic ulcers, after every hope of cure had long passed away. None but those who have experienced the soothing effects of this ointment can form any idea of the comfort it bestows by restraining inflammation and allaying pain. Wherever this ointment has been once used it has established its own worth, and has been eagerly sought after again. In neuralgia, rheumatism and gout, the same application, properly used, gives wonderful relief. In the nursery it displays its curative powers over the ills of infancy, with even greater prominence and happier effects than over the more chronic complaints of maturity.—[Adv.]

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Lodge Tranquillity, No. 185.—This lodge met on Monday week, at Radley's, under the auspices of the energetic and able Master, Bro. Dr. H. Beigel, who in his usual expressive style admitted Mr. Matthews to Freemasonry. He then opened the lodge in the second degree, and Bros. Horneman, Bury, Oppert, Simmonds, and Kotzler were passed. The lodge was then opened in the third degree, and he conferred the sublime degree on Bros. Makower, Graedel, Schnitzler, Beck and Harvey, after which the lodge was closed. The brethren adjourned to one of Bro. Hart's celebrated banquets, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to, Bro. Knappe, the organist of the lodge, presiding at one of Kirkman's grand pianos, materially assisted by other musical brethren on the harp, violoncello, &c.

Nelson Lodge, No. 700.—This excellent working lodge held its regular meeting at the Masonic Hall, Woolwich, on Wednesday, the 18th inst., presided over by their respected W. Master, Bro. Edward Bowles, assisted by Bros. W. D. May, S.W.; Wm. Graham, J.W.; Chas. Norman, S.D.; Chas. Hobson, J.D.; Alex. Watson, I.G.; J. Henderson, P.M. and Secretary; with several P. Masters. The lodge was opened in due form, the minutes of the proceeding meeting were read and confirmed, the cash account was also read and approved. The ballot was taken for Bro. B. Cook, of the Irish Constitution, as a joining member, which proved unanimous in his favor. Bros. W. Willmoth, Gladwin, McCaffery, also B. Wright, of the Lodge of Charity, 563, Umballa, were duly raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons. Bro. Renshaw of the Union Waterloo Lodge, No. 13, was duly passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. This being the meeting for electing officers for the ensuing year, the ballot was taken for the W. Master, when Bro. W. D. May, S.W., was duly elected to that high position; Bro. Geo. Crawford, P.M., was unanimously elected Treasurer; and B. Allison, Tyler. The subject of the installation banquet was then discussed, and after several places were named the choice was given to Gravesend, and a committee was formed to carry the same into effect. Bro. W. D. May, S.W., and W. Master-elect, then expressed his thanks to the brethren for the honor conferred on him, as also did Bro. P.M. Geo. Crawford for the honor of being elected Treasurer. The widow of a Brother was then relieved with the sum of one pound from the funds of the lodge. All Masonic business being ended the lodge was closed in due form.

Panmure Lodge, No. 720.—The annual festival of this suburban lodge took place on Monday last week at the Balham Hotel, there being a large attendance of members and a considerable number of visitors. Bro. Young, S.W., having been presented was inducted according to ancient form into the Master's chair, the ceremony of installation being performed by Bro. Thomas, P.M., while Bro. Hodges, P.M., as on former occasions, officiated as director of ceremonies. The W.M. appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. H. F. Huntley, S.W.; H. F. Hodges, J.W.; Poore, S.D.; Payne, J.D.; Pulman, I.G., &c. A splendid banquet followed the proceedings in the lodge, in the course of which a P.M.'s jewel, manufactured by Bro. Kenning, was presented to the I.P.M. Bros. Wolpert, Palmer, P.G.D. Kent, P.M., &c., and Bro. Stevens, W.M. 1216, and a E.M. of this lodge, returned thanks on behalf the visitors, and a most enjoyable evening was passed.

Macdonald Lodge, No. 1216.—The second anniversary of the establishment of this excellent lodge was held at the Head Quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, Camberwell, on Wednesday, the 11th inst., and although taking place at the moment of the festival of the Girls' School, was well attended. Amongst those present were the W.M., Bro. A. L. Irvine, James Stevens, S.W.; James Hepburn Hastie, as J.W.; Eugene Cronin, Treas.; J. J. Curtis, Sec.; F. T. Dubois, S.D.; S. H. Wagstaffe, J.D.; G. H. N. Bridges, D.C.; W. Worrell, Org.; G. Waterall, I.G.; W. J. Messenger and Herbert Puckle, Stewards; also Bros. Thomas Meggy, G. Stwd., acting I.P.M.; and H. V. Francis, T. W. Cornell, D. Fourdrinier, Rev. G. H. Porteous, J. E. Newton, A. Fletcher, C. Phare, C. Fountain, Arthur Walton, R. Plews, A. Scruby, D. A. Ross, M. S. Larham, W. Dicker, &c., &c. The visitors were, as usual in this lodge, numerous, and we noticed with pleasure the presence of the V.W. Bro. the Rev. W. H. Wentworth A. Bowyer, Rector of Clapham, Past Grand Chaplain of England, and member of the 33^d; the V.W. Bro. Conrad C. Dumas, Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies; Bros. J. C. Fourdrinier and H. C. Levander, Provincial Grand Officers; Bros. W. Gompertz, W.M. 867; Major Palmer (1293), W. F. P. Brandreth (375), S. Davison (167), Quintin Dix (864), A. Williams (49), Dr. J. Lavis (393), &c. The lodge having been opened in due form and the minutes of the preceding meeting confirmed, the report of Audit Committee was presented, received and adopted. The W.M.-elect, Bro. James Stevens, was then presented to the Worshipful Master, and by him was duly installed in the chair of K.S. with full ceremony, and in the presence of a numerous Board of Installed Masters. The brethren below that rank having returned to the lodge and saluted, the officers of the ensuing year were appointed and invested in the following order, viz.:—Bros. F. T. Dubois, S.W.; S. H. Wagstaffe, J.W.; the Rev. G. H. Porteous, Chaplain; Eugene Cronin, Treas.; J. J. Curtis, Sec.; G. Waterall, S.D.; G. H. N. Bridges, J.D.; J. H. Hastie, D.C.; William Worrell, Org.; W. J. Messenger, I.G.; M. S. Larham, Senior Steward; J. E. Newton, Junior Steward; Grant, Tyler. The addresses from the several pedestals were then delivered by the Installing Master, Bro. A. L. Irvine, I.P.M., in his customary and effective manner, and the ceremony having been completed, the unanimous thanks of the lodge were voted to that brother, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes. After the receptions of propositions and notices of motion, the lodge was called off for banquet, which was provided in the large canteen of the corps, by Bro. F. Gordon, of Crosby Hall. The cloth having been cleared, after grace offered by the Chaplain, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were drank. In reply to that of "The Deputy Grand Master and Grand Officers," Bro. Conrad Dumas, A.G.D.C., expressed his deep sense of the hearty response which had been given, and his appreciation of the compliment paid to the Grand and Provincial Grand Officers present. He was constrained to say that they had received that evening unbounded satisfaction in witnessing and taking part in the proceedings of the lodge. More perfect working could not be desired, and there could be no doubt that the Macdonald Lodge had proved true in every respect to the promises made and the expectations formed at the period of its establishment. He regretted that other engagements had rendered necessary the departure, just previous to this toast being given, of the Rev. Bro. the Past Grand Chaplain, as he was assured that it would have given that eminent brother much pleasure to have responded, and to have expressed to the lodge the good opinion he had privately communicated to both the W.M. and himself as to all he had that evening heard and seen. In conclusion, he sincerely hoped that the lodge would continue in the same flourishing condition, and maintain that character for admirable Masonic working which was now so generally acknowledged in the Craft. He would only now add, that as an old member of the First Surrey, his sympathies towards the lodge were strongly enlisted, and that his association at intervals with his former comrades through the medium of the Macdonald Lodge would ever be a source of personal gratification.—The W.M. then proposed "The Initiates and Joining Members of the past year," alluding to the great increase in the number of members, and coupling with the toast the names of Bros. D. A. Ross as the latest initiate, and the Rev. G. H. Porteous as the latest Joining Member.—Bro. D. A. Ross briefly responded, and was followed by Bro. the Rev. G. H. Porteous, the newly-appointed Chaplain, who in the course of his reply delivered a fine oration on the importance and principles of Freemasonry, which we regret that want of space compels us to omit in extenso, and which would materially suffer by abbreviation. It was listened to with manifest delight and earnest attention, and the excellent speaker received a warm acknowledgment from the brethren on its conclusion.—The W.M. proposed "The health of the Visitors," expressing his sense of the honour conferred upon the lodge by the attendance of so many brethren of Grand and Provincial Grand rank, and upon himself by the presence at his installation of the Rector of his parish, a Past Grand Chaplain of England, esteemed and revered by all who knew him, both in respect of his private and public qualities, and of his Masonic attainments. It gave him pleasure to know, that whilst he could hail the majority of the visitors as personal friends, the lodge itself had had, and he hoped would continue to have, frequent opportunities of hailing them also as worthy and distinguished Masons. The visitors present could all be "judged by their works;" their zeal on behalf of Masonry was well-known and appreciated, their presence ever welcome. He called upon the members of the lodge to extend towards them a hearty recognition.—Bro. J. C. Fourdrinier, P.P.G.J.W. for South Wales, replied to the warm demonstration which had followed the toast, thanking the lodge for its hearty reception, and on behalf of the visitors generally expressing their gratification at the evident progress which the lodge had made during the past year. On the occasion of the first anniversary of the lodge he had observed and remarked upon the elements of success, and his anticipations thereupon had proved correct. He continued to look upon the "Macdonald" as a model Craft lodge, and believed he should be able to do so for many years to come. He congratulated the members on their present position, and should hope to have, in conjunction with those whom he now represented, future opportunities of addressing them with similar words of encouragement and praise.—Bro. Alexander L. Irvine, I.P.M., then proposed "The health of the Worshipful Master," and in terms of high eulogium spoke gratefully of the assistance which, as Senior Warden, Bro. Stevens had rendered to him during his two years of Mastership. As the originator of the lodge, and having the necessary qualifications it might reasonably have been expected that instead of just entering upon the duties of W.M. Bro. Stevens would have before now retired from that position, but in the belief that the best interests of the lodge would be thereby advanced, he had held the office of Senior Warden since its establishment. How far the arrangement had fulfilled that belief it was not for him to say, but he could aver that a more zealous and efficient officer than 'he brother now occupying the chair he could not desire to have. His fitness for the position he now held was so well-known and recognised by the lodge, and had been so often the theme of their remarks, that he would not detain them by needless recapitulation, but call upon them to give a cordial reception to the toast he now proposed.—The Worshipful Master responded in brief terms of acknowledgment for the hearty manner in which his health had been drank, and promised a continuance of the same zealous efforts which had been so amply rewarded by his election to the chair. He desired to be excused from further reference to himself, having a much more pleasing duty to discharge, and that was to offer to Bro. Irvine the most earnest thanks of the Macdonald Lodge for his great and valuable services during the past two years, and the admirable manner in which he had performed the duties of Worshipful Master throughout that period. To him must be fairly attributed the prestige which the lodge had attained, for the complete working of the ceremonies and the general perfection of order which had been remarked upon on numerous occasions by visitors were due to his care and ability. He had certainly had the assistance of able and zealous officers, of whom he had always spoken highly, but even that would not have availed had he not himself been perfect. To crown all his meritorious working in the lodge he had now performed throughout, and in a most effective manner, the lengthy and far from easy ceremony of installation, and if ever a brother had earned substantial recognition from his fellow members Bro. Irvine was that man. He (the Worshipful Master) had now to thank him on behalf of all concerned in the interests of the lodge; to offer for his acceptance a P.M. jewel of suitable design, elaborate workmanship, and of not inconsiderable value; and to propose "The health of Bro. A. L. Irvine, I.P.M. and Installing Master."—Song, "What better theme than Masonry?"—Bro. Irvine, in a very telling speech, returned thanks for the manner in which his name had been received, for the handsome jewel which he should value far beyond its intrinsic worth and ever wear with pride and pleasure, and generally for all the officers who had acted under his Mastership had done.—The Worshipful Master next proposed "The Treasurer and Secretary," highly commending the manner in which Bro. Dr. Eugene Cronin had discharged the duties of the former office, and presenting to Bro. J. J. Curtis a magnificent Past Secretary's jewel, voted by the lodge in earnest appreciation of his services for two years, and on his re-appointment for the ensuing year.—Bros. Dr. Eugene Cronin and J. J. Curtis returned thanks, the last-named brother in terms of mingled astonishment and pleasure, the vote of the lodge having been taken in his temporary absence during the evening, and without the slightest information having been afforded him of the intended presentation.—The lodge was then called from refreshment to labour, and the W.M. having risen for the third time, the lodge was closed in perfect harmony and with solemn prayer.—Subsequently the brethren continued under the presidency of the W.M., and the list of toasts was speedily completed, the charities and the benevolent fund of the lodge being duly remembered. At a little later hour than usual, in consequence of delay at an earlier period of the evening, the members and visitors separated, exchanging the sentiment which they had adopted at the preceding anniversary, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again."—[The jewels referred to in the above report were specially designed for the lodge, and were manufactured respectively by Bros. G. Kenning and J. Caney, and both were greatly admired by the brethren present as excellent specimens of artistic skill.]

St. Marylebone Lodge, No. 1305.—An emergency meeting of this lodge (which was consecrated by the Grand Secretary, on the 13th ult.) was held at the Eyre Arms, St. John's Wood, on Thursday the 5th inst., when Messrs. Gutteridge and Smith were initiated as members of the lodge, and eight Brothers were elected as joining members. A committee of five was elected to form a code of bye laws, the lodge was then closed.—On Friday, the 6th inst., the first regular lodge meeting was held, when Mr. Hy. Ashwell was initiated by Bro. S. G. Totall, W.M.; Messrs. Byrd, Horsford, and Shillibeer were initiated by Bro. Codner, P.M., the J.W. of the lodge, assisted most ably by Bro. J. J. Pope, P.M., S.W. The W.M. then delivered the lecture on the tracing board in a very effective manner, indeed the working of the lodge by the principal officers left nothing to be desired. The lodge was then closed in due form. Eighteen of the members and three visiting brothers afterwards sat down to a very bountiful and recherché banquet provided by the worthy host, Bro. Thos. Young. The brethren appeared highly pleased and satisfied with their beginning, as indeed they well may be, for we understand the entire expenses of forming and furnishing the lodge and all other expenses are paid, leaving a sufficient balance in the hand of Bro. W. B. Botting, the Treasurer of the lodge, to pay the expenses for the current year. We may here observe that the lodge furniture is really superb, the pedestals being ebony and gold, and the massive carved and gilt candlesticks with their crimson bases, and everything else in keeping. There appears every prospect of this lodge becoming a highly respectable and influential one.

MIDDLESEX.

Villiers Lodge, No. 1194.—The regular meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Saturday, the 7th inst., Bro. Edward Clark, P.M., (in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. Trickett, G.P. of Middlesex, who has been removed to Keyham Harbour, Devonport,) opened the lodge, supported by Bros. Dodd, S.W.; Allman, J.W.; R. W. Little, P.M., Sec.; Steel, as S.D.; Smale, I.G. The lodge was called at 2 o'clock to enable the work to be done before the opening of the P.G.L., which met under the auspices of the Villiers Lodge, and the minutes were confirmed, and a ballot was taken for Mr. Yeowell, of Isleworth, which proved unanimous, and he was duly initiated into the mysteries of the Order. Bro. Walters occupied the chair, and passed Bros. Verity and Green, and raised Bro. Tomlin. The lodge was resumed in the first degree, and a letter was read from the W.M., expressing his regret at being unable to obtain the necessary leave to enable him to be present. The Prov. G. Master was then announced, and was received by the lodge in due form, and the Prov. G. Lodge was then opened, and after it was closed the officers resumed their places and closed the lodge. The brethren then joined the Prov. G. Lodge at the banquet, a report of which we have already given.

Acacia Lodge, No. 1309.—On Wednesday, May 18th, at the Sebright Arms, Alston-road, Barnet, the first meeting since the consecration was held. Bros. F. Walters, W.M., (assisted by Bros. H. M. Levy, P.M., as S.W.; F. H. Batten, J.W.; E. Sillifant, P.M., Treasurer; G.

Cattel, P.M., Secretary; Richardson, S.D.; J. Clemmans, J.D.; Hall, I.G.) initiated Mr. Kirby into Freemasonry in an impressive manner. Bros. E. Sillifant, P.M., and T. D. Barnard, D.C., were elected Stewards for the Royal Benevolent Institution for 1871; F. H. Batten, J.W., for Boys, and Hall, I.G., for Girls' Stewards for 1871. The lodge was closed. Banquet followed. Visitor, Bro. H. M. Levy, P.M., 188.

Harrow Lodge, No. 1310.—On Friday, May 6th, at the Railway Hotel, Harrow, Bro. R. W. Little, P.M., 975, and Provincial G. Sec. of Middlesex (the officer appointed by the Provincial G.M., Colonel Burlett), assisted by Bros. G. Cattel, P.M. as S.W.; G. Pymm, W.M. 749, as J.W.; Ed. Bumstead, P.M. 548, as I.G.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec., consecrated this the second new lodge opened in the province of Middlesex. Bro. F. Walters, W.M., 1309, installed Bro. J. Coutts, W.M.-designate, as the W.M., who appointed his officers as follows: Bros. E. C. Massey, S.W.; W. H. Green, J.W.; G. Cattel, P.M., Treas.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; E. Harper, S.D.; S. Homewood, J.D.; G. Pymm, I.G.; J. Bavin, P.M., Tyler. Both ceremonies were well and ably rendered. Bro. R. W. Little, P.G. Sec. was unanimously elected an honorary member; and a vote of thanks was heartily given to him for consecrating the lodge. Present: Bros. J. Hervey, G.S.; J. Harrison, S.D.; 27; T. Brewer, 27; C. Atkins, J.D. 27; J. R. Stevens, P.M. 18; G. Kenning, S.W. 1293, 192, 1194, P.G.S. Middlesex; J. C. Hall, 190; G. Stacey, P.M. 209; W. L. Saegert, W.M. 548; T. Lambert, S.D. 548; and many others. Bro. J. Coutts, W.M., undertook to represent this lodge as its Steward at the Girls' School, on Wednesday, May 11th. The lodge furniture was supplied by Bro. G. Kenning of Little Britain, being a duplicate set of the "Acacia." Both sets of furniture gave great satisfaction and have been universally admired.—The first regular meeting after the consecration was held on Tuesday, May 17th, at the Railway Hotel, Harrow, Bro. J. Coutts, A.G.P., W.M., presided. The work, which was done in an admirable manner, was initiating Messrs. J. Harrison and J. Cox; passing Bro. T. Darke, 1275, to the second degree. Seven brethren were elected as joining members. Bros. E. Harper, S.D.; W. H. Green, J.W., and T. H. Lambert, were elected as Stewards for the three Masonic charities in 1871. Bro. Coutts, A.G.P., W.M., announced that his list as Steward on May 11th was £20. The lodge was then closed. A banquet followed. Visitors, Bros. W. B. Waghorn, I.G. 946; T. Darke, 1275, and others. Present, besides those named, Bros. W. H. Green, J.W.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; J. Smith, W.M. 157, as S.W.; E. Harper, S.D.; S. Homewood, J.D.; G. Pymm, I.G., and others.

PROVINCIAL.

BATH.—Royal Cumberland Lodge, No. 41.—The members of this old lodge, together with many distinguished brethren from a distance, held their monthly meeting on Thursday, May 5th, at their newly-erected and handsome hall in Orchard-street. Among the brethren present were Bros. Capt. R. Della Lawson, W.M. Love and Unity, Bradford; Parfitt, W.M. Lansdown Lodge, Chippenham; and Appleby, W.M. Royal Albert Edward Lodge, Weston. The lodge was opened in due form and with solemn prayer; minutes, &c., read and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the second and third degree, and Bros. Capt. Monypenny and Tanner were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. This ceremony, at the request of the W.M., was performed by Bro. Thos. Payne Ashley, P.M., and few, if any, of the large number present will ever forget the very impressive and solemn manner in which the ceremony was rendered. The passages from the V.S.L. were given with great solemnity by the I.P.M., Bro. Cooper, and alternately chanted by the choir, consisting of members of the lodge, under the able direction of Bro. Cater; the effect was pleasing, and gave general satisfaction. After the usual business, the lodge was closed with solemn prayer and in perfect harmony. Between forty and fifty of the brethren and visitors then adjourned to the Castle Hotel, and partook of a capital supper, and under the genial presidency of the W.M. Bro. Mitchell a most agreeable and delightful evening was spent. After the usual loyal toasts were given, Bro. Parfitt, W.M. Lansdown Lodge, in proposing Bro. Cooper's health, paid him a well-deserved compliment, by saying he had been a Mason some 25 years, and had been in a great number of Lodges, but had never seen or heard the charges, prayers, &c., given in so perfect and solemn a manner.—Bro. Capt. Monypenny, in responding to the health of the newly-raised candidates, also paid a just tribute of praise to P.M. Bro. Ashley, by saying how deeply touched he had been by the very feeling and impressive manner in which he had performed his part, and declared that he had made an impression on his mind which would never be effaced. (What a pity, Mr. Bro. Editor, but that all our ceremonies were performed in the same way.) Bros. Jelly (Bruton), Richardson and Sparks (Bradford), Cater, and other Bath brethren gave some capital songs during the evening, and thus brought to an agreeable close the Cumberland Masonic season.

IPSWICH.—St. Luke's Lodge, No. 225.—The usual monthly meeting of this old established lodge was held on the 11th inst., at the Coach and Horses Hotel. Present: J. W. Robb, W.M.; C. Davy, P.M. as S.W.; C. Byford, J.W.; A. C. Barber, Sec.; J. Prentice, S.D.; W. D. Skinner, I.G.; W. T. Westgate, P.M., M.C.; B. W. Syer, Tyler; P.M.'s Jos. Whitehead and Philip Whitehead; members, W. Adams, W. Cuckow, L. Callaway and C. Godball. The minutes of the last lodge meeting and of a lodge of emergency were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Bro. Jobson as a joining member, which proved unanimous. The plates of the buildings of the Boys' and Girls' Schools were agreed to be purchased, framed, and hung in the lodge-room. Bro. Adams was raised to the sublime degree of a M.M., the ceremony being ably rendered by P.M. Jos. Whitehead, the working tools explained by Bro. P.M. W. T. Westgate; time not permitting, the lecture on the tracing-board was deferred until a future occasion. A petition to the Prov. Grand Lodge of Benevolence, for relief in favour of Bro. Jos. Elwood, in great distress, was presented and signed in open lodge. The lodge was finally closed in ancient form with solemn prayer.

LIVERPOOL.—Lodge of Sincerity, No. 292.—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 9th inst., at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, the following officers were at their posts:—Bro. Thomas Wylie, W.M., in the chair; Bros. Hamer, P.M., as I.P.M.; Pelham, S.W.; Wilson, J.W.; R. Wylie, P.M., as Sec.; S. Y. Hess, P.M., Treas.; Hustwick, J.D., and Evans, I.G. Visitors, Bros. Hill (W.M. 1276), and Robinson (W.M. 1013.) The lodge having been duly opened, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The W.M. then opened the lodge in the second degree, and the lecture on the tracing-board in that degree was given in its entirety by that veteran and accomplished Mason, Bro. Hamer, and at its conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was proposed to the lecturer by the J.D., who in the course of his remarks wished to impress on the minds of the younger brethren especially, the necessity of gaining for themselves some of that Masonic lore which Bro. Hamer is so able and willing to impart. The vote being seconded by Bro. Eastwood, was unanimously carried. The lodge was then closed down to the first degree, and arrangements were made for working the seven sections of the first degree at the next regular lodge on June 13th. Nothing more appearing for the good of the Craft in general, or that lodge in particular, it was closed in accordance with ancient custom, when the brethren adjourned to supper, and after an evening spent in pleasant fraternal intercourse, separated at an early hour.

BOTTOMS, WEST YORKSHIRE.—Lodge Prince George, No. 308.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, May 14th, Bro. Charles Frederic Binks, W.M., presiding, supported by a goodly number of P.M.'s, officers, and brethren. The lodge having been duly formed, and the minutes of last meeting read and confirmed, Bro. J. E. Ainsworth proved his efficiency, and was duly passed to the degree of F.C. The lodge was then opened into the third degree, and the ordinary duties gone through. It was then closed down into the first degree, when the W.M. read the correspondence received, amongst which was a fac simile of a letter received from the Right Hon. Earl de Grey and Ripon, in reply to a vote of condolence and sympathy sent to him from the Charity Committee of West Yorkshire on the occasion of his late sad bereavement. £2 was then voted from the lodge fund to Bro. J. Greenwood, P.M., to relieve his immediate necessities, and a subscription was commenced amongst the brethren, which was heartily responded to, and realised a handsome sum, Bro. Greenwood having been a member of the lodge for 40 years. Bro. E. Halliday, J.W., then presented to the lodge (on behalf of four Halifax brethren) a life-like portrait of the Earl de Grey and Ripon, elegantly mounted and framed. The W.M., on behalf of the lodge, was pleased to accept it, and thanks were unanimously given to the brethren for their handsome gift. The lodge was then closed in due form, after which the brethren assembled for refreshment. The W.M. occupied the chair, and after the usual loyal toasts had been responded to, he rose to propose the toast of the evening, "The Right Hon. Earl de Grey and Ripon, newly-installed Grand Master of all England and Provincial Grand Master of West Yorkshire," and in the course of an elegant address, said the members of Prince George Lodge were singularly fortunate in holding their regular meeting on the same day on which the installation of the Grand Master took place, as it enabled them to be amongst the first to acknowledge him at the festive board as the Grand Master of England, and that the Craft throughout the kingdom were fortunate in having so good a Mason and noble a brother to occupy that proud position.—(The toast was drunk in bumpers, with great enthusiasm, honours, and loud cheers.)—The Deputy Grand Master and other toasts, sentiments, and songs followed, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Bro. Siddall presided at the organ, and rendered good service. The words of a new song by Bro. Hartley were handed over to Bro. Halliday to be set to appropriate music. The following is a copy of the new Masonic Song by Bro. Hartley:—

"Come, Brethren, come, let us join in a song,
Let's be happy, for time's on the wing;
To enjoy this short life surely cannot be wrong,
Then we'll drive away care as we sing.
Our hands let us join, and all welcome the sign,
That with mystic import shows our plan,
If a brother be sad, let us make his heart glad,
And give him a lift if we can.

Chorus—Brotherly love, relief, and truth,
Every trouble through life will assuage,
May these precepts divine be a guide for our youth
And a comfort to rest on in age.

"If poverty dwells at a poor brother's door,
Let us each sympathise with his grief;
For he's no less a brother because he is poor,
Then we'll join to afford him relief.
'Tis ever more blessed to give than receive,
And good Masons acknowledge the plan;
And none who have power refuse, we believe,
To give one a lift if they can.

Chorus—To the vile tongue of slander our ears shall be shut,
And base falsehood to speak none shall dare;
For our faith in the merits of Truth we have put,
And we act, as we ought, on the square.

For we form each a link in the chain that shall bind
In its loving embrace, man to man,
Then let none in his duty go lagging behind,
But let each do the best that he can.
Chorus.

NEWPORT, MON.—Silurian Lodge, No. 471.—The monthly meeting of the members took place at the Masonic Hall, Bro. the Rev. Samuel Fox, W.M., and Prov. G. Chaplain, in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, Bros. Wm. Oliver and W. H. Matthews, were passed to the degree of F.C. Freemasons, and Mr. Wm. Henry Penmore, of Cumbrian, being in attendance, was also initiated in Masonry, both ceremonies being most correctly rendered by the W.M. This being the whole of the business, the lodge was closed in harmony.

EAST LANCASHIRE.—Blair Lodge, No. 815.—This rapidly increasing lodge, which now numbers sixty-seven members, was held at the Hulme Town Hall, Manchester, on the evening of the 14th inst., when there was a numerous attendance both of members and visitors. Mr. William Henry Pierce, merchant, and Mr. Izidor Blum, merchant, were initiated by Bro. James Redford, the W.M. Bros. J. Richardson and A. McAllister having passed a satisfactory examination in the F.C. degree, were entrusted with a test of merit, and were afterwards raised to the sublime degree of M.M. by the W.M. A substantial repast was disposed of, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, interspersed with strains of melody, and after spending a delightful and fraternal evening the brethren separated in peace and harmony.

COCKERMOUTH.—Skiddaw Lodge, No. 1002.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the lodge rooms, on Tuesday, the 2nd inst., Bro. Robinson, W.M., in the chair. The minutes of preceding meeting were read and confirmed. This being the usual time for electing the W.M. and Treas. for the ensuing year, Bro. Robinson proceeded to take the ballot for them. Bros. the Rev. H. L. Puxley, was elected W.M.; Evening, Treas.; and Potts, Tyler. It was also resolved that the installation be on the 21st June. There was a good muster of the brethren on this occasion, viz., Bros. Shilton, P.M.; Faithfull, P.M.; T. F. Taylor, S.W.; Jos. Mayson, J.W.; Pearson (Cockermouth), Treas.; Evening, S.D.; Braithwaite, J.D.; Pearson (Lorton), I.G.; Potts, Tyler; R. Brown, W. Taylor, Jos. Allison, W. H. Lewishwaite and S. Thwaite. Nothing further remaining to be done, the lodge was closed according to ancient custom.

BIRMINGHAM.—Fletcher Lodge, No. 1031.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, on Wednesday, the 11th inst. Punctually at 6 o'clock, the W.M., Bro. E. Kent, opened the lodge, assisted by Bros. W. Hale, S.W.; H. Darwin, of the Bedford Lodge, (in the unavoidable absence of Bro. A. Rooke), occupied the chair of J.W.; C. Cooper, S.D.; J. S. Kennedy, J.D.; R. J. L. Brinton, I.G.; Belcher, Org.; and many other brethren. Bro. Dr. Partridge, P.G.O. and Senior P.M. of the lodge, acted as I.P.M. The W.M. was supported by the following visiting brethren: Bros. V. Taylor, W.M., Bedford; John Hutton, W.M. Faithful; S. Cowan, W.M. Grosvenor; W. Wade, W.M. Unity Lodge, Warwick; H. Darwin, Bedford Lodge; and Rev. H. W. Crosby. The minutes of the last regular lodge having been read and confirmed, Mr. Benjamin M'Kay, was duly received into the light of Masonry, according to ancient form. The lodge was then closed in perfect harmony, after which the brethren adjourned to the banquet room, and spent a most happy and social evening.

CONGRESBURY, SOMERSET.—Lodge of Agriculture, No. 1199.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 9th inst., under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. W. Partridge. There were also present Bros. J. R. Bramble, Prov. G. Reg. Bristol; Rev. W. Hunt, Prov. G. Chaplain, Somerset, J.W.; G. J. M. Blackburne, S.W.; Capt. W. Long, Sec. and Treas.; Dr. Hurd, D.C.; T. Pitt, S.D.; E. Linton, J.D.; &c. Bro. Cox, P.G.S., and several brethren from the St. Kew Lodge, Weston-super-Mare, also attended. Bro. Edmund Hurd was passed to the second degree by the W.M. very ably and satisfactorily. The ceremony of raising was postponed until the next lodge night in June, as the candidate was prevented attending. The brethren adjourned from labour to refreshment at an early hour, and spent a very pleasant evening.

WARRINGTON.—Gilbert Greenall Lodge, No. 1250.—The regular meeting of this flourishing lodge was held at the Masonic rooms, when, in the unavoidable absence of the W.M. (R. W. Bro. Greenall), the chair was occupied by W. Bro. Finney, P.M., who was supported by Bros. W. Mossop, S.W.; W. Woods, J.W.; Richardson, Treas.; Hawkins, Rev. N. Postin, J. Hephard, P.M. 148; W. Smith, W.M. 148; Pollitt, E. Auckland, T. Auckland, Crompton, Roberts, P. Leigh, W. Robinson (148), Cassidy (148), T. Pierpoint, J. H. Potter, J. Woods, Brundritt, and a goodly number of other brethren. The lodge was opened in form, and the minutes of the previous regular meeting were read and confirmed. Bros. T. Pierpoint, J. Woods, and J. H. Potter were separately passed to the degree of F.C. by the acting W.M. Bro. W. Smith now assumed the chair, and the brethren were called upon to elect their W.M. for the next twelve months. Bro. Mossop, S.W., was declared to be the W.M.-elect. Bro. Richardson was re-elected Treasurer; James Hannah, Tyler.

BOMBAY.

Lodge St George, No. 549 (E.C.).—The regular meeting of the lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, Mazagon, on 15th March, 1870, when Dr. J. Lumsdaine and Mr. J. B. Larcom were initiated into the mysteries of the first degree.—An emergency meeting of Lodge St. George was held on the 25th March, 1870, for the initiation of Messrs. Gerald Fitzgerald and G. M. Stewart, and for passing Bros. Atkinson, Douglas, Best, Larcom, and Lumsdaine to the F.C. degree.—Masonic Record of Western India.

Lodge Concord, No. 757 (E.C.).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on the 19th March, 1870, when Mr. Husson Khan, son of Bro. Mirza Ali Acbar Khan Bahadour, was initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry.—Ibid.

Lodge Star of India, No. 1062 (E.C.).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Mazagon, on the 3rd March, 1870, when Bro. F. D. Parker, who has been a member of the lodge since its establishment, and twice held the office of Warden, was elected W.M. for the ensuing year; Bro. R. K. Williams was elected Treasurer, and Bro. J. W. Seager, as Tyler; W. Bro. Dr. J. W. Hulseberg was elected a joining member; Bro. H. M. Collins was raised to the sublime degree of M.M.—Ibid.

Lodge Emulation, No. 1100 (E.C.).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Mazagon, on the 17th March, 1870. W. Bro. C. Beard was unanimously re-elected W.M. for the ensuing year; Bro. T. Counsell, Treasurer; and Bro. J. W. Seager, Tyler. Mr. John Hill Perrins was initiated, and Bro. H. J. Fennell passed to the F.C. degree. One candidate was proposed for initiation. His Highness Syed Toorkey having proceeded to Muscat, communicated his wish through a brother to be placed on the absent list.—The annual meeting of this well managed and prosperous lodge, was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Mazagon, on Thursday, April 21st, 1870, and was very numerous attended, as many as 130 members and visitors being present, amongst whom were Right W. Bro. George Taylor, District Grand Master; W. Bro. H. H. Avion, W.M. 757, P.M. 1100, P.D.G.R.; Wor. Bro. C. Thwaites, P.M. 1062, D.G.J.W.; W. Bro. W. H. Hussey, W.M. 944, D.G. Sec.; W. Bro. C. Hyne, W.M. 1270, D.G.S.W.; W. Bro. Pestonjee Bazonjee, W.M. 1189, D.G.P.; and the following lodges represented by brethren present. Lodge Concord (757), Bombay; Lodge St. George (807), Bombay; Lodge Truth (944), Bombay; Lodge Star of India (1062), Bombay; Lodge Eastern Star (1189), Bombay; Lodge Perseverance (351) S., Bombay; Lodge Orion in the West (415), Poonah; Lodge St. David in the East (371) S., Calcutta; Lodge Barton (475) S., Lanowlee; Lodge New Forrest (319), Lymington; Lodge British (334), Cape of Good Hope; Lodge Tweed (261) S., Kelso; Lodge Callender (1052), Manchester. The lodge was opened in the first degree, at 6.40 p.m., with prayer and music, the brethren of the united choir of Lodges Concord (757), and Emulation (1100), being present, with Bro. J. Thomas, D.G.O. and Organist of the Lodge, whose abilities in the musical profession are so well known, and whose valuable services to the Craft are highly appreciated by his Masonic brethren in Bombay. The lodge was passed to the second and then raised to the third degree, when the R.W. the District Grand Master was announced, received, and saluted in due and ancient form. The R.W. the D.G.M. on ascending the dais, said: Brethren, I shall relieve your Worshipful Master of his hiram but for a few moments, and that to assure you of the pleasure it affords me to come amongst you. I should under any circumstances have been present this evening to attend the installation of your W.M.-elect, but I have on this occasion to inform you that I am about to resign that high office which I have had the honour to hold over you for the space of nearly nine years, and I wish you to understand, that I do so, not because I am about to leave this country—not because of any unpleasantness that may have occurred during my time of office—but because I think it high time I should step aside and make way for some other worthy brother. The latter announcement was received with deep regret by all the brethren present. The R.W. the D.G.M. then restored the hiram to the W.M., and the work of the evening was proceeded with. Bro. F. Stith was raised to the high and sublime degree. All other Masons having retired, a board of installed Masters was formed, when W. Bro. C. Beard (who had been re-elected) was regularly and constitutionally installed as Worshipful Master of Lodge Emulation, No. 1100 (E.C.), for the ensuing year. The ceremony of installation was worked by the W. Bro. H. H. Avion, in a style of perfection and impressiveness, well-known to those who have witnessed that worthy Brother. On the re-admission of the brethren the usual salutes were given, and the officers for the ensuing twelve months were appointed or invested as follows: Bros. W. N. McCann, S.W.; G. L. D'Emden, J.W.; T. Counsell, Treasurer; T. A. Hopewell (re-elected), Secretary; J. Thomas, Organist; J. Hartley, D.C.; J. Innes, S.D.; R. F. Goode, J.D.; J. Thomson, I.G.; J. F. Pennock, and J. S. Bennett, Stewards; and Bro. J. W. Seager, Tyler. The W.M. briefly referred to the working of the lodge during the past year, and congratulated the members on the flourishing state of their finances. A grant of Rs 50 was voted to a distressed Brother, and Rs 100 from the general fund, together with a sum to be raised by a subscription amongst the members of the lodge, for the purpose of erecting a tablet to the memory of a deceased Brother. The brethren then adjourned to the Banqueting Hall, where a sumptuous dinner was provided, under the immediate supervision of Bro. J. F. Binnoek, Steward of the lodge. Ample justice having been done to the good things provided, and the cloth having been removed, the W.M. proposed in happy terms the health of her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, which was most loyally received, after which the usual Masonic toasts were given and responded to. Some capital songs were sung during the evening by Bro. J. J. Sandy and others. The last toast of O. B. given by the Right W.M. the D.G.M. to all poor and distressed Masons, at 11.16 p.m., brought to a close this highly successful meeting of an Indian lodge.

ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Panmure Chapter, No. 720.—The installation meeting of this Chapter was held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, on Monday, the 9th inst., and was attended by Comps. H. C. Levander, M.E.Z.; E. Worthington, H.; J. Nunn, P.Z., Treas.; James Stevens, P.Z., Scribe E.; J. Read, P.Z., and a considerable number of members. After confirmation of the minutes of preceding convocation, Comps. E. Worthington was duly installed as M.E.Z.; J. Nunn P.Z., as H.; and R. Harvey as J. The following officers were then invested, viz., Comps. H. C. Levander, P.Z., Treas.; James Stevens, P.Z., Scribe E.; H. Smith, Scribe N.; J. Thomas, P.Z. and P.G.D.C., D.C.; the Rev. W. B. Church, P.S.; Dr. Eugene Cronin, 1st A.S.; C. Hammerton, 2nd A.S.; A. Perrott, Senior Steward, and G. H. N. Bridges, Junior Steward. Bro. Bradley was re-appointed Janitor. Ballots were then taken for Bros. James Hepburn Hastie, William Worrell and Arthur Wolton, all of the Macdonald Lodge, No. 1216, which proving unanimous, those brethren were severally introduced and exalted to the supreme degree of Royal Arch Masons. A very handsome P.Z. jewel was presented to Comp. H. C. Levander in recognition of his services as M.E.Z., and the Chapter was then closed in due form and with solemn prayer. The Companions subsequently met at banquet, when the usual loyal and Royal Arch toasts were given and responded to, and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed under the presidency of Comp. Worthington, the new M.E.Z. We are glad to note that this Chapter is rapidly gaining ground, and becoming one of the best in the South London district.

PROVINCIAL.

CHESTER.—Grosvenor Chapter, No. 721.—A convocation of this Chapter was held on the 4th inst., at which the following Companions were present:—Comps. W. B. A. Bainbridge, Z.; J. P. Platt, I.P.Z.; J. Gerrard, H.; R. W. Worrall, J.; J. McEvoy, S.E.; A. J. Brereton, S.N.; W. Brown, P.S.; H. Allsop, 1st A.S.; W. M. Richmond, Janitor; also E. L. Sellers, M.D., D. H. Gwynne, J. Cunnah, A. McMillan. Visitors, Comps. H. Bulley (P.Z. 537), Thos. Platt (Z. 537), W. Wade (Z. 605, P.Z. 477), E. Friend, F. Stevens (H. 477), R. Gracie (J. 477), H. Barclay, R. Ackerley (N. 477). The business before the Chapter was the exaltation of Bro. T. Hathaway, and a visitation from the Prov. Grand Chapter represented by M.E. Comps. Capt. Cope, P.G.H.; E. G. Willoughby, P.G.J.; Rev. F. Terry, P.G.S.E.; G. Latham, P.G.P.S.; W. Bulley, P.G.A.S. It being the first meeting after the installation, the principal officers retained their previous positions, and the deputation expressed themselves highly satisfied with the manner in which the working of the Chapter had been performed, and stated it was their intention of visiting the other Chapters in the province. After business the Companions retired to refreshment, during which Comp. Gerrard, M.E.H., very ably gave expression to the feelings of the Companions of the Chapter, in presenting on their behalf a handsome time-piece to Comp. J. P. Platt, P.Z., as a recognition of the valuable assistance he has given to the Chapter for several years, thereby placing it in a flourishing condition.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Chapter, No. 1051.—The regular convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday, the 16th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Atheneum, Lancaster. The M.E.Z., Comp. Bagnall, presided, and was supported by Ex. Comps. Mason, H.; Hall, J.; Moore, P.Z.; Comps. Merser, E.; Whimpray, N.; E. Simpson, Airey, Taylor, Watson (Janitor). The Chapter was opened, and formal business transacted. A ballot was then taken and declared to be unanimous in favour of Bro. William Hall, of the Lodge of Fortitude, No. 281, as a candidate for exaltation. Bro. Hall being in attendance was duly exalted to the Royal Arch degree by the M.E.Z. the duty of P.S. in the absence of the Companion holding that office, being undertaken by Comp. Mercer. Ex. Comp. Moore presented to the Chapter an album containing portraits of all the members of the Chapter, which was received by the M.E.Z. on behalf of the Companions, and a vote of thanks awarded to the donor. A candidate was proposed for exaltation, and the labours of the evening being ended, the Chapter was closed in due form.

In our report of the proceedings of the Supreme Chapter of G.E. Kts., K.H., last week the name of Samuel Jones, K.H., 30°, was omitted.

The New Vade Mecum (invented and manufactured by Charles H. Vincent, optician, of 23, Windsor-street, Liverpool) consists of a telescope well adapted for tourists, &c., to which is added an excellent microscope of great power and first-class definition, quite equal to others sold at ten times the price. Wonderful as it may seem, the price of this ingenious combination is only 3s. 6d., and Mr. Vincent sends it (carriage free) anywhere, with printed directions, upon receipt of post-office order or stamps to the amount of 3s. 10d.—[Advt.]

BUSINESS to be TRANSACTED in GRAND LODGE.

AT the next Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, which will be holden on the 1st day of June, several important subjects are likely to be discussed, and in accordance with our usual custom we place the programme before our readers.

After the confirmation of the minutes of several meetings, "The M.W. Grand Master will announce that he has appointed Bro. William Ough, late Grand Pursuivant, to take rank as, and wear the clothing of, a Past Grand Pursuivant." With reference to this we need only say that Bro. Ough has always discharged his onerous duties well and zealously, and is fairly entitled to the position which the Grand Master has been pleased to confer upon him.

The next business will be the election of members of the Board of General Purposes, and here we must raise a protest against the practice which prevails amongst certain brethren of preparing a ready-made list of all the members to be elected, in the hope that none others may be proposed, and that their entire list may be elected. This is a most objectionable interference with the privileges of Grand Lodge, and pre-supposes a degree of apathy on the part of its members which we are glad to say no longer exists. No doubt it saves trouble to have everything cut and dried, but in this particular instance we believe it to be a mistaken policy. No brother ought to be allowed to propose more than one candidate, and then we should really know who were the nominators of those who compose what is, we believe erroneously, called the official list. As a practical expression of their feelings on the subject, and to show that they are independent men, we invite the members of Grand Lodge to vote for three brethren whose names are NOT to be found on the ready-made list, but who are all true and tried servants of the Craft. We allude to Bros. FREDERICK WALTERS, W.M. 1309; HENRY CHARLES LEVANDER, M.A., W.M. 507, P.M. 632 and 928; and GEORGE S. STATES, Past Grand Steward, P.M. 145. We detest cliqueism, and while bearing willing testimony to the merits of many of the brethren proposed for the Board of General Purposes, we feel bound to say that there are others nominated who are to all intents and purposes such perfect nonentities that we might just as well place figures of wax upon the Board. We therefore exhort all who value freedom of election to note the names which we have indicated above, and to vote accordingly.

After the election of the members of the Board of General Purposes, will follow the election of the Colonial Board and the Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and then the report of the present Board of General Purposes, which contains nothing that calls for comment.

Bro. Nunn, P.G.S.B., will then move that the following form of certificate be adopted with the view of facilitating the work of the Lodge of Benevolence:—

"Certificate to be sent with every Application for Relief from the Lodge of Benevolence."

"That the Master or visiting brother of any lodge recommending a case for relief at the Lodge of Benevolence shall certify in writing, under his signature, to the actual condition of the applicant, his age, profession or calling, means of subsistence, what aid he receives from his family, his future prospects, the position he has held in the Craft, and any matter that may guide the Lodge of Benevolence in adjusting the distribution of relief from its funds. The application of widows or children to be accompanied with a like certificate so far as practicable, with the probable disposal of the funds if relieved. Masters of lodges or visiting brethren are earnestly requested to forward the fullest particulars of each case, to enable the Lodge of Benevolence to relieve the applicants to the utmost extent of its means."

The next business will be, "to consider the appointment of the Committee respecting the uniformity of working," and we trust that some definite progress will now be made to ensure a consummation so devoutly to be wished as the abolition of those atrocious anachronisms and historical inaccuracies which have crept into the Masonic ritual. A few educated men would soon purge the ceremonies of those grammatical errors which are painfully visible in some portions of the ceremonies, and the Order generally would benefit by such a purifying process. We commend the careful consideration of the whole subject to Bro. Stevens and others who have taken an active part in promoting the movement for uniformity.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart will then move:—

"That inasmuch as the Freemasons' Hall and buildings have been built out of the funds belonging to the Craft, that on and after the 24th June next the respective rents now paid by the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and their Widows, the Royal Masonic Girls' School, and the Royal Masonic Boys' School, shall cease and determine, and that the same accommodation as now afforded them, in all respects, shall be continued for the benefit of such Institutions, free of all charge whatsoever."

This motion has our cordial support, and is sure to be carried by Grand Lodge, the charities being in quite a different position to the lodges occupying rooms in Freemasons' Hall, as the former pertain to the entire English Craft, while the latter enjoy accommodation which is strictly local, and not available for the provincial brethren.

The same brother will call attention to the "want of proper arrangements for the identification and admission of brethren at the Grand Lodge on the 14th inst., and the subject will doubtless be referred to the Board of General Purposes, whose province it is, we conceive, to frame such rules as will ensure the observance of better order and regularity on similar occasions in future. The usual proposition by Bro. Udall, that £50 be given to provide the inmates of the Croydon Asylum with coals will then be made, and of course the amount will be granted without demur.

Bro. Mason will move that an organ that be provided for Grand Lodge; and Bro. Nunn has a notice of motion that will rejoice the heart of the Grand Lodge printer. The appeal of Bro. Bease against his expulsion from the Craft stands next on the agenda, and we sincerely trust it will be fairly and impartially considered. From what we know of the case, having read all the correspondence in Bro. Bease's paper, the Masonic Record of Western India, we entertain the conviction that Bro. Bease has been treated with unmerited harshness, and there is little doubt that the decision by which he was thrust out of Freemasonry will be reversed by the Grand Lodge of England.

There is another appeal, respecting the merits of which we know nothing, but the brethren may rest assured that a lucid and exhaustive abstract of the case will be presented to them by our able Grand Registrar, Bro. McIntyre.

With these appeals the business of Grand Lodge closes, and, as our readers may perceive, it is of a varied and somewhat interesting character.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

THE RED CROSS ORDER.

I have on several occasions stated that the Masonic Order of Constantine has never claimed connection with the (late) public Order belonging to the extinct kingdom of the two Sicilies; and as that Order has ceased to exist, in consequence of the resolve of the Italian Government not to adopt it as a national Order, there is no reason whatever to allude to it again in the present discussion. It is well known that the claims of all Masonic Orders of Knighthood, such as the Templars and Hospitallers, are based mainly upon traditions preserved in their respective rituals, and not upon actual historical proofs, and the same observation may be said to apply to the Red Cross Order. The Comnenian family doubtless possessed the exclusive right to confer the decorations of the Constantinian Order of St. George, and it can be easily proved that they exercised that right down to the time of the sale of the Order to the Duke of Parma in 1699, when the last survivor of the ancient house of Comnenus resigned the dignity of Grand Master, and the Order became a public one attached to the duchy of Parma. The theory that the Abbé Giustiniani perpetuated the Order is based upon the fact that he claimed the right, as a Grand Cross, to confer it. This, I admit, is purely speculative, and does not account for its introduction as a Masonic degree. It is, however, remarkable that the tradition of Constantine's vision and conversion is related in several Masonic rites, especially in that of Baron Hunde, which was promulgated in 1754, and in the Rosaic Rite a few years subsequently. It is also clearly traceable in the Swedish Rite of the present day, and, as has been stated, it was formerly worked by the Scottish Templars. It likewise formed a part of the ancient York Rite of Heredom, many of its emblems being found on old Masonic documents and banners used in the series of chivalric grades. The Red Cross was the seventh or highest degree known in England eighty years ago, as proved by a diagram now in my possession, and for the recovery of which the Order is indebted to the present Grand Secretary of England. I am therefore quite content to accept the alternative which "Lupus" places before me, and to acknowledge that the Order must now "rely upon its Masonic acceptance only." Its antiquity as a Masonic degree being at length generally admitted, the most important object of its supporters has been attained, and its future will now depend upon the practical application of those sublime precepts which are inculcated in its several ceremonies, as well as on the Masonic integrity and general worth of its members. R. W. L.

In reply to Bro. Hughan's communication, I have only to say I never accused him personally of having claimed anything more than a mere Masonic origin for the degree of the Red Cross, but as the "Grand Imperial Senate" or "Council" (comme vous voulez) have claimed this chivalric origin, Bro. Hughan must be aware, as an officer of that Grand Body, "Qui facit per alium, facit per se." It is for Bro. Hughan to state his authority for writing his late communication, as in it he is in diametric opposition to the dictates of the chiefs of the Order as represented by Bro. "R. W. L." If this article has been written permissu superiorum, it is undeniably the amende honorable.

PROGRESS.

At page 235 Bro. Paton informs us that a lodge in which no refreshment is ever to appear will shortly be started in Edinburgh. We trust that the brethren who are taking this in hand have the ability and pluck to carry out their intentions to a decided success. They deserve the good wishes of all real well-wishers to Masonry and to Masons. As this is a real step in the right direction, we sincerely wish them good speed. W. P. B.

In Preston's Illustrations of Freemasonry, page 78, it states, "The lodge is then placed in the centre, on a crimson velvet couch . . . the three great lights, the gold and silver pitchers, with the corn, wine, and oil, are placed on the lodge." Can you supply me with information as to what is intended by the lodge in this case, as it evidently does not refer to the S. Law or the C. Roll. ETA.

Valletta, Malta.

[The tracing boards are technically called the "Lodge." In London, the term "Lodge Board" is used, and it is covered with a white cloth, upon which the vessels containing the consecrating elements—viz., corn, wine, and oil—are placed.—ED. F.]

SCOTCH AND SCOTCHMAN v. SCOTTISH, SCOT, AND SCOTSMAN.

At page 247 Bro. "Edinburgh" remarks: "Bro. W. J. Hughan says I am a Scotch Mason, should it not be Scots Mason?" And, he adds, "Perhaps Bro. 'Leo' will reply to this?" Now, in reply, I venture to say that both are wrong, for the word referred to is an adjective, and it should be "a Scottish Mason." No doubt "Scotch" is often used, and has been for the last century and a half, but I don't like it, and think it a vulgar corruption. There is, then, the noun "Scotchman," which I think is another disagreeable word; it sounds far better in my ear to say "Scotsman," and I am happy to see a well-known Scottish historian who in his published works ten years ago used "Scotchman," now in his last work lately issued using "Scotsman." As for the word "Scot," that means a man of the Scots, and where to use Scot or Scots, and Scotsman or Scotsmen must be left to the discretion of the writer and the connection of his remarks. LEO.

GRAND MASTERS PRIOR TO 1717.

I have just glanced over the list of 51 Grand Masters prior to 1717 which "Pythagoras" has been kind enough to send you, and I for one am much obliged to him for the information; it has confirmed me more than ever in believing that there was no Speculative Freemasonry before 1717. There is not a single word in their history that could lead us to suppose or believe that any one of them ever sat in the chair of K.S. as his representative; and I may add, that if our so-called ancient Grand Masters are to be selected among princes (who cannot help the fortune or misfortune, as it may be, of being born such), or men of learning, philosophers, great soldiers, builders, or founders of monasteries, cathedrals, temples, or cities, &c., and as there is a disposition to connect Masonry with such, and value the rust of the age in which they lived, why not place Cain first on the list of Grand Masters, and call him brother, seeing that he is the first on record who built a city, which he called Enoch (Gen. iv., 17)? And why is Solomon (apart from our Masonic legend) honoured as being the first G.M.? W. C. DORIC.

GRAND MASTER MASON OF SCOTLAND.

Bro. W. G. Doric asks, "From what history does C. I. Paton (page 175) quote that the office of 'Grand Master Mason of Scotland' was granted by James the Second of Scotland to William, Earl of Orkney (?) and Caithness, &c.?" W. G. Doric adds: "I read that James the Third married Margaret, daughter of the King of Denmark, in July, 1470, and received for her dowry the islands of Orkney, Shetland, and all others about Scotland belonging to him. Question, then, was he Earl of Orkney and Caithness in James II. time?"

W. G. Doric will find it stated in Lawrie's "History of Freemasonry" that in the reign of James II. of Scotland "the office of Grand Master was granted by the Crown to William St. Clair, Earl of Orkney and Caithness, Baron of Roslin, and founder of the much-admired chapel of Roslin." From whatever source Lawrie may have derived his information, the statement which he makes is corroborated by the charters granted to the St. Clairs of Roslin by the Freemasons of Scotland in the earlier half of the seventeenth century, and which are preserved in the Advocate's Library of Edinburgh. When my present works on Freemasonry are out of my hands, I will give a short history of the St. Clairs of Roslin.

The difficulty which has occurred to the mind of W. G. Doric is easily explained. The Earldom of Orkney was not a Scottish peerage in the time of James II. Orkney had long been possessed and ruled by its own Earls, who were almost petty sovereigns, but acknowledged the supremacy of the Norwegian Kings. William St. Clair of Roslin married one of the daughters of Malise, Earl of Strathern, Caithness, and Orkney, a co-heiress of the Earl of Orkney, and according to the custom of that time assumed the title of Earl of Orkney. He was afterwards created Earl of Caithness by James II. of Scotland. Hence he is known in history as Earl of Orkney and Caithness, also as Baron (or Laird) of Roslin, for the Barons of Roslin were never, under that title, peers of Scotland. On his death, his possessions were divided, according to his will, among his sons, the eldest of whom became Baron (or Laird) of Roslin, the Roslin estates being the most valuable; and the second son, Earl of Caithness. So at least the Roslin family have always maintained, but the Caithness family dispute the seniority of the Roslin branch. However this may be, it is certain enough that at that date titles as well as estates were often disposed of by will, the strict law of inheritance according to primogeniture not being carried out as in more recent times. It is also certain that the mere title of Earl with the right of sitting in the Scottish Parliament was not then regarded as equivalent to great estates with which no such title was connected. The St. Clairs of Roslin held a very high place amongst the Barons of Scotland, and although never raised to the peerage, were sometimes specially summoned by the King to the Scottish Parliament.

This explanation, I think, may suffice to remove W. G. Doric's difficulty.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

ONENESS OF TRUTH.

Like a stream, Truth passes through a variety of changes, from its fountain on the hillside, until it is absorbed in the mighty ocean—it flows along banks now verdant and covered with flowers or with harvests, and now through stern and rocky boundaries—it goes on by the side of castellated halls and gorgeous palaces, of widespread cities resounding with the busy hum of men, or pursues its course along desert or forest solitudes—it still keeps flowing on through whatever diversities of change nature, in all the varieties of her appearance, can produce, until at length it is seemingly lost; and yet, through all these, it is ever one and the same. It is the boundary of empires—it parts nations, tribes, languages, and religions, forming the limit within which they were contained in ancient times, and by which they are still marked out in modern history—it verifies the records of ancient chronicles, and it indicates the site of ancient conflicts—it is fed through the same conduits and by the same processes. Through all its diversities there is an enduring oneness, a unity—the unity of God. W. J. FOX.

FLOWERS.

How the universal heart of man blesses flowers! They are wreathed round the cradle, the marriage altar, the tomb. The Persian in the far East delights in their perfume, and writes his love in nosegays; while the Indian child of the far West clasps his hands with glee as he gathers the abundant blossoms—the illuminated Scripture of the prairies. The Cupid of the ancient Hindoos tipped his arrows with flowers; and orange buds are the bridal crown with us, a nation of yesterday. Flowers garlanded the Grecian altar, and they hang in votive wreaths before the Christian shrine. All these are appropriate uses. Flowers should deck the brow of the youthful bride, for they are in themselves a lovely type of marriage. They should twine round the tomb, for their perpetually renewed beauty is a symbol of the resurrection. They should festoon the altar, for their fragrance and beauty ascend in perpetual worship before the Most High.—Maria L. Child: "Letters from New York."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—Did it ever occur to you to furnish your readers with literary "pabulum" in the shape of a lengthy article on a subject on which, from the very outset, you candidly admitted your entire ignorance?

In reply to your surprise at such an apparently ridiculous question, allow me to draw your attention to an article in the Daily Telegraph of Monday last (May 16th), written on the occasion of the election of the Earl de Grey and Ripon as Grand Master. The naïveté is charming with which the writer of the article commencing "The Freemasons," &c., informs the readers of the Telegraph that he is an "outsider," and has not had the "honour of initiation in the Masonic mysteries, whatever they may be." His "dread" is great lest, "blundering on the true solution," suspicion should "fall upon any member of the Craft," and the placing of some "elderly gentleman (why an 'elderly gentleman' any more than a young one? I always thought, sir, that discretion was more an attribute of age than youth) upon a gridiron in the Freemasons' Tavern in Long-acre," to be "nicely broiled by cooks in little white aprons, &c.," follows as the result.

The writer, after beginning by admitting (quite unnecessarily, so far as Masons are concerned) that he knows nothing about the subject he is writing upon, then proceeds to make the following interesting deduction:—

"Considering that the secret has been known to millions for some scores of centuries, it is in open violation of all we know of the general 'leakiness' of human nature that some false or indiscreet brother should not have let it out in the course of so long a period." Having disposed of this question in a manner doubtlessly to his entire satisfaction, he then draws the following inference: "That nothing has been disclosed, because there has been nothing to disclose," which hypothesis serves him as the basis of his argument.

The able writer then goes on to inform the world in general, and the readers of the Daily Telegraph in particular, that he "neither knows nor cares whether Aristotle, Bacon, Newton, Laplace, Faraday, Dante, or Shakespeare were or were not Freemasons." "Such men can help Masonry—Masonry cannot help them." The first part of this latter assertion I am quite willing to admit; the last part I repudiate as faux en toto. Masonry is capable of helping even wise and illustrious men, more so perhaps than ordinary plodding mortals of small intelligences. This may appear strange and paradoxical to "outsiders," but not, so, however, to members of the Craft.

I shall pass over without comment a lot of irrelevant remarks upon architects and engineers, in which the writer seems to have succeeded in confusing himself so much that he was evidently unable to distinguish between Speculative and Operative Masons.

Like most "Cowans" when writing about Freemasonry, he cannot refrain from occasionally clothing his observations in slightly satirical language. No doubt the Craft ought and will feel honoured at being the subject of an article in one of the leading London papers, yet I cannot help thinking that had the writer been a little more judicious in propounding problems and supplying the solutions himself, he would have acted wiser. It is self-evident that he is entirely ignorant about Freemasonry; therefore, why hold up to ridicule, in ever so slight a degree, a body of men whose objects, he himself admits, "are not only harmless but benevolent." Perhaps the day may come when our friend may form a very different opinion of the "mysteries and mummeries" which "afford endless amusement to many well-meaning men." If charity be found as the basis of our "amusements," and brotherly love be cemented by our meetings, we can afford to bear the rather disparaging remarks of "outsiders."

In conclusion, I trust and believe that the author of this article is far from being hostile to us Freemasons as a body, only the "secret" portion of the business is a little irritating to non-masons. Yet there is no cause given for this feeling. Every upright and honest man can learn the "mysteries of Freemasonry" if he is so inclined; therefore, why should Masons "throw open their doors to the world?" Does any other society, club, or body of men "throw open their doors to the world?" From the moment of our doors being so "thrown open," Masonry must perforce cease to exist. This is beyond dispute. The virtues and excellencies of the Craft require carefully fostering and cherishing, so that they may bring forth good fruit in the shape of charity, brotherly love, and emulation amongst the brethren to outstrip each other in good works and to lead pure and irreproachable lives. Turn Masonry loose and unguarded on the wide world, and Masonry would soon be extinct. To every man of "good report" the lodge door will never be closed. Surely this is sufficient! We cannot be expected to trumpet forth to the world our peculiar "mysteries and mummeries," and generally insist on sharing our "secrets" with everyone we meet.

Our closing our doors to the world and being able to keep our "secrets" to ourselves really appears to constitute the chief cause of this plainly evinced soreness on the part of any writer, not a Mason, who may condescend to notice us. Yet when compared with the vast amount of charity bestowed every year by Freemasons, these faults—if faults they are—sink into utter insignificance.

If the means are harmless in procuring a good end, i.e. charity, the result must be satisfactory.

I am, dear Sir and Brother,
Newcastle-on-Tyne, May 17, 1870. J. G.

"HEAR THE OTHER SIDE."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Permit me to disclaim an imputation which I am surprised that any brother should have sought to put upon me without having the slightest foundation whereon to rest it.

Bro. Jacob Norton, at page 224 of your paper, says, in an apparently ill temper, that in my response to your article on "A Step in the Right Direction" (Feb. 19th) I "patted the Jew on the back," an expression which can only mean that I had resorted to unworthy means for the purpose of cajoling him. I will not dwell upon this, however, as I dare say that when he recovered his temper he felt the impropriety and injustice of such an allegation. What I wish to disclaim is the desire he imputes to me of "justifying the introduction of allusions to Christian saints and Christian doctrines into the work of the lodge," which he, as I think, mistakenly alleges to have been the object of your article, "A Step in the Right Direction." But not satisfied with imputing to us an object so inconsistent with the constitution and foundation of Masonry as this obviously is, he advances a step, and says my meaning clearly was, "that no Jew ought to feel offended at a Christian brother constantly vaunting the superiority of Christianity over Judaism." His feelings must certainly have run away with his judgment when he made this avowal, otherwise he could not so have misinterpreted my words, "surely no conscientious Jew could take offence at the avowal, by any brother, of his Christian convictions, or of his readiness, if need be, to stand up in their defence." What is there here to justify Brother Norton in alleging that I advocated "constantly vaunting the superiority of Christianity over Judaism"? Had I left my proposition wholly unguarded, the interpretation put upon it would have been quite unwarranted; but I added, "always supposing that it is not done unnecessarily, or in an offensive manner." May I add, without offence (for I do not mean any), that Bro. Norton exhibits something of the feeling and spirit of the existence of which I was writing and regretting, viz., the intolerance with which we are too apt to regard each other's religious convictions and professions. He says we "must take human nature as it is," which might have been said at any time; as when the pagan Roman Empire was persecuting Christians to the death, and Christians in England and other parts of Christendom were persecuting Jews to the death. But how, then, should human nature ever have become better and more tolerant than it exhibited itself in that detestable work of persecution? My judgment may be at fault, but I believe that the undue reserve that we show towards each other—Jew and Christian—and the squeamishness we exhibit, lest in our intercourse with each other we should give offence by letting drop a word which savours of religious convictions, is one cause of the intolerance that still exists amongst us. Why should not our "brotherly love" be strong enough to endure the thought that our Jewish brother deems his Judaism to be superior to our Christianity—his brotherly love to endure the thought that we deem our Christianity superior to his Judaism? We each, of course, deem ourselves to have the true faith; but it does not therefore follow that we should be "constantly vaunting its superiority," and thus giving rise to ill-feeling.

I do not pretend to answer for you, sir and brother, in what you wrote on "a step in the right direction." You are quite able to defend yourself, but I may say that if I had interpreted your meaning to be that Christians should act so unwisely and intemperately as is imputed, in "vaunting the superiority of their religion over Judaism"; or that "our Jewish brethren should make it a practice, nightly, while in the lodge, to flourish the superiority of the Mosaic religion"; or that a Roman Catholic should "nightly expatiate on the sublimity of the doctrines of the real presence, the immaculate conception of the Virgin, the infallibility of the Pope, &c.," I should not have given my poor approval of "the spirit" which the article breathed, or "the object at which it aimed," as being "accordant with the true principles of Masonry," but should, had I noticed it at all, have expressed my entire dissent from it. I believe, however, that any one who can read or converse on what Brother Norton calls "the somethings" which at present divide us, without that perturbation of mind which is too often experienced, and that fastidiousness which is too often evinced by even such intelligent men as Bro. Norton, will feel as I do—that there is a wide interval between the "vaunting of the superiority" of our own "somethings" over those of our brethren who dissent from us, and unhesitatingly and unequivocally avowing our individual convictions, whether on religion or anything else, "always supposing that it is not done unnecessarily or in an offensive manner."

—WILLIAM CARPENTER.

GRAND OFFICERS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—I read your remarks under this head in last week's number with all satisfaction, I am, however, desirous to say a word or two on the undue appointment to Grand Office of Provincial Masters. That these latter should occasionally be thus distinguished I freely admit, but I trust it will always be borne in mind by the "powers that be," that Provincial brethren have places of honour in their respective districts, the like of which is only offered to those in town through the medium of Grand Lodge. True, the latter when attained is very grand, but when on the other hand the average of its attainment by London Masons is from sheer excess of their number far less than that of Provincial Grand Office by our country brethren, and again it must not be forgotten that beside the additional dues they of the metropolis pay, the duties that fall on and are cheerfully undertaken by them are with respect to the Craft at large exceptionally heavy. Not only do they conduct and sustain Grand Festival, but the dry business of the Craft as carried out by the Board of General Purposes, and last if not least, the management of the various Masonic charities, are mainly, indeed almost entirely worked by London Masons, who thus with the lion's share of the labour, should not it appears to me be deprived of a very full and due proportion of that reward, the hope of which sweetens the labour so performed. Let me add that I am a Provincial Initiate, now residing in town, and may perhaps therefore sign myself,

AMPHIBIOUS.

LODGE ST. JOHN, MELROSE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Referring to some remarks contained in the historical report of St. John's Lodge, Glasgow, given at page 189 of THE FREEMASON, Bro. C. I. Paton says: "anything coming from Bro. W. P. Buchan does not come from him in an authorised manner from the Lodge St. John, Melrose, and are merely words of his own." Now, I should like to know what Bro. Paton can make of this wonderful statement of his? He cannot point out any mistakes that Bro. Buchan made in Melrose; the report contained a statement of facts, versus dreams, and so far as the books of Melrose St. John's Lodge, are concerned, if any books really belonging to it older than 1674 have been discovered since the St. John's (Glasgow), deputation were there, we shall be glad to admit such to be really the case, whenever we are duly satisfied with sufficient proof.

I saw the Secretary of the Melrose St. John's Lodge, on two different occasions, firstly, as one of the deputation from Glasgow, afterwards, when accompanying the summer trip of the Glasgow St. John's Lodge to Melrose. At the latter date the Secretary explained that he would have spent more time with us on the former occasion only he was unwell, &c., and he never spoke then of having anything older than 1674. As to the manufactured legend of the Melrose St. John's Lodge building the old Abbey of Melrose, of which we still see the ruins, with John Murdo as their first Grand Master, A.D. 1136, in the reign of David I., that is simply nonsense, as is explained at page 189. Lastly, as to Bro. Paton's belief that the Melrose St. John's Lodge is "older than any other lodge in Scotland," it seems to me that said idea is about as purely imaginary as some others he has given voice to lately. However, let him show the foundation upon which his faith rests, and then we shall know what to make of it. The majority of the Melrose Masons, I can well believe, accept the story of John Murdo being their first Grand Master in A.D. 1136, &c., as a veritable fact; but said John Murdo was no more Grand Master of the Melrose St. John's Lodge in the reign of David the I., than was

Yours fraternally,
W. W. BUCHAN.

THE SYMBOLISM OF NUMBERS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Our learned brother Carpenter called your readers' attention to the 3rd rule the Cabalists have laid down in discovering the various mysteries which they attributed to the Law, called Guimatria or numbering. By the same rule, some Christians have attempted to count the number of the beast in the Revelations xiii. 18, and made out the Pope to be the Antichrist, of which the two following (one Hebrew and the other Greek) are examples:—

חביו הקדוש אפוס

"Our holy father the Pope," אפוס also KAKOS OΔΗΓΟΣ, "Bad guide," both of which amount numerically to the number of the man "whose number is six hundred and three score and six." That "bad guide," with all the pastoral letters denouncing Freemasons, can do no harm to Freemasonry.

It appears that the Christian fathers made use of the Cabalists' first rule, also called "Notaricon," i.e., forming a word from each letter of a word. For instance, from the word, שמע, sh'ma (hear), which consists of three letters, the following words are composed, ענייכם, שמו מרום, "Lift up your eyes to heaven."

By the Christian fathers our Lord was called ΙΧΘΥΣ (a fish), because these are the initials of those Greek words, "Jesus Christ, the son of God, the Saviour." The five-pointed star, the ιχθυς (fish), was an important emblem with the early fathers of the Christian church; it was intended to show that the person using it was a follower of Him who was wounded in hands, feet, and side for our transgressions. The outspread hand served the same purpose, in the absence of the five-pointed star, the fish. I have no doubt that the words of St. Chrysostom (quoted by W. G. Doric, page 235), "The initiated," alluded to those who had embraced Christianity; and "will know what I mean," referred to the signs and symbols they used—such as the five-pointed star, the fish.

Yours fraternally,
D. STOLZ.

THE LEGEND OF JOSHUA.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have no doubt the majority of your readers would be duly impressed with the wonderful Hebrew quotations of Bro. D. Stolz. Of course, as all regular readers of THE FREEMASON understand Hebrew perfectly, there is nothing out of place in giving a dozen or two of lines in Hebrew, just to show the writer understands his subject thoroughly. Some may think that a man who is master of his subject will write as plainly as possible, but what do they know? However, to come to the point, I see no reason to suppose that the sun really stood still at the supposed command of Joshua, as alluded to at verses 12, 13 and 14, of the x. Chapter of Joshua, for it seems to me that these three verses are simply an interpolation put in, perhaps long after, by some scribe, and copied from that collection of sacred and patriotic songs, called "The Book of Jasher." We have an example of a whole song thus copied, viz., in 2 Samuel i., 19 to 27 verses, where is recorded David's very beautiful and pathetic Song of the Bow. At verse 18 it says, "Also he (David) bade them teach the children of Judah the bow," that is the song of the bow "behold it (the song) is written in the Book of Jasher;" the words in italics "the use of" are a mistake of the translators and are not in the original, they simply mislead. It is rather curious how Bro. Stolz with his wonderful knowledge of Hebrew not does know this, and instead writes a lot of nonsense.

There is precious little value to be put upon his dreams, anent our second degree. Possibly some writers may think that anything will pass with Masons if there be a sufficient quantity of hieroglyphics interspersed, but for my own part I beg to object to that idea, as in such a case, I am only apt to be a little more suspicious of the real ability of the writer.

Yours fraternally,
Glasgow, May 21, 1870. W. P. BUCHAN.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In reply to a request by the Masonic editor of the New York Dispatch, I cheerfully give answer to the following questions. 1. Question: What is the eighth Masonic landmark of Masonry in England; and how is it there construed at this time?

In answer to this question I will first quote the eighth landmark in its entirety, and then give the answer:—

"The prerogative of the Grand Master to make Freemasons at sight, is the eighth landmark, which is closely connected with the seventh. There has been much misapprehension in relation to this landmark, which misapprehension has sometimes led to a denial of its existence in jurisdictions where the Grand Master was perhaps at the very time substantially exercising the prerogative without the slightest remark or opposition—that is, whenever the Grand Master granted his dispensation to an unchartered lodge to dispense with the necessary probation, and was present and presiding at the conferring of the degree, he was virtually making a Mason at sight. It is not to be supposed that the Grand Master can retire with a profane into a private room, and there, without assistance, confer the degrees of Freemasonry upon him. No such prerogative exists; and yet many believe this is the so-much-talked-of right of 'making Masons at sight.' The real mode, and the only mode, of exercising the prerogative is this: The Grand Master summons to his assistance not less than six other Masons, convenes a lodge, and without any previous probation, but on sight of the candidate, confers the degrees upon him; after which he dissolves the lodge, and dismisses the brethren. Lodges thus convened for special purposes are called 'occasional lodges.' This is the only way in which any Grand Master within the records of the institution has ever been known to 'make a Mason at sight.' The prerogative is dependent upon that of granting dispensations to open and hold lodges. If the Grand Master has the power of granting to any other Mason the privilege of presiding over lodges working by his dispensation, he may assume this privilege of presiding to himself; and has no one can deny his right to revoke his dispensation granted to a number of brethren at a distance, and to dissolve the lodge at his pleasure, it will scarcely be contended that he may not revoke his dispensation for a lodge over which he himself has been presiding within a day, and dissolve the lodge as soon as the business for which he had assembled it is accomplished. The making of Masons at sight is only the conferring of the degrees by the Grand Master, at once, in an occasional lodge, constituted by his dispensing power for the purpose, and over which he presides in person. These occasional lodges have sometimes been called by the English Grand Masters since 1717, and frequent records of the fact are to be found in Anderson's Constitutions. Some of the Princes of the Royal Family, when made Freemasons, were initiated, passed, and raised at sight, and in occasional lodges."

In answer to question first, the eighth landmark is construed in its original form, but has become almost obsolete, not having been taken advantage of by the Grand Masters in England, Ireland, or Scotland for a long time; in fact, there is no record of the Grand Master of Scotland ever exercising his power.

In answer to question second, Anderson's Constitutions is the only work in which I find any record of a Grand Master exercising his privilege in this respect. But before answering this fully I would like to know if it is the making of a Mason "at sight" by the Grand Master, Worshipful Master, or members of a lodge?

As to the powers of a Grand Master, I cannot give in the meantime a better summary than referring any brother to the article which appeared in THE FREEMASON, of date November 27th, 1869. On getting the explanation to question second, I will again reply.

I remain, yours fraternally,
CIPES.

RED CROSS of ROME & CONSTANTINE.

Rose and Lily Conclave, No. 3.—An assembly of the Knights of this Conclave was held at Bro. Gosden's, Masons' Hall, Mason's-avenue, Basinghall-street, on the 30th ult. V.E. Sir Knight C. A. Coitebrune, M.P.S., presided, supported by Sir Kts. W. H. Hubbard, J. Terry, R. W. Little, J. G. Marsh, J. Percy Leith, G. Kenning, M. Edwards, J. McKiernan, &c. The conclave was opened in imperial form, and Sir Kt. Leith received the Viceroy's and Sovereign's degrees. Bro. Mann, P.M. and P.Z., was duly installed a Knight of the Order, and a College of Viceroy's being opened under the presidency of V.I. Sir Kt. Little, G.R., Sir Kt. Mann was inducted into the chair of V.E. in a most impressive manner. After several propositions for installation had been made and confirmed, Sir Kts. Kenning and Edwards (both of Premier Couclave) were elected to join this Conclave, which has been removed from Richmond and now promises to be second to none on the roll, its new quarters being all that could be wished. A most excellent banquet, with first-class wines, was provided by Bro. Gosden, and as this was the first Masonic entertainment held at that worthy brother's new house it may not be out of place to say that everything gave unqualified satisfaction, and the Masons' Hall may certainly be well recommended to any lodges seeking change.

PROV. GRAND LODGE of NORTHAMPTON AND HUNTINGDON.

The annual provincial grand meeting of the several lodges in this province was held at Peterborough, on Thursday, the 19th inst. Special trains were run by the London and North-Western and Great Northern Companies, and the day being a fine one, Peterborough was visited by a large number of persons.

The Board of Benevolence held a preliminary meeting at half-past ten in the morning, and at twelve noon the Grand Lodge was opened at the Great Northern Hotel, by his Grace the Duke of Manchester, Provincial Grand Master, assisted by Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Samuel Inns, Esq.

The business of the day, the nomination of officers for the ensuing year, and the examination of lodge returns having been transacted, the grand officers and brethren attended a special service at the Cathedral, the use of which was kindly allowed by the Dean for the occasion. The procession, which was preceded by the band of the Sixth (Peterborough) Volunteer Rifle Corps, was marshalled by G. Directors of Ceremonies in the following order:

Band of Music.

Visiting Brethren, not members of any Lodge, two and two.
Two Tylers, with drawn swords.
The Wentworth Lodge, Wellingborough.
The Chichester Lodge, Thrapston.
The Lodge of Merit, Stamford.
The Lodge of Perseverance, Kettering.
The Lodge of Fidelity, Towcester.
The Socrates Lodge, Huntingdon.
The Pomfret Lodge, Northampton.
St. Peter's Lodge, Peterborough.
Arch Masons in costume, two and two.
Two Tylers with drawn swords.
The Grand Lodge Banner.
Grand Pursuivant.
Grand Organist.
Grand Director of Ceremonies and Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies.
Grand Superintendent of Works.
Past Grand Officers.
Grand Secretary.
Grand Registrar.
Grand Treasurer.
The Junior Grand Deacon.
Senior Grand Warden, with the level.
Junior Grand Warden, with the plumb rule.
Steward. The Grand Chaplain. Steward.
A Past Master.
The Deputy Grand Master, with square.
The Standard of the Grand Master, and on each side of it a Grand Steward.
Grand Sword Bearer.
The Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master.
The Senior Grand Deacon.
Two Grand Stewards.
The Grand Tyler.

The procession started from the lodge-room of the Great Northern Hotel, at a quarter before two o'clock, arriving at the cathedral at two. The brethren were all in full costume, and the streets were lined the whole distance with spectators. The procession was received at the western entrance of the cathedral by the very Reverend the Dean (Dr. Saunders), the Venerable the Archdeacon of Northampton (the Rev. Owen Davys), the canons, honorary canons, the high bailiff (H. P. Gates, Esq.) in his robes, and the full choral staff of the cathedral, by whom, as the procession moved up the nave, the 121st and 122nd Psalms were chanted.

Prayers were intoned by the Rev. C. B. Whyllie and the Rev. C. Daymond, the first lesson being read by the Rev. Canon Argles, and the second by the Very Rev. the Dean. The singing was exceedingly effective, the "Magnificat" being rendered in a very striking manner. The anthem was from "The Creation," including the grand quartet and chorus, "The Heavens are Telling." Before the sermon the grand old hymn, "The Old Hundredth" was sung very impressively, the cathedral being crowded with 5,000 or 6,000 persons, many of whom were seated nearly an hour before the service commenced.

The sermon was preached by the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, the temporary pulpit which is used for services in the nave being placed at the extreme east end of it. The text was the 17th verse of the 2nd chapter of the General Epistle of St. Peter, "Honour all Men, love the Brotherhood, fear God, honour the King."

The Bishop took up each separate part of the text, and after alluding to the antiquity of Freemasonry, and the civilising and humanising influence of the brotherhood, made a pertinent appeal to his hearers on behalf of the funds of the Royal Masonic Boys' School and the Peterborough Dispensary.

Hymn 13 ("Ancient and Modern") was sung at the conclusion of the sermon, and, after the Benediction, the procession passed through the long Causeway and Westgate to the Drill Hall Banquet Hall, where they sat down to a dinner provided by Bro. Moore, Great Northern Hotel.

Gottings from Masonic Journals.

We have received the April and May numbers of The Freemasons' Monthly Magazine, Boston, U.S.A., which is edited by one of the most accomplished Masons in America, Bro. Charles W. Moore, for many years Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. It appears that the magazine has hitherto been sent to one of our agents instead of to our office direct, but in future we hope to receive it regularly, as besides being the oldest it is decidedly among the very best of our Transatlantic Masonic contemporaries. In the April number there is a stirring article upon the recent massacre of Masons in Cuba by the Spanish authorities, at the instigation of a Romish priest. We quote the article, not only as an expression of our sympathy with the just wrath of the editor, but to show our readers how vigorously Bro. Moore deals with the subject quoted. We are glad to see that articles and remarks from several of our correspondents, Bros. Carpenter, Hughan, Little and Paton, are freely and approvingly quoted by The Freemasons' Monthly Magazine, and we are sure that those well-known brethren will be equally pleased to learn the fact.

"THE MASSACRE AT SANTIAGO.

"As a general rule, political and civil dissensions, rebellions, and revolutions do not generally fall within the scope of discussions appropriate to an exclusively Masonic journal. Masonry wisely leaves all such topics, as well as religious disputations and sectarian animosities, to the secular and religious press, to which they more properly belong. All general rules are, however, more or less dependent, in their practical application, on certain recognised conditions; and where these conditions exist in their entirety, the rule is to be respected; but not otherwise. Self-preservation is no less a natural law of social than of physical existence; and when this law is arbitrarily outraged by bigotry or tyranny, then resistance is not merely proper, but is justified by every principle of duty. The entire history of our institution is in evidence that when impelled by considerations of this kind, and then only, Masons, as such, throwing aside for the present their personal preferences, have left their quiet and peaceful retreats to mingle in the distasteful and tumultuous strifes of political and civil turmoil. It was this incentive that, in the anti-Masonic period of this country, drew them from the political parties of their choice, and united them, as occasion required with that in whose ranks their strength could be most effectually employed against their common enemy. No combination or organisation of their forces was had or needed. It was the active operation of the law of self-preservation alone, and it is this natural law or principle, strengthened by political oppression, and stimulated by priestly intolerance, which has led our brethren of the island of Cuba into active sympathy with the revolutionary cause there, if indeed it be true, as is claimed, that they have manifested any active participation in it. But while this is unqualifiedly denied by them, the authorities have failed to produce any evidence to the contrary. Indeed, evidence was not needed. They were Masons, and held their meetings in secret, in defiance of the anathemas and persecutions of a licentious and bigoted priesthood, and this was enough. The doctrine of the Catholic Church in Spain, and wherever else it dares to avow its hatred, is, as recently proclaimed by one of its priests, that all Masons are religious heretics and political traitors, and are to be so regarded and persecuted by that church wherever it is in power. We have a terrible illustration of this in the late massacre of our brethren in Cuba, the particulars of which are given in the public papers as follows:—

"NEW YORK, March 3.—A Havana letter of the 25th ult. states that the Spaniards claimed to have captured correspondence showing that a Cuban Junta existed in Santiago. From forty to fifty persons, planters, merchants, lawyers, doctors, clerks, &c., were at once arrested, and thirteen of the most prominent have been tried by a military commission, found guilty of disloyalty, sentenced to death, and executed. The names of five of the victims are as follows:—Senior Andres La Puntí, the Grand Orient, Master of the Free Masons of the Island, a very wealthy planter, and a man unusually esteemed for his benevolence and fine abilities; Captain Jose Villalongo, once an officer of the Spanish army; Don Jose M. Portondo, a planter; and two American citizens, Messrs. Charles Damney and John F. Portuondo, the first an American by birth, and the second by naturalisation. The Consul at Santiago reported the affair to the American Consul-General at Havana, who has probably forwarded the facts to Washington. The Spanish papers report the victims as eighteen in number. The victims testified that they were members of a secret society, but that their association was a Masonic lodge and met only as Masons for Masonic purposes. This was only the worse for them, as a Catholic priest denounced all Masons as traitors. Mr. Phillips, Consul at Santiago, ably seconded by Mr. Ramsden, the British Consul, endeavoured hard and long to save the lives of his two countrymen, Messrs. Damney and Portuondo, but without success. The volunteers, Spaniards, insisted upon their life-blood being shed, as well as that of their eleven Cuban associates, and thwarted all appeals made to the Lieutenant-Governor of the district to spare them. The two Americans were Free Masons, and therefore were sacrificed to Spanish intolerance and fanaticism. Forty more were arrested, but were not executed at the time the above were shot, but probably have been. The volunteers were furious at the delay in executing the latter, caused by the Lieutenant-Governor of the district of Santiago sending to the Captain-General for advice on the subject. There were several Americans among them. Consul Phillips has asked that an American man-of-war be sent there, and the British Consul has also sent for a frigate. The excitement at Santiago was very great. A ship carpenter named Frederick Jordon, a British subject, had also been murdered by the volunteers at Santiago.

"A more ferocious and demoniacal outrage than the above is not to be found on the blood-stained pages of the modern history of that religious anomaly, the Roman Catholic Church; and that it should have been permitted to occur in this enlightened age of the world, and within twenty-four hours' sail of our own country, is a disgrace to civilization. The effect of it ought to be, and, if there is any just appreciation of the true sentiments of humanity remaining in the hearts of men in authority, it will be, to arouse a spirit of indignation, and awaken a sympathy that shall shake to its foundations the tyranny that has already too long held in bondage, paralyzed the energies, and drenched the soil with the life-blood of the oppressed people of the fairest, richest, and loveliest island on the face of the earth.

"In view of these occurrences, political considerations are a mockery—diplomacy a cheat. The calls of humanity are paramount to both, and cannot, without criminality, be longer suffered to pass unheeded by any civilized people.

"The abstract question whether Masonry shall continue to exist in the island, or be driven from it, is not perhaps of itself a matter of much public importance; but there is a principle of natural right involved in the issue, the rightful decision of which is to determine whether the people of Cuba shall continue in bondage or rise to the dignity of freemen. And in the settlement of this question Masons have a common interest, and if they be men, will not fail, whatever their opinions may heretofore have been, to make common cause with their struggling fellow-citizens, as the condition of their future existence as freemen in the enjoyment of the social and political rights which among civilized nations are denied to none but bondmen. Should this be the result of the recent massacre, the innocent blood shed on that occasion may be to the cause of the revolutionists what the blood of the martyrs was to the church. Like the early Christians, our brethren in the island have for more than half a century, been almost literally driven by the minions of arbitrary power, into the caverns of the earth, to practice their rites, and cultivate those social enjoyments and affections without which the heart of man is a barren waste. They may not be numerically as strong in proportion to their territory as their brethren who are politically more favourably situated; but they are sufficiently strong in numbers, respectability, and talent, if united, to make their power felt in a way and to an extent of which the tyrants who now oppress them have no just appreciation. The necessity for the use of it has been forced upon them as a means of self-preservation, and no law of Masonry, loyalty, or justice would be violated by the exercise of it."

A lodge of sorrow has been held in Sacramento, Cal., in memory of the late Bros. Mitchell, Davis, Hartley, and Ross, all 32° or 33°. The following programme of the proceedings is given in Pomeroy's New York Democrat:—

"1. Voluntary on the organ, and De Profundis by the choir. 2. After the light in the South was extinguished, Miserere, by the choir. 3. After the light in the West was extinguished, Miserere. 4. After the light in the East was extinguished, Master: The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord, Amen! Response, by all the brethren: So mote it be, Amen! Amen! Miserere, by the choir. 5. Anthem, No. 1.

"Among the dead our brothers sleep,
Their lives were rounded true and well;
And love in bitter sorrow weeps
Above their dark and silent cell.

6. Magnificat, by the choir. 7. Ritualistic ejaculations and responses. 8. Benedicite Omnia, by the choir. 9. Procession and funeral honours. 10. After each light is relighted, Te Deum Laudamus, by the choir. 11. Anthem, No. 2.

"Mourn not them whose stars are set,
While the light is with us yet;
While remembered words are dear,
While their spirits meet us here.

"12. Orations. 13. After the Benediction, Beati Omnes, by the choir."

From the same excellent journal we extract the following:—

"WASHINGTON'S INITIATION, ETC.
"Everything connected with the name of the Father of his Country is not only valuable to the friend of freedom but of Freemasonry. We, therefore, present our readers with the following extracts taken from the records of Fredericksburg Lodge No. 4, Ancient Fraternity Free and Accepted Masons, during the recent visit of Bro. Mark M. Pomeroy to Virginia, where, from Masons and citizens, he received a cordial and generous Southern welcome:—

"5752. November 6. Received from Mr. George Washington for his entrance £2 3s."

"5753. 3rd March. George Washington passed Fellow Craft. Eleven visiting brothers from other lodges were in attendance."

"5753. 4th August, which day the lodge being assembled—present: R. W. Daniel Campbell; J. Neilson, S. W.; R. Halkerson, J. W.; George Washington, James Strachan, Alexander Woodson, Sec. pro. tem.; Thomas Robertson, W. McWilliams, Treas. Transactions of the evening are:

"George Washington, raised Master Mason; Thomas James, entered an Apprentice."

"The Bible of this old and venerable lodge, on which George Washington was covenanted, was, during the invasion of the State during the late war, nearly destroyed. The hall was visited by men in the garb of soldiers, the properties of the lodge scattered and the Bible torn nearly to pieces. Scrap by scrap the same was recovered, taken to Richmond, and there received the careful attention of a Masonic book-binder, who restored it somewhat to its original state; and thus has a Masonic relic, valuable to the American people, whether Masons or otherwise, been placed in an exhibitable shape to such as make a visit to Fredericksburg Lodge their Masonic Mecca."

THE CHIVALRIC ORDERS IN CANADA.

The 13th April, 1870, will be looked upon by the Masonic body of Peterboro' as a red letter day, on account of the visit of Col. McLeod Moore, the Very Eminent the Grand Prior of the Chivalric Orders for the Dominion of Canada, who visited this town for the purpose of forming and opening an encampment and priory of the Order of the Temple and Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, as also that of the famous Christian Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, of all of which he is the representative in the Dominion of Canada, of the Grand Masters in England and Wales. The Order of the Temple and Hospital was duly constituted and formed under the name of the "Moore" Encampment and Priory of which Charles D. Macdonald was installed Eminent Commander and Prior. Thirteen of our respected citizens were admitted into this beautiful and ancient Christian Order. A conclave was also formed of the Ecclesiastical and Military Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine of which the Right Hon. Lord Kenlis is the Illustrious Grand Master. We understand his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was admitted a member of the same Order by the King of Sweden. After the Installation Ceremonies the Frates repaired to Caisses' Hotel, where a splendid banquet awaited them. The cloth having been removed, the following toasts were given and duly responded to:—

"The Queen and the Craft."

"The Most Eminent and Supreme Grand Master, Sir Knight William Stuart, and his representative in the Dominion, Col. Moore."

"Our absent Frates, coupled with the names of Harington, Harris and Wilson, (W.M.)."

"Our Visiting Frates."

"The Eminent Commander of 'Moore' Encampment and Priory, Charles D. Macdonald."

The Frates separated about twelve o'clock, after having spent a happy and agreeable evening.

The following are the officers of the "Moore" Encampment and Priory:

"Charles D. Macdonald, E.C. and P.; Rev. V. Clementi, B.A., Prelate; R. Kincaid, M.D., 1st Capt.; Robert Taylor, 2nd Capt.; J. F. Dennistoun, Expert; Wm. Wood, Treasurer; Walter Beal, Registrar; James Might, M.D., Cop. L.; S. H. Walsh, Almoner; W. N. Kennedy, Jno. W. Wallace, Heralds; Wm. H. Greene, Hospitaller; John Turver, Standard-Bearer; John Kennedy, Equerry."

On Wednesday the Conclave of the Knights of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine was opened, and the following officers installed:

"C. D. Macdonald, Sovereign; J. F. Dennistoun, Viceroy; Robt. Taylor, S. G'n'l.; J. R. Ormond, J. G'n'l.; Rev. V. Clementi, B.A., H. Prelate; James Campbell, Treasurer; Geo. Burnham, Jr., M.D., Recorder; R. Kincaid, M.D., Prefect; Alex. Smith, Standard-Bearer; James Might, M.D., A. T. Williams, Heralds; H. T. Champion, Sentinel.

Rev. V. Clementi, B.A., and Dr. Kincaid had the rank of Past Sovereign conferred on them, and Dr. Might the rank of Past Viceroy.

On Thursday the beautiful ceremony of consecrating an Encampment was ably performed by the Grand Prior, assisted by Rev. V. Clementi, as Prelate, and the members of the Encampment.—Peterborough Review, Canada.

INSTRUCTION.

Faith Lodge of Instruction, No. 141.

After the usual business of the lodge on Tuesday evening, a motion was brought forward to give £1 1s. to the Masonic Life Boat Fund, on which a long discussion ensued as to the advisability of giving any money to the Fund, and to whom it should be paid, there having been an account started some time ago by the Freemasons' Magazine and which appeared to have collapsed, and the money does not seem to have been handed over to the National Life Boat Institution; the other is lately launched by a few persons who have formed a self-constituted committee, and can show no authority for their appeals or guarantee that the whole of the money will be applied for the institution, and it was ultimately agreed that the money should be voted towards the Institution of the Life Boat, and should be handed over to the Bankers or Secretary as soon as they had opened an account for the "Masonic Life Boat." It was understood that several members of the Lodge of Instruction were willing to make a donation on these terms.

THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

Temple Crossing Encampment—A conclave was held Thursday, the 12th inst., at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, when the Eminent Sir Knight Dr. Lilley, in his usual felicitous style, inaugurated Sir Kt. Capt. Biron as C., who appointed Sir Kt. John Dyer, 1st Captain, Sir Kt. Geo. Harrison, 2nd Capt., and the other officers. The newly-inaugurated E.C. and his friends then adjourned one of those elegant banquets which the worthy host of "The Horns" is famous for providing.

HULL—Antient York Conclave of Redemption, Time Memorial.—This encampment met at the Masonic Hall, Prince's-street, Hull, on Thursday, the 5th inst. The following Sir Kts. were present: J. Fowler, E.C.; J. Reynolds, P.E.C.; M. C. Peck, P.E.C.; J. N. Scherling, 1st Captain; G. C. Birkett, 2nd Capt.; G. Hardy, Expert; J. H. Emes, Captain of Lines; J. F. Holden, J. Thompson, T. Smith, W. Dixon, T. Turner, H. Haigh, H. Vise, J. Brooke, A. Sanderson, C. Pool, and H. Voigt. After the minutes had been duly read and confirmed, the following Companions were balloted for and unanimously elected:—Christopher Sykes, M.P.; Edward Harrison, George H. Hewson, and Thos. Oates, and Sir Kt. Major W. H. Smythe, D.P.G.M. Lincolnshire (Faith and Fidelity Encampment), as a joining member. Comp. Thos. Oates was regularly admitted to the privileges of the Order. Sir Kt. W. Reynolds, P.E.C., then took the chair as Installing Master, and installed Sir Kt. J. N. Scherling as E.C. for the ensuing year, who afterwards appointed the following Sir Knights as his officers: J. Fowler, P.E.C.; J. Thompson, 1st Captain; J. Hardy, 2nd Captain; J. F. Holden, Prelate; W. Reynolds, P.E.C.; P. G. A. de-C., Registrar; J. H. Emes, Expert; Capt. Locock, 1st Herald; H. Haigh, 2nd Herald; J. Brooke, D. of C.; H. Vise, Almoner; A. Sanderson, Beaucennifer; J. G. Bayles, Bearer of the Exillum Belli; P. E. Weeke, Capt. of Lines; T. Oates, Organist; H. E. Voigt, Steward; W. Johnson, Equerry. A unanimous vote of thanks was then accorded to the installing Master, which was responded to by Sir Knight W. Reynolds in his usual hearty and fraternal manner. The Encampment was then closed, the E.C. retired under the arch of steel, and the Sir Knights retired to the banquet room and partook of a very excellent dinner.

ROYAL ARK MARINERS.

A vessel of the most antient and honourable Fraternity of Royal Ark Mariners appeared off the Masons' Hall, Mason's-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C., at about 6 of the clock, on Tuesday evening, the 24th May, under the command of the Father Noah; and having on board the Pro. Grand Commander, the Deputy Grand Commander, and R.A. Mariners Cubitt, Marsh, Kenning, W. H. Warr, &c., &c. The vessel being properly floated, the Ark was opened in due form. The minutes of the meeting of the 2nd May were read and confirmed, and Bros. Hart and Harris, after taking the A.O.B. of this honourable Fraternity, came on board as R.A. Mariners. The Ark was then opened in the supreme degree of Noah, when R.A. Mariners W. H. Warr, Marsh, Cubitt, Harris, Hart, and Kenning were passed into the chair of Noah. The R.A. Mariners then retired, and the Grand Royal Ark Lodge was opened in ample form by the Pro. Grand Commander and the Deputy-Grand Commander. The R.A. Mariners were then readmitted, and the warrant for this Grand Royal Ark Lodge was read. The Pro. Grand Commander then informed the brethren that this degree had been worked for many years previous to the fusion in 1813, when several degrees were shut out to simplify Freemasonry, and had been worked in London and several parts of this country and abroad from time to time. The Duke of Sussex, the then Grand Master of one Grand Lodge, the Duke of Kent, as Grand Master of the other lodge, and the Duke of Clarence, afterwards William the Fourth, were all members of this Grand Lodge of Ark Mariners, afterwards called royal on this account, and the warrant which they had heard read was granted by direction of the Duke of Clarence, he becoming the Grand Commander. The Grand Commander was unable, from illness, to be present this evening, but he had delegated his power as they had also heard read, and on the next occasion of meeting, when the installation of Grand Commander will take place, he will go out as Past Grand Commander in favour of a distinguished Mason. The P.G. Com. said: I do not propose to continue in my office for a longer period than to effect the organisation of this degree, and shall then take the position of G. Scribe. I have great pleasure of informing you that Capt. Irwin has accepted the post of Pro. Grand Commander for Somerset, that several county appointments are under treaty, that any old warrants will be exchanged for new, and that Bro. Cubitt, P.M., has just applied for a warrant for an Ark Vessel, to be called the Royal Clarence, and that this Ark vessel will be launched on Tuesday, 21st June, at Bro. Gosden's, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C., when all properly vouched for Past Noahs will be invited to be present. The subscription will be very moderate, and the outfit for all officers provided by the vessel. More information will be given to them on that occasion. But this degree is one of the most interesting in the great chain of Freemasonry.—Several appointments to office in Grand Lodge were then made, and there being no other business, the Grand Royal Ark Lodge was closed in ample form, and the vessel was safely moored. The brethren then adjourned to an excellent banquet, served in Brother Gosden's best style. The usual loyal toasts were duly honoured, and the evening was enlivened by some excellent singing and music by several of the brethren present. Any brother wishing for further information is invited to apply to Scribe, R.A. Mariners, Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA,

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC COCOA, OR CHOCOLATE POWDER.

Guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity of flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (BEING ALL COCOA). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two or more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it requires no cooking, but is MADE INSTANTANEOUSLY by POURING BOILING WATER or MILK on the Powder. SPECIALLY PREPARED FOR EXPORT, in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d., and 20s.

PRICE'S BENZOYNE, THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH, 2 LOWER SEYMOUR ST. W.

NEWLY-DISCOVERED Principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZOYNE is a potent, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and discharges of all kinds both external and internal, possessing peculiar efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZOYNE has been used repeatedly in these cases, and has never failed to cure. It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZOYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In pleurisy, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours. PRICE'S BENZOYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military, and Traveller's Medicine Chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists. Prepared and Guaranteed by MR. PRICE, ANALYTICAL CHEMIST, sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 7, Lower Seymour-street, and Duke-street, Portman-square, London, W.; or through the following agents:—

LLEWELLYN & Co., Shanghai, China.
LLEWELLYN & Co., Hong Kong.
FAULDING & Co., Adelaide, Australia.
LEVY BROTHERS, Melbourne.

TAMMERING.—Rev. E. Danziger (M.M.), 9, Chester-place, Albany-street, London, N.W.; North Field Villa, Leeds; and 71, Carter-street, Greenhays, Manchester, effectually and permanently CURES ALL IMPEDIMENT OF SPEECH, whether due to nervousness or other causes, irrespective of age or sex. No mechanical appliance used. The highest references and testimonials can be obtained on application. No fee if no benefit derived.

RUPTURES.—By Royal Letters Patent. WHITE'S Moc-Main Letter Truss

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the MANUFACTURER, Mr. WHITE, 228, Piccadilly, London.

Price of a Single Truss, 16s., 21s., 26s. 6d., and 31s. 6d. Postage 1s. of a Double Truss, 31s. 6d., 42s. and 52s. 6d. Postage 1s. 8d. of Umbilical Truss, 42s. and 52s. 6d. Postage 1s. 10d.

Post Office Orders to be made payable to JOHN WHITE, Post Office Piccadilly.

NEW PATENT ELASTIC STOCKINGS, KNEECAPS, &c.

The material of which these are made is recommended by the Faculty as being peculiarly ELASTIC and COMPRESSIBLE and the best invention for giving efficient and permanent support in all cases of WEAKNESS, VARICOSE VEINS, &c. Price, 4s. 6d., 6d., 10s. and 16s. each. Postage 6d. SPINAL MACHINES, IRON SADDLES, and Every Description of Surgical Appliances.

H. LAMPOUGH,

113, HOLBORN HILL, LONDON, E.C.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

OPiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

Select Testimonial.—Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

DO YOU KEEP YOUR OWN HORSES?
 No; we find we can do better by sending to POWELL, where we can get every description of Cart or Van at five minutes' notice. He will contract to take goods of every description to or from any of the Docks or Wharves, at per ton, or any job you offer him. Address POWELL, Carran and Contractor, 1, Carthusian-street, Aldersgate-street, City, E.C.

Picture Frame Makers, &c.
H. MORRELL, direct Importer of the best Foreign Frame and Room Mouldings, can now offer to his numerous customers every requisite required in the trade at a great reduction. H. M. has opened another establishment, 68, Gray's-inn-road, opposite the entrance to Gray's-inn-square, where all orders will receive the same attention as usual. Country customers would do well by writing either to 18, Great St. Andrew-street, Bloomsbury; 63, King-street, Long-acre; or 68, Gray's-inn-road, Holborn, thus saving traveller's commission. For trade list send stamped directed envelope. Veneered Maple, Walnut, Rosewood, at the lowest prices.

GLENFIELD STARCH
 is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry.
 THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundry, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

STANDARD WORK ON FREEMASONRY.
Respectfully dedicated to the M.W. Grand Lodge of Massachusetts and to the M.W. the Grand Lodge of Iowa.

Just Published,
The History of Freemasonry from its Origin to the Present Day.

Drawn from the best sources and the most recent investigations,
By J. G. FINDEL,
Revised, and Preface written by
BRO. D. MURRAY LYON,
Ayr, one of the Grand Stewards in the Grand Lodge of Scotland.
Second Edition. One Vol., 800 pp., 8vo., with an Index, cloth gilt, price 10s. 6d.

"This volume is allowed to be the history of Freemasonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject, and a glance over its pages will show that it is a comprehensive sketch of the expansion and ramifications of Masonry to every part of the world.—Manchester Guardian, London: ASHER & Co., 13, Bedford-street, Covent Garden.

In the Press and shortly will be Published, Second edition, revised and Enlarged,

A FULL COLOURED ILLUSTRATED LIST OF MASONIC CLOTHING & JEWELS,
From Master Mason to the 30th Degree (inclusive).

Published by Bro. GEORGE KENNING, Masonic Depot, 2, 3 and 4, Little Britain, London; and may also be had of all Booksellers. Post-free for 31 stamps.

Now Publishing, in 12 numbers, at Twopence each, supplied to Subscribers only.

THE HISTORY OF THE STOCKTON AND DARLINGTON RAILWAY, and its various Branches, from its Commencement to the Present Time; by GEORGE MARKHAM TWEDDELL, F.S.A. Scot. and Newc.; Fellow of the Royal Society of Northern Antiquaries, Copenhagen; author of "Shakespeare, his Times and Contemporaries," "The Bards and Authors of Cleveland and South Durham," "The Visitor's Handbook to Redcar, Coatham, and Saltburn-by-the-Sea," &c., &c.

The work is illustrated by a clear and correct Map of the District; a splendid Portrait of the late Edward Pease, Esq., "the Father of Railways," engraved on steel by Miller, of Edinburgh; and by several neat woodcuts, engraved specially for this History, by the celebrated W. J. Linton and others. The edition is limited to 1000 copies. The numbers will be left at the residences of Subscribers as soon after publication as convenient, and the Publishers particularly request that each number may be paid for on delivery. Where copies are forwarded by post, the book-postage will have to be charged to the Subscribers.

Mr. George Markham Tweddell, of Stokesley, a Cleveland author of some note, and the writer of several useful and meritorious publications, announces for speedy publication a History of the Stockton and Darlington Railway Company. Mr. Tweddell is a veteran man of letters, and the history of the first English railway—the result of the enterprise of a few Quakers, and of the engineering skill of a then unrecognised genius—will have more than common interest in this age of railway locomotion. Mr. Tweddell has access to many important documents and other private sources of information, and his History will be enlivened by descriptive sketches of the most noteworthy scenes which diversify the route.—Whitby Times.
All persons wishing to procure copies of the book are requested to forward their names and addresses immediately to Messrs. TWEDDELL & SONS, Cleveland Printing and Publishing Offices, Stokesley and Middlesbrough.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place for all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of tone, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification.

Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of the interior arrangements.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

OPIATES, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

Select Testimonial.—Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 21s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

The History and Development of Gilds, and the Origin of Trades Unions; by LUJO BRENTANO, Doctor of Laws and Philosophy. Trübner & Co., 60, Paternoster-row.

We cannot better finish our review of this admirable work than by quoting Dr. Brentano's concluding remarks, with Mr. Furnivall's note annexed:—

"I shall be satisfied now if I have proved that the spread of disorder called forth at once in each single trade Gild-like organizations of those suffering by it, to maintain the old order, or to create a new one. I wish only further to point to the fact that the English, among whom the old Gilds probably originated, have in this new movement again preceded all other nations. As each new political era has begun in England—whether they were barons who wrung from King John the Magna Charta Libertatum, or the middle-classes who, in the seventeenth century, obtained here first the dominion in the State—so the era of the working-classes comes first to development on English soil. And as in the earlier Middle Ages from the days of Charlemagne the Frith-Gilds, and in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries the Craft-Gilds, so now the Trade-Unions will be the great engines for obtaining the sway. Already since 1824 they have enjoyed a kind of recognition; and already they have fought contests quite as fierce as, if not fiercer than, those of the old craftsmen against the patricians. The history of their sufferings since the end of the eighteenth century, and of the privations endured for their independence, is a real record of heroism. It is only to be hoped that now, when they are free from all legal restrictions, they may use only—instead of the arms of violence, which belong to former times—the legal means which belong to our days, and which are thrown open to them by the franchise. May the English working-men, like the English barons and middle-classes in former times, be a bright example in the attainment of freedom to their brethren on the Continent!

"P.S. Attention may be called to the 'History of the Holy Trinity Guild at Sleaford [in Lincolnshire], with an account of its Miracle-Plays, Religious Mysteries, and Shows, as practised in the Fifteenth Century,' &c., by the Rev. G. Oliver, D.D., Lincoln, 1837. 5s. The account of the Gild—a Social or Religious Gild—is provokingly meagre, and the amount of talk in the book very great; but it states, at p. 50, that an ancient MS. Compotus Book belonging to the Gild was then in the possession of Dr. Yerburch, the Vicar; and that it ranges from A.D. 1477 to 1545, when the Gild was dissolved at the Reformation, though two later informal entries in 1585 and 1613 are made in it. I have sent inquiries after this book. Dr. Yerburch's History of Sleaford may contain further information about this Gild. Dr. Oliver, at p. 52, note 20, states the income of the Sleaford Gild at £80, while that of the three principal Gilds at Boston was less, the Gild of Corpus Christi there being valued at £32, that of the Virgin at £24, and that of St. Peter and St. Paul at £10 3s.—F. J. F."

ANCIENT AND MODERN MYSTERIES.

BY BRO. ROBERT WENTWORTH LITTLE,

The Assassins continued for many years to exercise the power derived from the terror with which they were regarded by all men; but, at length, their great stronghold, Alamoot, was captured, and the leading chiefs put to the sword. During their horrible career the Assassins were several times brought in contact with the Knights Templar, of whom I shall have occasion to write when more at leisure, and it appears that the sect of Ismailites is even now in existence both in Syria and Persia. "But," to again quote "Secret Societies," "like that of the Anabaptists, it has lost its terrors, and the Ismailite doctrine is now merely one of the speculative heresies of Islam. The Syrian Ismailites dwell in eighteen villages around Massyat, and pay an annual sum of 16,500 piastres to the Governor of Hama, who nominates their sheik or emir. They are divided into two sects or parties, the So-weidane, so named from one of their former sheiks, and the Khisrewee, so called on account of their great reverence for Khiser, the guardian of the Well of Life. They are all externally rigid observers of the precepts of Islam, but they are said to believe in the divinity of Ali, in the uncreated light as the origin of all things, and in the sheik Rasheed ed-deen Sinan as the last representative of God upon earth.

"The Persian Ismailites dwell chiefly in Roodbar, but they are met all over the East, and even appear as traders on the banks of the Ganges. Their imam, whose pedigree they trace up to Ismail, the son of Jaaffer-es-Sadik, resides, under the protection of the Shah of Persia, at the village of Khekh, in the district of Koom. As, according to their doctrine, he is an incarnate ray of the Divinity, they hold him in the utmost veneration, and make pilgrimages from the most distant places to obtain his blessing.

"We have thus traced the origin, the growth, and the decline of this formidable society, only to be paralleled by that of the Jesuits in extent of power and unity of plan and purpose. Unlike this last, however, its object was purely evil, and its career was one of blood; it has therefore left no deeds to which its apologists might appeal in its defence. Its history, notwithstanding, will always form a curious and instructive chapter in that of the human race."

I reserve for future papers various notes which I have collected respecting the Templars, the Fehm-gerichte, the Rosicrucians, the Inquisitors, the Jesuits, Carbonari, and other mysterious associations down to the present day, and may explain that, as what I have written under this head was originally only intended for the "Rosicrucian," a quarterly magazine, I have found it impossible to spare time for a regular weekly contribution.

The second part of my remarks under the head of "Ancient and Modern Mysteries" will therefore take the shape of occasional notes to be supplied as the various demands on my time will best admit.

NOTHING TO BE GAINED.

[From the "American Masonic Mirror" for May.]

A few modern writers upon Masonry are engaged in the profitless task of labouring to prove that Masonry, as an Order, dates back only to the year 1717. That its ancient traditions are mythical. That its hoary aspect is all assumed. That millions of Masons, including the most wise and learned men the earth has ever produced, have lived and died believing firmly in a hallucination, which these modern wiseacres seek to explore.

We do not intend to enter into an unprofitable controversy upon this subject; our traditions require no defence. If deceived, we are happy in our ignorance; and do not propose to change our views upon this subject upon the presentation of other conjectures advanced in controversy of the history of Masonry, which, according to their own admissions, has been held as correct by the wise and learned for one hundred and fifty years, at least.

But supposing these men should succeed in convincing themselves, and their readers, and that we have been for one hundred and fifty years the victims of deception, and that Masonry is not that ancient institution we have firmly believed it to be, but of comparatively modern date—what has been gained by this partially successful attempt to rob the institution of its hoary character and ancient traditions? Suppose it could be satisfactorily proven that the Order had its birth in the year 1717, and it came forth full fledged at that date—who or what could receive the least benefit from any such demonstration? Is it not rather akin to the insane attempts that have been made from time to time to bring the Great Light of Masonry, the Holy Bible, into disrepute by futile attempts to discredit its authenticity? Supposing that poor frail man should succeed, to the satisfaction of his puny judgment, in proving that the Bible was not what is claimed for it—that instead of its being the Word of God, it is only a modern book of man! What has the world gained? What has poor man gained thereby? What rather has he not lost—and what has not the world lost? Take away this Great Light, the only light that penetrates "beyond the veil," and what is there left for man? Take from man the hope of a future life, and this world would be a dreary existence indeed. What would the few fleeting years of disappointment, misery, suffering, and pain, mixed with a small portion of earthly happiness, doled out in sparing quantities, amount to? Take away all hope of the future life, and hope itself would be blotted out, and the world become a carnival of crime, and mankind one great, mad suicide. The Bible is the world's sheet anchor. On it the world's hopes are based. It is a book containing the best and most holy precepts. It teaches of the life to come. It is the only source of food for a craving soul. It is a book of the most perfect laws, the most sublime poetry, and most ancient history. It meets the wants of our spiritual natures, and to it let us cling, as the best we have in this world; the only compass on the sea of life; our only chart of the haven to which we are all hastening; our moral and Masonic trestle board. Yes, better cling to it though we know it to be of human origin! Why will man insanely attempt to put out this great Light, in whose wake follow civilisation, refinement, education, morality, and our bright hopes of a better life, when nothing is to be gained thereby, but everything to be lost?

There is a class of men whose unsatisfied natures are never at ease; who deem it their province to be for ever pulling down instead of building up. They never assist in the erection of a moral superstructure, but, instead, are ever digging about the foundation, of those already erected, hunting for flaws in corner-stone or base. Restless spirits, ever depreciating the good and showing up the worst side of the bad. Morbid minds, that feed upon failings of humanity, always scenting out the wrong instead of the right. Negative minds, ever hunting for evidence to disprove rather than prove a moral proposition. Unsafe minds, that would cut the world adrift upon the sea of experiment, without compass or rudder, and no means of returning to the safe harbour.

There are many things in this life that mankind must take for granted. To prove or disprove many propositions generally accepted as truths, is beyond finite powers, as it is beyond the powers of the human mind to comprehend space. So, in the lack of all demonstration we have but one resort; and that is to faith. When the mind fails to grasp or fathom, faith steps in to our assistance, and bridges the chasm.

And now, closing this article, we come back to our first propositions, the fallacy of attempting to discredit the ancient traditions of Masonry. Whatever has yet been written, and whatever may yet be written, discrediting the history of our ancient Order, can never disturb our traditions, allegorical though they be, like most of the traditions of the East, evidence itself of authenticity, which takes us back to the first Temple. Worse than useless, then, are all such attempts to pull down or destroy the harmony and beauty of a system that has defied the lapse of time, and come down to us unimpaired along the ages.

MASONRY IN BUENOS AYRES.

BY FINLAY M. KING.

Recent difficulties in the jurisdiction of Peru, as well as those with which our brethren of Buenos Ayres have had to contend, lead me to remark that the Fraternity of the United States should be very charitable in the opinions they may form of Masonry in those distant climes. Masonic fidelity has often imperilled the lives of our brethren in both the countries referred to. It is the subject of rejoicing that a change is taking place. The highest ranks of society, and very many of the Government officers in Peru, Brazil, Buenos Ayres, and even in Uruguay, are contributing to the fraternal band and joining their names and efforts to its progress and prosperity.

It was not long since that I fell in company with an enterprising merchant from Buenos Ayres, who had long been a member of our Fraternity, and he gave me many interesting facts in connection with Masonry in that region. It appears there are 13 different lodges in the jurisdiction of Buenos Ayres, having in all about 3000 members. They are under the supreme control of the Grand Orient of Uruguay, practising the Scottish Rite.

A few years since, the Roman Catholic Bishop of that country fulminated a bull against all Masons within his bishopric, and he went the length of declaring the marriage contract dissolved, and absolving the wife a vinculo matrimonii, in all cases where the husband refused to renounce Masonry. Some parties, as high in temporal authority as the Bishop was in spiritual, appealed from his decree to his Holiness Pius IX. at Rome. After waiting a long time for a reply or decision upon the appeal, and receiving none, an inquiry was instituted as to the cause of the delay, when it was found, to the great satisfaction of the Roman Catholics of the La Plata who were unwilling to bow to the behests of the Bishop, that during a sojourn at Montevideo, in 1816, the venerable prelate at Rome, then a young man, received the degrees and took upon himself the obligations of Masonry! The successor of St. Peter could, by no means, violate the vows he had thus taken in his early years. The result was that the bull of the Buenos Ayrean bishop fell harmless to the ground, and the Grand Orient of Uruguay is in as successful operation as ever. Masonry has taken a new start in the Argentine Confederacy, and its republican tendencies have not only relaxed the grasp and tyranny of the priesthood, but have exercised a powerful influence in ameliorating the condition and elevating the standard of society. Such is ever the influence of Masonry when allowed to work out its own mission unfettered by the chains of political and ecclesiastical despotism.

Port Byron, N.Y., July, 1860.

The above communication, contributed to the Masonic Mirror and Keystone was published in the issue of July 4, 1860, pp. 322 and 323, and also in the World's Masonic Register, 1860, p. 528. The distinguished brother who wrote the above has since passed away to the higher life, progressing onwards in the fulfilment of his mission throughout an endless eternity. He made his mark in Masonry before his departure. His Masonic attainments were of the highest order. As a Masonic writer he will not be surpassed in this generation. He attained the highest position in the Grand Lodge of New York and discharged the duties of the Orient with signal ability. His reports on correspondence were not only polished compositions but manifested a research and industry rarely equalled. We owe it to our departed brother to say what is written. He was a free contributor to our columns many years, and we never found him to err in any statements he made.

Phila., April 7, 1870.

PLEAD BEFORE THY FATHER'S THRONE

(A MASON'S THOUGHTS ON PRAYER.)

In the hour when Hope's high mission
Points thy soul to realms of joy—
In the hour when shades of sorrow
Scenes of happiness alloy,
When by earthly friends forsaken
Desolate thou seem'st alone,
Sinking 'neath thy tribulation—
Plead before thy Father's throne.

Plead in meek yet sweet reliance
On His all-enduring love,
And for others too be wafted
Prayers unto His home above.
Plead for those who need forgiving,
That they may their guilt atone;
And for sorrow's suffering children
Plead before thy Father's throne.

Oh! be thankful God permits you
To commune with Him in prayer—
Blessed solace, kindly given,
Soothing every mourner's care.
All our griefs and tribulations,
All our trials, to Him are known;
In each hour of joy or sorrow
Plead before thy Father's throne.

THE ACACIA LODGE, No. 1314, to meet at the Bell Hotel, Bromley, Kent, will be consecrated on Wednesday next, the 15th inst., by W. Br. R. Wentworth Little, P.M. and P.Z. 975, Prov. Grand Sec. for Middlesex, by authority of the R.W. Brother Viscount Holmesdale, M.P., Prov. Grand Master for Kent, who, with his esteemed Deputy, Br. V.W. W. F. Dobson, has signified his intention to be present. Brother Alfred Avery, P.M. 619, is the W.M.-designate.

A CUP OF COFFEE.—Such is the heading of a paragraph we read lately in the columns of the illustrated Graphic. Our limited space, unfortunately, will not allow us to give it in extenso, but we think it due to our numerous readers to let them have the benefit of its shortened contents. It speaks of the wide difference that exists in the preparation of coffee in this country and France, and great praise is accorded to a new concern—viz., the French Coffee Company, at London Bridge Railway Terminus for their splendid produce. If we are to believe the text of the paragraph, we have at last the facility and means of procuring coffee in this country which leaves absolutely nothing to wish for. In strength and aroma it stands equal to the best produced in France, and in price it is even lower, being 1s. 8d. per lb. Amateurs of good coffee will thank us for this information.

GALVANISM.—Pulvermacher's Monthly Record of Cures is now ready for the benefit of Sufferers, containing documentary evidence of remarkable Cures effected by Pulvermacher's Improved Patent Self-applicable Volta-Electric Chain-Bands and Pocket Batteries, and may be had on application to the Sole Inventor and Patentee—J. L. Pulvermacher, 200, Regent-street, London, W. A Test on Loan sent gratis if required. Caution.—Spurious Electric Appliances being advertised by Quack Doctors, Patients should consult Pulvermacher's Pamphlet on that subject (free by post), embodying other most interesting matter for those suffering from Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Functional Disorders, &c., &c.—[Advt.]

LAYING of the FOUNDATION STONES of ST. PAUL'S and ST. MARK'S at LEICESTER.

Wednesday, the 18th ult. was a day long to be remembered in Leicester. The death of Earl Howe cast a shadow upon the proceedings, but the wide-spread sorrow for the loss which the county has sustained was in no way inconsistent with the performance of the religious ceremonies which accompanied the laying of the foundation-stones of the two new churches.

The brethren assembled at the Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, where the Provincial Grand Lodge, which was numerous attended, was opened at a quarter to ten o'clock. After the usual duties in lodge had been performed, the brethren, in due Masonic costume, dressed in black, with white ties and gloves, and wearing the jewels of office and emblems or rosettes on the aprons, covered with crape, in memory of their lamented deceased brother, Earl Howe, proceeded in the following order along Horsefair-street, Friar-lane, and Castle-street, where they joined the procession of the Right Reverend Brother the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, who, along with the clergy in surplices and the children of Alderman Newton's school, moved along the Bow Bridge-street and King Richard's-road to the site of St. Paul's Church, where they arrived about eleven o'clock. The Freemasons observed the following order of procession:—

Tyler with a drawn sword.
Visiting Brethren, two and two, according to the seniority of their lodges, the Officers wearing their collars and jewels.

Bro. the Right Hon. Earl Howe, G.C.H.
P.G. Steward. P.G. Steward.
Two Provincial Grand Stewards.
Provincial Grand Tyler, with a sword.
The following was the order of the procession from St. Mary's schools:—

Police.
Alderman Newton's Boys.
General Clergy.
Clergy of St. Mary's.
The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Peterborough, with the Ven. the Archdeacon, and the very Rev. the Dean of Chester.
Sir F. T. Fowke, Bart., W. Perry Herrick, Esq., and the Committee and Members of the Church Extension Association, and their friends.
Police.

The Grand Master and officers of the Masonic Fraternity and the Committee and friends of the Church Extension Association then took up their positions, and on the procession arriving at the entrance to the enclosure, the clergy and brethren took the left gallery, the Lord Bishop, and those more immediately concerned in the ceremony, taking their proper positions near the stone. Among those who took part in the laying of the stone were Sir F. T. Fowke, Bart., upon whom devolved the office of laying the stone; the Provincial Grand Master (Bro. W. Kelly), preceded by Bro. Captain Bailey, Standard Bearer, bearing the banner of the late Provincial Grand Master, Bro. the Right Hon. Earl Howe, G.C.H.; and the Provincial Grand Officers and Master Masons' sons, bearing the elements of consecration.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Sir F. T. Fowke addressed the assemblage, and the Lord Bishop then delivered the following address:—It is my charge, my friends and brethren, to say a few words on the conclusion of these proceedings—a few words of welcome and congratulation. But a few days ago this task would have been very easy and a very simple one, for my words would have been words only of welcome and congratulation. I should have had only to congratulate you on a good and great work happily begun, and upon the good prospect that we have of its equally happy conclusion. That would have been all that I should have had to say or speak to you about. But you know that to-day my task is not so simple, my words must not be words merely of congratulation nor yet of hope. You have been already reminded how in the midst of cheerfulness and joy of this season there are at present thoughts not only of hope, and glad some hope for the future, but of saddening memory for the past. The Church to-day counts her gains as she sees the beginning of a new house of prayer commenced in Leicester, and sees gathering here a rejoicing and congratulating multitude, many of whom, we trust, are yet to be worshippers in the place that is about to arise where we are now standing. But the Church to-day has to count her losses. She has to remember she has sustained the loss of one of the most true-hearted and devoted of her sons in this diocese. And our thoughts, and the thoughts of many here to-day, travel away from the scene of this rejoicing procession to the thought of another procession, where in the quiet country churchyard, where, not with music and with mirth, and songs of gladness, but silently, sadly, and solemnly, a band of mourners follow a good man to his rest, and make great lamentation over him. How shall I join together these two thoughts that are in our minds, and give a united expression to them—the thought of what you have lost, and the thought of what you hoped to have gained to-day? The business of to-day suggests to us one thought that may join both together. What is it we are doing to-day? Beginning an edifice. And what will they be doing who shall bear that honoured individual to his last resting-place on earth? They will be crowning an edifice. The last finishing stone to the life of a good man is placed when he enters into the rest prepared for those who love and serve their Master as he did. Stone after stone, according to the skilful plan of the architect, will rise upon the foundation we have placed here, until at last the edifice, in its completed beauty and finished excellence, shall testify to the skill of the master builder, whose plan shall be revealed in all its beauty. Stone after stone, as good deed after deed, as faithful and loving service after service, as prayer after prayer, as deed of self-denial after deed of self-denial, was added to the foundation stone that none can lay only save even Christ himself, slowly rose the edifice of the good and holy life; and the building in its completeness, as yet to be seen, a finished work of the Lord. Such is the life of the Christian, planned as an edifice—every stone fitting into its appointed place, made to be an eternal habitation for the Lord. As, then, we lay this day this foundation stone here, the beginning of a work for God, let us take home with us this other lesson which that loving and pious soul, if he had lived to see this day, would have desired we should of all things—bear away from such a scene as this. Remember that your life is to be a building consecrated for the service of the Lord, and see that you lay it deep upon the true foundation stone. See that stone after stone of brave effort, of self-denying deed, of loving hope, of kindly brotherhood, of faithful, true service of God and man, be added to the foundation. See that no sin, no carelessness, no infirmity of yours mar the beauty of the original design; but that by God's grace it may be appointed for each of us that, at the last, they may in very deed be recognised by all men who cherish their memory as accomplished and finished buildings, temples of the Lord, to be indwelt by His spirit for ever and ever. So may it be. So will it be if we but believe in His might and the presence of Him whose presence we have invoked this day. So may it be for those who are to be gathered as a congregation in this house of prayer. So may every wise master builder, by the wisdom that cometh from above, build upon the true foundation, and upon that only, not hay, wood, stubble, but precious stones tried and tested, that may bear whatever deeds may be founded upon them, so that he with them, his workmanship, may rejoice in the name of the Lord. So may it be for Christ's sake, Amen.

A psalm, "How pleasant is Thy dwelling-place," was sung, after which his Lordship pronounced the Benediction, and the ceremony was completed.

Among those on the present occasion were the Ven. Archdeacon Fearon, Rev. Canon Fry, Revs. J. N. Bennie, G. E. Brunner, H. J. Hoskyns, J. Davies, D. J. Vaughan, T. H. Jones, J. R. Redhead, E. H. Bullivant, A. Hill, S. G. Bellairs, J. W. Fletcher, M. Osborn, C. F. Thornehill, J. B. Dixon, J. Denton, J. Spittal, W. T. Fry, Sutton, Packe, J. Halford, Tower, Colyer, Berry, Scott, Moore, Gallwey, Pertwee, Waddell, Freer, Waller, Bunting, Wood, Sankey, Homer, Pilling, Tyers, Packer, Barber, Woodcock, Mason, Loyley, Osborne, Hassell, Pownall, Fairbrother, Addison, &c.; Bros. Sir Henry St. John Halford, Bart., A. Pell, Esq., M.P., and Major Knight; Lieutenant Whitby, Messrs. J. Y. Crofts, L. Turner, A. Ellis, J. T. Pilgrim, W. Richards, H. S. Jones, G. C. Bellairs, W. W. Stretton, S. Harris, W. Hunt, H. C. Woodcock, Lee, T. North, C. H. Hambley, T. Wilson, J. Buzard, &c., &c.

An elegant lunch was kindly provided by Mr. C. Stretton, in a tent on his grounds, for his brother Freemasons and others engaged in the ceremony, of which a large number of those present availed themselves, and, on the motion of F. Goodyer, Esq., passed a cordial vote of thanks to Mr. Stretton for his hospitality. Luncheon was also provided by Mr. Luke Turner, W. Stretton, Esq., Joseph Harris, Esq., and other gentlemen in the neighbourhood.

The procession proceeded to St. Margaret's Church, where a similar service to that of St. Paul's was gone through.

The procession, in returning, moved along Belgrave-gate to the Haymarket, the Freemasons, quitting it at the clock-tower, returned to their hall, where the Provincial Grand Lodge was resumed. Bro. Kelly, P.G.M., after some remarks on the gratifying and highly successful proceedings of the day, gave a brief sketch of the Masonic career of the late beloved Provincial Grand Master, Earl Howe, whose loss is so universally deplored; and after a warm eulogium of his many virtues and allusions to the unvarying kindness and courtesy which he (Bro. Kelly) had ever received from him during his fourteen years of service as his Lordship's Deputy, in the rule of the Province, moved the following resolution, which was seconded by the Acting D.P.G.M. (Bro. Goodyer, P.P.G.S.W.), and carried unanimously, and copies were ordered to be transmitted to the Countess Howe and to Viscount Curzon (now Earl Howe):—

"That the members of this Provincial Grand Lodge have received with the deepest feelings of unfeigned sorrow and regret the melancholy intelligence of the decease, full of years and honours, of their late beloved and revered Provincial Grand Master, the Right. Hon. the Earl Howe, G.C.H., &c., &c., &c.

"Initiated into Freemasonry at an early age, the deceased R.W. Brother, during nearly half a century, had closely identified himself with the fraternity in his native county, whilst for the past fourteen years, up to his resignation of office in December last, he had presided over the Province as its Grand Master, ever displaying the greatest interest in the prosperity, and zealously promoting the extension, of the Order.

"The removal by the hand of death of a nobleman so long connected with the Craft in Leicestershire, and holding so eminent a position in the order, must, under any circumstances, create a deep emotion in the breasts of those over whom he ruled; but his lordship was endeared to them by other and far stronger ties than those resulting from his exalted position and official duties, discharged with kindness and courtesy. With these were combined such truly noble qualities of heart and disposition as endeared him throughout his long career, not only to his Masonic brethren, but to all classes of persons with whom he came in contact, and created towards him the warmest feelings of personal regard and reverence.

"Of the many virtues which adorned his character, none shone forth with greater brilliancy than that truly Masonic tie—charity; whilst his chief aim seemed to be that of doing good, of alleviating the sorrows and of increasing the happiness of all by whom he was surrounded. So that it might be truly said of him, that 'when the ear heard him then it blessed him, the blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon him, and he caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.'

"Whilst recording upon their minutes their sense of the irreparable loss which they and the fraternity at large have thus sustained by the decease of their late beloved Chief, whose honoured memory they will long cherish, the members of this Provincial Grand Lodge beg respectfully to offer to the Countess Howe, to the Visct. Curzon (his lordship's successor), and the other members of the family, their heartfelt condolence and sympathy in their bereavement, and to add their earnest prayer that the Great Architect of the Universe will bless and protect them."

It was then directed by the Provincial Grand Master that, as a mark of respect to the memory of their late Chief, the brethren of the Province wear Masonic mourning for a period of six months.

The Provincial Grand Lodge, which had been attended by upwards of 100 brethren, including the D.G.P.M. and the P.G.J.W. of North and Hunts. (Sir Henry St. J. Halford, Bart., Albert Pell, Esq., M.P., and a large number of clerical brethren, was then closed in due form and with solemn prayer.

FREEMASONRY IN THE ISLE OF MAN.

In reporting the following we are glad to find that Masonry, both Craft and Arch, is in such a flourishing and prosperous condition. It is not much over four years since the first lodge under the English Constitution was opened on the island, there being at that time only one small lodge in Castletown under the Irish Constitution, and at the present time there are two flourishing lodges in Douglas and one in Ramsey, the Athole Lodge, 1004, as also the Tynwald Lodge, 1242, applied for and had granted to them a warrant for a Royal Arch Chapter to be attached to their respective lodges, and on Monday, the 23rd ultimo, at the Douglas Hotel, Douglas, the Athole Chapter, 1004, was consecrated by Comp. W. T. May, P.Z., as M.E.Z.; Comp. James Hamer, P.Z., as H.; and Comp. C. Ludham, P.Z., as J.; who were specially invited from Liverpool for the purpose. After the consecration, which was conducted by Comp. J. Hamer in his usual effective manner, they proceeded to instal into their respective offices Comp. G. M. Lofthouse as M.E.Z., Comp. H. P. Mayle as H., and Comp. R. Tuton as J., who were duly saluted as such by the companions present. After these proceedings no less than eight candidates were proposed for exaltation at the next meeting of the chapter. The business being over the companions dined together, the caterer being Comp. H. P. Mayle, the landlord of the hotel. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and special votes of thanks to the deputation and to the Chapter of Harmony (220, Garston), for their valuable assistance in obtaining the warrant for the chapter and sending three Past Principals to consecrate and instal. The companions adjourned at an early hour well satisfied with the day's proceedings.

On the following evening (Tuesday, the 24th), a special emergency meeting was held of the Athole Lodge, 1004, under the presidency of Bros. R. Tuton as W.M.; S. Webb, S.W.; and W. Harris, J.W.; for the purpose of initiating Mr. J. J. Quine and Mr. W. Cole, which ceremony was respectively performed by the W.M. and Bro. G. M. Lofthouse, P.M., after which, at the request of the W.M., Bro. James Hamer, P.M. assisted by Bros. W. T. May, P.M., C. Ludham, P.M., and the officers of the lodge, went through the whole of the seven sections of the first degree, to the great gratification of all present. The lodge was then closed and the brethren adjourned to supper, separating in peace and harmony at an early hour.

On the next evening (Wednesday, the 25th) the regular meeting of the Tynwald Lodge, 1242, was held at their rooms in Athole-street, under the presidency of Bro. Harwood, W.M. (who had been present at each of the previous meetings). The principal business was the raising of three brethren to the third degree, which ceremony was performed (at the request of the W.M.) by Br. Lofthouse, P.M. 1004, in a most marked and admirable manner.

The lodge was then closed to the second degree, when Bro. James Hamer (who, with the remainder of the deputation from Liverpool, was present), delivered the beautiful lecture of that degree in a very excellent manner. The lodge was then closed to the first degree and then finally in brotherly love, peace, and harmony.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF BERKS AND BUCKS.

The annual Provincial Grand Lodge of this Province was held on Friday, last week, under the presidency of the R. W. P. G. M., Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., E.P., in the Assembly Rooms, Friar-street. The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in due form, and in addition to the usual business transacted on these occasions, the newly-framed Bye-laws were submitted, and after several alterations had been made, were adopted. The Provincial Grand Officers were appointed and invested as follows:—

Bro. H. D. Almaire (945) ...	Senior G. Warden
" J. Medley (840) ...	Junior G. Warden
" Rev. D. Fidler (591) ...	Chaplain.
" Rev. T. Barton (574) ...	Assistant Chaplain.
" Caleb Holden (771) ...	Treasurer.
" H. H. Hodges (795) ...	Registrar.
" W. Biggs (1101) ...	Secretary.
" J. Weightman (1101) ...	Senior G. Deacon.
" Hounslow (414) ...	Junior G. Deacon.
" A. L. Taylor (591) ...	Supt. of Works.
" J. Strange (209) ...	Grand Dir. Cer.
" Dr. Holmes (771) ...	Asst. Dir. Cer.
" Cross ...	Grand S. Bearer.
" Mortimer (948) ...	Grand Organist.
" G. Bowyer (574) ...	Pursuivant.

Charity Jewels were presented to Bros. E. J. Trendell, R. Belcher, and W. Biggs, those brethren having served as Stewards at the festivals of the noble charities connected with the mystic Order.

The lodge business was followed by a banquet at the Town Hall. The balcony was occupied by ladies, who apparently listened with great interest to the speeches delivered after dessert had been introduced. The chair was occupied by the Provincial Grand Master (Sir D. Gooch, Bart.), and the company included:—Bros. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M., Hampshire; the Rev. Sir John Hayes, D.P.G.M. Berks and Bucks; Spiers, D.P.G.M. Oxfordshire; Hervey, Grand Secretary of the Order; the Rev. R. G. Simpson, P.G. Chaplain; D. Fidler and H. Barton, Chaplains; Samuel Wittey, D.P.G.M. Wiltshire; Captain Wyndham, Salisbury; Binckes, London; W. Biggs, P.G. Sec.; and Bros. A. Sellar, R. Hurley, G. Botly, W. H. Cave, G. Boyer, C. Holden, W. W. King, Raveron, Herbert, A. Judd, R. Johnston, W. H. Webster, Dowson, Hayes, Morland, J. Blandy-Jenkins, Weightman, Hodges, Kinnersley, H. D'Almaire, J. Trendell, J. W. Hounslow, J. S. Blowers, R. Bradley, Dorchester, W. Moxhay, J. Chesterton, J. T. Stranson Ferguson, W. H. Strickland, Marriott, Gedge, Distin, Leaver, Whiteway, W. W. Ridley, J. Chandler, G. J. Cosburn, &c.

The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. Marriott, Prov. Grand Organist, assisted by Bros. Strickland, P.P.G.O., Gedge, and Distin, and it is needless to state that the performances of such accomplished vocalists afforded the company much pleasure.

The general arrangements for this annual festival devolved upon the Provincial Grand Secretary, (Bro. Biggs), by whom they were most efficiently carried out.

The toasts proposed and honoured, included the following:—"The Right Hon. the Earl De Grey and Ripon, the M.W.G.M., His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, P.G. Masters of the Grand Lodge of England;" "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, D.G.M., and the Grand Officers of Grand Lodge of England, Past and Present," acknowledged by Bro. Hervey, the Grand Sec. of England; "The R.W. the P.G.M. of the Province, Sir D. Gooch, Bart., M.P.," proposed by the Rev. Sir J. Hayes; and Sir Daniel ably responded. The remarks Sir Daniel made as to the manner in which he hoped to rule the province was warmly received. The observations applied chiefly to the appointment of Provincial Grand Officers; "The V.W. the Rev. Sir J. W. Hayes, Bart., D.G.M., and Grand Officers of the Province, Past and Present," for whom Sir John returned thanks; "The Right Hon. the Lord Methuen, P.G.M.," Bros. Wittey, D.G.M. of Wiltshire; Spiers, of Oxford; Wittey and Spiers severally replied. Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson, (late Vicar of Slough) eloquently gave as the next toast "The Masonic Charities," which he truthfully termed the soul of Freemasonry, and mentioned that at the festival of the Boys' School last year, the large sum of £12,000 was handed in by the Stewards in behalf of that excellent charity. The rev. gentlemen coupled with the toast the names of Bros. Binckes and Biggs, each of whom responded; "The Visitors," for whom Bro. Capt. Wyndham responded; "The P.G. Treasurer and Secretary," acknowledged by Bros. Holden and Biggs; "The W.M., Officers and Brethren of the Berkshire Lodge of Hope, (Newbury), and other lodges in the Province," acknowledged by Bro. W. H. Cave, W.M., P.G. Registrar; "The P.G. Stewards," and "The Tyler's Toast."

"I have been afflicted nine years with rheumatism and gripping pains all over my body, so as to be unable to work, and had been confined to my bed for several weeks, when I heard of your Pain Killer, and got a bottle. I began using it at once, and within twelve hours was free from pain, and was able to walk.—GEORGE HEWSON Warrington, Aug. 15, 1867.—To Perry Davis & Son, London, W.C.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Star Lodge, No. 1275.—The election meeting of this flourishing lodge was held at the Marquis of Granby Tavern, New Cross-road, on Friday, June 3rd. Bro. J. Smith, P.G.P., W.M., presided, and opened the lodge at four o'clock p.m. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. Ballots, taken separately, were unanimously in favour of Messrs. Clare and Guest; also for Bros. E. Harper and W. B. Tustin as joining members. The work done at this meeting was initiating Mr. Clare, passing Bro. Beckett, and raising Bro. A. Stevens, and it was all rendered in a superior, excellent, and impressive manner. Bro. F. Walters, P.M. and Sec., proposed, and it was carried unanimously, that, instead of a P.M.'s jewel, a ten-guinea testimonial of any article (the choice to be left to the W.M.), be presented to the W.M. Bro. J. Smith, P.G.P., for his efficient services as the first W.M. of the lodge. The elections were unanimously in favour of Bro. W. Ough, P.G.P., S.W., as W.M.; J. Smith, P.G.P., W.M., as Treas.; J. Gilbert as Tyler (re-elected). The lodge was closed. Present besides those named: C. J. Hogg, P.G.S., P.M.; J. W.; H. Keeble, S.D.; T. Hobson as J.D.; H. Crabtree, T.G.; T. R. Darke, T. Whiteman, and others. Visitors: Bros. H. Potter, P.M. 11; J. Smith, W.M. 157; J. W. T. Barrett, S.W. 871, and others. Banquet followed.

MIDDLESEX.

Acacia Lodge, No. 1309.—On Saturday, June 4th, at the Sebright Arms Tavern, Alston-road, West Barnet, an emergency meeting of this lodge was held. Punctually at 3.0 p.m. the W.M., Bro. F. Walters, opened the lodge. The ballots (taken separately) were unanimous in favour of all the candidates for initiation. Mr. Gustav Packy was introduced and initiated. Then Mr. Stephen Corson was initiated. The ceremony was admirably rendered and most impressively given. The W.M. was complimented by all present for his excellent working. There were present: Bros. G. J. Loe, S.W.; R. Sinclair, as J.W.; Sillifant, P.M., Treas.; G. Cattel, P.M., Sec.; — Richardson, S.D.; H. Kirby as J.D.; — Hall, J.G.; T. R. Tustin, D.C., and others. Some visitors were also present. The lodge was closed. Refreshment followed labour.

PROVINCIAL

HINCKLEY.—Knights of Malta Lodge, No. 50.—The usual monthly meeting of this ancient lodge was held at the Town Hall, Hinckley, on Wednesday, the 25th ult., the W.M., Bro. Rev. W. Langley in the chair, when there was a large attendance, including many brethren from the Abbey Lodge, Nuneaton. Mr. H. Atkins, one of the principal manufacturers in the town, was ballotted for and initiated by Bro. Langley and the officers of the lodge. The P.G.M. was elected an Honorary Member by the lodge, the Rev. P. Phelps, at present in charge of the parish church was proposed as a candidate for initiation at the next next meeting, and a brother of the Abbey Lodge as a joining member. There seems to be every reason to expect that this, the Mother Lodge of the Province may regain its old position, as one of the largest and best worked lodges in it. The lodge was closed at 9 o'clock, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment at the George Hotel, and spent a few hours in social harmony.

DARLINGTON.—Restoration Lodge, No. 111.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Northgate, on Thursday evening, the 26th ult., and in consequence of the W.M. being away from home, the chair of K.S. was occupied by Bro. Joseph Morrell, I.P.M., during the earlier part of the evening, and afterwards by Bro. W. Lear, P.M., Bro. Jackson acting as S.W. The minutes of the last regular lodge and of a Lodge of Emergency having been read and confirmed, Bros. S. Adamson and Wm. Smith were examined, and proving proficient, were entrusted and retired. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bros. Adamson and Smith were passed to the degree of F.C., the charge being delivered by Bro. B. Boulton. The report the New Lodge Committee was then presented and read by Bro. Laidlaw, the Sec., and on being put to the lodge, was adopted. The Acting Senior Warden, Bro. C. Jackson, then gave notice that at the next regular lodge he would move, that the building now used as a Baptist Chapel in Archer-street, be purchased, and converted into a Masonic Hall, as recommended in the report of the New Lodge Committee. Bro. B. Boulton having suggested that new F.C. aprons be provided, the matter was referred to the standing committee, and the lodge having been impressively closed by Bro. Lear, P.M., the brethren adjourned to refreshment.

LIVERPOOL.—Mariner's Lodge, No. 249.—This old established and flourishing lodge which received its charter in 1783, held its regular monthly meeting at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, on Thursday, the 2nd inst., under the efficient guidance of Bro. William Penning, W.M. Bro. Dr. Joseph Kellett Smith, P.M., occupying the S.W. chair, and Bro. William Crane, P.M., that of J.W., owing to the unavoidable absence of the regular officers of the lodge. There was a full muster of the members and an unusually large gathering of visitors, owing no doubt to the important business announced upon the circular, which included the election of W.M. for the ensuing year. The lodge being duly opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed, Mr. Michele Amoroso was ballotted for, approved of, and duly initiated. Several matters of great importance was then disposed of, a sum of more than £20 being voted to applicants for the lodge's bounty, and ultimately the W.M. in an impressive speech, announced that it was then his pleasing duty to proceed to take the sense of the brethren as to their selection of the future occupant of the chair, and before doing so, he had two requests to make to the visitors, first, that they would kindly retire for a short space, and secondly, that they would each and every one of them, favour the lodge with their company at the evening's banquet, he, the W.M., stated he felt it a matter of necessity to make this appeal to them in consequence of the exceedingly crowded state of the room, and in order to facilitate the distribution and collection of the ballots. The visitors having rendered obedience to this request, the W.M. then proceeded to state, that the S.W. of the lodge having through the necessities of business retired from his chair, and the J.W. being then beyond the seas, none remained eligible for the office they were about to fill, but himself and the P.M.'s. He then gracefully informed the assembly, that he desired to relinquish the arduous duties attendant upon the position of W.M., and caused the Secretary, Bro. Edward Roberts, to read over the names of those brethren, who being members of the lodge, had already passed the chair. The immediate P.M., Bro. G. de la Perrelle, informed the brethren that he would rather not receive any nomination, and his example was at once followed by Bro. William Crane. P.M. Bro. Jones, P.M., then addressed the lodge. He urged the brethren to make a careful selection of their future chief officer, and in consideration of the peculiar circumstances in which that exceedingly large lodge was placed through the absence of the regular S. and J.W.'s, no doubt the brethren would feel some difficulty, for himself he begged to be excused from any nomination, having passed the chair, he knew too well the arduous attention, the incessant care and undeviating firmness that were requisite to govern a Masonic body of such magnitude, to desire another term of office, but he was anxious to impress upon the members, and especially the younger portion of them, the necessity of exercising the franchise with care and discrimination. He was about to add some further remarks, when the gavel of the W.M. called the lodge to order. Bro. Joseph Healing, P.M., then claimed the indulgence of the W.M. for a few moments, he stated he was a candidate for the suffrages of his brethren, and would, if elected, do all that within him lay to forward the prosperity of Masonry, and that his Mother Lodge. Here he was interrupted, and called to order by Bro. Edwin Hughes, S., who appealed to the chair, that such expressions were directly at variance with Masonic law as laid down in the Book of Constitutions, and begged Bro. Healing to remember that he was already not only a P.M. of that lodge, but the occupant of the chair of No. 1264. Reference having been made to Bro. Dr. Smith, the W.M., kindly accorded to him permission to address the lodge. He stated, that although P.M. of No. 1094, it was the height of his ambition to ascend the throne of that his mother lodge, and expressed his willingness to be placed in nomination. The W.M. then announced to the brethren that the candidates were, P.M.'s Bros. C. Leedham, Joseph Healing, and Dr. J. K. Smith, and the ballot box was at once passed around the lodge, the tickets having been gathered, the W.M. and Secretary assisted by the Treasurer, amidst breathless silence proceeded to call over the votes, and they were as follows:—Bros. Leedham, 3; Healing, 19; Smith, 38; and the W.M. declared Bro. Joseph Kellett Smith, P.M., 1094, M.E.Z. of the Temple Chapter duly elected W.M. for the ensuing year, and complimented the brethren upon securing the services of so eminent a Master of the Craft. After a lapse of a brief space, the W.M. elect arose, evidently much affected by the honour conferred upon him, and in a few feeling remarks given with much emotion, assured the brethren he would devote to the duties of the office to which they had elected him, his undivided attention, and cordially thanked them for their selection. Bro. G. de la Serrelle, P.M., was then unanimously elected Treas. for the ensuing year, Bro. Pearson having previously expressed a desire to retire from that office, and the other regular Masonic business being disposed of, the W.M. made the usual appeal to the lodge for the first time of asking, when Bro. Edwin Hughes arose and announced, that he had much pleasure in presenting to his brethren, a book containing a report of the proceedings of the M.W. Grand Lodge of Kansas for 1869, but just received by him from a very dear friend and brother residing in that state, and assured them that if they carefully perused its pages profit as well as pleasure would be the result, and he particularly called the attention of the Masonic sages of this lodge to the volume, as one that would gratify them exceedingly in exhibiting how admirably the Craft worked in that distant land. The W.M. having thanked Bro. Hughes for this gift, the lodge was closed in solemn form, and the members and visitors subsequently sat down to a sumptuous repast, during which all the usual Masonic toasts received full honour, and the brethren ultimately departed in peace and harmony.

LEICESTER.—St. John's Lodge, No. 279.—The brethren of this lodge held an emergency meeting at the Freemasons Hall, on Wednesday, the 1st inst., for the purpose of raising Bros. Kirby and Blankley to the third degree, which ceremony time did not permit to be performed at last regular meeting. After passing the requisite examination satisfactorily, those brethren were raised respectively to the sublime degree of P.G.M. The ceremony was performed by Bro. Kelly, P.G.M., who presided in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., owing to a professional engagement. Bro. Crow, J.W. and P.G.O. presided at the organ, and led the musical chants. About twenty-five brethren were present, among whom were, Bros. Toller, W.M., No. 523, (who filled the S.W.'s chair in the absence of Bro. Stretton,) Deane, Reading Lodge, White, of Ireland, and several brethren of No. 523.

DARTFORD.—Kent Emulation Lodge, No. 299.—This lodge held its installation meeting here on Tuesday, the 1st ult. at Bro. Bray's, the Bull Inn. The W.M., Bro. Mackney, having opened the lodge at 2 o'clock in due form and with solemn prayer by the Wor. P.G. Chaplain, Bro. Hill. The minutes of the preceding were read by Bro. P. Harvey, P.M., P.P.G.D., the Sec., and commended. Mr. Humphries, of Erith, was then introduced and initiated according to ancient usage, into the mysteries and privileges of Freemasonry by the W.M. Bro. Tinker, the W.M.-elect, was then introduced by Bro. Bonner, and presented for installation, and was installed into the chair of K.S., which ceremony was performed in such an able and impressive manner by the retiring V.M., E. Mackney, as to enlist the warmest encomiums from all the brethren present. The W.M. then appointed his officers for the ensuing year, addressing each one on the duties of his office:—Bros. J. Miles, S.W.; C. Andrews, J.W.; N. Martin, Treas.; P. Hervey, Sec.; G. Tyler, S.D.; W. Russell, J.D.; W. Jabay, I.G.; R. Stone, D.C. Amongst the brethren present were the following:—Bros. F. Hobson, D.P.G.M.; A. Hills, G.C.; J. Nettlingham, P.P.S.G.W.; E. Wates, P.S. ec.; W. Sheen, P.G.D.C.; F. White, P.P.G.D.C.; V. Snow, P.P.G.S.W.; Hicks, P.P.G.S.B.; Simmons, G.S.; R. B. Newsome, P.S.D.; J. Palmer, P.G.S.D.; Terry, P.G.S.B. Herts; T. C. Lancaster (145), A. Coulston (228), G. Neal (1208), G. Trott (S.D. 192), G. Abbott (J.D. 192), and several other brethren. On the edge being closed the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was served in Bro. Bray's best style, when the usual toasts were gone through, and a very enjoyable evening concluded with the Tyler's toast.

ROYAL ARCH.

PROVINCIAL.

LIVERPOOL.—Chapter of Liverpool, No. 292.—The regular convocation of this chapter was held at the Masonic Temple, 22, Hope-street, on the evening of Monday, the 6th inst., and despite the attractions and festivities attendant on the opening of Stanley Park and the laying the foundation stone of the Stanley Hospital, a good muster of companions appeared in answer to the summons. The Principals and officers present were: Comps. Dr. J. Mercer Johnson, M.E.Z.; Laidlaw as H.; S. Williams, J.; Pelham, P. Soj.; and Austick, S.E. Past Principals: Comps. Thos. Wylie, G.R. and Treas., and Hess. Visitors: Comps. H. S. Lpass, P.Z. and P.G. Scribe; E. Armstrong, P.Z. and G. Asst. Soj.; and Hon. Hy Holbrook, J.P., Dep. G.M. Vancouver's Island and British Columbia, who in 1849 was exalted, and in 1854 attained the rank of H. of this chapter. The chapter having been duly opened and the companions admitted, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. A petition for pecuniary relief for the widow of a late well-known and highly-respected member was read, and a substantial donation awarded her. A communication was received from the Mariners' Lodge, 249, suggesting that a book be kept, common to all lodges and chapters, in which to record the particulars of relief granted by private lodges and chapters, and requesting the co-operation of the chapter to carry out the scheme. The companions, after discussing the matter in its various bearings, were of opinion that it was entirely contrary to the spirit of Masonic charity and brotherly love, and resolved to discountenance the proceeding. The chapter was shortly afterwards closed, and the companions adjourned to an excellent banquet at the Adelphi Hotel, the after proceedings being enlivened by some capital songs and recitations, and, after an evening spent in the harmony of fraternal intercourse, the companions separated at an early hour.

INSTRUCTION.

SCOTLAND

ABERDEEN.—St. George's Lodge of Instruction, No. 90.—The third general meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, 41, Queen-street, on the evening of the 3rd ult., at 8 o'clock, Bro. G. Skakle, acting R.W.M.; J. Gunn, S.W.; A. Dakers, J.W. Among those present were, Bros. G. S. Forrest (Honorary President), W.M. St. George's Lodge, and Savage R.W.M. 93. Bro. Skakle having wrought the first degree, was highly complimented by Bros. Forrest and Savage for the very impressive manner in which he had gone through the ceremony of initiation. The lodge was then opened in the second, and afterwards in the third degree for instruction and practice. In the course of the evening a very elegant and complete box of working tools, with a suitable inscription, was presented by Bros. G. Walker, W. Milne, and G. Skakle. In presenting the box Bro. Skakle made a very appropriate speech, embracing the origin and benefits derived by members attending such a lodge. The Honorary President in receiving the gift, in the name of the lodge, said "he was very proud to know that there were so many brethren in the St. George's Lodge who took an active interest in Masonry, as to lay the foundation of such a useful institution in connection with their father lodge." A vote of thanks was passed by the lodge to the brethren, for the very handsome gift they had bestowed. After which the lodge was closed in due form.

Bro. DA CUNTRA BELLEM, a surgeon attached to the Portuguese army, has published an abridged history of Masonry in Portugal. The new Grand Orient of Lusitania is, we learn, on very friendly terms with the French Masonic authorities.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

RED CROSS OF ROME & CONSTANTINE.

Original or Premier Conclave of England.

The anniversary assembly of this Conclave was held at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, on Monday, the 30th ult.

The Lord Kenlis, G. Sov., presided, and was supported by V.I. Knts. the Rev. T. Fitzarthur Ravenshaw, G.H. Prelate; J. Hervey, G.H.C.; W. H. Hubbard, G. Treas.; R. W. Little, G. Rec.; W. E. Gumbleton, G.C.; J. G. Marsh, G.A.; H. C. Levander, G.A. Treas.; Angelo J. Lewis, G.A.M.; R. W. Stewart, G.A.H.; T. Cubitt, G.H.; H. Parker, G.O.; G. Powell, G.S.B.; J. Trickett, Ins. Gen. Kent; G. Kenning, Prefect; A. B. Cook, S.B.; M. Edwards, J. W. Barrett, W. Boord, E. Sillifant, G. A. Taylor, W. H. Andrew, J. T. Moss, N. Lake, and others whose names we are unable to furnish. Visitors: E. Sir Kt. Dr. Partridge, M.P.S.-elect, No. 19, Birmingham; J. L. Kennedy, S.B. 19; R. J. W. Brinton, 19; F. Walters, P. Sov. 3; W. C. Lucey, M.D. Herald, 3; W. Roebuck, 15; J. Brett, P. Sov. 2; D. R. Still, M.P.S. 2.

The conclave having been duly opened, ballots were taken for a long list of candidates, of whom the following, being in attendance, were then installed as Knights of the Order: The Right Hon. the Lord Lindsay, 31st, Lodge 10; the Rev. C. J. Martyn, G. Chaplain of England; Charles H. Cox, 30th, Lodge 10; T. Burdett Yeoman, Lodge 715; C. J. Berners Plestow, 18th, Lodge 176; R. M. Bowman, Richard Brett, Lodge 34; W. S. Haines.

A College of Viceroy's was then opened by the G. Rec., when Sir Kts. Kennedy, Brinton, Lord Lindsay, Bowman, Cox, Plestow, Martyn, Lucey, Yeoman, and Haines were admitted to the Priestly Order.

Sir Kts. Cook, Roebuck, and Partridge were elevated to the rank of Sovereigns, and Sir Kt. Trickett, the M.P.S.-elect, was duly inducted into the chair of Constantine, and Sir Kt. Lewis into that of V.E. The officers were then invested as follows: G. Kenning, S.G.; T. W. Boord, T.G.; W. H. Andrew, H.P.; T. Cubitt, P. Sov.; Treas.; R. W. Little, P. Sov.; Recorder; J. G. Marsh, P. Sov.; Asst. Recorder; J. T. Moss, Prefect; E. Sillifant, S.B.; A. B. Cook, Orator; H. Parker, Organist; G. A. Taylor, Herald; J. Gilbert, Sentinel.

The installation, joining, and banquet fees were, upon motion duly made, unanimously increased, as the conclave now numbers between sixty and seventy members, exclusive of honorary members. The conclave was then formally closed, and the chevaliers adjourned to the banquet-room, where a very pleasant evening was spent by all present. Great regret was felt that the retiring M.P.S., Sir Kt. Wescombe, was unable to attend through illness, and the unavoidable absence of Sir Frederick M. Williams, Bart, M.P., the G.V.E.; Colonel F. Burdett, G.H.C.; Robert Jones, G. Orator, and other Kts., who had sent apologies for non-attendance, was also lamented.

A pleasing incident in the evening's proceedings was the presentation of a very handsome silver snuff-box to the G. Recorder, which bore the following inscription:—"Presented by E. Sir Kt. Barrett to E. Sir Kt. R. Wentworth Little, 18th, G.R., as a mark of esteem for his courteous behaviour. May 30, 1870." This testimonial was presented amidst great applause, and was appropriately acknowledged by Sir Kt. Little. We must not omit to state that the G.O., Sir Kt. Parker, presided at the harmonium in the conclave, and the piano-forte at the banquet with his usual ability, and the Kts. had the pleasure of hearing the exquisite voice of Sir Kt. Kennedy in several pleasing songs.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

INDIA.

On Saturday, the 30th April, 1870, the Royal Kent Encampment of Knights Templar held its regular quarterly meeting at the Masonic Hall, 55, Bentinck-street, Calcutta, when the following Sir Knights were present: V.E. Sir Knight Hugh David Sandeman, Provincial Grand Commander; E. Sir Knight W. C. Allender, E. Commander; E. Sir Knights J. L. Taylor, H. H. Locke, F. Powell, and G. H. Daly; and Sir Knights O. B. Andrews, G. M. Goodricke, A. M. Broadley, J. R. Alexander D'Cruz, C. J. Brown, C. K. Dove, Col. B. Ford, B. M. Hunt, D. McGregor, G. G. Nelson, W. F. Westfield, and D. J. Daniello. The encampment having been opened in due form at 6.30 p.m., the muster roll was called, and the minutes of last regular and emergency meetings were read and confirmed. A deputation consisting of E. Sir Knight J. L. Taylor, P.E. Commander; Sir Knights O. B. Andrews and G. M. Goodricke, 1st and 2nd Captains; and Sir Knight A. M. Broadley, Prelate of the Encampment, were passed out to receive and escort the V.E. Sir Knight H. D. Sandeman, Provincial Grand Commander of the Order in Bengal and the East Indies. On an alarm, E. Sir Knight W. C. Allender, the E. Commander of the Encampment, advanced, and, under the Arch of Steel, received the V.E. the Grand Commander and his escort. The sceptre having been handed to the V.E. the Grand Commander, Companions William Berry Farr, William Edward Jellicoe, William Smith, John Peter Hubbard, and Adolph Friedemann were introduced and installed as Knights Templar. At the conclusion of the ceremony, which was most ably performed by the V.E. the Grand Commander, assisted by E. Sir Knight Allender as Expert, the sceptre was handed back to the Commander of the Encampment, E. Sir Knight Allender. The following Office Bearers for the year were then appointed by the E. Commander:—

Sir Knight O. B. Andrews to be 1st Captain.
Sir Knight G. M. Goodricke to be 2nd Captain.
" " J. R. Alex. D'Cruz, Registrar.

Sir Knight A. M. Broadley	Prelate.
E. " J. L. Taylor	Treasurer.
" " C. J. Brown	Almoner.
" " D. McGregor	Expert.
" " T. McKelvey	1st Herald.
" " W. E. Jellicoe	2nd Herald.
" " W. F. Westfield	Capt. of the Lines.
" " G. D. Daniells	Equerry.

E. Sir Knight Allender then proposed that this encampment propose a vote of thanks to V.E. Sir Knight H. D. Sandeman, Provincial Grand Commander, for the honour of the visit, the readiness with which he had assented to conduct the ceremonial of installation, and the very impressive manner in which he had performed the same, seconded by E. Sir Knight J. L. Taylor, and carried unanimously. The V.E. the P.G. Commander responded, thanking the Sir Knights for their kindness, and stating that, as this was his first visit, he was very favourably impressed with the encampment, and trusted soon to hear of its further progress. The encampment having been closed with solemn prayer, the V.E. the Provincial Grand Commander retired with his escort under the Arch of Steel, and all Sir Knights adjourned to the Banquet Hall, where the V.E. the P.G. Commander joined them to partake of the bread of plenty and cup of cheerfulness. The usual loyal toasts were given and responded to, the Sir Knights being occupied in the intervals in animated and instructive conversation, and after spending a very pleasant evening, separated close upon the hour of high twelve.

Several Reviews, Report of Frederick Lodge of Unity, 452, and other communications stand over till our next.

THE name of Sir Edmund Lechmere, Bart., Past D.G.M., was accidentally omitted from the list of brethren present at the last meeting of the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters.

UPON the forfeiture of a charter, or the lapse of a lodge, all its property, real and personal, together with whatever sums of money may be due to it, revert at once to the Grand Lodge.

NEW Grand Lodge Delegates, from lodges 107, 108, and 109, Grand Registry of Missouri, but situated in New Mexico, met April 1, and decided upon forming a Grand Lodge for that Territory.

AT the dedication of the Congregational Church at Cloverdale, Cal., Rev. J. S. Barger offered the prayer of dedication, and Rev. W. C. Pond, of San Francisco, preached the sermon. Two-thirds of the sum necessary to erect the church was given by Freemasons, and the lodge presented a church cabinet organ valued at 150 dollars.

If Freemasonry were unknown before the 17th century, how did Queen Elizabeth, in 1566, send an armed force to break up the Grand Lodge and arrest its members? How was it in 1429 that lodges were holden under the patronage of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the names of W.M.'s, Wardens, Fellow Crafts, and E.E.A.A. given by name? The actual minutes of the lodges may be seen by consulting the M.S. Register of the Prior of Canterbury for 1429.—National Freemason.

THE ROSICRUCIANS.—The Rosicrucian system teaches that there are three ascending hierarchies of beneficent angels (the purer portion of the first Fire or Light), divided into nine orders. These threefold angelic hierarchies are the Teraphim, the Seraphim, and the Cherubim. This religion, which is the religion of the Parsees, teaches that, on the Dark Side, there are also three counterbalancing resultant divisions of operative intelligences, divided again into nine spheres, or inimical regions, populated with splendidly endowed adversed angels, who boast still the relics of their lost, or eclipsed, or changed, light. The elementary world or lowest world, in which man and his belongings, and the lower creatures, are produced, is the flux, subsidence, residuum, ashes, or deposit, of the Ethereal Fire. Man is the microcosm, or 'indescritably small copy,' of the whole great world. Dilation and compression, expansion and contraction, magnetic sympathy, gravitation, or flight from is the bond which holds all imaginable things together. It was also claimed that the Rosicrucians knew how to make gold, and how to prolong their lives, but certainly they very sparingly if ever, used either of their powers."

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—The recent changes of Temperature.—It is important that such changes as have recently taken place in the temperature of the atmosphere should not be treated with indifference. The public should be watchful of the effects which they have on the body. The skin and nervous system suffer severely, erysipelas, rheumatism, cold, sore throats, and many other complaints being frequently generated through the above cause. When symptoms of the above diseases show themselves, they should be promptly attended to. Holloway's Ointment and Pills are wonderful remedies, and eradicate the above attacks immediately they show themselves. The Ointment should be rubbed into the parts affected, and the Pills taken according to the printed directions.—[Advt.]

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

THE ANTIQUITY OF THE CRAFT.

THERE can be little doubt that the incredible legends and Munchausen myths, gravely put forth as Masonic narratives by certain writers have done more to arouse scepticism as to the real history of the Craft, than all the attacks of its wittiest enemies would have been able to achieve. Dermott, one of the shrewdest Masons of his time, did not hesitate to ridicule these pretended histories, and his satire is so applicable even at the present day, that we offer no excuse for quoting from his "Ahiman Rezon," which was first published in 1756.

Ahiman, we should premise, is one of four brothers, the others being named Shallum, Akhab, and Talmon, who are supposed to have journeyed from the Holy City of Jerusalem, and in answer to the enquiries of Dermott, Ahiman gives his opinion as follows:—

"Certain it is that Freemasonry has been from the creation though not under that name; that it was a divine gift from God; that Cain and the builders of his city were strangers to the secret mystery of Masonry; that there were but four Masons in the world when the deluge happened; that one of the four, even the second son of Noah, was not master of the art; that Nimrod, nor any of his bricklayers, knew anything of the matter; and that there were but very few Masters of the art, even at Solomon's temple; whereby it plainly appears, that the whole mystery was communicated to very few at that time; that at Solomon's temple, and not before, it received the name of Freemasonry, because the Masons at Jerusalem and Tyre were the greatest chieftains then in the world; that the mystery has been, for the most part, practised amongst builders since Solomon's time; that there were some hundreds mentioned in histories of Masonry under the titles of Grand Masters, &c., for no other reason than that of giving orders for the building of a house, tower, castle, or some other edifice, or perhaps for suffering the Masons to erect such in their territories, &c., while the memories of as many thousands of the faithful Crafts are buried in oblivion: From whence he gave me to understand, that such histories were of no use to the society at present; and further added, that the manner of constituting lodges, the old and new regulations, &c., were the only and most useful things concerning Freemasonry."

The result of all this absurdity is, that doubt is thrown upon every statement which tends to elucidate the mediæval origin of the Fraternity, and we are coolly invited to believe that the present system of Speculative Freemasonry arose at once like a full-blown Minerva from the brains of the learned Frenchman, Desaguliers, in 1717. This theory is as baseless as the alleged derivation from Adam is foolish; because Dr. Plot's evidence alone proves that the Freemasons were an acknowledged secret society more than seventy years before the above-mentioned year, and that men of science and culture like Ashmole were admitted into their fellowship. It is true that other trades besides the Operative Masons professed to have "mysteries," but we rarely find that non-members of the particular trade or guild were received amongst them, while the references made in contemporary works clearly demonstrate that the "signs and tokens" of the Freemasons were known in the seventeenth century to gentlemen of high station who had been initiated as brothers of the Craft.

Who were the men that met at the Apple-tree Tavern in 1717? Were they not Speculative Masons, who desired to perpetuate the knowledge conveyed by ancient symbols, and to make known to all who were worthy the sublime truths veiled in the so-called "mysteries" of the Brotherhood. Unless it can be proved that Sayer, Desaguliers, Payne, Anderson, and the other worthies of the revival period were merely impostors, and that no such institution as Masonry existed before their time, we hold that the inference is clear that each and all of these brethren were Craftsmen in the year named; and we maintain, moreover, that Anthony Sayer, and many others who took part in the proceedings, were Speculative Freemasons long before King George I. ascended to the throne of England. The proof being positive that the revivalists were not simply Operatives, and that the Speculative element had been infused into the Masonic Order long prior to 1717, it further follows that Speculative Masons were sufficiently numerous and influential in that year to take the management of the Craft into their own hands and to remodel it, according to their own ideas. This seems to be the only rational conclusion to arrive at, and without doubt had proper minutes been kept by the brethren in England during the seventeenth century, we should have been much wiser as to the true origin of the institution than we are at present. Again it is alleged that various old documents were destroyed in 1720 by scrupulous brethren, who feared that by their publication the arcana of the Craft would be exposed to the eyes of the profane. This will naturally account for the paucity of evidence adduced in favour of the real history of Freemasonry, and we believe it is a fact, that even the records of the Lodge of Antiquity, previous to the revival, perished in this act of Vandalism. The connection of Sir Christopher Wren with this lodge, (then called the St. Paul's Lodge,) is, however, unquestionable; and the actual mallet used by King Charles II. at the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of the great architect's cathedral, is still preserved by the lodge as one of the most cherished relics of the past. The "guild" theory, we are of opinion, is a very safe one to follow; it gives us the germ of fellowship, of brotherhood and of charity, all of which have been so well and admirably developed in Modern Speculative Masonry. With this reasonable antiquity we are content, although we will not quarrel with the views of many esteemed brethren who delight in tracing points of resemblance between the ceremonies of Freemasonry, and the pagan rites practised in dim historic times by every nation under the sun. That Freemasons have a philosophy we grant, and that it embodies precepts taught in many creeds we readily acknowledge, but to hold that such accidental coincidences prove a common origin, is as logical as to assert that all animals are alike because they have heads and feet. Freemasonry, in its present form, is the result of many modifications, and the lesson of its progress can best be learned by a careful study of its own allegories and emblems. Like the stone, "rude and unpolished," which passes into the hands of the expert workman, and finally receives the polish of perfection from the master's skill, so our Order has been handed down to us; good in its origin as a friendly and brotherly association, but better in its expansion as a humanising principle and noble throughout the length and breadth of the earth. As we have said before, the true power of Freemasonry is to be found in its principles, and however much we may venerate antiquity, we had rather admit that the Order was founded in 1717 than allow one jot, or tittle of those great principles to be obliterated or destroyed.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

THE RED CROSS ORDER.

In common with many members of the above order, I have carefully perused the discussion of late, respecting the claims of the "Red Cross of Rome and Constantine," and have been both interested and instructed; but more than all, gratified to witness the excellent spirit in which the enquiry has been conducted by Bros. "Lupus" and "R.W.L." Surely they are Freemasons worthy of the name, and able to differ without quarrelling, as is too much the case in such discussions. W. J. HUGHAN.

P.S.—As in a former communication by me, I endorse the communication arrived at, as my advocacy has been so from the first.

BRO. YARKER AND THE "HIGH GRADES."

Bro. Yarker still "harps" upon the Constitution of A.D. 1722, which he says contains a reference to the "hautes grades," which I deny. Let Bro. Yarker produce a copy of the work, or say where it is that it may be examined, and then it will be easily seen that no such references are to be found in the work he names. The brother who is said to have lent the work to Dr. Leeson emphatically denies having done so, and states positively it was a Masonic work, wholly operative of 1722, by Roberts. A great curiosity certainly, but not on the "hautes grades." The work he mentions now for the first time should be known to others. W. J. HUGHAN.

BRO. "LEO" AND HIS CHALLENGE TO BRO. HUGHAN.

I shall have great pleasure in accepting Bro. Leo's challenge to prove that we, as Masons, "are descended from the Operative Masons." Having so much in hand just now he will please exercise a little patience, as I promise him, within the next three months, to give him and others the grounds on which I base such a conclusion, feeling sure at the same time that the enquiry is made with the best intentions, and also believing that no Mason has a right to make assertions in THE FREEMASON without being prepared and ready to defend them when called upon so to do in a Masonic manner. After my defence, Bro. "Leo," the champion of Masonic facts, and the opponent of Masonic fiction (two laudable duties, fit to engage an enthusiastic Mason), will then kindly, either admit an operative origin, or disperse my arguments. W. J. HUGHAN.

THE OPERATIVE MASON'S AND SPECULATIVE MASONRY.

The words used by Bro. W. J. Hughan, "The operative Masonic body, from which we are descended," are quite correct, there is plenty of proof in existence that the operative lodges in existence, prior to 1717, taught both operative and speculative Masonry; but as they have now ceased to train apprentices in the operative art, and confined themselves entirely to speculative Masonry, we have continued till the present time in their footsteps, leaving aside a portion, and improving in another, we are justly entitled to claim descent from them, from the fact that lodges are at present in existence which prove the fact. CHALMERS I. PATON.

BRO. "LEO" ON LABOUR AND REFRESHMENT. (p. 273.)

A great number of the remarks by Bro. "Leo" I can personally vouch for to be the truth. On his remark, "The upper classes in Glasgow, e.g., holding entirely aloof from us," is too true. And it is a disgrace to say that Glasgow is ruled over by a few individuals, who are neither scholars or gentlemen. Private, good, and moral character is not a thing necessary to be a Freemason in the eyes of the clique who rule and govern Freemasonry in Glasgow. Although there are many thousands of excellent Freemasons in Glasgow, I speak only of the clique power, whom I will give by name to any brother who may require it. CHALMERS I. PATON.

ST. JOHN'S GATE.

I have been much interested lately in the perusal of a work by John Wilson, Ar. Milit. Ord. S. Johan. Hierosol., on the ancient house of chivalry, St. John's Gate, from which I extract the following notes, which may be new to your readers:—

"1125.—Cardinal John of Cremona held a council in London. The said John, who in the council had most especially condemned all priests who kept concubines, being detected himself in the same vice, excused the vice, because he said that he was not himself a priest, but a reprovcr of priests.

"1170.—This year the bones of a giant were discovered in England, the length of whose body was fifty feet.

"1185.—Eraclius, the patriarch of the Holy Resurrection, and Lord Roger, the master of the Hospitalars, came to the king at Reading, and when they had related the cause of their journey, they excited the king and all their hearers to tears, for the un-heard of desolation of the Holy Land. They also brought to the king many memorable tokens in confirmation of their position; namely, relics of the nativity and passion of Christ, and the keys of the tower of David and the holy sepulchre. The king having taken counsel, replied, "That for him to accept the kingdom of Jerusalem which they offered him, and to go thither to desert his kingdom of England, and expose it to its hostile neighbours, would not be acceptable to God, since this kingdom was as pleasing to God and as devout as the other. When Saladin heard this he ravaged in a merciless manner the territories of the Christians." VIATOR.

Obituary.

BRO. THOMAS WESCOMBE.

(P.M. 905; P.Z. 382 and 657; W.M. No. 1, Mark Masters; Im. P. Sov. Premier Conclave; Past G. Sword Bearer, Mark Grand Lodge; Grand Standard Bearer of the Red Cross Order; Torch Bearer, Council K.H.S.)

One of the kindest-hearted men that ever breathed has gone from amongst us. On Monday morning, the 6th inst., Thomas Wescombe departed this life, at his residence, Burton Cottage, Finchley, after an illness of some weeks' duration. Our late lamented brother was initiated in the Union Waterloo Lodge, No. 13, Woolwich, on the 12th April, 1848, and he continued a member of that lodge for many years. On the 22nd February, 1864, he joined the de Grey and Ripon Lodge, No. 905, Ilford, in which he duly served the office of W.M. On the 26th May, 1864, Bro. Wescombe was exalted in the Canonbury Chapter, No. 657, and became a P.Z., not only of that Chapter, but also of the Royal Union, No. 382, Uxbridge, which he joined on the 21st October, 1865. He was advanced in the Old Kent Lodge of Mark Masters, and was one of the revivers of the St. Mark's Lodge, now No. 1, in May, 1867, and held the office of W.M. for the present year. On the 30th May, 1866, Comp. Wescombe was installed a Knight of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, in the Premier Conclave, and ever afterwards took the deepest interest in promoting the welfare of the Order. He was elected M.P.S. in 1869, and had only just resigned that position, his successor having been inducted on the 30th ult. He was created a K.H.S. in the Mount Carmel Sanctuary, with eight other knights, on the 3rd January, 1867, and held the post of Torch Bearer in the Patriarchal Council. On the 25th February, 1868, he was elected a member of the Red Cross Senate with the rank of Grand Herald, and was subsequently promoted to the office of G. Standard Bearer. He was also a Past Grand Sword Bearer of the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, and a Past Prov. Grand Officer for Kent. Such, in brief, is an abstract of the Masonic career of the lamented deceased, but to this we must add that his hand and heart were ever open to the cry of distress, and that to every good work he lent willing and efficient aid. By those who enjoyed the privilege of social communion with Bro. Wescombe his loss will be deeply and sensibly felt—the well-known face, beaming with genial bonhomie, will no more delight our eyes, and the voice never heard in anger is now hushed for ever in the silence of the grave.

Bro. Wescombe had been for many years the London manager of the well-known firm of Ind & Coope, by whom he was greatly respected, so much so that on his retirement through ill-health, about six weeks ago, the firm awarded him an annuity of £500, which unhappily he did not live to enjoy.

The remains of the deceased were interred at Highgate Cemetery on Thursday, the 9th inst., the obsequies being strictly private; there were, however, several brethren present, amongst whom we observed Bros. States, Buss, Todd, Berri, S. May, Applebee, Wright, Terry, Hoare, Nix, Jacobs, and Warr.

BRO. JOHN HARVEY BOYS.

(P.D.G.M. Kent.)

We regret to announce the decease of Brother John Harvey Boys, of Margate, the P.D.G.M. for the Province of Kent, who was much esteemed by the brethren in the Province, to most of whom, and more especially the elder ones, he was intimately known, from his assiduous attendance to his Masonic duties for nearly a quarter of a century.

The deceased brother was initiated into Freemasonry in the Union Lodge, No. 127, Margate, in October, 1847, served the office of P.G. Steward in 1848, and was elected to the Master's chair in 1850, in which year he was also appointed Provincial Grand Senior Warden, and a vote of thanks was accorded to him in P.G. Lodge, on the 18th of August, 1851, on the motion of the then P.G. Master, Bro. L. C. Humfrey, Q.C., "For the efficient manner in which he had performed the duties of that office, and also for the care he had taken in preparing a new set of by-laws for the Province, which were then and there approved and adopted." In 1859 he was appointed D.P.G. Master, which office he held till the following year, when he was succeeded by Bro. W. F. Dobson, the present D.P.G.M. He was also a Mark Master of the Bon Accord Royal Arch Chapter; P.Z. Thanet Chapter, 429, and also one of the founders of the Wellington Chapter, 784; and K.K.H. 30°.

The deceased, who had been out of health for some time, died suddenly at his residence in Margate on the 29th May last, and was interred in the family vault at Bettshanger near Easby, on the following Friday, his remains being followed to the grave by a large concourse of brethren from the adjoining lodges in the Province, who thus assembled to pay a last tribute of respect to one who had done so much for the Craft and had so well carried out the "three great principles of the order," instilled in our minds on our entrance into Freemasonry.

It may be mentioned that the deceased was sprung from one of the oldest families in Kent, and was a descendant of Sir John Boys, the first Recorder of Canterbury, and the founder of Jesus of Boys' Hospital in that city in 1612, and whose remains are interred in the Cathedral there; and also of the gallant Col. Sir John Boys, who defended Donington Castle, in Berkshire, against the rebels in 1646, and was knighted by Charles I. for his bravery.

CONSECRATION of a NEW LODGE at TOPSHAM.

A public demonstration, ceremonial, and banquet took place at Topsham on Tuesday, 31st ult., in connection with the consecration of the Brent Lodge, No. 1284, of which Col. Brent, of Woodbury, is the W. Master. The lodge stands on a plot of ground adjoining the Globe Hotel, and its position in connection with the adjacent buildings is such that no attempt has been made to give the structure an imposing appearance on the outside, but it has a tasteful, beautiful, and costly interior.

The ceremony was very numerously attended, the following Brethren having assembled at the lodge: Bros. the R.W. the Rev. J. Huyshe, M.A., P.G.M.; V.W. L. P. Metham, D.P.G.M.; R. G. Brent, P.M., 650; P.G. Treasurer, W. R. Scott, P.G.G.D.; E. Davies, S.W., 1099; Geo. W. Burden, W.M., 303; Capt. Dick, P.M., 1181; C. Leigh, W.M., 1205 (Stonehouse); J. Dickinson, G.C., 1125; C. H. Law, P.M. 97, P.P.S.W. (Herts.); S. R. Force, P.P.G.D.C.; H. L. Brewster, W.M. 1254 P.P.G. Reg.; Henry W. Hooper, S.W. 1254; John Hutchings, 2nd Royal Regiment Lodge; Jethro Tucker, J.W. 1254; Henry Bale, P.M., P.P.W.; P. Silvester, 106; John Kenshole, 39; S. S. P. Blight, P.M. 39, P.P.G.O.; Thos. Oliver, S.W. 328; H. S. Gill, 1125; J. K. Pendray, 444; E. Middleton, 710; J. H. Elliott, 710; W. S. Carle, 1254; J. Gould, W.M. 444; John Gambell, P.M., P.P.G.A.D.C. 223; P. F. Luke, 144; C. Hooper, 144; E. Elford, 970; F. Colden, 710; A. B. Niner, J.W. 710; J. Lakeman, P.J.D. 156; G. P. Ward, P.M., P.G.P. 303; A. Bailey, J.W. 444; W. Shephard, 39; R. W. Fulford, 129, P.P.G.R.; J. E. Shanks, S.W. 189 and 1025; J. I. Orchard, 164; W. H. Geachias, P.M. 39, P.P.G.S., P.G.D.; H. Bartlett, P.S.W. 710, P.P.G.D.C.; A. Soper Hexter, P.M. 112, P.P.G.O.; W. Godolphin, 710; G. Westcott, W.M. 70; S. Hodder, Steward 1264; W. E. Williams, J.D. 1125; W. H. Stafford, S.D. 710; J. Stroud Short, 303; S. Williams, 302; E. Brice, 69; R. W. Head, W.M. 112; G. H. S. Yates, 1138, P.G.J.W.; H. Manllier, 53, Bath; J. Page, P.M. 372; R. C. J. Stocker, 122; R. L. Lloyd, 1138; Thos. B. Gibbs, 252; J. F. Martin, 611; Alfred Bodley, 39; Henry Willey, 112; Wm. Lamble, 1138; John Moass Lee, 39; James Stile, S.D. 1554; John Way, W.M. 39; J. Hawton, P.M. 1091, W.M. 954, P.G.D.C.; W. Dymond, 39; W. Can, P.G.T.

The lodge was opened in the first degree, and the P.G. Secretary announced to the P.G. Master (Rev. J. Huyshe) that it desired to be duly constituted and consecrated in ancient form. The warrant from the M.W. the Grand Master having been read, the brethren of the new lodge signified their assent to the officers named in that document. The P. G. Master then pledged the W.M. (Colonel Brent) and officers to obey the constitutions, &c., and then declared the Brent Lodge to be regularly and duly constituted. The P.G. Chaplain (Rev. W. L. Pope, D.D.) delivered the opening invocation, and afterwards read a portion of the Holy Scriptures. The P.G. Master next delivered an invocation, after which the lodge was uncovered, and the P.G. Master offered a prayer, during which the name was placed on the lodge by the P.G. Chaplain. The D.P.G. Master, Bro. L. P. Metham, P.G.D. of England, afterwards delivered the following oration on Masonry:—

Right Worshipful Sir and Brethren,—Could our ancient brethren, that small and happy band of brothers, who first taught and practised Freemasonry, look upon the noble and majestic tree which, in the lapse of ages, has grown from the little seed they sowed with so much confidence, and tended with so much care; could they drink again of the refreshing waters of that little rill they guided and protected until it has swollen into a mighty river, making the arid desert laugh, with varied plenty crowned, they would see with delight that their works had followed them. They would have felt that the unselfish and noble institution they founded had progressed and matured as only human institutions can progress and mature which have their foundations laid deeply and solidly in correct principles. Could they have accompanied us to-day into the House of Prayer, they would have seen, as they would have desired to see, that while the Brotherhood profess no more than that theirs is a peculiar system of morality veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols, yet it is not that false morality which professes to be independent of all religious convictions, but rather that pure and simply morality which is the willing handmaid of the most exalted conceptions of the Deity. From that Book from which the preacher must draw his inspiration, and which is always open in our lodges, Masons learn a lesson of daily admonition, instruction, and also of encouragement. Nearly fifty generations of men passed away while the Bible was being written. Legislators, kings, priests, generals, judges, and shepherds were its authors. In poverty, in wealth, in conflict and in peace, in the palace or in exile, each in turn raised his voice as he was directed by holy inspiration; in words as varied as their rank and age they all bent their energies to compose that wondrous epic. They never faltered in their hoped or expectation, even in adversity, imprisonment, or the flames, or in the den of lions, that a new Jerusalem would be founded in which Jew and Gentile, Scythian and Barbarian, bond and free, should claim an equal heritage. No other writings can be shown which, composed through so many successive ages, points ever to one definite end and object. Without seeking for a moment to raise moral perception to the same level as spiritual inspiration, we may claim that our ancient brethren in like manner never faltered in a steadfast belief in the solemn integrity of their mission to create a common bond of Brotherhood which should banish division and strife, narrowness, and sectarianism, and teach men to live together in that "charity which is the bond of perfectness." Their motto, "Multæ terriculis linguæ, macconis una." They looked down the long vista of coming ages for the time when, instead of man being arrayed against man in national and private strife, the words of our poet brother should be realised, and

Man to man the world o'er Shall brothers be, and a' that.

And none, I think, who look at the signs of the times; none who read history aright can fail to see that every hour adds to the conviction that humanity will some day throw off much its baser attributes, and approach nearer and nearer to its Divine model. And that time will advance more rapidly if Masons are true to themselves and to their Order. None could have witnessed the magnificent spectacle displayed by Grand Lodge, but a few days ago, when the Grand Master and his Deputy were installed, without the conviction forcing itself on his mind that if the representatives who were there from every rank of life, from the Prince next the throne down to the artisan from the workshop, would themselves lead the lives of true Masons, and both by precept and example disseminate the godlike principles of our Order, there would be seen, perhaps even in our own generation, the lever which shall morally move the world. Worshipful Master and brethren of the Brent Lodge, I would exhort you, in the name of the Craft, so to demean yourselves both within and without the lodge, which has to-day been consecrated for your use, that you may add an impulse and a weight to this progress I pray you to remember, brethren of Lodge of Brent that Masonry suffers much less from the attacks of those without, whether Pope, Cardinal, or any other bigot, than from the lukewarmness and want of honourable feeling of far to many of those within our pale. Let the character and antecedents of every candidate for admission into your lodge be carefully sifted by every member, and let each feel that before he extends to anyone the hallowed name of brother, he should be satisfied that his daily life is honourable, just and true, so that he may reflect honour instead of discredit on your choice. No argument, no entreaty, no influence, no question of social position, should lead you to swerve a hair's breadth from this vital and fundamental rule. Better ten men only in a lodge who are good and true, than ten times ten, who seek to enter on light or self-seeking grounds. Nor in the selection of the Master of your lodge by yourselves, nor in the selection of the Officers by the Master, should this rule be relaxed. None but those who have shown integrity and honour in private life, as well as diligence and kindly feeling in the discharge of their respective duties, should be invested with office in any lodge. The influence of the Master should be felt beyond his lodge; he should rebuke the wrongdoer and exhort the waverer, reminding them of their Masonic obligations, and showing them that they hold in their hands the character and honour of their brethren as well as their own. And should all private expostulations and entreaty fail, and the life of an erring brother become a public scandal, no Master is worthy of his post who would hesitate to use the power provided by the Constitutions for cases so painful, but which are, I am happy to believe, so rare. Above all, brethren, remember that the great object to be achieved by Masonry is to make life more desirable for the whole mass of our fellow-creatures than it is at present. I do not mean merely an attempt to diminish the misery and poverty by which we are surrounded on every side, although that should be striven for by all as a most important element of our Masonic work. It means that whatever differences of position and material comfort may exist amongst us even permanently, a far higher range of the social sentiments, and of the principles needed for the expression and support of such sentiments, may and should be called into play among all classes than the world has yet seen. Masons should not only be sober, industrious, moral, truthful, and honest; but their hearts should be Open as day to melting charity, and they should feel and practise a deep and widespread sympathy with humanity in general, without narrowness or sectarian prejudice. While professing great privileges, their mission is to strive to convert the world which feels so keenly that

Man's inhumanity to man
Makes countless thousands mourn.

into a brighter and a better world in which Man's humanity to man

Makes countless thousands blessed.

Let charity be your motto and your daily life, let it be engraven on your hearts as well as your walls, let its records be the choicest furniture of your lodge, and let successive masters and each individual member compete, one with the other, in an honest rivalry in doing what good each can in this generation, each striving to excel the other in what is good and great.

The usual ceremony was afterwards gone through, in which Mr. Hexter acted as organist, and the following as vocalists:—Messrs. Godolphin and Horspool (alto), Cross, Long, Furze (tenor), Rouse, Shears, and Ware. After which a procession was formed, which, headed by two bands of music, proceeded through the principal street of Topsham, and returned to the parish church, where Divine Service was held. There was a very large congregation, including many who did not belong to the Masonic order. The sermon was preached by Br. the Rev. J. Dickenson, of Tiverton, who selected for his discourse the latter part 37th verse, 10th chapter St. Luke—"Then said Jesus unto him, go and do thou likewise." The sermon was a very appropriate one, and at its conclusion, the usual collection was made and the procession returned to the lodge.

In the afternoon the brethren dined together in a large room on the premises of Messrs. Holman, shipbuilders. Upwards of 180 Masons were present.

Notings from Masonic Journals.

GENERAL MELLINET has been re-elected Grand Master of the Grand Orient of France by a majority of one-third of the voters. Bro. Carnot's candidature was supported by 118 brethren. We congratulate Grand Master Mellinet upon the result.

THERE are 28 lodges in Switzerland under the Grand Lodge "Alpina."

A MASONIC monthly review called "La Fraternida" is now published at Seville.

THE lodge "Igualdad" (Equality) at Madrid has 72 members, including a number of advocates, physicians, and men of letters. Five new lodges "Razon," "Luz," "Constancia," "Insticia," and "Libertad," have recently been opened in the same city.

THE lodge "La Verdadera Iniciacion" at Barcelona, originally established by Bro. José Victory in 1855, has just been revived by its founder in that city. Bros. Anguera, Cardona, Morera, Molins, and Percy are the leading officers of the lodge, which at present works in the French or modern rite.

A MOVEMENT has been initiated under the auspices of the lodge "L'Etoile Polaire" at Battignolles, Paris, for the establishment of schools for the professional instruction of women.

FROM the New York Despatch we extract the following answer to a correspondent:—"READER.—To keep the head covered at all sacred performances is a custom of the Jews, brought over from the Orient. It is customary to do so, and an old custom becomes a matter of conscience with the multitude. Therefore a Jew would certainly object to taking the oath, pray, or read the Bible with his head uncovered. The oath is no less valid if the head be uncovered, still the strict Jew would prefer making it with covered head. The priests and Levites in the tabernacle (as also in the temple) certainly had their heads covered, as is evident from the description of the mitsnepheth, "the cap," described in the law for the ministers of the tabernacle."

DISPENSATIONS have been granted to twenty lodges, six chapters, and one commandery in Missouri since the session of the Grand Lodge in October, 1869.

V. E. SIR JOHN D. VINCIL, D.G.C., has been appointed by the Grand Commander of Kentucky representative of that body near the Grand Commandery of Missouri. New York is represented by Sir George Frank Gouley.

THE Macconnick Weekblad, of Amsterdam, notices the fact that a new lodge in London has been named after that truly-benevolent lady Miss Burdett Coutts.

THE Rappel Macconnique, of Brussels, appears to be an organ of the free thinkers, and not of the free Masons, and most of its contributors sound the raises of democracy and materialism, instead of recording or illustrating the progress of the Craft. Its political articles, these writings may be very well, but they are decidedly out of place in a professedly Masonic publication.

THE Freemasons' Journal, of Montreal, contains long report of the Committee on Foreign Correspondence of the Grand Lodge of Maine, U.S.A., recommending the recognition of the Grand Lodge of Quebec—a course which has since been unanimously adopted by the Maine Grand Lodge. No other solution of the difficulty is practicable, or, indeed, desirable, as we intimated many weeks ago.

THE Freemasons' Journal also alludes to the legal action taken by the Hon. William Bagley, formerly D.G.M. of Montreal, under England, in reference to the St. George's Lodge, No. 440 E.R., of Montreal. Bro. Bagley has no jurisdiction in the matter, having for some years ceased to act as District Grand Master. The Journal thus notices its labours:—"We have received THE FREEMASON (London) of April 23rd. It contains a leading editorial (nearly three columns) of great ability, in favour of the M. W. Grand Lodge of Quebec."

OUR old friend the Voice of Masonry of Chicago, U.S.A., is as well edited as ever. The May number is embellished with a fine portrait of Ill. Bro. Isaiah H. Drummond, 33°, the talented Chief of the Supreme Grand Council at Charleston, whose Masonic memoirs is also given. The selections of original articles in the Voice are always excellent.

THE Craftsman, of Hamilton, Ontario, contains a portrait and memoir of Col. W. M. Wilson, the first Grand Master of Canada. It is also, as might have been expected, full of the Masonic "schism" in the Dominion. A handsome Past Principal's jewel, set with rubies and diamonds, has been presented to Bro. T. Bird Harris, G. Secretary, by St. John's Lodge, No. 40, Hamilton, Ontario. The death of Bro. Charles McCue, the "oldest Mason in the world," is noted. Bro. McCue was born in county Antrim, Ireland, on the 14th June, 1757, was initiated in Lodge No. 404, Ireland, in 1775, and died 5th May, 1869, at Ingersoll, Canada, aged 112 years, 10 months, and 25 days. Verily, a true patriarch!

† Estimated.

These figures do not include those Masons who are not members of any lodge. They are the returns of the year ending in 1869, and show upon an average the number existing May 1, 1869. Add to these figures those who are not members of a lodge, those who have joined since the returns were made, and those who have not yet taken the third degree, and the total approximates 600,000.

FREEMASONRY IN EGYPT.

A few observations upon this subject from one who has just returned to England after a lengthened stay in Egypt, may not be uninteresting to the numerous brethren who are subscribers to your valuable journal. Although Freemasonry was not actually originated in Egypt, yet it is well-known that the Egyptian nation was of the first that sought to be initiated into its mysteries and privileges, and so universally was it diffused over the country that even to this day many of the ordinary modes of salutation by the people may be clearly traced back to ancient Freemasonry for they are manifestly imperfect copies of some of our signs. With these facts before us it does appear strange that we do not find any old lodges in the country, but since the days of Pythagoras and other ancient philosophers, who were real working Masons, and whose delight it was to scatter far and near the principles of Freemasonry, many centuries have elapsed during the latter part of which time the old ardent spirit of our brethren forefathers appears to have almost died out. It was therefore extremely gratifying to me to find that a revival of our institutions had been progressing in Alexandria ever since the first modern lodge "Pyramid" was instituted about eight or nine years ago under the Grand Orient of France, then followed the St. John's No. 199, under the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of England and the lodge Ecossais, No. 166, which all continue in a flourishing condition. Of Italian lodges three have been established and kept up—viz.: the Nuova Pompija, Moeris, and Abraham Lincoln.

The majority of the brethren in Egypt decidedly prefer the mode of working used in lodge to be that sanctioned by the Grand Lodge of England, hence from the St. John's has sprung the Zetland; and the Italians are most anxious to open a lodge of their own under the English Constitution, similarly. Several have been established at Cairo, and among the most flourishing may be mentioned the Bulmer (worked in English), La Grecia (in Greek), and Concordia (in Italian). The Sphinx Lodge (German) is also doing well.

It will be remembered that about three years ago the Grand Lodge of England appointed H.H. Prince Halim Pasha, Grand Master for Egypt, much to the satisfaction of the Craft in general. Unfortunately a disagreement sprung up between him and the Viceroy, of so serious a nature that for the last two years the Prince has been exiled. A reconciliation between these great men is, however, looked forward to, as the Khedive is desirous that his son should become a Freemason, and our Egyptian brethren are confident that the young Prince will not plead the cause of his illustrious Grand Master, with his father in vain; should this happy result follow, which can scarcely be doubted, it will add one more proof of the value of Freemasonry to humanity, and one more jewel to the thousands which shine with undiminished lustre in its glorious crown.

We see in Egypt what is never to be found in this country, or perhaps in any other: Lodges composed of half-dozen or more different creeds and nationalities; there you may see in one lodge Arabs, Turks, English, French, Germans, Italians, Greeks, and others, all working harmoniously together—another instance of the universality and benign influence of Freemasonry upon mankind.

Our Egyptian brethren, however, do more than live peacefully in their lodges, for during the fearful visitation of cholera, which occurred in 1865, when the deaths daily were numbered by thousands, the members of the Lodge Pyramid lost no time in forming a committee, with the members of the other Alexandrian lodges, for the relief of the sufferers, without distinction of creed, sect, or nation; night and day were the brethren seen visiting the sick, and gratuitously dispensing medicines to the poor creatures, who would otherwise have died from neglect, and helping those who were too poor and too prostrate to help themselves. Years upon years will pass e'er the acts of our brethren in Alexandria, in the year 1865, shall have been forgotten. They are not however content to rest upon their past generous deeds, and are now making great efforts to establish a Masonic Dispensary, to be supported by donations and subscriptions; its object is to supply medicines gratuitously to the really deserving poor, of which there are multitudes in Alexandria. A more laudable undertaking could not have been devised, and I trust that our brethren in other distant lands will not be slow to copy the noble example of the brethren in Alexandria, and thus make the true influence of Freemasonry to be felt more sensibly throughout the world.

G. S. SNELGROVE, Lodge No. 12.

ECCLESIASTICAL GLUTTONS.—The monks of St. Swithin, at Winchester, were bold enough to carry a protest to the feet of King Henry, eked out by many floods of tears, to the effect that their bishop, who was also their abbot, had taken away three of their dishes. The king inquired with great concern how many they had left, and, on hearing that they had ten, declared with a round oath that he was contented with three, and therefore kicked out his gluttonous subjects, with a promise that in future their courses would be reduced to the same number.—Food Journal.

THE FREEMASONS' LIFE BOAT.

The Committee met at Bro. Foster's, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., on Thursday, the 2nd June. Bro. H. M. Levy was unanimously voted in the chair. There were also present: Bros. S. Davies, 141, Treasurer; Cothell, P.M., 141, Hon. Sec.; T. Mortlock, P.M. 186; W. M. Carter, P.M. and Treas. 141; N. Gluckstein 141, P.M. 51; C. C. Taylor, J.W. 141; T. Kennett, 141. Letters of apology were read from Bros. W. Maun, P.M. 186; H. J. Isaacs, 188; etc.

A proposition by Bro. LEVY, seconded by Bro. MORTLOCK, that Bro. Fred Walters, P.M. 73 and W.M. of the Acacia Lodge, be accepted as a member of the committee, was carried with applause.

The HON. SECRETARY then announced the following subscriptions:—

Original Correspondence.

A BELIEF IN GOD & A FUTURE RESURRECTION IS A NECESSARY QUALIFICATION FOR ADMISSION AS A MEMBER OF THE MASONIC ORDER.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—When I made application to be admitted as a member of the Masonic Order, the party who proposed me enquired of me if I believed in God and a future resurrection. I replied in the affirmative, and on initiation learned that this qualification is founded on the unchangeable landmarks of the Order. But it would seem that this qualification is now not requisite in some Scottish lodges from the fact that a gentleman thinking of initiation declared that a leading Freemason in Glasgow—Brother James Wallace, Junior Grand Deacon in the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow—said to him that he could get him initiated as a Freemason without any belief in a future state.

As a gross error may thus take deep root in the minds of many Freemasons who have not paid attention to this important qualification, I desire, through the columns of THE FREEMASON, for those who declare to be of the same opinion as I am myself—"that a belief in God and a future resurrection is a necessary qualification"—to give the lie to any opposite doctrine being promulgated by any one.

Should Bro. James Wallace, P.J.G.D. of Glasgow, have anything to say against this, perhaps he will kindly reply through THE FREEMASON. Should he be silent, then nothing is wanting to confirm the statement as declared by the gentleman thinking of joining the Order, but absolutely disqualified.

I remain, yours fraternally,

A PAST MASTER OF THE SCOTTISH CONSTITUTION.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER,—Your readers are probably always glad to hear of Masonic liberality and zeal, more especially in places somewhat out of the usual track of visitors, and where but small praise can be expected.

On visiting the lodge here (Perseverance, 164), I was much struck with two magnificent chairs made of black oak, believed to be 200 years old. The W.M.'s chair (value £50) was designed and presented to the lodge by Bro. Dr. Hodge, P.M., and P.P.G.D. It is ornamented with carving and Masonic emblems.

Bro. Hodge is well-known in Devonshire as a distinguished Mason; he has served in the highest offices, not only in the Craft, but also in the R.A. and K.T. degrees. He was lately re-elected W.M. of his lodge for the sixth time, and on this occasion had presented to him by the members a very handsome P.M. jewel.

The other chair I have alluded to (the S.W.'s) was also designed by Bro. Hodge, and presented by Bro. Warner.

I am, yours faithfully and fraternally,

K. T.

THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION FOR FREEMASONS AND WIDOWS, CROYDON.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—On Whit-Sunday, I was at this institution. I was much surprised to find the Warden, Mr. Norris, had on the day before informed the inmates that the Committee of Management had made a new rule, that no grocer or tradesman should be allowed to go upstairs to the poor old inmates for orders, or to deliver goods when ordered. Now this is a great hardship, and I hope the committee will do away with that rule, and allow tradesmen to call for orders and deliver goods as they have done for many years.

Yours, &c.,

A SUBSCRIBER.

A QUERY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—Will you kindly inform me in your next publication, whether or no the Prince of Wales was initiated in Sweden, and whether it was the King of Sweden or the Crown Prince, who held the office of Grand Master of the Freemasons in that country at the time, and oblige,

Sir, yours respectfully,

A CONSTANT READER.

[Answer next week.—E.D. F.]

WHICH STEP IS IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—A humanitarian once chided an old woman for her cruelty of skinning live eels. "Why, my dear Sir," said the old dame, "it don't hurt them; I have been skinning live eels ever since I was a little girl, and by this time they must have become used to it." The reply by "English M.M." in your paper of May 14th to my letter of the week previous, is on a par with the logic of the said dame. Because 150 lodges are named after Christian saints, and some lodges use sectarian prayers, it therefore proves, that "the present system of Freemasonry is Christian," hence, though solemn assurances are given at the initiation, that there is nothing conflicting in Masonry with any one's religion, yet the Jew ought to listen with equanimity to the preaching of doctrines, which does conflict with his religious opinions, because, I suppose, he ought to have become used to it.

There are some points raised by your correspondent, such as, my misunderstanding the aim of your article, "of 1,000 odd different lodges said to exist in Bro. Norton's country," &c. These points have really nothing to do with the question at issue. "English M.M." by calling chivalry, "Masonic Orders" seems to favour the multiplicity of degrees, and if I misunderstood the editor's views, there is certainly no mistake in the views of the "English M.M." Whether his theory or mine can best conduce to promote harmony and brotherly love among the heterogeneous elements composing the Masonic Fraternity, has already been sufficiently discussed in my letter of May 7th. Which of our theories harmonise best with Masonic professions, our readers must judge for themselves. There is one point, however, raised by my English brother which I must reply to. He says, "I ask Bro. Norton to read up a few works published in his country on the connection of Operative Masonry of the ancients and our Speculative system, and he will not ask what Operative Masons had to do with Christianity," and "will not think of his bread and butter theory any more."

But, my dear Bro. "English M.M." I assure you I have not the least faith in the truthfulness and honesty of what you may regard as the great Masonic writers of my country. Our American Masonic luminaries, merely mimicked the fallacies of the late Dr. Oliver—their works are based not on facts, but imagination. They cannot convince me that human nature had any way changed during the last 700 or 800 years. I believe that a parent during the middle ages, was impelled by the same motives to choose a trade or profession for his son, as a parent of to-day would, whose choice must naturally fall on that trade which commands the highest wages and the most constant employment. The motive of binding a son to learn the trade of a tailor, a shoemaker or a Mason was precisely the same, viz., "bread and butter." These trades during the middle ages were respectively united into fraternities or guilds, and if I am rightly informed, many, if not all the guilds were governed by constitutions similar to that of the Masonic guild. Members were required by the regulations of all the guilds, to assist each other, to find employment for one another, to be moral, to go to confession, to partake of the communion, and in other ways to obey the dictum of the Catholic Church. It is therefore just as reasonable to designate Operative tailoring or shoemaking as Christian Tailoring, and Christian Shoemaking, as to call Operative Masonry Christian Masonry. The fact cannot be disputed that the object of the then Masonic organisation was precisely the same as those of our present "trade unions." They united into fraternities, not for the purpose of promulgating Christianity, or worked at stone-cutting and building for the love of art, but the object of their union was to extort from their hard-fisted employers the most pay they could for their labour. If these stone-cutters could have found other employment which yielded higher wages, or employment less laborious than that of stone-cutting, yet paying the same wages, we have reason to believe from analogy, that they would cheerfully have exchanged the stone-cutting employment for that other one. Looking at the Operative Fraternity in that light, and divesting it of the romance imparted to it by Dr. Oliver and his imitators—believing that we, or at least a portion of our modern Fraternity, know more of Operative Masonry, than the ancient Operatives knew of our modern Speculative Masonry—the question now comes back, how can we best promote the present object of our organisation? or "which is the step in the right direction?"

If, as "English M.M." will have it, that Masonry is a Christian institution, then, it is his duty, to petition to Grand Lodge of England, to expunge from the ritual all allusions to universality, and openly adopt the Prussian and Swedish system, by excluding from initiation Jews and other unbelievers in Christianity. But on the other hand, if the Fraternity are sincere in their profession of uniting men of divers creeds into an harmonious brotherhood, it is certainly their duty, not to trifle with solemn assurances given at the initiation, relative to the exclusion of all dogmas inconsistent with the religious belief of candidates, and in the language of even the Christianising Dr. Oliver—the lodge should be a place, wherein, "a Jew, a Mahometan, or a Pagan may attend, without fear of hearing his peculiar doctrines or mode of faith called in question by comparison with others which are repugnant to his creed."

Fraternally and respectfully yours,

JACOB NORTON.

THE ARK MARINER DEGREE AND GRAND MARK LODGE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Last week's FREEMASON in reporting the meeting of Grand Mark Lodge states: "As to the propriety of working the degrees of Ark, Link, and Wrestle, &c., a long discussion ensued." Will you permit me to say (being present on that occasion) I think that it should be known that in answer to a question, by Bro. Joshua Nunn, P.G.D., the M.W.G. Master stated that he did not propose to interfere with the jurisdiction of the Royal Ark Mariners, and he has also said that there is no objection to anyone who likes taking the degree. I mention this as I believe some doubts have arisen in the minds of Mark brethren as to the propriety of joining this Ancient Fraternity. The degree of Royal Ark Mariner, I may further state, on the authority of Captain Irwin, Bro. Hyde Pullen, and several others, is not the same as Ark, Link or Chain, and Wrestle. The Ark Mariner has been worked from time immemorial, and is mentioned in print 118 years back. The Royal Ark Mariner stands in the same relation to the Mark as the Royal Ark does to the Craft, and all these degrees including the Mark lead up to it. Certain Ark lodges or vessels are working, and have been so for years in various parts of the country, and applications have been made to the Grand Royal Ark Lodge for information and leave to establish Ark vessels in six counties. A London vessel will be launched on the 21st June, at 6 o'clock, at Bro. Gosden's, Masons' Hall,

Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C.; any brother wishing to join, or take the degree, can by previous application to me at that address, receive the necessary instructions

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,
 SCRIBE,
 Royal Ark Mariners, and Registrar of Mark Lodge Thistle, No. 8.

GRAND OFFICERS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—With your permission, I will briefly reply to the two letters in your impression of the 4th inst. on this subject. "A Lover of Justice" has, from the beginning to the end of his letter, shewn utter misapprehension of all I said, and all I meant; and this being so, I will borrow his phrase and "excuse his remarks." Brother "J. Daniel Moore," if I may say so of him, sensibly, reasonably, and logically hits the nail on the head, and with the authority of a P.M. and P.Z., suggests the true remedy for a failure, which results solely from what no one can help or avoid, viz., excess of numbers in the London District. There are both in town and provinces scores of Masons "capable to impart instruction," and, as far as one may judge, in every way fitted to fill Grand Office; but from the very condition of things I have pointed out, the town Masons, with all their work and all their zeal, must needs go short of promotion. Brother Moore's suggestions, if practicable and ever carried out, would tend very much to remedy this, and would, as he implies, leave the M.W.G.M. even more free and unfettered than hitherto in making his annual appointments. In such case I shall not regret having written to you on the subject of "Grand Officers."

AMPHIBIOUS.

THE LEGEND OF JOSHUA.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I cannot agree with Bro. D. Stolz when he says, "To every quotation I have always given the correct translation," for, as to 2 Samuel, i. 18, I consider he is wrong. The words "the use of" mislead, because they give the idea of teaching the children of Judah the use of the bow—that is, to shoot with the bow—whereas they were to be taught the "Song of the Bow," which song was written in the Book of Jasher. This "Book of Jasher" contained such songs, and it was no more the Book of Genesis than was the Book of Genesis the Book of Samuel. I say so, ancient Rabbis notwithstanding; we do not exactly follow ancient astronomers now-a-days, and I believe in the progress which the nineteenth century has made.

I have no reason to suppose that the children of Judah required to be taught the use of the bow, for we see Jonathan using it as a matter of course.

I require nothing more to show the probability of my idea that the 12, 13, and 14 verses of Joshua x., are an interpolation than the remarks of Bro. Stolz in the 22nd and following lines of his letter.

I am, yours fraternally,

W. P. BUCHAN.

THE LEGEND OF JUBAL.

"George Eliot's" new poem appears in Macmillan's Magazine for May; the subject being the "Legend of Jubal," the first patron saint of musicians. Among the more striking passages, after the opening lines,

When Cain was driven from Jehovah's land
 He wandered eastward, seeking some far strand
 Ruled by kind gods who asked no offerings
 Save pure field-fruits, as aromatic things
 To feed the subtler sense of frames divine
 That lived on fragrance for their food and wine;
 Wild joyous gods, who winked at faults and folly,
 And could be pitiful and melancholy.
 He never had a doubt that such gods were;
 He looked within and saw them mirrored there.
 Some think he came at last to Tartary,
 And some to Ind; but, howso'er it be,
 His staff he planted where sweet waters ran,
 And in that house of Cain the Arts began.

is that which describes, with singular force and vigour, the first discovery of death, hitherto unknown, save to Cain, whose fratricide had been concealed from his descendants:

In Cain's young city none had heard of Death
 Save him, the founder; and it was his faith
 That here, away from harsh Jehovah's law,
 Man was immortal, since no halt or flaw
 In Cain's own frame betrayed six hundred years,
 But dark as pines that autumn never seers
 His locks thronged backward as he ran, his frame
 Rose like the orb'd sun each morn the same,
 Lake-mirrored to his gaze; and that red brand,
 The scorching impress of Jehovah's hand,
 Was still clear-edged to his unwearied eye,
 Its secret firm in time-fraught memory.

He said, "My happy offspring shall not know
 That the red life from out a man may flow
 When smitten by his brother." True, his race
 Bore each one stamped upon his new-born face
 A copy of the brand no whit less clear;
 But every mother held that little copy dear.

Thus generation in glad idleness thrived,
 Nor hunted prey, nor with each other strove;
 For clearest springs were plentiful in the land,
 And gourds for cups; the ripe fruits sought the hand,

Bending the laden boughs with fragrant gold;
 And for their roofs and garments wealth untold
 Lay everywhere in grasses and broad leaves;
 They laboured gently, as a maid who waves
 Her hair in mimic mats, and pauses oft
 And strokes across her hand the tresses soft,
 Then peeps to watch the poised butterfly,
 Or little burthened ants that homeward hie.
 Time was but pleasure to their lingering thought,
 There was no need for haste to finish ought;
 But sweet beginnings were repeated still
 Like infant babblings that no task fulfil;
 For love, that loved not change, constrained the simple will.

Till hurling stones in mere athletic joy
 Strong Lamech struck and killed his fairest boy,
 And tried to wake him with the tenderest cries,
 And fetched and held before the glazed eyes
 The things they had best loved to look upon;
 But never glance or smile or sigh he won.
 The generations stood around those twain,
 Helplessly gazing, till their father Cain
 Parted the press, and said, "He will not wake;
 This is the endless sleep, and we must make
 A bed deep down for him beneath the sod;
 For know, my sons, there is a Mighty God
 Angry with all man's race, but most with me.
 I fled from out His land in vain!—'tis He
 Who came and slew the lad; for he has found
 This home of ours, and we shall all be bound
 By the harsh bands of His most cruel will.
 Which any moment may some dear one kill.
 Nay, though we live for countless moons, at last
 We and all ours shall die like summers past.
 This is Jehovah's will, and He is strong;
 I thought the way I travelled was too long
 For Him to follow me: my thought was vain!
 He walks unseen, but leaves a track of pain,
 Pale Death His footprint is, and He will come again."

And a new spirit from that hour came o'er
 The race of Cain: soft idleness was no more,
 But even the sunshine had a heart of care,
 Smiling with hidden dread—a mother fair
 Who folding to her breast a dying child
 Beams with feigned joy that but makes sadness mild.

The origin of music, suggested to Jubal by the ring of the hammer and anvil of Tubal Cain, the Masonic prototype of Vulcan, is thus pictured:—

Then with such blissful trouble and glad care
 For growth within unborn as mothers bear,
 To the far woods he wandered, listening,
 And heard the birds their little stories sing
 In notes whose rise and fall seem melted speech—
 Melted with tears, smiles, glances—that can reach More quickly through our frame's deep-winding night,

And without thought raise thought's best fruit delight.
 Pondering, he sought his home again, and heard
 The first fluctuant changes of the spoken word:
 The deep remonstrance and the argued want
 Insistent first in close monotonous chant,
 Next leaping upward to defiant stand
 Or downward beating like the resolute hand;
 The mother's call, the children's answering cry,
 The laugh's light cataract tumbling from on high;
 The suasive repetitions Jubal taught,
 The timid browsing cattle homeward brought;
 The clear-winged fugue of echoes vanishing;
 And through them all the hammers rhythmic ring.

Jubal sat lonely all around was dim,
 Yet his faced glowed with light revealed to him;
 For as the delicate stream of odour wakes
 The thought wed sentence and some image makes;
 From out the mingled fragments of the past,
 Finely compact in wholeness that will last,
 So streamed as from the body of each sound
 Subtle pulsations, swift as warmth which found
 All prisoned germs, and all their powers unbound,
 Till thought self-luminous flamed from memory,
 And in creative vision wandered free.
 Then Jubal, standing, rapturous arms upraised,
 And on the dark with eager eyes he gazed,
 As had some manifested god been there;
 It was his thought he saw; the presence suite
 Of unachieved achievement, the high task,
 The mighty unborn spirit that doth ask
 With irresistible cry for blood and breath
 Till feeding its great life we sink in death.

Thus glorying as a god beneficent
 Forth from his solitary joy he went
 To bless mankind.

Travelling through the world to impart the knowledge of his heart to mankind, he returns an old man, unrecognised by his kindred, who were, however, chanting songs in honour of the ancestor of music—

The immortal name of Jubal filled the sky,
 While Jubal lonely laid him down to die.

We have great pleasure in publishing the following, which confirms our own views on the subject:—

Universi Terrarum Orbis Architectonis Magni ad Gloriam.

UNIO. TOLERATIO. ROBUR.

Office of the M.P. Sov. Grand Commander Supreme Council, A.A.S. Rite, Northern Jurisdiction of the U.S., Grand East, Boston, Portland.

To the Brethren of the A.A. Rite in the Northern Jurisdiction of the United States:

In answer to frequent letters of inquiry, I inform you that no person claiming to have received the degrees of the Rite in Bodies of the so-called Rite of Memphis can be recognized; nor can he be healed; nor can he receive the degrees in any other manner than any profane; notwithstanding he may have taken the Memphis degrees with the fraudulent assurance that he was receiving the degrees of our Rite.

For your information, I append a copy of a letter in relation to the Rite of Memphis which I have lately received from the Grand Secretary of the Grand Orient of France.

Yours fraternally,
JOSHIAH H. DRUMMOND, 33^d, Sov. Gr. Com.

[Translation of letter of Bro. Thévenot.]

T.T.G.O.T.G.A.O.T. UNIVERSE.

Grand Orient of France,
O. of Paris, Feb. 24, 1870, (E.V.)

Very Honorable Brother,—Bro. Pouille desires me to reply to a letter which you have addressed to him for the purpose of knowing if Brother Marconis in the character of Grand Hierophant of the Rite of Memphis has the right to create Masons of that Rite in America, and to confer there the 33^d degree of the Scottish Rite, &c.; and inquiring if he does this with the knowledge and consent of the Grand Orient of France. I hasten to reply not so much to these different questions as to all which can arise in relation to the subject.

Behold, then, all the truth in relation to the Rite of Memphis and Bro. Marconis. That brother, at a certain time, decreed himself chief of a new Rite—the Rite of Memphis—to which he gave 96 degrees! He travelled, propagated his Rite in different countries, and returned to France, where he made dupes in founding three lodges. The police shut up these three lodges. The members of these three lodges were considered to be honest and well-meaning men.

They addressed themselves to the Grand Orient which annexed to itself the Rite of Memphis without recognizing its series of grades; it regularized the Memphis Masons, in recognizing them as Masons of the grade of Master only. Bro. Marconis divested himself of all rights in relation to his Rite, and transferred his powers to the Grand Orient of France, happy apparently to see that the Rite which he had created, did not perish.

But we counted in vain upon his good faith and upon his oath. That brother continued clandestinely to give the high grades to isolated Masons, addressing himself especially to strangers, and saying that his renunciation had effect only for France. Indigence impelled him into that bad faith. The Grand Orient wished to come to his aid: he replied that he was not poor. The Grand Orient had the right to proceed against him: it had pity upon an old man; it contented itself with warning its lodges against his intrigues. The Bulletin of the Grand Orient, which you receive, contains many resolutions upon that subject. See year 1866, pages 123, 146; year 1867, page 332; year 1868, pages 444, 467, 593. Finally, Brother Marconis died in 1869: we hope that he will have no successor, and that the Rite of Memphis will trouble us no longer. Already it has entirely disappeared from France. It is not maintained in Europe, save in some localities of Roumanie, where it also tends to disappear, thanks to our incessant efforts.

These explanations, clear as well as concise, will give you the proof that it is not permitted to anybody in America to invoke the name and authority of the Grand Orient of France in anything which concerns the Rite of Memphis. Nothing of what is done, or of any one who does it, in its name, concerning that Rite, is true. And I pronounce any one an impostor who pretends to act in the name of the Grand Orient in the affairs of that Rite.

I hope, very dear and very honorable Brother, that these explanations will be of some use to you. In that hope I pray you to accept the assurance of my most fraternal sentiments.

The Chief of the Secretariat,
THEVENOT.

To the Hon. Bro. Drummond, Portland.

A NOBLE GIFT.—The sum of one thousand pounds was a few days since left at the Bank of Messrs. Ransom, Bouverie and Co., "for the British Hospital for Diseases of the Skin, 56, Great Marlborough-street, W., and 13A, Finsbury-square, E.C., from V. S. T."

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the "Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond., says: "I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood." March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says: "I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles."—For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy. In bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in boxes, 1s. 2½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. PRICE'S BENZODYNE
THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH
2 LOWER SEYMOUR ST. W.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED Principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases, and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's Medicine Chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all Chemists. Prepared and Guaranteed by

MR. PRICE, ANALYTICAL CHEMIST,

and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour-street, and 30, Duke-street, Portman-square, London, W.; or through the following agents:—

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA,

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC COCOA, OR CHOCOLATE POWDER.

Guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity of flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (BEING ALL COCOA). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two or more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it requires no cooking, but is MADE INSTANTANEOUSLY by POURING BOILING WATER or MILK on the Powder. SPECIALLY PREPARED FOR EXPORT, in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d., and 20s.

H.R.H.

THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,

Past Grand Master of England,

Having graciously signified his pleasure to lay the
FOUNDATION STONE of the NEW READING
SCHOOLS with Masonic honours, on

FRIDAY, the 1st day of JULY, 1870,

I am commanded by the R.W.P.G.M. Sir DANIEL
GOOCH, Bart., M.P., to invite your attendance to a

Provincial

Grand Lodge of Emergency,

to be holden at the ASSEMBLY ROOMS, FRIAR
STREET, READING, at ELEVEN o'clock in the Forenoon, from whence a Procession will be formed under the direction of the Provincial Grand Directors of Ceremonies, to accompany His Royal Highness to the Site for that purpose.

The R.W.P.G.M. hopes, that on such an important occasion as that of his Royal Highness for the first time laying a Foundation Stone as one of the Craft, to be favoured with the presence of his Brother
Grand Officers, Provincial Grand Masters, and other
Visiting Brethren, to enable him to give His Royal Highness a truly Masonic reception.

Seats will be reserved for those Brethren who signify their intention to be present by application to the P.G. Secretary not later than the 29th inst.

By command of the R.W.G.P.M.,

WILLIAM BIGGS,

Provincial Grand Secretary.

The Scottish National Art Union has been established for the purpose of creating and extending a taste for the Fine Arts amongst the community. The whole amount of Subscriptions, after deducting the necessary working expenses, will be devoted to the purchase of Prizes and Presentation Plates, and the most rigid economy, consistent with efficient working, will be enforced and carried out.

Every Share constitutes one chance at the Drawing.

The Committee have resolved to make the List of Paintings as extensive as possible this Season, in order to encourage Artists, Forty Paintings, from Fifty Pounds to Five, are already secured, and will be placed in the List should the subscription warrant it, besides a goodly number of Fine-Framed Chromos and a few Framed Engravings.

1443 Choice Works of Art were issued last Season between Prizes and Presentation Plates.

It is obvious we cannot give a Prize to every Subscriber, but that as few as possible be altogether disappointed we will give the following Presentation Plates this Season, which are full value for the subscription, besides the chances for the prizes:—

To Subscribers of Five Shares, the Fine Engraving of "THE HIGHLAND BREAKFAST," after Sir
Edwin Landseer, R.A. Size, 18 by 16.

To Subscribers of Ten Shares, the beautiful Engraving, "WAITING FOR MASTER," after Sir Edwin Landseer, R.A. Size, 19 by 16.

NOTE.—This is a companion Picture to "WAITING FOR MISTRESS," and equally fine.

To Subscribers of Twenty Shares, the Historical Engraving, "DEPARTED GLORY," after Sir Edwin Landseer, R.A. Size, 24 by 17½.

To Subscribers of Forty Shares, a Proof Copy of "DEPARTED GLORY."

N.B.—Any of the three Copies can be sent through the Post for Four Stamps to any place in Britain.

In no instance will Engravings be forwarded by Post unless the postage (4d.) is sent, and

A Prize List will only be sent to those Subscribers who send a stamped and directed envelope for it.

The Prizes will consist of Paintings, Water-Colour Drawings,
Cromo-Lithographs, Engravings, etc.
SAMUEL HILLHOUSE, Secretary.

MODE OF DRAWING.—Two Ballot Boxes are used, and Tickets prepared with Numbers corresponding to the Numbers of the Tickets issued. These are placed in one Ballot Box, and the Numbers corresponding to the Prizes in the other. One is drawn from each Ballot Box simultaneously till all the Prizes are drawn.

The List of successful numbers will be published in the *Glasgow
Herald* of 1st July, General Advertiser of 2nd July, and the Irish Times of 4th July, 1870.

NOTICE.—Proposals from parties of position and influence to represent "The Scottish National Art Union" in every town in Ireland will be received, and promptly attended to, by Mr. HILL-HOUSE. Liberal terms allowed. The co-operation of all lovers of the Fine Arts specially solicited.

Hon. Secretary for England and Ireland:

THE HISTORY OF THE STOCKTON AND
DARLINGTON RAILWAY, and its various Branches,
from its Commencement to the Present Time; by GEORGE MARK-
HAM TWEDDELL, F.S.A. Scot. and Newc.; Fellow of the Royal Society of Northern Antiquaries, Copenhagen; author of "Shakspeare, his Times and Contemporaries," "The Bards and Authors of Cleveland and South Durham," "The Visitor's Handbook to Redcar, Coatham, and Saltburn-by-the-Sea," &c., &c.

The work is illustrated by a clear and correct Map of the District;
a splendid Portrait of the late Edward Pease, Esq., "the Father of Railways," engraved on steel by Miller, of Edinburgh; and by several neat woodcuts, engraved specially for this History, by the celebrated W. J. Linton and others. The edition is limited to 1000 copies. The numbers will be left at the residences of Subscribers as soon after publication as convenient, and the Publishers particularly request that each number may be paid for on delivery. Where copies are forwarded by post, the book-postage will have to be charged to the Subscribers.

Mr. George Markham Tweddell, of Stokesley, a Cleveland author of some note, and the writer of several useful and meritorious publications, announces for speedy publication a History of the Stockton and Darlington Railway Company. Mr. Tweddell is a veteran man of letters, and the history of the first English railway—the result of the enterprise of a few Quakers, and of the engineering skill of a then unrecognised genius—will have more than common interest in this age of railway locomotion. Mr. Tweddell has access to many important documents and other private sources of information, and his History will be enlivened by descriptive sketches of the most noteworthy scenes which diversify the route.—"Whitby Times."
All persons wishing to procure copies of the book are requested to forward their names and addresses immediately to Messrs. TWED-DELL & SONS, Cleveland Printing and Publishing Office, Stokesley and Middlesbrough.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place
For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. OPiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

Select Testimonial.—Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

"FATHER," AS A TITLE OF HONOUR.

BY BRO. WILLIAM CARPENTER, P.M., P.Z.

In a paper or two of mine, on "Hiram Abif," which you inserted in THE FREEMASON a few weeks ago, I referred to the circumstance of Joseph having been made "a father" to Pharaoh, as he himself stated (Gen. xlv. 8), as a proof that it was no new thing for a person who was pre-eminently distinguished and entrusted with power to receive the honorary title of "Father," as Hiram Abif had done. But there are some circumstances in the narrative we have of the elevation of Joseph to this honourable position, which illustrates the addiction of ancient, and especially of oriental, people to the use of symbols, in cases where we prosaic Occidentals would not think of looking for it, and about which I desire to write a few lines, the subject being one of some interest, especially in its relation to Royal Arch Masonry.

When Pharaoh made Joseph head "over his house," it indicated what is said immediately afterwards: that he had "set Joseph over all the land of Egypt." The office of "steward" in the house of a mere subject conferred great power, but when a king conferred this honour, it meant that the recipient should be the first man in the kingdom after the king himself. "Only on the throne will I be greater than thou," added Pharaoh; and this perfectly accords with the practice of Eastern despots to this day, as instance the Pashas and Beys of the Turkish sovereigns, who are still invested with the most arbitrary authority. The "ring" given to Joseph was a badge of authority, and was a seal-ring, given, no doubt, to attest his official acts. There are numbers of these signet rings cut in the monuments, and many real ones have been found, and are preserved in private cabinets. They are still used in Persia and other Eastern countries, in place of the signature of the sovereign. The "vestures of fine linen" in which Joseph was arrayed were another badge of high office. Wilkinson tells us that in a tomb at Thebes, there is the representation of a "fan-bearer" to the king—a post held only by royal princes and sons of the first nobility—where the priests are clothing him in his new robes, one putting on the necklace, and another arranging his dress, &c. Nor is anything better attested by monumental evidence than the practice of placing a "gold chain," or necklace, round the necks of those installed into important posts, as was done by Pharaoh to Joseph. Over one of these sculptured chains in the tomb of Beni Hassan, are the words, "necklace of gold." But representations of these chains or necklaces are very numerous. The change in Joseph's name by the king was not only intended to naturalise him, but was another mark of honour, as the name itself imports. Zaphnath-paaneah, we are told by scholars, means, "saviour," or "sustainer of the age," a not inappropriate designation, for Joseph, no doubt, not only saved Egypt from starvation, but introduced a system of government which saved the country from anarchy and disruption, into which it was fast going, and which, for many ages, gave it comparative quiet and prosperity. The marriage of Joseph to Poti-phenah (a priest's daughter) of On, is worthy of remark. This word On is the ancient Coptic word for "sun," we are told; and the name Poti-phenah means "of" or "belonging to the sun." Now, On was a very noted city in Egypt, celebrated for the learning of its priests, and here it was, the Greeks tell us, that Plato and Edocus studied under the priests for thirteen years. The monuments show that this city must have been in existence before Joseph's time, and Stebo says that in his day the temple was very ancient, while Herodotus speaks of the priests of Heliopolis [On] as the most learned men in the country. That Pharaoh should have married Joseph to the daughter of a high priest of such celebrity—and the high priests were a sort of hereditary princes—is no wonder, because it would at once give him a standing corresponding with the dignity of the office into which he had just been installed, as the Abi, or "father" of Pharaoh.

Reviews.

We are favoured by Her Majesty's Commissioners with a copy of their "Announcement" respecting the forthcoming series of International Exhibitions, the first of which is to be held in 1871. The "Announcement," which is published in pamphlet form, contains, in 22 pages, a vast deal of valuable information for intending exhibitors, and it cannot but prove almost equally acceptable to the general public, as they are now enabled to judge on what a comprehensive scale the various exhibitions will be held. The pamphlet is published at the offices of the Commissioners, Upper Kensington Gore, W.

The Church Record.

This very interesting evangelical magazine is published monthly by Moffatt and Co., the enterprising publishers, of Southampton-street, Strand, and D'Olier-street, Dublin. The evil doings of the Jesuits are pictured in all their hideous deformity, and we believe the magazine is well calculated to rouse the somewhat dormant spirit of Anglican Christians to a sense of the bitter intolerance of the Papal Propaganda.

[Several reviews stand over for want of space.]

MASONIC CURIOSITIES.

BY WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

P.M. 131, Prov. Grand Secretary Cornwall, &c.

Below, I have the pleasure of appending a copy of a certificate issued by Bro. Alex. Deuchar, Grand Master of the Knights Templar of Scotland, A.D. 1823. It is of interest, as it connects the degree in Scotland with the authority of H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, by virtue of whose support Knight Templary in Scotland was placed on a firm footing. I am indebted to Bro. M. Campbell Barclay, of Glasgow, for the sight of the original document, and am informed by him that there are several such warrants still in existence in Scotland, and which are still used to authorise the working of the degree by certain encampments in that country.

I have copied it verbatim et literatim, and respectfully draw attention to the signature of Brother Deuchar, and the fact that the Grand Master describes himself as 90°, O. Misraim. The Knight of Malta appears thereon as a side degree. "Grand Conclave" has been changed to "Chapter General" of late by the authorities in Scotland.

In cruce salus.

Grand Patron of the Exalted, Religious and Military Order

The Knights Templars of Scotland and renovator of the order in Britain.

To all whom it doth or may concern

We, the Most Eminent Sir Alexander Deuchar, Supreme Grand Master of the Royal Grand Conclave of the Knights Templars of Scotland send greeting—Know ye that these do certify that Sir Thomas Johnston, Coalier, Barhead, near Paisley, is regularly registered in the Books of the Royal Grand Conclave of Scotland as having been on the 10th day of January 1823 Dubbed a Knight Templar in the field of Encampment of The Grand Assembly of Knights Templars, Paisley, and Number 23 on our Registry, and the Bearer hereof having produced unto us or our Deputy ample and satisfactory proof that he is the person so registered, we have delivered unto him these presents in Testimony thereof, and caused him to sign his name on the margin for better security.

We therefore recommend him as a Regular Knight Templar unto all Encampments of these Orders around the Globe.

Signed in our name and by our authority, and the seal of our Royal Conclave hereunto appended, at Edinburgh this Twentieth day of March, An. Dom. One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty Three, An. Ord. 705,

We, the M.N. Commander and the Captains of Columns of the Paisley Grand on the Registry of the Royal Grand Conclave of the Knights Templars of Scotland, do hereby certify that our Trusty and Well-beloved Knight Companion Sir Thomas Johnston, Coalier, Barhead, was, on the 10th day of January, 1823, regularly admitted into the Religious and Military Order of the Knights Templars, and subsequently initiated into the mysteries of the Masonic Knights of Malta.

Given under our hands and seal of our Encampment herunto affixed, at Paisley, this Twentieth day of March, 1823.

AN American pianoforte-maker has invented a colossal engine, which is said to imitate the human voice "in all its registers," the shrillest notes as well as the most profound. The machine and its inventor are to visit Europe. "Sir" William Stevens is, according to foreign journals, the name of the inventor; but from what fount of honour he obtained his knighthood is, looking to the fact of his citizenship, not so clear as might be. CONSECRATION of the DE WARREN LODGE, No. 1302, at HALIFAX.

Saturday, the 11th instant, was a day that had been anxiously looked forward to by some of the Craft in Halifax, it being the day selected for the consecration of the above lodge, at the White Swan Hotel, by the W. Bro. Bentley Shaw, J.P., P.G. D. C. of Eng., D.P.G.M. of West Yorkshire.

Two o'clock was the time fixed to commence the ceremony, and very shortly after that hour the lodge was opened in the three degrees by the following brethren: W. Cooke, P.M., as W.M.; G. Normanton, P.M., P.P.J.G.D., as S.D.; F. Whitaker, P.M., P.G.S., as J.W.; H. N. Bates, P.M., as S.D.; W. Asquith, as J.D.; J. Seed, as I.G.; and J. Greenwood, P.M., as Tyler.

All being in readiness, the W.D.P.G.M., preceded by a procession of members of the Provincial Grand Lodge, then entered the lodge-room, among whom we noticed Bros. C. J. Banister, Past G.S.B.; J. Peace, P.P.S.G.W.; C. Oldroyd, P.G. Treas.; H. Smith, P.G. Sec.; S. Binns, P.S.G.E.; S. Stocks, P.J.G.D.; T. S. Higgins, P.D.G. of C.; A. W. Ramsden, P.G.A.P.; A. Briggs, P.G.S.B.; J. Craven, S. O. Bailey, R. Arnison, P.G.S.; J. See, P.G. Tyler.

The following were among the visitors present:—B. Hutchinson, P.M. 290; A. Woodhouse, 304, 61; G. Sutcliffe, S.W.; R. Worsick, J.W.; R. Waitaker, J.D. 307; A. Lupton, W.M.; C. J. Walshaw, P.M.; W. F. Wilkinson, S.W.; R. Jessop, S.D.; J. Greenwood, P.M.; J. White, W. Hemmingway, H. Rothery, F. A. Peck, C. T. Rhodes, 448; G. Marshall, W.M. 521; S. Metcalf, 600; B. Bastow, 603; T. G. Knowles, P.M. 1055, 448; F. Waddington, J.W. 448; J. Dewhurst, I.G. 1231; W. Elliott, M.D., P.M. 61, W.M.; R. D. Kendall, S.W.; F. W. Crossley, J.W.; J. Nicholl, J.D. 448; and J. Marshall, 1283.

The twelve brethren who had petitioned for the lodge were also present.

Letters of apology, expressing their inability to accept the invitation of the De Warren Lodge, on account of the meeting taking place on Saturday, were received from Bro. E. M. Wavell, jun., J.W. 61, and Bro. A. Roberts, W.M. 307.

The brethren having saluted the W.D.P.G.M., and a short prayer being offered up, the P.G. Treas. addressed the W.D.P.G.M., and asked him to consecrate the lodge. The W.D.P.G.M. acceded to the request, and called upon the Provincial Grand Secretary to read the petition and warrant of constitution, which was done; and the W.D.P.G.M. enquired if the brethren approved of the officers nominated in the warrant. The members of the new lodge replied in the affirmative, and presented the W.M.-designate. The W.D.P.G.M. asked for the minute book. The W.D.P.G.M. then directed the Provincial Grand Supt. of Works to examine the appointments of the lodge, to ascertain that all was correct, and to see that the elements of consecration (corn, wine, and oil) were duly prepared and properly placed. The Provincial Grand Supt. of works reported that all was correct. An anthem was then sung:—

Behold! how good a thing it is,
And how becoming well,
For brethren such as Masons are,
In unity to dwell.
Oh! 'tis like ointment on the head,
Or dew on Zion's hill!
For then, the Lord of Hosts hath said,
Peace shall be in thy still.

The W.D.P.G.M. then offered Dedication Prayer. (1st portion). Musical response, "So mote it be," and grand honours. Sanctus, "Holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, heaven and earth are full of the Majesty of Thy Glory. Glory to Thee, O! Lord!" Invocation. All the brethren turning to the East. Musical response, "So mote it be," and grand honours. The lodge board was then uncovered, and three P.M.'s (W. Cooke with corn, G. Normanton with wine, and F. Whitaker with oil) carried the elements of consecration round the lodge (solemn music accompanying), then halting in the East, and corn was scattered. The W.D.G.P.M. then dedicated the lodge to Masonry—

Hail, Masonry, thou Craft Divine,
Glory of Earth from Heaven revealed!
Which dost with jewels' precious shine,
From all but Masons' eyes concealed.

Grand honours. Second procession of P.M.'s (music accompanying) then halted in the East, and wine was poured out. Dedication to Virtue—

Come, holy Virtue, by whose aid
In heavenward steps we long to tread;
Bring Love, bring Truth, bring Friendship here,
Bring Peace and Unity sincere.

Grand honours. Third procession of P.M.'s (music accompanying), then halting in the East, and oil was poured out. Dedication to Universal Benevolence—

Come, Charity, with goodness crowned,
Encircled in thy heavenly robe;
Diffuse thy blessings all around,
To every corner of the globe.

Grand honours. The P.G. Treas. then carried the censer three times round the lodge (during solemn silence), halting in the East. Dedication prayer by W.D.P.G.M. (2nd portion). Musical response, "So mote it be," and grand honours. The W.D.P.G.M. the "dedicated" and "constituted" the lodge. Musical response, "So mote it be," and grand honours. The brethren then preambulated the lodge, and saluted W.D.P.G.M. The concluding anthem was then sung—Hail! universal Lord!

By Earth and Heaven adored;
All hail! Great God.
Before Thy name we bend;
To us thy Grace extend,
And to our prayer attend;
All hail! Great God.

The W.D.P.G.M. here expressed his regret at being compelled to return to Huddersfield by next train, owing to business engagements, and he accordingly gave up the chair to Bro. G. Normanton, P.M., P.P.J.G.D., who had been deputed to discharge the duties of installing officer on this auspicious occasion, and to whom the W.M.-designate, Bro. John Firth, was now presented. The lodge having been resumed to the second degree, the usual questions were put to and answered by Bro. Firth, who was then obligated in due form. The lodge was then re-opened in the third degree, all but P.M.'s requested to withdraw, and a Board of Installed Masters opened, when Bro. Firth was duly installed into the chair of K.S. The brethren were then re-admitted, and saluted the newly-installed W.M. in the different degrees. Bro. Firth then proceeded to invest his officers as follows, making appropriate remarks as he placed the collar upon each one: Bro. John Seed, S.W.; David Whitaker, J.W.; Fred. Whitaker, P.M., P.G.S. Treas.; William Cooke, P.M. Sec.; W. H. D. Horsfall, S.D.; W. Asquith, J.D.; Samuel Firth, D. of C.; Joseph Hayes, I.G.; Thomas Parr, Tyler.

An interesting feature of the proceedings was the presentation to the lodge, by Bro. Seed, S.W., of a very old (1610) copy of the Bible, Prayer Book, &c., in excellent condition, which had been rebound in antique style for the occasion.

Bro. Normanton having been elected to represent the lodge at the meetings of the West Yorkshire Charity Committee, the lodge was closed in proper form.

Nearly fifty brethren afterwards partook of a sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Woodhouse (late of Leeds), and presided over by Bro. Firth. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and the brethren separated, after having spent an exceedingly pleasant and agreeable evening.

WORK ON.—Observe yon tree in your neighbour's garden. Look how it grows up crooked and distorted. Some wind scattered the germ from which it sprung in the cliffs of the rocks; choked up and walled round by crags and buildings, by nature and man, its life has been one struggle for the light; light which makes to that life the necessity and the principle. You see how it has writhed and twisted; how, meeting the barrier in one spot, it has laboured and worked, stem and branches, towards the clear skies at last. What has preserved it through each disfavour of birth and circumstances; why are its leaves as green and fair as those of the vine behind you, which, with all its arms, can embrace the open sunshine? Because the very instinct which impelled the struggle—because the labour for the light—won to the light at length. So with a gallant heart, through every adverse accident of sorrow and of fate to turn to the sun, to strive for the heaven. This it is that gives knowledge to the strong and happiness to the weak.—Lord Lytton.

CONSECRATION of a NEW LODGE at GEORGE TOWN, DEMERARA.

On Thursday, evening the 12th May, the sublime ceremony of the dedication and consecration of Mount Olive Lodge, No. 385, E.R., to the Patron Saint of the Order of Freemasonry took place.

The spacious rooms of the splendid building, fronting Main-street, which was recently purchased by members of the Mount Olive Lodge and thoroughly and handsomely repaired, were very tastefully festooned and decorated with banners. At an early hour brethren of the Mystic Tie, the members of the Union and Phoenix Lodges, and other visiting brethren commenced assembling.

One hundred and forty members of the Craft, after being attired in full Masonic regalia, were called to order in the hall below by the W.M., Bro. J. C. Devonish. Shortly after, the Presiding Officer of the evening, W.P.M. Bro. Van Kinschot arrived, and was received at the door by the Officers of the Mount Olive Lodge, and conducted to his seat. The august and imposing exercises of the evening commenced after the lodge had been opened in due form, by the following address of the W.M., Bro. J. C. Devonish to the Presiding Officer, W.P.M. Van Kinschot:—"Most worthy and Worshipful Past Master, the brethren of Mount Olive Lodge being animated with a desire of promoting the honour and interest of the Craft, have at great pains and expense erected a Masonic Hall for their convenience and accommodation. They are desirous that the same should be examined by you, Worthy and Worshipful Sir, and if it should meet your approbation, that it should be solemnly dedicated for Masonic purposes agreeably to ancient form." The presiding P.M. after hearing the address, directed Secretary, Bro. L. M. Roach, to read the Order of Procession, which being done, the first procession from the hall below was formed.

On arriving at the door of the lodge, the procession halted and opened right and left, facing inwards. The presiding W.P.M. then passed through, followed by the others in succession till the procession had entered the lodge, when the W.P.M.'s of the two lodges took their places on the dais on either side of the Presiding Officer, who sat under the canopy. While the procession was moving eastwardly, Bro. Critchlow played a grand march on the harmonium. The Craft being entered, the Wardens and Deacons, Secretary and Treasurer, took their respective stalls and seats, the officers of the Union and Phoenix Lodges taking their places beside those of Mount Olive of similar rank.

Everything being thus properly arranged for the performance of the solemn ceremony.

The following ode was effectively sung accompanied by the harmonium, at which presided W.P.M. Bro. Pollard:—

Almighty Father! God of Love!
Sacred eternal King of Kings,
From thy Celestial Courts above,
Send beams of grace on Seraph's wings.
O may they, girt with love divine,
Shed on our hearts inspiring rays;
While bending at this sacred shrine,
We offer mystic songs of praise.

Faith! with divine and heav'nward eye,
Pointing to radiant realms of bliss,
Shed here thy sweet benignity,
And crown our works with happiness;
Hope! too, with bosom void of fear,
Still on thy steadfast anchor lean,
O, shed thy balmy influence here,
And fill our breasts with joy serene.

And thou, for Charity! whose smile
Can bid the heart forget its woe,
Whose hand can misery's care beguile,
And kindness' sweetest boon bestow,
Here shed thy sweet soul's soothing ray;
Softener our hearts, thou Power divine!
Bid the warm gem of pity play,
With Sparkling lustre on our shrine.

Thou, who art thron'd midst dazzling light,
And wrapped in brilliant robes of gold,
Whose flowing lock of silv'ry white,
Thy age and honour doth unfold.
Genius of Masonry! descend
And guide our steps by strict law;
O, swiftly to our temple bend,
And fill our breasts with solemn awe.

At the close of the singing,

W.P.M. Bro. Oliver, delivered the eulogium. Most eloquently, most sweetly, most rapturously did the W.P.M. discourse on the history, religion, and duties of Freemasonry. He rapidly glanced at its history and gave a graphic sketch of it through different ages, climes and peoples, tracing it with a master's hand, and putting as it were a photographic leaf before the view of the Craft, so that the memories of old Masons were refreshed, their knowledge rehabilitated, and the younger brethren received impressions which will not soon be obliterated from their recollections. Then he traced with a firm hand its religious universality, its freedom from sectarianism, its power and its efficacy in directing the thoughts of men from things sublunary to those which exist in the Temple above. Its duties had respect to all relations of life—the citizens, the family, the country. To every nation on the face of the globe a Mason's duties reached. In glowing words, which we can not reproduce, W.P.M. Oliver took all by storm, and, after expressing the fervent wish that the Mount Olive Lodge would proceed in its career of success and prosperity, and passing a deserved eulogy on the W.M., P.M.'s and Officers, he sat down amidst the plaudits of the Craft.

At the conclusion of W.P.M. Bro. Oliver's eulogium, W.P.M. Bro. Klien addressed the W.P.M. presiding thus:—"Worshipful Sir, doth this hall and the plan upon which it is constructed meet your approbation?" Receiving an affirmative reply, the brother proceeded:—"Worshipful P.M., the hall in which we are now assembled, and the plan upon which it is constructed having met with your approbation, it is the desire of the Fraternity that it should be now consecrated and dedicated according to ancient form and usage." Then the W.P.M. presiding directed a procession to be formed which was done in regular order.

The rest of the brethren kept their places standing, and assisted in singing the Dedication Ode.

The procession went round the hall during the singing of the first verse, at the end of which the P.M. having arrived at the east, the vessel with corn was presented to him, taking which and striking three times with the mallet he poured it on the lodge, saying at the same time, "In the name of the Great Jehovah to whom be all honour and glory, I do solemnly consecrate this Hall of Freemasonry."

Grand Honours once.

While the second verse was being sung the procession went round the hall a second time, the P.M. having arrived at the east, the vessel with the wine was presented to him, taking which and sprinkling some over the lodge said, "In the name of St. John, I do solemnly dedicate this hall to virtue."

Grand Honours twice.

The procession went round the third time while the third verse was being sung, at the end thereof, the P.M. having again arrived at the East, the vessel with the oil was presented to him, taking which and sprinkling some on the lodge, he said, "In the name of the whole Fraternity I do solemnly Dedicate this hall to Universal Benevolence."

Grand Honours three times.

A solemn invocation was then made by the W.P.M., after which he declared the hall Consecrated and Dedicated to all purposes of Freemasonry. On the Presiding Officer taking his seat under the Canopy, the Consecration hymn was sung.

After which the W.M., Bro. John C. Devonish, in a short but effective and mellifluous speech, gracefully returned thanks to the W.P.M., to the officers and members of the Union and Phoenix Lodges, as well as to all the visiting brethren of the Craft present.

While the collection was being taken up, an ode to charity was sung.

This being done, the Grand Procession was reformed as at the beginning and returned in the same order to the room below, where the lodge was closed in due form.

A sumptuous supper was prepared in another part of the building, and after the brethren had divested themselves of their regalia, they joyously repaired to the banquetting hall, where ample justice was done to the splendid array of creature comforts which the tables groaned under. During the evening, the following toasts were drunk, and post-prandial speeches and replies made:—"The Queen," "The Grand Master of England," "The Presiding Officer," "The Worshipful Masters, Past Masters, and Officers of the Union and Phoenix Lodges," "The Visiting Brethren."

Thus terminated the sublime ceremony of the Dedication and Consecration of the Mount Olive Lodge. A ceremony which will not be soon forgotten by the Craft who participated in it. Long may Union, Mount Olive, and Phoenix Lodges exist, and long may they co-operate in effectuating and perpetuating the grand results of the Order. All hail!

GENERAL MELLINET has not accepted the Grand Mastership of the Freemasons of France, and M. Carnot having refused the candidacy, the Masonic body has decided provisionally to suppress the Grand Mastership, reserving its final resolution on the subject till next year.

A CONCLAVE of Knights of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine will be consecrated and opened at the Ship Hotel, Southend, Essex, on Monday, the 4th day of July, at two o'clock. The ceremony will be performed by Sir Kt. Marsh, G.A., the Inspector-General for Essex, assisted by Sir Kt. Cubitt, G.H., and other dignitaries of the Order. Any Sir Kt. or candidate for the order wishing to attend will please address to Sir Kt. Morton Edwards, Recorder pro tem., 18, Holly-wood-road, Brompton.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Bedford Lodge, No. 157.—The summer meeting of this flourishing lodge was held at Bro. Wm. Holland's, the North Woolwich Gardens, on Friday, the 10th instant. Present: Bros. John Smith, W.M.; Ino. Hills, S.W.; Wm. Holland, J.W.; J. Lavender, Treas.; Saml. Hill, Sec.; G. J. Silcock, S.D.; J. Jehu, J.D.; also C. H. Price, P.M., J. Briggs, Robert Howland, Lear, Drew, Frdk. Tullitt, James Fowler, R. E. Eades, M. Walker; and the following visitors, who had the honour of being invited to the lodge, W. Worthington (S.D. 858), T. Butler (J.D. 55), J. J. Homer, Percy, G. Pymm (W.M. 747), Edward Harper (I.G. 749), R. Hammond (13), E. Coste (P.M. 9), W. H. Bayles (S.W. 9), Chas. Roberts (P.M. 657), Henry Hollis (I.G. 167), W. H. Waghorn (I.G. 964), W. Jameson (1298), A. R. Green (861). A most sumptuous banquet was served in the Grand Dining Room in Bro. Holland's usual satisfactory manner, and the pleasures of the evening were not a little enhanced by the brethren participating in the many and varied amusements provided by Bro. Holland in his far-famed gardens.

Cusack Lodge, No. 176.—On Saturday, June 11th, at Radley's Hotel, this ancient and flourishing lodge held its installation meeting. Punctually at 4 p.m. the W.M., Bro. W. N. Smith, opened the lodge. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. Bro. P. A. Nairne, P.M., took the chair. He, in an able, impressive, and correct manner installed Bro. Thomas Quihampton as the W.M., who appointed as his officers: Bros. R. S. Foreman, S.W.; H. Besley, J.W.; P. Browne, P.M. Treas.; E. Litchfield, P.M.; Sec.; F. H. Godsell, S.D.; Jermyn, J.D.; W. D. Barnett, I.G.; C. Browne, P.M., D.C.; J. F. Smyth, W.S.; A. Towers, W.S.; Riley, P.M.; Tyler, W. N. Smith, I.P.M. The addresses were given in an impressive manner, and were listened to with great attention. A hearty burst of applause was given at their termination. The lodge was then closed. Bro. Hart had served up a good banquet and superior dessert. The usual loyal toasts were given and received. A pleasant evening was spent. Visitors: W. J. Starkey, W.M., 222; F. Walters, W.M. 1309; Cook, P.M. 197; Griffiths, P.M. 171; C. H. Feiling, J.W. 705; L. H. Feiling, 705; F. K. Stead, 21; F. Giles, 203; A. Pussey, 215; G. Leimanny, I.G. 890; Marshall, 742; and others.

Whittington Lodge, No. 862.—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held at Anlerton's Hotel, Fleet street, on Monday, the 13th inst. Bro. Weaver, W.M., presided, and was supported by Bros. Taylor as S.W.; Salisbury, J.W.; Brett, G. Purs.; Little, Sec.; Jones, J.D.; Frickenhaus, J.D.; Smith, I.G.; and Adutt. Mr. George Milner was duly initiated, and Bros. Bullock and Sissons were raised to the degree of M.M. The consideration of the arrangements for holding a summer festival was the next business, and, after some discussion, it was unanimously resolved to hold it at the Greyhound Hotel, Richmond, on Saturday, the 23rd July. Bro. Noyce, the proprietor of the Greyhound, being the very prince of hosts, the brethren may anticipate a great treat under his judicious catering, and, doubtless, there will be a large master of brethren on the occasion to enjoy a run through the park or a spurt on the water. Slight refreshment followed the proceedings in lodge, after which the brethren separated.

Macedonald Lodge, No. 1216.—The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Lodge Rooms, Head-quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, at Camberwell, on Wednesday, the 8th instant, when were present:—Bros. James Stevens, W.M.; G. H. N. Bridges, J.D., as S.W.; S. H. Wagstaff, J.W.; Dr. Eugene Cronin, Treas.; J. J. Curtis, Sec.; G. Waterall, S.D.; J. H. Hastie, D.C.; W. J. Messenger, I.G.; M. S. Larlham and E. Newton, Stewards; also Bros. Francis, Shairp, Puckls, John B. Pike, James B. Pike, Carnell, Kelbro, &c., and visiting brethren Q. Dix, No. 862, and M. B. Newton, No. 21. The lodge having been opened and minutes confirmed, the ceremonies of initiation and raising were rehearsed in a most effective manner. The W.M. then announced that a suggestion he had made, that the lodge should present to the corps with which it is so closely connected, a challenge cup, to be contested for by the shooting members of the corps, had met with a very hearty response. It was contemplated that a cup of the value of fifty guineas would be obtained by the individual contributions of the members of the lodge, and he now proposed that an annual sum of five guineas should be voted by the lodge for the respective winners of the cup. He placed the proposition on the minutes as a notice of motion for the ensuing meeting. After the dispatch of some other Masonic business, the lodge was closed, and in consequence of the Wimbledon Meeting being appointed for the early part of July, the next meeting of the lodge was fixed for the second Wednesday in August.

MIDDLESEX.

Harrow Lodge, No. 1310.—This lodge met on Tuesday, June 14th, at the Railway Hotel, Harrow. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. J. Coutis, W.M., A.G.P., the lodge was opened by Bro. F. Walters, P.M. Sec. Bro. G. Pymm, I.G. and W.M. 747, took the chair. He raised Bro. J. F. Woodley, 169, to the third degree. Passed Bros. Cox and J. Harrison to the second degree. Initiated Dr. Tyte. The work was well and ably done, and business being ended, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. There was but one visitor present.

PROVINCIAL.

BERWICK-ON-TWEED.—Lodge St. David, No. 393.—This lodge held its regular meeting within their own lodge room, Church-street Hall, Berwick, on the evening of Tuesday, 7th June. The W. Master, F. S. Macgregor, occupied the chair; the Wardens in their places. The lodge being opened and the minutes of last meeting read and confirmed, two brethren were balloted for, from Scottish Constitution, for affiliation, and passed the ballot unanimously. Two petitions were read, one craving to be admitted as a member of the ancient and honourable Order, the other from a brother of a different Constitution for affiliation. A motion was then carried unanimously to the effect that two pillars be made for the lodge, a design being submitted and approved of. A brother in America sent his fraternal greetings. No further business coming before the brethren, the lodge was then called from labour to refreshment. The routine toasts were gone through in the usual loyal and patriotic manner. The Provincial Grand Lodge of Northumberland and Berwick-on-Tweed was the special toast of the evening, and Bro. Winlaw, P.M., made a most excellent reply, with feeling terms of regard for the late demise of the Provincial Grand Master, saying that he hoped the present Provincial Grand Master would find as much esteem in the hearts of those whom he was now working with in the great cause of Freemasonry. The songs of the members, and most especially the imitation of "Sims Reeves" by the Treasurer, was most wonderful. The Worshipful Master enlivened the evening's harmony by a song of "Whisper what thou feelest," with a touch of sympathy worth respect from even those who may term themselves critics. The lodge was then called from refreshment to labour, and closed in due form, the brethren well satisfied with a thorough evening of Masonic pleasure.

HERTFORD.—Hertford Lodge, No. 403.—A lodge of emergency was held at the Town Hall, Hertford, on Tuesday last, when Bro. Harry George Rowell, of Bombay, was raised to the sublime degree of a M.M. Bro. Cocks, P.M., raised the candidate, and Bro. H. Mugeridge, performed the closing ceremony. The brethren present were Bros. Drummond, W.M.; H. B. Hodges, S.W.; W. B. Heath, J.W. pro tem.; O. H. Wagner, S.D.; T. S. Carter, J.D., who acted as S.D.; C. F. Wyman, Org.; C. B. Jones, I.G.; J. R. Cocks, P.M.; D. J. H. O'Brien, H. Mugeridge, S. Austin, P.M.; J. Boatwright, H. Thomas, and S. Neale. The visitors were W. B. Heath, W.M. Berkhamstead Lodge, and L. Harvey, 9. The brethren afterwards adjourned to the Salisbury Arms, where a sumptuous banquet was provided.

WALTHAM CROSS.—Gresham Lodge, No. 869.—This lodge met on Saturday, the 11th inst., at the Four Swans, Waltham Cross, the W. Bro. Walter E. Gompertz, Past P.G.P., W.M., in the chair, supported by all the officers and a good attendance of brethren and visitors, the lodge was opened in ancient form, and with solemn prayer and the opening hymn, Bro. Bilby, P.M. 861, presiding at the harmonium. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and Bros. W. Stephens and E. G. Pottle, were both passed to second the degree in a most perfect manner, Bro. J. E. Grocott, the S.D., giving the lecture on the lodge board in a most perfect manner and with great feeling. The W. Master then said: "Brethren, here we end the year for which we were invested with the collars and jewels of our respective offices, it only remaining for me to install my successor; but before I proceed to that duty and claim the surrender of the emblems of your offices, I take this opportunity of expressing my unqualified satisfaction and delight at the manner in which every officer has discharged his respective duty, at the same time to express my deep sense of obligation for the many proofs you have given of your fraternal regard and earnest desire to promote the efficiency of the lodge, and in conclusion to say, that it will be my greatest pleasure as well my bounden duty, to afford to each in their progress towards the occupation of this chair, every assistance or instruction that the experience of the past year may enable me to render. Bro. Dr. R. Bruce, Prov. J.G.D., S.W., the W.M.-elect, was then presented by P.M. Rook for the benefit of installation, which the W.M., Bro. Gompertz, performed in a manner that entitled him to the very warm expressions of appreciation with which he was greeted; indeed the addresses we never remember having heard delivered with so much earnestness and feeling, or to have inspired so much reverence and awe, ceremonies worked like this cannot fail to produce good results. The newly-installed Master then invested the following brethren as officers for the ensuing year:—James Forsyth, S.W.; J. E. Grocott, J.W.; Capt. W. C. Barnes, S.D.; F. D. R. Copestick, J.D.; Joseph Copestick, I.G.; F. O. Vallentin, Treas.; W. E. Gompertz, Sec.; Hy. Etherington and J. Lewis, S.; A. Wylie, O.; C. Rook, P.M., D.C. After some routine business was gone through, the lodge was closed in due form and with solemn prayer, and the brethren after a walk through the beautiful grounds and green-houses attached to the house, sat down to a very nicely served banquet. Amongst the brethren we observed, Bros. J. Tustin, H. Tucker, Thos. Lines, J. Lewis, W. C. Barnes, jun., S. H. Hunt, W. Stephens, Thos. Stephens, J. G. Grocott, Wylie, Cox, Etherington, Rook, P.M.; Terry, P.M., Prov. G.S.B.; F. D. R. Copestick, Joseph Copestick, and O. F. Vallentin. The visitors were, Bros. Bilby (P.M. 861), S. Mugeridge (192), S. H. Wagstaff (J.D. 1216), T. Fullan (1031), Wolpert (P.M.), R. Hunting (42), G. Cordwell (Prov. G.R. Middlesex, P.M. 3 and 788). The brethren having thoroughly enjoyed the good things provided and returned I think the cloth was cleared, and the usual loyal and fraternal toasts having been drunk, the I.M., P.M. Bro. Gompertz, proposed the toast of the evening, that of the W.M., saying he was sure the brethren would agree with him that if earnest zeal, perseverance, and a strict attention to duty were necessary qualifications for the chair, they might congratulate themselves that their W.M. was eminently fitted for the honourable position he now occupied. He, like himself, was initiated in the lodge, and served most of the subordinate offices, and was keenly sensitive for the honour and prosperity, as well as for the efficiency and usefulness of the lodge, which, he felt sure, would go on progressing and prospering under his rule.—The brethren, having drunk the toast in bumpers, the W.M., who, on rising, was very warmly greeted, acknowledged the compliment paid to him in a most graceful manner, and said nothing should be wanting on his part to uphold the efficiency and prosperity of the lodge.—Bro. A. Wylie then amused the brethren with a very lively Scotch song.—The W.M. then proposed the health of the I.P.M., Bro. Gompertz, which was very warmly received. He said the very earnest and untiring manner in which he had devoted himself to his duties, and the very beautiful manner in which he had carried out every part of his work in the impressive ceremonies, had brought the lodge to a state of proficiency it had never before attained, and the brethren were desirous to testify their warm appreciation of his services by presenting a handsome P. Master's jewel, which he hoped he might live long to wear.—Bro. Gompertz, in responding, thanked them for the manner in which they had received and responding to the toast. He was conscious of having endeavoured to do his duty, and their expressions of approbation were very gratifying to him. He could assure them he was largely indebted to the brethren for their forbearance and kind regard, and not the least for the very great assistance they had rendered to him in carrying out the duties of his office; and he could assure them that in his place in the lodge, either as secretary or P.M., he would always feel a pleasure in rendering any service or assistance in any manner in which he could promote the prosperity of the lodge and continue to retain their regard and esteem.—The W.M. then proposed the visitors in a very cordial and fraternal manner, which was responded to by them individually. Bros. Hunting and Wagstaff expressing themselves highly delighted with all they had heard and seen of the very perfect working and the very kindly way in which they had been received.—Bro. Fullan said he had come from Birmingham on purpose to attend the lodge, and felt himself highly pleased with having come to so harmonious and pleasant a meeting of brethren.—Bro. Bilby warmly eulogised the work and the very perfect harmony that appeared to exist between the officers and members. Several capital songs were sang, and the Tyler's toast brought a very pleasant evening to a close. The brethren then spent an hour in the gardens, where the band of the 41st Middlesex, under the leadership of Bro. Etherington, gave some very beautiful selections, and the brethren returned to town at an early hour, having spent a very pleasant and most enjoyable day.

ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Beacon Chapter, No. 619.—This chapter met at Dulwich on Thursday, June 9th. The work done was exalting Bro. A. J. Towers, P.M. 876, into the Arch. Comps. J. W. Avery, as M.E.Z.; R. Watts, P.Z., as H.; Massey, J.; F. Walters, P.Z., and many others were present. The officers were then elected for the ensuing year, and the chapter was closed. Visitor: R. Spencer, P.Z. 3.

Rose of Denmark Chapter, No. 975.—This chapter held its usual quarterly meeting at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew-bridge, on Saturday, the 4th inst. The only business performed was the installation of Comp. Fred. Smith as M.E.Z., which was efficiently rendered by Comp. Pendlebury, the retiring Z. Among other companions present we noticed P.Z.'s Brett, Buss, Little, and Terry; Powell, H.; Tanner, J.; Price, N.; Longhurst, Tinkler, Montagu, Hartley, Banks, Everett, Poole, Libbis, Shepherd, Lloyd, Braid. The visitors comprised Comps. G. King, jun., Z.-designate 1260; G. King, H.-des. 1260. One of Comp. Banks's splendid dinners was served after the chapter was closed, and, when the cloth was cleared, the companions adjourned to the spacious grounds, and enjoyed their dessert and wine, à la fresco fashion, much to the gratification of all present, as it was truly a most enjoyable meeting.

PROVINCIAL.

BIRMINGHAM.—Fletcher Chapter, No. 1031.—The quarterly meeting of this chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Birmingham, on the 1st inst., there was but a small attendance of Companions, another important Masonic meeting in the town causing the absence of several members. The chapter was opened in due form by the M.E.Z., Comp. Thomas Partridge, B. Purnell, J.; B. Whitehead, of 587, as H. The usual preliminaries having been gone through, Bro. R. H. Brinton was duly exalted. This being the night for the election of officers, the ballot was taken, and resulted in the re-election of the M.E.Z., B. Purnell as H.; T. C. Miller, J.; E. Kent, E.; W. Williams, Assist. E.; T. Hall, N.; and G. Haywood, P.S. The melancholy death of Comp. the Rev. W. B. Smith, has caused a void in this chapter difficult to fill, as he occupied the 2nd chair, and his election to that of M.E.Z., an office he had previously so ably filled in another chapter was looked forward to by all the members. The present M.E.Z. was re-elected so as to prevent any irregularity in the proceedings. The M.E.Z. of the Howe Chapter, Comp. Worrell, and his second Principal, Comp. Whitehead, kindly assisted in the proceedings, the latter discharging the duties of 2nd Chair. At the conclusion of the proceedings the Comps. adjourned to the dining-room, where slight refreshment was provided, the usual banquet being omitted out of respect to the memory of the late Comp. W. B. Smith.

INSTRUCTION.

DOMATIC LODGE, No. 177.

This lodge of instruction, which is held under the warrant of the parent lodge, one of the most numerous in the Craft, and which is held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, has for the last three years held its meetings at the Palmerston Arms' Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, met on Tuesday evening, June 7. The occasion being set apart for working the fifteen sections of the lectures of the three degrees. Bro. T. H. Pulsford, of the parent lodge, and P.M. and Secretary of the Southern Star Lodge, No. 1158, presided, and proved himself a worthy pupil of Bro. John Thomas, of the United Pilgrims, Panmure, and other lodges, and one of the most distinguished instructors in the Craft. This lodge has met every week for the last three years, without a single failure, and this may be mentioned as something almost unprecedented in Freemasonry; but this may to some extent be explained when young Masons receive such valuable information from so talented a brother as John Thomas (the Preceptor of the lodge). The unique and appropriate furniture with which the lodge is decorated, and the unassuming and painstaking care which every brother receives from Bro. Marshall, "mine host," who is not only a member of the Craft, but a worthy and esteemed P.M. of the Neptune Lodge, No. 22, and who certainly does everything in his power to minister to the comforts of the brethren who may honour this lodge by their presence.

The lodge was opened at seven o'clock, Bro. Pulsford presiding, Bro. Thomas acting as S.W., Bro. Bedolfe as J.W.; Bro. Hodges, S.D.; Bro. Larham, J.D.; and a numerous assemblage, amongst whom were Bros. Welsford, P.M.; Wake, Worrall, Gerder, Poore, Ross, White, Dann, Wallis, Allen, Gluckstein, Child, Dodson, &c. The lectures were worked as follows:—

First Lecture.—1, Bro. Gluckstein; 2, Larham; 3, Worrall; 4, Geider; 5, Geider; 6, Poore; 7, Thomas.

Second Lecture.—1, Bro. Welsford; 2, H. Thompson; 3, Larham; 4, Thomas; 5, Geider.

Third Lecture.—1, Bro. Thompson; 2, Thomas; 3, Bro. Pulsford, who also worked the Master's degree.

The lodge was then closed in the third and second degrees, and Bro. White, of the United Strength, and Aller, of the Burgoyne Lodge, were admitted as joining members.

Bro. H. THOMPSON, P.M. 177 and 1851, and Secretary of this Lodge of Instruction, in a few appropriate remarks, proposed, "That the best thanks of this lodge be recorded on the minutes to Bro. T. H. Pulsford, P.M., for the ability with which he has presided over it this evening in working the fifteen sections, and to express to him our sense of the deep obligations the lodge is under for the willingness he has always displayed in every way in his power to promote the best interests of Freemasonry."

Bro. JOHN THOMAS, Preceptor of the Lodge, seconded the motion, and at some length extolled the eminent services of Bro. Pulsford, trusting that he might long live to benefit the lodge by the great lessons he was so able to teach in Freemasonry.

The motion was put, and unanimously carried.

Bro. T. H. PULSFORD very briefly acknowledged the compliment, and in very suitable terms expressed his desire to render any services that might be required of him.

Bro. THOMPSON said he had been present on many similar occasions, but during the whole of his Masonic career he had never met with a Master who had presided with greater ability, nor had heard the sections worked more carefully or with greater accuracy than had been done by the brethren that evening.

Some other business was disposed of, and the lodge was closed in due form and solemn prayer, and adjourned until the following Tuesday evening, at eight o'clock.

MARK MASONRY.

Macdonald Mark Masters' Lodge, No. 104.—This Mark lodge met at the head-quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, Brunswick-road, Camberwell, on Saturday, the 11th inst., under the presidency of the V.W. Brother Thomas Meggy, P.G.M.O., the W.M., supported by the V.W. Bro. James Stevens, G.J.O., J.W.; the V.W. Bro. Charles Swan, P.G.S.B., Sec.; Bro. Dr. Eugene Cronin, M.O.; Bro. J. H. Hastie, J.O.; the W. Bro. C. Hammerton, Grand Steward, S.D.; Bros. Worrell, Org.; Newman, I.G.; Neal, and several other brethren, and the W. Bro. Clarence Harcourt, Grand Steward, visitor. The lodge was opened in due form, and the ceremony of advancement was worked in full detail and with musical accompaniment. A vote of three guineas annually to form a prize for the second best shot in the competition for the Macdonald Lodge (Craft, No. 1216) Challenge Cup, the design for which was in the lodge-room, was accorded by acclamation. The brethren then proceeded to the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. James Stevens, G.J.O., was unanimously elected to that office. The lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned for refreshment, and spent a short but exceedingly pleasant evening in each other's company.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

RED CROSS OF ROME & CONSTANTINE.

The Grand Council and Senate of this order met at Freemasons' Tavern, on Friday, the 10th instant, and amongst other important business, a communication from the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, desiring to enter into fraternal relations with the Red Cross Order, was discussed.

The following committee was appointed to confer with the Mark General Board upon the subject: Lord Kenlis, Sir F. M. Williams, Bart, M.P.; Colonel Burdett, John Hervy, William H. Hubbard, R. Wentworth Little, J. G. Marsh, Lord Lindsay, and Raynham W. Stewart. The Council resolved not to exercise the powers they possess by virtue of the "Rancliffe" warrant of 1796 to work the R.A. Mariners and other degrees, there being no historical or even traditional connection between those degrees and the chivalric grades under the control of the Council. The G. Recorder reported that there were now twenty-five conclaves on the roll of the order, with a membership of 500 knights, and that the balance to the credit of the general fund had increased during the year ending 5th March, 1870, from £79 6s. 8d. to £102 10s. 2d., and the G. Almoner's fund from £11 11s. 1d. to £29 0s. 7d. At the conclusion of the executive business, the Grand Senate was ceremonially opened for conferring the rank of Sovereign, and Sir Knights G. Lambert, T. W. Board, C. J. B. Plestow, J. T. Moss, and R. M. Bowman were admitted to that dignity. In future, promotions to superior rank in the order will be greatly restricted—the Executive Committee having surrendered those special powers which enabled them hitherto to confer the degrees upon approved candidates. Lord Lindsay and the Rev. C. J. Martyn were elected members of the Grand Senate, which was then closed with the accustomed solemnities.

The Sovereign's grade, it may be observed, is considered to be the purest relic of the old Heredom or Ancient York working, and it certainly illustrates the Master Masons' degree to a remarkable extent. Among the Knights present were: The Rev. T. F. Ravenshaw, J. Hervy, W. H. Hubbard, H. G. Buss, R. Wentworth Little, J. G. Marsh, Angelo J. Lewis, G. Powell, F. Walters, and M. Edwards, the last two being present, by special permission, during the ceremony only.

ROYAL ARK MARINERS.

A combined meeting of the most Antient and Honourable Fraternity of Royal Ark Mariners and of Mark Masters was held at Masons' Hall, Masons'-avenue, E.C., on Tuesday evening, the 14th inst., at five o'clock, by the authority of the Grand Master of Mark Masters and the Grand Commander of Royal Ark Mariners, both of whom were present on this occasion. The meeting was arranged for the undermentioned distinguished brethren taking the degree of Royal Ark Mariners. Bro. Morton Edwards, the Pro. Grand Commander, took the command of this special vessel, assisted by Bros. Levander, as J.; Marsh, as S.; Church as Deacon; and Swan, as Scribe. The vessel was properly floated, the Ark was opened in ample form, and the following candidates came on board and took the A.O.B. as Royal Ark Mariners:—Bros. G. R. Portal, M.W.G.M.M.; W. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M.M.; J. H. Wynne, P.G.I.G.; S. Rosenthal, G.D.C.; W. Stone, P.G.S. 30; F. J. Cox, T. S. Gower, and Chevalier E. Frolich. The Ark was then closed, and the vessel was safely moored. A recherche banquet was provided by Bro. Gosden. Interesting speeches were delivered by the M.W. G.M.M., Chevalier Frolich (the Swedish Ambassador), who proposed the toast of his English brethren in the style of his country, and gave some idea of Masonry in Sweden. This will be the first instance on record, we think, of two Masonic bodies of separate jurisdiction meeting on neutral ground, preserving their own privileges intact, and yet working together without any difficulty occurring in the arrangement of ceremonies.

A NEW institution has been started in the metropolis which fills a gap in the organisation of the literary world, under the title of the "London Literary Agency." Its promoters undertake to receive and examine manuscripts, to make arrangements for their disposal, to conduct works through the press, and generally to act as intermediaries between authors in the country and publishers in town. A branch of the agency is devoted to the supply of political and literary matter to the provincial press. The offices are in Tavistock-street, Covent-garden.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT give health to the sick at a very little cost of cash, time, or trouble; purifying and renovating properties are the characteristics of these admirable vegetable remedies. The poor sufferer well nigh worn-out by lengthened disease may still be strengthened and restored by the tonic influence of these medicaments. In dyspepsia, loss of appetite, flatulence, and liver complaint, while these Pills are being taken, the Ointment should be rubbed over the digestive organs. In heart and chest complaints, it should be rubbed on the back and chest as assiduously as salt is rubbed into meat. By steady perseverance with this treatment, the blood is purged of all impurities and the whole animal system thoroughly regulated.—[Adv.]

THE BLOOD IN OLD AGE.—As age advances the blood becomes thin and cloudy—or, in a full habit, thick and cloudy. The failing of the powers of life requires extra nutrition and support, and the blood yielding the excess required is soon overcharged with carbon, which gives to it the cloudy appearance. Being then impure, day by day the vitiated matter increases, and the body suffers from a thousand ailments. "The Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, supplies the extra nutrition to the blood and restores to it its florid hue, and then the progress of decay is arrested and the ailment disappears—man lives out his days, and the sunset of life is unattended with suffering. Testimonials with each bottle from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore, General Wm. Gilbert, of the Indian Army; and Rev. Francis Monck, of "The Gospel Evangelist." Ordered also for Apothecaries' Hall, London. Sold by all druggists, in bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Pills and Ointment, each in boxes 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.—Caution: Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—[Adv.]

SCOTLAND.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION-STONE OF THE NEW ALBERT BRIDGE AT GLASGOW.

On Friday, the 3rd inst., the foundation-stone of the new bridge crossing the river at Hutchesontown, and which has been named the Albert Bridge, was laid by the Earl of Dalhousie, Grand Master Mason for Scotland, with all the pomp and ceremonial of the Ancient Order. The arrangements on the occasion were of the most complete and satisfactory description, and the entire proceedings, although greatly marred by very disagreeable weather, were carried through without miscarriage or mishap of any kind.

The day's proceeding were appropriately introduced by divine service, conducted in the cathedral.

The Grand Lodge was opened in the Chapter House at 11.30, the brethren afterwards taking their seats to the right of the pulpit. The Grand Master, the Earl of Dalhousie, was accompanied by Lord Rosehill as Grand Sword-bearer, and by Mr. Inglis of Torsonce, and Mr. Alex. Smollett of Bonhill. We may here refer to rather an unpleasant incident—the only one of this nature which occurred during the day—which took place after the opening of the Grand Lodge. It appears that the brethren of the Glasgow St. John's Lodge, No. 3 bis., claimed the privilege, as the oldest operative lodge in this district, of carrying the working jewels of the Grand Lodge—a privilege, however, which was given to the Journeyman Lodge, No. 8, Edinburgh. R.W.M. Baird, St. John's Lodge, protested strongly against this arrangement, maintaining that the rules of the Grand Lodge only provided for the Journeyman Lodge carrying the jewels in question in Edinburgh and its neighbourhood. The result of this misunderstanding was that the brethren of the St. John's Lodge, to the number of about 120, took no part in the proceedings.

At the close of the services in the Cathedral, a procession was formed in the following order:—

Military Band.
Chief Constable.
Police Officers, and Officer carrying Civic Banner.
Town Officers, with halberets.
The Lord Provost and Magistrates.
The Town Council (not Members of the River and Bridge Committees.)
Judicial and Civil Officers of the Corporation.
Police Constables.
Sheriffs of the County.
Military Officers.
Deputy-Lieutenant and Justices of the Peace for the County.
Police Constables.
Chairman and Members of Bridge Committee and the County Trustees.
Chief Engineers.
Treasurer and Local Engineer.
River Police Constables.
Chairman and Members of the River Trust.
Dean of Guild and Directors of Merchants' House.
Deacon-Convener and Directors of Trades' House.
President and Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.
Masonic Lodges, the junior in front.

Detachment of Fifth Fusiliers. } Band of Fifth Fusiliers.
Detachment of Fifth Fusiliers. } The Grand Lodge of Scotland.
Detachment of Fifth Fusiliers. } of Fifth Fusiliers.

It was estimated that about 3,000 Masons took part in the procession; and had the weather been favourable the number would undoubtedly have been larger; for not a few who had undertaken the journey to Glasgow, from various places in the neighbourhood, preferred in the circumstances to view rather than form part of the spectacle. Subjoined is a list of the lodges represented:—

There were thus in all 114 lodges represented.

The Grand Lodge when constituted, included the following members:—The Earl of Dalhousie, K.G., Grand Master Mason of Scotland; Henry Inglis, Esq., of Torsonce, Substitute Grand Master; Wm. Mann, Senior Grand Warden; William Officer, Junior Grand Warden; Wm. Alexander Lawrie, Grand Secretary; Alex. James Stewart, Grand Clerk; the Rev. Dr. Arnot, Grand Chaplain; the Right Hon. Lord Rosehill, Grand Sword-bearer; Captain Colt, of Garstherie, Acting Senior Grand Deacon; Captain M'Casland, Acting Junior Grand Deacon; Alex. Hay, Grand Jeweller; W. Miller, Acting Grand Architect; Daniel Robertson, Grand Bible-bearer; Charles W. Müller, Grand Director of Music; John Lawrie, Acting Director of Ceremonies; Murdoch Mackenzie, Chief Grand Marshal; William M. Bryce, Grand Tyler; Owen Gough, President of Grand Stewards; F. A. Barrow, Acting Provincial Grand Master for Glasgow; Robert Wylie, Acting Grand Master of Ayrshire; D. Murray Lyon, Senior Provincial Grand Warden of Ayrshire; A. Smollett, of Bonhill, Provincial Grand Master of Dumfriesshire; Lauderdale Maitland, of Eccles, Provincial Grand Master of Dumfries; Dr. Burns, Provincial Grand Chaplain of Glasgow; Bro. C. F. Matier, W. P. Buchan, Bennett, &c., Grand Stewards.

On leaving the cathedral, the procession marched down Upper High-street, along George-street to Buchanan-street, down Buchanan-street, thence eastward along Argyll-street and Trongate, down Saltmarket, to the site of the bridge.

On the procession reaching the bridge, shortly before three o'clock, the junior lodges were drawn up in line on each side, and through the opening thus formed the Grand Master and office-bearers of the Grand Lodge proceeded to the foundation-stone.

Silence being proclaimed by the Grand Marshal, the National Anthem was played by the band; thereafter the Lord Provost, in name of the Bridge Trustees, asked the Grand Master to proceed with the ceremony of laying the stone. At the command of the Grand Master, the Grand Chaplain (Rev. Dr. Arnot) implored the Divine blessing on the undertaking, and the Grand Treasurer deposited in the foundation-stone a glass bottle hermetically sealed, containing specimens of the different coins of the present reign. Another bottle containing a variety of municipal records, &c., was afterwards placed in the stone by the Grand Secretary. The Grand Clerk then read the inscription placed on the foundation-stone, as follows:—

Albert Bridge, Glasgow.
From the continued increase of the Population of Glasgow, and of the surrounding districts, and in order to provide more ample means of communication between the North and South Banks of the Clyde,
Hutchesontown Bridge,
Erected Anno Domini 1830, has been taken down;
and,
By the favour of Almighty God, in the presence of the Hon. William Rae Arthur, Lord Provost of the City, and the Public Bodies of the City,
The Right Hon. the Earl of Dalhousie, G.M.M., assisted by
The Grand Masonic Lodge of Scotland, and numerous other Lodges, Laid the Foundation-Stone of this Bridge, to be called
The Albert Bridge of Glasgow,
On Friday, the Third Day of June, MDCCCLXX.,
Era of Masonry, 5870.
In the Thirty-third Year of the Reign of our Most Gracious Sovereign, Queen Victoria.

The plate having been adjusted, and the order given to the attendant workmen, the stone was lowered to its place, the band playing meanwhile the Masonic anthem, "Great Light to Shine." The various jewels having been applied by the respective office-bearers, the Grand Master declared the stone duly laid, pronouncing the benediction:—"May the Great Architect of the Universe enable us successfully to carry on and finish the work of which we have now laid the foundation-stone, and every other undertaking which may tend to the advantage of the city of Glasgow and its neighbourhood, and may this bridge be long preserved from peril and decay." The corn, the wine, and the oil were then spread upon the stone, and prayer having been offered up, the ceremony was completed amid loud cheers, the band performing the Masons' Anthem.

The Treasurer to the Bridge Trustees (Mr. W. W. Watson) then presented to the senior master builder, Bro. James Donald, a purse of gold, saying—"It is the pleasure of the Grand Master that those who have hewed the stones and those who have laid them, and all who have assisted, should rejoice in the light."

Lord DALHOUSIE next said:—My Lord Provost, I have now the satisfaction of informing you that the Grand Lodge, assisted by numerous lodges from this and other districts of the country, have succeeded in laying in its proper place the foundation-stone of this bridge. Permit me, my Lord, to congratulate you on the commencement of this great work during the period in which you hold office in this city. (Cheers.) As I read in the records of the Clyde, I find that in the year 1784, or thereabout, a plan was laid out for a village, to be called Hutchesontown. Thereupon a bridge was commenced over the Clyde to connect the said village with the city of Glasgow; but I presume the gods of the Clyde, resenting the insufficiency of the work, washed it away. I trust, my Lord Provost, that here we shall have a more substantial erection. (Cheers.) With the years that have passed since that period, the city of Glasgow has indeed flourished, and grown from being a small community to become one of the most important mercantile cities of which this country or the world can boast. (Cheers.) My Lord, I perceive that you contemplate in this erection to change the name of this bridge, that it will no longer be called as it used to be designated, but that you intend to call it the Albert Bridge. Permit me, my Lord, to congratulate you on this mode of paying a compliment to the memory of one of the greatest and best of men whom I have ever seen in this country. (Cheers.) I can assure you that this testimony to his worth on the part of the magistrates and citizens of Glasgow will be one of the most acceptable acts which they could have done to our most gracious sovereign the Queen, and I will make it my duty to report to her Majesty the business of this day, and the bridge to which you have given the name will be, I am sure, one of the greatest and most ornamental and useful structures in the city of Glasgow. (Cheers.) My Lord, I would have said more upon this occasion, but I am unwilling to detain this company, considering the inauspicious state of the weather. I will only say that it is my earnest hope and prayer that Glasgow may long continue to flourish; that on the bosom of its noble river rich argosies will be floated to her warehouses; and that her merchant princes will in future, as in the past, ever be distinguished for their eminence in commerce and for their generosity on all occasions. (Loud cheers.)

The LORD PROVOST afterwards said:—My Lord Dalhousie and members of the Grand Lodge of Scotland,—On the part of the magistrates and citizens of Glasgow, I beg to return you our most cordial thanks for the great service you have rendered us this day, and for coming so far to lay the foundation stone of this bridge, which, I trust, will be as enduring as you have kindly hoped it may be. It is undoubtedly true that this great city of Glasgow has arisen from such a village as you described lying in its neighbourhood on the south side of the river, to a great community of some half million of souls; and even now rich argosies are daily carried triumphantly along the river to the city:—I beg again to thank you most cordially for your presence, and I have only further, on behalf of the community, to beg your acceptance of this memento of the present occasion.

His Lordship then presented to the Earl of Dalhousie the trowel which was used during the ceremony.

The Earl of DALHOUSIE, in reply, said: I thank you, my Lord Provost, for this elegant memento of the work in which I have been engaged. I shall report to the brethren of the Grand Lodge the kind reception which you have given us on this occasion. It affords us the greatest pleasure to assist at undertakings of this kind. For myself, I shall preserve among the muniments of my family this splendid token of your generosity. (Cheers.)

Three cheers were afterwards given for the Queen, followed by a similar compliment to the Lord Provost and the magistrates, and the proceedings terminated.

The Grand Lodge, followed by the Lord Provost and magistrates, councillors, and others, then marched to the County Buildings, Wilson-street, where the duties of the civic bodies terminated. The Grand Lodge was closed in the Burgh Court Hall, while the other lodges returned to their respective places of meeting.

The freedom of the city was presented to the Earl of Dalhousie, and at the conclusion of the ceremony the Lord Provost and the members of the Bridge Trust entertained the Earl of Dalhousie, the members of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and a number of other gentlemen, to dinner in the Corporation Galleries.

MASONIC DINNER.

In the evening upwards of 200 of the Brotherhood met together at dinner in the Tontine Hotel. The chair was occupied by Brother F. A. Barrow, D.P.G.M., who was supported on the right by Dr. F. M'Gowan, representative of the Grand Orient of France; Frank Law, Grand Steward; James Wallace, P.G.S.D.; James Leith, P.G., Director of Ceremonies; and on the left by Murray Lyon, Samuel Bennett, P.M. 18 Acting G.S.; Robert Craig, P.G. Chaplain; John Scott, R.W.M. 27; Captain Wright, 106th Light Infantry. The croupiers were: Bros. A. M'Taggart, M.A., P.G. Secretary; Thomas Ramsay, P.P.M., St. John's 3 bis; and James Thompson, treasurer for the Provincial Grand Benevolent Fund. After dinner the ordinary loyal and constitutional toasts were given—"The Army, Navy, and Volunteers," being coupled with the name of Captain Wright, who replied for the army. Amongst the remaining toasts were: "The Three Grand Lodges," proposed by the Chairman; "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow," given by Dr. M'Gowan, and replied to by the Chairman; "The Lord Provost and Magistrates," and "The Chairman and members of the Bridge Committee."

A LODGE should not recommend material to another which they are unwilling to use themselves.

MASONIC PROGRESS.

It has always been to us a source of pride and pleasure to chronicle the continued progress of the Masonic Order throughout its various branches, more especially when that progress may be fairly attributed to the genuine spread of Masonic principles, and not merely to the transient popularity of the institution among the thoughtless many.

There can be no doubt that of late years a much higher standard of excellence has been attained in the ceremonial work of English Freemasonry. Capable Masters are now the rule, and not the exception; and the consequence is that a deep and vital interest in the Order has been evoked within the more intellectual circles of society, an interest which promises to bear in the future abundant fruit for good.

In Royal Arch Masonry this is specially observable, and we could easily indicate several young Masons of but a few years' standing who are not only thoroughly competent to render the somewhat difficult and dramatic ritual of the degree with correctness and propriety, but with an elocutionary power and solemnity which put to shame the mumbling, inarticulate utterances of "auld lang syne."

Instead of the Master Mason reposing quietly within the precincts of the third degree, we now find him at the close of his twelve months' probation not only willing but eager to advance in the speculative science, and to devote his time and attention to the elucidation of those more abstract ideas and philosophical truths which abound in capitular Masonry. It is true that we have even now too many drones in the Masonic hive, and some even who, like the Sanballats of old, profane the good work with scoff and sneer; men whose evil words and deeds are a perpetual source of weakness to the Craft. But the earnest workers, the true Masons, will but strive the more zealously to maintain the Masonic system in all its pristine purity, and to realise that vision of perfect brotherhood which has haunted the souls of all lovers of their kind since the dawn of civilisation. A careful attention to the ceremonial duties of Freemasonry is in itself by no means a trivial element in Masonic progress; and, therefore, in order to impress the minds of educated candidates, the officers of a lodge or chapter should be adepts in the work.

More than this is, however, not only desirable, but absolutely essential in every Mason who believes in the exalted mission of the Craft. An acquaintance with its history, its philosophy, and its symbolism is requisite before a brother can claim the title of an expert Craftsman.

But above all, he must practise those precepts of morality, which at once underlie and crown the Masonic structure; he must cultivate the arts of peace, he must cherish the principles of charity and goodwill, and by acts, as well as words, prove that Freemasonry is the guiding spirit of his conduct and life. That there are few who fulfil all these conditions is but an additional proof of that human frailty which nullifies our best intentions, still it would be unjust to reproach the Masonic Institution with the errors and shortcomings of its members.

Men are variously constituted, and in every large body there must be some who from mental infirmity or moral obliquity, are incapable of receiving permanent impressions for good. However this may be, it is surely the duty of every Mason whose perceptions of right and wrong are clearly defined, to elevate the standard of morality in those with whom he is so intimately associated. The influence of the Masonic press should also be more freely exercised to promote this object, and the literary abilities of many of the brethren could scarcely be directed to a nobler aim. It is to be lamented that the higher aspects and the more esthetic tendencies of Freemasonry are not more generally recognised by the intellectual men within her pale. We have heard a great deal about Rosicrucianism, but the mysticism in which it is almost impenetrably shrouded, renders a study of its secrets, at best, but an uncertain and barren pursuit. On the contrary, the tenets of Freemasonry, veiled as they may be in allegory, are yet illustrated by symbols which are intelligible to the feeblest understanding, and which are eminently calculated to regulate the thoughts and actions of our daily life. And it is precisely this realism which constitutes not only the visible power, but the secret charm of Masonic rites. Every effort, therefore, which tends to demonstrate the importance of the Order as a moral agent, should be distinctly recognised by the various Masonic authorities. "Life," as the philosopher says, "is not given us for the mere sake of living," and in like manner we may say, that the principles of Freemasonry are not meant simply for rehearsal in the lodge, but for exemplification in the lives of all who profess a knowledge of their profound truth. We rejoice to find that great progress is being made in this direction, and we may safely prophesy that the spirit of improvement, once awakened, will not be allowed to slumber again. One of the most hopeful signs of this progress is, beyond doubt, the support which is now extended to Masonic literature; the day has for ever gone by, when fears could be entertained of the wholesome influence of an honest press, and there is no reason whatever to suppose that the cause of Freemasonry has suffered in the least, through the publicity given to its proceedings at the present day.

Since commencing these observations, we have learned that a project, which we advocated warmly some time ago is about to be realised, namely, the establishment of an "Emulation Chapter of Improvement," at Freemasons' Hall. This will afford Royal Arch Masons the same high-class instruction as is now attainable in the Craft under the ægis of the "Emulation Lodge."

Companion James Brett, assisted by a competent staff of Preceptors, will conduct the various ceremonies of the Order, and the Grand Scribe E., Comp. Hervey, has accepted the post of Treasurer.

With such able and estimable men as leaders and guides, a splendid success may be anticipated, and a further step will then have been made in the direction of Masonic Progress.

WE have received from an esteemed correspondent in Leeds copies of the addresses given by Bros. the Rev. J. McCron and Colonel G. A. Hanson on the occasion of the presentation by Major-General A. Kimmel of his bust to the Grand Lodge of Maryland. General Kimmel is a Past Grand Master, and has been a member of the Craft since March, 1819, in which year he also became adjutant of the 5th Maryland Cavalry. He has also been on duty and in commission as a Mason and a soldier more than half a century, during which period he had the rare honour of receiving, as commanding officer, General Lafayette, and also of sitting in the lodge with that illustrious hero and brother.

DICKENS.

It may be interesting to state that although Charles Dickens himself was not a Freemason, he always entertained a high opinion of the Fraternity; one of his nieces, Augusta Maud Dickens, the child of his late brother Alfred, is at the present time a pupil in the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls at St. John's Hill, Battersea-rise.

THE REVIVAL OF A.D. 1727.

As the communications of Bros. Yarker and Paton in your paper for 4th June might have lead your readers to suppose that the 1717 theory originated with Bro. Buchan. I send you an extract from a work published at Utica in 1829:—"That a society claiming the glories of Free Masonry should have existed for ages unnoticed by any writer, noble or contemptible, foolish or learned, is wholly incredible and unworthy of belief. The Puritans and the Presbyterians, the Cabalists and the Rosicrucians, the Gypsies and the Necromancers, the Alchemists and the Jesuits, &c., are each liberally noticed in the works of various authors during the 16th and 17th century; but Free Masonry has not so much as a name until the 18th century. They are silent as the grave from the days of King Solomon down to 1717. To any historical scholar this fact is alone enough."

W. G. DORIC.

A HUNDRED YEARS OF AGE.

The scepticism of the late Sir George Cornwall Lewis and others, with regard to the existence of centenarian human lives in the modern world, has been refuted by several well-proved instances; and many of us can testify to having known, among our personal acquaintances, two or three old men or women who, before they died, were nearer to a hundred than to ninety years of age. We have been favoured by the Rev. C. H. Drinkwater, curate of Richmond, in Yorkshire, with a communication respecting Matthew Greathead, a neighbour of his there, who actually attained his hundredth year on April 23, having been born on that day in 1770, in the parish of High Coniscliffe, in the county of Durham, four miles from Darlington. His baptismal register runs thus:—"Matthew, son of John Greathead, was baptised on the 24th day of April, 1770." He is a widower, and has one son and two daughters living, with four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. We are glad to say that this venerable sire enjoys good health and spirits; he is in full possession of all his senses and mental faculties; he can read without spectacles; and his memory is still good. Mankind ought to thank him for setting us all a happy example. He has been a Freemason seventy-two years, and is, no doubt, the oldest member of that brotherly craft in the United Kingdom.—Illustrated London News, June 11.

[An esteemed brother has promised us some particulars as to Bro. Greathead's Masonic career for our next number.—ED. F.]

ST. JOHN'S GATE.

"1188.—Guy, King of Jerusalem being released from prison, having been detained in chains for a year at Damascus, summoned his despised followers to unite, and associating with himself the Templars, Hospitallers, Venetians, Genoese, and the noble pilgrims who had arrived, laid siege to Acre, to the deliverance of which Saladin, without any alarm, came, and after a fierce battle of three days, lo! they beheld an innumerable fleet of Danes and Frieslanders entering the harbour, without hindrance. When Saladin saw this, he immediately fled; leaving the city without hope of relief. The strength of the city was, however, impregnable, and the garrison on the side of Saladin consisted of 9,000 armed men.

"1260.—A Templar, who came in haste from the Holy Land, arrived in London on St. Botolph's Day, bringing letters to the king and the master of the Temple, and others. He performed the journey with such rapidity that he entered London the day thirteen weeks after he left the Holy Land, making only one day's journey from Dover to London. When the letters were read, great grief arose, for the Tartars with an innumerable host had made themselves masters of the Holy Land as far as Acre. 'Nor,' said he, 'will Christendom be able to help them, unless supported by the powerful hand of God as an ally. For, as nearly all the Templars and Hospitallers are killed, unless speedy succour arise, a terrible destruction will soon visit the world, which God forbid.'

"1292.—The Princess Joanna of Acre, in her 18th year, renowned for her beauty and high spirit, daughter of Edward the First, and his faithful and dear Queen ("chère reine!"), Eleanor of Castile, was married with great pomp at the monastery of the Knights of St. John, Clerkenwell, to the Premier Peer of England, Gilbert the Red, Earl of Gloucester.

"1337.—In tenth of Edward III., the Inner Temple Hall was assigned to the prior and brethren of the Hospital of St. John, together with the church, cloisters, &c.; while the other hall remained in the hands of the Crown, and was not granted to the Hospitallers until the 13th Edward III. Soon after this period they conceded the use of both halls to the professors of the law."

VIATOR.

In answer to a "Constant Reader," we beg to state that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales was initiated in Sweden by the King, Charles John XV., who is the Grand Master of the Masonic Order in that country; his title being the Vicar of Solomon. We are further informed that the Crown Prince assisted in the ceremony.

B. L. GREEN.—We have great pleasure in replying to your queries.

No. 1. Objection should be taken at the time to votes of brethren in arrears; and, if so taken, their votes would become null and void, in accordance with the bye-law.

No. 2. The order of procedure is precisely as you have stated it; but, upon the amendment being put as a substantive motion, any brother is at liberty to move another amendment, and so on ad infinitum.

No. 3. Seven days' notice must be given, if initiations form part of the intended business.—[ED. F.]

CONSECRATION of the HERVEY R.A. CHAPTER, No. 1260.

This new Chapter, which is attached to the highly successful Hervey Lodge, was formally opened and consecrated on the 11th inst., at the George Hotel, Walham-green, by M.E. Comp. John Hervey, Grand Scribe E., assisted by Comps. J. Boyd, as H.; J. Brett, as J.; and R. W. Little, as Director of Ceremonies. The programme of the proceedings was strictly carried out as follows, and it is needless to add that the various ceremonies were performed in a masterly manner.

The Companions of the new Chapter, and the visitors entered in order, marshalled by the D.C., Comp. Little. Comp. Brett then offered up the introductory prayer. The Acting G.S.E. then read the Petition and charter, and the M.E.Z. having inquired of the Companions if they approved of the officers named in the charter, the Companions signified their approval in Masonic form. The M.E.Z. then proceeded to constitute the Companions into a regular Chapter in ancient form.

An oration, on the nature and principles of the Institution, was delivered by Comp. J. Brett, P.Z.

The following anthem (133rd Psalm), was then sung by the choir:—

'Tis a pleasant thing to see
Brethren in the Lord agree,
Children of a God of Love
Live as they shall live above;
Acting each a Mason's part,
One in life, and one in heart.

Like the precious ointment shed,
Upon Aaron's hallowed head;
Gently as the dews distil
Down on Zion's holy hill;
So the peace of Heaven descends
On the union sweet of Friends;

and was followed by the Dedication Prayer, first portion.

The Companions turned to the East while the M.E.Z. gave the invocation.

The prescribed portions of the scripture were then read, the Chapter pedestal was uncovered, and the D.C. carried the elements three times round the Chapter, &c., solemn music being played during the procession.

Sanctus, "Glory be to Thee, O God." Comp. Brett then took the censer three times round the Chapter, and afterwards offered up the Dedication Prayer, second portion.

Another anthem succeeded:—

"Glory to God on High,
Let Heaven and Earth reply,
Praise ye His name;
Masons His love adore,
Tyl'd in their mystic lore
And cry out evermore,
Glory to God."

The M.E.Z. then dedicated and constituted the Chapter.

The choir then beautifully rendered the well-known anthem:—

"I have surely built Thee an house," and the ceremony was concluded with the Patriarchal Benediction.

A Conclave of Installed Principals was then formed, and Comp. Little, P.Z., then presented Comps. G. King, jun., G. King, and E. A. Baber, to Comp. Brett for installation into the third chair. Comp. Codner then presented the Comps. King to Comp. Little, who installed them in the second chair, after which the Grand Scribe E. installed Comp. King, jun., as the first M.E.Z. of the Chapter. Upon the re-admission of the Companions the rank of Honorary Member was unanimously conferred upon Comps. Hervey, Boyd, Brett and Little, for their efficient services. Comp. Baker was invested as E.; Comp. Andrews, as N., and a number of brethren having been proposed for exaltation, the Chapter was closed in ancient form.

A sumptuous banquet, provided by Comp. Gosden, of Mason's Hall Tavern, Basinghall-street, was then served, and it is but bare justice to Comp. Gosden to say that it was most admirable in every respect, and the wines were really choice vintages. The M.E.Z., Comp. King, jun., presided with great geniality and tact, and every Companion present thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

Although the Hervey Lodge has not been much more than a year in existence, it is already a very flourishing and influential body, thanks to the untiring energy of Bro. George King, jun., who has been well seconded by Bros. King, sen., and Baber, and other members, so that he is enabled to crown the Masonic edifice by the establishment of a Royal Arch Chapter, which bears the same honoured name of "Hervey." The new Chapter has our sincere wishes for its prosperity, and it would, indeed, be strange if under such auspices anything but success could attend its career. We must also not omit to note the efficient services of the musical brethren, Bros. W. Dawson, G. T. Carter, R. Barnby, Chaplin Henry and Distin, who both in the Chapter and over the dessert delighted the Companions with their harmonious strains. Among the members and visitors present we noticed the following Companions:—Comps. J. Hervey, G.S.E.; J. Boyd, P.Z. and Z. 145, as H.; J. Brett, P.Z. 177 and 975, as J.; R. W. Little, P.Z. 177 and 975, D.C.; H. G. Buss (P.Z. 177), F. Binckes (P.Z. 10), J. Nunn (P.G.D.C.), W. Smith, (P.Z. 33), A. Codner (Z. 25), W. Smeed (Z. 946), W. Mann (P.Z. 186), G. S. States (P.Z. 145), R. Barnby (820), A. C. Bean (19), J. W. Dawson (H. 186), S. Millis (19), T. Distin (742), W. Lowder (186), C. B. Payne (P.Z. 177), W. S. Lines, &c.

THE ARK MARINER DEGREE AND GRAND MARK LODGE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your last week's impression "Scribe," in his attempt to correct your report of the proceedings of the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, has himself been guilty of inaccuracy—inadvertently, doubtless. In stating that he had been informed that the "Ark, Link, and Wrestle" differed from the degree of "Ark Mariner," the M.W. Grand Master did not say that any Mark Master was at liberty to join the proposed new Grand Lodge of Ark Mariners, nor did he express himself in favour of any particular course of action with reference to that organisation.

A committee, appointed under resolution of Grand Lodge, is now considering the questions in connection with various side degrees, for the revival of which there appears to be some desire on the part of brethren—Mark Masters under the English Grand Mark Lodge—and until that committee has had time for proper investigation, and to report, it is the Grand Mark Master's opinion that it is extremely inadvisable for any English Mark Master to commit himself to the support, in any way, of the new movement referred to by your correspondent.

I would myself, in the most earnest manner, recommend every brother under the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge to refrain from any attempt to introduce another supreme Masonic body, pending the negotiations now in progress, having for their object the promotion of unity among the members of the orders and degrees not recognised by the United Grand Lodge of England. Your efforts in this direction are worthy of all praise, even if they do not result in the establishment of a "Council of Rites."

I am, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

FREDERICK BINCKES, Grand Secretary,
Grand Mark Lodge of England, &c.

London, June 14, 1870.

THE BREAD AND BUTTER THEORY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Whilst differing in matters of Masonic archaeology from Bro. Buchan, I yet admire his consistency and denunciation of all dishonest assertions. The phase through which we are at present passing arises in part from mistaken and illogical views as to universality, leading writers for the sake of it to advance theories it is impossible they can believe themselves; and in part from the admission by journalists of letters by writers upon a subject for which their education and knowledge unfit them. Of this I am quite certain, had some of these writers studied the Operative Constitutions of that Guild to which they are so anxious of tracing our present system of Freemasonry for the sake of their own version of Universality, we should have been spared much tall talk, as those Constitutions afford the strongest possible evidence that Guild Freemasonry entertained little beyond the bigoted Christianity of the time. Therefore, Speculative Masonry of to-day, is not Guild or Operative Masonry. I have demanded for years, in the face of all this guild writing, the slightest proof that such had any approach to our present ceremonial, and until it is given, I feel inclined to adopt what I find detailed in these Constitutions as to guild ceremonies, and add, therefore again, that such is not our Freemasonry. I take the truth to be, that guild Masonry virtually ceased in England, though not in Scotland, early in the 17th century; and whether or no it originated Speculative Masonry, it seems quite certain that all our principal rites and degrees were at the before-mentioned period well known, and that Speculative Masonry was intended to be an Order of much greater universality than Bro. Norton's "bread and butter" Masonry; but how our degrees came to take the name of Freemasonry I am not in a position to say at present.

Of course, Bro. Norton's notion of deference and universality in one word means Judaism, which I consider to be in every respect inferior to the original and older doctrines of the Aryans which passed eventually into the religion of the Zend Avesta and Vedas. Had it not been so, Judaism would never have been destroyed by a few fishermen and superseded by a better and purer system of morals not new to the times, on the preaching of Christianity, but found in Secret Societies centuries before that time. I am not now merely advocating my own opinions, but what I am also taught by High Grade Freemasonry, so much ridiculed, and even so little understood by its own members. When it is shown that Speculative Masonry is something greater than Guild Masonry, our traditions everywhere assume one harmonious whole. I place Templary outside the pale of Freemasonry as professedly originated in 1686, but state that its secrets and ceremonial are found in the degrees of the rite of Heredom-Kadosh. Now this rite claims to be also the rite of the Rosicrucians, which is said to have been derived from the East shortly after the destruction of the Templars; we see then that the assertions of the Rosicrucians in 1600 agree with the traditions of to-day's Speculative Masonry, the origin of which is well-known to the elect, and those who have not reached that grade have no right to the information, for, as said in 1721, "to you is given to know those secrets which are hidden from the unworthy." I learn from rituals in my possession, that the York rite of last century consisted of seven degrees, every one of which led a brother one step nearer to perfection; whilst in the 32° of the Continental rite, I learn that the parent rite consisted also of the same number of steps to perfection.

Freemasonry being then much more complicated than Guild Masonry, and being neither a Deist nor a Materialist, I decline to have the mark of Cain forced upon me, even with the advantage of the arts mechanical, &c., invented by his descendants, and as I am not a Jew or Sadducee, I decline to allow any brother to force upon me his own notions of perfection, but I prefer going forward to that purer system of Faith, Hope, and Charity which led to the promulgation of Christianity, and the spiritual doctrines figured to us in the other line of Adam's derivation or supposed descendants. As also our philosophical system is one of secrecy, let each be content with his own degree, without interfering with a superior step, for it is only the Perfected Brother who is the true Universalist, and the possessor of the key to all religious truth. If we are really Guild Masons, we had better return to the ceremonial of Guild Masonry, and much good may it do its votaries.

It will be sufficient to remind your readers that the Templars suffered for gnosticism, and there is no impossibility in the amalgamation of Speculative Masons, Rosicrucians, and Templars in later centuries.

Fraternally yours,

JOHN YARKER.

FREEMASONRY IN INDIA.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As promised, I send you a memo. of Masonry in this distant part of the world. From the newspaper reports, &c., you will have seen the doings of the Duke of Edinburgh and the Viceroy last March, when the two great railways met and were united at Jubbulpore. A glance at a map shows we are about the centre of the great Indian empire, midway between Calcutta and Bombay—our Masonic capital.

There are numerous lodges about us, distant, too, when looking at them from your part; but viewing them from this immense country, they appear near, particularly when linked by railway. Our nearest neighbour is Lodge St. Andrews, Kamptee, 154 miles off—a nice distance! Our next is Corinth, Nagpore, 164 miles. Our next neighbour is Independence and Philanthropy, Allahabad, 227 miles; and so on, getting further and further till you reach the confines of this great country.

I had the pleasure of visiting the above lodges last year, and can speak of the truly Masonic manner in which the brethren received me and other visitors. Masonry is flourishing in India; nearly every large (European) station has its lodge, many even working chapters. To come to my own station, Jubbulpore, we have a strong muster of Craftsmen working in Lodge Alexandra, 1065—viz., W. Bro. F. J. Jordan, Master; W. Bro. Lieut. R. B. Reed, and his brother, Dr. B. Reed, Past Masters; with 36 other members. The lodge works well, is excellently decorated, and attended. On my visit to this lodge last month, there was one raising and one initiation. On the 22nd there was one passing, one initiation, and four joining. Yesterday I was present at the farewell meeting and supper to the W. Bro. Jordan, and was indeed pleased with the proceedings. One poor woman (widow) got £5 from the poor box. A silver watch and chain was presented to Bro. Bastion, Treasurer, going on sick leave. A silver tankard, with address, voted to the Past Masters, Lieut. and Dr. Reed. Three joining brothers balloted for and admitted (one poor fellow not admitted). A brother was severely censured for allowing his messengers to wear a large Masonic sign on their belts. The offending brother was ordered to remove the badge (as such looked like "touting") or cease attending lodge. One gentleman proposed for initiation. The proceedings of the evening wound up with W. Bro. Jordan resigning the chair, and investing Bro. Dr. Reed with the square and hiram for the remainder of the year. The lodge closed in peace at half-past nine, and the brethren adjourned to banquet; songs and toasts followed fast and furious, until old Time warned the Craftsmen to depart, which we did about half-past eleven, all pleased with our evening's entertainment. W. Bro. Jordan was cheered again and again, all wishing him God speed to old England, whither he goes in a few days, after an absence of 20 years.

Yours,
"SPERANZA."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR,—In your "Life of Lord Howe," you have omitted the fact that he had been a member of the Lodge of Antiquity since May, 1844, when he was elected a joining member. He continued to subscribe until his death, which has deprived the lodge of an old and valued member. I would have written sooner, but I wanted to give you the date of his joining.

Yours truly,
No. TWO.

AN APPEAL.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—Will you kindly permit me a small space in your paper for an appeal to my brethren in aid of a fund for providing a summer-day's excursion into the country, together with two good meals, for at least five hundred poor children of the parish of St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, Middlesex. I have in six years gone by derived great assistance for works of charity from the Craft, and I never appealed in vain.

Donations may be sent to

Yours fraternally,

Curate of the parish (seven years), and WANTS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—May I ask has any brother duplicate copies of the undermentioned, for which he would accept "exchanges," or their monetary value. If so I should feel obliged.

Yours fraternally,

W. J. HUGHAN.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Kindly give a reply to the following queries in your "Notices to Correspondents" this week:—

1. If, after a vote on a given question is taken, it is found that brethren have voted who are in arrears with their subscription, and the bye-laws declare that "no brother shall be allowed to vote on any occasion if he be three months in arrears," is the vote legal and binding?

2. If a resolution and amendment are both duly proposed and seconded, is it not proper that the following be the order observed:—First, the amendment is put to the vote, for and against; second, the resolution is put to the vote, for and against; thirdly, if the amendment is carried, should it not then be put as a substantive motion?

3. What notice is necessary for the calling a Lodge of Emergency?

I think that on the second query, especially, full information would be very valuable to a W.M. not accustomed to the conduct of public business.

Yours fraternally,

BENJ. L. GREEN, Lodge of Unity, 613.

[Answered under "Multum in Parvo."—ED. F.]

WE understand that the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall will be held at Truro, on Tuesday, the 19th July, and that a very large muster of the brethren is expected. The last time the P.G.L. met in this town was in 1863, and since then the Province has increased considerably, both as respects the number of lodges and members. The new Masonic Hall will be dedicated by the Prov. G. Master on the same day, and we believe the brethren will walk in procession to St. Mary's Church, and will dine at the new Public Rooms; but the arrangements are not yet finally made, so we forbear anything approaching prophecy. Any information can be obtained from Bro. W. J. Hughan, the Prov. Grand Secretary, and we hope to announce the particulars in our advertising columns shortly.

MASONIC ARCHÆOLOGICAL INSTITUTE.

A meeting was held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on Thursday evening, June 9th; W. Bro. Matthew Moggridge, P.P.S.G.W., South Wales, F.S.A., F.G.S., in the chair.

The Secretary read letters of apology from several members.

A letter was read from W. Bro. G. H. Younghusband, P.M., tendering to the institute as a present for its members twelve copies of his lodge music.

W. Bro. Wigginton, F.R.S., B.A., passed a high eulogium on the value of this music at consecrations; and Brother Shackell concurred.

Thanks were accorded to Bro. Younghusband.

A letter was read from Bro. Witham M. Bywater, as follows:—

"5, Hanover-square, W., April 11, 1870.

"Dear Sir and Brother,—The publication of the first report of the R. Commission on Historical MSS. places in a prominent manner the interesting results which are beginning to be manifested by the discovery of long-lost and hitherto-unknown documents.

"Impressed with the importance which this movement may have for our 'noble science,' I am led, without further apology, to suggest the question whether something cannot be gained for Masonry by this investigation? I think it not unlikely that among the commissioners there may be one or more who may belong to the Fraternity, with whom your influence, or that of the Council of the M. Archæological Institute, might have sufficient weight to induce them to issue such instructions or private hints to their literary staff as would lead to their taking note of any MSS. relating to the early history of Free Masonry and Accepted or Speculative Masonry. For instance, particular attention might be devoted to collections in the possession of the families of notable persons who, in the last century, filled the post of G.M. either in the 'Ancient' or 'Modern' side.

"Notwithstanding the frequent and sometimes feasible arguments which are advanced to prove that Speculative Masonry had no existence prior to 1717, I think it highly probable that among the MSS. preserved in the muniment (lumber?) rooms of some of our old families, documents may be found which will be valuable to us, by shedding light on that dark page of our history.

"Apologising for thus troubling you, which please excuse by attributing it to my desire to see our ancient Craft in possession of a good 'title deed,'

"I am, dear Brother, yours, &c.,

"WITHAM M. BYWATER."

A discussion took place on the best mode the institute could adopt to give effect to the propositions of Bro. Bywater.

Bro. Bywater stated that one document referred to must be of interest, as it was a contract with a "Free" Mason in connection with the building of a tomb in Wells Cathedral. This had been pointed out by the Town Clerk of Wells.

Bro. Wigginton suggested that the W.M. of the lodge at Wells should be induced to obtain a copy from the Town Clerk for the use and consideration of the members of the institute.

This Bro. Bywater offered to effect; and the Chairman and Bro. Hyde Clarke undertook to communicate with the Record Commissioners with the view of carrying out the objects of Bro. Bywater.

Thanks were returned to Bro. Bywater for his valuable communications.

The chief subject of the evening was a communication on a new system of Masonry among Mussulmans. It was observed that association and secrecy or mystery are two great principles of Freemasonry, and two great principles influencing the human mind. They are consequently to be observed in all ages and among all nations of mankind. In this sense, the elements of Masonry are certainly to be regarded as of the greatest antiquity, and as they are widely disseminated, so are they particularly to be recognised among the Mussulman communities. The chief form of these mystic associations is that of the orders of Dervishes. It is not unnatural that many have supposed that the exact forms of Masonry are to be found among the Dervishes. A sketch was then given of the introduction of Freemasonry into Turkey, Persia, and India. It was pointed out that while the Mussulmans acknowledge the sacred books of the Jews and Christians, they treat the Koran as a further development; and in adopting Freemasonry, they are materially disposed to seek its development for members of their own community in the forms of Islam. Such a development has been founded at Constantinople, but the members of it acknowledge universal Masonry as a title to participation in Brotherhood. Many details were given, which are not of a nature to admit of public treatment.

Bro. Kiaz Bahadour Kazi Shahabadun Ibrahim,

Dewan of H. H. the Rao of Kutch, entered into some details as to the principles of Islam and the present movement in India for purifying it from superstitious practices. He stated that the persecution of the Persian Freemasons was probably owing to their being confounded as a secret society with the dangerous fraternity of the Hashishiyeh.

(Our Indian brethren spoke fluently in English.)

Bro. Hyde Clarke concurred, and gave some account of the present condition of the Persian Freemasons.

Bro. Dadabhai Naoroji, late Professor of Guzerate in University College, referred to the great antiquity of mysteries among the old Persians.

Bro. Jamshedjee Jivanjee Gazdar concurred.

Bro. Bywater referred to some points of interest in the paper, and the general relations of Masonic signs and secrets to those of secret societies among Mussulmans and Chinese.

Bro. Wigginton pointed out that the dimensions in height, length, and breadth of the temple of the Caaba, at Mecca, were very peculiar, and appeared to have some relation to its reputed antiquity. They appeared to have some analogy to those of the Tabernacle. The situation of the door was also deserving of notice. He threw out the hint for consideration whether these relations, length and breadth, could have any reference to the geometrical proportions of the globe of the earth.

The Chairman doubted this. With regard to the connexion of Freemasonry with other mystic systems, it was difficult to judge; but this, at all events, could be determined—that Freemasonry, being founded on the noblest principles, and on the basis of truth, must be of the highest moral value. It could not, either, be doubted that it had been of practical use in many remote places. He gave one example of an English brother captured many years ago by brigands in Greece, who was released in consequence of making a Masonic sign.

Bro. Dadabhai proposed, and Bro. Bywater seconded, a vote of thanks to the eminent archæologist and naturalist, Bro. Moggridge, who had presided over the institute on that evening.

The Chairman announced that the next meeting will be on Thursday, 30th June, when the subject will be the Phœnician Masons' Marks at Jerusalem and the Moabite Stone.

THE NEW MASONIC HALL AT NEW YORK.

The following full description of the proposed new Masonic Hall at New York is taken from the New York Herald of May 9th:—

"The projected new Masonic Temple in this city will be erected on the north-east corner of Twenty-third-street and Sixth-avenue, a most eligible and central location. The size of the lot is 141 feet on the street and 98 feet 9 inches on the avenue, the whole area of which will be covered by the building. A photographic print of the perspective view will soon be issued and sold for the benefit of the Hall and Asylum Fund and will show to advantage the majestic, harmonious, and massive appearance of the tout ensemble. The material selected will be dark and light granite, and the main divisions, details, and ornamentations are so disposed as to gracefully bring out its true character of solidity and strength. The style of architecture is pure Renaissance, well proportioned, and chaste. The building will be divided into five stories, each of which will be distinctly marked in the exterior. The main feature on Twenty-third-street will be the central pavilion, ornamented by pilasters and columns, and surmounted by a quadrangular dome 50 feet square at the base and rising 155 feet above the pavement to the top of its cresting. This centre compartment is connected by 'curtains,' to be embellished by allegorical statuary, with heavily rusticated corner pavilions each 26 feet square at the base, the whole rising 95 feet to the top of the main cornice, and capped by a Mansard roof. The Sixth-avenue front consists of corner pavilions, and the recessed curtain between them is enriched at each story by pilasters, in harmony with the central portion of the Twenty-third-street front. The first story will be almost entirely devoted to stores—three large ones on the street and four on the avenue. This portion of the building is to be constructed of Quincy granite, and will be massively rusticated throughout. The main entrance will be located in the south-west curtain of the building, and will be ornamented and made prominent by a Doric portico. In front of this portico will be placed two Masonic columns, 20 feet high, the significance of which will be duly appreciated by Masons, and, together with the statuary before mentioned and the arms of the Grand Lodge on the fifth story, will form exteriorly the only indications of the purpose of the edifice. This entrance leads directly by a wide flight of steps to a large corridor or hall on the second storey, 20 feet wide by 66 feet long and 30 feet high, from which immediate access is obtained on the east side to the Grand Lodge room, 84 feet by 90, and on the other to the parlour of the Grand Master, the parlour and offices of the Grand Secretary, the fire-proof archive room, &c. The Grand Lodge room is calculated to seat over 1,000 persons comfortably, in addition to which a gallery across the west end of the room will accommodate 150 persons more, and be also useful in case the room is let out for concerts or lectures, for the accommodation of the orchestra. The throne of the Grand Master will be in a recess at the east end, with retiring and accommodation rooms conveniently located on each side. At the north end of the entrance corridor is the main stairway, leading to all the upper storeys. The landing on the third storey, 21 feet 6 inches high, gives direct access to a reception hall, 20 feet by 68, from which entrance is gained on the east side to three tyler's rooms, connected by conveniently arranged ante-rooms, with three Blue Lodge rooms, each 62 feet long. On the west side of this hall is placed a large banqueting room, with stewards' rooms, &c., adjoining. The stairway leads next to the fourth storey, 21 feet high, in which the arrangements, distribution, and size of rooms are precisely similar to those below. In this storey there will be two Blue Lodge rooms and one Royal Arch Chapter room. The latter room will be arranged with conveniences not heretofore thought of, and will be complete in every possible respect. The whole of the fifth storey will be devoted to the use of the Knights Templars, and it is believed this Commandery hall will be the most complete and best arranged ever constructed, and greatly increase the effect of the imposing ceremonies of the Order. Throughout the arrangement of the whole building it is evident the architect, N. Le Brun, has very carefully studied his plans, as there is not a foot of space wasted, and the greatest simplicity and convenience are attained in the distribution of the rooms, stairways, corridors, &c., which will be all appropriately decorated in accordance with the various purposes to which they will be applied. The first storey, and all the halls, corridors, and stairways throughout will be of the most approved fire-proof construction. The whole building will be heated by steam, and thoroughly ventilated in the most approved and scientific manner. Each floor will be supplied with all the modern conveniences found in first-class private houses, and a large elevator will traverse the building from the first to the fifth stories. This elevator is placed conveniently to the main stairway and the private stairway, giving an egress on Sixth-avenue. In case of accident or alarm, the entire building can be emptied in five minutes. The ground has cost £68,000, and the estimated cost of the building will be a little over £100,000. An idea of its imposing exterior may be formed from the fact that it will tower 45 feet above Booth's theatre, which is situated directly opposite."

Gottings from Masonic Journals.

THE Indianapolis Journal says of their Grand Commandery that it closed in "awful and solemn form."

THE Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island has changed its title from Encampment to Commandery, with that of its subordinates.

ANTI-MASONIC STORM.—The Boston Masonic Monthly states that only two lodges survived the anti-Masonic storm—Portland No. 1, at Portland, and United, No. 8, at Brunswick. This is incorrect. A few surrendered their characters, and many suspended their meetings; but some kept straight on, besides those mentioned. Ancient Landmark, No. 17, of Portland, and Fraternal, No. 55, of Shapleigh (now at Alfred), we know kept on, and we think several others.—Portland Me., Masonic Token.

FROM the Illustriste Zeitung we learn that the Freemasons of Germany have taken an active part in the work of the society established in Bremen, in 1865, for the saving of shipwrecked persons on the German coast. The lodge in Bremerhafen and a Masonic association in Oppenheim on the Rhine have been especially active in this work. A number of wives of Masons in Rheinessen issued a call to participate in this humane enterprise in 1866, which was met by a hearty response. In token of their appreciation of this effort, the directors of the society above-mentioned named a new boat stationed at New-harlingersyhl, "Frauenlot" (praise to the women), the name also of the renowned singer of Mayence.

HEREIN IS OUR GREATEST DANGER.—We call the particular attention of our hosts of Masonic friends and readers to the following, the concluding remarks of one of Masonry's brightest sons, Ill. Bro. Josiah H. Drummond, of Maine, in his report on Foreign correspondence. Let it be read attentively, marked carefully, learnt understandingly, and we feel satisfied all will feel benefited mentally and morally by digesting it:—"If any reader has accompanied us thus far, he has learned that the march of Freemasonry is still onward; whether it is upward is not so certain. We must confess that there seems to be too much of a looking forward to what Freemasonry will do, rather than a care for what it is doing. With a membership of half a million, it ought now to be accomplishing all that any human institution can accomplish. That it is doing an immense good we know; that it is not doing all it can we as certainly know. While we hope for the future, we should act now. 'God loves the present tense, rather than the future.' We have noticed with anxiety one feature in almost all the addresses the proceedings contain. It is the caution against intemperance, combined with the assumption that this vice has increased and prevails among the Craft to a dangerous extent. This gives our enemies the means of assailing us with success. As long as they assail the institution itself, it is like the mere foam on the rock; but if they shall assail us because we have abandoned the principles of Masonry, and are perverting them, what answer can we make? Herein lies our greatest danger. All acknowledge this, but there seems too little effort to avert the danger. 'The truth shining, many love; reproving, they reject; when it shows itself, we embrace it; when it shows us, we cannot endure it. It is the imperative duty of all in authority, and of all to whom the brethren have given influence by having ever called them to positions of responsibility, to do all in their power by precept, and especially by example, to put away this reproach from the Craft.'—Pomeroy's New York Democrat.

A TOWN in Indiana had a lodge that had a W.M. who had an exaggerated notion of discipline. One night he had met his lodge in called meeting, not a member absent, to instruct them in the work. Teaching them the use of the gavel, he had just culled them up with three knocks, when he leaned too far back, fell against the window that was behind him, fell through, fell to the ground four stories, and broke his neck. Picked up the next morning, he was buried decently, but not a Mason attended the funeral. More strange still, not a Mason appeared any more in that village. It was inexplicable. Forty women left widows, two hundred and seventeen children left orphans, eighty-four merchants left in the lurch with unpaid bills. Twenty years after that somebody went up in that fourth storey, and, behold, the lodge a lodge of skeletons! Strange, but true, they had rigidly obeyed the orders of the W.M., and, while waiting for the knock to seat them, had starved to death. Each was standing in an attitude of respectful attention, "looking to the east," and had not the pitying citizens taken them down and tenderly removed them, they would have been standing there yet. Such is life.—The Evergreen.

THE Prince of Wales is said to have "a ringing voice." It rung the changes at a Masonic meeting the other day, when £15,000 were subscribed at once towards the benevolent objects which the "Ancient and Free Accepted" Order has in view.—Neilgherry Excelsior.

A COMPARISON. — Wisdom - contemplating mankind leads but to the two results — compassion or disdain. He who believes in other worlds can accustom himself to look on this as the naturalist on the revolutions of an ant-hill or of a leaf. What is the earth to infinity? what its duration to the eternal? Oh, how much greater is the soul of one man than the vicissitudes of the whole globe! Child of heaven and heir of immortality, how from some star hereafter wilt thou look back on the ant-hill and its commotions, from Clovis to Robespierre, from Noah to the final fire? The spirit that can contemplate, that lives only in the intellect, can ascend to its stars, even from the midst of the burial-ground called earth, and while the sarcophagus called life inures in its clay the everlasting.—Zanoni, by Bulwer.

IN the matter of soup the City is degenerating. I went into the Brig and Tortoise the other day—it was, in fact, to a Freemasons' dinner—and they gave me last year's green peas in May, and Mock instead of the real. However, this is quite in character with the genius of the times. Freemasons are not what they were when I was initiated, or they would not stand that sort of thing. They are getting far too modern in their notions to suit me and sensible, amiable people generally. Instead of keeping up the good old Institution in the proper style, each lodge a secret conclave of good three-bottled men, they are talking of making Freemasonry a kind of superior friendly society, and subscribing so much a week for benefits during sickness, and a sum of money to bury poor old brothers! To be sure, I proposed this very thing thirty years ago, but then they wouldn't have it; and now that they have changed their minds, I'll change too, and oppose innovations with all my might and main. And in this I am sure to get plenty of backers.—The Grumbler, in "Latest News."

FREEMASONRY IN FRANCE.

The time for occupying ourselves with our own business has evidently come at last, and we have, therefore, given a little attention to the election of Grand Master of the Freemasons, which we should have done on former occasions had not the Emperor left us other things to look after, which we foolishly imagined to be of more importance. The office of Grand Master is considered one of the highest trust and responsibility, and has been hotly disputed by General Mellinet and Carnot, the deputy. A grand convocation of all the lodges has been sitting for the last three days in close confabulation upon the subject, which, for five years' duration, becomes a vital one for the order. Mellinet, who has fulfilled the duties of the office ever since the year 1865, with great honour to himself and brothers, carried the day by a great majority over the deputy, and the event was considered of such immense importance that telegrams were despatched to the four corners of the earth, wherever French lodges exist. Expense was voted beneath a Mason's notice, and in as short a time as possible was the news of the election conveyed to Constantinople and to Senegal, to Bogota and to Haiti, to Madagascar and to Canada; in short, to the uttermost parts of the world, wherever French Freemasons assemble to hold a lodge and proclaim their adhesion to the principles first laid down by the first Earl of Derwentwater in the year 1785. Freemasonry is respectable in France, inasmuch as it is the only institution looked upon in a serious light; and although French puerility and lightness in all things has suggested the admission of women to its sacred rites, yet its laws of brotherhood and fraternity are strictly observed. The good done all over the world by the Grand Orient of Paris is a well-known fact. No institution, however religious in its aim, has contributed more to the civilisation of the human race than this lodge. "Learn and Teach" is the wise and modest motto adopted by its members—almost antique in its simplicity, and so completely at variance with the pert and flippant self-sufficiency of the day. The statistical accounts of the progress of the Brotherhood is more interesting. There exist at the present moment in France four hundred thousand Freemasons. In this number the ladies are not included, although the number of these (Les Leotons) exceeds one hundred thousand. The institution has been liable to great persecutions, and the seceding lodge of the Rite Ecossais carried away, not very long ago, a vast number of adherents. At the breaking out of the great Revolution the Duke of Orleans, Philippe Egalité, was Grand Master. After his death upon the scaffold, the office was accepted by M. de Montaleau, who, with admirable tact and good management, preserved the Brotherhood throughout the terrible period of revolution and confusion which followed '89. Since then Joseph Bonaparte, Prince Murat, and Marshal Magnan have been elected Grand Masters, and have succeeded it preserving the honour and prosperity of the Grand Orient through every change in politics, and through every attack made upon it by the Church, uneasy at beholding the secret conference and huis-clos deliberations from which she has ever been peremptorily excluded.—Birmingham Daily Post.

THE Acacia Lodge, No. 1314, was consecrated at the Bell Hotel, Broxley, on Wednesday, the 15th. Full report in our next.

MASONRY ON THE BENCH.—Bro. George Allez, of Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship, No. 84, Guernsey, was on Friday, the 10th inst., elected Jurat of the Royal Court, the highest local honour that can be conferred upon an inhabitant, making the third member of the Craft on the magisterial bench of that island. Bro. Allez has only recently taken the first two degrees of our Order, and will, at the next regular meeting of his lodge, be raised to the degree of M.M., on which occasion, we understand, it is in contemplation of the lodge to give him a complimentary banquet. We heartily join in congratulation, not only to Bro. Allez on his appointment, but to the islanders on their choice, since he who is a "just Mason" cannot be other than an "upright judge."

ACCORDING to the Ancient Constitutions, every applicant must be proposed at least one month before the lodge can act upon his petition.

A NEW SONG.

BY AN OLD PAST MASTER.

Composed expressly for the Board of Benevolence of the Provincial Grand Lodge (North and East Yorks), on the occasion of their meeting for the first time in the Kingston Lodge, at Kingston-upon-Hull, on Wednesday, April 6th, 1870, when the Lodge was consecrated.

Come let us prepare, we brethren that are,
And attend the Provincial Grand Meeting;
In clothing so neat, with a good balance-sheet,
When we hope to receive a kind greeting.
In clothing, &c.

Let's be true and sincere, and kind to the poor,
Who apply on the present occasion;
Grant liberal aid, and not be afraid,
To show we don't want much persuasion.
Grant liberal aid, &c.

Appeals are now made, for benevolent aid,
To be granted to those who are needy;
So let us be kind, and all of one mind,
And prove that we always are ready.
So let us be kind, &c.

Our Prince, Dukes, and Lords, will lay by their swords,
To relieve both the Orphan and Widow;
Our relief is at hand, all over the land,
Ever ready to prove it's no shadow.
Our relief is, &c.

Antiquity's pride, we take as our guide,
Thus keeping each one in his station;
And do all we can, to make happy the man,
Who's a Brother, though not a relation.
And do all we can, &c.

We never deceive the fair daughters of eve,
But are true to our every profession;
They never regret, when a Brother they've met,
And have placed themselves in his possession.
They never regret, &c.

Then join hand in hand, to each other firm stand,
United in Masonic action;
No mortal can boast, a nobler toast,
Than a Mason who knows of no faction.
No mortal can boast, &c.

THE MITHER LODGE.

TUNE—"A Man's a Man for a' that."

Among the social "rays of light"
I've often blythesome been, man;
And here within the mither Lodge
Some joyfu' nights I've seen, man;
For, aye, to me there was a charm
In speech, and sang, and crack, man,
That made me weary for the time
When I'd come toddlin' back, man.

I've seen the jolly-hearted coun,
Here often bear the sway, man;
I've seen a Wylie, ever shrewd,
Masonic love display, man.
And now a Mure adorns the East,
A bright, a worthy name, man;
He'll gie the Lodge anither heize,
Anither wreath of fame, man.

Wha has na felt a sacred joy,
A pleasure ever sweet, man,
When, by a mither's ingle side,
Kind couthe friends would meet, man;
And here we feel the same delight
When friendships we renew, man,
Within our guid auld mither's ha'
'Mang brithers leal an' true, man.

Wi' open heart she lo'es us a',
Whate'er our lot may be, man;
And aft she prays that a' her bairns
In love may aye agree, man;
For love, she kens, can yield a charm
To cheer life's fleeting scenes, man,
And lead to yonder Lodge aboon
Where joy unclouded reigns, man.

Yes, muckle sense and worth is hers,
And proud she weel may be, man,
For even kings themselves ha'e sat
Fu' kindly by her knee, man.
Then, lang, lang may she keep her feet
To speak, or sing, or crack, man,
And, aye, be blythe as she has been,
To bid us welcome back, man.

 South-Eastern Masonic Charitable Association, New Cross Branch.

THE legend, that every one is supposed to know, runs to the effect that the four children of Lamach, and his two wives Ada and Sella, founded the beginning of all the sciences in the world. The eldest son, Jabal, pursued the science of geometry, and abandoned his flocks and herds to build with stones and trees; his brother Jubal founded the science of music; his brother Tubal Cain founded smithcraft in all metals; and his sister founded the craft of weaving. Having a foreknowledge of the punishment about to fall upon mankind, they engraved their sciences on two stones, so that they might not be lost when the "vengeance for synn" came. One of these stones was of marble, in the belief that it would not burn if fire consumed all else upon the face of the earth; the other was "clepped laterns," supposed not to be able to drown or sink in any water, if a flood should be the means of destruction. After the deluge, the great-grandson of Noah found one of these stones, and saw the science written on it, and taught it to other people. "And at the making of the Tower of Babylon there was masonry first made much of." Nimrod was a mason as well as hunter it seems, and fond of his science, or, as we should now say, trade. And when the city of Nineveh and other cities of the east were to be built, he sent his cousin, [the King of Nineveh, three score of masons to assist him. From this little band of masons, bound together as strangers in a strange land, possessed of the knowledge of a craft that was beyond the understanding of the dwellers in tents, according to this story, came Freemasonry.—Builder.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE
THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH
2 LOWER SEYMOUR ST. W.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED Principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases, and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's Medicine Chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1/2d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all Chemists. Prepared and Guaranteed by

MR. PRICE, ANALYTICAL CHEMIST, and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour-street, and 30, Duke-street, Portman-square, London, W.; or through the following agents:—

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it REQUIRES NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

H.R.H.

THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.,

Past Grand Master of England,

Having graciously signified his pleasure to lay the
FOUNDATION STONE of the NEW READING
SCHOOLS with Masonic honours, on

FRIDAY, the 1st day of JULY, 1870,

I am commanded by the R.W.P.G.M. Sir DANIEL
GOUGH, Bart., M.P., to invite your attendance to a

Provincial

Grand Lodge of Emergency,

to be holden at the ASSEMBLY ROOMS, FRIAR
STREET, READING, at ELEVEN o'clock in the Forenoon, from whence a Procession will be formed under the direction of the Provincial Grand Directors of Ceremonies, to accompany His Royal Highness to
the Site for that purpose.

The R.W.P.G.M. hopes that on such an important occasion as that of his Royal Highness for the first time laying a Foundation Stone as one of the Craft, to be favoured with the presence of his Brother
Grand Officers, Provincial Grand Masters, and other
Visiting Brethren, to enable him to give His Royal Highness a truly Masonic reception.

Seats will be reserved for those Brethren who signify their intention to be present by application to to the P.G. Secretary not later than the 29th inst.

By command of the R.W.G.P.M.,

WILLIAM BIGGS,

Provincial Grand Secretary.

modation will be found for Lodges, Chapters, Mark and other degrees, for their Meetings, Dinners, Suppers, &c., and every attention will be paid to their comfort and enjoyment by the new Proprietor.

"Radley's," Blackfriars.

BRO. JOHN HART begs to inform the Craft he has several open days in each month for MASONIC MEETINGS, and will be glad to submit his terms to Lodges about to move. N.B. No charge for Lodge Rooms, except emergencies.

BRETHREN of FREEMASONS' LODGES contemplating removal are respectfully asked to inspect the Lodge-rooms at the

ROYAL EXETER HOTEL, STRAND,

The lodge-rooms, furniture, banquetting-rooms, etc., are perfect, and for their use no charge whatever is made. The rooms are also suitable for Committees, Glee Parties, Private Theatricals, Subscription Balls, Rowing and Cricket Clubs, etc.

QUEEN'S ROAD EXTENSION, LOWER WANDSWORTH RD.
Proprietor, E. MUSPRATT.

THE above Hotel is situated in a new and special line of road (near the London, Chatham and Dover Railway Company's Works) leading direct from the West End to Clapham and South of London generally, via Sloane-street, Chelsea Suspension Bridge, Battersea Park to Clapham Common.

This Hotel has been built upon a plan in which much care has been bestowed, both as regards the public bar requirements and sitting accommodation, where persons of the most refined position can be accommodated, there being a separate entrance to the sitting-rooms eminently suitable for Conversations, Dinner, Tea, Cricket Club and other parties. Notices relating thereto will receive immediate attention.

Freemasonry in Relation to Civil Authority and the Family Circle,

By BRO. CHALMERS I. PATON,

A Member of the Masonic Archaeological Institute of England; Past Master Lodge Edinburgh, "Caledonian," No.
392; Member of Lodges Nos. 36, 48, 73, 78, 97, 131, 175, 225, 226, 392, 405, 407, 409, &c., S.C.; Member of Royal Arch Chapters Nos. 1, 84, 97, 101, &c.; Member of the Order of High Priesthood; Knight of the Sword; Knight of the East; Knight of the West; Knight of the Religions and Military Order of Knights Templar; Member of the Royal Order of Scotland; and Knight of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, English Constitution.

THIS work is a perfect handbook of the principles of Freemasonry, founded on the Ancient Charges and Symbols, and will be found to be eminently practical and useful in the vindication and support of the Order.

Members of the Craft wishing copies should order them from London: GEORGE KENNING, 2, 3 and 4, Little Britain.
Edinburgh: JOHN MENZIES, 2, Hanover-street.
Dublin: CHARLES HEDGECOCK, 26, Grafton-street.
And may be had of any Bookseller throughout the Kingdom.

Now Publishing, in 12 numbers, at Two-pence each, supplied to Subscribers only.

THE HISTORY OF THE STOCKTON AND
DARLINGTON RAILWAY, and its various Branches,
from its Commencement to the Present Time: by GEORGE MARK-
HAM TWEDDELL, F.S.A. Scot. and Newc.: Fellow of the Royal Society of Northern Antiquaries, Copenhagen; author of "Shakspeare, his Times and Contemporaries," "The Bards and Authors of Cleveland and South Durham," "The Visitor's Handbook to Redcar, Coatham, and Saltburn-by-the-Sea," &c., &c.

The work is illustrated by a clear and correct Map of the District;
a splendid Portrait of the late Edward Pease, Esq., "the Father of Railways," engraved on steel by Miller, of Edinburgh; and by several neat woodcuts, engraved specially for this History, by the celebrated W. J. Linton and others. The edition is limited to 1000 copies. The numbers will be left at the residences of Subscribers as soon after publication as convenient, and the Publishers particularly request that each number may be paid for on delivery. Where copies are forwarded by post, the book-postage will have to be charged to the Subscribers.

"Mr. George Markham Tweddell, of Stokesley, a Cleveland author of some note, and the writer of several useful and meritorious publications, announces for speedy publication a History of the Stockton and Darlington Railway Company. Mr. Tweddell is a veteran man of letters, and the history of the first English railway—the result of the enterprise of a few Quakers, and of the engineering skill of a then unrecognised genius—will have more than common interest in this age of railway locomotion. Mr. Tweddell has access to many important documents and other private sources of information, and his History will be enlivened by descriptive sketches of the most noteworthy scenes which diversify the route."—Whitby Times.
All persons wishing to procure copies of the book are requested to forward their names and addresses immediately to Messrs. TWED-DELL & SONS, Cleveland Printing and Publishing Offices, Stokesley and Middlebrough.

BRIGHTON DAILY NEWS. Published every Morning at Six o'clock, and Sold by all Newsagents.

UPWARDS OF 100,000 WEEKLY READERS.
The Brighton Daily News is the only Daily Paper in the County of Sussex, and in consequence of its circulation and position as a high-class journal, being unapproached in Brighton and throughout the County, it affords the best means of giving a wide publicity to the announcements of tradesmen, and professional, commercial, and agricultural classes, and the public generally.

As arrangements are in operation by which the Brighton Daily News is forwarded to the various towns and villages throughout the County by the earliest trains, it commands a large and daily increasing circulation, constituting it a most valuable medium for every description of Advertisements.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place
For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody: clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies. The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

OPHATES, Nalotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such "vicious remedies," which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

Select Testimonial.—Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 12s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

A CO-OPERATIVE DISCOUNT OF TWENTY PER CENT TO BROTHERS.

FOR GOUT—Use Oil of HORSE CHESNUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6 and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT.—Drink WIDDUNCION WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 12s. per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/1½ per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11s per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. Bird's formula 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

FREEMASONRY IN ENGLAND.

NO. II.

BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

BEFORE THE SCHISM.

Bro. Anthony Sayer was succeeded in the office of Grand Master by Bro. George Payne, who was installed in 1718, and by whose care many of the ancient laws and regulations of the Craft were compiled from old documents then extant. In 1719, Bro. Desaguliers, LL.D., F.R.S., was elected Grand Master, and under his rule Freemasonry rapidly advanced in public estimation, although the number of lodges was not materially increased. Desaguliers, however, paved the way for that brilliant succession of noble chiefs whose connection with the fraternity afforded a guarantee to the Government, in those days of plots and conspiracies, that the objects of the Craft were perfectly consistent with the effective discharge of every moral and civil obligation. In 1720, Brother George Payne was again placed at the head of the brotherhood, and at once resumed the collection of those ancient manuscripts from which the charges and constitutions of the Order were afterwards compiled. The immediate result of his zeal, however, was somewhat deplorable, inasmuch as some of the older Masons destroyed many valuable papers in their possession, under the mistaken impression that it was intended to publish the secrets of the Craft. The power of nominating his successor was at this period enjoyed by the Grand Master of England, and in accordance with this privilege Bro. Payne proposed the Duke of Montagu, who was unanimously elected by the Grand Lodge on the 25th March, 1721, and installed on the 24th June following, and as since that date the dignity of Grand Master has ever been entrusted to royal or noble keeping, the following account of the duke's installation may not be uninteresting:—

On the 24th June, 1721, Grand Master Payne and his Wardens, with the former Grand Officers, and the Masters and Wardens of twelve lodges, met the Grand Master-elect at the Queen's Arms Tavern, in St. Paul's Church-yard, where the Grand Lodge was opened in ample form. Having confirmed the proceedings of the last Grand Lodge, several gentlemen were initiated into Masonry at the request of the Duke of Montagu; and, among the rest, Philip Lord Stanhope, afterwards Earl of Chesterfield. From the Queen's Arms the Grand Lodge marched in procession in their clothing, to Stationer's-hall, in Ludgate-street, where they were joyfully received by one hundred-and-fifty brethren, properly clothed. The Grand Master, having made the first procession round the hall, took an affectionate leave of his brethren; and being returned to his place, the Duke of Montagu was proclaimed his successor for the ensuing year. The general regulations which had been compiled by Bro. Payne in 1721, and compared with the ancient immemorial usages of the Fraternity, were read, and met with general approbation; after which Dr. Desaguliers delivered an elegant oration on Masonry.

Philip, Duke of Wharton, succeeded Montagu in the chair on the 17th January, 1722, five-and-twenty lodges being represented in Grand Lodge on the occasion. He was, as the records of the time amply prove, a very indifferent character, and little progress was made under his auspices. About this period the office of Grand Secretary was established, the first incumbent being Bro. William Cowper, afterwards Deputy Grand Master. The Earl of Dalkeith, eldest son of the Duke of Buccleuch, and who subsequently succeeded to the latter title, followed "mad Wharton" in the rulership of the Order, and in 1724, Charles Lennox, Duke of Richmond was elected to the Masonic throne. Under his administration the Committee of Charity was established, and it is a somewhat remarkable fact that his Grace's Senior Grand Warden was no other than Bro. George Payne, a Past Grand Master. A similar instance occurred in 1719, when Bro. Sayer held a Grand Wardenship under Grand Master Payne. It may here be remarked that poor Sayer afterwards fell into such distressed circumstances as to be compelled to seek aid from his brethren, by whom he was granted assistance to the then liberal extent of £20. Lord Paisley, afterwards Earl of Abercorn, having distinguished himself by his activity in the cause of charity, was elected Grand Master in 1725, but in consequence of his absence from town, the government of the lodges mainly devolved upon the Deputy, Dr. Desaguliers. Under the Earl of Inchiquin, the office of Provincial Grand Master was instituted, the first appointed being Bro. Hugh Wharburton for North Wales, on the 10th May, 1727.

The extension of the Craft from year to year at this period is shown by the increase in the number of lodges represented in the Grand Lodge at each successive meeting. Thus, on the 24th June, 1727, the Masters and Wardens of no less than forty lodges were present, and the number was still greater on the 27th December following, when Lord Coleraine was installed as Grand Master at a grand feast at Mercers' Hall. A lodge at Madrid was constituted during the administration of Lord Coleraine, who was succeeded in 1728 by Lord Kingston, afterwards Grand Master of Ireland. This nobleman was one of the most zealous patrons of the Order, and during his reign Freemasonry flourished exceedingly. An equally warm supporter of the Craft was chosen to succeed him, in the person of Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk, who made the following presents to the Grand Lodge:—1. Twenty pounds to the charity. 2. A large folio book of the finest writing paper, for the records of the Grand Lodge, richly bound in Turkey, and gilt, with a curious frontispiece in vellum, containing the arms of Norfolk, amply displayed, and a Latin inscription of the family titles, with the arms of Masonry elegantly emblazoned. 3. A sword of state for the Grand Master; being the old trusty sword of Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden, which was next worn by his brave successor in war, Bernard, Duke of Saxe-Weimar, with both their names on the blade, and further enriched with the arms of Norfolk in silver on the scabbard. For these presents his Grace was voted the public thanks of the society. It may be it added that this sword is still carried in the processions of Grand Lodge by the Sword-bearer who precedes the Most Worshipful Grand Master.

Lord Lovel, afterwards Earl of Leicester, succeeded the Duke of Norfolk, 29th March, 1731, and the most notable event during his Mastership was the initiation of Francis, Duke of Lorraine, Grand Duke of Tuscany, afterwards Emperor of Germany. By virtue of a deputation from his lordship, a lodge was held at the Hague, where his Highness was received into the first two degrees of the Order. At this lodge, Philip Stanhope, Earl of Chesterfield, then Ambassador there, presided; Bro. Strickland, acted as Deputy, and Bro. Benjamin Hadley, with a Dutch Brother, as Wardens. His Highness coming to England the same year, was advanced to the third degree, at an occasional lodge convened for the purpose, at Houghton-hall, in Norfolk, the seat of Sir Robert Walpole; as was also Thomas Pelham, Duke of Newcastle.

The Viscount Montagu was the next Grand Master, his installation taking place at the Merchant Taylors' Hall, on the 19th April, 1732. This nobleman did nothing for the advancement of the good cause, indeed it is recorded that at a Masonic feast given in his honour at Hampstead he left the chair soon after dinner, and never attended another meeting till the expiration of his year of office. The Earl of Strathmore, who followed, was a Mason of a different type, he assiduously attended to his duties, and won the esteem of the brethren by his vigilance and zeal for the interests of the Fraternity.

VANITAS VANITATUM.

BY REITAM.

* Had that most wise of all ancient monarchs, King Solomon, an opportunity to re-edit his "Book of Proverbs" in the present time, there is no doubt but that he would insert as an extra laconic, "To the making of new Masonic degrees there is no end." He would also have an additional testimony to the truth of his statement, "There is nothing new under the sun." We find in the present day that same craving for new degrees and Masonic titles of honour, which exercised so baneful an influence over the Masonry of the end of the eighteenth and the beginning of the nineteenth centuries.

One Supreme Masonic body after another keeps cropping up. We have first the Grand Conclave of the Templars, the Supreme Grand Council of 33°, the Imperial Grand Conclave of the Red Cross Order, the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, the Rosicrucian Society, the Order of the Holy Sepulchre, while, youngest of all, we have just been informed of the inauguration of a Grand Lodge of Ark Mariners, with a Grand Commander, and Pro. G.C. Noah, Japhet and Shem, Deacons and Scribes all complete. We are gravely informed by a gentleman signing himself "Scribe" that this degree of Ark Mariners is the summit and perfection of Mark Masonry, and occupies to it the same relative position that the degree of Royal Arch does to the Craft. I have always been given to understand, and I have arrived at the same conclusion from my own researches, that the degree of Mark Master is the connecting link between the second and third degrees, and that every Master Mason who is advanced to this degree feels at once there is a want supplied and information given him as to many details of operative Masonry which he was previously ignorant of. But although I have taken the degree of Ark Mariner in all its points, I must confess I cannot see its utility or its necessity; and I should be glad to hear from the brother in question the grounds on which he makes this extraordinary statement.

The degree is worked in Scotland under the authority of the Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter, and any subordinate Chapter has the right to confer it on a regularly exalted Royal Arch Companion; but I can assure "Scribe" it is a degree very little worked, and still less talked about, as men are almost ashamed to say they have taken it. It is "more honoured in the breach than the observance." The other degrees sometimes worked in England, "Ark, Mark, Link and Wrestle," are chiefly confined to the counties of Lancashire, Cheshire and Yorkshire, and are generally conferred for the low charge of one shilling and three half-pence for the lot.

I may mention that the degree of "Mark" alluded to above is that of "Mark Man," and not "Mark Master," and does not give those secrets peculiar to the Mark degree proper.

I perceive in your last impression, a letter from Bro. Frederick Binckes, which contains a few words which ought to be printed in letters of gold, and read in all the lodges:—

"I would myself, in the most earnest manner, recommend every brother under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge to refrain from any attempt to introduce another Supreme Masonic Body pending the negotiations now in progress, having for their object the promotion of unity among the members of the Orders and Degrees not recognised by the Grand Lodge of England."

I cordially agree with Bro. Binckes, and only wish the Grand Master of Mark Masonry of England had supported the ideas of the Grand Secretary by deeds, not words. Bro. Binckes says, "It is the Grand Mark Master's opinion, that it is extremely inadvisable for any English Mark Master to commit himself to the support, in any way, of the new movement referred to by your correspondent," (i.e. the establishment of a Grand Lodge of Ark Mariners.) The italics are mine. In another part of your impression we read, "A combined meeting of the Most Antient and Honourable Fraternity of Royal Ark Mariners, and of Mark Masters was held at Masons' Hall," by the authority of the Grand Master of Mark Masons and the Grand Commander of Royal Ark Mariners, both of whom were present. We find that when the vessel was floated (Anglice, the lodge was opened) the Grand Mark Master, cum multis aliis, "came on board and took the A.O.B.," &c., &c. At the end of this report occurs the following passage; conclusive, I think, of the contradiction of words by deeds. "This will be the first instance on record, of two Masonic bodies of separate jurisdictions meeting on neutral ground preserving their own privileges intact, and yet working together without any difficulty occurring in the arrangement of the ceremonies."

The only way in which this mushroom growth can be stopped is for the Grand Lodge of England to make a law that no brother under her jurisdiction shall take any so-called higher degree without the permission of a Committee of Inspection, appointed for the purpose in each province; and that each so-called higher degree shall register their style, title, and authority, which must receive the sanction of the Grand Lodge, and their permission towards the degree in question.

Also that any brother conferring or receiving any degree in contravention of the above statute shall be immediately suspended from all Masonic privileges.

In this manner the Grand Lodge of England, through whose degrees we must all pass to gain admittance to the hautes grades, would act as the doorkeeper of pure and ancient Masonry; and although not acknowledging these high degrees as part of their system, would, as the dweller on the threshold, only admit through its portals brethren of approved worth and tried discretion.

REMINISCENCES OF WORCESTERSHIRE FREEMASONRY.

From (Berrow's Worcester Journal.)

Bro. C. C. Whitney Griffiths, who has long been known as a zealous and accomplished Freemason who has done distinguished and well-recognised services to the Order, has written and compiled a neat and attractive volume in which he has preserved the records of Freemasonry in the province of Worcester. By the courtesy of the Worcester Lodge of Freemasonry, 280, we have been permitted to peruse a copy of the book, and we propose to detail some of the more salient points contained in it, as they may be of interest to many who are without the pale of the Masonic body, and will certainly be read with deep interest by members of the Fraternity. Bro. Griffiths seems to have collected during his lengthened Masonic experience materials which have enabled him to supply the information he imparts, and this has no doubt encouraged him in the production of his book. Nothing but very considerable Masonic knowledge, an indomitable determination to exhaust all known sources of information, and unquenchable enthusiasm in the laborious task of research, can account for his having so successfully indicated the history of the Order in the province of Worcester, notwithstanding the grave drawback presenting itself in the fact that from the commencement of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Worcester, in 1790, no record is extant except what he has gathered here and there, so to speak, from old constitutions and all sorts of miscellaneous sources, until the year 1820, since which time records have been duly kept. The writer has divided his work into three separate parts. In the first part he furnishes the history of the Provincial Grand Lodge, in the second the history of the Worcester Lodge, of which he is an honoured and prominent member, and in the third he describes the introduction of the Royal Arch Masonry in Worcester and Chapter of St. Wulstan.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WORCESTER.

On opening Bro. Griffiths' book we find that the first known record of the Province of Worcester occurs in the year 1753, when Sir Robert de Cornwall, Baronet, was appointed the first Grand Master of the Province, his jurisdiction comprising the counties of Worcester, Gloucester, Salop, Monmouth and Hereford. In the present day such a jurisdiction seems to be overwhelmingly comprehensive, but this assumption disappears when it is explained that at that remote period throughout the entire authority there were but three lodges on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England, which were established at Stourbridge, Gloucester, and Leominster. The second Grand Master for the Province was appointed in 1792 by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the gentleman upon whom the distinguished office was conferred being John Dent, Esq., a partner in the eminent banking firm of Child and Co., London, and M.P. for Lancaster, and subsequently for the borough of Poole. This appointment was held by Bro. Dent no less than thirty-four years, death occasioning its relinquishment. By further reference to Bro. Griffiths' book we find that during the next twenty years the brethren of the Worcester Lodge and other lodges made repeated applications that a Grand Master should be appointed for their province, and yet that, strangely enough, their requests were without effect. It was not, in fact, until August, in the year 1847, when Bro. Roden was appointed Deputy Grand Master by Bro. Dobie, the then Grand Registrar, that the province had any regularly recognised head. Dr. Roden, of Kidderminster, held rule as a Deputy for two years, when a Provincial Grand Master was appointed, in the person of Henry Charles Vernon, Esq., of Hilton Park, Staffordshire, his installation taking place on June 17th, 1851, in the city of Worcester. Bro. Vernon continued in office fifteen years, when by reason of failing health he surrendered his post in favour of the present honoured Grand Master of the Province, Albert Hudson Royds, Esq., of Falinge, Rochdale, Lancashire, of Crown East Court, and of Malvern. Bro. Royds was installed on June 21st, 1866, and the event was the occasion of the largest Masonic gathering ever known in Worcester.

THE WORCESTER LODGE, 280.

Bro. Griffiths enables us to trace the history, so far apparently as it is ascertainable, of Freemasonry in Worcester, and of the existing lodges in the city. It is noted that antecedent to the Worcester Lodge a lodge of Freemasons, under the Athol or York Constitution, was held at the Stonemason's Arms, Great Fish-street, although of its working or character literally nothing is known. The names of thirty-nine of its members have been collected, but no information is given concerning either their calling or habitations. What is known of them is not creditable, however, to more than one of them, since one was excluded and deemed unworthy, and another was similarly dealt with, for making Masons under circumstances which are certainly not in accordance with Masonic notions in the present day.

Here we may perhaps opportunely mention the fact that the columns of Berrow's Worcester Journal, extending as they do as far back as 1709 (and so rendering the Worcester Journal the second oldest in England), have fortunately aided Bro. Griffiths in his industrious researches, have supplied proofs of the existence of the early lodge upon which he has commented, and with reference to which he remarks, "A paragraph in Berrow's Worcester Journal, in 1769, justifies a belief in its existence at that date, where it is announced that 'A Company of Comedians, from London, would perform by the desire of the Lodge of Freemasons.'" The next reference to Freemasonry in Worcester, is also found in the Journal in the form of an advertisement. It is dated April 1st, 1790, and the following is a verbatim copy of it:—

"MASONRY.—In all ages, by all sectaries, and in all nations the advantages of Masonry have been manifest. No society since the creation of the globe have ever been so universal and so respectable. They never have contaminated their laws, nor, like many premature societies, exposed themselves to ridicule and contempt. The brethren must feel a secret satisfaction when they are informed a lodge under the auspicious names of the Right Honourable Lord D—ly and W—d, the Right Honourable the Earl of Ply—th, and the Right Honourable the Earl of Cov—try (gentlemen and brothers resident in this county) will be instituted; and when the brethren recollect the politeness, affability, and humanity of the noble patrons, who can doubt of success? For the purpose of promoting a constitution, chapters are held every Sunday evening at the Rein Deer, till it is brought to its wished-for crisis. The company of every brother is requested."

Bro. Griffiths infers that "the wish was father to the thought" in the mind of the advertiser, and thereby strongly hints a question of the genuineness of the advertisement. When we come to examine it we detect appearances justifying the doubt. In the first place the date of the month, April 1st, is suggestive, if not, in sooth, suspicious; the word "chapters," too, is evidently used instead of lodges—an error that no Freemason could well make; and, lastly, none of the noblemen referred to were Freemasons then, if indeed they ever were. It may be stated, par parenthese, that an ancestor of the Earl Dudley, who is referred to, occupied, forty-eight years before, the distinguished position of Grand Master of England.

On October 2nd, 1790, an interim warrant, signed by the Grand Secretary, was granted to the Worcester Lodge, upon which the brethren proceeded to initiate and receive members, and the charter of the lodge is dated seven days afterwards. Bro. Griffiths remarks of the occasion:—"For a record of the eventful ceremony we are again indebted to the Worcester Journal, which, in its issue of May 25, 1791, records that—

"The Worcester Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, No. 574, held at the Rein Deer Inn, in this city, was regularly consecrated on Thursday, the 19th instant, after which the members in regular order proceeded to St. Martin's Church, when an excellent sermon was preached on the occasion by the Rev. Brother T. Heynes, from the 10th chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews, and 24th verse; 'And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works.' They afterwards returned to the Rein Deer Inn, where they dined, and spent the evening with the utmost harmony and decorum, and many loyal and constitutional toasts were drunk."

CONSECRATION of the ACACIA LODGE, No. 1314.

This new lodge was duly consecrated on the 15th inst. at the Bell Hotel, Bromley, Kent, by Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex, in the presence of a large assemblage of brethren. The lodge-room was gaily decorated with banners and Masonic emblems, and the various appointments were extremely handsome.

The brethren having entered the lodge-room, Bro. Little took the chair, and the wardens were nominated: Bro. H. G. Buss, Prov. G. Treas. Middlesex, as Junior; and C. T. Sutton, P.P.A.G.D. of C. Kent, as Senior. Bro. Deering, one of the founders, officiated as D. of C., and most efficiently discharged his duties during the evening.

The lodge was opened in the three degrees, and the presiding officer addressed the brethren upon the nature of the meeting, and in doing so referred in complimentary terms to the manner in which the Kentish Craft had flourished under the rule of Viscount Holmesdale, P.G.M., and his Deputy, Bro. Dobson.

The consecration ceremony was then commenced with solemn prayer, and after the usual preliminaries, Bro. Little delivered with great fluency and emphasis an oration on the excellencies of the Craft, in which its principles, both moral and intellectual, were fully explained and elucidated. The beautiful anthem, "Behold how good and joyful," was then admirably rendered by the choir, under the direction of Bro. Parker, and various other anthems and chants were sung by the musical brethren during the ceremony. In dedicating the lodge to the service of the Most High, the first great "Emblematic Light" was pointed out to the lodge, and the two other lights were exhibited at the several dedications to "Freemasonry and Universal Benevolence," and to "Virtue and Science."

In the unavoidable absence of the Prov. Grand Chaplain, Bro. Hill, the duties of that office also fell upon the Consecrating Master, who performed all with a promptitude and correctness not to be surpassed.

The ceremony concluded with the "Patriarchal Benediction," and the lodge having been resumed in the second degree, Bro. James Avery, P.M. 619, took the chair, and installed his brother, Alfred Avery, P.M. 619, as the first Master of the Acacia Lodge, this sublime ceremony being also rendered with marvellous solemnity and effect. The W.M. then invested his officers as follows:—Bros. J. Harling, S.W.; T. Knott, J.W.; H. Williams, Treas.; E. Coste, P.M., Sec.; S. Wells, S.D.; W. Manger, J.D.; W. Seaman, I.G.; F. Deering, D.C.; and James Avery P.M., I.P.M. and Steward.

The installation addresses were impressively delivered by Bro. James Avery.

The lodge having been closed, a very choice banquet followed, provided by Mr. Sutton, who from the first had been anxious that the consecration festival should satisfy the most fastidious, and the result was a complete success, the tables being tastefully decorated and the viands of the most excellent quality, while all the wines were of the very best brands.

The W.M. presided, and gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts in a very happy manner.

In proposing the health of the Earl of Carnarvon, D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, the W.M. alluded to the great assistance he had received in forming the lodge from Bro. W. F. Dobson, Deputy Prov. Grand Master of Kent, and Bro. Brackstone Baker, P.G.J.D.

Bro. BAKER returned thanks in an eloquent speech.

Bro. DOBSON, whose health had been proposed and received most heartily, said how delighted he was at another lodge having been added to the Province of Kent, and from what he had already seen of the W.M. and officers of the lodge, particularly the fact of a P.M. having undertaken the duties of Secretary, he felt certain that in the future the small village of Bromley would be well-known as possessing one of the foremost lodges in Freemasonry, as under the presidency of a brother so well-known and esteemed in the Craft as Bro. A. Avery, he felt certain the Acacia Lodge would be steadily worked up to the highest degree of excellence. He concluded by proposing the "Health of the New W.M., Bro. A. Avery," and congratulated the brethren and the founders on the excellent choice they had made of their new Master, as he felt sure that if they had scoured the ranks of the Craft they could not possibly have selected one who would fill the office more to their satisfaction or secure more fame and credit for the lodge.

The W.M., who on rising was received with the most hearty cheers, said he was very proud, indeed, of the position he that day occupied, it had long been a cherished wish of his to be the W.M. of a provincial lodge, and in the future he should make it his constant care to place the Acacia Lodge second to none in the Province of Kent. He regretted the absence of Viscount Holmesdale, Prov. Grand Master of Kent, who was absent from illness, but he had promised to visit them on some future occasion. The health of the Installing Master, P.M., J. W. Avery, having been warmly received, the W.M. proposed the "Visitors," who were, he said, all so well-known, and in such a high position in Masonry as to need no word from him except a most hearty welcome to the new lodge. They were W. F. Dobson, D.P.G.M. of Kent; Bro. B. Baker, P.G.D.; Bro. H. G. Buss, P.M. and Treasurer for the Province of Middlesex; F. Walters, P.M. 73; Odell, P.M. 3; Sutton, P.M. Cornwallis; Richard Buller, W.M. 9; Price, W.M. Canonbury; Grey, 1185; Parker, 435; Walker, 173; Penna, 111; Knight, 1107; W. Holland, 157, La Forest (Corinthian); Wyatt, Cornwallis; and others.

Br. BUSS, P.M., having returned thanks, The W.M. called on the brethren to drink "The Health of Bro. R. Wentworth Little," who had that day, at great inconvenience to himself, come down to consecrate the new lodge, and he felt certain that every brother would remember with deep satisfaction and delight the very able manner in which the ceremony had been performed.

The toast having been most heartily received, and Bro. LITTLE having returned thanks,

The W.M. said he had an important toast to propose: that of his "Officers," who were already so well up in Freemasonry that he felt sure they would work steadily with him to promote the success of the lodge.

The following programme of music was performed during the evening:—National Anthem, "A Song for Old England," Bro. Penna; "Love's Request," Bro. Phillips; solo, pianoforte, "Bonnie Scotland," Bro. Parker; "The Fine Old English Gentleman," Bro. Penna; "My Pretty Jane," "The Pilgrim of Love," and "Thou art so near, and yet so far," Bro. Phillips. Bro. Deering also sang, "Come into the garden, Maud," and recited, "Most noble, grave, and reverend Seignors," in a very charming style. Bro. F. Walker, who had officiated as tenor at the consecration, was obliged to leave immediately afterwards.

The lodge furniture was of the most elaborate and chaste description, the chairs, gavel, &c., being made of the wood from whence the lodge takes its name, and were finished in the most tasteful manner by Bro. Williams, the much esteemed Treasurer of the lodge.

It is needless to add that a most pleasant evening was spent, and all concurred in wishing Bro. Avery and the Acacia Lodge, every possible success.

BRO. TERRY, W.M. 1278, and P.G.S.B. for Herts, will work the Ceremony of Installation on Wednesday, the 28th June, at the Burdett Courts Lodge of Instruction, Bro. Lloyd's, Approach Tavern, Victoria-park. Bro. Terry's name, we have no doubt, will as usual bring a large number of the brethren together to witness his perfect and admirable working.

MASONRY is cosmopolitan. Its mission is to all mankind, whatever accidents in the form of birth or language, creed or opinion, may keep them asunder. There is no gulf so wide—of race, nationality, religion, or party—that Masonry cannot bridge it over. To do this very thing it exists. Because it has aimed to do this thing it has been enabled to exist while so much around it is perishing, or doomed to perish. Nationalities, languages and Governments, religions may pass away one after the other; but so long as mankind lasts on this planet will Masonry last, if it does but remain true to the sentiment of universal brotherhood, charity, and toleration on which it has been widely based. From the very nature of the constitution of human society, if men would pass peacefully and happily down the stream of life, it is but reasonable that they should seek to promote the general good of the society in which they live, and to cultivate all those social virtues which render life pleasant, and smooth down the asperities of those adverse scenes through which, at some period in our experience, we must inevitably pass. To the performance of these duties the spirit of Masonry whispers in the ears of its votaries a friendly reminder, and it would be well for us all if we would listen to and obey the voice.

"THERE is no medicine at the present day I value so highly as Perry Davis's Vegetable Pain Killer. I have used it in my family for years, and in every case it has proved a sovereign remedy. I tested it to-day, and found it all that could be desired.—A. D. MILNE, Editor Messenger, New York. —To Perry Davis & Son, London, W.C."

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185.—The highly esteemed and efficient W.M. (Bro. Hermann Beigel) of this lodge that flourishes so much under his guidance, held a meeting on Monday at Radley's Hotel, when he was well supported by the Worshipful P.M.'s Holbrooke and Levy, Bros. Louis Barnett, S.W.; Bloomfield, J.W.; Peartree, Treas.; P. Levy, Hon. Sec.; H. Abrahams, S.D.; N. Moss, J.D.; Dr. Schnitzler, I.G., and Knappe, Org., and in a most impressive manner conferred the sublime degree on Bros. Dr. F. Oppert, Metzger, Beck, Burg and Heinemann; he then initiated into our mysteries Mr. C. W. Krohne, after which the lodge was closed with solemn prayer and adjourned.

Southern Star Lodge, No. 1158.—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday last, at Bro. Allatt's, the Montpelier Tavern, Walworth. Bro. Bayfield in the chair; Chas. E. Thompson, S.W.; Towers, J.W.; Kipps, J.D.; Wright, I.G.; Pulsford, Sec.; H. Thompson, Treas.; Davenport, Dir. Cer.; Potter, W.S.; Laing, Tyler. The other brethren present were: John Thomas, P.M.; Clarke, P.M.; Allatt, Walker, Austey, Alderson, Beck, Radford, W. Joyce. The visitors were: Bros. Treadwell (177), Hebblewhite, &c. The business consisted of three initiations, three passings, and one raising—the traditional history and description of the tracing board being given very impressively. The brethren then adjourned to banquet, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

PROVINCIAL.

SCARBOROUGH.—Old Globe Lodge, No. 200.—This old-established lodge held its regular meeting at the Masonic Hall, Globe-street, on Wednesday, the 15th June. The following officers and members were present: Bros. R. H. Peacock, W.M.; W. Peacock, I.P.M.; H. A. Williamson, P.M.; S. H. Armitage, W.M. 1248; H. C. Martin, P.M., Sec.; D. Fletcher, S.W.; G. H. Wulshaw, J.W.; H. Grover, S.D.; J. W. Taylor, M.D., J.D.; W. Milner, I.G.; Ash, Tyler. Bros. Symons, Teale, Harvey, Garnett, Allen, Coopland, Land, Westlake, Livingston, Jay, Inskip, McKinley, Kendall, and Chapman. Visitors: Bros. J. Senior, P.G.C., 495; E. Hardy, S.W. 538; Y. F. Evans, 139. The lodge was opened at 7.30 p.m., and the minutes of the preceding meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. R. Sloman (Doctor of Music) was ballotted for and unanimously elected an honorary member. Messrs. J. E. Jones, Esq., and J. T. Denton, M.D., were ballotted for and unanimously elected, and, being present, they were initiated in the first degree of Masonry. Bro. W. W. Coopland passed an examination in the first degree and retired, and was re-admitted and passed to the second degree. Bro. J. W. Teale passed an examination in the second degree and retired, and was re-admitted and raised to the sublime degree of a M.M. The Senior Warden explained the working tools in both degrees in a very able manner, and the W.M. was very ably assisted in the evening's duties by the P.M.'s present, Bros. W. Peacock and H. A. Williamson. The W.M. of 1248, Bro. S. H. Armitage, explained the traditional history in the third degree. Thus a heavy evening's work was made easy by the fraternal assistance of the brethren named. The lodge was now closed down to the first degree, and closed with prayer at 10 p.m., and the brethren spent a short time in the usual friendly way at the refreshment board.

LEICESTER.—John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523.—This lodge concluded a most prosperous year's work, under the rule of the outgoing W.M., Bro. George Toller, jun., P.G. Sec., by an emergency meeting at the Freemasons' Hall, on Thursday, the 15th inst., preparatory to the festival, which will take place on St. John's Day. As a mark of respect to Bro. Toller, whose admirable discharge of his official duties, coupled with the amiability of his disposition and his modest, unassuming manner, have gained for him the gratitude of the members and the esteem of every brother in the province, the meeting was attended by an unusually large number of brethren—between thirty and forty being present. The work was a raising and five initiations. Bro. William Penn Cox having been duly examined as a F.C., the W.M. proceeded to raise him in an impressive manner to the third degree, the ceremony being accompanied by the musical chants. Bro. C. Johnson (P.P.G.S.W. Jersey) presided at the organ, assisted by several musical brethren. The lodge having been lowered to the first degree, and the result of the ballot being favourable, Messrs. Thomas Charlesworth, William Tertius Rowlett, and Alfred George Jackson, of Leicester, and William Bunney and Lewis George Wynn, of Oadby, were severally introduced and initiated, the ceremony being performed alternately by the W.M. and the P.G.M. On the conclusion of the business, the brethren adjourned to refreshment. Among the brethren present were: W. Kelly, P.G.M.; Toller, W.M.; Duff, Hodges, and Smith, P.M.'s; Buzzard, S.W. and W.M.-elect; Sculthorpe, J.W.; Johnson, P.M., Org.; Baines, Sec.; Partridge, J.D., and many other members. Visitors: Bros. Stanley, W.M.; Stretton, S.W.; Crow, J.W.; Palmer, S.D., and other brethren of St. John's Lodge, No. 279.

SIDCUP.—Sydney Lodge, No. 829.—This excellent working lodge held its regular monthly meeting at the Black Horse, Sidcup, on the 14th inst., under the able management of its respected W. Master, Bro. Thomas Smith, supported by Bros. A. Thompson, S.W.; A. Jackson, J.W.; G. Snow, P.M., and P.P.G.S.W. Treas.; J. Henderson, P.M. and Sec.; Borer, S.D., and Pugh, I.G. The Junior Deacon, from ill-health, was prevented from attending. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last regular and emergency lodges were read and unanimously confirmed. The ballot proved unanimous in favour of two gentlemen for initiation, but they were unable to attend. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bros. Etheridge initiated in this lodge, and Stokvis, of the Copper Lodge, 1076, being candidates for the third degree, were examined, received further instruction, and retired. The lodge was opened in the third degree, and they were admitted, and duly raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons. The lodge was resumed in the second degree, and Bro. Watkins being a candidate for the third degree, was examined, entrusted, and retired. The lodge was resumed in the third degree, and Bro. Watkins was admitted and duly raised to that sublime degree. The lodge was closed down to the first degree, and Bro. Capt. Bevan, who was initiated in June, 1869, (but was obliged to sail from England,) being a candidate for the second degree, was examined, entrusted, and retired. The lodge was resumed in the second degree, and he was admitted and duly passed to the degree of a F.C. The lodge was resumed in the first degree, and all business being ended, the lodge was closed in due form.

SALFORD.—Richmond Lodge, No. 1011.—This lodge held their annual anniversary and installation meeting at the Spread Eagle Hotel, Salford, on Thursday, June 16th. Present: Josh. Dixon, W.M.; F. Richmond, P.M.; W. Dodge, P.M.; R. Caldwell, P.M.; T. Ellis, S.W.; T. Wallis, J.W.; and a number of the brethren. Visitors: C. Nichols (P.P.G.P. and P.M. 852), B. Taylor (P.M. 935), T. Hooper (P.M. 1077), T. Sawyer (P.M. 1077), W. Goodier (W.M. 935), H. Fisher (W.M. 992), S. Redford (W.M. 815), J. Harrop (W.M. 315), L. Warhurst (S.W. 461), W. Riddle (W.M. 852), D. Isherwood (825), N. Dumville (152 and 322), and John Royle (815). Bro. Caldwell, P.M., opened the lodge in due form, and initiated Messrs. Tom Callow and James Cockshut in the first degree. The lodge was then resumed to the second degree. Bro. Josh. Dixon P.M., presented Bro. T. Ellis, W.M.-elect, to receive from his predecessor the benefit of installation. Bro. Caldwell then proceeded with the ceremony, and installed Bro. T. Ellis in a most able and impressive manner, assisted by Bro. B. Taylor, P.M., who invested the following officers: Bros. T. Wallis, S.W.; M. Fenton, J.W.; W. Dodge, P.M., Treas.; J. Gallagher, Sec.; T. Preston, S.D.; John Ellis, J.D.; Rich. Johnson, I.G.; Sly, Organist. Some other business having been disposed of, the lodge was closed in due form, with solemn prayer. The brethren then adjourned to a sumptuous banquet, ably provided by Miss Gibson; Bros. Josh. Dixon, W. Dumville, N. Dumville, and Standen forming an able glee party. The following toasts were then proposed: "The Queen and the Craft;" glee, "God Save the Queen." "The Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family;" song, "God Bless the Prince of Wales." "The Earl de Grey and Ripon, M.W.G.M.;" glee, "Prosper the Art." "Earl Carnarvon, R.W.D.G.M.;" glee, "March of the Men of Haarlech." "The Earl of Zetland, P.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers;" song, "Health to my Dear." "Stephen Blair, Esq., R.W.P.G.M. East Lancashire;" glee, "Hail to the Craft." "Wm. R. Callender, jun., Esq., D.P.G.M. East Lancashire." "The Newly-Initiated Brethren;" song, "Entered Apprentice." "The Health of the Worshipful Master (proposed by Bro. Josh. Dixon, I.P.M.);" glee, "Here's to his Health." "The Newly-Invested Officers" (proposed by Bro. B. Taylor, P.M. 935); Bros. Wallis, S.W.; M. Fenton, J.W., and R. Johnson, I.G., responded to the above toast. "Past Masters of the Lodge;" glee, "Willie brew'd." "Visiting Brethren." "All poor and distressed Masons;" glee, "Fill the Shining Goblet." The brethren then dispersed, after spending an agreeable and happy evening.

ROYAL ARCH.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—Faithful R.A. Chapter, No. 100.—The companions of the above chapter held their quarterly meeting on Monday, June 13th, at the Crown and Anchor Hotel, Quay, Great Yarmouth, for the purpose of installing the principals and officers for the ensuing year. The chapter being opened and the minutes of the preceding chapter read and confirmed, Companion Henry John Mason, P.Z. of the chapter, then installed Comp. Hanlon, P.H., to the chair of Z., Comp. Wright, Past J., to the chair of H., and Comp. Tomlinson, P.E., to the chair of J., the ceremony being performed by Comp. H. J. Mason, Prov. Grand D.C. of Norfolk. Two brethren were proposed for exaltation, and the chapter was closed. The companions then retired to the banquet, which was supplied by Bro. Frankling in his usual excellent style. The companions separated, after having spent a truly Masonic evening.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the "Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond. says: "I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood." March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says: "I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles."—For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy. In bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in boxes, 1s. 2½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecaries' Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.

SCOTLAND.

EXCURSION OF THE DUNDEE UNION ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER, No. 6.

The companions of this chapter having agreed to enjoy an excursion with their wives and sweethearts, Thursday, the 16th inst., was fixed for the same taking place; and, thanks to the committee (Companions Robertson, Berry, Kelt, Longmuir, and Henry), a treat of no ordinary character was enjoyed, and which we have the pleasure to chronicle. The companions chartered the steamer "Star o' Tay," to leave at 6 a.m. for Stonehaven, a distance by sea of upwards of fifty miles. To do so required considerable fortitude on the part of the committee; but they have the better reason now to be pleased—as, had the day been stormy, the consequences would simply have been disastrous.

Leaving the Craig Pier, Dundee, at a little past 6 a.m., a very fine view was obtained of some of the principal sights on the east coast, made so famous by Sir Walter Scott's "Antiquary." The steamer arrived in Stonehaven Bay about 11 a.m., where, according to previous arrangements, they were to be joined by deputations from the Provincial Grand Lodge of Aberdeen, St. George's R.A. Chapter, Aberdeen, and Horeb R.A. Chapter, Stonehaven. The party put off from Stonehaven to join the steamer in the bay, a little before eleven, in a yacht kindly placed at their disposal by James Forbes, Esq., Senior Bailie of Stonehaven, and included the worthy Bailie, Comps. Professor Beveridge, Mareschal College, Aberdeen, P.G. Master of Aberdeen city Province, and Grand Superintendent of R.A. Masonry in Aberdeenshire; Stables, P.Z. "Old Aberdeen" Chapter; Dr. Thom, P.Z. Horeb Chapter; and James Crockett, Stonehaven, Scribe E.; &c., &c. Luncheon was immediately served on board by Comp. Young, Café Royal, Dundee. Glasses being charged, thanks were duly pledged to the Stonehaven and Aberdeen guests, the former proposed by first Principal Robertson, the latter by second Principal Berry, and the same having been duly responded to by the worthy Bailie of Stonehaven and Professor Beveridge, the steamer put into the harbour, and the whole party landed and proceeded to view the ancient ruins of Durnottar Castle, the churchyards of Durnottar and Corrie, accompanied by several gentlemen well skilled in the traditions and history of the locality, who explained minutely everything famous in connection with the ruins of the castle, the grave of the Covenanters, &c. Leaving the castle, the party returned on board the steamer at four o'clock, steamed out to the bay, where dinner was served; Companion Robertson in the chair, supported right and left by Professor Beveridge and Bailie Forbes, Companions Kelt and Berry croupiers. Dinner over and duly charged, the toasts of "Queen and Craft," "Magistrates and Council of Stonehaven," "Provincial Grand Lodge of Aberdeen," "Town and Trade of Stonehaven," and "The Ladies," having been duly pledged and responded to, Professor Beveridge, in replying, proposed "Success to the Dundee Chapter," and in able and eloquent terms alluded to the extreme pleasure he had felt in the whole proceedings, holding that meetings such as the present—especially when such could be with the ladies—tended very much to the prosperity of Masonry. As Provincial Grand Master of Aberdeen, nothing would give him greater pleasure than the reciprocation of such a visit; and, officially, he would do everything in his power to encourage it, and at no distant day he trusted to see in the "granite city" some thousands of the Craft to assist in laying the foundation stone of the Corporation buildings. The Bailie's yacht being alongside and the hour for the return journey having arrived, the strangers left, and the steamer proceeded for Dundee amid loud cheers. An excellent band (provided by Mr. R. M. Stevenson) being on board, dancing was commenced, and kept up with great spirit on the return journey. It is but proper to mention that, on leaving, the committee appointed Companion Longmuir as "Commodore," and the manner that he performed the duties cannot be too highly praised. The steamer arrived at Dundee at 11 p.m., every one having enjoyed themselves heartily, nothing having occurred to mar the pleasure of the excursion.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER OF SCOTLAND.

The Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland, at their quarterly convocation, held 15th inst., were pleased to appoint Bro. Thomas Entwistle, P.M., P.Z. 221, R.W.P.M. Mark Lodge of Bolton, 2 (S.C.), S.P.R. 18, to be the Provincial Grand Superintendent of Mark Masonry in Lancashire, with full powers to establish a Provincial Grand Mark Lodge. We understand the inauguration will take place forthwith at Manchester.

They have also granted a warrant to certain brethren to hold a lodge at Barrow-in-Furness, to be called the Furness Lodge, No. 24.

This lodge will be consecrated immediately after the installation of the P.G.M.M.

Lodge Caledonian, Haskein, Constantinople, No. 489, was omitted in the list of lodges represented at the laying of the foundation stone of the new Albert Bridge at Glasgow, which appeared in our last.

We are informed that R.W. Bro. Col. Burdett, Prov. G.M. Middlesex, has been appointed to the Commission of the Peace for the county of Surrey.

OUR esteemed friend Bro. Robert Jones, P.M. 110, P. Prov. G.D. E. Div. South Wales, and Grand Orator of the Red Cross Order, will in all probability be one of the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex for the ensuing year, as his candidature meets with general support.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum. It offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

Answers to Correspondents.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly, on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

BRO. THEVENOT, Chef du Secretariat, Grand Orient de France.—We thank you very sincerely for your obliging communication, and for the promised copy of your Calendar. We will send you the Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar in return, the moment it appears.

KNOW-NOTHING.—The Zenda-vesta, referred to in Bro. Yarker's communication, are the sacred books of the Parsees, and they were originally twenty-one in number, of which, however, eighteen have been lost. The MSS. of the three now extant are said to have been preserved by certain Parsee priests who fled to Bombay in the 10th century. You can see a French translation by Duperron at the British Museum.

TEMPERANCE.

"WINE," says the wise son of Sirach, "wine is as good as life to a man if it be drunk moderately." Aye, therein lies the rub; therein is concealed the problem which agitates the mind of the social reformer, and kindles the ire of the tented Rechabite. On the other hand, we have the saying of the fool, "Let us eat, drink and be merry, for to-morrow we die." The truth obviously lies between, in medio tutissimus ibis.

Now, we are not about to assume the black cap, and to pronounce judgment oracularly against those brethren who occasionally follow the fool into the regions of intemperance, but it is none the less our duty to warn them that they are playing with a fire which may eventually consume them.

The convivial meetings in which Freemasons, and especially British Freemasons, indulge at certain periods are undoubtedly calculated to cement and preserve that harmony amongst the brethren which is so much to be desired. The principle of refreshment after labour is interwoven into the very system of the Craft, and it is one to which no sensible man can object, but the abuse of this necessary relaxation is the evil against which we have to guard, and respecting which our American brethren are already sounding the tocsin of alarm. It must be owned that there is some reason to fear that from the evil example of a few old members, some of the younger and weaker brethren are led into habits which ill accord with the precepts of the Craft. From facts witnessed in our own experience we grieve to say that grey-headed men, who ought to know better, are first and foremost in the paths of vice. Some are, unfortunately, Past Masters who presume upon the services they are supposed to have rendered in some remote period of antiquity, although if the truth were published on the house-tops, it would be found that most of them can better open a bottle of champagne than a Lodge of Freemasons, and that few belong to the "early closing movement," especially as regards the gin-shops and taverns. It is these men who are ever ready to deaden the solemn effect which initiation into Freemasonry ought to have upon an earnest candidate, by quip and jest, and inane mockeries of those precepts which they cannot comprehend. It is these men who are always on the look-out at the social board to "set the table in a roar" by the recital of some obscene tale, or double entendre; much to the disgust of brethren who meet to enjoy themselves rationally, and not to revel, like satyrs, in filth.

All such excesses should be firmly repressed, at the time, by the Master or other Presiding Officer, and the apparent popularity of the hoary offender should not be permitted to shield him from the just censure of the chair. A want of decision on this head has caused many a respectable lodge to deteriorate permanently in character and influence.

Freemasonry can do without the support of these antiquated toppers, whose ideas are limited to an undue appreciation of the pleasures of the table or a disgusting réchauffé of folly and vice. We have happily progressed since the last century, when bacchanalian feats were so common as to excite little notice, when three-bottle men were the rule, and when the humorous pencil of Hogarth—himself a brother—found employment in depicting the excesses of Masonic inebriates. But there is still some room for improvement; enjoyment must not be suffered to degenerate into riot, nor the primary objects of the institution be forgotten in the selfish sociality of the hour.

It will be observed that some of our Scottish brethren also complain grievously of the convivial doings of some lodges in Scotland; and in America, as we have said, the subject is receiving great attention. But it is not only temperance at the table that is required, but temperance in speech and action, so that none may reasonably take offence at our conduct as men and Masons. In New York, a young brother states, that immediately after his initiation, with which he was deeply impressed, and while meditating in the ante-room on the lessons he had received, all his newly-awakened ideas of the principles of the Order were rudely disturbed by the unseemly conversation of certain brethren who came out of the lodge, and rivalled each other in the use of a vocabulary which was anything but choice or delicate.

Now all this must be put down with a firm hand; we cannot have the minds of our candidates demoralised by these old satellites of Satan, who, we scruple not to say, ought to be summarily expelled from the Craft. What is the use of our wondrous symbolism, our elaborate ceremonial, our lofty moral teachings, if all are to be rendered nugatory by the misconduct of a few "chartered libertines"? The mass of the Fraternity will at once repudiate these men, who for all we know, may be the paid agents of our enemies, and hired to bring Freemasonry, if possible, into disrepute.

With a moderate conviviality we have no fault to find, but there are higher Masonic duties to be performed than mere eating and drinking, and it would be well if some of the funds devoted to the latter purpose were applied to the maintenance and development of our charities, so that none may knock at our gates in vain for that assistance which they have a right to expect. Without making the Craft a benefit society, we are strenuous advocates for the principle that it is our duty to help those who have laboured for the good of the Order in their youthful days, and upon whom the weight of adversity has fallen in their declining years; and if more care were taken in the selection of candidates, we should soon be able to provide permanently for ALL who have a just claim on our sympathy and support. It is by our deeds that we are judged in the profane world, and when Masons are found intemperate in language, and intemperate in habits, outsiders regard the Order with some degree of dislike and contempt. A reformation in this respect is urgently needed, and it behoves each of us to assist in purging our lodges of all profanity and excess, so that the great aims of Freemasonry may be not only better understood by the multitude, but practically illustrated by the life and conduct of every individual who wears the ancient and honourable badge of a Free and Accepted Mason.

DEUCHAR CHARTERS.

Our friend and brother, Wm. J. Hughan, of Truro, has been made the medium of conveying, through THE FREEMASON, the information "that there are several Deuchar warrants still in existence in Scotland, and which are still used to authorise the working of the degree by certain Encampments in that country." It is right that the Craft should also know that persons dubbed under any such authority are not recognised as K.T.'s by the Grand Priory of Scotland.

These warrants were designated "Deuchar Charters, on account of Bro. Alexander Deuchar having been the chief promoter of the Grand Conclave and its first Grand Master. To his exertions, also, the Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland may be said to have owed its origin. Bro. Deuchar, who was a distinguished member of the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary's Chapel), appears to have become acquainted with Knight Templary early in the present century through brethren who had been dubbed under a warrant emanating from Dublin and which was held by Frates serving in the Shropshire Militia. This corps were quartered in Edinburgh in 1798; and in all probability it was through their instrumentality that the first Grand Assembly of Knights Templar was first set up in Edinburgh. Subsequently this gave place to the Grand Assembly of High Knights Templar in Edinburgh, working under a charter, No. 31, of the Early Grand Encampment of Ireland, of which in 1807 Bro. Deuchar was Grand Master. The Deuchar Charters authorised Encampments to instal "Knights Templars and Knights of St. John of Jerusalem,"—one condition on which these warrants were held being "that no communion or intercourse shall be maintained with any Chapter or Encampment, or body assuming that name, holding meetings of Knights Templars under a Master Mason's Charter." In 1837 the most of these warrants were forfeited, and the Encampments erased from the roll of the Grand Conclave, on account of not making the required returns.

May the reported working under these cancelled Charters not be connected with the unauthorised and unrecognised Mason-making that is being carried on within the Province of Glasgow and other places in the West of Scotland?

EXTRACTS FROM WORKS SHOWING THE 1717 THEORY ABSURD.

"The Grand Lodge of Freemasons at York was founded in 926. Freemasonry was interdicted in England in 1424, but it afterwards rose into great repute."—Mayon's Book of Dates.

"The Masons existed as a corporation in Glasgow so early as the year 1057, having been incorporated by Malcolm the Third, under Royal Charter 'given at our court at Fordie, 5th October, 1057,' by which his Majesty, upon the recital of a petition by the 'Operative Masons of the city of Glasgow,' setting forth that 'the inhabitants of the city have been imposed upon by a number of unskilled and insufficient workmen that have come to work at our cathedral,' ordained and granted to our petitioners to incorporate themselves together in one incorporation. The original charter, an old musty paper, was, it is said, discovered about the commencement of the 19th century in the charter chest of the Glasgow Freemen Operative Saint John's Lodge, and translated; and under it, this lodge claims precedence of all the lodges in Scotland, except the Grand Lodge."—From A Sketch of the Rise and Progress of the Trades House of Glasgow, by George Crawford. 1858, pp. 27, 28.

Bro. W. G. Doric says:—"The communications of Bros. Yarker and Paton, in your paper for 4th June, might have led your readers to suppose that the 1717 theory originated with Bro. Buchan." I am not aware of ever giving an opinion that would lead the Fraternity to believe that Bro. W. P. Buchan was the originator of the 1717 theory. The extract quoted at page 295 shows that he was not. A Frenchman, about seven years ago, declared to me that it was Desaguliers to whom we owed Speculative Freemasonry; and it was France that could boast of doing so much good in uniting men of all nations and creeds. Of this I did not take much notice; so that it appears others, as well as Bro. W. C. Buchan, have had a wrong impression.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

I send you the following extract from a work entitled "Memoirs Illustrative of the History and Antiquities of the City and County of Lincoln," communicated to the annual meeting of the Archaeological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland, held at Lincoln, July, 1848. Printers, Messrs. Bradbury and Evans, Whitefriars:—

"He seems to have been singularly partial to forming societies for scientific objects in 1710, when practising physic at Boston. On his first return from London he records that he 'erected a Botanic Club,' and, resuming his life of study and curiosity in the metropolis in 1717, he took an active interest in founding the Antiquarian Society. Of his habits at that time he notes the following particulars:—In 1718, Mr. Roger, and Sam Gale, and I, took a journey, through my eager desire, to view Abury on antiquity, altogether unknown, but of which I had conceived an high notion. Then we went to Stonehenge, which surpris'd me beyond measure. We visited Wilton, and that laid the foundation for the great intimacy my Lord Pembroke (Thomas) honor'd me with. I was the first person made a Freemason in London. For many years we had great difficulty to find members enough to perform the ceremony. Immediately upon that it took a run, and ran itself out of breath through the folly of the members. I began a vertuous meeting in Ave Mary-lane. I began another in Orange-street. We had old Mr. Johnson's picture hung up in the room. We paid for painting it by Highmore. My old friend, the ingenious Councillor James Hill, pronounc'd a discourse there—memento about the Druids. In the memorable South Sea year, 1720, I traded in the Alley and used to get 30 or 40 pound in the morning. This increased my distaste to business."—Notice of the Stukeley Collection.

How does this agree with the 1717 theory?

G. BACON, Sec. 297.

BRO. W. J. HUGHAN,

Bro. W. J. Hughan has (at page 283) a highly noble duty on hand, and for which every honest thinking member of the Fraternity should accord him their best wishes. I personally do so, and have to ask a favour from him. I intend, in the course of about a month, to send to THE FREEMASON a few articles on "The Origin of Freemasonry—the 1717 Theory Exploded." If he would kindly withhold his answer till my articles appear, and if, perchance, I should fall into any mistakes, he might then correct them.

CHALMERS IZETT PATON.

BRO. MATTHEW GREATHEAD, THE CENTENARIAN.

This venerable member of the Craft, whose portrait was recently given by our contemporary the Illustrated London News, was initiated in the Lennox Lodge, No. 123, at Richmond, Yorkshire, on St. John's Day, 27th December, 1797, and in this lodge he served every office, including that of W. Master. Bro. Greathead is also, we are informed, a Royal Arch Mason of many year's standing. He was an assiduous worker and teacher in Masonry for a considerable period, and earned the respect of the brethren, and his townsmen generally, by his upright and quiet deportment. A carpenter by trade, he succeeded in bringing up his family in a most creditable manner, and during a part of his career he held the post of Apparitor in the Consistorial Court of the Province of York. Compelled at length to appeal to his Masonic friends for aid, we are happy to say that he was admitted to the benefits of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, from which he has enjoyed an annuity of £30 since the 20th May, 1859. Such facts as these, when forcibly brought to our notice, say more than sermons, for the good effected by this noble institution, by whose means our centenarian brother has been sustained and comforted in his great age. We shall from time to time direct attention to the claims of the Annuity Fund, by quoting similar cases to that of good old Matthew Greathead.

ED. F.

There existed at Paris, about 1758, a Chapter which took the title of Council of the Emperors of the East and West, Sovereign Prince Masons. This Chapter, in which were found many persons of distinction, granted Chapters for the high grades, created Inspectors-General, and deputy inspectors, for the purpose of propagating Masonry of perfection in Europe and beyond the seas. It erected many councils, particularly in the interior of France, and it was this which established at Bordeaux the Council of Princes of the Royal Secret which existed in 1762. In 1766 a schism of malcontents of this lodge was styled Knights of the East.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY of the GRAND ORIENT of FRANCE.

From the Chaine d'Union we learn that the Grand Orient commenced its sittings on the 6th inst., under the presidency of Bro. Alfred Blanche, Grand Master adjoint. Upon taking his seat, Bro. Blanche announced that the Grand Master, General Mellinet, had determined to resign his high office, in consequence of his great age and the precarious state of his health.

Notwithstanding this statement, Gen. Mellinet was again proposed for the Grand Mastership, and on the following day the votes were taken, 308 brethren participating in the election: 173 voted for Bro. Mellinet, 118 for Bro. Carnot, 12 for Bro. Massol, one each for Bros. Guepin and Blanche, and there were three blank papers. Bro. Colfavru, a strenuous supporter of Bro. Carnot, gave in his resignation as a member of the Council.

On the 8th inst. the President communicated the resolve of Gen. Mellinet not to accept the Grand Mastership, and expressed the General's profound sense of the many proofs of fraternal sympathy which he had ever received from the Grand Orient. Bro. Blanche then vacated the chair, which was taken by Bro. De Saint-Jean, President of the Council of the Order, and a stormy debate ensued as to the propriety of electing a Grand Master during the present session. The discussion was eventually postponed by a majority of 131 to 123.

On the 9th June, Bro. Babaud-Laribière was nominated for the Grand Mastership for the ensuing year, and on the 10th the election took place, with the following result:—For Bro. Babaud-Laribière, 167; Carnot, 109; Massol 10; De Saint-Jean, 1. Bro. Drouet then proclaimed the first-named brother Grand Master for the year. The following brethren were then re-elected members of the council:—Bros. Bremond, Garisson, Roche, Hermitte, Oppert and Cauchois, and the Committee of Finance having presented their report, the sitting closed. On the 11th June the work was resumed. Bro. Babaud Laribière was presented and installed as Grand Master, and addressed the assembly in a speech replete with dignity and tact. He paid an honourable tribute to the services of his predecessor, and traced in vigorous language the rôle which Freemasonry was expected to fulfil in the amelioration of society. This oration was loudly applauded, as was also that delivered by the Grand Orator, Bro. Poulle.

The remaining elections for the council were then held; Bros. Tordeaux, Josias, and Portallier were re-elected—Bros. Dr. Montanier, Rolland and Lagache replacing the Grand Master, Bros. Colfavru and de Lawaurince. By acclamation it was resolved to devote the sum usually voted for the banquet, to the relief of the sufferers by the great fire at Constantinople. Before the Orient was closed, the principle of general gratuitous and obligatory instruction was solemnly affirmed by the entire assembly. This was the last act of the general assembly of French Masons for 1870.

THE ARK MARINER DEGREE AND GRAND MARK LODGE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I regret being again under the necessity of troubling you on the subject of the Ark Mariners' degree. In the account given in your last of a meeting held at Masons' Hall, in the City, for the purpose of conferring the degree on distinguished brethren of the English Grand Mark Lodge—to enable them to form an opinion of its merits as members of a special committee nominated for that purpose—it is represented as a "combined meeting." Let me undeceive your readers as to the purport these words may be held to convey. The meeting was held under the authority of the old Kent Lodge of Mark Masters, and duly convened by order of the W.M. The lodge was opened as a Mark Lodge—called off—an Ark Mariners' Lodge opened within it—the ceremony performed—Mark Lodge resumed, and properly closed. Brethren, being Mark Masters under the English Constitution—who have taken a part in the organisation of the "Grand Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners"—very kindly offered their services, and rendered valuable assistance, it being expressly stipulated and understood that the meeting so held should be "without prejudice" to the future claims of the existing Grand Mark Lodge, or of the "Grand Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners," to the superintendence of the Ark Mariners' degree.

The Old Kent Mark Lodge, under its warrant as a "time immemorial" lodge, has always had the power of conferring the Ark Mariners' degree, and that power has been occasionally exercised. In yielding allegiance to the English Grand Mark Lodge, the Old Kent Lodge yielded its power to that body, and these powers are still inherent in the Grand Mark Lodge. Whatever authority the newly-organised Ark Grand Lodge may claim, there has never yet been any implied or understood surrender by the Grand Mark Lodge of its right to take cognisance of, and to authorise the working of, the various (so-called) side degrees always considered to be united with the Mark degree.

It is much to be regretted that there should be any controversy on this subject, but I wish it to be made plain that by no act whatever has the M.W.G.M., or any M.W. Past G.M., in even the slightest manner evidenced the least doubt as to the authority possessed in this country by the English Grand Mark Lodge over its own and, as universally admitted, its allied degrees.

The committee appointed to consider the subject of the degrees most prominently mentioned in connection with the "Mark" will meet again on Monday, and I repeat my entreaty, that Brethren will at least suspend their decision until the report of that committee be published.

I am, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

FREDERICK BINCKES, G.S.,

Grand Lodge of Mark Masters of England,

Wales, &c.

Office, 2, Red Lion-square, W.C.,

June 21, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I regret much to trouble you again on this subject; but will only say that, if Bro. Binckes, or any of your readers, will look at my letter in your impression of the 11th, they will see "the M.W.G.M. stated that he did not propose to interfere with the jurisdiction of the Royal Ark Mariners, and he has also said that he has no objection to any one who likes taking the degree."

This latter part, printed in italic, I maintain, and I think it would have been more courteous of Bro. Binckes to have ascertained from the M.W.G.M. himself whether he had said such a thing or not, before he contradicted me, in the name of the whole body of Mark Masters as Grand Secretary, so flatly. However, as it was not said in Grand Lodge, I refer Bro. Binckes to the M.W.G.M. himself for the truth of my statement. With regard to the question of jurisdiction, the M.W.G.M. stated that he did not propose to interfere with any other jurisdiction; and, as the Ark Mariner was the only degree under discussion that had a jurisdiction, it could only mean ours.

I am, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

SCRIBE, Royal Ark Mariners.

THE LATE FIRE AT CONSTANTINOPLE

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—I beg leave to make an appeal to the members of the Craft through the columns of your widely spread journal, on behalf of the sufferers by the late calamitous fire at Constantinople. It is impossible to convey to you a just idea of the misery into which so many thousands have been so suddenly plunged, and the affliction which for years will hover over the city by this most disastrous event. The immediate wants of the poorer class is sufficient to enlist the sympathies of all charitable persons, but unfortunately the distress will not stop there. Of the many who have been so suddenly deprived of employment, few will be able to secure a means of earning bread for months and will be dependent upon the foreign residents, who are themselves impoverished to a great extent by this awful visitation, for support. It is for these that I make the appeal, and, I hope, not in vain.

Among the sufferers are many of our brethren, and meetings have been held in the different Constantinople lodges for the purpose of raising subscriptions, and devising means for their relief; foremost among which stands that of the District Grand Lodge in Turkey, convened by our much esteemed M.W. Bro. J. P. Brown, D.G.M., who determined not to limit relief to members of the Fraternity, but distribute it amongst all requiring it, irrespective of religion or creed. All that can be done in Turkey, however, will nevertheless fall very short of the demand, and the calamity being so great and almost unprecedented in its severity, I make bold to solicit that assistance from the brethren, which, notwithstanding all our endeavours in Constantinople, we are utterly incompetent to offer of ourselves.

A relief fund has already been formed in London, the Manager of the Imperial Ottoman Bank, 4, New Bank Buildings, Princes-street, London, having kindly consented to act as treasurer, by whom all subscriptions received will be forwarded to the General Relief Committee at Constantinople. Should any one, however, wish to subscribe exclusively to the fund formed by the District Grand Lodge at Constantinople, by expressing such a wish to that gentleman it will be complied with.

I am, Sir, yours fraternally,

WM. B. HOPPER,

W.M. Oriental Lodge, No. 687,

"FINDEL'S HISTORY OF FREEMASORY."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Some years ago, while reading the sketches of a successful Bristol merchant, written by an eloquent and talented author, I was forcibly struck with the truth and importance of the remarks advanced on a certain article, said to be well known to grocers—whether the imputation be right or wrong I do not pretend to determine—as P.D. After having described the merchant's dissatisfaction with the trade custom, and the mental discomfort produced in the merchant by his being in possession of a cask of the said P.D., and the ultimate destruction of "The Hypocritical Cask," the author appeals to busy shopmen and lordly merchants: "Have you no P.D. which ought to be scattered before you go to sleep?" He then goes on to show that there is a great deal of P.D. in this world of ours, and urges all to get rid of the accursed thing!

I regret to complain that there is an example of P.D. to be found in an advertisement which has appeared in THE FREEMASON of the 4th and 11th inst. I allude to "Finde's History of Freemasonry," 2nd edition. The advertisement states that the book contains 800 pages. A copy of this 2nd edition now lies before me, which contains only 704 pages; and if we add the title page, preface, and table of contents (16 pages), we can only get 720 pages, being 80 less than the number announced to the public in said advertisement. This is P.D. Now, I maintain that this deception is very wrong, especially so when it emanates from parties who, I presume, are members of our moral Institution, which so forcibly inculcates the sacred dictates of truth, honour, and virtue! Let it not be supposed that I notice the discrepancy between the advertised statement and fact because I think enough has not been given for the money; although, from a mercantile stand-point, any person would be justified in so doing. Far from me be so sordid a reason; but my sole object is to uphold the purity of our Fraternity, and to check anything which may have the slightest approach to falsehood and dishonour! I trust that in future advertisements of the book in question the truth will be given and the cause of complaint removed.

With regard to the merits of the work, no doubt it is full of research, interesting, and instructive; but I must protest against the publication of certain parts—which, for obvious reasons, I do not specify as being in direct violation of the O.B.

Yours truly and fraternally,

A. MCK. M.

THE LEGEND OF JOSHUA.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Bro. W. P. Buchan, at page 287 of your paper, has not proved to us to justify himself what he stated at page 261.

I have noticed lately several statements of our brother, and fail to find any reason for his assertions. He might do well to bear in mind the words of an eminent man, who said: "Be more careful to establish a truth than to reprove an error; men stand upon their guard when you proclaim war against their opinions. Teach your doctrine purely and wisely, and without any angry reflections, for you shall very hardly persuade him whom you go about publicly to confute."

Bro. Buchan says that 2 Samuel, i. 18, is wrongly translated, and that the words "the use of" mislead. We are about to have a revision of the Bible, but I do not think they will better the translation of that verse. Our present English version translates the words as we have them in Targum Jonathan-ben-Uzziel in the Chaldee dialect:—

מִיָּד בַּקֶּשֶׁת

"the use of the bow." I have a Bible before me published by James Duffy from the Latin vulgate, with the approbation of Dr. Cullen of Dublin, in which we have it the same as it is in our Bible, viz., "the use of the bow."

Our brother says that he believes in the progress which the nineteenth century has made, and not in the ancient astronomers and Rabbis. I say that Christian commentators of all ages have made extensive use of their learning. Let our brother refer to Lightfoot's; that is sufficient proof of the value of some of the Rabbinical writings.

The Bible is the belief of every Mason, and the chief point in Masonry, and if we can learn the true meaning of a passage, in Rabbinical or in any other writings, we ought to accept it. As Dr. J. Watts said—

"Seize on the truth where'er 'tis found,
On Christian or on heathen ground,
Among your friends, among your foes—
The flower 's divine where'er it grows;
Neglect the prickles, and assume the rose."

Yours fraternally,
D. STOLZ.

SOMETHING WRONG.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In January last I joined the Lodge Neptune Kilwinning, No. 442, in the expectation that I would thus be admitted to all the privileges which attend Masonry, but in this I have been sadly mistaken, as the following facts will show:—Shortly after initiation, I applied for entrance to Lodge Saltcoats and Ardrossan, St. John's Royal Arch, No. 320, but was refused; not because I could not prove myself a Mason (I was never tried), but because a quarrel as to the disappearance of some funds belonging to 320 had arisen between the Master of 442 and the members of 320. Rightly or wrongly, it appears that 320 accuses the Master and Secretary of 442 of unmasonic conduct, and because of this they will hold no intercourse whatever with members of the latter lodge. Members of 442 have been repeatedly turned from the door of 320 because of the alleged misconduct of two individuals for whom I do not think they should be held responsible. Having some reason to believe, however, that the charge made by 320 had some foundation in fact, I applied some four weeks ago for my diploma, and was greatly surprised to meet with a refusal from the Secretary of 442. As a reason for refusal, he stated that I was not clear on the books. I replied that I had paid my initiation fee (32s. 6d.), and 6d. for a copy of the rules, and as this was all that was demanded of me, I considered he had no right to withhold my diploma. He replied that I had 2s. 6d. to pay as a yearly subscription (1s. 6d. of this I am told is an illegal demand), and under any circumstances he maintained that he could keep my diploma for a year. I am informed on good authority that a member is entitled to his diploma immediately after receiving his third degree, provided he pays all demands, and that he has no right to pay any yearly subscription till he has been one year a member. Acting on this belief, three weeks ago I addressed a communication to Bro. W. A. Lawrie, Grand Secretary in which I complained of the treatment I had received; but Bro. Lawrie sent me no reply. A week later I again wrote to the Grand Secretary, but up to the date of the present letter he has treated the matter with silent contempt. Now, I submit that unless Masonry is altogether a mockery and a farce, such conduct as this is both unmasonic and ungentlemanly. If I was wrong, surely it was Bro. Lawrie's duty, even apart from his official position, to put me right. But I am informed that the Grand Lodge of Scotland is quite cognisant of the quarrel between the two lodges, and yet they continue to receive fees from both, and make no effort to set matters right. If this be the case, then I can hardly expect Bro. Lawrie to attend to an individual case of gross irregularity. The outer world here are quite cognisant of the existence of the quarrel between the two lodges, and they are in the habit of ironically quoting it as a beautiful specimen of brotherly love—thus inflicting incalculable injury on Masonry, and bringing the order into contempt.

I am, yours fraternally,

JOHN TAYLOR.

Ardrossan, June 8th, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER,—Can you supply me with an answer to the following questions in your answers to correspondents, under the head of "Eta":—

1stly. In the case of brethren coming from one lodge, furnished with proper credentials, in which they may have taken the first degree, or the first and second degrees, ought such brethren to be balloted for? I am not aware of any clause in the Constitutions which settles the question. If there is no provision, please state the customary procedure of lodges in such a case.

2ndly. In the case of brethren so receiving further degrees in another lodge, does such taking of degrees entitle them in any way to become joining members without the ballot provided for in the Constitutions under the head of "joining members?"

It appears to me that as much strictness should be exercised in the giving of degrees as in the admission to membership. Why should a lodge grant a degree to a brother whom they would not accept as a member?

Or why should a lodge be more anxious to inquire into the qualifications of a brother to be a member than to receive a degree? I cannot perceive that all the onus lies with the mother lodge.

If you can afford a solution to this dilemma you will greatly oblige.

I have to acknowledge and thank you for your politeness in replying to my last question in the last number of THE FREEMASON.

I am, Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally

ETA.

Malta, Valetta, 10th May, 1870.

[Answer next week.—ED. F.]

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—Will you, or any of your numerous correspondents, answer me the following questions in your next issue:—

1st. In some of our Masonic ceremonies, we use a white robe, generally a Church of England surplice. As this is not at all in character, being of a modern cut, I want to know what is the correct thing strictly in accordance with the office of a Priest Mason. Is it a cloak, a robe, or a tunic with folds? If not, what ought it to be?

2nd. What privileges, if any, have the members of Provincial Grand Lodges beyond that of wearing the purple and appearing in the list of P.G. officers? Does an appointment give them a right to be present at any Masonic meeting in the province to which they belong, and even to express an opinion on a point of Masonic law?

3rd. Can the W.M. of a lodge order a P.G. officer to withdraw during the transaction of business, or is he, by virtue of his office, a ruler in the province?

THE GLASGOW ST. JOHN'S LODGE AND THE MASONIC DEMONSTRATION AT GLASGOW.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your report, at page 293, of the proceedings that took place at the laying of the foundation-stone of the new Albert bridge, you allude to the unpleasant incident caused by the brethren of St. John's Lodge, No. 3 bis., retiring and refusing to take part in the ceremony. Their plea for so doing was that they had not got the carrying of the working tools entirely to themselves. A number of the members of the Journeyman Lodge, Edinburgh, No. 8, had come through for the purpose of doing so. The rival claims of No. 3 bis. and No. 8 were laid before the Grand Master, who, no doubt to save disputes as far as possible and promote good feeling, decided that the two lodges should halve the thing between them. The St. John's, however, rebelled against this decision, and before the eyes of assembled thousands, simply "took the huff," and walked off the ground. As a member and past office-bearer of No. 3 bis., I beg to enter my dissent from this, because I consider that, under the circumstances, they were not warranted, neither was it advisable to do so. I say nothing about their lodging a protest, so that the question might, in due course, be brought up and settled in Grand Lodge; but I object to the retiring. This latter step looked like open mutiny, and was anything but calculated to give a favourable opinion of Masonic good feeling in the midst of the on-lookers. If the St. John's could not bring themselves to fraternise with their Edinburgh brethren, how much better it would have been to say, "We consider the privilege of carry these tools ought to belong to us, but seeing that our Edinburgh brethren have put themselves to the trouble and expense of coming here with that expectation, and that upon this occasion we are also favoured with the presence of your lordship, who, as our Most Worshipful Grand Master, is entitled to receive all due honour and respect at our hands, and also for the purpose of keeping up good fellowship upon this auspicious occasion, we now concede to our Edinburgh brethren of lodge No. 8 the privilege of carrying these working tools—only reserving to ourselves the right hereafter to lay before your lordship and the Grand Lodge the reasons why we consider that we alone should carry these tools in the Glasgow province, when we hope the matter will be fully settled, so as to prevent any chance of further dispute upon all future occasions." Having so said, and taken up their due place in the procession as No. 3 bis., they would have commanded respect from all, instead of which several of their own members and past office-bearers, whom I have since met, consider that they behaved like a "parcel of weans." They showed too much bad temper, while of those who did retire a number did not know what to do. Some talked of going back, and others did not understand the case at all. Several members of St. John's, who were either with the Grand Lodge or with other bodies, did not retire at all.

As to the foundation upon which St. John's makes its claim, it is in great measure purely imaginary. Many of the old members base their claims upon that paltry forgery which they call their "Malcolm Canmore Charter," but which is sufficiently shown up at page 189, April 16th, of THE FREEMASON, to be nothing less than a pure swindle; and seeing it is not the oldest lodge in Edinburgh that carries the tools, but the Journeymen, No. 8, the inference is that it should be the Journeymen of Glasgow that should do so, not the St. John's, which is both the oldest and the Master's Lodge.

If a motion is brought up in Grand Lodge anent this, so as to settle the matter for all the various provinces of Scotland, the one I would be inclined to support would be to the effect, that the journeyman lodges of each province should carry the working tools at all processions in its own province; or, if there be no journeyman lodge in any province, then the youngest lodge of that province shall do so. The reason why I plead for the youngest is this:—The senior lodge has already got many privileges as it is, and it should not be so selfish as to claim everything. At a procession the senior lodge will get close to the stone, and see and hear what is going on, whereas the junior lodges may be several hundred yards away, seeing and hearing nothing. Therefore, I consider that for a certain number of brethren from the youngest lodge of the province being set to carry the working tools would only be fair and be bringing matters more to a due level. Seeing that the Lodge of Edinburgh, No. 1—which was the Master's Lodge—leaves the carrying of the working tools to a junior lodge, I think that it would have been more dignified for the lodge of Glasgow—which was also the Master's Lodge—to adopt the same course, and refrain from quarrelling about such a matter. If they would only think less of show and pretension and more of the principles and ceremonies of the order, it would do far more good. Trusting they will yet do so.

I remain, yours fraternally,

W. P. B.

ARK MARINERS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It may be interesting to the promoters or founders of the "Grand Lodge of Ark Mariners" to learn that they are acting in direct contravention of the laws of the land.

By the provisions of an Act passed in the 39th year of George III., chapter 79, Masonic meetings are rendered illegal, unless held in conformity with the General Laws of the Craft; and, as the assemblies of the Chivalric Orders are permitted by Grand Lodge, the penalties apply only to unauthorised bodies calling themselves Masonic. In order to try the question, and stop these absurdities which are beginning to bring Masonry into contempt, let me suggest that proceedings be at once taken against "M. Edwards" and his abettors, under the penal clauses of the Act of Parliament. I will gladly head a subscription to defray the necessary expenses of the prosecution, and many others are prepared to follow my example.

Yours fraternally,

LEX.

A SPURIOUS GRAND LODGE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I desire to give through your columns the earliest possible intimation of my intention to request the Board of General Purposes to appoint a committee of inquiry into the circumstances attending the recent formation of a so-called "Grand Lodge" of Ark "Masons" or "Mariners"—the said committee to have power to call before them all the individuals who are alleged to have taken part in this illegal proceeding; and, further, to report to the Board upon the adoption of such measures as will effectually check the commission of similar offences for the future.

I am, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

A GRAND OFFICER.

Notings from Masonic Journals.

FROM Die Bauhütte we learn that the annual meeting of the German Union of Freemasons will be held at Darmstadt, on the 23rd and 24th July next. Several eminent brethren, including Bros. Findel, Künzel, Seydel, Von Cornberg, and Cramer, will take part in the proceedings.

FROM the Landmark (New York) we extract the following items:—

The Keystone, in referring to the laying of the corner-stone in New York on the 8th of June, and the invited guests, says: "We hope the Craft from Philadelphia, invited guests, will leave nothing undone to give the best effect to their appearance, and credit to the Fraternity. We take a deep interest in the harmony and success of the pageant, and all our efforts have been directed to show that Masonry is both understood and appreciated by our brethren in Philadelphia. We are part of the great Masonic family, and that which benefits our New York brethren it is our duty to aid as far as possible. Their God is our God, their faith is our faith, their joy our rejoicing."

THE Grand Lodge of Virginia sustains the action of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana in cutting off from Masonic intercourse all Masons belonging to the so-called jurisdiction of the Grand Orient of France.

In the State of Michigan, the Grand Recorder, under instructions from the Grand Commandery K. T. of that jurisdiction, has caused a manuscript copy of the ritual to be forwarded to each subordinate.

THE Grand Master of Ohio strictly forbids all Masons within his jurisdiction from visiting lodges of coloured Masons, or admitting coloured Masons as visitors to their lodges.

The Gavel says that the Grand Commander of the State of Wisconsin alludes, in his address, to the Rite of Memphis in such a manner that it seems the Sir Knights there have determined to frown it down.

THE Grand Lodge of Virginia has decided by a resolution that it has not the power to levy a tax for the purpose of the erection of a Masonic temple upon the subordinates or members.

THE Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine is being received with great favour in Canada. A cou-clave has been recently established at Toronto.

The Toronto Gavel says that, in that jurisdiction the Warden cannot confer the degrees in the absence of the Master.

ACCORDING to the report of the Grand Lodge of Virginia, we see that Sidney Lodge, No. 108, has initiated a candidate who has had a leg amputated below the knee, and now uses an artificial limb. The District Deputy Grand Master immediately suspended the lodge until the opinion of the Grand Master could be had. The Grand Master confirmed the action of the Deputy, and referred the whole in his report to the Grand Lodge, which referred it to the Committee on Jurisprudence, who reported that the Master had violated the injunctions of the Book of Constitutions, but presented a resolution, which was passed, removing the injunction, on the ground that they did not believe the action on the part of the Master proceeded from any improper purpose. This is what may be called whipping somebody under the stump.

GASPAR AGUERO BETANCOURT, the companion of the late Goicouria, who was captured by the Spaniards on the 13th ult., and garotted in Havana on the 14th, was born in Puerto Principe, December 2, 1811. He became a member of the Masonic Fraternity in Maracaibo, and worked diligently for the welfare of the Craft. He was one of the seven brethren appointed to found the Lodge Jinima, at Puerto Principe. At the opening of the war against Spain he embarked in the cause of Cuba, and for his courage and intelligence was appointed by the patriots Governor of San Miguel.

THE Grand Master of Colorado has refused to grant a dispensation on the ground that the applicants had incurred considerable expense, and were already in debt. He adds: "The demands of the lodge for money to meet the current expenses become so pressing that, when a petition is presented, the brethren think more of the advantage to be derived by the candidate's election, in a pecuniary view, than of the qualifications which should recommend him to be made a Mason."

CHURCH APPETITES.—Indeed, it is a curious fact, that even down to the present time the clergy have always had a speciality for this kind of enjoyment. There is a story of a head waiter, who, on being consulted as to a clerical dinner party, requested to know to what religious division the guests belonged—explaining, by way of apology for the question, that the invariable rule for High Church diners was "more wine," but for Evangelicals, "more wittles."—Food Journal.

THE POPE A FREEMASON.

BY BRO. CHALMERS I. PATON.

(A Member of the Masonic Archaeological Institute of England.)

Some two years ago I wrote to The Scotsman newspaper, as follows:—"Pope Pius IX. in his early days was brought up and trained for the army, it never being his parent's intention to turn his attention towards ecclesiastics, in consequence of his being liable to apoplectic fits; and as a young man he became initiated in a Sicilian lodge. But it must be strictly borne in mind that at the date of his initiation, now over forty years, there was at that period no direct prohibition by the Roman Catholic Church against any of its members becoming Freemasons. It was only in consequence of a number of lodges throughout the Continent, instead of strictly adhering strictly to the inculcation of all the excellent principles which Freemasonry teaches, having taught and turned their lodges into political clubs, as, under the guise of Masonry, they did much that would not be allowed elsewhere—in fact they had the liberty of speech. After this came to the knowledge of the Church of Rome, then a special and general prohibition was pronounced against all and every one of its members from belonging to, or joining the Fraternity. The last allocution which Pope Pius IX. had been advised to issue was on September 25th, 1865, and which was answered by Dr. Oliver, and also in the Scottish Freemasons' Magazine (now defunct), by the Editor."

The truth of Pope Pius IX. being himself a member of the Order has never been disputed by any member of the Roman Catholic Church in a private or public manner, and to myself it has been admitted by one who has had conversation with the Pope personally on the subject.

Freemasonry is not opposed to the Roman Catholic religion, or to any religion; least of all to the Christian religion. The very first Gothic charge requires Freemasons to comply with the Christian usages of any country in which they may travel or work. Masons may be of any religion; and although, generally, they profess Christianity, this is not always the case. Jews and Mahomedans are to be found amongst the members of lodges even in Britain. The system of Freemasonry allows the utmost freedom of religious, as well as of political opinion; but it requires that the subject shall not be mentioned in the lodge, so that no animosity may thereby be produced amongst the brethren, however they may think it proper to discuss it elsewhere, as to which the laws of Freemasonry do not restrict them. They are, however, absolutely forbidden to introduce any religious or political subject in their conversations in the lodge.

The first Gothic charge, as has already been mentioned, requires Freemasons to comply with the Christian usages of any country where they may travel or work. This, shows how Freemasonry seeks to conform itself to the laws and existing usages of every country in which it may be established. The true Freemason is a good subject or citizen wherever his lot may be cast, respectful of all the laws of his country, whether he approves them or not, and he lives in accordance with those great laws, which are the basis of the social as well as of the legal fabric.

How comes it, we may now ask, that Pope Pius IX., himself a Freemason, wages war against the Masonic Order, and prohibits all members of the Roman Catholic Church from joining it? What has become of his vow of fidelity as a Freemason? The answer is probably to be found in the dispensing power which the Pope claims, the power of dispensing with all oaths and obligations, "so that he, as God, sitteth in the Temple of God, showing himself that he is God," (2 Thes. ii., 4). This is not in accordance with that moral law, which all Freemasons, whatever their religious profession, recognise and hold themselves bound to obey; but the conscience of a Pope is not, it would seem, to be held under such restraint as the consciences of ordinary men. The law of auricular confession, also, brings the Roman Catholic Church into possible conflict with Freemasonry, the Freemason being bound to keep inviolate certain secrets, which, however, the priest may require him to divulge in the confessional; and the conversations which take place in lodges may thus, against all the rules of the Fraternity, be brought to the knowledge of those who will make use, for their own purposes, of the knowledge which they acquire. It was, probably, in some such way that the Pope and his counsellors became aware of the freedom of discussion on political subjects, which contrary to the rules of the Order, prevailed, or is said to have prevailed, in some of the Masonic lodges of the Continent, and which led to the prohibition of Freemasonry. Pius IX. himself may even have been present when such discussions took place. But however this may be, the Pope must be regarded by all who do not believe in his dispensing power, as still under the obligations which he took upon him when he became a member of the Order, and these obligations he must be held to have violated in his Allocution already mentioned, and in all his action against Freemasonry. As Pope, however, he probably deems himself entitled to change laws, and to set aside, when it suits his convenience, even that moral law which is of perpetual obligation on all mankind, and which every Freemason professes to observe. What rules of morality remain for a Pope, we may try to conjecture, but try in vain.

INTENDED ROYAL VISIT TO READING.—Elaborate preparations are being made in Reading in view of the promised visit of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to lay the foundation stone of the new Grammar School of that town. The ceremony is appointed to take place on the 1st proximo. An address will be presented to the Prince on his arrival at the Great Western Railway Station, and thence a long procession will move to the site of the new school, which is situated on the Redlands estate. The stone is to be laid with Masonic honours. Triumphant arches are being erected by local architects at all the most prominent places in the route of the procession. The cost of these arches will be defrayed to a great extent by the leading local firms, including Messrs. Huntley and Palmer, Messrs. Sutton, Mr. Councillor Taylor, and one at the cost of the Freemasons. It is arranged that after the laying of the stone the Prince shall be entertained at a grand banquet in the Town Hall by the Corporation of Reading and the trustees of the school. The townspeople hope that the Princess of Wales will accompany His Royal Highness. Invitations have been sent to the Lord-Lieutenant of the county (the Earl of Abingdon), the Bishop of the diocese, the Lord High Steward of the borough (Mr. Beryon, M.P.), the High Sheriff of Berks (Mr. J. B. Blagrove, the members of the county and borough, and the mayors of neighbouring towns.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting was held on Wednesday, the 22nd inst., under the presidency of W. Bro. John M. Clabon, P.G.D., assisted by Bros. Nunn and Coutts as Wardens; Savage, Smith, Cottelbrune, Barnes, Sheen, Foxall, Levander, and a number of other brethren. Twenty-three cases came under consideration, of which twenty-one were relieved, or recommended for relief, to the extent of £410. Two were dismissed as ineligible, and it may be well to state that in future foreign Masons cannot be relieved, unless for the purpose of sending them home to their own countries.

The Pactolean streams of English Masonic charity will, practically, therefore, cease to flow for all outside the "English pale."

A LETTER FROM A FREEMASON IN DUNDEE TO A BROTHER IN EDINBURGH, GIVING HIS OPINION OF THE 1717 THEORY AS ABSURD.

It is my opinion that Speculative Masonry, or instructions in the art of architecture and the other sciences, have, from the days of early Egypt, been closely allied with the operative art. I believe, however, that these instructions have differed in the manner in which they have been imparted, according to the degree of freedom or intelligence pervading the time or the nation in which such have been attempted.

It would, therefore, be futile to attempt to prove a verbatim sameness in the present formula with that of 50, 100, or 500 years gone-by; but I think any reader of ordinary research will find sufficient to satisfy him in the history of Egypt, Greece, Rome, and Great Britain, that the secrets of what we call Freemasonry were practised long before the Christian era.

I shall only give two local proofs against the 1717 theory—presuming that anything beyond these is already being gathered by others of your correspondents, or known by yourself.

From the building of the great tower in Dundee by William the Lion, in 1198, down to 1536, there was a regular lodge of Freemasons, that (according to Jervise) regulated the various matters belonging to the Order, by "Ald vss. and consuetud of Our Lady Inge of Dundee." The Master of this lodge was retained by the town of Dundee in the same capacity as they now employ a town's architect, and when he was employed by the local Board of Works he was required, according to an old deed, dated prior to 1500, "to exercise the best and maist ingenious pyatiss and practikis of his Craft."

The tower was the work of "ane Mason" called Dorward, who on its completion was presented with a valuable gold ring of a peculiar design, by his Royal Master, this ring was ultimately lost on the present Hawk-hill of Dundee, while its master was engaged in a boar hunt, and strange enough found again, answering to the same description, while digging the foundations of a house about the year 1750, and is now in the possession of Mr. Neish, of the Laws A.B. Every stone in the tower of any consequence have the distinguished marks of the members of "Our Lady Inge" in Dundee, and can be seen and examined by the most sceptical.

A worthy gentleman, who has showed considerable liberality in the upbuilding of this same church, or more possibly in its repairs, which took place between 1588 and '90, had the following tribute to his memory engraven on a tablet in the chancel, which remained till the destruction of the edifice by fire in 1841:—

To Solomon's Temple, King Hiram sent from Tyre
Fine cedar-wood, but upon great desire;
This church, thou Henry Lyall to repair,
Didst freely give all that was necessary,
Tho' the Tyrian King gave Solomon towns twice ten
Thou greater than these all, and best of men.

I hope no Freemason can doubt the active working of our good old Order at that date, at all events, and if not then, of course its age must be far older, before the same organisation could have been perfected.

We are informed that Bro. Lord Lindsay will be the new Provincial Grand Master for Aberdeenshire.

THE summer festival of the Upton Lodge, No. 1228, was held on the 21st inst., at the Spotted Dog, Upton. About fifty ladies and brethren attended, and a very agreeable day was spent by all.

Letters from Bro. W. P. Buchan, "An American Freemason," and reports of Gilbert Greenall and other lodges, stand over till our next, also a report of a meeting of the "Royal Ark Mariners."

IN MEMORIAM.

[Reflections of a bystander on beholding the funeral cortege of the late beloved and lamented Earl Howe conveying his mortal remains to their last resting-place.]

Thou hast sank beneath thine illness, and we bear thee to thy rest,
 And deep are the emotions which agitate each breast;
 Thou has quitted this world's suffering for a blissful home above,
 And we look back on thy past life with reverence and love.

Let us drop the tear of sorrow as we stand beside the tomb
 Of thee, whose bounteous pity relieved affliction's gloom;
 Let us drop the tear of sorrow and bend the uncovered head,
 As we gaze upon thy funeral and reflect that thou art dead.

For the memory of thy goodness is imprinted on each heart—
 How nobly thou hast acted thy philanthropic part;
 Long will the recollection of kindly deeds like thine
 Embalm the sacred ashes we now to earth consign.

And we doubt not Heaven's blessing will continue to attend
 The exertions which thou madest to prove the poor man's friend;
 Thy name will long be cherish'd and grateful lips will bless
 The alleviation given by thee unto distress.

And if thy sainted spirit may look down upon us here,
 As we realize each project thy noble mind held dear,
 Thou wilt know how much we value the charity sublime
 Which we trust is now rewarded in a fair Elysian clime.

THE LAMENT OF AN UNEMPLOYED MARK MASTER MASON.

In the quarries of life, many years I have wrought;
 And at length to the market my labour I've brought,
 But the answer I got, I could scarcely believe:
 "Your work may be good, 'tis not what I can receive."

I've made fair work, also square work,
 In my age, as I had in my youth;
 And tried, mark well what I now tell,
 To hew out the Keystone of Truth.

Denied at the East gate, I then turned to the South;
 Five children must have food to put into their mouth,
 I succeeded no better, our wants to relieve;
 "'Twas good work, although not the kind he could receive."

I've done fair work, also square work,
 In manhood, likewise in my youth;
 And worked, mark well, many a spell,
 To polish the Keystone of Truth.

Not discouraged as yet, I still hoped for the best,
 Though now weak and weary, bend my steps to the West;
 But the effort was vain, for no work could I leave,
 "'Twas new work, and true work, but he did not receive."

Said 'twas fair work, but not square work,
 Such he had know from his youth;
 Yet still, mark well what I now tell,
 It was the right Keystone of Truth.

'Tis a sad and hard fate, to a sensitive mind,
 To have all your best efforts heaved over behind;
 Though quite willing to work, no employment receive,
 Nor yet find any place, were your work you can leave.

Vain my square work, vain my fair work,
 "I've lost all my labour," from youth;
 But friends, mark well what I now tell,
 "Grave your mark on the Keystone of Truth."

But I will not despair, the Great Architect above
 Is full of long suffering, to boundless mercy and love,
 And in His own good time, He will open some hearts,

To find me a place, if I pursue the right path.
 Still making fair work, keeping to square work,
 N'er forgetting any maxim of youth;
 Still to mark well what at the end befell,
 Those who adhered to the Keystone of Truth.

Remember, a time came, when the builder did send,
 And proved the disconsolate workman's best friend;
 Call'd him to the market, all his wants to relieve;
 Showing his was the work, they were bound to receive.

Praised his fair work, good as square work,
 Pride of the old, joy of the youth;
 Let all mark well what then befell,
 Placing his mark on the Keystone of Truth.

Mark the change for the man, so lately neglected,
 Now his work is well-known, by all Masons respected,
 Bid Fame sound her trumpet, let no man now stop her,
 Let his praise be sung from Jerusalem to Joppa.

Praise his fair work, praise his square work,
 Make glad his age, sad was his youth;
 Courage then, mark well, all this befell;
 Bide then by the Keystone of Truth.

L. Pulvermacher, 200, Regent-street, London, W. A Test on Loan sent gratis if required. Caution.—Spurious Electric Appliances being advertised by Quack Doctors, Patients should consult Pulvermacher's Pamphlet on that subject (free by post), embodying other most interesting matter for those suffering from Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Functional Disorders, &c., &c.—[Advt.]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Weakening Weather.—The sultry summer days strain the nerves of the feeble and decrepit, which state eventuates in disease, unless some restorative, such as these purifying Pills, be found to correct the disordering tendency. Holloway's medicine gives tone to the nervous system, which is the source of all vital movements, and presides over every action which maintains the growth and well-being of the body. No one can therefore over-estimate the necessity of keeping the nerves well strung, and the ease with which these Pills accomplish that end is borne witness to by thousands dwelling in hot climates, whose lives have been saved and whose lives have been spared.—[Advt.]

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry.
THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundress, that it is the finest Starch they ever used.
When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

FIELD'S WALNUT CRINTINCTU.—Under the patronage of Royalty and the Aristocracy throughout Europe
This preparation warranted perfectly harmless, dyes the hair perma-

PRICE'S BENZODYNE— THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH 2 LOWER SEYMOUR ST. W.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED Principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases, and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's Medicine Chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1/6d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 21s., by all

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided: a soft bandage being wound round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep.
A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it REQUIRES NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place

For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies. The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

OPiates, Natives, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such vicious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

Select Testimonial.—Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 1s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

A CO-OPERATIVE DISCOUNT OF TWENTY PER CENT TO BROTHERS.

FOR GOUT.—Use Oil of HORSE CHESNUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6 and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT.—Drink WIDDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 2/6 per bottle; 15s. per dozen.
FOR INDIGESTION.—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/1½ per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11s. per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION.—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

Furness, Past and Present; its History and Antiquities. Part I. By G. MARKHAM TWEDDELL, F.S.A. Published by J. Richardson, Barrow-in-Furness.

Bro. Tweddell, the eminent antiquarian, is again delving in the rich mines of the past, and illustrating the prosaic facts of the present by the results of his untiring researches.

The important district of Lancashire, now known as Furness, comprises an area fertile in relics of a former age, as well as in actual evidences of material wealth, and in compiling its history, Bro. Tweddell is not insensible to its varied claims upon our interest as a land full of historical reminiscences, as well as a centre of commercial activity. The work, in such experienced hands, is sure to be well and faithfully done, and judging from the illustrations already given, which include a splendid portrait of His Grace the Duke of Devonshire, to whom the history is dedicated, as well as views of well-known spots in the locality, we may safely say that the artist's skill will be found worthy of the rich intellectual treat which the author is preparing for all lovers of antiquarian studies.

The issue will be complete in twenty monthly parts, and each part will contain three full-page engravings, either portraits of distinguished residents or views of the principal objects of interests in Furness, and the surrounding neighbourhood, which is celebrated for its magnificent scenery.

Hogg's Secret Code for Letters or Telegrams.

Hogg, 122, Fleet-street.

The system designed by this enterprising publisher is, though simple, certainly the most effective yet introduced to public notice, and must prove invaluable to all who have occasion to communicate secretly with others, as it obviates the possibility of the cipher being read unless the receiver of the message has a previous arrangement with the sender. By the adoption of a key word the interpretation is perfectly easy, without it, quite impossible. We cordially commend the code to the attention of our readers at home and abroad.

THE BOOK EGYPT.

There is enough of symbolism in Freemasonry to excite in the minds of thoughtful Masons, who "make the liberal arts and sciences their study," to induce them to extend their enquiries into the systems of theosophy and morality, in which symbolism was more largely and reconditely employed. The field of investigation is a very large one. All the ancient teachers of wisdom made use of symbols in the initiation of aspirants, and in all their subsequent education; and none of the ancient philosophers or theosophies can be understood by one who is ignorant of symbolic science. Egypt was the cradle of this science, and it is to that extraordinary country that we trace back the preservation and promulgation of what is called occult science, or Hermetic Magianism. Eliphas Levi has much and curious learning on this interesting subject in his work, "Histoire de la Magie," and it occurs to me that a translation of a small portion of what he has written may be interesting to some of the readers of THE FREEMASON.

It is in Egypt, as he observes, that magianism is complete as a universal science, with its dogmas systematically and perfectly formulated. Nothing surpasses, nothing even equals, as a resumé of all the doctrines of the old world, the few sentences engraved on a precious stone by Hermes, and known as The Emerald Table. The unity of being and the unity of harmonies, whether ascending or descending the progressive and proportional ladder of the Word; the immutable law of equilibrium, and the proportional progress of universal analogies; the agreement of the idea with the Word, giving the measure of agreement between the Creator and the created; the necessary mathematics of infinity proved by the measure of a single corner of the finite; all this is expressed in a single proposition by the Egyptian hierophant:—

"That which is superior like that which is inferior, and that which is below like that which is above, go to form the wonders of the whole."

Then comes the revelation and learned description of the creative agent—of the pantomorphian fire, of the principal means of the occult power, in a word, of the astral light. "The sun is its father, the moon is its mother, the wind bore it in its womb."

Thus, this light emanates from the sun, receives its regular motion and influences from the moon, and has the atmosphere for its receptacle and prison. "The earth is its nurse." That is to say, it is balanced and put in motion by the central heat of the earth. "It is the universal principal, the TELESMA of the world."

Hermes next teaches how this light, which is also a force, may be used as a lever and a universal dissolvent; also as a formative and coagulative agent.

How this light must, from bodies wherein it is latent, be drawn, in the condition of fire, of motion, of splendour, of luminous gas, of ardent water, and, finally, of ignited earth, to imitate, by the aid of these divers substances, all the creations of nature.

The Emerald Table is the whole of magianism in a single page.

The other works attributed to Hermes, such as Gymandre, Asclepius, &c., are generally believed by critics to be productions of the Alexandrian school. They nevertheless contain the Hermetic traditions preserved in the sanctuaries of theurgy. The doctrines of Hermes cannot be lost to those who have the keys of symbolism.

The ruins of Egypt are like scattered pages, which we may yet collect, and with them reconstruct the entire Book; a prodigious book whose capital letters were temples, whose phrases were cities, punctuated with obelisks and sphinxes.

The division of Egypt was a magian synthesis; the names of its provinces corresponded to the figures of the sacred numbers: upper Egypt, a figure of the celestial world and country of the extatics; lower Egypt, a symbol of the earth; and middle or central, Egypt, the country of science and of high initiations. Each of these three parts was divided into ten provinces, called Nomes, and placed under the special protection of gods. These gods, thirty in number, grouped in threes, express, symbolically, all the conceptions of the ternary in the decade, that is to say, the triple signification—natural, philosophical and religious—of the absolute ideas primitively attached to numbers. Thus, the triple unity, or the original ternary; the triple binary, or the reflection of the triangle, which forms the star of Solomon; the triple ternary, or the whole idea under each of its three terms; the triple quaternary, that is to say the cyclical number of the astral revolutions, &c. The geography of Egypt, under Sesostrius, is a pantacle, that is to say, a symbolical resumé of all the magian dogma of Zoroaster, recovered and formulated by Hermes.

The land of Egypt was a great book, and the teachings of this book were repeated, translated in painting, in sculpture, in architecture, in all the towns and in all the temples. Even the desert had its eternal teachings, and its word of stone is seated at the base of the pyramids, those limits of human intelligence before which a colossal sphynx has for so many ages seemed to meditate, while slowly burying itself in the sand. Its head, mutilated by the ages that have passed over it, still continues above its tomb, as if waiting for a human voice to come and explain the problem of the pyramids to the new world.

Egypt is to us the cradle of science and wisdom; she clothes the dogmas of the first Zoroaster with images, if not richer, at least truer and chaster, than those of India. The sacredotal art, and the royal art there formed adepts by initiation, and initiation was not confined within the egotistic limits of castes. There, the Hebrew slave was seen to initiate himself, and arrive at the rank of prime minister; perhaps of high priest, for he espoused the daughter of an Egyptian priest, and the priesthood never misallied themselves. Joseph realised in Egypt the idea of communism; he rendered the priesthood and the state the sole proprietors of land, and consequently the arbiters of labour and of riches. He thus abolished misery, and made the whole of Egypt one patriarchal family. Joseph, it is known, owed his elevation to his skill in the interpretation of dreams, a science in which the Christians of our day refuse to believe, although they admit that the Bible, in which the wonderful divinations of Joseph are recorded, is the word of the Holy Spirit.

The absolute hieroglyphic science had for its basis an alphabet in which all the gods were letters, all the letters ideas, all the ideas numbers, and all the numbers perfect signs.

This hieroglyphic alphabet, with which Moses formed the great secret of his Cabala, and which he took from the Egyptians (for according to the Sepher Jezirah it came from Abraham)—this alphabet is the famous Book of Thot, believed by Count de Gébelin to exist in our own day under, the form of that droll pack of cards called the tarot.

Moses tells us that when the Israelites came out of Egypt, they carried away with them the sacred vases of the Egyptians. That story is allegorical, for the great prophet would not have encouraged his people in theft. The sacred vases were the secrets of the Egyptian science, which Moses had learnt at the Court of Pharaoh. Far from us be the idea of attributing to magianism the miracles wrought by the inspired man of God; but the Bible itself tells us that Jannes and Jambres, the magicians of Pharaoh, that is to say, the learned priests of Egypt, accomplished by their art marvels similar to some of his miracles. They changed wands into serpents, and serpents into wands. They changed water into blood, and they brought forth an immense quantity of frogs, but they could not produce the flies nor the lice. They acknowledged themselves beaten.

Moses triumphed, and led the Israelites out of the land of slavery. At that epoch, the true science was lost in Egypt, because the priests, abusing the confidence of the people, permitted them to fall into a state of brutalising idolatry. That was the great lapse of esoterism. They should have thrown a veil over the truth to the eyes of the people, without hiding it; they should have guarded symbolism from the degradation of absurdity; they should have preserved the sacred veil of Isis in all its pristine beauty. But that was what the Egyptian priesthood were not capable of doing. They degenerated, by degrees, until at length, the hieroglyphic forms of Osiris and Anubis were taken for living realities; Osiris became an ox, was led about under the title of the Apian bull, and the priests permitted the people to worship that which had been intended for their food.

WILLIAM CARPENTER.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES AT READING.

Royalty—if it has its cares and responsibilities, has its pleasures, and we should imagine few events could afford greater pleasure to each and any member of the reigning family than the reception which the people of Reading accorded to their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales on Friday, the 1st inst. The town literally gave itself up to rejoicing, and the loyalty of the inhabitants knew no bounds. The enthusiasm which the Royal visit evoked was most gratifying, and spoke eloquently of the affection with which the Royal Family are regarded by the people. The hearty cheering, too, betokened even more than the gay devices and other demonstrations of welcome, the genuine pleasure which the presence of the illustrious visitors inspired. The 1st of July, 1870, will henceforth be a memorable day in the history of Reading, and among the towns and cities of England, Reading will be ever conspicuous for its display of loyalty and proof of its affection for the Throne.

Speaking in general terms, the decorations were exceedingly numerous, and in many instances handsome. Some of the triumphal arches were most elaborately ornamented, and at many of the private residences great expense had been incurred. At the Town Hall the decorations were of a very elegant description.

Considering that this was the first occasion on which his Royal Highness has laid a stone in the capacity of Past Grand Master of Freemasons, it was certainly a happy arrangement that the arch under which the Royal party passed immediately after their arrival in the borough, should have been erected at the cost of the Masonic brethren of Reading, and ornamented with the signs and emblems peculiar to the Craft. The arch was erected in Friar-street, at the entrance of the road leading to the Great Western Railway Station, and the Company kindly removed the centre pier and gates to permit of its construction. Bro. Chas. Smith, P.S.W., architect, of Friar-street, furnished the design, and Mr. Sheppard, of Greyfriars'-road, was the builder. The entire roadway was spanned by a gothic arch, with the words "Hearty welcome" towards the railway-station, so that it could be distinctly seen on entering the town, and the Masonic sentiment, "Hearty good wishes M.W.G.P.M.," towards Friar-street, seen on the return route. Above the apex of the arch were the plume and motto "Ich dien," supported by an imitation of the regalia worn by his Royal Highness in his Masonic capacity. The side arches had on one face the Masonic arms, and on the other the Royal arms, with the various emblems of the Craft. The flags were also enriched with Masonic symbols, formed into trophies above the arches. The piers were covered with fir-tree evergreens and laurel margins, and the arch with evergreens and flowers. The decorative portion of the work was performed by Messrs. Mills and Sons, of 66, Amelia-street, Watworth, and was very tastefully executed, Bro. Smith being perfectly satisfied with the way in which his beautiful design was carried out.

The trowel was presented by two lodges and was the joint design of the Provincial Grand Secretaries Bros. W. Biggs and G. Botly, P.P.G.S.W., the latter of whom manufactured the trowel. At the top of the plate of the trowel is a Grand Master's emblem, and in the centre is a beautiful engraving of the Reading Grammar School; it bears the following inscription:—"Presented by the Freemasons of Reading, Lodges 414 and 1101, to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G., P.G.M. of England, on the occasion of his setting the principal stone of the Reading Schools, July 1st, 1870." At the base of the plate is attached a massive ivory handle magnificently carved. The trowel is a masterpiece of artistic work.

The mallet, which is now in the possession of the Provincial Grand Secretary, was the work of Mr. Fuller, of 6, St. Mary's Butts. It is made of Australian cedar, and inlaid with a piece of "Herne's Oak," the coronet on the handle being of tulip wood. On the 19th May, 1837, the County of Berks was enrolled as a Masonic Province by H.R.H. the late Duke of Sussex, the then Grand Master of England, and John Ramsbottom, Esq., (afterwards M.P. for Windsor), was installed as the first Provincial Grand Master, at which meeting his son, Captain Ramsbottom, was invested the first Senior Grand Warden. This piece of cedar from which the mallet was made, was brought from Australia by Captain Ramsbottom, and purchased from him by the Mr. Fuller before named. It will therefore ever carry with it a peculiar significance, as not only being one of the first set of operative tools ever used by H.R.H. as a Mason, but made from wood brought to this country by the first Senior Grand Warden, and son of the first Provincial Grand Master of the Province of Berks and Bucks.

A monster tent was erected over the centre of the buildings, and seats were erected all round. A raised dais on the east side of the stone was handsomely fitted up for the occasion, and State chairs were placed for the Prince and Princess. The wings of the dais were occupied by the suite, and visitors accompanying the Royal party. On the Prince and Princess entering the reception hall, the company rose and remained standing. The Mayor and Corporation, Borough Magistrates, School Trustees, High Sheriff of Berks, Lord Lieutenant of Berks, the Bishop of the Diocese, Members of Parliament, Mayors of Boroughs, and others took their places. As the Junior Lodge of Freemasons arrived at the entrance of the tent, the members remained stationary, opening right and left, and so on with all the lodges to the Provincial Grand Lodge, which advanced through all the lodges and entered the tent, followed by the other lodges in seniority. The Mayor and Town Clerk approached the dais, and an address was read to his Royal Highness.

The PRINCE, who was loudly cheered, said,—Mr. Mayor, my Lords, Ladies, and Gentlemen,—I desire to record my cordial thanks for your address, and to assure you on the part of the Princess and myself of the pleasure it affords us to visit a town so conspicuous in the pages of English history. It is most gratifying to me to co-operate with you, gentlemen, in securing for your town the benefits contemplated by the Royal Founders of this ancient school. In extending to Reading and its county the advantages of a middle class education, you are providing an education, which, if conducted on sound principles must conduce to the welfare and happiness of all who desire to profit by them, and that this result is anticipated, is satisfactorily indicated by the amount of contributions already subscribed. For myself, I sincerely trust that the good work for which we are now assembled to lay the first stone, may, under God's blessing, prosper, and accomplish its purpose. It will at least prove to a succeeding generation, that we on our part have striven with all our hearts and all our means to ripen the good seed sown by our fathers upwards of 300 years ago. (Loud cheers.)

During the whole of the time the Royal party were in the tent, the wind blew boisterously, and it was almost impossible to hear what was said. The Prince looked remarkably well, and the Princess, who wore a dress of muslin over pink silk, and a pink bonnet, appeared to be in excellent health. They were both heartily cheered and repeatedly bowed to the company. Her Royal Highness held in her hands a large bouquet, also a beautifully bound copy of the programme.

The tent was crowded with members of the principal county families, and those who were present at the luncheon. Seats were placed on three sides of a square, and in the centre, on the dais, were arranged a number of foliage plants. The Royal seats were placed in the east, and chairs for the Royal suite were arranged in front of the tiers which were occupied by the Freemasons.

The Prince and Princess evidently appreciated the warm reception accorded to them, and repeatedly acknowledged the cheers which were given, and frequently smiled. The whole assembly, which rose on their Royal Highnesses entering the tent, remained standing during the ceremony.

The Mayor (having received from the hands of the Provincial Grand Master the trowel), in the name of the School Trustees, asked the Prince to proceed with the ceremony of laying the stone, handing the trowel and presenting the same on behalf of the Freemasons of Reading. The architect presented to the Prince a plan of the buildings, after which the Grand Chaplain advanced and offered up prayer. The Grand Secretary deposited a vessel containing specimens of all the gold, silver, and copper coins of the present reign, and the Town Clerk deposited a vessel hermetically sealed, containing records, &c. When both were deposited, the following hymn, composed for the occasion by Mr. W. Blake Atkinson, and set to a chorale of the late Prince Consort by Mr. W. H. Strickland, was sung by the Philharmonic Society:—

O Lord, to Thee our prayer addressing,
We, here assembled, humbly ask
That Thou wilt grant Thy fruitful blessing,
Henceforth to rest upon our task.

Throughout this work, Thy care extending,
With ever-watchful eye look down;
Its progress, from all harm defending,
With Thine almighty favour crown.

Upon this spot both sow and nourish,
Within the heart of early youth,
The seeds of learning that shall flourish
In harvest-fields of golden truth.

May they, to manhood's year's attaining,
Their country's welfare keep in view;
Her virtue and her right maintaining,
In distant days her fame renew.

Be it their best, their sole endeavour
Thy will to do, Thy will to love;
Till all their labours end for ever,
Within thy realm of rest above. Amen.

The plumb-line was then applied by His Royal Highness, and having done so, the Prince said:—"May the Great Architect of the Universe enable us successfully to carry on and finish the work of which we have now laid the principal stone, and every other undertaking which may tend to the advantage of the Borough of Reading and this neighbourhood, and may this school be long preserved from peril and decay, diffusing its light and influence to generations yet unborn." The brethren responded, "So mote it be." The Grand Master then delivered to the Prince a Cornucopia, and the Senior Grand and Junior Wardens, the Golden Ewers, with wine and oil. The Prince having spread corn on the stone, poured out wine and oil, conformably to ancient custom, saying: "May the bountiful Hand of Heaven ever supply this country with abundance of corn, wine, and oil, and all necessities and comforts of this life." The brethren again responded, "So mote it be."

Prayer was then offered by the Lord Bishop of Oxford, the Philharmonic Society repeating the responses.

The ceremony concluded with the "Hallelujah Chorus," performed by the band of the Grenadier Guards and the members of the Philharmonic Society.

The Treasurer to the school then presented to the Senior Master Builder (Mr. Parnell a purse of gold, saying that it was the pleasure of the Prince that those who have hewed the stones, and those who have laid them, and all who have assisted, should "rejoice in the light."

A recherche repast was served up at the Town-hall by Mr. George, confectioner, King-street. The tables were loaded with every delicacy, and on the Royal table was placed a handsome massive silver gilt service, gratuitously supplied to Mr. Bracher, jeweller, Minster-street.

On the arrival of the Prince and Princess at the Town Hall, their Royal Highnesses were loudly cheered, and were received by the Mayor and Mayoress. The Mayor had the honour of escorting the Princess to the dining hall, and the Mayoress was graciously led by the Prince, followed by the distinguished visitors.

During the luncheon the band of the Grenadier Guards performed a choice selection of music. After the luncheon grace was said by the Lord Bishop of Oxford.

The Princess of Wales was so pleased with the ice biscuits set before her by Mr. George, that her Royal Highness requested him to finish her with the recipe, which he accordingly did, and the Mayor intends forwarding a supply to Marlborough House, for her Royal Highness's use.

THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE

Was attended by several hundred members of various Provinces, and presided over by the R.W. the Pro. Grand Master of Berks and Bucks (Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P.), who thanked the brethren who had come from a distance to be present on this auspicious occasion. He also referred to the handsome arch at the railway gates, as reflecting great credit upon the Masons of Reading, at whose cost it had been erected. Bro. Weightman, M.W., handed to the Grand Master the silver trowel designed by Br. Biggs, P.G., Sec., and manufactured by Br. Botly, requesting him to present it to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as the gift of the Freemasons of Reading.

The officers and brothers present in the Pro. Grand Lodge, whose names we were able to glean, included His Grace the Duke of Manchester, P.G.M. of Hunts and Northampton; Colonel Burdett, P.G.M. for Middlesex; Bros. W. T. Mercer, Past P.G.M. (China), Bagshaw, P.G.M. Essex; Perkins, P.G. Warden of England; Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G. Chaplain of England; also Past Grand Chaplains Bros. Ross, R. J. Simpson, Drs. Cox and Ravenshaw; Bros. the Rev. J. R. D. Fidler, P.G.C.; Rev. T. Barton, Assistant Grand Chaplain of the Province; Rev. A. P. Purey-Cust, Chaplain of Union Lodge; J. Harvey, Grand Secretary of England; Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., Grand Master Berks and Bucks; Rev. Sir John Warren Hayes, Bart., Deputy Prov. Grand Master Berks and Bucks; S. Wittey, D.P.G.M. of Wiltshire; Capt. Brydges, D.P.G.M. Somerset; D'Almaine, S.G.W. Berks and Bucks; W. Biggs, Provincial Grand Secretary Berks and Bucks; Holden, G. Treasurer; Weightman, S.G.D.; Pennicott and Wise, G. Stewards; R. Bradley, P.G.P.; R. Gibbons, P.M.; W. H. Cave, P.M.; F. G. Hall, G. Boyer, G. Purs.; G. Botly, P.G.D.; J. Blowers, P.G.S.B.; Belcher, P.P.G.W. Oxfordshire; Rev. S. M. Barkwork, Rev. J. N. Palmer, P.P. G. Chaplain Oxfordshire; W. Smith, P.P.S. England; W. C. Bland, P.M.; J. W. Hounslow, P.M.; A. Beale, P.M.; B. Fielder, S.W. 574; G. J. Cosburn, Sec. 574; Morland, P.M.; Hodges, P.M.; Tombs, P.G. Sec. Wiltshire; Strickland, P.G.O.; Dyson, P.G.O.; Smith, P.G.S.W.; C. Wheeler, S.D.; R. Johnston, J.W.; J. Bance, J.D.; A. Burns, Steward 574; H. E. Astley, Trendell, Rogers, &c. The whole demonstration was, without doubt, one of the grandest, viewed in a Masonic light, which has ever been witnessed in this country.

The entire Masonic arrangements devolved upon Bro. W. Biggs, of 6, Duke-street, Reading, the energetic Prov. Grand Secretary Berks and Bucks, and they were certainly carried out in a manner that reflected on him the greatest credit.—Extracted from the Reading Mercury.

SUMMER BANQUET OF LODGE SINCERITY, No. 189, PLYMOUTH.

On Friday evening, the 24th ult., the members of this lodge held their customary summer banquet at the Duke of Cornwall Hotel, Plymouth. The W.M., Captain Shanks, R.M., presided, and there were present the Rev. John Huyshe, M.A., the Prov. Grand Master of Devon, Bro. Metham, D.P.G.M., and several visiting brethren, and most of the members of the lodge. The toasts were the customary toasts of Freemasons' banquets, and they were pleasantly given from the Master's chair, and by the several brethren to whom some of them were confided. In proposing "The Prince of Wales and the Craft," the W.M. threw out a suggestion that it would be a gratifying thing to Plymouth if His Royal Highness could be induced, as he was Lord High Steward of the Borough, to lay the foundation-stone of the new Guildhall. The suggestion was received with cheers. Captain Shanks hoped it would not be unacceptable to the Mayor. The W. Master next proposed "The Right Worshipful the Prov. Grand Master of Devon" in terms warmly eulogistic, and the toast was received with enthusiasm.

The R.W. Grand Master, in returning thanks, expressed his gratitude, because theirs was the first lodge in the province which met together for the purpose of discussing the very important movement he meant to bring forward in the Provincial Grand Lodge. He might, perhaps, be excused if he adverted to a matter of some importance which would have to be discussed in the Provincial Grand Lodge. Hitherto there had not been more than a certain sum subscribed to the Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge of England received 2s. a year for every member, and the Provincial Grand Lodge could not demand more than the same amount. He had been a Freemason getting on for fifty years, and he had always been told that the grand object of Freemasonry was charity, and he believed there was more charity exercised by them than by any other body in England. But when they came to be told that the whole of their organised charity consisted of a subscription of less than 1d. per week, they would think that a very small sum indeed. Yet every small sum, when distributed over a large community, made, in the aggregate, a large sum. Hitherto in this province they had only paid three-farthings a week to the whole of their charities, and he intended to propose at the next meeting of the Grand Lodge to make a subscription of one penny a week. That would be one shilling a year more for each member, and if that were multiplied by 1,700, the number of members in the province, it would make a large sum. Freemasons were not men in the humblest state of life; indeed, it had been remarked that it was a great luxury for a man to be a Freemason, and it was not much to ask him to pay a penny a week in the enjoyment of that luxury. Half of this sum would go to the Grand Lodge of England, and half to the Grand Lodge of Devon. Should this proposal be assented to, they might distribute the funds in any way that might be acceptable. Freemasonry was progressive, as it ought to be. Formerly they had had charity by hundreds, but now they had it by thousands; and he gave as an instance of this progress the fact that, during the last two years, £23,000 had been subscribed for the boys' school alone. He was anxious that the province of Devon should not be taunted with doing less for the charities than any other province, in proportion to its numbers, in the kingdom. If the province decided to subscribe the additional farthing, it would enable them to elect at least two, and probably three annuitants, at ten shillings a week, on the Fortescue annuity fund. If they could do that, he should have an answer to give to all those in London who now taunted them with the backwardness of their subscriptions in Devon. (Applause.) The Right Worshipful Master concluded by expressing an earnest hope that the brethren would give his motion their cordial support at the forthcoming meeting of the Grand Lodge.

Bro. C. Gibson, P.M., next proposed the health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Devon, Bro. L. P. Metham, in warmly eulogistic terms, briefly descanting on the great services that he had rendered to Freemasonry.

Bro. Metham, having acknowledged the compliment, urged the brethren to support the P.G. Master in his proposition, not only out of regard to him personally and respect for his opinion on a subject of which he was completely master, but for the honour of the province, and for the relief of the poorer brethren, their widows and orphans. He remarked that in this utilitarian age the public would not be satisfied with mere professions, but had a right to expect, looking at the number and respectability of the members of the lodge, that they should do more in support of the great principles of the Order than they had yet done. Although they had done more for the aged Freemasons and their widows than for the other charities, yet what they had done was little indeed when weighed against the benefits which their distressed brethren in the province had received. He showed that they had now twelve annuitants on the list receiving nearly £400 a year between them—(hear, hear)—and that, as a province, they had absolutely done nothing whatever for the boys' school, while for that of the girls they had only two votes previous to his stewardship in May last, when five votes were added. Yet they were never without candidates, and the number was certain to increase. (Applause.) He protested that it was not true, as had been stated, that there was the slightest desire on the part of the Prov. Grand Master, or his Deputy, to do away with the festive board; on the contrary, they both supported refreshment in moderation, as a means of bringing those brethren together who might never otherwise know each other, and of creating a kindly feeling. That it had been a pleasure to him to accept the invitation of every lodge, whether after lodge or at the annual festivals, and so had the Provincial Grand Master, thus showing that they cordially admitted the principle. He contended, however, that refreshments ought to be secondary to the great object of Masonry, charity; that they would be reduced in a very small degree, and their enjoyment would be enhanced by an additional shilling being added to the provincial dues from each member, to be given to great Masonic charities for the relief of their distressed brethren, their widows and orphans. At the same time the brethren would understand that, under no circumstances, would the Provincial Grand Lodge fees be increased beyond the additional shilling now asked. He laid great stress on this point, as the only argument used by the leader of the opposition to the Provincial Grand Master's proposition, Bro. Watts, rested solely on the fear that this was a covert attack on refreshments altogether. Bro. Metham then warned the brethren that the opposition to the plan of the Provincial Grand Master was but the stepping stone to a wider and wilder scheme for the division of the province into two parts. He informed the brethren that Bro. Watts, at the meeting recently held, read a resolution to that effect, which he pledged himself to support in Grand Lodge. He concluded by avowing his belief that the brethren of Devonshire would support their Provincial Grand Master, whom they had so much cause to revere; and by supporting him, show their attachment to the principles of the Order. He also corroborated what the Provincial Grand Master had stated, as to the complaints that were made in London of the low position the province of Devon held on the list of Masonic charities. The remarks of Bro. Metham were exceedingly well received. He then proposed the health of the W. Master, which was drunk amidst the warmest applause.

The W. Master returned thanks, and expressed the gratification he felt in presiding over the lodge. Although he had more than 350 miles to travel, he meant to be present on every occasion of business that he possibly could, and he would carry out the duties of his office to the best of his ability.

Other toasts followed. Bro. Latimer proposed "The I. P. Master and P.M.'s of the Lodge," and, in doing so, expressed the satisfaction of the lodge at the earnest and faithful manner in which Bro. F. P. Balkwill had performed the duties of his office. With regard to the question of the charities, he was glad to hear the proposal of the Provincial Grand Master, and it would have his warmest support.

Bro. Balkwill very ably responded, and a number of other excellent speeches contributed to a pleasant and well-spent evening.

The arrangements at the hotel were in every respect satisfactory, and reflected credit on its management.

METROPOLITAN.

Lion and Lamb Lodge, No. 192.—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held at the Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Thursday, the 30th ult., Bro. E. Roberts, W.M., in the chair, the officers present being, Bros. George Kenning, S.W., G.S. Middlesex; J. Harris, J.W.; W. Goodyer, P.M., Treas.; J. G. Marsh, P.M., A.G.P. Middlesex, Sec.; F. Trott, S.D.; Geo. Abbott, J.D.; Geo. Newnan, Steward. Amongst the brethren present were, Bros. Chas. Hosgood, P.M.; E. King, P.M.; S. Muggeridge, Chas. Ankell, Geo. Parker, S. Lucas, Thos. Fisher, W. Younger, Chas. Hopkins, S. Haynes, R. E. Bright, J. Hyde; and Bro. E. F. Green, J.W. 475, visitor. The lodge was opened in due form by the W.M. in the first and second degrees, and Bro. Chas. Hopkins being present underwent the usual examination prior to raising in a satisfactory manner; the lodge was opened in the third degree, and the said brother was duly raised to the degree of M.M., the ceremony being performed by Bro. J. G. Marsh, P.M. and Sec. The lodge was then resumed in the first degree. Bro. E. Roberts, W.M., then occupying the chair, and Mr. E. Jones having been ballotted for and approved was regularly initiated into Freemasonry, the work being done in the W.M.'s usual good style. The remaining business of the lodge relative to a proposed summer banquet for which this emergency was called to consider, having been disposed of, the lodge was then closed with solemn prayer, and adjourned till the next regular lodge meeting.

St. Marylebone Lodge, No. 1305.—A meeting of this flourishing lodge was held at the Eyre Arms, St. John's Wood, on the 1st inst., under the presidency of W. Bro. Samuel G. Foxall, P.M. 742, the first W.M., who was supported by Bros. Pope, S.W.; Codner, J.W.; Botting, Treas.; W. Watson (P.M. G. Stewards' Lodge), Sec.; Stringer, S.D.; Chaplin, J.D.; R. Botting, I.G.; A. Emanuel, H. Emanuel, Gutteridge, Williams, Horsford, Byrd, Smith, Shillabeer, Ashwell, Little, Warner, Draper, Young, Baker and Roberts. The visitors were Bros. Fowler (205), Sharman (180), and Major Barlow (940). In the course of the evening Mr. J. L. Baker received the privilege of initiation, and Bros. Smith, Gutteridge, Ashwell, Byrd, Horsford and Shillabeer were admitted to the middle chamber of the Temple, the first three by the W.M., and the remainder by Bro. Codner as locum tenens. It is superfluous to dilate upon the excellent manner in which the work was done by two such experienced Masons as Bros. Foxall and Codner; it need only be said that like Sidney Smith's pea, it was as near perfection as could be. The bye-laws were read seriatim by the W.M., and were severally approved by the brethren. No other business offering, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren retired to a sumptuous banquet, which reflected the utmost credit upon Bro. Young's abilities as a caterer. When the cloth was cleared, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were heartily given and received. The W.M.'s health was proposed in a cordial speech by Bro. Watson, and elicited great applause. Bro. Foxall in returning thanks, expressed his appreciation of the honourable position he held as the first W.M. of the lodge, and enunciated his hopeful belief that the St. Marylebone would be one of the most prosperous and happy lodges in the Craft. The name of "The Initiate," Bro. Baker, was well received, and the new-made brother briefly responded for the compliment. For "The P.M.s" Bro. Wentworth Little replied, and tendered his personal thanks for the high distinction of Honorary Member which had been awarded him by the members of the lodge. Bro. Major Barlow, in a humorous dissertation on Masonry in general, and trans-oceanic Masonry in particular, expressed the gratification of the visitors for their hospitable reception. Bros. Pope and Codner were toasted as the Wardens, and made capital responses. Bro. Stringer, S.D., acknowledged the next toast, viz., "The healths of the Officers," and "The Tyler's" toast, by Bro. Woodstock, brought to a close the harmonious proceeding of this very pleasant reunion.

MIDDLESEX.

ISLEWORTH.—Villiers Lodge, No. 1194.—This lodge held a meeting at the Northumberland Arms Hotel, Isleworth, on the 2nd inst. The chair was occupied by Bro. E. Clark, P.M., and amongst others present we observed, Bros. W. Dodd, S.W.; H. Allman, J.W.; Wentworth Little, Sec.; E. T. Osbaldeston, S.D.; F. J. Lancaster, J.D.; T. Smale, I.G.; Major Palmer, Steward; R. A. Steel, D.C.; F. Walters, P.M. Bro. R. G. Green was passed to the second degree, after which Bro. Little raised Bros. Woodbridge, Ridge, Forsyth, T. L. Green and Verity. The suffrages of the brethren were unanimously in favour of Bro. W. Dodd as W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Clark, P.M., was re-elected Treas., and J. Gilbert, Tyler. Bros. Walters, Palmer and Verity, were chosen as Auditors. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a cold collation and tea, separating at an early hour. The only visitors present were Bros. W. R. Woodman, M.D., (P.M. 79), and W. H. Hubbard (P.M. 173).

Harrow Lodge, No. 1310.—This lodge met on Tuesday, July 5th, at the Railway Hotel, Harrow. Bro. J. Couits, W.M. and A.G.P., presided. The work done was passing Bros. H. J. Clare and S. Cornham, and raising Bros. F. K. Darke, F. W. Tyns, and A. L. Devereux (169). Bro. G. Pym, I.G., was elected W.M.; G. Cattall, P.M., re-elected Treasurer; and J. Bavin, P.M., re-elected Tyler. The lodge was then closed. Present, besides those named: Bros. F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; W. H. Green, J.W.; E. Harper, S.D.; S. Homewood, J.D.; J. Smith, J. Harrison, T. Brewer, J. C. Hall, F. Harrison, and others. Visitors: C. Long, 135; A. L. Devereux, 169, &c.

PROVINCIAL.

HINCKLEY.—Knights of Malta Lodge, No. 50.—The regular meeting of this old lodge was held at the Town Hall, Hinckley, on Wednesday, the 29th ult. The W.M., Bro. Rev. W. Langley, in the chair. Bros. Hopkinson as S.W., Davis, P.M., as J.W.; Newgent, W.M. of the Nuneaton Lodge, as S.D.; Hackett as J.D.; T. Harold, I.G. There was a very good attendance of brethren, including R. W. Bro. Kelly, P.G.M. of Leicestershire, and Bros. Cotman, Clarke, Atkins, Griffiths, Davis, and Geo. Clarke, P.M. Bro. Trim was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. Bro. T. Atkins was passed to the second degree, and Rev. P. H. Phelps, M.A., Curate in charge of the parish church, was initiated. Several propositions of joining brethren were made, and great hopes were expressed that several influential gentlemen in the district would be proposed as candidates for initiation when the lodge meets after the summer recess. The W.M. then proceeded to invest Bro. Hopkinson as S.D., and Bro. Hackett as J.D., both brethren being excellent Masons. The lodge being closed, most of the brethren adjourned to supper at the George Hotel. The warrant of confirmation for the Mark Lodge, which has been worked from time immemorial with the Knights of Malta Craft Lodge, has just arrived from the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters of England and Wales; and under the rule of so good a Mason as Bro. Kelly, the Prov. G. Mark Master for Leicestershire, the Knights of Malta Mark Lodge, No. 30, will soon be in good working order.

WARRINGTON.—Lodge of Lights, No. 148.—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, June 27th, at the Masonic Rooms. In the absence of the W.M., Bro. Finney, I.P.M., took the chair, and was supported by Bros. W. Richardson, J.W. 1250, as S.W.; Jas. Jackson, J.W.; John Bowes, P.M., &c.; Jos. Maxfield, P.M.; W. Mossop, W.M. 1250; P. Pearce, J.D.; J. Harding, I.G.; W. Crompton, S. Hunt, Chief Constable; W. Woods, S.W. 1250; A. F. Huttman, C. Ekkert, W. H. Robinson, W. S. Hawkins, S.D. 1250; John Fair, Jos. Taylor, Jas. Hannah, P. G. Edleston (1250), Jas. Johnson, Tyler. The lodge was duly opened, the minutes read and confirmed, and then raised to the third degree, when Bro. Bowes assumed the chair, and gave the completion of the sublime degree of M.M. to Bros. Hunt and Fair. Their being no further business, the lodge was closed.

ROCHFORD.—Lodge of True Friendship, No. 160.—This old lodge held its annual installation meeting in their lodge room, at the Old Ship Inn, Rochford, on Friday, June 24th. The lodge was opened at 3 o'clock. Shortly afterwards the arrival of the R.W. Provincial Grand Master, Bro. R. J. Bagshaw, Esq., was reported, and he was met by his Provincial Grand Officers, past and present, including the P.G. Secretary, Bro. J. G. Carr, who escorted him to his seat in the lodge room in due form. Bro. D. B. Grout, Prov. G.A.D.C., was installed as W.M. for the ensuing year, the ceremony of installation being ably and impressively performed by W. Bro. Wm. Pissey, P.M. 160, and P.P.J.G.W. Essex. The W.M. then appointed his officers as follows: Bros. John W. Carr, the Provincial Grand Secretary of Essex, S.W.; Edward Judd, J.W.; H. Wood, P.M. and P.P.G.O., re-elected Treasurer; Geo. Burgess, P.M. and P.P.J.G.D.; re-appointed Secretary; Albert Lucking, S.D.; Thos. King, J.D.; George Brown, I.G. Before the lodge was closed, a vote of thanks to R.W.P.G. Master for his kindness in honoring the lodge with his presence was proposed by W. Bro. Wm. Allen, P.M., and seconded by W. Bro. Wm. Pissey, P.M., and unanimously carried. The following past and present Provincial Grand Officers, Past Masters, and visitors were present: W. Bro. Wm. Allen, P.M. 160, P.P.G.A.D.C.; H. Wood, P.M. 160, P.P.G.O.; Geo. Burgess, P.M. 160, P.P.J.G.D.; Geo. F. Browning, P.M. 160, P.P.J.G.W.; J. Brazier, P.M. 160, Fred. Wiseman, P.M. 160; Wm. Pissey, P.M. 160, P.P.J.G.W.; W. S. Pavitt, P.M. 160, W.M. 276, Provincial J. G. W.; J. Allen, jun., Paglesham, I.P.M. 160, and P.P.G.S.B.; Jones, P.M.; Peter Richmond, P.M. and P.P.G.D.C.; Garrington, P.M. and P.P.G.S. Works; W. Smith Cox, P.M. 1000, P.P.G.S.B.; B. Notley, W.M. 1000; Jas. Nicholson (276), Woonnam (1000), and Plenty (1000). At the close of the business, the brethren, 30 in number, sat down to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. H. D. Brown, of the Old Ship Inn, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured; some excellent songs were given by Bros. Fred. Wiseman, Brazier, Notley, and others, and the brethren separated, after enjoying a very pleasant evening.

LUTON, BEDFORDSHIRE.—St. John the Baptist Lodge, No. 475.—The installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Town Hall, Luton, on Friday, the 24th ultimo. Bro. Cumberland, W.M., in the chair, supported by his officers, as follows: Bros. Scargill, S.W.; Cawdell, J.W.; E. O. Williams, P.M. and Treas.; E. S. Green, S.D.; J. Catchin, J.D.; J. W. Green, I.G.; including, also, the following members: Bros. W. Phillips, P.M.; E. Austin, P.M.; Haselgrove, Johnson, Benson, Alford, S. Lane, Inwards, Barley, Drew, Adams, Lambie, Wright, and Day, Tyler. The lodge was opened in due form with solemn prayer, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the second degree. Bro. W. Phillips, P.M., occupying the chair as W.M., proceeded to install Bro. Scargill, the Master-elect, as Master of the lodge for the ensuing year. The lodge having been put in the third degree, the said brother was duly installed in the chair of K.S., the ceremony of installation being performed by the presiding P.M. in the most efficient and able manner. The W.M. having been regularly proclaimed according to ancient custom, the new W.M. then, appointed and invested his officers as follows (Bro. Cumberland having been previously invested with the collar of I.P.M.): Bros. Cawdell, S.W.; E. F. Green, J.W.; E. O. Williams, P.M., Treas.; J. Lambie, Sec.; Rev. — Adams, Chaplain; J. Catchin, S.D.; J. W. Green, J.D.; S. Lane, I.G.; Alford, Steward; Day, Tyler. After which the usual addresses were given, which terminated a very excellent and well-worked installation. Bros. Barley and Wright were present as candidates to be passed to the degree of F.C., having shown their proficiency in the former, were duly passed to that degree. There being no further business, the lodge was closed down and adjourned till the next regular lodge meeting. The brethren then retired to the George Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was provided by Bro. Wadsworth, which was presided over by Bro. Scargill, the new W.M. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and ably responded to by the P.M.'s, officers, and visitors—the health and success of the newly-installed W.M. being received with much enthusiasm. The lodge, as well as the festive board, was honoured by the following distinguished visitors: Bros. E. Roberts, W.M. 192; Thos. Riley, 540; Gotto, P.M. 591 and 1087; S. Ballard, W.M. 540; Cookson, S.W. 540; Lucas; and Mortimer, P.G.O., Berks and Bucks, all of whom expressed themselves highly pleased with the hospitality afforded to them by the St. John the Baptist Lodge. The Tyler's toast terminated a most delightful and well-spent evening. It is but fair and our duty to mention that great credit is due to Bro. Wadsworth for the very excellent banquet so specially provided for the occasion, which was of the most recherché description, and, we need scarcely add, gave general satisfaction.

ASHBOURNE.—St. Oswald Lodge, No. 850.—The annual festival of this lodge was duly held on Monday last, the 4th inst., when the W.M.-elect, Bro. James Britton, S.W., was regularly installed by Bro. W. R. Holland, P.M. and D.P.G.S.W. of Derbyshire. Officers: Bros. L. B. Twells, I.P.M.; Benjamin Parkin, S.W.; John Howell, J.W.; L. M. Wood, S.D.; Shute, J.D.; J. S. Whitam, I.G.; J. Ridley, Sec.; William Richard Holland, P.M., D.C.; E. Bradley, Treas.; W. Arnold, Tyler. The master was smaller than on some former occasions, but from letters and telegrams it appeared to be unavoidable. Brethren Captain Hay Pollark, W.M., Hoxeter, and G. A. Rooth, W.M. of the Scarsdale Lodge, No. 681, Chesterfield, were visitors. The ceremony of installation was very ably performed by Bro. Holland. The lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet at the Green Man and Black's Head Hotel, catered by Bro. Wallis in his usual sumptuous style.

MELTON MOWBRAY.—Rutland Lodge, No. 1130.—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was not held in May, and for various reasons the brethren could not meet until Thursday last, when there was a very good attendance. The highly-popular P.G.M., Bro. Kelly, honoured the lodge with his presence. The W.M., Bro. Douglas, took the chair at 6 o'clock. Bros. Fast, S.W.; Bright, J.W.; S. Weaver, S.D.; Barnard, J.D.; Leadbeater, I.G.; and J. C. Clark, Steward, were all in their places. There were also present Bros. Langley, P.M., as Secretary; Oldham, Treasurer; Adcock, and Markham. Bro. Rev. C. H. C. Baker, M.A., was passed, and Mr. James King was initiated. Bro. S. Weaver was elected as Provincial Grand Steward, and the lodge was closed in harmony at 2 o'clock, when Bro. Selby's good catering was duly appreciated.

HALIFAX, YORKSHIRE.—De Warren Lodge, No. 1302.—This lodge held its first regular meeting after its consecration on Monday, the 4th inst. In the absence of the W.M., in consequence of the sudden death of his brother (Bro. S. Firth) on Saturday last, the chair was occupied by Bro. G. Normanton, P.M., P.P.J.G.D., the other officers present being: Bros. Seed, S.W.; D. Whitaker, J.W.; W. Cooke, P.M., Sec.; W. H. D. Horsfall, S.D.; W. Asquith, J.D.; F. Whitaker, P.M., P.G.S., as I.G.; and J. Greenwood, P.M., Tyler. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, votes of condolence were passed to the W.M. on the death of his brother, and also to the widow and family of our deceased brother. All the accounts having been passed, and a committee appointed to draw up a code of bye-laws, it was arranged that no other business should be entered upon, and the lodge was accordingly closed.

ROYAL ARCH.

LEICESTER.—Chapter of Fortitude, No. 279.—A bi-monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Friday, the 1st inst., when, owing to various circumstances, the attendance of Companions was unusually small. A letter of apology was read from Comp. the Rev. Charles J. E. Smith, (Rugby School), Scribe N., expressing regret at his inability to be present, and apologies were also received from several P.Z.'s and other Companions. The officers present were, Comps. L. A. Clarke, M.E.; W. Kelly, P.Z. and P.G. Supt., as H.I., in the absence of Comp. G. H. Hodges; Geo. Toller, jun., J.; Straton, E.; Atwood, as N.; Partridge, P.S.; Rev. Dr. Haeroft, S.A. Soj.; Sculthorpe, jun., A. Soj.; Bembridge Janitor. The chapter having been opened by the Principals and the Companions admitted, a ballot was taken for Bros. R. W. Widdowson and J. Wright Smith, both 1279, who were unanimously elected. Bro. Widdowson was unable to attend owing to absence from the town, but Bro. Smith being present was duly exalted, as was also Bro. Frederic Eachus Wilkinson, M.D., P.M. 181, as W.M. 766, who had been elected at a former meeting. After the conclusion of the ceremony Comp. Toller gave the historical lecture, and Comp. Kelly the symbolic and mystical lectures. Two candidates having been proposed for exaltation, the Chapter was closed with plenary prayer, and adjourned until October.

MARK MASONRY.

MELTON MOWBRAY.—The Howe Lodge, No. 21.—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday, 30th of June. After the confirmation of the minutes of previous meeting, Bro. Kelly, R.W. P.G. Master for Leicestershire, took the chair, and installed Bro. Douglas in the chair of Adoniram in the presence of V.W. Bros. Robinson and Langley, G.Ch.'s. The W.M. then appointed his officers as follows: George Brown, S.W.; W. Adcock, J.W.; Bright, M.O.; Fast, S.O.; Markham, J.O.; Sharman, Sec.; Leadbeater, Treas.; Duncomb, S.D.; Newcome, J.D.; Barnard, I.G. A vote of thanks to Bro. Kelly as Installing Master, who on no occasion has ever spared himself trouble or expense when he could serve the cause of Masonry, was proposed and carried by acclamation. A letter from the Prov. Grand Sec. respecting the lodge going into mourning for Lord Howe was read, and the lodge was closed.

TRURO.—M. M. Lodge No. 78.—The annual meeting of the Fortitude Lodge of Mark Masters was held at the Masonic Hall, Quay-street, Truro, on Thursday, the 30th ult., at six p.m., when the chair was taken by Bro. E. T. Carlyon, P. Prov. G. Reg., the W.M. The lodge was opened in form, and the W.M. and Treasurer were balloted for and elected, and the Tyler was chosen unanimously by the members. After which Bro. W. J. Hughan, P.M. 78, &c., P. Prov. G. Sec., and Past G. Overseer, took the chair, and advanced two brethren to the honourable degree of a Mark Master, in the usual efficient manner for which that brother is so well known. On the conclusion of this interesting ceremony, the W.M. presented the W.M.-elect, Bro. Thomas Solomon, S.W. No. 78, Prov. G. Reg., to Bro. W. J. Hughan, P.M., for the benefit of installation, which was accordingly rendered in ancient form, and Bro. Solomon was saluted and greeted as the W. Master of the Fortitude Lodge for the ensuing year. Bro. Solomon, J.P., made one of his happy and genial speeches on assuming the chair, and having taken the opinion of the Board of Installed Masters—consisting of Bro. W. J. Hughan, P.M.; W. J. Johns, P.M., and E. T. Carlyon, P.M.—proceeded at once to appoint his officers as follows: R. John, S.W.; N. B. Bullin, J.W.; John Jeffry, M.O.; A. W. May, S.O.; J. C. R. Crewes, J.O.; Rev. H. B. Bullocke, M.A., Chap.; William J. Johns, Treas.; W. H. Jenkins, Reg. of Works; J. C. R. Crewes, Sec.; William Middleton, S.D.; N. B. Bullen, Or.; R. Rowe, D.C.; J. Griffin, I.G.; C. Trenthick and K. N. P. Mode, Stewards; John Langdon, Tyler. On the investment of the Treasurer much pleasure was evinced by the members, as the selection of Bro. W. J. Johns, P.M. 78, Prov. G. Warden, for that office has given general satisfaction to them all. The annual banquet was postponed until the next quarterly meeting, as the Prov. G. Lodge for Cornwall (Craft) will meet shortly in Truro. An excellent year for business is expected under the able rule of Bro. Thomas Solomon, J.P., the W. Master.

FALMOUTH.—M. M. Lodge No. 94.—The Love and Honour Mark Lodge, No. 94, held its annual meeting at the Royal Hotel, Falmouth, on Thursday, the 23rd June, at seven p.m. Present: Bros. W. F. Newman, P. Prov. G. Overseer, W.M.; W. J. Hughan, P.M. No. 78, P.G. Overseer, &c.; John Ninness, P.M. 101, Prov. G. Overseer; D. W. Tremewen, S.W.; Thomas Webber, J.P., Sec.; and several brethren. By request of the W.M., Bro. J. Hughan advanced two candidates, and fully instructed them in the mysteries and advantages of Mark Masonry. After which Bro. John Ninness, P.M. 101, installed Bro. D. W. Tremewen as the W.M. No. 94 for the ensuing year in a most efficient manner. On the conclusion of the ceremony the brethren adjourned to the banquet, presided over by the W.M., and a few hours were agreeably spent in chatting over the progress of Mark Masonry and making notes as to the antiquity and importance of the degree historically and Masonically.

LINES

Addressed to Lodge 402, Abbeyleix, Ireland, by Bro. JOHN HARRISON, P.M. 402, 646.

Again returns the night, and with it brings
The cheerful faces to the festive scene,
The sunshine of that mystic light which flings
Its mellow'd charm on all that falls between.

Cemented harmony of fraternal minds,
Which consists in making men good and true;
No discord here, nor aught which reason blinds,
But the well-known harmony of 402.

Long may your lodge by Wisdom's law be rul'd,
Always in strength of upright minds consist;
Be in your system's Beauty strictly school'd,
And all that's not harmonious still resist.

So shall our universal Order sine,
Thus govern'd by the unerring light,
Which, radiating from the eyadivine,
Guides all true Masons in the path that's right.

INSTALLATION OF THE EARL FERRERS.

The annual festival of the Ferrers and Ivanhoe Lodge, No. 779, and the installation of its newly-elected W.M. Bro. the Right Hon. Earl Ferrers, P.G.S.D. (the son of its founder, from whom the first part of its name is derived), were celebrated at the Town Hall, Ashby-de-la-Zouch, on Tuesday, the 28th ult., when a large number of visitors, in addition to the members of the lodge, assembled to do honour to the occasion. The ceremony was announced to be performed by the R.W.P.G.M., Bro. Kelly (one of the founders), and among the other brethren present were Edw. F. Mammatt, W.M. and P.G.J.W.; the Revs. J. Denton, M.A. (Sec.), and Samuel Pyemont, D.D., P.M.'s and P.P.G.S.W.'s; H. Etherington Smith, J.P., and Geo. Fowler Brown, P.M.'s and P.P.G.J.W.'s; S. Love, P.M. and P.P.G.S.D., Treas.; Garner, J.W.; Faulkner, S.D.; Blood, J.D.; Johnson, I.G.; Stokes, Lewin, Lewis, Alcock, and others. Among the visiting brethren were W. Pettifor, P.M. 279 and P.P.G.S.W.; Duff, P.M. 523 and P.P.G.S.D.; Buzzard, W.M. 523 and P.G.A.D. of C.; Atwood (279), Palmer (S.D. 279, from Leicester), Rev. J. B. Mundy (1039), Captain Webster (I.C. 47, from Lichfield), Rev. G. M. Braune (P.M. 40, Hastings), E. B. Knoble (P.M. 353, Repton), R. Robinson, W.M.; J. Upton, P.M.; W. Dewar (624, Burton-on-Trent), H. Hillaur (Arboretum Lodge, Derby, and Prov. G. Secretary), N. Joyce (Secretary 726), and others.

The lodge having been opened, and the minutes of the last lodge duly confirmed, a ballot was taken for Trevor Morris, jun., Esq., M.D., of Ashby, who was unanimously elected.

The P.G.M., accompanied by several P.G. Officers from Leicester, soon afterwards arrived; and having been received with the usual honours, took the chair, and, at the request of the W.M., proceeded to initiate Dr. Trevor Morris into the mysteries of the first degree.

A F.C.'s Lodge having been opened, Bro. Mammatt, the retiring W.M., presented his successor, Lord Ferrers, to receive the benefit of installation, which ceremony was then performed according to ancient custom; the Board of Installed Masters consisting of 17 members. After his Lordship had been proclaimed and saluted in the three degrees, and the P.G.M. had concluded the ceremony with the usual address to the W.M., the following brethren were appointed and invested by the W.M., as the officers for the ensuing year: Bros. Garner, S.W.; Faulkner, J.W.; Rev. J. Denton, P.M., Sec.; S. Love, P.M. (elected), Treas.; Blood, S.D.; Johnson, J.D.; Lewis, I.G.; Canner, Tyler.

The P.G.M., after giving the final charge to the brethren, announced that, as it was his intention, in future to allow, each year, six of the lodges in the province (in rotation) to nominate one of their members to him for appointment as a Provincial Grand Steward, he should be glad if the brethren of that lodge would do so, and communicate the name of the brother so elected to the P.G. Secretary before the meeting of the P.G. Lodge in the autumn.

On the conclusion of the business, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Queen's Head Hotel, where, after an elegant banquet, served in Bro. Love's well-known first-rate style, the usual loyal and masonic toasts were duly honoured.

The noble W.M. proposed "The Queen and the Craft," followed by "Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," and in so doing expressed the gratification which was universally felt amongst the Craft at the accession of the Prince of Wales to their ranks, and at the interest which he took in the Order.

The PROV. G.M., in proposing "The Right Rev. Bro. the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, the Clergy and Ministers of all Denominations," alluded to the satisfaction felt by the Craft in the diocese in having at its head so learned and eloquent a divine, and, above all, so worthy a Mason, as the Bishop of Peterborough; and also to the benefit which was mutually conferred on the Craft and themselves when the clergy and ministers of other denominations took an active part in Masonry, as was fortunately so largely the case in the Province of Leicester and Rutland—there not being a single Lodge which did not possess one, and, in some instances, three or four clerical brethren.

The toast was responded to in appropriate terms by the Rev. JOHN DENTON, P.P.G. Chap. and P.P.G.S.W.

Bro. H. ETHERINGTON SMITH, P.M. and P.P.G.J.W., proposed "The Army, Navy, Militia, Yeomanry, and Volunteers."

This was responded to by Bro. Capt. WEBSTER, who said that during his military service in the East, and elsewhere, he knew of several instances among his brother officers, where, when in peril, Masonry had been of essential service to them.

Bro. LOVE also responded on behalf of the volunteers.

The W.M. proposed the "M.W. Grand Master," and, subsequently, "The R.W. Deputy Grand Master and the Officers of the Grand Lodge."

The Rev. Bro. DENTON then proposed in highly complimentary terms "The Health of the R.W. Prov. G.M., Bro. Kelly," one of the founders of the lodge; and who, he said, was always ready and willing to assist all the lodges in the province, as on that and many former occasions he had assisted their lodge. (The toast was received most warmly and with musical honours.)

Bro. KELLY, in responding, alluded to the great interest which the late Earl Ferrers took in the establishment of the Ferrers and Ivanhoe Lodge, of which he was nominated in the warrant as the first W.M.; but into which office it pleased the G.A.O.T.U. that he should not live to be installed, and which then devolved upon the S.W., Bro. Edward Mammatt, whose son he (Bro. Kelly) had the pleasure of installing in office last year, as he had formerly installed his father, and as he now had the additional pleasure of installing to-day the son of the original founder, Earl Ferrers, an event on which he might congratulate both the lodge and its noble W.M.

Bro. PETTIFOR, P.P.G.S.W., responded to the toast of "The P.G. Lodge of Leicestershire and Rutland," proposed by Bro. BROWN, P.M.

The I.P.M., Bro. MAMMATT, in proposing "The health of the W.M.," also referred to the parts taken by the noble W.M.'s father and his own in the formation of the lodge, and said that, although only a boy at the time, he well remembered the frequent conferences on the subject between his late father and the late Earl Ferrers. He concluded by wishing the W.M. a successful rule over the lodge.

The youthful EARL expressed the great pride and pleasure he felt in being placed in the chair of the lodge bearing the name of his late father, and in having the honour to be installed by the Prov. G.M., who had assisted his father in the formation of the lodge. Having expressed the great interest he felt in the Order, the W.M. concluded by thanking the brethren for their cordial reception of the toast, and their support on this occasion. (The noble Earl resumed his seat amidst loud applause.)

The health of the "Visiting Brethren" was proposed by Bro. LOVE, P.M., and was acknowledged by the Rev. Bro. Mundy, of Lichfield, and by Bro. Upton, P.M. of the Abbey Lodge, Burton-on-Trent, a regular visitor to the lodge on these occasions.

The concluding toast was "The Past and Present Officers of the Lodge," which was responded to by Bro. GARNER, S.W. and P.G.S., when the brethren separated after a very pleasant meeting.

It must not be omitted to be mentioned, that during the evening Bros. Atwood and Palmer, of Leicester, delighted the brethren with several songs.

PICNIC OF THE OLD GLOBE LODGE SCARBOROUGH.

The Annual Picnic of this lodge took place on Tuesday, the 21st June, on the estate (by kind permission) of Bro. Sir Harcourt Johnstone, Bart., M.P., P.M. 200, P.S.P. G.W. N. and E. Yorkshire. The brethren and their friends, to the number of about 50, assembled in the grounds, which were thrown open for their amusement. Hackness Hall is distant from Scarborough about six miles, and is a splendid old English mansion. The grounds, vineyards, gardens, &c., are beautifully arranged, and the lawn, shrubberies, and lake, with the noble swans thereon, combine to form a charming prospect, while the view obtained from the plateau, of hills and valleys, with splendid trees and woodlands, is most magnificent. The cheerful countenances of each party as we met them in their wanderings, clearly showed that the cares of the world were, for a time at least, forgotten. At 5 p.m. the "General Assembly" was sounded by a trumpeter of the band, and in a short time the company were seated under the brave old oaks, partaking of that cheerful repast, tea. Everything gave the highest satisfaction, both for quality, quantity and variety. Tea being over the brethren, ladies, and friends assembled on the lawn in front of the mansion and dancing commenced. Bro. R. H. Peacocke, the W.M., leading off in a country dance, in which all present joined. After this opening the dances were varied, and heartily kept up during the evening, and it was very gratifying to see so many enjoying this rational and pleasing amusement, with the brethren and friends vying with each other in their endeavours to make every one happy. At 8.30 the "General Assembly" was again sounded, and all the party (including the employés of the Hall) were arranged for the last dance, the time-honoured "Sir Roger," which was led off with great spirit by the W.M. and the Housekeeper of the Hall. The National Anthem, and three hearty cheers for Sir Harcourt and Lady Johnstone and family, with three more from the non-Masons for the Freemasons, brought this pleasant afternoon's amusements to a close, and all returned home gratified.

THE first meeting of the Keystone Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 109 (Bro. the V.W. Charles Lyne, D.P.G.M., W.M.-designate), will be held on Monday, the 25th inst., at 2.30 p.m., at the Masonic Hall, Dock-street, Newport, for the consecration and dedication of the lodge, installation of W.M., &c. The ceremonies will be performed by V.W. Bro. T. Blackes, G.M.S.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Answers to Correspondents.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly, on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

A WARWICKSHIRE BROTHER.—We are not surprised at your writing again. As we wrote the sentence it read thus, but we presume the reader must have fallen asleep over it:—"In every age the 'Sacerdos,' or Priest, has ever been distinguished by the spotless purity of his raiment—thus, the Druids wore white flowing robes; the Jewish High Priests were habited in 'coats' and 'mitres of fine linen'; and the modern surplice is but the same garb adapted to the tastes of a later generation."

T. P., M.D.—The head-dress is thus described in Robson's Knighthood:—"The cap worn by the Grand Master is made after the Macedonian fashion; it is one span in height, made of crimson velvet, lined with white satin, the four sides turned up, and on each side the monogram X P is embroidered in gold; the cap is likewise adorned with a black ostrich's feather. The Grand Crosses wore a similar cap of blue satin, and a white ostrich's feather. In time of war, or when they fought for the faith," according to the same authority, "the Knights wore a surcoat over their usual armour; it was of white stuff in the form of a scapulary; and in the centre the cross of the order, embroidered in red."

AN Illustrious Brother in Norway is thanked for his suggestion, which shall receive our best attention. The fact mentioned has been duly noticed in THE FREEMASON.

PROV. G. SEC.—We have no desire to speak ill of the wretched man, but really it reminds us of the anecdote of the witness who said, "If I was a chicken, and that nigger was about; why this chicken would roost high, that's all."

THE LESSON OF A LIFE.

MUCH has already been said, and well said, upon the death of him whose departure from amongst us has left a blank in English literature which will scarcely be filled for generations to come, but we feel it a duty not only to ourselves, but to our Masonic readers, to place upon record our deliberate conviction that in Charles Dickens the world has lost one of the brightest exemplars of true Masonic principles. We are aware that the deceased author was not a Freemason—that is to say, he had never been initiated, passed, and raised in the ancient degrees of the Fraternity; but it is none the less a fact, that his whole life was employed in the fulfilment of those great duties which are peculiarly enjoined by the precepts of the Craft.

We find in Dickens that exalted love for humanity which manifests itself in unceasing labour for the good of the human race. We find in him—for the man yet lives in the imperishable creations of his brain—that sympathy for the poor, the weak and the oppressed, which is one of the guiding impulses of noble natures; a sympathy which is developed by actual experience of the infinite cares and sorrows of life, and especially of those which are inseparable from the struggle for existence in a land where competition is fierce, and the very right to live is contested.

No one, perhaps, had studied more profoundly the life of great cities than Dickens, and certainly no one has painted more vividly its tribulations, its consolations, its joys, and its miseries. In him we have no fanciful delineator of human woes, no sentimental traveller weeping over imaginary griefs; but a man who feels with and for his kind, and whose generous heart beats in response to every human emotion. In the present age, when the tendency of many works of fiction is demoralising and degrading, the value of a pure writer, whose exquisite conceptions command popular applause without pandering to popular tastes, can hardly be over-estimated. Like the heroic band in the Pass of Thermopylæ, the genius of such a man maintains the battle of truth, almost single-handed, against the swarming legions of error and vice. Nor is the combat so unequal in the end, because the works of a truly great man live after him, and become a heritage and a joy for succeeding ages. Dickens entered the literary arena with ungloved hands, and dealt ready and rapid blows at the vulnerable points of our social system; but his aims were high, his designs supremely noble, and his whole heart overflowed with kindness and goodwill for all. Truly he has peopled the world of imagination with figures that we feel to be our own flesh and blood—shapes that are not all unsubstantial, but seem to live and move in an atmosphere of reality. It is this vraisemblance that gives such a charm and a power to his productions—every scene seems familiar, and every character assumes the aspect of an old friend.

Other writers have possessed this faculty, and others may have evinced a wider range of thought, but none have dedicated their gifts so freely, purely, and delightfully to the service of their fellows than the great novelist, whose decease is now mourned by every civilised people on the face of the globe.

Our Masonic contemporaries, the Monde Maçonnique of Paris, and the Landmark of New York may be cited as instances of the deep and universal sorrow for Charles Dickens' death. A biographical sketch appears in the former, in which a just tribute is rendered to the memory of the great dead by M. Sainte-Anne, who speaks of Dickens as "this marvellous spirit, whose only enemies were ever ignorance, tyranny and superstition, and these enemies he hated with a good and vigorous abhorrence." The Landmark says that "when he left our shores for the last time, he carried back with him all our old love and admiration; and to-day the American people are among his chief mourners." Well may Freemasons lament the loss of such a man, because he was the incarnation of the ruling principles of our Masonic creed.

"To be happy, and to communicate happiness to others," these were the ideas which guided his pen, and inspired his grandest efforts. "To aid in lessening the aggregate of human misery and vice," was to him a sacred duty, and this duty he accomplished in an artistic and practical manner. Venerable abuses, time-honoured obstructions, disappeared before the touch of his comprehensive weapon; and bumbledom trembled and shrank away from his keen and searching gaze. No form of iniquity escaped; the chicanery of the law, the delays of justice, red-tape puerilities official circumlocution, all were exposed and annihilated, as well as grosser and more palpable systems of oppression. The good that Dickens accomplished in this direction alone, is enough to entitle him to the lasting gratitude of mankind; but his fame rests not only upon such achievements as these; his real power is to be traced to that rare faculty with which some great men are dowered—the faculty of kindling at once the hearts and minds of men. Thus, a simple chord is stricken, but the universal soul of humanity is stirred, a common sympathy unites every reader by an invisible, but all powerful tie. We envy not the man who can rise from the perusal of one of Charles Dickens' works without feeling mentally purer and better, or without experiencing larger and more charitable views of the world in general. Therefore, inasmuch as the entire tendency of his writings is so thoroughly in accord with Masonic ideas, it is but right that we should record our appreciation of the man. More able and facile pens than ours have sounded his praises, but none can do so more sincerely. It is, however, a satisfaction to know that he died in the plenitude of his fame—his glorious intellect undimmed by the shadows of disease or decay—death found him in harness, and carried him away to work in a brighter land. It is also a gratification to note that the finest tribute to his memory which has yet appeared, is penned by our accomplished brother, George Augustus Sala, whose friendship for the lamented dead was most cordial and affectionate. And it need hardly be added, that wherever the English language is read or spoken, the name of Dickens will ever bear a lofty place in its literature, among "the few, the immortal names, that were not born to die."

Multum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

It may be news to some of your readers to hear that the recent abortive attempt to form a Grand Lodge of Ark Mariners (Heaven save the mark!) was part of an organised effort to bring into contempt all the unrecognised degrees in Freemasonry. One of its promoters openly boasted that he would overthrow the S.G.C. 33°, the Grand Conclave K.T., the Red Cross degrees, and the Grand Lodge of the Mark!!! but so far he has reckoned without his host, or rather his tavern-keeper. Old Trust is dead and young Mr. Ready-Money has taken his place.

Accidentally passing the mouth (query door?) of a certain tavern I heard sounds of lamentation and distress! Verb. sap.

FREEMASONRY AND THE RELIGIONS OF THE WORLD.

It is my intention as soon as my numerous engagements permit, to write a series of articles in THE FREEMASON, to be entitled "Grand Lodges, and their Relation to the Religious Faiths of the World," in which the principles advocated by the two excellent Masons, Bro. Jacob Norton, of Boston, U.S., and Bro. William Carpenter, of London, will be examined, and the resolutions of various Grand Lodges in relation to such enquiries will be presented and considered with respect to their consonance with the universal, unsectarian, and cosmopolitan basis of the Craft.

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

THE SCOTTISH TEMPLARS.

I do not know whether the acts of Alexander Deuchar are repudiated by the present members of the Order, but I shall be glad to learn why any doubts are cast upon the legality or propriety of what he did? I suppose we all know that he actually was at the head of the Order in Scotland, and that he resigned to make way for Sir David Milne. Why are doubts now cast upon him? LUPUS.

ENGLISH HEDGEROWS.

In a paragraph appearing at page 323 of THE FREEMASON, we are told "of the prodigious waste of land by hedges," and that they "consume at least three feet of land on each side." If stone walls were built instead, they would answer well for shelter, and at the same time plants and all kinds of grain could grow quite close to the walls, thereby saving a great deal of ground. It is to be hoped that farmers in England and elsewhere will take the hint, and thus give a good deal of labour to the operative Masons—many of whom are amongst our best Freemasons. CHALMERS I. PATON.

THE ST. CLAIR CHARTERS.

In a recent communication on "The Antiquity of Freemasonry," Bro. W. P. Buchan quotes 1600 and 1628 as the dates of the two documents known as the St. Clair Charters. This has been met by a rather pointed contradiction, the brother making it asserting of the first of these chapters that "there is sufficient evidence that it belongs to the earlier part of the 17th century, and to the reign of James VI. after his accession to the English throne."

We have examined the originals of the St. Clair Charters: both are without date. The first was issued with the consent of, and is signed by, William Schaw, Master of Work, who died in April, 1602. The crowns of England were not united till the accession of James the Sixth of Scotland as James the First of England, March 24, 1603, consequently the date of the charter in question must have been before that event. Probably in 1600-1.

Though the copy of the second charter, which is preserved in the Advocate's Library, is dated 1630, there is good ground for believing that the deed was executed two years prior to that date. In a communication on this subject which in 1866 we made to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, we gave the data upon which we concluded that there was a strong probability that the second charter was signed between 16th October, 1627, and 13th October, 1628. From evidence discovered in the course of our present examination of the records of the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary's Chapel), the question of date is still further narrowed.

D. MURRAY LYON.

THE "ORIGINATOR" OF THE 1717 THEORY (page 307).

Bro. Buchan never pretended to be the "originator" of the 1717 theory, although he may perhaps with propriety be called the champion, or a champion, of it. LEO.

BROS. J. G. FINDEL AND JOHN YARKER.

In your contemporary, of the 2nd inst., I perceive Bro. Yarker making a most uncalled-for attack upon our Masonic historian, Bro. Findel. Bro. Yarker says "his statements are worthless." Now, I consider this both untrue and unjust. He may make a few mistakes, but on the whole his work is by far the most reliable and valuable history of Freemasonry I have yet seen. No English work exists as yet aught equal to it. And as for Bro. Yarker's statement: "the Templars, who undoubtedly used all our symbols," it is most jesuitical; and tends to suggest that the Templars practised our ceremonies, &c., which idea is simply pure "moonshine"—dreams. As for the "Cologne Charter," its internal evidence condemns it, just as with the 1670 tobacco-box. Bro. Yarker should get his bump of discrimination rubbed up a little, it seems to be rather dead. The Masonic Templars sodality is only about one hundred years old, and neither they nor the Speculative Freemasons could ever have had anything earthly to do with the old Knights Templar; consequently I should like to know where, when, under what circumstances, and in what connection did the Templars use "all our symbols?" W. P. BUCHAN.

THE 1717 THEORY CONFIRMED.

I beg sincerely to thank Bro. G. Bacon, Secretary 297, for his remarks at page 307. I am not at all surprised at the words "I was the first person made a Freemason in London," [*] for I expect more of the same sort to crop up by-and-bye. The "I," I suppose, refers to William Stukley, or Stukeley, M.D., F.R.S., Rector of All Saints, Stamford, Lincolnshire, who was born in Lincolnshire in 1687, and died 1765; consequently in 1717 he would just be thirty years of age. He was (we are told) a laborious and learned antiquary. In 1736 he wrote a description of Stonehenge, and in 1743-52 on Aubury, a Temple of the Druids, &c., and many other works.

As Bro. Bacon's quotation informs us, he was in London in 1717, and being a literary man (and for all I as yet know, even then a F.R.S.), he might be acquainted with Desaguliers, and so come to join the new society, and as some one had to be the first man made, it was just as likely to be he as another; ergo, if this quotation is authentic and the MS. reliable, the first man who was made a Speculative Freemason, and who was put through in due form our system of working, was Dr. William Stukeley, F.R.S. Of course the question rises—Where did those who gave him his degrees, &c., receive their own knowledge from? To which I answer—They were the manufacturers, &c.

I highly appreciate the manly courtesy of Bro. Bacon upon this occasion, and, although I threw out no sign of distress, he may have imagined that a little friendly help would not be rejected while weathering the anti-1717-theory-storm of the last few weeks. I also beg to record the pleasure with which I read the very sensible remarks of Bro. W. G. Doric at p. 259.

As to Bro. Paton's "Extracts from Works showing the 1717 theory to be absurd," said extracts are pure nonsense. The first Grand Lodge was held in London in 1717; so the York pretensions are entirely baseless. And as to Mr. Crawford's work on the rise of the trades in Glasgow, the quotation from it is all a mistake, I saw Mr. Crawford personally on the matter, who was sorry it appeared in his book. When I told him the "Charter" was to be sent to Professor Innes, he said: "That is the man; send it to him, and he will soon tell you what it is." More passed, which it is unnecessary at present to mention. W. P. BUCHAN.

ORDER OF ST. JOHN.

A List of the Grand Priors in England.

The Prior of the Order was primus baro Anglia, "because," says Selden, "being last of the spiritual barons, he chose to be first of the temporal." By a writ of the 4th Henry VI., the Prior of St. John of Jerusalem in England, with others, was summoned to attend with all possible haste at the said King's Parliament at Leicester, and money was paid to him out of the king's exchequer for his expenses of travelling.

There is preserved a curious illuminated drawing upon vellum of the House of Lords in the reign of Henry VIII., in which the Prior of St. John of Jerusalem is seated at the head of the temporal barons. Sane Baro, truly a Baron, or a Baron indeed, was the proud motto of the Lord Priors of St. John.

In Scotland the Preceptors of Torphichin had seats in Parliament as Lords St. John.

Garnarius, Garnerius de Neapoli was prior before 1162.

Richard de Turk, after 1190.

Ralph de Dyna.

Alan. Consecrated Bishop of Bangor on the 16th April, 1195.

Gilbert de Vere, 1195.

Hugh de Alneto.

Robert the Treasurer.

Tevric de Nussa, or Mussa. This name occurs in 1237 and 1238.

Robert de Manneby, in 1251 and 1262.

Roger de Vere, died prior in 1270.

Joseph de Chauncy, in 1274 and 1280.

William de Henley, prior the 10th of February, 9th Edward I., A.D. 1280. His name occurs in 1288. "Fratr Josephus de Chauncy, fuit Prior in 1274 and 1280. Iste fieri fecit Capelan Domini Prioris in domo de Clerkenwell, tempore Edward I. Frater Will de Henley factus Prior in 1280. Fieri fecit Clanstrum de Clerkenwell."

Peter de Hakham, or Haghham, in 1291 and 1293.

William de Thothale, in 1297. He died the 12th of October, 1318.

Richard de Paveley, in 1318 and 1321.

Robert de Dyna.

Thomas L'Archer, 1323. He died the 28th of August, 1329.

Leonard de Tybertis, in 1329 and in 1332. During his rule the possessions of the Templars were given to the Hospitallars.

Phillip de Thame, in 1335 and 1353.

John de Paveley was prior in 1355, again in 1371. He was admiral of one of the king's fleets in the 49th Edward III., and again in 1377.

Robert de Hales was prior in 1372. In 1380 he was Treasurer of the Exchequer.

John de Radington, in 1382, and again in 1406.

Walter Grindon, in 1408, and again in 1416.

William Hulle was prior in 1417, also in 1431.

Robert Mallore, in 1432.

Robert Botyll was prior in 1439. He vacated the priorate in 1469.

John Longstrother became Prior on the 9th of March, 1469. Sir John Longstrother, Bailiff of the Eagle, and Seneschal of the reverend High Master of Rhodes, was elected Prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England in the year 1469, and swore fealty to King Edward on the 18th of November in that year, and again to King Henry on the 20th of October, 1470. Being a zealous Lancastrian, he was on the same day appointed Treasurer of the Exchequer. On the 16th of February following King Henry sent him to conduct the queen and prince from France to England, and granted him "of our Treasoure cc. marc to have of oure yeste by way of rewarde for his cost and expenses in that behalve;" and on the 14th of the same month, in conjunction with John Delves, Esq., he was appointed Warden of the Mint. He returned out of France with Queen Margaret in April, 1471, being at that time called Treasurer of England.

William Tournay was prior in 1471 and 1474.

Robert Malton, in 1474 and 1476.

John Weston was prior in 1477, again in 1485.

John Kendall was prior in 1491. He died in the month of November, 1501.

Thomas Docwra succeeded on the 1st of May, 1502; again in 1519.

William Weston was the last Prior before the Reformation. He died on the 7th of May, 1540.

Newcourt reports Simon Rotard, Elias Smethton, Stephen Fulborn, and Walter as Priors, without attaching dates, although he believes them to have been Priors in the reign of Edward I.

Sir Thomas Tresham was Prior on the re-erection of the House, in November, 1557. The Order was restored by Philip and Mary, who incorporated the Prior and Brethren of St. John with a Common Seal. In this charter, Sir Thomas Tresham, of Rushton, is named as Lord Prior; and as such he was summoned to the first and second Parliaments of Queen Elizabeth.

Sir Richard Shelley succeeded in 1566.

The Bailli Terretti was Prior in 1577.

The Bailli Nari, in 1588.

Sir Andrew Wise was Grand Prior in 1593. He was nominally Prior in England in 1598. Being reduced to the greatest extremity, the Roman Pontiff decreed that the langue of Castile and Leon should allow him out of its revenue a thousand ducats a year. The Spanish Knights, objecting to pay this sum, there was a trial before the Grand Master to enforce it.

During the following century the Bailli Zambeccari and the Bailli Lomellino were successively Grand Priors of England.

HABITS.

Like flakes of snow that fall unperceived upon the earth, the seeming unimportant events of life succeed one another. As the snow gathers together, so are our habits formed. No single flake that is added to the pile produces a sensible change—no single action creates, however it may exhibit, a man's character; but as the tempest hurls the avalanche down the mountain, and overwhelms the inhabitant and his habitation, so passion, acting upon the elements of mischief, which pernicious habits have brought together by imperceptible accumulation may overthrow the edifice of truth and virtue.—Jeremy Bentham.

HEAR ME AGAIN.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am not sorry that anything I have written should have called forth, even under a misconception, so good-tempered, and genial a letter as that of Bro. Norton's, which appeared in the last FREEMASON. It does one good to read so ingenious an expression of liberal opinion, and it would induce me, if I were younger and had more leisure, to take a trip across the Atlantic to gaze on that good-tempered-looking countenance which it seems to be Bro. Norton's fortune to wear, and occasionally to bring over to England. Excellent, however, as some of Bro. Norton's observations are, and worth being borne in mind by every Mason, I must be permitted to say that all his reasoning upon my communications on "A Step in the Right Direction" proceeds upon a total misapprehension of what I have written, and that none of my expressions will bear the construction he puts upon them. Where have I written a word in favour of introducing religious discussions into a lodge? Where have I written a word in favour of standing up in a lodge in defence of my views of religious truth? Nowhere. In fact, I expressly repudiated the imputation of having done so when Bro. Norton formerly charged me with it. What I wrote against was undue sensitiveness or fastidiousness on religious topics in our intercourse with each other—a silly affectation of pretending to have no religious convictions at all, for fear of giving offence to any one who happened to differ from us. If I left myself open to misconception in my first brief communication on the subject, I surely guarded myself against it in my second communication, in which I expressly disclaimed the idea of introducing religious topics into a lodge, as a thing "inconsistent with the institution and foundation of Masonry." And this I put in so many ways that it is astonishing Bro. Norton should still misunderstand me. Let me now say, once for all, that I fully acquiesce in Bro. Norton's judgment as to the evils that would be inseparable from doing what he alleges I am desirous to do. But let me close this short rejoinder to Bro. Norton by showing how infectious good temper and amenity are, by saying that, upon the topic upon which we have both written, he has expressed my convictions much more intelligently and convincingly than I myself could have done.

I am yours faithfully,

WILLIAM CARPENTER.

[We thoroughly endorse Bro. Carpenter's sentiments on the subject, knowing well that he would never advance ideas contrary to the principles of the Craft.—ED. F.]

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I do not quite comprehend the "Doric" dialect (page 322), and therefore I may possibly misunderstand our learned brother, who so sharply criticises Brother Yarker's remarks (that there are writers who take up subjects "for which their education and knowledge unfit them") when he says, inferentially, that the "secrets of nature" may be explored by those who cannot boast a college education.

I am not aware that Brother Yarker referred to "secrets of nature," and I have yet to learn that any have been discovered, or are discoverable, by a Masonic initiation.

Bro. Yarker no doubt meant that those who enter the arena of metaphysical and theological discussion ought to have some knowledge of the ancient religions of the world—that they ought to know something about the Sabæans, the Egyptian mysteries, the Vedas, the Confucian system, the Pythagorean and Platonic philosophies, the Zoroastrian, Scandinavian, and other cosmogonies and mythologies—but he certainly did not mean to deter the brethren from the study of geology, astronomy, chymistry, and mathematics generally, for in such sciences the real "secrets of nature" lie, and a college education is not necessary to those who have a genius for such studies.

How competently Bro. Doric is versed in history, may be gathered from his recent remarks on the "Red Cross of Constantine" controversy, and I have no doubt that by a careful study of Gibbon he may, in a few years, be qualified to give his opinions more forcibly on historical questions—which are evidently his forte—without attempting to emulate the fame of Copernicus, Newton, Davy, Murchison, Faraday, Arago, and others who have revealed to us the arcanæ of Nature; and I am sure that Bro. Yarker, when the time comes, will not refuse his plaudits.

But ordinary "common sense," unaided by study, will not suffice for the discussion of questions which are based on the knowledge of past generations. And even a cruise in the "Royal Ark" will not make a Grand Mariner a Maury, but will probably bring him into shallows, from which "Grand Noah" will not be able to extricate him, notwithstanding the patronage of that original Board of Admiralty which guarantees the success of such sublime voyages.

Yours fraternally,
SP.

SOMETHING WRONG.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your issue of last week I observe a letter under the above heading, which seems to reflect a little on Lodge Saltcoats and Ardrossan, No. 320. That lodge is accused of refusing to admit members of Lodge No. 442, and I am sorry to say the charge is well founded. The lodge in question, however, adopts this unmasonic course for very special and exceptional reasons. They have a ground of complaint against three leading office-bearers (the Master, Senior Warden, and Secretary) of Lodge No. 442, the nature of which need not now be explained. They have tried every legitimate method of settling the dispute; but they have hitherto failed in even getting the individuals in question to meet them to deny the charges, or admit them. Appeals to the Provincial and Grand Lodges have been equally unsuccessful. It was, in the opinion of No. 320, a scandal on Masonry that such a state of things should be allowed to continue, especially when the Grand Lodge recognised both lodges by receiving fees and issuing diplomas to both. In hopes that the matter would thus be brought to a hearing, No. 320 reluctantly adopted the course of which your correspondent complains, naturally concluding that the members of No. 442 refused admission to our lodge would demand redress either from Nos. 320, 442, or, better still, from the Grand Lodge herself, and thereby bring the matter to a final issue. Several of the rejected members of No. 442 were loud in their protestations, but there the matter invariably ended, and No. 320 was never called upon to explain why such treatment was meted out to brethren. Bro. Taylor is the first who has openly broken the ice, and the brethren of No. 320 only hope that the question of dispute will now be thoroughly investigated, and matters placed on a satisfactory footing. Personally, I am not surprised that Bro. Lawrie did not reply to Bro. Taylor's letter, as I have unmistakable proof that up to the 10th inst. Bro. Taylor's name did not appear in the Grand Lodge books as a member of No. 442, although he has been a Master Mason since the middle of March last—paid his fees entitling him to his diploma, and to be entered in the Grand Lodge book as a member of said lodge. However, the leading feature of the Grand Lodge's proceedings, as far as I have seen, seems to be diligence in receiving cash, while matters deeply affecting the welfare of the Craft (such as the dispute in question) are systematically overlooked. As far as I can judge, the withholding of Bro. Taylor's diploma is quite against Masonic usage, and not according to the system pursued by No. 320; but is quite in accordance with the rule pursued by No. 442, as that lodge seems to have invented a new style of Masonry suited to their own peculiar circumstances. Hoping that for the benefit of the Craft in general you will insert this in your first impression, and give it as much publicity as possible,

I am, Sir, yours fraternally,

DUNCAN WILKIE, Secretary.

Ardrossan, June 29, 1870.

AN ERRATUM.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR BROTHER,—In to-day's issue you have made a slight mistake in my extract from "The Stukeley Collection," which alters the reading materially, by inserting a full stop after the word "London."

It should read as follows:—"I was the first person made a Freemason in London for many years; we had great difficulty to find members enough to perform the ceremony," &c., &c.

Fraternally yours,

G. BACON, Sec. 297.

46, Waterside, N., Lincoln, June 25, 1870.

"BOARD OF BENEVOLENCE."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your paper of 25th ult., I read, under the head "Board of Benevolence:—"

"Two were dismissed as ineligible, and it may be well to state that in future foreign Masons cannot be relieved, unless for the purpose of sending them home to their own countries."

"The Pactolean stream of English Masonic charity will practically, therefore, cease to flow for all outside the 'English Pale.'"

May I be excused for asking who are thus meant when the term "foreign Masons" is used?

I know foreigners who are members of English lodges, and consequently contribute to our funds. Should they not participate in their distribution, if they unfortunately need it?

Masonry, I understand, is universal in its membership, and "the sun never sets" on its followers. I imagine, if such is its character, it must be so also in its institutions.

Has a Mason power to turn his back on a brother in need? Is he not bound by every duty to succour and assist him?

Your kind reply to the foregoing may clear up some doubts in my own as well as in the minds of others of your readers, and oblige,

Yours fraternally,

London, July 1, 1870.

Jottings from Masonic Journals.

THE Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine is being received with great favour in Canada. Ill. Bro. Col. J. B. McLeod Moore, 33°, Inspector General of the New Dominion, has recently established a conclave at Toronto, and Installed Ill. Bro. S. B. Harman as Sovereign. Bro. Harman is Prov. G. Commander of K.T. in Canada, and Bro. M. L. Moore is Grand Prior of the Dominion.

THE Freemason's Journal, of Montreal, reports that the Grand Lodge of Ireland, at its last communication, passed the following resolution:—"That as the Province of Quebec is in the territorial jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Canada, which Grand Lodge is recognised by the Grand Lodge of Ireland, the Grand Lodge of Ireland cannot recognise the so-called Grand Lodge of Quebec." Should the Grand Lodge of England follow in the same course, the American lodges that have recognised the new body may find that they have been a little too hasty.

THE Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the Province of Quebec, Dominion of Canada, John H. Graham, LL.D., is the Principal, and Classical Professor, of St. Francis College and Grammar School (Protestant), Richmond, Province of Quebec, and is one of the Fellows of McGill University of Montreal, of which the "St. Francis" is an affiliated college. Grand Master Graham is a native of Renfrewshire, Scotland.

In addition to the Grand Lodges of the District of Columbia, and the State of Maine, as announced in a previous issue, we learn that the Grand Lodge of Quebec, Dominion of Canada, has been recognised by the Grand Lodges of the States of Iowa, and New Hampshire.

AT a large and influential meeting of the clergy and laity, recently held at Leicester, it was decided to raise a memorial to the memory of the late Earl Howe, who died on the 12th May. The memorial will take the form of a church, to be erected in the south-eastern part of the town, where such an edifice is much needed.

WE rejoice to hear that H.H. the Khedive of Egypt and his uncle, the D.G.M. of Egypt, Prince Halim Pasha, are again friends: from this happy reconciliation we augur a bright future for Freemasonry in the land of the Pharaohs.

AT a meeting of the Gooch Lodge, No. 1238, Southall, on the 4th inst., His Excellency, Daoud Pasha, was regularly initiated into the first degree of Freemasonry.

GRAND LODGE OF QUEBEC.

(Extract from Address of Grand Master of Maine.)

"In the able and interesting report of your Committee on Foreign Correspondence, which is herewith presented for your consideration, will be found two subjects to which I feel compelled to call your attention:—

"The first is the claim for recognition from a body styling itself the Grand Lodge of Quebec.

"Since the establishment of independent Grand Lodges in the United States, it has been held to be sound Masonic law that independent Grand Lodges may of right be organised where independent governments exist. This right has been affirmed and re-affirmed by American Grand Lodges until it is no longer a doubtful question. That right admitted, of course no action of mother Grand Lodges can prevent its exercise. In this case, we find—

"First. That the Province of Quebec is an independent State.

"Second. That more than three lodges united in forming the Grand Lodge.

"Third. That a majority of the lodges in the Province were represented at the meeting for organisation, or have given in their adhesion to the newly-created Grand Lodge.

"Fourth. That the proceedings in its establishment were regular.

"These being facts, I feel that it is the study of the Grand Lodge, and in accordance with its custom in such cases, to recognise the Grand Lodge of Quebec and give her a fraternal welcome into the family of the American Grand Lodges. In doing this, we affirm solemnly that we have none but the most fraternal feelings towards the Grand Lodge of Canada, and are only animated by a desire to promote the harmony of the whole Fraternity, and maintain the right. I have this morning received a despatch from M.W. Bro. Stevenson (G.L. of C.), requesting that action upon this subject be delayed until the receipt of a letter and documents which he mailed to me. You will undoubtedly comply with this request.

"The second subject is the unfortunate position maintained by the Grand Orient of France. This question, as well as the regularity of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, has been most thoroughly and ably discussed, by the indefatigable Chairman of your Committee on Foreign Correspondence."—(M. Ill. P.G.M. Josiah H. Drummond).

ANNUAL COMMUNICATION OF THE GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK.

The first session of the annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Masons of the State of New York, was held in that city on Tuesday, the 7th ult., at Apollo Hall. The attendance was very large, nearly 700 lodges being represented by about 2,000 delegates. As the officers of the Grand Lodge entered the hall, a march was played by the St. Cecile Lodge, No. 568, New York, after which an anthem was well rendered by the same lodge, all the members of which are musicians. Grand Chaplain Schoonmaker then offered a prayer. Upon calling the roll the following officers of the Grand Lodge were found to be present:—M.W. James Gibson, Grand Master; R.W. John H. Anthon, D.G.M.; R.W. Christopher G. Fox, S.G.W.; R.W. Edmund L. Judson, J.G.W.; M.W. John W. Simons, G. Treas.; R.W. James M. Austin, M.D., G. Sec.; R.W. and Rev. R. L. Schoonmaker, R.W. and Rev. John G. Webster, G. Chaplains; R.W. Charles B. Foster, G. Marshal; R.W. Cornelius Esselsteyne, G. Standard-Bearer; R.W. R. H. Huntington, G. Sword-Bearer; R.W. John Boyd, R.W. Philip Merkle, R.W. Wm. Sinclair, R.W. James M. Fuller, G. Stewards; R.W. C. A. Marvin, G.S.D.; R.W. Charles E. Young, G.J.D.; W. Johnson Fountain, G. Pur.; W. John Hoole, G. Tyler.

After the lodge was duly opened, and the rules to govern the body during its sessions read, the following representatives of Grand Lodges were introduced, and received with the appropriate honours. M.W. Robert Rusling Grand Master of New Jersey; M.W.'s W. E. Pine, Deputy Grand Master of New Jersey; Daniel B. Brum, Past Grand Master of New Jersey; William Mead, Grand Secretary of New Jersey; Noble D. Larned, Grand Sec. of the District of Columbia; R. L. Dodge, Grand Treasurer of Arkansas; Robert White, Deputy Grand Master of West Virginia; M.W. Bro. Stephenson, Grand Master of Canada. The latter, upon being presented to the lodge, expressed his gratification at being able to be present. In referring to the fact that Canada had recently been attacked by a band of men "falsely termed a brotherhood," he said that he himself was in command of a military force on the frontier, and had feared that his desire to attend the annual communication of the Grand Lodge of the State of New York would be thwarted. Fortunately, quiet had been restored, and he was thus able to be present, after having suffered only "a severe sun-scorching." In closing, he invited the New York body to visit the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Canada, to be held in Toronto, July 13.

At the conclusion of Bro. Stephenson's remarks, Grand Master Gibson read his annual address.

On the motion of John W. Simons, the address was referred to the usual committee for division into sections, &c.

The annual reports of the Grand Secretary, Treasurer, Trustees of the Hall and Asylum Fund, and New York Board of Relief, were then received, the first-named being in brief, as follows:—

Report of Grand Secretary James M. Austin—Total amount of money received for the year ending, May 31, $95,598 34; warrants issued to new lodge lodges, 7, from No. 689 to No. 696 inclusive; dispensations issued for lodges to the following places:—Utica, Greenpoint, Buffalo, Hudson, New Brighton, Mott, Haven, Cincinnati and Brooklyn; total number of lodges in good standing in the State, 643; total number of lodges having paid Grand Lodge dues, 631; number of Masons initiated during the year, 7,609; affiliated, 1,103; dimitted, 2,051; died, 695; total number of Masons in New York State, 74,079.

Resolutions thanking subordinate lodges for their liberality and the committee for their labours, were subsequently adopted. A number of prepared amendments to the Constitution, offered last year, were also discussed and finally adopted, and the Grand Lodge adjourned until Wednesday morning.

The Grand Lodge resumed labour at eight o'clock on Wednesday morning, and was opened by the M.W. James Gibson in ample form.

After forming in line in the hallway of Apollo Hall, the Grand Lodge, with the representatives of foreign Grand Lodges, and lodges of other States, proceeded to Madison-square, headed by a band of music.

There were present in the procession all the officers of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, including the Most Worshipful Past Grand Master, Richard Vaux, the officers of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, including M.W. Grand Master Rusling and Deputy Grand Master Price, the M.W. Grand and Deputy Grand Masters of the Grand Lodges of Canada, New Brunswick, Maine, Florida, and Missouri.

The arrangements included a line of march which should allow all the assembled lodges to be reviewed by the Grand Lodge, which should then join in the rear of the procession, and, on arriving at the proper point, pass again to the front, through open ranks, which should salute the Grand body as it passed.

The day opened fine, with a few white clouds just flecking the sky, and the slightest possible apology for a breeze. As early as seven o'clock a.m. the different bodies began to assemble in their lodge rooms, and promptly at half-past eight the different divisions, carrying guidons numbered from one to ten, were posted in the positions assigned to them along Fifth-avenue. Each division, with its right resting on the avenue, occupied one of the streets from Fourteenth to Twenty-second-streets, inclusive, and at nine o'clock they moved up Fifth-avenue in order of procession.

The brethren marched twelve abreast in excellent order. On either side of the avenue the walks were packed with people, while in the windows were perched the inmates of the dwellings.

At Madison-square the procession filed right and marched up Madison-avenue. When opposite the Union League Club House and Dr. Adam's Church, the members of the Grand Lodge of the State took a position on the sidewalk, and the main body saluted them in passing by removing their hats. The crowd became enormous, and in all directions one could only see a dense mass of human beings. The procession was so vast that nearly fifty minutes were occupied in passing a given point.

At the monument in Madison-square the Marshals in advance ordered a halt. The line extended back a distance of two miles. The order to "Open ranks" was given, and while the Masons fell back on either side, swift horsemen rode up and down the lines to clear the centre of the street. The Grand Lodge then marched through the centre of the procession, and reviewed the hosts. It was estimated that there were fully 15,000 Free and Accepted Masons in procession, wearing the uniform of the day. About eleven and a-half o'clock the order to "March" was again given, and the multitude moved towards the stand where the ceremonies were about to be performed.

At just "high twelve" Grand Chaplain Schoonmaker offered prayer, after which an anthem was sung by Cecile Lodge, No. 568.

Words and music by Bro. Harrison Millard, of St. Cecile Lodge, No. 568.

Song by St. Cecile Lodge, No. 568—W. Bro. D. L. Downing, Master. Bro. W. F. Sherwin, Chorus Conductor.

Here we meet to lay the Stone,
Here our Temple shall be sound;
Here our hearts, not hands alone,
By the Mystic tie are bound.
Here the Craft will meet again
On the Level tried and known;
Meet as brothers, part as men
Bound by ties now sacred grown.

Here for ages may it stand,
Like a beacon, light to give;
While Life's waves shall wash the strand,
Here Masonic Truth shall live;
Here our Jewels shall be stored—
Peace and Love—Masonic gems,
Hung like pearls on Virtue's cord—
Truths more brighter than diadems.

When the Architect of all—
Heaven's Grand Master, full of love—
From our labour we shall call
To the Lodge prepared above,
We will gather once again
Round our Great Commander's throne,
And degrees of bliss attain,
Higher than on earth are known.

Right Worshipful John H. Anthon, Deputy Grand Master, then addressed Most Worshipful James Gibson, Grand Master, as follows: Most Worshipful, the trustees of the Hall and Asylum Fund, after many years of labour, have at last arrived at that point of the undertaking when they are justified in putting into execution so much of the original plan as requires that a hall shall be built in the city of New York. In discharge of their trust they have purchased the ground whereon we now stand; and under resolution of Grand Lodge, adopted at the Annual Communication of 1869, have made suitable preparations for commencing the work at this time. I now have the pleasure of presenting to you the Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements.

Most Worshipful John W. Simons, Past Grand Master, and Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge, Chairman of Committee of Arrangements, here came forward and addressed the Grand Master as follows: Most Worshipful, the committee charged with making arrangements for laying the corner-stone have completed their labours, now have the honour to announce to you that all things are in readiness for the solemn ceremonies of placing the foundation stone of our temple.

The Grand Master then commanded silence, while Grand Chaplain, John G. Webster, delivered the invocation.

The brethren fervently responded, and another anthem was sung by Mozart Lodge, of Philadelphia.

Words by M.W. Richard Vaux, P.G.M.; music composed and arranged by W. P. Cunningham.
Sung by Mozart Lodge, of Philadelphia, W. Joseph H. Livingston, Master.

In every clime, from age to age,
Masons performed their mystic rite;
Craftsman, scholar, poet, sage,
Met and beheld Masonic light.

In every clime, in every nation,
Masons their Temple build in peace;
From corner-stone to dedication
No discord caused their work to cease.

Apprentice, Craft, and Master Mason
Each his allotted task performed,
And in whatever place or station
Devoted faith his task adorned.

Strong in this faith, in bonds united,
Which hostile men essay to sever,
Our solemn vows to each are pledged
To be a Brotherhood for ever.

Masons here lay a sure foundation,
Amid their prayers and joyous lays,
On which to build a habitation,
Now as it was in ancient days.

Then ask of God His choicest blessing,
That Masons' work may perfect be,
And Masoury each heart possessing,
The Craft may dwell in unity.

Grand Master: The Grand Treasurer will place in the corner-stone the articles prepared for the purpose.

The leaden chest prepared for the reception of the articles to be so placed under the corner-stone was then brought forward, and the various coins, &c., deposited therein.

The Grand Master and principal Grand Officers then proceeded to the corner-stone, bearing the leaden chest, which was placed in the hands of artists to be sealed. This process occupied just fifteen minutes, after which the corner-stone was raised from its place, the leaden chest deposited in the cavity, and over it was placed a copper plate, bearing appropriate inscriptions on both sides.

Then the builder of the Temple, Bro. John T. Conover, of Holland Lodge, No. 8, brought forward the cement and spread it plentifully upon the nether stone, Grand Master Gibson finishing the work with a few strokes of his trowel—not using on this occasion the silver instrument presented for that purpose, but a new steel trowel provided by Bro. Conover. The stone was then lowered into its place, St. Cecil Lodge meanwhile singing an anthem:—

Words by Bro. A. Pike; Music by Bro. W. K. Bassford, Sung by St. Cecile Lodge, No. 568.

"In God we trust," was sweetly sung
By every Morning Star on High;
"In God we trust," right gladly rung
From sons of God, in loved reply;
When from old Chaos systems rolled
From Darkness, Light in rosy youth,
And Faith, enwrapped in clouds of gold,
Taught men to know Masonic Truth.
"In God we trust," the builders said,
And Faith built up the Temple wall;
In Hope our Corner-stone is laid—
Let Faith hold up our lofty Hall!
May all be done by Square and Plumb,
The walls be builded true and strong;
And may we altogether come
To Sing the Dedication Song.

Here may we with Fidelity
Our sacred covenants fulfil;
Here Faith and Hope our Sovereign be,
And Truth inspire the earnest will;
Here Loving kindness always reign,
And Toleration, born of Love.
Oh! may we not have lived in vain,
When summoned to the Lodge above.

The Grand Master then returned to the Grand East, and, addressing Deputy Grand Master Anthon, said: Grand Master: R. W. Deputy Grand Master—What is the proper jewel of your office?

The Deputy Grand Master replied, "The Square."

G. M.—What does it teach?

D. G. M.—To square our actions by the square of virtue, and to prove our work.

G. M.—Apply the jewel of your office to the foundation stone and make report.

D. G. M.—Most Worshipful, I find the stone to be square, and that the Craftsmen have performed their duty.

G. M.—R. W. Senior Grand Warden, what is the jewel of your office, and what its uses and lessons?

S. G. W.—The Level. It teaches us the equality of the brethren, and is used to lay horizontals.

G. M.—Apply your jewel to the foundation-stone, and make report.

S. G. W.—Most Worshipful, I find the stone to be level, and that the Craftsmen have performed their duty.

G. M.—R. W. Junior Grand Warden, what is the jewel of your office, and what are its uses and lessons?

J. G. W.—The Plumb. It is used to erect perpendiculars, and teaches us to walk uprightly, in the fear of God.

G. M.—Apply your jewel to the foundation-stone, and make report.

J. G. W.—Most Worshipful, I find that the stone is plumb. The craftsmen have performed their duty.

An overture was then performed by the 71st Regiment band, after which Grand Marshal Frederick W. Herring, by the direction of the Grand Master, made the following proclamation from the West, the South, and the East, repeating it at each place: "In the name of the Most Worshipful James Gibson, Grand Master of Masons in the State of New York, I do declare this stone to be plumb, level, and square; to be well formed, true, and trusty, and duly laid according to the ancient customs, usages, and forms of our Craft."

Another anthem was then sung by St. Cecile Lodge.

Air—"God Save the Queen."
Ere this vast world was made,
Or its foundations laid,
Our Art begun;
Cherub and cherubim,
Seraph and seraphim,
Joined in one glorious hymn
Before the Throne.

God their Grand Master was,
Fixed their unerring laws
By His decree.
Faith, Hope, and Charity,
Friendship and Unity,
Truth, Love, and Secrecy,
All laws divine.

Oh! may our constant theme
To Heaven's great King Supreme
Be grateful Love.
May we, where'er we meet,
Chant hallelujahs sweet,
And with glad hearts repeat
Jehovah's praise.

The Grand Stewards then bore to the stone the elements of consecration, and the Deputy Grand Master, Senior and Junior Grand Wardens, proceeded to consecrate it. The former scattered some corn on the stone, saying: "May the blessings of the Supreme Architect be upon the people of this State, and the Craft be nourished with the corn of peace."

A vessel of wine was presented to the Senior Grand Warden, who, pouring a small portion on the stone, said: "May the health of the Craftsmen employed in erecting this edifice be preserved, and may the Giver of all good keep them from accident, and bless and prosper their labours."

The vessel of oil was presented to the Junior Grand Warden, who, pouring a small quantity on the stone, said: "May the Creator and Ruler of the world vouchsafe His blessing upon our Craft, wherever dispersed; bless our country, preserve our Union, give peace and prosperity to the people of New York, and to all the nations of the earth."

After music by the orchestra of Mozart Lodge, the Deputy Grand Master presented the architect.

The Grand Master handed the architect the plumb, level, and square, and a plan of the work, and directed him to proceed with his labours.

The Grand Master then addressed the Craft as follows: "Men and Brethren, we are assembled here to-day as regular Masons, bound by solemn engagements to be good citizens, faithful to the brethren, and to fear God. We have commenced the building of a house, which we pray may be a place of concourse for zealous Craftsmen in ages to come; that by it harmony and unity may be promoted among the brethren, and the fame and usefulness of our ancient and honourable institution promoted. The Grand Marshal will now make proclamation of the completion of our ceremony."

The Grand Marshal then made proclamation from the West, South and East, as before, in the following terms: "Know ye that the Most Worshipful James Gibson, Grand Master of Masons in the State of New York, has this day at this place laid the corner-stone of the Masonic Temple, in accordance with the forms and ceremonies of our ancient Craft."

The Grand Master then directed that the assemblage should close up around the Grand East in order that all might hear the oration. Rev. Dr. Elbert S. Porter, pastor of the First Reformed Church, then delivered the following oration: "Brothers, long desire is this day gratified. The august ceremonies we have just witnessed reward past hopes and quicken new expectations. On these foundations shall rise in massive beauty that structure within whose ample courts the great work of operative, moral Masonry shall be carried on from generation to generation. It is with just and honourable pride that we celebrate the promise of this corner-stone. Through years of generous and patient labour preparations have been made to secure the advent of this hour, wherein the Masonic fraternity of the Empire State plans in this imperial city of the great Republic that fruitful stone whose successive harvests of beneficence shall be multiplied long after our hands shall have been folded in death. Well may we rejoice and give thanks that we have been permitted to behold this goodly work auspiciously begun! Well may all who find their happiness in the service of mankind share in our joy. Brothers, as an orthodox minister of the blessed Gospel, I desire to take permission from this occasion to say a few things touching the character and objects of our venerable and world-wide fraternity. I shall speak only of what I know, and testify only of what I have seen, in the workings of our beneficent institution. Masonry is neither political, sectarian, nor national. It is not subject to any party in the State, to any denomination in the church, nor to any civil community; and yet it is both patriotic and religious, and dedicated to the interests of political freedom. The centre of Masonic unity is faith in God, the Father and Preserver of mankind. Its chief manual is the Holy Bible; its symbolism through all degrees is intended to teach self-restraint as essential to personal edification. Its constitution and laws organise charity, and compel the cultivation of brotherly love. Nor does this fraternity confine its care to its own members. For the widow and the orphan it husbands its resources, while to the poor and needy it imparts systematic relief. I am not here to defend Masonry. Yet we cannot forget that it has been wantonly assailed. For the most part, however, its enemies are its eulogists. It has to-day the honour of bearing the anathema of the proclaimed enemy of popular intelligence and civil liberty. That the priest of the Roman Vatican should be at enmity with our venerable fraternity is most natural, for in every lodge of Masons there is an open Bible, and all the duties of Masonry are enforced by lessons from its sacred pages. In the impending controversy through which our country is to pass, it may be taken for certain that a declaration will wring along the Masonic ranks, 'We won't give up the Bible.' Were Masonry to abandon that Book divine, its lodges would be closed, its work cease, and as an organisation it would perish from the earth. Certain Protestants, also, finding imperfections in the lives of Masons, have hastily pronounced against the Brotherhood. But the logic of prejudice sooner or later commits suicide, and honours itself most in the moment of its death. The prejudice raised against our fraternity has fed itself chiefly, however, from a mistaken notion concerning the character of its mysteries. This prejudice is fast disappearing; for all may know that nothing takes place behind the veil of Masonry inconsistent with the published and widely-circulated declarations of the institution. Its signs of discovery and recognition are indeed its own. Yet these are no more than a humane alphabet, by which the words of humane duty are quickly composed. So that, in truth, beyond the technical matters required for its preservation, Masonry, as an institution, shines in the open day, and demands that it shall be known by its fruits. Our fraternity does not claim to be a church, nor in any way the rival or opponent of the Church of truth and love. Its membership is intermixed with all religious communions, and thus forms an alliance which mollifies sectarian animosities in the interest of human brotherhood. Masonry is fraternity for mutual help, guardianship, and improvement. It prosecutes its work with malice towards none, and with charity towards all. It respects the religious conscience, the social attitude, and the personal immortality of each one of its vast membership, and by a simple ritual aims to realize on the earth a brotherhood without caste and a humanity without cant. For the advancement of this sublime object this temple shall rise. But grander than its walls, more resplendent than its walls, more capacious than its courts, let the spirit of our generous fraternity ascend to behold the pathway of its sublime procession as it advances under its banners, inscribed with the motto, "Friendship, Love, and Peace." This vast concourse, when it shall have sung its final anthems, will separate to meet no more on earth for ever. Let it be our case so to conquer mortality that we may join the throng of the immortals in the Temple not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

Another anthem was then sung, the bands, choir, and craft joining in the performance.

Words by Bro. A. J. H. Duganne; music—"Old Hundred."

Master Supreme! To Thee this day,
Our corner-stone with praise we lay;
And, resting on thy word fulfill'd,
To Thee, O Lord! our House we build.

Nor build we here, with strength alone
Of carved wood or sculptured stone;
But, squarely hewed and broadly plann'd,
Our lives we raise like ashlar's grand.

By Thee, O Lord! our work design'd,
The widow's son his help shall find;
And we shall frame for trembling youth
The winding stairs that lead to Truth.

In Faith we toil, in Hope we climb,
To Charity—our Arch sublime;
And evermore the keystone see,
O Master! Lord! in Thee, in Thee!

The benediction was then pronounced, and the assemblage dismissed.

Among the guests present were Richard Vaux, of Philadelphia, Past Grand Master of Pennsylvania; Winslow Lewis, of Boston, Past Grand Master of Massachusetts; Robert Rusling, Grand Master of New Jersey; and twenty or more others of Masonic dignity and fame. But the most interesting person on the platform was the venerable Daniel G. Taylor, of New York, said to be the oldest Mason in the United States. He is now in his eighty-second year, and received his Masonic initiation in Philadelphia fully sixty years ago.

In the afternoon, after the crowd had dispersed, the committee visited the ground to make sure that all was right, and found, to their surprise, in the hands of the police the sum of $100, beside several ladies' gold finger rings, all of which had been cast upon the stone by strangers as free-will offerings to the Hall and Asylum Fund.

In the evening, at the Academy of Music, a benefit in aid of the Masonic Hall and Asylum Fund was given under the auspices of Raymond Lodge, No. 664.

Mozart Lodge, the members of which came from Philadelphia to take part in the ceremonies of laying the corner-stone of the grand Masonic Temple, and in particular to contribute to the musical entertainment of the brethren, were in the evening entertained at dinner by St. Nicholas Lodge, under the auspices of R. W. Bro. Jerome Buck, District Deputy Grand Master. Tables were laid for over 300 guests in the grand dining-hall of the Astor House, and Messrs. Stetsons provided an unexceptional menu.

The brethren of Vaux Lodge of Philadelphia, under the escort of Manhattan Lodge, whose guests they were, repaired to the Metropolitan Hotel, where a grand banquet awaited them.

Keystone Lodge, No. 233, entertained St. Alban's Lodge, No. 68 of Newark, N. J., at the Revere House.

The Grand Lodge resumed its labours at 9 a.m. on Thursday. After the minutes had been read, a number of reports from various committees were received and other business transacted, and the G. L. was called off at 2 p.m.

At the opening of the afternoon session a standing committee was appointed by the Grand Master (one from each of the twenty-four districts) for the purpose of witnessing the exemplification of the standard work. This was done in accordance with an amendment to the Constitution recently adopted. Other questions were discussed, and the hour appointed for the special order, 3 p.m., having arrived—namely for the annual election of officers—the Grand Lodge proceeded with that business. Grand Master Gibson resigned his seat to the M. W. Bro. John J. Crane, and the following nominations were made:—

M. W. James M. Gibson, by R. W. William Sinclair.
R. W. John H. Anthon, by M. W. Joseph D. Evans.

R. W. Robert Macoy, by R. W. Charles W. Willets.
The nomination of R. W. Bro. Anthon was seconded by R. W. Bro. James W. Huested, who in the course of his remarks reminded the brethren that it was upon the motion of Bro. Anthon the present site was selected, and through his endeavours the corner-stone was laid.

The nomination of M. W. Bro. Gibson was also seconded, and R. W. Bro. Macoy declined the nomination, thus leaving but two candidates in the field. The election was an exciting one. The number of votes cast was 2370, and resulted in the election of the R. W. Bro. John Anthon as Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the State of New York for the ensuing year. Great applause followed the announcement of the result, and M. W. Bros. Stephen H. Joselson and Isaac Phillips were appointed a committee to bring the Grand Master before the lodge.

R. W. Anthon, in brief but appropriate remarks accepted the office, and the Lodge was called off until 7 p.m.

At the evening session, before the special order—the election—was proceeded with, the following resolution, amongst others, was offered and adopted:—"That the officers of this Grand Lodge be instructed to apply to the next Legislature of the State of New York, on behalf of the Trustees of the Masonic Hall and Asylum Fund, for the passage of an Act to exempt from all taxation, and from the charge of Croton Water rent, the land and proposed buildings owned by said Trustees, situate on the north-westerly corner of Sixth-avenue and Twenty-third street, in this city."

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and with the following result:—

Deputy Grand Master—R. W. Bro. Christopher G. Fox, Buffalo.

Senior Grand Warden—R. W. Bro. Edward L. Judson, Albany.

Junior Grand Warden—R. W. Bro. James W. Husted, Peekskill.

Grand Treasurer—M. W. Bro. John W. Simons, New York.

Grand Secretary—R. W. Bro. James M. Austin, New York.

Grand Chaplains—R. W. Bros. Rev. R. L. Schoonmaker, Schenectady; Rev. F. C. Ewer, New York; Rev. John G. Webster, Palmyra.

Grand Pursuivant—W. Bro. Johnson Fountain, New York.

Grand Tiler—W. Bro. John Hoole, New York.

Grand Lecturer—R. W. Bro. George H. Raymond, New York.

Committees were appointed, who introduced the newly-elected officers to the lodge, all of whom accepted the positions to which they had been duly elected.

Before the installation took place a congratulatory address to the lodge was made by M. W. Bro. James Jenkinson, the Representative of the Grand Lodge of Ireland, resident at New York, on behalf of the Grand Lodge of Ireland.

The newly-elected Grand Officers were then brought forward and installed with the usual impressive ceremonies.

Grand Master Gibson, in transferring his authority, spoke as follows: Brothers, Your confidence twice reposed in me has enabled me to govern the Craft to the best of my ability. You have honoured me more than I could possibly have honoured you. I have tried only to do my duty. For your kindness, your honours and your love I thank you. It is for the master builders to inspect my work, but, such as it is, I have tried to have it always that which would be for the benefit of the Craft; and now, in surrendering to a successor the emblems of authority with which you have so magnificently invested me, I do so with a perfect confidence that they are handed over to a worthy, trusty, faithful, and zealous officer. He is one worthy of your confidence, and all I ask for him is that you will ever show to him the same love and respect which you have ever shown to me.

The other officers were then installed, after which the Grand Lodge was called off from laour.

The Grand Lodge resumed labour on Friday morning at 9 o'clock, M. W. John H. Anthon presiding in the East. After a prayer by the Grand Chaplain (R. W. Rev. R. L. Schoonmaker), the Grand Lecturer presented his annual report, in which he congratulated the brethren on the great work already accomplished. He also delivered an eulogy on M. W. Bro. Robert D. Holmes, deceased, who, he said, "if true charity, Masonic kindness, goodness of heart, and love for his kind were passports to a celestial lodge, was now a member of the Grand Lodge on high." In closing his report, he alluded to the fact that in many places the work was imperfectly performed, owing to the establishment of so-called "Schools of Instruction," thus preventing uniformity in what was still termed by the brethren "the new work." He asked the Grand Lodge to take action on this subject, as without it objections made by the Grand Lecturer were of but little value.

The report was adopted.

In presenting the annual report of the Committee on Appeals, the Chairman, M. W. Bro. Clinton F. Paige, stated that the decisions of the retiring Grand Master had been so satisfactory, that no exceptions had been taken to his rulings, a thing unknown before during his connection with Masonry.

W. Bro. Jos. Koch, from the Committee on Warrants, reported in favour of granting warrants to all lodges now under dispensation.

M. W. John W. Simons presented the report of the Committee of Jurisprudence, which approved of all the decisions of Past Grand Master Gibson, except that which related to imposing a additional penalties for the nonpayment of dues. This, the Committee thought, was purely a matter to be settled by the lodges, and the Grand Lodge should only interfere by legislation for the protection of the rights of individual brethren. The report further suggested an amendment to the Constitution, which was, in substance, that the highest penalty to be imposed for non-payment of dues should be suspension until such arrears be paid. The committee reported adversely to the proposed establishment of a National Grand Lodge from which a standard work should emanate.

R. W. Bro. William Sinclair presented the report of the Committee on Charities, which, as is usual, was referred to the Committee on Finance.

At 11 a.m., the discussion of the special order, namely, an amendment to the Constitution in reference to an increase of Grand Lodge dues, was proceeded with. A long debate ensued, and the amendment was but partially adopted. At 1 p.m. the lodge was called from labour for one hour.

Labour was resumed at 2 p.m., the lodge being opened by R. W. Brother Christopher G. Fox, D. G. M.

Various reports were received and resolutions proposed, of no general interest, however.

A resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution, forbidding lodges from doing any work on Saturday—the Jewish Sabbath; as also a recommendation that certain words be stricken from the Ritual as objectionable in a sectarian sense, were tabled without debate.

The customary votes of thanks were passed, and at 6 p.m., after the minutes of the session had been read, and a prayer offered by R. W. Bro. Rev. John G. Webster, the Grand Lodge of New York closed its eighty-seventh Annual Communication.—Abridged from the New York Dispatch.

[The following song, written for his grandchildren by the late William Henry Havergall, M.A., as a characteristic example of the many beautiful little poems which the gifted author delighted to write for the young, we reprint from last month's excellent number of "Our Own Fireside."]

Summertime is coming,
With all its pleasant things,
Every bee is humming,
And every songster sings.
Mornings now are brightsome,
Inviting student thought;
Evenings, too, are lightsome,
With balmy quiet fraught!
Hearths no longer lure us,
The fields instead we roam;
Hearts albeit insure us
A happy, happy home.
Summertime, I hail thee,
The Empress of the year!
But thou soon would'st fail me
Were not thy Maker near.
He thy course disposes,
Thy light, thy scent, thy glow;
He tints all thy roses
And paints thy brilliant bow.
Laud Him all creation,
The summer's mighty Friend;
Near Him be our station,
When summer ne'er shall end.

C L E V E L A N D .

Land of hills and woods and streams,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Fairer than a poet's dreams,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Hills with purple heather crown'd,
Woods where Autumn's tints abound,
And streams that flow with pleasant sound,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Land of ancient ruins grey,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Where hooded monks did oftimes pray,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Beautiful art thou as when
Those grounds were trod by holy men,
Though long, long years have pass'd since then,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Land renown'd for mineral wealth,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Land whose breezes bring us health;
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Nature has dealt, with lavish hand,
Her bounties on this favour'd land,
Making it rich as it is grand,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Land of genius! land of song!
Cleveland, Cleveland!
What honour doth to thee belong,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Honour to thee, "Gem of the North,"
For here immortal Cook had birth,
Our Cook so famed o'er all the earth,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
Land whose praises well were sung,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
By one who left us all too young,
Cleveland, Cleveland!
He died, but link'd his name with thee,
And Walker Ord will ever be Revered as one who worshipp'd thee,
Cleveland, Cleveland!

THE GRAND COMMANDERY OF MICHIGAN.

The Grand Commandery of the Sir Knights Templar of Michigan met on the 8th ult.

The Grand Commander Thomas A. Flowers, of Pontiac, submitted the annual report, from which we extract:—

Sir Knights of the Grand Commandery of the State of Michigan. In accordance with our Constitution we are again assembled in annual convocation to review the past and legislate for the future government of our Order within this Grand Jurisdiction. Having in this asylum offered our "prayers and oblations" to Almighty God, the giver of every perfect gift, and thanked Him for many blessings He has vouchsafed to the past year, and invoked His divine assistance in all our deliberations, that we may be guided aright, I will at once proceed to give an account of my official acts, and impart such information in regard to the welfare of this Order as may have come to my knowledge. It is a source of much pleasure to me to be able to state to you that, throughout our entire jurisdiction, our Order is in a very prosperous condition. Harmony prevails, and the monster Death, so far as I know, has thinned our ranks but lightly. . . . Within the jurisdiction of this Grand Body we number twenty-five commanderies working under charters, and three under dispensations, with nearly fifteen hundred numbers; and it is a great blessing, indeed, that from so large a number so few should have been called to the asylum above.

At the request of Sir Knight R. J. Carney, E.C., I visited Bay City Commandery, U.D., for the purpose of instruction, in company with Sir Knight T. H. Armstrong, of Detroit Commandery, No. 1, and Sir Irving M. Smith, E.C., and several other Sir Knights of St. Bernard's Commandery, No. 16. I witnessed the conferring the Order of the Temple by the officers of this young commandery, which was done in a very creditable manner indeed, I conferred the Orders of the Red Cross and the Temple, and examined their records, which are kept in a very neat and creditable manner. . . . It is with much pleasure that I learn that the Knights in this jurisdiction are taking great interest in the drill, and are generally being uniformed. I would recommend that no candidate be admitted to the Order of the Temple until he shall have procured, or made provisions to procure, a uniform. . . . I recommend that this Grand Body appoint a Grand Visitor—one well versed in the ritual—whose duty it shall be to visit every commandery in this State, and give proper instruction, to the end that we may have uniform work throughout our entire jurisdiction.

I consider our present ritual imperfect, and in many parts, ambiguous. It lacks verbal directions, and I would recommend that it be revised. I learn from Grand Master W. S. Gardner, that the Grand Commandery of Illinois have prepared and adopted a very complete and excellent ritual, with verbal directions. I would recommend that a copy of the Illinois ritual be obtained for examination.

The Grand Commandery was called to labour again at two o'clock p.m., and was in session until half-past five. The following is the list of officers elected to serve for the ensuing year:

Rt. E.G.C.—G. S. Mitchell, of Jackson.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—A certain cure for headaches, excessive or deficient bile, loss of appetite, and lowness of spirits.—These pills can be taken without danger from wet or cold, and require no interruption of pleasure. They act mildly on the bowels, strengthen the stomach, and promote a healthy action of the liver, whereby they purify the blood, cleanse the skin, brace the nerves, stimulate the kidneys, and invigorate the whole system. They effect a truly wonderful change in a debilitated constitution, as they create a healthy appetite, correct indigestion, remove biliousness, giddiness, headache, and palpitation of the heart. Plain directions for the use of this medicine, at once so mild and efficacious are affixed to each box.—[Advt.]

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry

Those Ladies who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundress, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE—
THE GREAT CURE FOR COUGH
2, LOWER SEYMOUR ST. W.

A NEWLY-DISCOVERED Principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Spasms, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases, and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which dries the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's Medicine Chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 2s. 1/6d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 21s., by all Chemists. Prepared and Guaranteed by

MR. PRICE, ANALYTICAL CHEMIST, and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour-street, and 30, Duke-street, Portman-square, London, W.; or through the following agents:—

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it REQUIRES NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place

For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody: clearness touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies. The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification.

Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

BEFORE THE SCHISM.

The Earl of Crawford succeeded Lord Strathmore as Grand Master, and his administration is remarkable for two events—in the first place, for the enactment of resolutions forbidding illegal assemblies of Masons, which foreshadowed the ultimate schism; and secondly, for certain unwise encroachments on the jurisdiction of the ancient York Grand Lodge by the establishment of lodges in the North of England.

On the 17th April, 1735, Lord Weymouth was installed Grand Master at the Mercers' Hall, the ceremony being attended by the Dukes of Richmond and Athol, the Earls of Crawford, Winchelsea, Balcarres, Wemys, and Loudon, Lords Cathcart and Vere, Bertie, and many other distinguished brethren.

The Grand Stewards' Lodge was constituted under Lord Weymouth's presidency, and warrants were also issued for Portugal, South America and West Africa. As the most remarkable circumstances recorded in the annals of the Grand Lodge of England were faithfully transcribed by the celebrated brother, William Preston, during the time he was an assistant in the Grand Secretary's office, the history of the English Craft at this period is best given by quotations from his "Illustrations of Masonry":—

One circumstance occurred while Lord Weymouth was Grand Master, of which it may be necessary to take notice. The twelve Stewards, with Sir Robert Lawley, Master of the Stewards' Lodge, at their head, appeared (for the first time) in their new badges at a Grand Lodge held at the Devil Tavern on the 11th of December, 1735. On this occasion they were not permitted to vote as individuals; but it being afterwards proposed that they should enjoy this privilege, and that the Stewards' Lodge should in future be represented in Grand Lodge by twelve members, many lodges objected to the measure as an encroachment on the privilege of every other lodge which had been previously constituted. When the motion was for confirmation, such a disturbance ensued, that the Grand Lodge was obliged to be closed before the sentiments of the brethren could be collected on the subject. Of late years the punctilio has been waived, and the twelve Stewards are now permitted to vote in every communication as individuals (a).

The Earl of Loudon succeeded Lord Weymouth, and was installed Grand Master at Fishmongers' Hall, on the 15th of April, 1736. The Duke of Richmond, the Earls of Albemarle and Crawford, Lords Harcourt, Erskine, and Southwell, Mr. Anstis, garter king-at-arms, Mr. Brady, lion king-at-arms, and a numerous company of other brethren, were present on this occasion. His lordship constituted several lodges, and granted three provincial deputations during his presidency—viz., one for New England, another for South Carolina, and a third for Cape Coast Castle, in Africa.

The Earl of Darnley was elected Grand Master, and duly installed at Fishmongers' Hall on the 28th of April, 1757, in presence of the Duke of Richmond, the Earls of Crawford and Wemys, Lord Gray, and many other respectable brethren. The most remarkable event of his lordship's administration was the initiation of the late Frederic, Prince of Wales, his late Majesty's father, at an occasional lodge convened for the purpose at the Palace at Kew, over which Dr. Desaguliers presided as Master. Lord Baltimore, Col. Lumley, the Hon. Major Madden, and several other brethren were present. His Royal Highness was advanced to the second degree at the same lodge; and at another lodge, convened at the same place soon after, was raised to the degree of Master Mason.

There cannot be a better proof of the flourishing state of the society at this time, than by advertizing to the respectable appearance of the brethren in Grand Lodge, at which the Grand Master never failed to attend. Upwards of sixty lodges were represented at every communication during Lord Darnley's administration; and more provincial patents were issued by him than by any of his predecessors. Deputations were granted for Montserrat, Geneva, the Circle of Upper Saxony, the Coast of Africa, New York, and the Islands of America (b).

The Marquis of Carnarvon, afterwards Duke of Chandos, succeeded Lord Darnley in the office of Grand Master, and was duly invested and installed at an assembly and feast held at Fishmongers' Hall on the 27th of April, 1738. At this assembly, the Duke of Richmond, the Earls of Inchiquin, Loudon, and Kintore, Lords Colerane and Gray, and a numerous company of other brethren were present. The Marquis showed every attention to the society during his presidency, and, in testimony of his esteem, presented to the Grand Lodge a gold jewel for the use of the Secretary; the device, two cross pens in a knot—the knot and points of the pens being curiously enamelled. Two deputations for the office of Provincial Grand Master were granted by his lordship—one for the Carribee Islands, and the other for the West Riding of Yorkshire. This latter appointment was considered as a third encroachment on the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge at York, and so widened the original breach between the brethren in the North and the South of England, that from henceforward all correspondence between the Grand Lodges totally ceased.

On the 15th of August, 1738, Frederic the Great, afterwards King of Prussia, was initiated into Masonry in a lodge at Brunswick, under the Scots' Constitution, being at that time Prince Royal. So highly did he approve of the Institution that, on his accession to the throne, he commanded a Grand Lodge to be formed at Berlin (c), and for that purpose obtained a patent from Edinburgh. In this lodge many of the German princes were initiated, who afterwards filled the office of Grand Master with much honour to themselves and advantage to the Craft. Thus was Masonry regularly established in Prussia, and under that sanction it has flourished ever since.

No other remarkable occurrence is recorded to have happened during the administration of the Marquis of Carnarvon, except a proposition for establishing a plan to appropriate a portion of the charity to place out the sons of Masons apprentices, which, after a long debate in Grand Lodge, was rejected.

Some disagreeable altercations arose in the Society about this period. A number of dissatisfied brethren, having separated themselves from the regular lodges, held meetings in different places for the purpose of initiating persons into Masonry, contrary to the laws of the Grand Lodge. These seceding brethren, taking advantage of the breach which had been made in the friendly intercourse between the Grand Lodges of London and York, on being censured for their conduct, immediately assumed at their irregular meetings, without authority, the character of York Masons. Measures were adopted to check them, which stopped their progress for some time; but, taking advantage of the general murmur spread abroad on account of some innovations that had been introduced, and which seemed to authorise an omission of, and variation in, the ancient ceremonies, they rose again into notice. This imprudent measure of the regular lodges offended many old Masons; but, through the mediation of John Ward, Esq., afterwards Lord Viscount Dudley and Ward, matters were accommodated, and the brethren seemingly reconciled.

This, however, proved only a temporary suspension of hostilities, for the flame soon broke out anew, and gave rise to commotions, which afterwards materially interrupted the peace of the Society.

Lord Raymond succeeded the Marquis of Carnarvon in May, 1739, and under his lordship's auspices the lodges were numerous and respectable. Notwithstanding the flourishing state of the Society, however, irregularities continued to prevail; and several worthy brethren, still adverse to the encroachments on the established system of the institution, seemed to be highly disgusted at the proceedings of the regular lodges. Complaints were preferred at every succeeding committee, and the communications were fully employed in adjusting differences and reconciling animosities. More secessions taking place, it became necessary to pass votes of censure on the most refractory, and enact laws to discourage irregular associations of the Fraternity. This brought the power of the Grand Lodge in question; and, in opposition to the laws which had been established in that assembly, lodges were formed without any legal warrant, and persons initiated into Masonry for small and unworthy considerations. To disappoint the views of these deluded brethren, and to distinguish the persons initiated by them, the Grand Lodge readily acquiesced in the imprudent measures which even the regular Masons had adopted, measures which even the urgency of the case could not warrant. Though this had the desired effect, it gave rise to a new subterfuge. The brethren who had seceded from the regular lodges immediately announced independency, and assumed the appellation of ancient Masons. They propagated an opinion that the ancient tenets and practices of Masons were preserved by them, and that the regular lodges, being composed of modern Masons, had adopted new plans, and were not to be considered as acting under the old establishment. To counteract the regulations of the Grand Lodge, they instituted a new Grand Lodge in London professedly on the ancient system; and, contrary to their duty as Masons, under that assumed banner constituted several new lodges, in opposition to the regular established authority. These irregular proceedings they pretended to justify under the feigned sanction of the Ancient York Constitution; and many gentlemen of reputation, being deceived by this artifice, were introduced amongst them, so that their lodges daily increased. Without authority from the Grand Lodge at York, or from any other established power in Masonry, these refractory brethren persevered in the measures they had adopted, formed committees, held communications, and even appointed annual feasts.

(a) It was not till the year 1770 that this privilege was strictly warranted, when, at a Grand Lodge, on the 7th of February, at the Crown and Anchor Tavern in the Strand, the following resolution passed: "As the right of the Members of the Stewards' Lodge in general to attend the Committee of Charity appears doubtful, no mention of such right being made in the laws of the Society, the Grand Lodge are of opinion, that they have no general right to attend; but it is hereby resolved: That the Stewards' Lodge be allowed the privilege of sending a number of brethren, equal to any other four lodges, to every future Committee of Charity; and that, as the Master of each private lodge only has a right to attend, to make a proper distinction between the Stewards' Lodge and the other lodges, that the Master and three other members of that lodge be permitted to attend at every succeeding committee on behalf of the said lodge." This resolution, however, was declared not to be intended to deprive any lodge, which had been previously constituted, of its regular rank and precedence. Notwithstanding this express provision, a privilege has been lately granted to the Stewards' Lodge, of taking precedence of all the other lodges, the two oldest not excepted.

(b) At this time the authority granted by patent to a Provincial Grand Master was limited to one year from his first public appearance in that character, within his province; and if, at the expiration of that period, a new election by the lodges under his jurisdiction did not take place, subject to the approbation of the Grand Master, the patent was no longer valid. Hence we find, within the course of a few years, different appointments to the same station; but the office is now permanent, and the sole appointment of the Grand Master.

(c) His Majesty's attachment to the Society soon induced him to establish several new regulations for the advantage of the Fraternity; and, among others, he ordained: 1. That no person should be made a Mason, unless his character was unimpeachable and his manner of living and profession respectable. 2. That every member should pay 25 rix-dollars (or £4 3s.) for the first degree; 50 rix-dollars (or £8 6s.) on his being passed into the second degree; and 100 rix-dollars on his being raised a Master-Mason. 3. That he should remain at least three months in each degree; and that every sum received should be divided by the Grand Treasurer into three parts—one to defray the expenses of the lodge, another to be applied to the relief of the distressed brethren, and the third to be allotted to the poor in general.

Obituary.

R.W. BROTHER STEPHEN BLAIR,
Prov. Grand Master, E. Lancashire.

This estimable brother, whose decease we announced in our last issue, was initiated in the St. John's Lodge, No. 327, Wigton, on the 7th March, 1832, and joined the Anchor and Hope, No. 37, Bolton, on the 27th May, 1834, in which he served the office of W. Master in 1835 and 1845, continuing a member until the day of his death.

Bro. Blair was appointed Prov. Grand Master for East Lancashire on the 30th of April, 1856, and subsequently Provincial Grand Superintendent of Royal Arch Masons for both divisions of Lancashire. He also represented Bolton in Parliament from 1848 to 1852, and was greatly esteemed and beloved by his neighbours and friends. His devotion to the Craft was unwavering during his long career as a Mason, the most recent proof of his zeal being a splendid donation of one thousand guineas to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and few present will readily forget the ringing cheers with which the generous donor was greeted upon the occasion of the Festival in 1869, when the amount was announced. Under his sway, and that of Sir Thomas G. Hesketh, Bart., M.P., Prov. Grand Master for West Lancashire, our Lancastrian brethren have become most munificent supporters of all the Masonic charities and it is to be hoped that Bro. Blair's successor will emulate so noble an example.

M.W. BROTHER JACOB CHRISTIAN COSMOS BRASTRUP, Grand Master of Denmark.

We deeply regret having to announce the decease of M.W. Bro. Jacob Christian Cosmos Brästrup, the Grand Master of Denmark, who departed this life at Copenhagen, on the afternoon of Monday, the 11th inst. Bro. Brästrup occupied the position of a Privy Councillor, and was also the Minister of Justice and Public Worship for the Danish Kingdom. He was chosen Grand Master of the Masonic Order in succession to his late Majesty, King Frederick VII., and ruled the Craft with great judgment and success. M.W. Bro Brästrup was, we understand, a member of the Lodge "Cubus Frederici VII.", at Copenhagen, and his loss is one which will be profoundly felt by the Danish brethren generally, who entertained for their lamented deceased Grand Master the warmest sentiments of affection and esteem.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SUFFOLK.

On Monday, the 4th inst., the Provincial Grand Lodge of Suffolk held its annual meeting at Aldeburgh, and the inhabitants of the little watering place accorded the brethren a cordial welcome. In the neighbourhood of the railway-station there was a liberal display of bunting, and on the road leading to the town were erected two neat arches bearing the mottoes "Welcome" and "Union is Love." In part of the Town Hall and White Lion Hotel large poles covered with evergreens and bearing flags were fixed at regular distances, and altogether the town wore quite a festive appearance. The majority of the brethren arrived by the early train from Ipswich, and at this period of the day prospects of pleasant weather looked rather distant, as a steady rain was falling with indications of lasting. However, shortly after 10 o'clock, the clouds dispersed and the remainder of the day was fine and warm. On arriving at Aldeburgh the brethren at once went to Alde House, where they were hospitably entertained at breakfast by Bro. Newson Garrett. At 10 o'clock a meeting of the Finance Board was held at the Lion Hotel, and at half-past ten lodge was opened at the Town Hall. The brethren having robed in the lower room of this quaint building, took their positions in the lodge-room above, to receive the R.W.P.G.M. Col. Sir Shafto Adair. There were upwards of 130 brethren present, being a larger number than for some years past. Lodge having been opened in due and ancient form, the minutes of the last Provincial Grand Lodge were read by the P.G. Secretary and confirmed. The minutes of the Finance Board were also read, and on their recommendation a sum of £5 was granted as temporary relief to a distressed brother in the province. It was also agreed, at the recommendation of the board, that the sum of £10 10s. should be granted to the Boys' and Girls' School, belonging to the Craft, and £5 each to the Institutions for Aged Men and Women. The P.G. Sec. reported that the balance in hand now was £91 7s. 11d.

The P.G.M. then addressed the brethren at some length on matters connected with the Province and Freemasonry generally. He congratulated them upon the large attendance, as it showed an increased interest in Masonry, and a desire to suffer inconvenience rather than forsake its duties. He regretted that they were about to lose their P.G. Sec., Bro. Marriott, from whom he had received the greatest assistance, but he hoped they they should not entirely lose his services for the future. He was also sorry to receive the resignation of the P.G.A.S., Bro. Tidd, who had left the county, and, therefore, could no longer hold office in the Province; but he had to inform them that he had appointed a P.G.A. Sec. in Bro. Tidd's place, and that they would thus continue to have what was very desirable, a correct record preserved of their proceedings.

The brethren then formed procession, and, headed by the band of the Saxmundham Rifle Corps, marched to the parish church. They arranged themselves under their respective lodge banners, the junior lodge of the Province going first, and the other lodges according to their more recent formation. On arriving at the church the brethren opened right and left, and the P.G. Officers, preceded by the P.G. Chaplain, carrying the volume of the sacred law, advanced through and entered the church, being followed by the lodges in seniority. The lodges represented were:—Unity, Lowestoft; Doric, Woodbridge; British Union, Ipswich; St. Luke's, Ipswich; Apollo, Beccles; Virtue and Silence, Hadleigh; Perfect Friendship, Ipswich; Prudence, Halesworth; Phoenix, Stowmarket; Fidelity, Framlingham; Waveney, Bungay; Adair, Aldeburgh; Prince of Wales, Ipswich; and Royal St. Edmund's, Bury. The church was completely filled, there being a large number of other persons present. There was also a large number of spectators to witness the procession, and the day seemed to be regarded quite as a holiday in the town. The prayers at the church were read by the Vicar, the Rev. H. T. Dowler, and the lessons by the P.G. Chaplain, the Rev. R. F. Palmer. The anthem was "Behold how good and joyful," (Dr. Clarke Whitfield), the solo being nicely sung by Bro. Emra Holmes. The hymns were selected for the occasion, and were Nos. 123 and 142, "Hymns Ancient and Modern." The musical arrangements were under the direction of the P.G.O., Bro. A. J. Barber, who presided at the organ. The sermon was preached by the G. Chaplain of England, Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martyn, from xvii. Prov., 24: "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly; but there is a Friend that sticketh closer than a brother." The rev. gentleman, in the course of a most eloquent and impressive discourse, in turn addressed himself to those who were connected with the binding tie of brotherly love and affection one to another and those outside the Craft. Freemasonry, he said, derived its teaching from God himself, and its special object was to explain the excellence and beauty of true practical benevolence in its noblest and most comprehensive form. Many of the uninitiated were accustomed to think lightly of Freemasonry, and ridicule it, and consider it merely as a better sort of benefit club, or as a great society pretending to do great things and doing very little, or an excuse for social gatherings; but it was nothing of the sort—it had a life-giving power of its own, and had acted and did act as one of Christianity's truest and most potent handmaids. A good Mason must be a good man, although it would be futile to expect all Masons to be good men. He spoke of the benefits brethren received from the Craft when in distress and trouble, and urged all Masons, if they desired to draw others into the Brotherhood, to show by their lives that right principles had been instilled into them. The offertory, which amounted to £14 5s. 6d., was devoted to the British Schools and District Visiting Society.

After the service the procession was reformed, and the brethren returned to the Town Hall, and the rest of the lodge business was proceeded with. The P.G.M. referred to the admirable sermon that they had just listened to, and thanked Bro. Martyn on behalf of the lodge, and hoped that he would consent to have the sermon published. Bro. Martyn expressed his willingness to comply with the request, and the sermon should be printed and published if it was really desired. The P.G.M. then appointed his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. the Rev. E. I. Lockwood, D.P.G.M.; F. Jennings, P.S.G.W.; Harper, P.J.G.W.; S. B. King, P.I.G.D.; the Rev. R. F. Palmer, P.G.C.; Sheridan, P.G. Reg.; F. R. Burtall, P.G. Purs.; W. H. Lucia, P.G. Sec.; E. Hayward, P.G.A. Sec.; W. A. Smith, P.G.D.C.; W. Boby, E. F. Adams, P.G.I.G.; Spencer Freeman, P.G. Treas.; Syer, P.G. Tyler; P.G. Stewards, Bros. Whitbread, Cornell, Byford Joslin, W. Hayward and Riches.

On the motion of Bro. HEAD, seconded by Bro. NEWSON GARRETT, a vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Marriott, for his efficient services as P.G. Secretary, and it was ordered to be entered on the minutes.

Bro. MARRIOTT briefly acknowledged the compliment, and assured them that it was only from his not having the time to properly attend to the duties of the office that he was led to resign it.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar of Aldeburgh for allowing the use of his church; to the P.G.O., and the ladies and gentlemen who assisted in the choir; and last but not least, to Bro. Newson Garrett for his generous hospitality.

The lodge was then closed in solemn form, and the brethren adjourned from labour to refreshment. The banquet took place in a large tent, erected on the green in front of the White Lion Hotel, and was supplied by Bro. Moore, the landlord of the hotel. Over 100 brethren sat down, under the presidency of the R.W.P.G.M. Upon the removal of the cloth, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts followed. "The Queen," and "The Prince and Princess of Wales," having been duly acknowledged, the P.G.M. gave the "The Grand Master of England, the Earl De Grey and Ripon," which was drunk with honours; "The Past Grand Masters of England," and "The D.G.M. and the Officers of Grand Lodge of England" were next proposed. To the latter toast Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martyn responded on behalf of the present officers, and Bro. Head for P.G. Officers. The R.W.D.P.G.M. Bro. the Rev. E. I. Lockwood proposed "The health of the R.W.P.G.M. Sir Shafto Adair," which was most enthusiastically drunk. The remaining toasts were "The D.P.G.M. of Suffolk;" "The P.G. Chaplain and the Clergy of the Province" (responded to by Bro. the Rev. R. F. Palmer); "The Wardens and Officers Past and Present of Provincial Grand Lodge," (acknowledged by Bro. F. Jennings); "The Visiting Brethren of other Provinces," (responded to by Bro. S. Bloomfield); "The Masonic Charities," (proposed by Bro. Gissing and responded to by Bro. Head); "Bro. Newson Garrett," (proposed by Bro. Adams); "The W.M.'s of the Province," (coupled with the name of Bro. Harper, who responded); "The P.G. Sec.," and "The Ladies," on whose behalf Bro. James returned thanks. As usual, the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. Some excellent songs were sung during the evening, by Bros. Montem Smith, Fearnside, Capon, W. O. Smith, Woodwards, &c. The first-named brother's well-known abilities as a singer were thoroughly appreciated.

Thus ended one of the most successful meetings of the P.G. Lodge. Next year it will hold its annual meeting at Ipswich.

I HAVE one word more to say, before I close, of the Pain Killer, which I consider a most valuable medicine. I have travelled a good deal since I have been in Kansas, and never without taking it with me. I used it freely in my practice for cholera in 1849 and 1855, and with better success than any other medicine.—A. HUNTER, M.D., Manhattan, Kansas, April 17, 1866.—To Perry Davis & Son, London.

SUMMER FESTIVAL OF THE DOMATIC LODGE, No. 177.

The annual Summer Festival of the members of the Domatic Lodge was held on Friday, the 8th inst., at Bro. Joynt's, the Prince of Wales Hotel, East Moulsey, near Hampton Court, under exceptional and favourable circumstances.

For many years it has been the custom to have a day out, at about this time of the year, but upon no former occasion, within the recollection of even the oldest member of the lodge, has the meeting been attended with such success as the present. This must have been and will ever be, we are sure, a source of congratulation to the urbane W.M., Bro. J. R. Foulger, who for some six months has presided over this, we think, the largest lodge in England. In point of influence and position it will certainly not rank as the least important in the Grand Lodge books, for it can boast of several Grand Officers, brethren whose merits have found favour in Grand Lodge and whose worth alone has raised them to the position they now occupy. However, it having been resolved to have this reunion, the following brethren were appointed as a Committee of Stewards, to carry out the necessary arrangements:—Bros. Walford, S.W.; Ferguson, J.W.; Kent, J.D.; Bird, Chubb, E. B. Clarke, Potter, R. M. Smith, Treas.; Brett, G.P.; and Chas. E. Thompson, Hon. Sec. The house having been chosen and the tickets circulated, nothing but fine weather was wanted to complete the joyfulness of the occasion. It was originally intended that the ladies who might accompany the brethren should join the company at dessert, but as the time drew near it was determined to invite the ladies to grace the festive board by their presence, which they consented to do, and, as we have stated, that exceptional circumstances in matters relative to Masonry and the fineness of the weather, rendered the whole affair a brilliant success.

Bro. Walford, the S.W., faced the W.M. at the lower end of the table, and amongst those assembled we noticed: Bros. Henry Carpenter, P.Z., P.M., Industry Lodge (a veteran in Masonry); Joseph Hedding (Great Eastern Railway); Walter Joyce (Strand Theatre), Southern Star Lodge; H. Potter, P.M., 1158, 177, 25, &c.; Tims, S.D.; Willing, junr., A. Treadwell, Bird, Chubb, Chudleigh, Wigmore, Goodfellow, Ford (Barley Mow Hotel, Salisbury Square), Fountain (White Swan, Salisbury Square), Evans, Joynt, Chas. E. Thompson, S.W. 1158, and many others, also a brilliant company of ladies all most elegantly attired.

The W.M. having sounded his gavel, grace was said, and an excellent dinner partaken of, the serving of which spoke well for the resources of the establishment but it would be better on future occasions for the esteemed host (Bro. Joynt) to provide a more sprightly staff of waiters, there being nothing to speak of in the way of complaint save that. The wines were very good.

The W.M. having set an example, by drinking the health of the whole of the company present, frequent compliments were exchanged on all sides. The cloth was drawn and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts given, but without the "honours," in consequence of the presence of the ladies, and included "The Right Hon. the Earl de Grey, G.M.," "Earl Carnarvon, D.G.M.," and "Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, P.G.M."

The next toast was given by the W.M. He said, in proposing the health of "The Visitors," that he was sure they had enjoyed themselves, and, as old and good Masons, would agree with him that it was an unlooked-for pleasure, and therefore the more agreeable, in having the presence of the ladies (hear, hear). It was not at first intended to ask them (the ladies) to dine with them, but, for reasons which he would not dilate upon, the committee had altered their minds and they were honoured with their presence that day. It was indeed an unexpected pleasure (hear, hear). He then reverted to the presence of the visitors, and expressed the gratification he and the other members felt at their company (hear, hear). (The toast was well received.)

Bro. CARPENTER returned thanks, and mentioned that he was indebted to Bro. Thompson, the Hon. Sec., for his visit that afternoon, which had been greatly enhanced, as the W.M. had supposed, by the presence of the ladies. He certainly was of opinion that the ladies should on such occasions, when no Masonic business was transacted, be permitted to take part in the pleasures of the day (hear, hear, and cheers). He concluded by wishing health, happiness and prosperity to them all.

Bro. FORD (an old member of the Domatic Lodge) also expressed his thanks for the treat he had had that day, and stated his intention of re-joining the Domatic Lodge as soon as the meetings were resumed.

The W.M. then proposed what he ventured to call the toast of the day, viz.: "The Health of the Ladies" (loud cheers). He sincerely hoped they would be invited next year, he should do all he could to obtain their presence, for he considered that it was nothing but right they should have the opportunity of being present. The meeting that day had been such a wonderful success that he did not doubt the motion for their admission would be carried without any difficulty (hear, hear). The toast was such a good one that it required no recommendation from him to make them drink it with proper enthusiasm (hear, hear); he would only say that had it not been for their presence they would not have enjoyed themselves anything like what they had done (hear, hear). He coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Willing.

As the W.M. had stated, the toast needed no long speech to give it éclat, for it was received with every demonstration of respect and good feeling.

Bro. WILLING responded in felicitous terms on behalf of the ladies. He was afraid the W.M. had made a very bad choice in selecting him to reply for them. He was, nevertheless, speaking for the Ladies, very much obliged to them indeed for asking them to dine that day. The ladies took a great interest in Masonry, because they believed it to be good, and because of the support it gave to so many charities (hear, hear). He believed Masons to be thorough bricks, and that the ladies were willing to become mortar, and stick to them as much as they could (laughter). For the many handsome ladies present he begged to tender their sincere and grateful thanks for the compliment paid them.

The W.M. proposed the health of "The Officers of the Lodge," for which Bros. Walford and Tims returned thanks in appropriate terms.

The health of "Bro. Chas. E. Thompson, the Hon. Secretary," was made a special toast, and in proposing it a high compliment was paid that brother for the trouble he had voluntarily taken upon himself in accepting that office, and for the way in which he had carried out the arrangements.

Bro. CHARLES E. THOMPSON (S.W. 1158) in responding, assured the brethren that if his poor services had in the slightest degree tended to their comfort he was sufficiently paid. Undoubtedly he had been put to some trouble, for the Domatic Lodge numbered something like 150 members, but with him it had been "a labour of love." Twice had he proposed that the ladies should dine with the brethren, and he trusted that for the future it would be a recognized thing. He thanked them all very sincerely.

Bro. POTTER, in happy terms, replied to the toast of the "P.M.'s."

The healths of "The Lay Members" and "The Host" were then given and responded to by Bros. Treadwell and Joynt, and, after some excellent songs and a recitation by Bro. Joyce, the brethren and ladies returned to town highly delighted. We must not forget to mention that the respected Bro. Carpenter brought the harmony of the evening to a close with his favourite song of "Twelve Bottles More."

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Gresham Lodge, No. 869.—This lodge held their usual meeting as the Four Swans Hotel, Waltham Cross, on Saturday, July 9th. Bro. R. Bruce, W.M., was supported by all the officers, and there was a good attendance of brethren. Bro. Henry Mugeridge, P.M. 192, was the only visiting brother, and he expressed his satisfaction at the perfect manner in which the W.M. had discharged his duties, which consisted of raising Bros. Stephens and Pottle. As is usual at this season of the year there was a good attendance of ladies, the wives and friends of the brethren; and at the conclusion of the business of the lodge, all adjourned to a sumptuous and well-laid banquet, where they thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and interchanged those friendly courtesies which tend so much to cement friendship and increase the interest of the fair ones in the cause of Masonry. The only toasts on this occasion were those of "The Queen and the Craft," "The Ladies," and "The W.M." The toast of "The Ladies" was responded to by the gallant Bro. Capt. Barnes in a very amusing and complimentary manner. The evening was enlivened by several capital songs. Bro. W. H. Ethrington sang a new song he had recently set to music, entitled "Happy to Meet," which, not only as a Masonic song, but as one particularly appropriate for this occasion, gave great satisfaction. The brethren and friends then adjourned into the beautiful gardens, where the dessert was laid, during which the band of the 41st Middlesex Rifles V.C., conducted by Bro. Ethrington, played some excellent selections and dance music, thus concluding a most enjoyable day. The brethren returned to town much pleased with their reunion meeting.

Perfect Ashlar, No. 1178.—At the Gregorian Arms Tavern, 95, Jamaica-road, Bermondsey, this lodge met on Thursday, July 7th. Bro. J. W. Avery, W.M., presided. He passed Bro. Baker, and raised Bro. Collins. There were present: Bros. J. Green, S.W.; H. Bartlett, J.W.; Dr. Dixon, P.M.; Treas.; F. Walters, P.M.; Sec.; D. Rose, P.M.; S.D.; G. J. Grace, J.D.; J. W. Dudley, J.G.; F. H. Elsworth, P.M., &c. Visitors: Lazarus, P.M.; Swass, &c. Banquet was also served.

PROVINCIAL.

WARRINGTON.—Gilbert Greenall Lodge, No. 1250.—The regular monthly meeting of the lodge was held on Monday evening last, at the Masonic Rooms. The W.M. Bro. W. Mossop was supported by Bros. W. Richardson, J.W., as S.W.; P. J. Edelsten, as J.W.; John Bowes, P.M., Past Prov. G. Reg., as P.M.; W. S. Hawkins, S.D.; W. Pollitt, J.D.; J. Parry, Peter Leigh, I. H. Potter, John Wood, Thomas Pierpoint, Henry Hoult, R. Brierly, Thomas Auckland, and James Hannah, Tyler. Visitor: Bro. William Smith, W.M. No. 148. The lodge was opened in form with prayer, when the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The lodge was opened in the second degree, when Bros. Pierpoint, Wood, and Potter claimed preferment, and having sustained their claim, were entrusted. On readmission they were raised to the sublime degree of M.M., the W.M. being assisted by Bro. Bowes. The lodge was closed down, and nothing further being proposed for the good of Masonry in general or of No. 1250 in particular, it was closed with the usual solemnities.

SCOTLAND.

GLASGOW.—Lodge of Glasgow St. John, No. 3 bis.—The meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 5th inst., at the usual hour. In the absence of the Master, the chair was filled by Bro. Craig, P.M.; Bro. Fletcher acting S.W.; and Bro. M'Aulay acting J.W. The lodge was duly opened, after which a candidate was initiated by Bro. Bamber, Sec. The R.W.M. thereafter entered and took the chair, upon which the minutes were read, and, after some comments, passed. The Sub-M. then proposed that a committee of the Office Bearers of the lodge should be appointed to wait upon the editor of the Glasgow Herald in order to get, if possible, the name of the individual who was writing concerning the lodge under the signature of "Masonicus," so that, if possible, legal proceedings should be taken against him for his remarks. This motion was seconded by the Treasurer, and agreed to. The lodge was shortly afterwards closed in due form.

ROYAL ARCH.

Caveau Chapter, No. 176.—The election meeting of this chapter was held at Radley's Hotel, Blackfriars, on Thursday, July 7th; Companions J. Lacey, M.E.Z.; F. Walters, P.Z., as H.; P. Browne, J., presided. The elections were unanimous in favour of Companions P. A. Nairne, as Z.; P. Browne, H.; M. Scott, J.; F. Walters, P.Z., Treasurer (re-elected); R. S. Foreman, S.E.; A. Williams, S.N.; T. Quihampton, P.S. It was unanimously agreed that a five-guinea P.Z.'s Jewel be given to Comp. J. Lacey, M.E.Z., for his valuable services during his year of office. Banquet followed. Visitors: J. Hart, Givilt, &c.

SCOTLAND.

Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire.—A meeting of this chapter was convened on Friday, 1st inst., by order of the S.G.R.A. Chapter, for the purpose of recommending a companion to the office of P.G. Superintendent. The chapter was opened by M.E.P.Z.'s Crabb, Taylor, and Campbell, &c., &c. The notice having been read calling the meeting, a motion was proposed by Comp. Wallace (79), seconded by Comp. Balfour (73), that a Superintendent be recommended for this Province. Comp. Campbell (69) proposed an amendment, seconded by Comp. Park (122) that we remain as we are at present, under the superintendence of the S.G.R.A. Chapter, as we have been for the last six years, and that we request a deputation of the S.G.R.A. Chapter to visit the Province as often as convenient, to inquire into the working of Royal Arch Masonry. The motion and amendment having been put to the meeting, five voted for the motion and eight for the amendment. Comp. Wallace's motion was lost by a majority of three.

MARK MASONRY.

SHEFFIELD.—Britannia M.M. Lodge, No. 53.—The brethren of this Mark Masters' Lodge held their annual meeting in the Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield, on Thursday, the 7th inst., when Bro. E. Drury, W.M., assisted by his officers, very ably and impressively advanced to this honourable degree Bro. Ashberry, J.W. No. 1239, and Bro. Scargill, J.D. No. 1239. The W.M.-elect, Bro. H. Matthews, W.M. of the Wentworth Lodge, No. 1239, was then presented by Bro. Brittain, W.M. 139, to the retiring W.M., Bro. E. Drury, P.M., P.Z. of 296, and P. Prov. G.S.B. of West Yorkshire, to receive at his hands the benefit of installation, which ceremony he performed in that able and impressive manner which has gained for him the esteem and applause of the whole of the Craft in Sheffield. After the brethren had saluted the newly-installed W.M., he appointed Bro. Brittain W.M. 139 and P.M. of 296, as S.W.; Bro. H. J. Garnett, P.M. of this lodge, P.M. 139 and 1239, also P.Z. 296, as J.W.; and after duly investing them and the rest of the officers, the lodge was closed in due and ancient form. The whole of the brethren then retired from the lodge-room to the banquet, presided over by Bro. Matthews, W.M., who gave the customary loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. P. M. Drury then rose to propose the toast of the evening, "The Health of the W.M.," and said it was with feelings of intense pleasure that he had that evening the honour of installing as his successor in the chair of Adoniram such a good, zealous, and hard-working Mason as Bro. Matthews; and from the efficient manner in which Bro. Matthews discharged all the duties he undertook in the various degrees of Masonry, he felt quite confident that under his rule and guidance the Britannia Mark Masters Lodge, No. 53, could not fail being prosperous. The toast was enthusiastically received, and with musical honours. After the W.M. had responded to the toast in appropriate terms, he proposed "The Health of the Officers of the Lodge," to which Bro. Brittain, S.W., responded. "The Health of the Installing Officer (Bro. P. M. Drury), 'The newly-advanced Brethren,'" and several other toasts, having been given and duly acknowledged, the brethren separated at an early hour, after spending a very enjoyable evening.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

RED CROSS OF ROME & CONSTANTINE.

St. George's Cam Law, No. 18.—A meeting of this conclave was held at the Palmerston Arms, Grosvenor Park, Camberwell, on the 7th inst. The chair was occupied by Sir Knt. Henry Thompson, M.P.S., who was supported by Sir Knts. W. H. Hubbard, G.T., as V.E.; H. J. Wright, S.G.; C. L. Marshall, Treas.; E. Shaughnessy, R.; T. Wingham, Prefect; T. Wingham, jun., Org.; R. Wentworth Little, G.R.; J. Ashwell, S.; G. Catherwood, &c. A notice of motion was given to discontinue the meetings of the conclave during the summer months, and the M.P.S. ordered a special assembly to be convened in September for the purpose of considering the proposition. After rehearsing the ceremony, the conclave was closed, and the knights spent the evening together under the genial presidency of their esteemed M.P.S., who's excellent working in Craft Masonry is so highly esteemed and appreciated.

FUNERAL of R.W. BRO. STEPHEN BLAIR, P.G.M. E. LANCASHIRE.

The remains of the late Stephen Blair, Esq., of Mill Hill House, were interred at the Bolton Cemetery, on Saturday, July 9th, amidst the profoundest manifestations of respect. Although the unobtrusive character of the deceased gentleman naturally induced within him a desire that his funeral should be conducted as privately as possible, yet in obedience to the very general wish which had been expressed by the workpeople at Mill Hill Bleach Works, as well as by the members of the Order of Freemasons, amongst whom Mr. Blair occupied so honourable and distinguished a position, to pay a last tribute of respect to his remains, his relatives and friends were eventually led to relax somewhat their original intention, and as the mournful cortège wended its way slowly through the town it presented a very imposing spectacle. It left the stately mansion of Peel Hall, in Little Hulton, the residence of the late Harrison Blair, Esq., at twenty minutes before twelve, and proceeded via Buckley-lane, Albert-road, Egerton-street, and Granville-street to Manchester. The workpeople of the departed gentleman, the whole of whom were neatly dressed in black, assembled shortly after eleven o'clock in George Green-lane, Great Lever, and on the arrival of the long line of mourning coaches and carriages, they marshalled in line on Manchester-road, and preceded the cortège through Burnden, and down Bridgeman-street to the Bath Assembly Rooms. Here a large number of the brethren of the Masonic Order, in white ties and white gloves, headed the entire procession, which afterwards walked along Bradford-street and Bury New-road to the Cemetery, the order at this point being as follows:—

The Freemasons, about 350 in number, walking four abreast, amongst them being the following: Provincial Grand Officers: Robert Hopwood Hutchinson, P.S.G.W.; William Birch, J.G.W.; Charles Tiplady, G.T.; Richard Radcliffe, S.G.D.; James Spencer, G.D.C.; William Gouldthorp, G.O.; John Smith, G.P.; R. Geoghegan, John Clough, R. C. J. Duckworth, and Amos Armistead, G.Stewards; William Dawson, G.T. Past Provincial Grand Officers: Le G. N. Starkie, P.P.S.G.W.; J. L. Hine, P.P.S.G.W.; Samuel D. Lees, M.D., P.P.S.G.W.; William Henry Wright, P.P.J.G.W.; Wm. P. Pickup, P.P.J.G.W.; George Mellor, P.P.J.G.W.; Thos. G. Parker, P.P.J.G.W.; Rev. P. C. Nicholson; P.P.G.C.; Rev. J. B. Phillips, M.A., P.P.G.C.; Rev. J. L. Figgins, P.P.G.C.; John Barker, P.P.G.T.; Joseph Dobson Kennedy, P.P.G.T.; George Brett, P.P.G.R.; James Frederick Tweedale, P.P.G.R.; Jas. R. Wolfenden, P.P.G.S.; James Booth, P.P.S.G.D.; Thomas Croxton, P.P.S.G.D.; William Henry Prince, P.P.S.G.D.; Charles Affleck, P.P.J.G.D.; John Duffield, P.P.G. Superintendent of Works; Austin Sheldard, P.P.G. Director of Ceremonies; Samuel Titmas, P.P.G. Director of Ceremonies; Christopher M. Jones, P.A.P.G. Director of Ceremonies; Reuben Mitchel, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; Edmund Wrigley, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; Frederick Anderton, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; Henry Maiden, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; John S. Redfern, P.P.G. Pursuivant; William Roberts, P.P.G. Pursuivant; Uriah Nichols, P.P.G. Pursuivant.

Members of the same lodge as the deceased (No. 37): C. H. Bayley, W.M.; F. Bayley, J.W.; P.M.'s J. Robinson, S. Isherwood, R. H. Barrett, G. P. Brockbank, and R. Harwood; W. Slater, R. W. Knowles, J. Pilkington, H. Veevers, F. F. Ommanney, J. Watkins, C. Hopwood, C. Whowell, J. Walker, and N. Routledge.

Schofield, P.M., William Walker, S.W., Mark Holt, P.M., and Amos Stott, P.M. C. R. N. Beswick Roys, P.P.G.S.B. for Worcester; M. Burgess, S.D., Herfordshire; John Harrison Blair, S.W., Cambridge, United States.

The workpeople of Mill-hill bleachworks, 110 in number, also walking four abreast, headed by Mr. Robert Glaister, agent and book-keeper, who had been in the employ of Mr. Blair eighteen years; Mr. Edward Quinn, foreman, thirty-four years; and Mr. James Heywood, foreman millwright, twenty-three years—these three wearing hatbands.

The following private carriages attended:—

1st. Containing the Rev. Canon Powell, vicar of Bolton; the Rev. T. Doughty, of St. John's Parsonage, Little Hulton; and Dr. W. Y. Martin, of Buckley House, Little Hulton.

2nd. Thomas Lever Rushton, Esq., Moor Platt, Horwich; Charles Wolfenden, Esq., The Height; and Thomas Glaister, Esq., of Mill-hill (who, with Mrs. H. Blair, are the executors and executrix of the deceased gentleman); and also Christopher Briggs, Esq., of the Lees, Sharples, family solicitor.

3rd. Mr. J. Tunnah, of Manchester-road, Provincial Grand Secretary of the Order of Freemasons; and Mr. W. Nicholson, of Mill-hill Blackworks.

The horse, drawn by four black horses, richly caparisoned.

Mourning coaches:—

1st. Containing Thomas G. Horridge, Esq., of the Raikes; and Thomas Horridge, Esq., of Bolton-road, Farnworth.

2nd. A. Macdonald Blair, Esq., Vivian-terrace,

Greenheys, Manchester; H. F. Blair, Esq., of Marlborough-terrace, Rusholme, Manchester; and James Knowles, Esq., Eagley Bank.

3rd. S. M. Diggles, Esq., Prestwich Hills, near Manchester; W. J. Rideout, Esq., of Charles-street, Berkeley-square, London; and R. J. Wood, Esq., Dtspatch office, Fleet-street, London.

4th. Edmund H. Sykes, Esq., jun., Edgeley Cottage, Stockport; James Searle, Esq., Walton Cottage, Whalley Range, Manchester; and Christopher Haworth, Esq., Wallsuches, Horwich.

10th. Thomas Lever Rushton, Esq., Moor Platt.

11th. Thomas Walmsley, Esq., the Mayor, Brooklyn, Great Lever.

12th. Frank Hardcastle, Esq., Firwood.

13th. James Ormrod, Esq., Halliwell Lodge.

14th. Robert Cross, Esq., of Mortfield House.

The following had also been invited to the funeral, but were unable from various causes, attend:—John Hick, Esq., M.P., Hill Top, Sharples; W. T. Mann, Esq., Bowmere Lodge, Taporley; R. Andsell, Esq., R.A., Lytham-House, St. Alban's-road, Kensington; D. Whitehead, Esq., Saddleworth; Edward Rodgett, Esq., Higher Walton, near Preston; Peter Ormrod, Esq., Halliwell Hall; and W. Hargreaves, Esq., Darley Hall.

Large crowds of people assembled at various points along the route of the procession; and on Manchester-road, Bradford-street, and Bury-road, the blinds were almost universally drawn. The remains of the deceased gentleman were interred in the family vault, beside those of his brother, Mr. Harrison Blair, in the Church of England portion of the cemetery. They were enclosed in three coffins—shell, lead, and oak—the latter being covered with black cloth, richly studded with black and brass nails, containing brass handles, of a most massive character. On the lid was a brass shield on which was the following inscription:—"Stephen Blair, died 4th July, 1870, aged 66 years," while on the pall was a magnificent immortelle, composed of white roses, fuchsias, and geraniums. The body was read into the church by the Rev. Canon Powell, who also conducted the service at the grave, while the Rev. T. Doughty read the lessons. A large number of persons were assembled at the cemetery, prominent amongst them being the workpeople of the late Mr. Harrison Blair, of the Kersley Chemical Works.

The whole of the funeral arrangements were entrusted to the establishment of the late Mr. G. J. French, of the Manchester-road, and were carried out under the personal superintendence of Mr. Walter E. Brown, the mourning coaches being supplied by Messrs. E. Holden and Co.—Bolton Chronicle.

STORMS IN THE SUN.—Professor J. D. Steele says the result of observations now being taken shows that storms rage upon the sun with a violence of which we can form no conception. Hurricanes sweep over its surface with terrific violence. Vast cyclones wrap its fires into whirlpools, at the bottom of which our earth could lie like a boulder in a volcano. Huge flames dart out to enormous distances, and fly over the sun with a speed greater than that of the earth itself through space. At one time a cone of fire shot out 80,000 miles, and then died away, all in ten minutes' time. There is nothing in these phenomena to alarm us. They have, in all probability, happened constantly for ages past. That we have now means of investigating their nature and measuring their height and velocity furnishes no cause of anxiety.

Reports of the Lily Lodge, No. 820, of the Rosicrucian Society of England, &c., are unavoidably deferred till our next issue.

IS FREEMASONRY SECTARIAN?

The following letter appeared in the Suffolk Chronicle of the 9th inst.

(To the Editor of the Suffolk Chronicle.)

Sir,—I am induced to ask the above question through having listened to the sermon preached before the Provincial Grand Lodge, at Aldborough, on Monday last, and I shall be glad if you will publish this letter in your next number.

If, as I have hitherto believed, Freemasonry is unsectarian, if it welcomes Churchman and Dissenter, Protestant and Roman Catholic, High or Low, and Broad Church, Orthodox and Unorthodox, and, in fact, asks no questions as to the religious belief or theological opinions of those who seek to enrol themselves in its ranks, is it not reasonable to expect that any one of the Craft who may be selected to deliver a sermon to the brethren should be as broad and catholic in his discourse as in the Order to which both he and his hearers belong?

I cannot but believe that the preacher of last Monday would himself say this is a reasonable expectation, and that it was not of set purpose, but inconsiderately, that he disappointed it. I cannot suppose that he deliberately intended to set forth doctrines which must in all probability be unacceptable, if not offensive, to some of his audience; or that in preaching from the text, "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly," he wilfully acted the unfriendly part towards his brother Masons of assuming that of all the numerous varieties of religious belief those present might hold, only such as coincided with his own views could be correct.

Yet, in these days of advanced and liberal opinions, when even the Established Church itself very various opinions are held as to the "inspiration" of the Bible, and many, if not a majority, repudiate the theory of "verbal inspiration," our preacher laid it down that the words of Solomon in the Book of Proverbs were to be considered as the inspired words of God.

And whereas his text ran "and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother," he was not content to speak of this friend as God, but said that it was "God the Father, and his Son Jesus Christ, and their Holy Spirit," and repeatedly used the plurals "they" and "them" as the pronouns agreeing with the singular "a friend," whilst in another part of the discourse there was a disparaging mention of the theory of Papal infallibility, which must have been anything but agreeable to any Mason present who might have been a believer in that theory.

Now, surely the sermon would have been none the worse if the lessons to be drawn from the text had been enforced without exciting a feeling of dissatisfaction or opposition in those of the preacher's brother Masons present, who might either believe the words of Solomon not to be inspired, or at least not feel certain that they are so.

And surely the discourse would not merely have been none the worse, but very much the better, if the preacher had remembered that Masons are not bound (unless I am mistaken) to believe either in the doctrine of the Trinity, or in the infallibility of the Pope, and that it could not be otherwise than distasteful to any brother whose views differed from the preacher's on either of those points to hear them treated in the way I have mentioned.

There was one other part of the sermon which illustrates, though in a more pardonable manner, this tendency to forget that the preacher was a brother addressing brothers of different creeds and denominations, on an occasion when the beliefs of all and their preferences for their own associations ought to be respected; and this was where the fact that the text was taken from the Church Lesson for the day was made the occasion for a digression in praise of the Church Lectionary. Singular that this should be done just now when Ritual Commissioners have reported in favour of a revision of that Lectionary, and a bill to give effect to their report is before Parliament!

And now, sir, for the practical object of these remarks.

I believe it is not unusual for a sermon preached before a Provincial Grand Lodge to be printed, and my hope is that if that course is to be taken with regard to the discourse in question, the preacher (having the subject thus brought to his notice) will justify my belief that he would not intentionally offend any of his brother Masons, by striking out or altering the objectionable parts, and putting on the title page "Revised for the press by the Author."

Yours obediently,

A FREEMASON.

July 6th, 1870.

CONSECRATION OF THE FERMOR LODGE, No 1313.

During the last eighteen months there has been a considerable accession of brethren, in very respectable circumstances, to the Lodge of Unity, No. 613, formed in the flourishing watering-place of Southport seventeen years since, and it has been thought advisable, with the full concurrence of the officers of Provincial Grand Lodge of West Lancashire, to form a second Lodge, and the preliminaries having been completed, the solemn and beautiful ceremony of consecration was performed, in the presence of a large number of brethren, under the presidency of Bro. Thos. Wylie, Prov. G. Reg., &c., at the Masonic Hall, Southport.

The Presiding Officer nominated as his Wardens, Bros. Robert Wylie, Prov. G. D.C., and Robert Jeffries, P.M., Lodge of Unity, 613. Bro. Thos. Marsh, Prov. G. A.D.C., officiated as D.C., and most ably discharged his duties. The other Worshipful Brethren taking part in the ceremony were Bros. the Rev. H. G. Vernon, M.A., Prov. G. Chaplain; assisted by the Rev. C. R. Hyde, LL.D., 105; H. S. Alpass, Prov. G.S.; Thos. Armstrong, P. Prov. G.J.D., Director of Musical Services; and Joseph Skeaf, Prov. G.O., who presided at the organ and was assisted by an efficient choir.

After the lodge had been duly opened in three degrees, prayer was offered, and the Presiding Officer delivered a brief address, stating the nature of the meeting. The petition to the M.W.G.M. of England and Wales, and the warrant constituting the lodge were then read by Bro. Alpass, Prov. G.S., and the petitioning brethren having signified their approval of the officers named in the warrant, the Prov. G.C. delivered an oration on the principles of the Craft, showing its excellencies and its thorough harmony with science and religion. The grand anthem, "Behold how good and joyful a thing it is, brethren, to dwell together in unity!" was then finely rendered by the choir, and the consecration prayer was offered. Then followed the interesting and imposing ceremonial of carrying corn, wine, oil and salt three times round the lodge, during which Bro. the Rev. Dr. Hyde most impressively read selected portions of Scripture. The anthem, "Glory be to God on high," was then sung, and the Prov. G. Chap. carried incense three times round the lodge. Another anthem was sung, and the Presiding Officer solemnly dedicated and constituted the lodge, pointing out to the brethren the duty which thus devolved upon them, to cultivate brotherly love and benevolence, and to walk in the paths of virtue and science. The closing prayer was then offered, the Hallelujah Chorus was sung, and the sublime ceremony was concluded.

The installation of Bro. James Platt, P.M., of Lodge of Unity, 613, as the first Master of the Fermor Lodge, was then conducted with due solemnity by Bro. Thomas Wylie; and the W.M. invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Daniel Elias, M.D., S.W.; James Wilkinson, J.W.; W. Dodd, Treas.; Benjamin L. Green, Sec.; J. A. Thompson, S.D.; Richard Sharrock, J.D.; and J. Hartley, Tyler.

The lodge having been closed, an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. F. Herrman, of the Albert Hotel, followed, the W.M. presiding, supported by most of the brethren who had taken part in the consecration ceremony, and several others.

When the cloth was drawn, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were most felicitously given and heartily responded to. In proposing the health of "Sir Thomas G. Fermor Hesketh, M.P., Prov. G.M., West Lancashire, and the rest of the P.G. Officers," the W.M. specially referred to the services rendered to Freemasonry, and especially to the brethren interested in the formation of the Fermor Lodge, by Bro. Alpass, the Prov. G. Sec.
